telephone lines
 By NICK PRAKKEN, Manager
OPERATION TELEPHONE!
 Doctors will soon be able to transmit medical data direct from a patient's body to remote recording instruments anywhere in the country—by telephone. It'll be possible with special DATA-PHONE sets, now under development at the Bell Telephone Laboratories. Transmissions of x-rays and electrocardiograms by telephone have already been tested successfully. Termed a major advance in medical communications, this system means, for example, that consulting specialists in distant cities could receive instant data on a patient's heart performance—even during an actual operation.

TAKE A TURKEY with all the trimmings, add the family round the table, and what do you have? A Happy Thanksgiving! But even if someone in the family can't be with you, there's one sure way to keep the day joyful. A Long Distance telephone call, of course, it's the next best thing to being together... spreads holiday cheer at both ends of the line. Rates are lower all Thanksgiving Day and, on calls within Michigan, lower after 9 p.m. when you can call any place within the state for 50 cents or less, excluding taxes.

DOWN WITH RUST! Michigan Bell has recently developed a new rustproofing method for its 4,600 trucks and cars. The new method is designed to prevent car rust caused by corrosives used on city streets. Developed by our motor equipment maintenance people, the process uses a new protective coating on metal surfaces and is expected to save $40,000 a year in the operation of our motor fleet. It's another Michigan Bell cost-cutting technique that helps us keep the price of telephone service low.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS:
A Day Of Thanks-Giving

It's time for my second-most-favorite holiday again — Thanksgiving. Personally, I like to imagine that it's spelled "Thanks-Giving", to remind myself of the true meaning of the word. The first Thanksgiving was celebrated in the colony of Plymouth, in 1621, as a day for public acknowledgment of divine generosity. Today we have just as much, and more, to be thankful for. As for me, one of the things I thank Heaven for is the fact that we can still enjoy some of the same gifts of nature those colonists enjoyed — fertile fields and unspoiled forests where a man can walk alone; wild game to give us the same immemorial thrill of the chase our forefathers felt. Speaking of game — what could be more appropriate for one's Thanksgiving table than wild turkey, stalked and bagged in the woods just as they were for that first day of thanks well over three centuries ago? Joe and I are going to try for one this year — why don't you? Anyway, happy Thanksgiving to all of you, no matter what kind of bird graces your festive board!

Christmas Theme Of Bazaar

"Let's put Christ back in Christmas at our Christmas bazaar," Mrs. Ted Roberts suggested several months ago when St. Mary's Altar Society was first making plans for the event which opens Saturday, Nov. 24 at the Knights of Columbus hall.

This is the theme of her booth at the bazaar. A natural artist, with both talent and imagination she has made and dressed all of the figures in the manger scene at Bethlehem, from the infant to the kings in their bejeweled robes. The figures range in size to about 12 inches and were made entirely by the young matron. There are other new scenes from the Christmas story which she has designed. Then too, there are many dolls which she has made and clothed. In the background of the booth is a large painting—"The Flight into Egypt," which she painted free-hand several years ago for her own home. Mrs. Roberts has been drawing and painting since she was twelve years old at St. Frederick's school in Pontiac. She has never had an opportunity for formal education in this field. If there is something to draw paint or design, she'd like a chance to try it. Last month she made and designed the South American dolls used as centerpieces at the District Business and Professional Women's Club dinner meeting held here. Along with her art and doing charity work she is pretty busy at home. Her six children range in age from 4 to 14 years.

"You know it's a funny thing, I just love to do this fancy sewing etc. — but the plain run of the mill sewing isn't nearly as interesting to do," she confided. Before she was married she worked in the mailing department of General Motors. What probably did as much as anything to give her a chance to let her friends know about her art happened quite by accident. The Roberts had just had their young son's bedroom wall papered. Late one afternoon she was checking to see why the boys hadn't come down from their naps. She found them happily drawing all over the new wall paper. At first she was heartbroken. Then her eyes rested on a coloring book on the floor. She looked again at the wall. Could she draw pictures and paint them all over that wall to cover that scribbling or did it mean the wall would have to be repapered?

Manchester Residents Put United Fund Over the Top

Red Cross Need Volunteers

Special emphasis of the Red Cross November recruitment Drive is aimed at building of the corps of trained volunteers in each community who can help in their home community throughout the year and as well as in the case of a natural disaster.

Chapter Chairman James M. Davis pointed out that the activities of the County-wide Red Cross Chapter has expanded so rapidly in the last year because of the pressures of an increasing population, more residents in military service, and the international climate that "gaps have occurred in the ranks of Red Cross volunteers."

More local volunteers are needed to help staff the local blood clinics in the home community and these volunteers are from the various service divisions such as: Staff Aides, who help register donors; Nurses Aides, who help the professional nurses obtain medical history information; Canteen workers, who help serve the coffee and juices; and Gray Ladies who can help as registrars and escorts.

Volunteer help is needed as Motor Service drivers, Social Welfare Aides, and First Aid Instructors. In each of the various divisions the Red Cross has a complete training program and is ready to start courses as soon as enough local volunteers are "recruited."

Each volunteer division has special duties during an emergency and it is necessary to have such trained volunteers in the Manchester area because it might be several hours before assistance could get into Manchester from other communities.

"If you have an afternoon morning, evening or week end free," Chairman Davis urged, "why not contact the Red Cross at 662-5546 and find out how you can get into the picture in Manchester and be ready to help."

BBC Committee Named by Jaycees

Manchester Jaycees have formed the Business Betterment Committee (BBC). Purpose of the committee is to encourage better economic opportunities in the Manchester area.

It is expected that this will involve bringing new business to the Manchester area. BBC was formed after several Jaycees expressed dissatisfaction with Manchester current economic opportunities. Special areas of interest were those of employment and financing. The BBC will examine the problem and take whatever action is indicated.

BBC will work closely with the Jaycees' Community Development Committee (CDC). The CDC will conduct a survey to find Manchester's assets and needs. Survey includes portions on government, schools and youth affairs, as well as the economic portions. Golden Survey will be held early in 1963 with the help of the University of Michigan.

Following publication of the results of the survey, the Jaycees will select Manchester's most pressing needs as their area of interest. BBC will examine in detail the results of the economic portion of the survey. Tom Marshall is chairman of BBC. First meeting of BBC will be Nov. 29. Chairman of CDC is Dick Kuntz.

Methodist Men Have Open Meeting

Manchester Methodist men are inviting all who are interested to a special meeting to be held Thursday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. in Fellowship hall to present Mr. Robert A. Kehoe, District Manager of Social Security, Washtenaw county. Mr. Kehoe will show a sound film, "Samuel and Social Security" which is said to be the finest explanation of the program of social security now available. He will answer questions anyone may have following the film.

The public is invited to attend, both men and women. There is no charge for the film, for the people pay for the program and have a right to know about it, Mr. Kehoe said. Mr. Paul Kappler is president of the Methodist men.

Celebrates 90th Birthday With Open House

As William A. Widmayer looks back over 90 years he is quick to note that only three men are living who were in business on Main street when he first went to work for his brother Fred in the hardware store.

"Think of it—only three," he commented. "Mike Gauss (barber), Carl Wuerthner (clothing store) and myself." Born in Manchester township, his parents were George and Christina Fritz Widmayer. Of their three sons and three daughters, there are two, Mrs. Emma Sloat, 86, in a Detroit Evangelical Home and Mr. Widmayer.

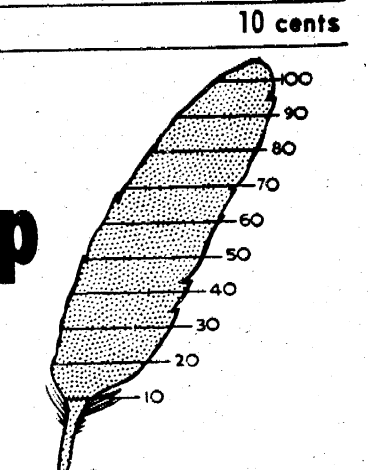

He married O'Tillie Nauman in Jackson, April 10, 1903. She died in 1951. He has one daughter, Mrs. A. C. (Ada) Walker of Wolf Lake; two granddaughters, Mrs. Harold Denny of Willow Run and Mary Lou Walker at home; and two great-grandchildren, Richard and Janice Denny.

He has never missed a presidential election and is proud that he voted for president Kennedy. He admits he never cared about holding a public office in the community, but the only time he did run, it was for constable in Manchester township on the Democratic ticket. He and the supervisor were elected on the Democratic ticket, all the rest were Republicans.

His family moved to Sharon township when he was seven and he attended the Sharon Hill School. Ernest Smith, a schoolmate still lives in Sharon. After finishing the 8th grade he helped his father on the farm until coming to town to work in his brother's store. He received a dollar a day and his board and room, which he said was very good pay for those days.

Grossmans 66th Anniversary

There has been a lot of progress since Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grossman of Manchester were married in 1896. As the Grossmans celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary Monday, they looked back on the early days of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Grossman have lived in their present home for 55 years. It is on the Grossman homestead on Grossman Road. Mr. Grossman took over the 100-acre farm from his father. Prior to that they had lived in the Chelsea-Dexter area.

Moving in those days, was no easy task. All of the household goods had to be transported by wagon and several trips were required. The cattle and horses walked alongside the wagon but the sheep were loaded into the wagons for transportation.

"We didn't have any daily newspapers in those days, the Grossmans said. "We had to depend on the area's weekly paper to keep up with the times."

"Before winter time set in we'd bring the car into town and store it in a barn, belonging to relatives. We bought our first car in 1917. But we'd jack it up on wooden blocks to get the wheels off the ground. It was useless for us to keep it on the farm. The roads were always so bad that cars couldn't travel over them. For the most part the farmers kept the country roads cleared out and sometimes when there was a lot of snow it just couldn't be done."

"There was no rural mail carrier in those days and the only time we'd get mail would be when we made a trip to town or when one of the neighbors who lived farther up the road went in, often they'd bring our mail to us."

"Sometimes I think, we take some of our conveniences for granted. This is mainly because the young people of today never had to do without."

"One time, when I was a boy, I remember that we had to do some real planning to get our wood. Father had plenty of wood buzzed in the woods but it wasn't up to the house yet. It turned off pretty cold for a long time-long enough so we had to do something about getting that wood. The snow was so deep and had such a crust that we couldn't use the horses. They'd have broken their legs. Father took plow handles and improvised a sort of sleigh and we boys and dad shoveled our way to the woods and brought back the wood. Father had plenty of small help. There were 14 of us children, seven boys and seven girls," Mr. Grossman commented.

He has four brothers living in Michigan. Sam of Detroit and Erwin and Theo of Jackson. His six living sisters are Mrs. Ellis Barnes, Mrs. Lelia Pfister and Mrs. William Sied all of Jackson, Mrs. Amanda Carney of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Lydia Ernst of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Laura Pfister of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Grossman is the former Lydia Stabler and the last of her family. They were married at the home of her parents in Manchester by the Rev. Geo. Schoeller of the Emanuel church.

Careful Driving Urged By Chief of Police Van De Ginste

Thanksgiving Day is an occasion that symbolizes American tradition at its best. It tells the world that we are not only a fortunate people, but a grateful people. It emphasizes family ties and the home life, and their contribution to the best in our country's history.

"What an opportunity," comments Chief of Police, Jules Van De Ginste, "for us to demonstrate that we are humane and civilized enough to celebrate the occasion safely and wisely insofar as our behavior in traffic is concerned."

Thanksgiving Day means travel, the chief realizes, and travel can mean trouble for unformed or unequipped drivers if the weather should take a turn for the worse.

"Many a time, no matter how the sky looks or how deep the snow is, people will try to get home for Thanksgiving, or the holidays. I don't blame them, and I don't want to stop them either," he said.

"All I ask is that if they drive, each driver should realize his responsibility, make prudent preparations, and obey all the traffic laws. And remember: the spirit of Thanksgiving does not require us to eat or drink so much that we become drowsy and dull on the trip home.

"Maintaining a good safety record would be a wonderful way to express our thankfulness for what we have in this life."

FREEDOM IDEAL HOMEMAKERS

Freedom Ideal Homemakers met Friday at the home of Mrs. Chas. Kruger. The lesson was on "Family in the Midst of Change". Mrs. T. W. Menzel and Mrs. Erma Grau entertained by telling of old German Christmas traditions. They illustrated with a display of German Christmas decorations.

The club is planning a potluck Christmas party on December 7 and are planning to serve all German foods at the home of Mrs. Arthur Kuhl. The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

CHRISTMAS THEME OF BAZAAR

The finished product was a work of art and she kept on until the four walls were covered with pictures depicting Indians and scenes of the west-of-horses and buffalo. Her friends, neighbors, and many in the community trooped in to see the boy's room. That was her first big project eight years ago. Besides her art work and her family she is taking active part in decoration of the new Knights of Columbus hall where the bazaar is being held.

"There are so many things I'd like to do, but I don't have much time." She has a den of cub scouts, helps in 4-H work, is a room mother, Deanery representative, and was a clover leader for three years.

"I'm glad that all these dolls and things are being moved to the bazaar. I need the space."

"All the things I have do for Christmas for my family will take quite a while."

CELEBRATES 90th BIRTHDAY WITH OPEN HOUSE

There are so many changes. There was an old wooden bridge across the Raisin River on Main street and the wooden sidewalks. The sound of people's feet clattering across that old bridge-nothing like it today. Along by the hitching posts where the horses would stand, the merchants spread cobble stones, to keep the horses out of the mud and keep them from digging up the roadway with their hoofs.

Of course in the summer the stones helped keep down the dust. There was a fellow, Joe Howard, who operated a sprinkling wagon. He'd go down back of the old Kimble building and fill up the tank and sprinkle-Main Street. I remember the store keepers used to chip in fifty cents a piece, every week to have him sprinkle in front of their stores.

Probably the village council appropriated some money to him, too, but I'm not sure of that.

"Saturday nights were busy times. Farmers brought in eggs and homemade butter. They traded them for groceries. If there was anything that the grocer didn't like, it was to have a farmer ask for some money for his produce. They wanted the farmer to trade it out, without money exchange. Twelve cents a dozen was a pretty fair price for eggs. But I'd remember when they only brought 5 or 6 cents a dozen for a short time. Yes, and in the cold winter months when eggs were at a premium and brought 50 or 60 cents.

"I can remember mother saving out some of her eggs, coming up to Christmas for her baking. She could really make those old German cookies. They do things so different now. There seems to be plenty of eggs any time of the year.

"Pigs brought $4.00 a hundred. I bet my mother never bought a pound of lard in her life. Always had plenty on the farm.

"By the time the vegetables were put down, the apples and potatoes in, pigs butchered and crocks of sauerkraut made, we felt as if we were ready for anything.

"Fred Stankhole (druggist) brought the first car in town. Maybe you don't think that created some interest. It's a funny thing. I never owned a car. I didn't even learn to drive. Did have a horse and buggy. I used to deliver for the hardware store. In those days we delivered anything that amounted to anything. Stoves were among the big items. Lawn mowers first were popular here about 70 years ago. We used to marvel at them and it took about ten years for many folks to buy them.

In those days there was only mosquito netting for windows, that was sold in the dry goods store. Jim Fields made screen doors and we nailed on the screen. Only tried to have one ahead.

"Our town used to have a lot more activity. There were trains in and out of town every hour. In the summer there was the tomato and apple factory for canning. "Course the re was no such thing as putting up apple sauce in small cans—always in gallon jars for restaurants and hotels.

"During the First World's Fair in 1933 they put on a special train with a special rate of $2.00 round trip. It seemed that we always had transportation, the train, then a bus. When I worked in Jackson at the Hupp Auto mobile Co. for 12 years, we stayed in Jackson and just came home on a gas train. The rest of the time I worked in Manchester and could always walk wherever ever I was going.

COW MILK REPLACEMENTS should be selected from those herds that weigh the most at weaning. Studies have shown that a female weighing 100 pounds more at weaning than the average calf in the herd will have offspring whose weaning weights are about 10 pounds greater than average. Aside from having heavier calves, this cow will probably produce one more calf during her lifetime than the average cow.

It's just as a simple rule, but as any combustible fuel safety precautions are necessary to prevent injury and damage by explosion or fire. One important precaution is to locate the tank at least 20 feet from any major building and 20 feet from other tanks containing flammable liquids. Also the tank should be located so that it is isolated from open fire, sparks and other sources of ignition. Never refuel a tractor while the engine is running. If leaks are suspected in the tank they should not be detected by using a flame. Never smoke from the tank and not the tank section.

ASTUTE FARMERS WILL QUALIFY when buying feeders that better quality pigs gain faster on less feed, and are more likely to get to market as one quality hog to you know just how different quality pigs will finish out on your farm. You can make sure you get the best quality pig when you buy one. Look for a pig that is well muscled and of good constitution. A common pig is short and less uniform in size with a wide, flat chest. The choice pig is well muscled and more uniform.

PRUDEN STEEL FRAMED CATTLE SHEDS PROVIDE CLEAR SPAN MANEUVERABILITY AND VERSATILITY

Ten foot cantilever roof overhang is useful to provide shelter when manger is located along the face of frame leg. It is also used along the open side of a cattle shed to keep rain and snow out of bedded area as well as to provide more shade in summer.

Pruden frame sheds are frequently used to shelter cattle in one end, and to store hay in the other. The building near Brussels, Wisconsin, uses the roll type of metal roofing on wall as well as roof.

Hay is fed directly into feed bunk under cantilever. Note how hay can be "pocketed" to the peak where there are no internal posts, ties or framework in the usable storage area.

FREEZING WON'T HURT SILAGE, MAY HURT SILOS

Silage commonly freezes during the winter in the northern United States, and there is no type of silo in which silage won't freeze to some extent.

What is the effect of frozen silage on animals, on the silage itself, and on silos? A current Farm Quarterly magazine report says if cattle are fed frozen silage, especially in large lumps, they may scour but this is less likely to happen if the frozen silage is chipped and fluffy and mixed with a fair amount of unfrozen material.

Large pieces of frozen silage ignored by cattle and left to alternately freeze and thaw in the feedbunk will spoil. This has caused the myth that frozen silage is no good, but the spoilage begins because the lump is unpalatable and spoilage is a result, not a cause.

Frozen silage is not chemically changed by the freezing. Mechanical unloaders do a creditable job of removing frozen silage, fluffing it up and mixing it with unfrozen silage, generally solving the frozen silage problem.

Heating the silage in the silo to thaw it is not economically practical. Epoxy or polyurethane coatings on the inside walls of the silo will aid the removal of silage and reduce donding of the silage in the silo. Filling the silo is important and should be done evenly.

Freezing causes little damage, to horizontal silos but can be destructive in towers.

The best protection against freezing is to make good silage because the low moisture content of well-made silage gives more protection against freezing than any other factor.

HOMEMAKER CONTEST

A high school senior girl from this community may well be among those who will share in $110,000 in college scholarships being offered again this year by General Mills in its ninth annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

In past years, winners have come from every type community in the nation—large, small, medium—and from all types of schools—public, parochial and private.

Senior girls here will join with a record number of more than 410,000 others in more than 12,500 of the nation's schools, Tuesday, Dec. 4 in a written examination to help determine winners in the 1963 Search Program.

This test, prepared by Science Research Associates, Chicago, to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career, is the determining factor in selecting local and state winners. Personal observation and interviews are added factors in selecting national winners.

1963 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named in the spring at the culmination of an expense paid educational tour of New York City, Washington, D. C. and Colonial Williamsburg for winners from the 50 states and the District of Columbia and their advisors.

Scholarships range from $1,500 for each State Homemaker of Tomorrow and $500 for each state runner-up to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively, for top national winners. A complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica is awarded the school of each state winner.

Including the 1963 program close to 3 million girls have participated in the Betty Crocker Search in its nine years of operation. Scholarship grants are approaching the million dollar mark. From the start the program has been approved by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

LOCAL MAN GETS RED CROSS CONTRACT

Robert Lowery Construction Company of Manchester has been awarded the contract for the new Red Cross Operations Center at 2729 Packard Road, Ann Arbor. The building contract is for $147,000 and is tentatively scheduled for completion in July 1963. The Building Committee pointed out that funds are still needed to complete "postponed items" to make the Center operational. Announcement was made at the dinner meeting held in Saline.

A new Chairman of Volunteers was named at the quarterly Washtenaw County meeting. Mrs. James Prendergast of 1039 Martin Place, Ann Arbor will take over duties of Chairman this week. She will be assisted by Mrs. J. Wilmer Sundelson, vice-chairman of Orientation and training; Mrs. W. de St. Aubin, vice chairman of records and recognition; and Mrs. John S. Worley, Chairman of the supporting Services Division.

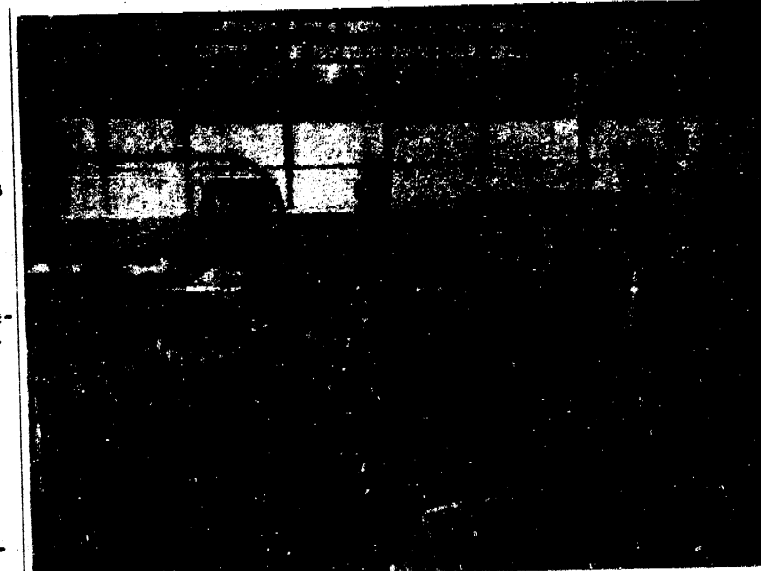

Announcement was also made that the first training session for new volunteer "recruits" has been set for Nov. 28 at 1 p.m. at the YM-YWCA in Ann Arbor. The Wednesday afternoon sessions will qualify "recruits" as Blood Program Aides. These Aides will be able to work in the up-coming blood clinics in each community.

The Board was also advised of the Department of the Army Audit of the Chapter's books. It was explained that because Red Cross operates under a Federal Charter, the Army Audit section is charged with auditing the National Red Cross books annually. The Army Audit section, selects at random, chapters around the country, and makes "surprise audits" to insure that monies contributed to the Red Cross are used in accordance with the provision of the charter. The Army audit was additional to the Chapter's policy of having the books audited annually by a certified Public accountant. Chairman James Davis noted that he was pleased with the reports as they show that the Chapter has an excellent financial control system and that the Chapter has been operating within its budget.

A short time ago, a half-ton pickup brought in a three and one-half ton load of castings from Westran Steel Foundry at Muskegon on a test run. Driver of the vehicle was Ray F. Thornton, inventor and head of the Manchester Products Co. He was very pleased with the performance of the truck which purred along with its heavy load, getting about the same gas mileage on the return trip as he did without the load.

This keen eyed inventor loves his work, he's been inventing most of his life, and when he was sixteen applied for his first patent—a gadget to lift valve pins from "Model T" engines. The twelve men who work with him are equally interested in their work. At this time there are eleven new one-half ton trucks in the plant, and when they roll away they'll have six wheels and four wheel drive, and have no trouble carrying their one to two ton payload.

Since the first window pane was washed and the first blade of grass cut at the former Ford Plant, two years ago, people have been speculating as to what is going on. Was the plant sold? Was it leased? After making several trips to the plant and following the interesting operations of the Manchester Products Company, some of these questions can be answered.

The plant at 912 City Road on the east skirts of the village, has been sold to Ray F. Thornton, President of the Manchester Products Co., for the manufacture of the Thornton Tandem Four Wheel Drive. It was a welcome sight to the villagers to see some activity at the plant which had been vacated when Ford Motor Company moved its operation to the large Rawsonville Plant several years ago.

Mr. Thornton is anxious to show the visitor what is being done in the plant. He admits that he has always been a "bug" on safety. He believes that six wheels make a car safer. He is the man who invented and developed the Spicer-Thornton Power-Lok Differential. Packard was the first to use the product in 1956 and it has won wide acceptance as optional equipment on cars. Dana Corporation of Toledo is now producing the differential in its Fort Wayne, Indiana, Axle Division.

A bit confused by the terminology of the inventor, a check with the dictionary gave the definition of "Differential Gear" which is—"an arrangement of gears in an epicyclic train that connects two axles or shafts the driving force equally between them and permits one shaft to revolve faster than the other." Mr. Thornton explains that his differential provides a strong and efficient lock between the differential case and side gears, and when one wheel goes faster than the other in turning a corner, the wheels are unlocked and differential action is provided. When he demonstrated this, he ran one rear wheel on rollers and the other rear wheel on the pavement. Both wheels moved with the same speed and there was no spinning of the wheel on the rollers as the car moved forward.

Mr. Thornton was born in Carsonville, Michigan, Sanilac county, December 10, 1898. He is married and has five sons and one daughter. Lillian resides in Hollywood, California and James in San Francisco, Walter and his wife reside in Dexter and Roger attends Dexter High School, Eugene and Edsel are both in service.

Mr. Thornton likes the thought of being a world citizen, not confined to just one country. This may come from the fact that his differential provides a comfortable income. It is licensed in the United States, Canada, England, Germany, Australia, France and Japan.

He points with pride to his contribution during World War II. When Ford Motor Company needed special trucks to haul B-24 Bomber parts, it was Mr. Thornton who designed and built the tractor which weighed 10,000 lbs. and had two Mercury engines in-
