

Local Girl Visits Europe

A large group of local women enjoyed a holiday luncheon and program at the Methodist church hall where Ann Walton told about her tour with the Michigan Choral last summer.

The group left on a chartered plane from Metropolitan airport. Some of the countries visited included Ireland, England, Germany, and Holland. This was part of the Youth of Understanding Program arranged by the Michigan Choral.

Of the countries she visited, Miss Walton said she found the Irish people to be the most friendly. The singers stayed three weeks in northern Ireland and were impressed at the beautiful green lawns—everything growing seemed to be of a green all its own she said. Although the trip was made in June, July and August she told the women that it was unseasonably cold in Ireland. Her Irish hosts apologized for the lack of heat at the home she stayed in at Bangor, along the sea. For the most part, few of the residents of the island seem to have centralized heating. For the most part they burn peat in their fireplaces. Many of the homes are constructed of stone or brick. Most of the rooms are located off the hall and it is the custom to always close the doors when going from one room to another. Wall to wall carpeting is found in some of the better homes and many homes in the seashore area have balconies. Nearly everyone seemed to have a garden and plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Pork, tongue, cold meats, salads, lettuce, potatoes, carrots and peas seemed to be very plentiful.

Warmed tomatoes is a favorite with the Irish people and their meats are served breaded, fried and boiled. They, like the English people have afternoon tea, and Miss Walton said their homemade breads are delicious.

In the schools of England she found that classes are held only in the mornings from 8:30 to 12:30. In the afternoon the students do their homework at home. Their main sports are swimming, tennis, and cricket.

At Bossonweight, she visited the aunt and uncle of a Manchester woman. Although the local woman had never seen her English relatives she had written and the Keswicks were expecting the American friend of their niece. Ann said the countryside looked like a huge patchwork quilt with hedges and stone walls replacing fences. Yellow and pink primroses were in full bloom. She said that the small cars were used to excellent advantage in England because of the narrow roads. The schools are divided with the girls

They traveled to Burton-Upon-Trent and toured the largest brewery. At Tunbridge Wells, south of London in the Kent area they saw the fields of hops. cont. next week

COMBINED OPINIONS BRING ACTION

It seems that there is no better time to draw attention to the Jaycees of this community than during National Jaycee week, which is January 20 through January 26. The local organization is launching a community attitude survey. In this way they are asking the people of this community what they really think of the place in which they live. They are interested in what you think the good points are and they are equally anxious to know of the short comings of the town and the way these things may affect you. This is the chance for each and everyone to express his own opinion. The Jaycees will be delivering these printed surveys to every residence in the village limits from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31. If by any chance you are not at home when the Jaycee member calls and you miss getting your survey blank to fill out, you may obtain a copy from Keith Doelker at the Union Savings Bank. Or you may fill out the survey blank in the Manchester Enterprise which appears in this issue. The Jaycees want you to read over the survey, study it and give some real thought and consideration to the questions and problems. The local members will again visit your homes on cont on next column

TO THE PEOPLE OF MANCHESTER

The Manchester Jaycees are conducting the Manchester Survey to see what the residents think of Manchester. The results, which will be published will be the voice of the people in determining what is necessary to make Manchester a more desirable village for us and for the surrounding areas. These results will be closely studied by businessmen, civic organizations and industries of Manchester as well as the present and future village councils. Funds for making this survey have been made possible by the Double A Products and the Union Savings Bank. I, as your mayor, strongly urge every Manchesterite to cooperate with the Jaycees and indicate your true opinion by answering this survey.

Allen Luckhardt.

Local Girl Visits Europe

At Dordrecht the choral group sang at the Dow Chemical plant in the American settlement. At the Dutch Reformed Church they sang hymns and met a group of people visiting there from West Virginia.

Hostiles are becoming very popular in all of the countries they were in. They found them to be very clean. Bedrooms and bath were usually 50 cents to a dollar a night, so the choral group found them to be very economical.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Jan. 7, 1963 C-12 WyView Village, Provo, Utah Mrs. L. Koda, Editor Manchester Enterprise Manchester, Michigan Dear Mrs. Koda,

I am searching for records having to do with my great grand father, Thomas Tripp and his wife, Nancy (Stevenson) Tripp.

Thomas Tripp was born in Queensburg, Washington Co. New York in 1793 or 1794 and died in Saline, Washtenaw Co., Mich. Dec. 23, 1880. His wife, Nancy Stevenson was born January 31, 1799 in Ireland and died in Saline on Nov. 18, 1876. They were married in Tyre, Seneca Co. New York. They had 10 children, three boys and seven girls...

My records show four of the children were living in the city of Saline in 1884: Robert G. Tripp, 45; Henry Tripp, 56; Rachel (Tripp) Reynolds, 62; and Elizabeth Tripp Russell, 50. Do you find any record about them? Or do you know any of their descendants?

The aforementioned reunion in 1884 was reported in a Saline newspaper. Some who attended it came from as far as New York State. If the article reported in this reunion could be found I would greatly appreciate it. Most likely this reunion would take place in the summer, considering the bad weather of winter would have restricted travel to it; thus a check of summer issues would be the first place to look.

Your help in my search would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours, Paul L. Tripp

BUM STEER ROAMS THE PLAINS

One of thirty-eight steers purchased by the Steer Club turned out to be a real bum! This Steer Club project which is sponsored by the Optimist Club to better acquaint boys and girls in the area in the art of raising and caring for an animal of their own, may turn out to be a bit of a round-up.

One of the steers was to have been unloaded at the Willard Mann farm at 10950 Chelsea Road but the steer apparently didn't like the idea of being penned in and decided he'd rather roam the range. He made his getaway as he was being unloaded and is enjoying the freedom of the wide open spaces.

The Manns know where he hangs out-on the Finn Olsen farm at 15820 Sharon Valley Road, along the Raisin River. Oddly enough-Finn Olsen is the Optimist member who endorses Jim Mann's steer. Young Mann has been in the local Steer Club for five years but this is the first time he's had a "roaming critter."

Jim hasn't been in close enough contact to get acquainted with the animal. It does have a number-No.8550 and weighed in at 439 pounds before he left on his own and he's valuable for he cost $158.22. The Manns are posting a $25 reward to anyone who brings the steer back to them alive.

He really isn't lost, seems that a lot of people know where he is and the Manns hope to bring the bandit
