MANCHESTER TO TAKE PART IN MEASURING FALLOUT

Civil Defense Director, Gerald G. Miller has announced that six monitoring stations are being set up in Washtenaw county and they will be equipped with instruments capable of measuring the amount of fallout.

Tentative locations of the monitoring stations are the County Building, Ypsilanti township Fire Department, Manchester Fire Department, Ypsilanti State Hospital, the Chelsea and Whitmore Lake Fire Departments.

The stations have been located to provide county-wide coverage. Information gathered by these stations will be forwarded to a nation-wide network being established by the federal government. The instruments are being provided free by the federal government on a grant basis to the county.

Miller says that Washtenaw county will be getting first hand information on fallout, rather than being dependent on the state or neighboring counties.

From seven to 12 men will be trained in using the instruments at each station. All other fire departments, the county sheriff's department, County Road Commission and all hospitals will be supplied with instruments at county expense from funds already allocated.

An instrument reading course for firemen, police, County Road Commission and all hospital personnel will be held October 2 through 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 6 of the County Building. The course lasts 10 hours.

A short refresher course for instructors will be held during the week of Sept. 25-29.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Slim Gets in the Swim

Shorty Johnson's eldest boy, Slim, is so tall on his dad is short, and when he heard about an opening for an assistant life-guard at our local kiddie pool, he figured there was the perfect job for him.

Right away he made a bee-line over to see the head life-guard, who asked him how long he'd been swimming. "Well, to tell the truth," says Slim, "I never learned."

"You don't know how to swim?" asks the life-guard, puzzled. "No," says Slim, who's 8'7" and still growing. "But I sure can wade!"

From where I sit, it's not how you get a job done, but how well you do it that's important. Most folks have their own way of working—a way that suits them best. It's the same when it comes to personal preferences. I may like an occasional glass of beer with my meals; you might rather have better milk. Neither of us is "right"—it's just a matter of taste. Recognizing this fact is one sure way to get along "swimmingly" with your friends and neighbors.

THE LOCK-UP

Don't put a man in there! This week there has been two prisoners in this place. One was arrested upon suspicion of being a forger, and another for getting drunk. The latter was left in his back gazing at the stars through the partly opened, and so much absorbed in his study of astronomy to know whether it was indurance-vile or not.

SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES SENIOR TRIP

Questionnaires sent out to 8th and 9th grade parents have been under study by the school board throughout the summer. The consensus of opinion seems to be that seniors should be allowed to take a trip. Problems that are quite evident are being taken under consideration, such as the length of trip, the cost and the number of extra curricular activities necessary to finance the trip.

Many schools have eliminated the senior trips, however, the school board does not believe this to be necessary but do believe that limitations are needed. A policy concerning senior trips will be decided in the near future.

Another questionnaire sent to clergymen in the area is being studied. Hope is expressed by the board that a policy can be formulated that will reduce conflicts between school and church activities.

The school board organized this summer has the following officers, Luther Klager, president; Laurin Leeson, secretary; Dan Boutell, treasurer.

The appointments made by president Klager are: president pro-tem, Laurel Breitenwischer; teacher board relations, Laurin Leeson and Willis Uphaus; transportation, Laurel Breitenwischer and Clarence Fielder; Buildings and equipment, LoRen Troitz and Dan Boutell; instructions and extra curricular activities, Willis Uphaus and Laurin Leeson; Grounds, Clarence Fielder and LoRen Troitz; agriculture education, Laurel Breitenwischer, Willis Uphaus and LoRen Troitz.

Robert M. Henry is the general manager, and G. M. Moore and Mary E. Kittrell are assistant secretaries.

The boards of directors of the two individual companies have been combined into a single board for the new company and two new members have been named. The directors are Earl Hazard, Al R. Johnson and Russell B. McAfee, former directors of the Lenawee company; Edward Brewer, Frank Hawley, Jasper L. Moore, James G. Pratt and Louis Barkenquast, former directors of the Southeastern company, and Lawrence J. Hammond and Vern Hanwarine, new directors.

Nearly two centuries of insurance experience are being combined with the consolidation of the Lenawee Mutual Insurance company and the Southeastern Mutual Insurance company. The consolidation was effective Sept. 1.

The two companies were the largest ex-farm mutual companies in the state before consolidation. The new company is the fifth largest general insurance company in the state. Both of the companies became general insurance companies in 1959.

The Lenawee company with offices in Adrian was organized 96 years ago, while the Southeastern company with offices in Detroit was organized 98 years ago.

The new company will be known as the Southeastern Mutual Insurance company and its main office will be in Adrian. A branch office will be maintained at Detroit. The company assets are over $1 1/2 million, a 1 the surplus.

'BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE!'

Drivers should pass other cars as though it were the most critical maneuver they ever made in traffic, because it can be.

Those who do it well will "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" A simple rule to follow is: Overtake and pass another car only when you are SURE you can do it with complete safety.

Take a long look before you pass, do it quickly, and pull back into your lane only when you see the vehicle you passed in your inside rear view mirror.

Aloha

ALOHA — the most beloved word in Hawaii sounds the keynote for food and fun the Hawaiian way as our own parties take on the spirit of the Islands since Hawaii became our 50th state.

The recipe for any Hawaiian party is characterized by informality, simple but "super" food that is easy to fix, easy to serve and easy to eat, along with warm hospitality, friendliness and fun.

Use a Hawaiian motif — create a lush, tropical paradise with lavish use of greenery, flowers and fruit. Accent with fishnet, seashells, bamboo, fans and gay parasols. For greenery, make use of ferns, philodendron, ivy or other vines and potted plants. With a bit of ingenuity, even posts can be transformed into palm trees.

In keeping with your atmosphere, provide soft Hawaiian background music and let your guests try the hula. Of course you'll ask your guests to wear Hawaiian costumes — gay shirts for the men and muumuu for the women.

It goes without saying that you'll welcome your honored guests in the traditional manner with LEIS. As you present the lei, Hawaiian way, gently place it over the head of the guest with an "Aloha" and a kiss of greeting — men greet women, and women greet men.

You can buy or make your own leis — they're fun to make and fun to wear. Using a sturdy needle with 2 yards of stout thread, doubled and knotted, string flower heads close together (they may be alternated with short sections of sipping straws or popcorn).

Add a bit of glamour to your party by covering the table with ferns where the punch is served, then float 3 or 4 gardenias or camellias or other appropriate flowers in the bowl.

There is such a variety of foods typical of the Islands that your menu offers unlimited latitude, but remember that outdoor eating is the Island Way. Snacks on the beach or around the swimming pool, suppers in the patio, barbecues in the backyard all adapt themselves to this type of entertaining. But point up the fare by including such tropical fruits as pineapple, bananas, and coconut in profusion. You can use these as appetizers, in salads, main dishes and desserts. Glazed fruit kabobs made up of pineapple chunks, orange sections, Bing cherries, pieces of banana strung on a skewer, become a sensation at any meal.

Haiku Welakahau! — Polynesian for "have a wonderful time."

GOLDEN GLAZED HAM

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter
3 tablespoons syrup
2 tablespoons orange or

pineapple juice
2 slices $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thick cooked ham steak

Melt butter in skillet. Add syrup and juice. Add ham and simmer, basting occasionally until meat is tender and glaze is syrupy — about 25 minutes. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

2 tablespoons melted butter

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup blended maple syrup
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup coconut

CHICKEN SALAD HONOLULU

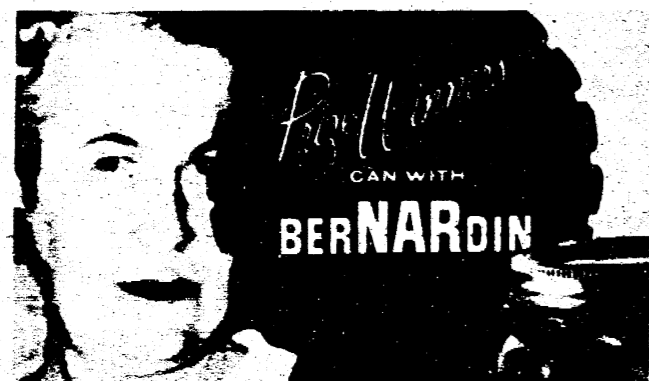

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup packaged pre-cooked rice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup boiling water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated onion
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon curry powder

1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
1 cup drained diced pineapple (fresh or canned)
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flaked coconut

Add rice and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Then uncover and let cool to room temperature.

About 1 hour before serving, combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, onion, curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, and the pepper, mixing well. Combine chicken, celery, pineapple, and coconut in a bowl. Stir in the mayonnaise mixture. Then add the rice and mix lightly with a fork. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes about 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups, or 5 or 6 servings.

"It's the best home canning practice,"

says Mrs. L. M. Evans, Champion Home Canner
Missouri State Fair's Golden Anniversary

Yes, it's the Bernardin combination of features that helps you with every jar. First, the Snap-Lid—tin-plated steel, gold lacquered on both sides—gets an added safety third coat on the food side. It's snow white, food-acid resistant.

The live latex sealing ring loves boiling water and literally "hugs" the jar rim to protect that precious vacuum. Bernardin screw bands draw down easily, and when your filled and sealed jars are cooling, you'll love the "music" of those Snap-Lids as they "snap" "Well done—a good, safe vacuum here."

Use Bernardin, the "Cadillac" of canning caps, this year. They cost no more—and you'll feel so much safer.

You may be the Nation's Champion Canner without realizing it. Only one jar of your own canned food places you in competition. Write today for complete information sheet, list of prizes, and simple entry instructions. There's no obligation. Write to Shine Silver Dollars, Bernardin, Evansville 12, Indiana.

FARMING

Farrow a better FALL PIG CROP

These Yorkshire gilts show good conditioning for summer farrowing. Over-feeding produces smaller litters and sows have more trouble farrowing. Legume pastures will provide a large part of the diet of a gestating sow or gilt if not grazed too heavily. Minerals and a limited amount of grain should be available for best nutrition.

Fall farrowing on many farms is rather disorganized, resulting in baby pig losses and lower profits. Keeping sows in good condition without getting too fat during the summer gestation period will help step up litter size.

Clean rotation pasture is an ideal place for late summer farrowing. But, if losses from storms and hot sun are to be prevented, shelter is needed. Small individual shelters that can be set up wherever the sow nests will do a good job. Even on the best legume pastures sows and young pigs need feed and water. Several locations for feed and water in a large field are better than one central place.

Sows held at the farmstead in confinement have a harder time adjusting to hot late summer weather than those in the field. Shade and cooling with wallows or spray is needed.

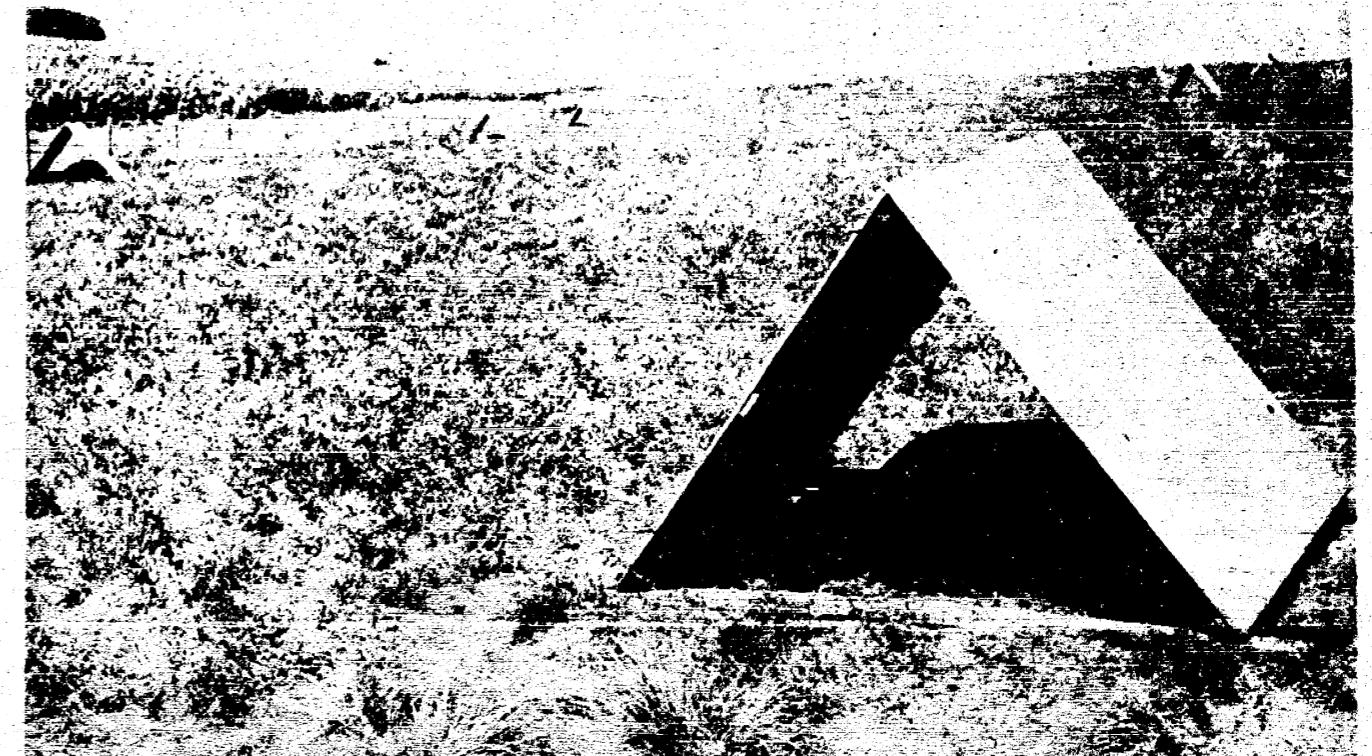

If temperatures are moderate, a natural draft through the farrowing house may keep sows cool. As this is seldom the case even in northern areas during late summer, progressive hog raisers are considering farrowing house cooling. To air condition the entire farrowing house would be expensive and hard on the newborn pigs who would prefer temperatures 90° or above. Zone cooling with a small quantity of chilled air delivered to the area of the sow's snout appears to give her comfort without chilling the baby pigs. This supply of cool air seems to have a tranquilizing effect on the sow.

Feeding tests in almost every experiment have proved that rapidly growing pigs put on the cheapest gains. Good feeding of young pigs is the best way of getting them off to the fastest start possible.

Because many fall pigs are farrowed in confinement, there is a tendency to let the management jobs slip by. Needle clipping, vaccination and similar jobs must be kept on a strict schedule.

All farrowed pigs come along just in time to utilize the new crop of corn. With a good supply and protein a purified item, balancing of hog rations is often neglected. Grain prices are due to be higher, even at harvest this year, so early balanced feeding will pay off better than in the past.

Sows confined to the farmstead area tend to suffer from heat more than their sisters in the field. This simple hose arrangement in two pens with "the spray that rains." Where concrete floors for this type of spray are not available, top hog producers use steel wallow troughs.

These "A" shelters are collapsible for easy storage between seasons. A supply of them can be kept on a farm wagon and set up whenever a sow starts to make her nest. If the nest is against a fence, one-half of the shelter leaning on the top wire is quite sufficient. Small pans of water and feed set out for sows with young litters will eliminate the need for them to go to the feeding area.

Routine management jobs with small pigs tend to be neglected in the rush of harvest-time work. These pigs going into the winter season need all of the protection they can get from disease. Vaccination from hog cholera and swine erysipelas should be standard practices. Ear notching or other identification is essential if selection of potential breeding stock is to be made later.

FALL PIG CROP

When litters are a week or so old sows can be encouraged to group together to simplify feeding and inspection. Notice how open this house becomes with both sides chained up. If hog shelter sides do not open, put a concrete block under the runner on the closed side to let in air.

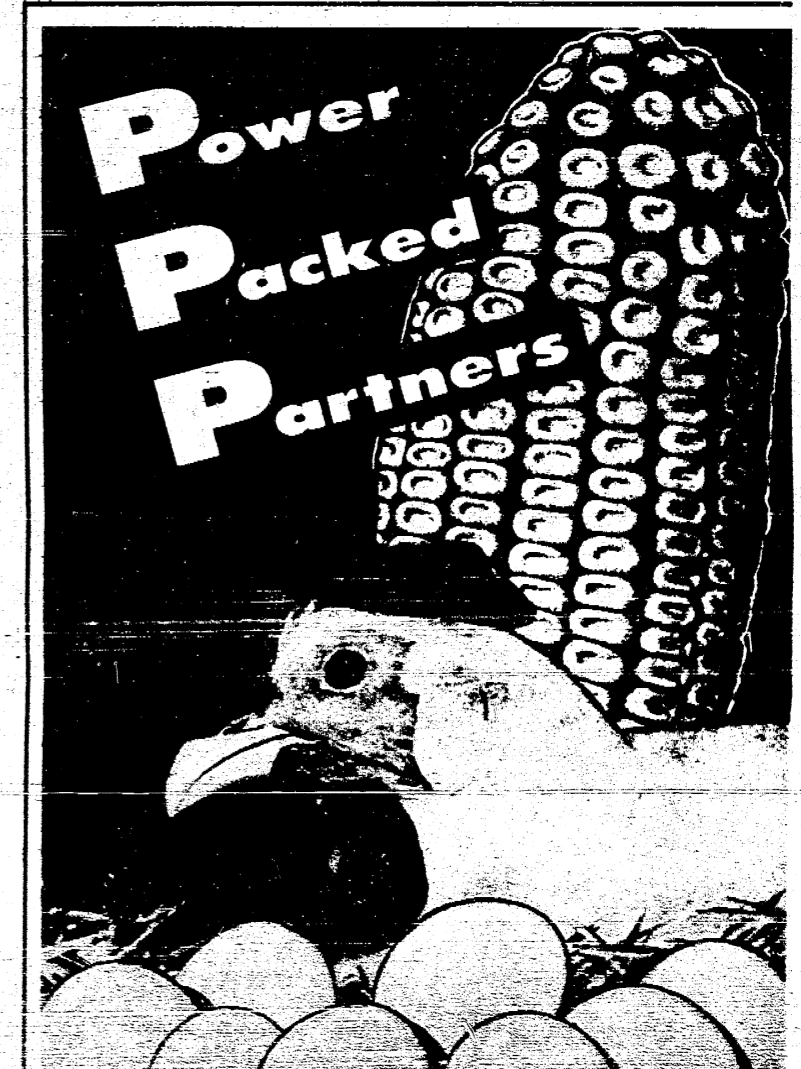

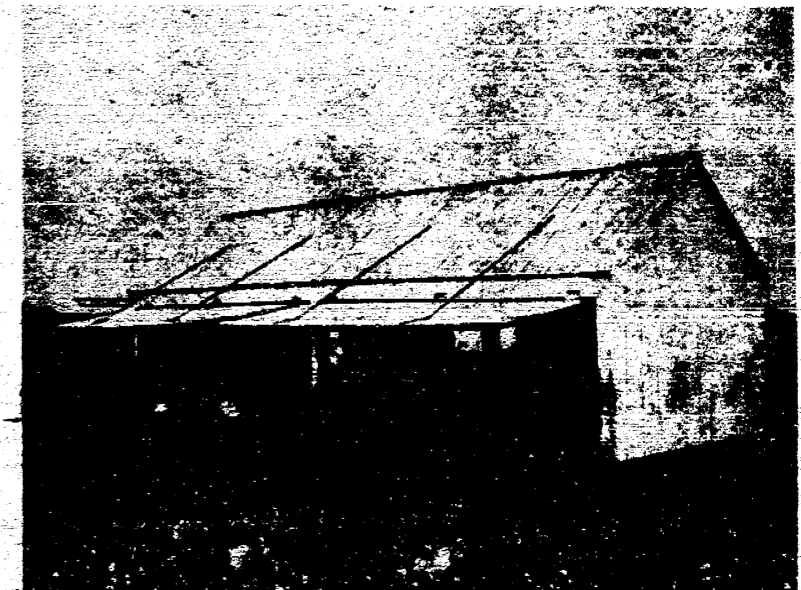

Modern baby pig feeds now get pigs started on dry feed within a few days of farrowing. With litters becoming larger it is hard for most sows to provide enough milk for a rapidly growing litter. Weaning is less of a shock to these larger pigs who are used to dry feed. With pigs on their own faster, sows can be dried up and bred back sooner.

Top photo. Farrowing either in the pasture or at the farmstead can be centralized with large portable houses. This half section house is located facing the northeast to provide the maximum amount of shade. The house is divided in the middle with pens in the back as well as the front.

Bottom photo. Feeding fall pigs out on pasture can be practical if you are equipped for the job. The ear corn cribs, supplement feeders, watering platforms, shelters and shades can be easily moved to clean areas in this legume pasture. Shelters and shades are firmly anchored with screw type earth anchors to prevent overturning by the wind.

NEW SENIOR TRIP POLICY

At a regular board meeting the final discussion concerning senior trips was first on the agenda. The board had considered all opinions registered on questionnaires sent out last spring. They had compared with various class sponsors comments after accompanying a class on a trip. Also under consideration was the money available in Manchester for such a trip. It was decided that certain trips had enough educational value that they should not be eliminated. It also seemed evident that recent trips were becoming too much of a burden in many ways. The following is the policy adopted. It shall be strictly adhered to in the future.

SENIOR TRIPS

In the spring of 1961 questionnaires were sent to 100 parents who had children entering High School. After consideration of all opinions, recommendations and problems incurred, it was decided that a Senior Trip with limitations as to time, money and projects would best satisfy the majority of students, parents and school employees.

POLICY ADOPTED SEPTEMBER 1, 1961
The senior trips are to be as follows: The trip should be planned to Washington. If for some reason, the class would rather go to some other place of comparable or shorter distance special school board approval will be necessary before plans can be made. The school board will also approve the travel agency. As of this date, Teen Tours are the approved travel agency.

CLASS OF 1962
A maximum of four days out of school week. Money spent not to exceed $100.00 per pupil going on trip. All money may be raised by class projects.

BEGINNING WITH CLASS OF 1963
A maximum of three days out of school week. Money spent not to exceed $90.00 per pupil going on trip. Total amount spent from projects not to exceed $5,500.00.

APPROVED PROJECTS:
OUT OF SCHOOL SALES-APPROVED
Sophomore Class-Winter magazine sales. Senior Class-Fall Christmas cards and wrapping paper (these two items only). Other projects such as car washes, bake sales, pancake suppers, entertainments, etc., that do not entail solicitation to be permitted by school faculty and administration consent.
SUMMER PROJECTS STARTING JULY 1962
Seniors - 2, Juniors - 1, Sophomores - 1, Freshmen - 0.
Class sponsors are not contracted for the summer months. Summer projects must be supervised by Adults approved by the Administration.

SCHOOL BOARD POLICY CONCERNING SCHOOL ACTIVITIES
The following is a policy regulating the scheduling of school activities.

It is hoped that other community organizations may find this helpful when scheduling their activities.

- ### ACTIVITY SCHEDULE POLICY
1. There will be no school activities scheduled on Sundays, Good Friday or Christmas Day, with exception of Baccalaureate, unless activity is scheduled by State organization.
 2. There will be no student activities scheduled on Thursday evenings with the following exceptions: Basketball tournaments, 1 Jr. High Operatta, Graduation.
 3. Student activities will be held to a minimum on Wednesday evenings.

ADULT ACTIVITIES
The School Board shall impose no restriction upon adult activities that take place on school premises. The board encourages adults to take part in Church activities in the Church of their choice.

Adult activities scheduled by the school will not be scheduled Thursday nights with exception of the Lenten season. At this time school shall schedule events on Thursday nights and avoid Wednesday evenings so adults may attend special church services.
