HOUSE PLAN FEATURES WORK ROOM

If you're in the market for a house that keeps work, living, and sleeping areas well separated from each other, a new two-bedroom house plan released by the Federal Extension Service may be for you.

Emanuel Re-Elects Two Officers

Emanuel congregation held the annual meeting Sunday and voted to bring the name into conformity with that of the denomination. Emanuel United Church of Christ was the name chosen by the congregation. At one time it was known as the Emanuel Evangelical Church.

In 1940 with the union of the Evangelical Synod of North America and the Reform Church of the United States this congregation adopted the denominational name Evangelical and Reformed. Two years ago the Evangelical and Reformed church united with the Congregational-Christian churches to form a new denomination to be known as the United Church of Christ. Emanuel is a part of that organization.

Willard Mann, Erwin Buss and Walter Samonek have completed terms of service on the Church Council. Ted Stutz and David Meinhart were elected to replace the first two who were not eligible for reelection. Walter Samonek was re-elected. Thursday evening the council will elect officers.

Luther Klager presented the report of the scholarship-study committee which was accepted. This study sets up scholarships and loan aid for members of the congregation who desire to study to become full-time Christian workers in the church.

COMMENTS MADE AT WATERSHED PUBLIC HEARING

River Raisin

Raisin River Watershed public hearing was held at the Tecumseh Community Center Friday afternoon and was well attended by people from this area.

Present was George S. McIntyre and several other state officials. Apparently all of the nearly 300 people were in favor of the project which will include a survey by the state engineers to determine what will be necessary to stop pollution, erosion and flooding and primarily clean up the river.

Many wonder just what a watershed is? It is an area of land from which the surface water drains into a stream or river, and may vary greatly in size—from a few acres which drain into a specific brook to thousands of acres which drain into a large river.

This group is interested in the Raisin River and its tributaries. One of the common surface water problems in a watershed is the variation in the amount of run-off which occurs throughout the year. During some periods the flow may be great enough to cause flooding and in other periods the streams may carry too little water for irrigation, sewage dilution, industrial use and others.

Geo. S. McIntyre, chairman of Michigan Soil Conservation Committee told the Raisin Watershed Association that they have done a wonderful job of informing the people in the watershed.

It is believed that the application for federal assistance will receive quick consideration. Once the application has been approved on the state and federal levels, a survey team will be sent into the area to study the entire watershed and draw up a work plan. This plan will include not only what works of improvement could be carried out on the river, but also the approximate cost of the project, both to the local people and to the federal government.

The project, as envisioned by the RRWA would be a great stride forward for the entire south-eastern corner of Michigan. It would improve drainage on farm land, control costly flooding, provide additional water for municipal and industrial purposes, stabilize the banks of the river, restore dwindling water tables, check silting, provide a fish and wildlife habitat and create badly needed recreational sites. The watershed area covers about 700,000 acres in five counties.

Several water impoundments would be necessary on the main stem of the river to carry out these goals. Existing ponds in Manchester, Clinton, and Tecumseh areas would also be cleaned out so they could again be useful in storing water. All are choked full of silt.

Stabilization of the flow of the river will be another goal. A recent survey indicates that the variance of flow in the river is between near 6,000 and 56 cubic feet per second. The flow has reached as high as 12,900 cubic feet per second and as low as two cubic feet per second.

The 31 governmental agencies sponsoring the application included 19 from Leawee, 8 from Monroe, three from Washtenaw and one from Jackson county.

The project will include the Saline River and all tributaries. The flooding and most flood control will be in the lower reaches of the river where if necessary flood control dams will be built, and the survey will show where widening deepening, and straightening of the channel is necessary.

Any recreational facilities created will have to be approved by the land owners adjoining the dams.

This project should be of great advantage to the village of Manchester from the standpoint of beautifying the river and particularly in stopping erosion on the east bank of the river from Main street to Furnace road and changing the west bank to a clean and sanitary spot instead of an addition to the village dump. Those from here who attended were Maynard Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daves, representative from Thornton Industries, Eric Martin, LeRoy Marx, Clayton Parr, Cecil Hasiam, A.W. Luckhardt and Herman Kuebler.

Manchester Chelsea Both Romp

Manchester won a 76-51 victory over Ypsilanti in Friday night's game. At the same time Chelsea High School's basketball team handed Ann Arbor University High its first Washtenaw Conference loss Friday. The score 67-54.

This sent the race for second place in the league into a 3-way tie with Manchester.

Dexter, with a 4-0 record, retained first place in the league with a 94-45 win over Pinckney, while Manchester, Chelsea and U-High are all 3-1.

With center Don Mann equaling his season's high production of 27 points, Manchester had no trouble with Roosevelt. The Dutch canned 30 of 59 tries from the floor, with the 6-1 Mann doing most of his damage with jump shots.

Manchester took Roosevelt 68-58, in reserve contests; and Chelsea downed "U" High 47-27.

WILDLIFE STUDY SHOWS ANIMALS HIDE WITH EASE

He has all the wildlife. This question would be asked by anyone who has walked through a Michigan woodlot. Maybe he realizes how the animals are, and imagines them hiding in every hole and hole in the ground in trees that he sees.

A study made near the Michigan State University Campus by Leslie W. Gysel, MSU wildlife researcher, showed that while the wildlife is abundant, it probably isn't where a casual observer thinks it is.

In an unmanaged woodlot, for example, there were as many as 40 holes in one acre, enough to be occupied by squirrels, Gysel said. Of these holes, only about 25 percent were used by any life and less than 6 percent by squirrels.

As part of a test, observers were asked to look at trees and to note whether or not the holes were used. When the holes were climbed and the conditions checked, two-thirds of the "yes" responses were wrong.

In fact, only a small percentage of holes could be seen from the ground, and very few were occupied, he said.

Large holes in the bases of trees, many times found in stumps, were seldom used by animals for permanent homes. They were used by larger mammals like raccoons for temporary shelter, but were too open to predators for permanent habitation.

Down logs, which occurred most of the woodlots examined, were also not used for anything more than temporary shelter. Burrows in the ground, dug by some animals, were used only occasionally by smaller animals, but were often used by red foxes.

Use of burrows by any animal was erratic, reported Gysel.

In abandoned and reused holes by the same or other animals. Researchers observed burrows being used by more than one species at the same time, even traditional enemies like the fox and rabbit.

While the survey showed that woodlots with the largest number of holes had the largest number of nesting birds, it predicted which holes were being used. Only about 8 percent of all holes were used by birds.

Where raccoons were numerous, only 3 percent of possible homes and shelters were used by them.

Of all the animals observed, the hardest to predict. Squirrels were numerous everywhere. In managed woodlots with few trees with cavities, the squirrels built least nests and were almost as many as unmanaged lots with many trees.

The study showed selections of homesites by animals is a complex process, and what looks like a good animal home to a human, may not suit the animal at all. That's why you may think the wildlife population is not high, when it may be.

MOTORISTS URGED TO GET LICENSE TABS EARLY

Michigan motorists—more than 4-million of them—were urged to do their license plate shopping early this year, preferably during January, if they haven't already bought their 1964 tabs.

Sutton's Agency, the local branch office is open from 9-12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. daily to accommodate buyers.

The deadline for the old license is Feb. 29. According to Sutton's Agency they have sold 578 license tabs this year—compared to 462 last year at this time.

The break-down is:

	1963	1964
Passenger	334	453
Commercial	66	77
Farm C.	19	17
Trailer	43	31
	462	578

Secretary of State James M. Hare said that less than 10 percent of all registered vehicles in the State were licensed during the first two months of the current license year, November and December.

"We will have an extra day tacked on to the tail-end of our sale this year with leap year," Hare said, adding he hoped it wouldn't be another day that "late buyers" would put off getting their current tabs.

Hare said he fully expected the usual long lines and frayed tempers during the last few days of the sale. He did say that sales reported from the more than 250 branch offices located throughout Michigan totaled more than last year at the same date, but the increase was negligible and a "drop in the bucket" when considered in light of the total sale which is expected to jump over the 4-million mark, after topping this total for the first time during 1963 sales.

Last year, 4,025,493 licenses were sold in Michigan, Hare reported, an all-time high.

He said that many of the State's branch offices would again be "bringing sales" into the communities. "We have found this community-service program workable and convenient for persons in areas where we have no branch offices," he said.

Replacement of damaged plates is being offered at branch offices for $1.00. However, he said that some confusion exists about these replacement plates.

"We must insist that both old plates be turned in before new ones can be issued," he noted. "I realize that this can be somewhat inconvenient, but it's for the protection of the individual motorist." Hare said his office has had records of license plates being transferred to other cars, and the cars used for illegal purposes and the original owner of the plate is blamed.

"Licenses are issued to motorists, and each owner is responsible for his own plates," Hare concluded.

 HER HUSBAND SHOE TESTER

We really don't have figures on how many miles a "shoe tester" may be expected to pace off in a day. But a recent survey shows that, of the other three, the housewife is by far the champion hiker. She walks nine miles a day, which is five miles more than her husband averages, and three more than the postman.

WHAT'RE THE PROSPECTS of finding gold in your telephone? It's not so far-fetched as it sounds! Because of gold's rare ability to withstand corrosion, tiny amounts of it are used on certain telephone parts to prolong their usefulness. How much gold per set? About one penny's worth. It's hardly enough to dig for, but it's plenty to improve your "prospects" of trouble-free service for years to come!

Do you sometimes warm up the car engine in your garage without first opening the garage door?

MARKET IS TARGET
Sheriff's officers reported that between 1 a.m. and 1:25 a.m. Saturday an attempt was made to enter the Manchester Country Market at the west end of the village, just outside the village limits.
Chief of Police, Jules Van de Ginste and deputy Raymond Jacob, Jr., on patrol at the time discovered that the front glass door had been broken.
An investigation showed that the moulding had been taken off the back door and that the door at the west had been tampered with.
Steel doors met the would-be intruders at every instance and the timely appearance of the police chief apparently scared them away.
A check revealed that some one had been stationed in the cemetery probably used as a lookout. Police are investigating.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Manchester Enterprise, Manchester, Michigan
Dear Editor:
I think the Union Savings Bank should be commended on their selection of a Christmas Billboard at the north side of Manchester.
In this day we are inclined to commercialize too much. It is rewarding to see the Nativity scene and to think of the real meaning of Christmas.
A Former Resident

To the writer of this letter we would like to say that we too, agree that the billboard sign of the bank was most timely to bring back the true meaning of Christmas to a world that sometimes seems to forget.

These include $50 from a seat-belt sale the Junior Chamber of Commerce and $1,000 from Lafayette Grange of Washtenaw county.

The major fund raising program was the chicken barbecue which netted $2,400.10. The set for this year's barbecue was at Sunday, June 21, at the Washtenaw County 4-H Club which was commended for installing a large number of saw cupboards in the kitchen of the Farm Council building, which adds to the usefulness of the kitchen.

During the past year the interior of the building was decorated; parking lot lighting was installed; and the new show barn the A Activities Center was used for the first time this summer.
Suggestions were made for their improvements which included a new fence across the front of the grounds; level on the driveways; movable partitions for the large block room to provide temporary smaller rooms.

Church bells will ring as mothers in the community ring the door bells beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 28 in the final campaign in Manchester for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Hollis Walker, who heads this part of the drive, asks that everyone be as generous as possible, to make the drive a real success. As an additional courtesy she asks that residents turn on their porch lights.

Mrs. Walker noted that the mothers she contacted were very willing to help.

Balloon Sale Successful

"There are so many small different projects going on in town to help the March of Dimes that it is really very rewarding to see the interest of the people in the community," Mrs. Richard Kuntz said as she pointed out that the Teen Age dance netted $75 for the Dime Campaign.

Mrs. Del Ludwig, the co-chairman said that an accurate count of the years that the balloon and peanut sale has been a part of the campaign couldn't be determined without detailed figuring but it definitely has been a part of the program for the past ten years with the 4-H Clubs doing the selling. This year the girls realized $149.85 in their two day campaign last Friday and Saturday.

and the girls had fun doing it. They always do. The 4-H clubs and their leaders deserve credit for making this an annual part of their work.

Mrs. Hollis Walker, who heads this part of the drive, asks that everyone be as generous as possible, to make the drive a real success. As an additional courtesy she asks that residents turn on their porch lights.

Bentschneider Receives Award

Eugene Bentschneider received his second successive Golden U award recognition from the Michigan United Fund at the Manchester Community Chest meeting January 16.
Mr. Bentschneider was unable to attend the recent Achievement Celebration in Lansing at which time 166 other United Fund campaign chairmen were recognized for their leadership in conducting successful Michigan campaigns. Specifically, the recognition for Bentschneider is in line with being responsible for leading the Manchester volunteers to its second successful campaign, raising $10,000 against a goal of $9,383.
The award recognized not only Bentschneider and the other volunteers of Manchester but it also focuses the attention on the fact that Manchester is meeting the needs of services in the Manchester area as well as needs of state and national agencies of the Michigan United Fund, Heart, Epilepsy, Cerebral Palsy, Diabetes, to name a few.
Highlight of the meeting in Lansing at which time all campaign chairmen in Michigan were recognized, was the presentations to campaign chairmen by Miss Michigan. The main speaker at the affair was Dr. Harvey Hahn of Dayton, Ohio, a member of the General Motors Speakers Bureau.
At the meeting it was pointed out that in 1963 the efforts of volunteer workers raised in excess of thirty four million dollars the United Way for health and welfare services.

Michigan Federation of Music Clubs

Now is the time for music students, music teachers and music club presidents and advisors to prepare for the Junior Music Festival. The Junior Division of the National Federation of Music Clubs will again this year sponsor Junior Music Festivals throughout the United States. These Festivals are designed to benefit the average music student who seriously applies himself and for the exceptionally talented performer. Festival entrants do not compete with one another but rather, each is rated on his own merit.
Michigan's South-Central District Festival, this year, will take place on Saturday, April 4, in the auditorium of the Music Building at Michigan State University.
To be eligible for entry in this Festival, a student must be not more than 18 years of age, a member of an active Junior Music Club, or become a junior special member of the Federation.
Participants in the Festival may enter solo events or in one or more of such categories as piano, instrumental, dance, voice, composition and musicianship. Within these divisions are many interesting events, in which a student may enter, such as piano ensembles, organ, folk song singing etc.
For further details, music teachers and Junior Club presidents and advisors are invited to write for the Junior Festival Bulletin and application blanks to - Mrs. Fredrick MacDonald, 2016 West Maple Street, Lansing or to Mrs. C. T. Liebman, 1701 East Michigan Avenue, Lansing.
The deadline for the return of the application is March 14.
