TELLS OF SOUTH AMERICAN TRIP

Gretchen Hardenbergh, one of 67 members of the Michigan Chorale, has returned from a 52 day tour of South America. During that time, she stayed at 16 different homes in that country and noted the fine hospitality shown all members of the group. She said the homes she stayed in, all had refrigerators, and nearly all of the host families had cars. She said either the people are rich or poor. At Lima, Peru, she met a girlhood friend of her mother's, Sister Ann Claudia, who is Mother Superior in a school there. She took Gretchen on a tour of the city. Miss Hardenbergh said there were no problems with segregation on the entire trip except in Dallas, Texas, on their return when a restaurant refused to serve a colored member of the group. The entire chorale left the restaurant and went to another where they had no difficulty.

Before disbanding, the chorale will give a final concert at Hill Auditorium Sunday, Sept. 10 at 3 p.m.

WED AT CHURCH RITES

Mrs. David Boutell

A floral arrangement edged the chancel drapes formed the background for the late summer wedding of Barbara Pratt and David Boutell at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, August 26th in the Methodist church at Manchester. On either side of the prie dieu were lighted cathedral candelabras, flanked with wedding baskets of yellow and white gladiolus. Natural green palms were used to soften the setting. Before the entrance of the wedding party, the ushers placed the white aisle cloth. The center aisle of the church was enhanced with yellow gladioli, green and yellow satin bows.

The couple's parents, are Mr. and Mrs. James Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Boutell, all of Manchester.

The Rev. Jesse Epps officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice, sabbina neckline accented with iridescent sequins and pearls, and long sleeves. Silk organza panel inserts in the skirt were highlighted with a back bow. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a small crown of pearl orange blossoms. The bride carried a lace covered white Bible topped with a crescent arrangement of tiny yellow rosebuds, centered with a white orchid and edged with miniature ivy.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Pratt of Manchester, sister-in-law of the bride and the bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Doyle of Jackson and Miss Martha Boutell sister of the groom. They all wore identical frosted mint green with dark green cummerbunds and bows in back. The fitted bodices had scooped necklines and three-quarter length sleeves and gathered skirts. They wore dark green pillbox hats and veils. The matron of honor's bouquet was a cascade of bronze shaded fuji mums and croton foliage. The bridesmaids' bouquets were designed similar of yellow fuji mums.

Marilyn Pratt, sister of the bride was the flower girl. Her dress was white silk organza with matching white hat and veil. She carried a dainty natural wicker basket holding yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Serving his brother as best was Roger Pratt of Manchester. Ushers were William Dyer of Jackson, Roger Murrel of Ann Arbor and Gary and John Pratt, brothers of the bride, Manchester.

Organist was Mrs. Wesley Proctor of Clinton, aunt of the bride and Mrs. George Turnbull of Birmingham sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Prayer".

At the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, foliage green taffets formed a background for the serving tables, at the top, center and corners were clusters of white wedding bells in arrangements of yellow and white flowers. The lovely cake table was flounced with white yellow organza, drape with white ribbons and bows. On either side of the tiered wedding cake were arrangements of yellow and white flowers in crystal compotes. Mrs. Roger Murrel had charge of the guest book. Mrs. William Kulonkamp, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. David Gates, cousin of the bride, both of Ann Arbor cut the cake and serving were Sharon and Sandra Churchill of Detroit, cousins of the bride and Mrs. Robert Pratt and Mrs. Ellis Pratt, both of Manchester, aunts of the bride. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Murrel of Manchester and Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman of Tecumseh. After a wash's trip in northern Michigan, the couple will live at 2317 Fernwood, Ann Arbor. VOTE TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12TH

Tuesday, September 12, Washtenaw county voters will join to choose delegates to the state's constitutional convention. Local interest will be centered around a proposed parks and recreation program. The proposal to develop a park system in the county is in two questions. One, on which all voters can ballot concerns authorization to increase the tax limitation. The second, on which only registered tax-payers can vote, would authorize collection of the proposed quarter mill.

If the two proposals are approved--and both must be approved for the parks program to be authorized--the county will begin a $2,000,000 parks program that will extend from 1961 to 1970.

Washtenaw will furnish three of the 144-Con-Con delegates who will convene in Lansing on Tuesday, October 3. The three will be chosen from the Democratic, Republican and Socialist Labor parties.

The Democrats are: Allan W. Grossman, county candidate; Robert Carr, First district; and E. Eugene Sutter, Second district; The Republicans are; Roscoe O. Bonisteel, Sr., county; James K. Pollock, First district; and J. Don Lawrence, Second district.

If the proposed parks program is voted on the per capita would be 95 cents per year for each man, woman and child in Wash-

STATIONED IN HAWAII

The Hawaii-based brigade is a combat-ready, air-ground fighting team of the Fleet Marine Force Pacific.

You're the parents of a fine boy—Henry—who just recently enrolled in Room 10. He seems so much like other little boys—impulsive, eager, naughty now and then. They're that way, I am sure, not because their hearts are bad, but because they're little shavers—razor-sharp with observations, both impertinent and apt.

When you send him off to school each day, you no doubt think your obligation ends there, for we at school are all here to take over.

Of course, we are, and most of us are very fond of boys and girls, or we'd have chosen other lines of work.

But the taking over can be so much easier if parents realize how they can help their boys and girls in school. Perhaps I can be clearer, Mother and Dad, if I make use of questions in the manner teachers have.

First, when Henry leaves for school each day, do you dismiss him from your mind and assume that he's in school? Henry probably will be, because we both are finding him reliable.

But even children whom we term responsible will sometimes meet a friend who coaxes them to go downtown for just that day—and then when school is out, they'll come on home just as if they'd been there all day long, and parents never know. Or sometimes there will be just one class they skip—perhaps a test is promised or the assignment wasn't done.

Of course, as much as possible the school will try to check—will telephone home, but sometimes folks aren't there just then or teachers get too busy to make the second call or even the first. But if there's ever reason to doubt, just call the school and check, and Mother and Dad, your son will never know that you inquired.

Another thing—when Henry leaves, does he always have an adequate breakfast? Oh, I'm sure Henry does, but sometimes it is wise to check. We find when hunger for food outweighs hunger for knowledge, the learning process suffers.

So often we give in to rush and flurry. Perhaps you call your son in time and have him answer, but 15 extra minutes in bed mean more to him right then than food, for he may still be sleepy from the movie that he saw late on T.V. last night.

No, he's not late to school that day; just nourishment is late—and so are his reactions. That cracker he grabbed on the way to school, that glass of milk he gulped, won't help him solve his math.

A breakfast should provide your boy with one third of his day's energy—and reasoning will be clearer if there's no grogginess of body making grogginess of thought. So see that Henry has a chance for pleasant breakfast—orange juice, milk, egg or cereal and toast.

And remember, Mother, your smile warms him more than steaming oatmeal. He'll be on his cheery way to school, then, at his emotional physical best.

Oh, there are so many ways you can help your child, and have given but two. But that's because I only had black coffee. I got up much too late to eat!

Sincerely yours—and Henry's Teacher

AGRICULTURE in Action

By M. L. W. Hall

COMMUNISM CANCELS COMMITTEES

Lets face it. Committees aren't very efficient. They spend too much time, they talk too much, they are costly.

The alternatives are really appealing. The fewer involved the quicker the action. One or two people can maneuver with very little waste motion. A caravan is cumbersome.

Dictatorships are always more "efficient" than our Republic, that is if you count money, not the lives of men; if you are concerned with the end, not with the means.

Compared, our Republic operates slowly and uneconomically. It is concerned with individual rights and minority groups. It spends great amounts of time and money searching for justice and upholding human values.

There are no committees making major decisions in Russia. Committees are not consulted by Castro.

Such as we poke fun at the constant committees in America, they are a vital part of our Republic. We may call them a "pooling of ignorance," and say that a camel looks like something a committee put together, but we cannot ignore their value.

One of the most important farm committees is the group of 18 rural men and women that have been called to the special job of hammering out a set of policy resolutions for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

This State Farm Bureau Resolutions committee will sift and study, sort and reject, compromise and collect. It will end up with something like a 40-page document to be placed before 700 Farm Bureau voting delegates in annual policy making session at Michigan State University, November 8-9-10.

The committee of farmers will have travelled more than 18,000 miles, spending about ten full days each, before the job is done. They will organize into sub-committees by topics (taxation, roads, health, safety, etc.) they will conduct hearings, and they will review in detail everyone of several thousand resolutions sent to them by Michigan farmers.

This involves, complicated process takes time, a great amount of work, and will cost more than $5,000 in actual cash.

By Russian standards this entire process is unnecessary, "inefficient and uneconomical." By the Standards of American and Michigan farmers, it is democracy in action. Slow, costly, and very right.

LOCAL MAN APPOINTED DEPUTY

Sheriff George A. Petersen has announced the appointment of two new deputies to the uniform division of his department.

Duane Trolz, 26, of Manchester and Robert C. Britton 46, of Ann Arbor were named by the sheriff as the new officers.

Deputy Trolz was graduated from Manchester high school and prior to entering the army worked at the Ford Motor Company. He served as a paratrooper with the 504th Airborne Infantry unit, completing 12 air jumps before discharge in 1956.

Following service, Trolz worked at the Tecumseh Products Co. He served as a fee deputy and part-time village marshal in Manchester for the past year. He is married. Deputy Trolz has already begun duty on one of the two county dog trucks, the sheriff said.

Deputy Britton, a native of Pontiac, attended schools in that city and moved to Ann Arbor 16 years ago. He has most recently been employed as a machine operator at Industrial Telectronics, Inc., 3686 Jackson Road in Scio township. Britton was instrumental in organizing one of the first chapters of the Washtenaw Junior Chapters of the League in 1956. He will continue as director of the local chapter along with his regular road patrol duties as a uniform deputy.

SENIOR CITIZENS WARMED OF UNSCRUPULOUS SALESMAN

By PAUL L. ADAMS
State Attorney General

I am concerned with reports from local and state authorities about the cultures who prey on our senior citizens. Increasingly, these reports reflect the activities of unscrupulous salesmen, some of them with criminal records, who are specialists in winning the confidence of the very elderly and infirm, and in inducing them to enter into home improvement, heating equipment, health and medical equipment, or other contracts calling for major expenses.

These activities are vicious in several ways: not only do they prey on a group of citizens who deserve and should receive respect and consideration from all who deal with them, but they often result in real privation and even destitution, by stripping the victims of their meager financial resources.

Where a buyer is physically or mentally unable to exercise ordinary caution and skill, the law requires a greater degree of care in dealing with such a person; but all too often the elderly victim will be too confused or too ill to provide sufficient evidence on his own behalf to enable the law to afford him the protection to which he is entitled.

I urge all citizens in the twilight years and those who work with them to exercise caution in scrutinizing major home contracts, and in purchasing a y goods, services or products represented as offering quick cures or remedies for any affliction.

VOTE TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12

Washtenaw County. County Planning commission had recommended—and the Board of Supervisors tentatively approved—asking voters to grant a half-mill of tax power for 10 years to under write the park system. This was based on an estimated "package" cost of $4,162,000 to buy or otherwise bring under control some 11,761 acres of parks and resource areas finance operation and maintenance for the first five years, and begin minimum development work.

The quarter-mill if voted, would raise about $2,000,000 over the 10 year period. Planning director, Robert Carpenter, believes that almost all the money available will have to be spent on land. He says the land should be bought at prices which the county can afford. Development can wait.

Listed below is the amount per $1,000 of assessed valuation that the quarter-mill special tax to finance a county park system would cost property owners in each of Washtenaw's 23 taxing districts.

MANCHESTER TO TAKE PART IN MEASURING FALLOUT

Civil Defense Director, Gerald G. Miller has announced that six monitoring stations are being set up in Washtenaw county and they will be equipped with instruments capable of measuring the amount of fallout.

Tentative locations of the monitoring stations are the County Building, Ypsilanti township Fire Department, Manchester Fire Department, Ypsilanti State Hospital, the Chelsea and Whitmore Lake Fire Departments.

The stations have been located to provide county-wide coverage. Information gathered by these stations will be forwarded to a nation-wide network being established by the federal government. The instruments are being provided free by the federal government on a grant basis to the county.

Miller says that Washtenaw county will be getting first hand information on fallout, rather than being dependent on the state or neighboring counties.

From seven to 12 men will be trained in using the instruments at each station. All other fire departments, the county sheriff's department, County Road Commission and all hospitals will be supplied with instruments at county expense from funds already allocated.

An instrument reading course for firemen, police, County Road Commission and all hospital personnel will be held October 2 through 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 6 of the County Building. The course lasts 10 hours.

A short refresher course for instructors will be held during the week of Sept. 25-29.
