Indoor Greenery

Gardening need not be exclusively an activity for the great outdoors. Homeowners, as well as the apartment dwellers, can enjoy gardening, indoors, particularly in cooler weather. Growing house plants can be a very satisfying indoor gardening experience, if you bear in mind a few simple precautions. Terra cotta pots are usually best for your plants. They're porous and allow the soil to absorb air. To prevent water-logging and rotting of roots, make sure the pots have holes in the bottom and are set in saucers for proper drainage. Most people tend to over water house plants. Remember, the soil should be kept moist, but not wet. Generally watering twice a week will be enough.

If your plants begin yellowing between the leaf veins they are very likely suffering from iron deficiency or anemia. Prompt attention is needed to cure this anemia.

Good Eggs Rate Lots Of 'T.L.C.'

There's nothing so all-purpose as an egg. Eggs have been sculpted, thrown, worn, used in painting, hidden and rolled at Easter, and hung on trees at Christmas. But mostly they're eaten.

Soft-boiled egg yolk is baby's first solid food, and eggnog—with or without "an ounce of bounce"—may sustain him in his old age. In between, he eats thousands of eggs—boiled, fried, scrambled, creamed, deviled, shirred and souffled, to say nothing of the hundreds of foods eggs are mixed into—ice cream, cakes and pancakes, meatloaf, mayonnaise and Hollandaise, for instance.

Nutritionists recommend an egg a day for everyone because they're high in protein and supply iron and vitamins A and B-2. And they're inexpensive to serve. There's only one drawback to eggs—they're delicate. They need tender, loving care.

"If you submit eggs to high temperatures, the value is destroyed," says Adele Davis, renowned nutritionist, in her book, "Let's Cook It Right." And any homemaker who's had a soufflé fall or a custard separate can tell you that temperature is vital in egg cookery.

That's why homemakers and eggs and automatic electric ranges a natural go-together. Accurate heat controls and automatic timers on today's electric ranges take the trick out of egg cookery. Even beginning cooks, with the help of a good cookbook and a new electric range, can turn out delectable, nutritious egg dishes.

Eggs should be fried or scrambled in a lightly oiled skillet on a thermostatically controlled surface element set at 250-300 degrees. For poached eggs, water with salt or vinegar added should be brought to a boil, then the control should be set at 175-200 before the eggs are slipped in.

When making a soufflé, custard, angelfood cake or other egg dish in the oven, the housewife with a new electric range has only to follow the recipe carefully, set the oven control at the right temperature and the timer at the correct cooking time. She can be assured that the food will turn out perfectly every time, with no failures from uneven heat.

Manchester By-pass Exchange Day

Village president, Eugene Bentschneider asked the local council to have Manchester excused from participating in the mayor exchange, which is a part of Michigan Week program. The new village president explained reasons for his action by saying that he feels that the town could benefit more by another type of program because of the problems which confront the town at this time seem relatively important.

Bentschneider does not disqualify the importance of the Michigan Week Program, giving himself taken part in the village prior to this time, but Mr. Bentschneider did believe that Manchester could benefit more by inviting council members from some of the nearby towns to set in with the council members and discuss mutual problems which confront them and see how other towns are handling them.

"It is all very interesting and educational to see how other cities are functioning and get an idea of their programs but they certainly are not the same as ours. Take our road situation here. Maybe we can get some ideas from other towns in this area. Nothing has been done on the roads in the past two years—maybe longer, and some are in very poor condition. I would rather take any free time to work on some of these issues."

"Council has been having a number of special meetings just to discuss the roads and try to find a solution. At this time we are seriously considering patching them and putting a seal coat on the very worst ones—to get us over the hump," Bentschneider added.

He explained that nothing has been done to repair the sidewalks in town which need considerable attention. The curb and gutter program which Bentschneider was instrumental in starting several years ago has been dropped by the city in the last few years. The council hopes to begin his work again very soon and start another road improvement program. He pointed out that more expensive than the roads is the storm sewers, and these are very costly, and are covered up so no one sees them—but are very necessary if the streets are to be improved. Council hopes to begin this work very soon again and start another road improvement program.

Bentschneider said he believes that communities such as Chelsea, Clinton, Brooklyn and Saline could give Manchester some new ideas on how they are handling their problems.

"I don't want anyone to get the idea that down here we do not favor mayor exchange, we do, but at this time we feel that we need specific help in certain fields and if we use our time and money to further these studies we will be ahead in the long run. It would be a fine thing if we could do both, at this time we will have to by-pass a few things," Bentschneider concluded.

Freedom Ideal Homemakers will meet Wednesday, April 15 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. T.W. Menzel with Mrs. Charles Krueger assisting. This will be the second lesson on FOOD and PEOPLE. The two leaders are Mrs. Alton Grau and Mrs. John Renner.

Chancel Players Present 'Sign of Jonah'

The "Sign of Jonah" will be presented at Emanuel Saturday April 11 at 8 p.m. by the Chancel players of Elmhurst College.

The public is invited and there will be no ticket sale but a free will offering will be taken. This group is one of four from the college touring the country this time of year. Miss Shirley Samonek, of the Emanuel church and a student at Elmhurst, will be with another group touring in the southern part of the United States. The characters in this play, taken from the Bible and given contemporary identities, are put on trial for cruelty and indifference. Their spokesman, a U Boat commander, was named Jonah because he had been trapped in a submarine and then saved by God—a fate similar to that of his biblical counterpart. Rutenborn, an East German Protestant Pastor, wrote the play shortly after World War II.

Looking Back

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1877.

A BRIEF HISTORY

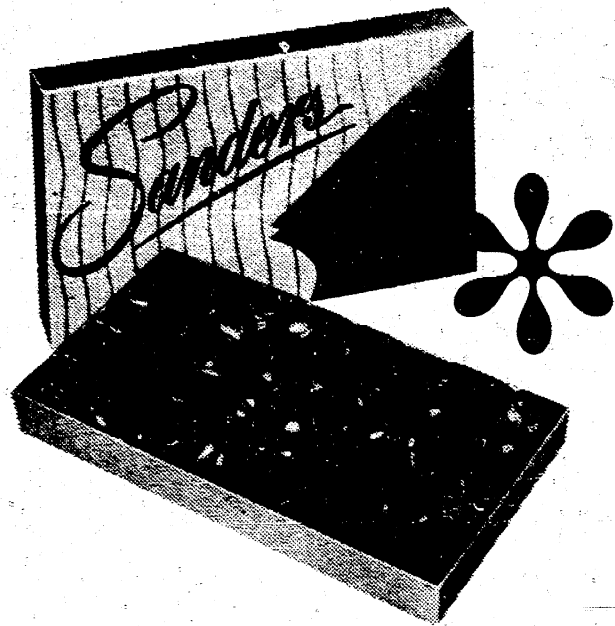

The first settlement of Sharon. (The following history by O. O. Pillsbury, was read at the Pioneer Meeting, May 2nd in 1877. We publish it by request.)

The first land bought from the government was in the fall of 1830, by Mr. Luce, from Livingston county, N. Y., on section 32, and afterwards bought and improved by Amasa Gillet. The next was taken by Moses Pool, in the spring of 1831, for his adopted daughter, —name now Hannah P. Perry,—and she occupies the same yet. The next was taken by David I. Sloat, on section 34, in the spring of 1831.

About that time the excitement began to rise to fever heat that the north bend of the River Raisin was the place to get the best of farm lands, and people came in from all quarters; the woods were strangled with land lookers by day and night. When nightfall came on they would build a fire and camp for the night; after refreshing themselves on their downy beds, made of soft marsh hay, cut with their jack-knives, they would arise in the morning, partake of their sumptuous breakfast, take new courage and speed on again.

Before that year passed away the most of the land in the town was taken. The first house that was built in the town was erected by David I. Sloat and his three sons,—John, Robinson and Cornelius,—and the writer of this sketch was also one of the number that helped on this pioneer house. The material that was used for the covering was elm bark peeled and put on for roofing, also used for the upper floor or chamber; the earth had to be used as the lower floor for the time being. The house was finished in one week, and they moved in and called it home. The first land that was plowed was done by Joseph O. Gilbert, in the month of June, 1831, on the farm where David Rose now lives. Mr. Gilbert was

WATERSHED PROBLEMS AHEAD

Interested people in Manchester had an opportunity to discuss the River Raisin Watershed problems at the Emanuel Church hall. Sixty from the area were present to hear John Trustdoff of the Soil Conservation Department tell of some of the findings of his department. Also present were Bob McCrory of the Extension office, John Neudorfer of Manchester who had been attending Watershed meetings in the surrounding area and a number of other Manchester people who had been taking an active part in the program.

Neudorfer updated new comers as to what has been some of the findings of the committee to date and acted as emcee. The Soil Conservation Service will begin a preliminary survey of the Raisin River Watershed about April 20 and this survey will be used to determine the feasibility of improving the watershed. This study will take about 50 to 60 days.

Mr. Trustdoff told the group there could be no impoundment in this immediate area because the water is too shallow. However, he pointed out that farmers can control silting of the water by strip plowing. He said that field drainage in this area is a problem although farmers in the Bridgewater area told the group they did not believe there was a drainage problem in their area. Trustdoff pointed out that the drains in the township are so rotten that the tiles can be picked out. He also said that a good rain with poor plowing practices some 17 to 18 tons of soil could be lost from a single field.

When farmers said they didn't believe that they are contributing to the pollution of the Raisin River in this area he said that the fertilizer that the farmer puts on the field is one of the means of pollution. If, after the survey, it is agreed that the river can be reasonably improved then at least 50 per cent of the farmer would have to agree to help control the problems before any action can be taken. It was felt of a few of the pioneers. After doing business there long enough, they closed and retired, and were succeeded by Nathaniel Ambrose who enlarged the building and went into business on a large scale, with a grocery and tavern all in the same block.

This year (1835) was rather an eventful one in the history of Michigan. The Toledo war in which Stephen T. Mason was actor; he called upon his patriotic sons to protect this Territory against the encroachments of the State of Ohio, for which a portion of the braves responded. Among the number were Oliver High, John K. Gillet, George A. Allen and others. It was not necessary to call a large number from each town, for the opposing foe was soon put to flight and quietness restored.

But I will return to our quiet little village and see the vast improvements that have been made. The different mechanics,—such as blacksmiths, tailors, shoemakers, wagonmakers, etc. When this vast amount of machinery was set in motion and the amount of business increased with such rapidity, then it became necessary to have a bank and so the enterprising men of the village, and a few of the farmers, joined together and started a bank under the Free Banking Law, and called it THE BANK OF SHARON with Ruel Ambrose as President, and Mr. Baldwin, Cashier. The Banking House stands as a monument to the place yet.

During this time the village fathers had applied to the legislative body for a charter, calling it Sharon, but better known by some at that time as the name of "Peppersass"; but as time rolls on villages rise and fall. Rome had its rise and its fall also.

EVEREST EXPEDITION

David Dingman, a member of the American expedition which conquered Mt. Everest, will give an illustrated lecture on Saturday, April 25 at 8 p.m. on the Everest climb. The featured event of the American Cancer Society's 1964 fund-raising campaign in Washtenaw county. Dr. Dingman will accompany the lecture with slides of the expedition to the 29,028 foot Himalayan peak. The climb was made last year. He was one of the 18 American expedition members to be received at the White House by the President John F. Kennedy and to receive from him the National Geographic Society's Hubbard Medal for Exploration.

The 27-year-old doctor, a M graduate, currently serving his residency at a Balthi Dr. and Mrs. Reed O. Dingman of Ann Arbor. Tickets for the event, which will be held in Hill auditorium on sale with prices set at $3.50 for reserved seats, $2 for general admission and $1 for students of any school. They may be obtained here from Mrs. Roland Grossman, local chairman.

Proceeds from ticket sales will be credited to the 1964 Cancer Crusade Fund in the community in which the tickets are sold. Film strips at schools and information on the hazards of teenage smoking are being distributed to every elementary school throughout Washtenaw County this month. This material is distributed by volunteers and only one of many services of the American Cancer Society in Washtenaw County and financed by campaign contributions.

It was pointed out that after the preliminary survey of the river a vote will be taken to find out if the people directly affected by the watershed would be in favor of the proposed program and the amount of tax money needed for such a project. Everyone in this area is directly affected to some extent by the River Raisin, whether their land borders it or not, the experts pointed out.

SEPTIC TANK CARE SAVES HOME OWNER MONEY AND PROTECTION IN COUNTY

Washtenaw County Health Department is bracing for the springtime reports of septic tank failures. It is often the reason that waste or human wastes fails to drain from the house and plumbing fixtures overflow.

Sewage on the ground is a serious hazard to people since the germs producing disease such as typhoid fever, infectious hepatitis, and dysentery are found in human waste. Sewage becomes contaminated with disease producing germs from people who carry these germs in their system. Other people then contract the disease from germs which can contaminate the ground, drinking water or lakes.

This health hazard can be avoided only if there is suitable soil and drainage which will permit a properly installed septic tank system to work. These systems do not work properly in heavy clay or wet areas.

Last year 312 septic tank permits were issued by the Washtenaw County Health Department. Soil and location conditions were carefully checked and approved to ensure that these systems would serve the owners present and future needs as well as protect health.

There are an estimated 11-500 private disposal systems in the county. These septic tank systems need periodic care—cleaning of the tank and repair or relocation of the disposal systems.

Michigan law requires that persons in the business of cleaning septic tanks be licensed. Homeowners should be sure that only a licensed septic tank cleaner is employed and they should understand the terms of any service contract. Paying for the sewage pumped by the gallon should be avoided.

Septic tanks do not need the addition of yeast, sour milk, or other so-called starters. There are no chemicals or digesting yeasts which are capable of reducing the solids in a septic tank. Extensive test done by the U.S. Public Health Dept. have

PROPER CONSTRUCTION OF WELLS ESSENTIAL FOR HEALTH

Spring floods, interest in summer cottages, and a speed up in home construction are all keeping the Washtenaw County Health Department busy answering a rush of inquiries about the safety and availability of well water.

Melting snows and heavy spring rains often cause pollution of poorly constructed and improperly maintained wells. If surface water, sewage or other types of pollution seeps into a well, a health hazard is created. Pollution can carry germs from hepatitis, polio, typhoid, dysentery, and many other serious diseases.

Tests are made by the Health Department to determine whether water is safe to drink, but these tests show only the condition of the water at the time the sample is taken. The well must be properly located, suitably constructed, and continually maintained so that when a test shows it to be safe it may be depended upon to remain safe.

Early summer and the rush of new suburban home sites always produces its quota of persons interested in constructing a well and in learning whether or not water is available at prospective home or building sites. People who are considering procuring real estate should check on the availability of water before investing in the property.

When construction of a well, it is important to locate it as far away as practical from sources of contamination—septic tanks, tile fields, and barnyards. A safe distance depends upon the ground water flows. Because of the flow of the ground water, usually toward a lake or stream, the well should be located uphill or to the side, rather than downhill from a source of pollution.

The well must be deep enough (usually 25 feet or more). Must prevent surface water from seeping into the layer of sand or gravel from which the water is drawn. Open, dug wells are unsafe because they become polluted easily with surface water. The joints in the wall of such a well are not water tight and surface water seeps into the well. A dug well is not safe and should not be used for drinking purposes.

It is essential to construct and maintain the well to prevent flooding. The end of the casing should be extended at least 12 inches above the pump room floor or ground surface and should be properly sealed with a sanitary wall seal. A well pit may flood unless it can be properly drained with a tile leading directly to the ground surface.

A drain from a well pit should never be connected to pipes or tiles carrying waste water.

Because location, construction and maintenance of a well varies with each situation, those needing wells may contact the Sanitation Office of the Washtenaw County Health Department to request that a public health engineer visit the location and construction of a well or check an existing well. A water sample usually is collected during an visit. If you would like to have your well water tested, a sample bottle may be obtained from the Health Department.

International Cookbook Features WSU Alumnae Favorites

DETROIT — "Cannoli" are delightfully crisp pastry shells which Italian-descended Michiganders prepare when they have time to spare, then keep indefinitely to fill with sweet delicacies later.

These luscious, crumbly tidbits, served as desserts at holiday feasts, are also eaten by Italian family members at other meals, says Mrs. Mary D'Agostina Thurber (above), a Wayne State University alumna who lives in suburban Birmingham.

Mrs. Thurber makes cannoli just as her Italian mother did, and recently contributed the family recipe to an "International Cookbook" sponsored by the WSU Alumnae Club of Birmingham.

The book now in a second, enlarged edition, features 130 recipes representing 34 nations, from the kitchens of members. It sells at $2 per copy with an additional 25 cents for mailing and handling. Proceeds are added to the Club's scholarship fund, through which prospective Wayne students are aided in attending the University.

Orders are handled by the committee chairman, Miss Marion Tate, 1172 Bird Avenue, Birmingham, Mich. 48009.

This is member Thurber's cannoli recipe as it appears in the cookbook:

FIRE DEPARTMENT ANSWERS CALL
 The Manchester fire department was called on Tuesday about 8:30 p.m. to the Mrs. Edith Warner home on Eusades road when she discovered sparks coming from the chimney.
 Police chief, James Kensler said the fire was caused by an overheated chimney and sparks ignited the roof. He said it was necessary to chop a three foot hole in the roof before the blaze could be extinguished.
 Kensler said it was very lucky that the fire was discovered immediately because of the high wind. Firemen cleaned the chimney before leaving.
 Damage the police chief said would be about $100.

 Local police chief, Dan Singer, who investigated, said the Gilbert car was traveling north on Grossman road, is a dead end road at Austin road, about one mile west of the village limits.
 The car failed to stop at the Stop Sign, crossed Austin Rd. and landed in a ditch, the officer said. The front of the Gilbert car was badly damaged.

Arm Boy's Favorite Toy 935 Tractor

HUTCHINS, TEX. — Like any youngster, 15-year-old John Heffrin is a natural born traktor. Give him a shiny new 935 tractor, and chances are he'll find it a little while later, lying there out on his favorite farm tractor, vintage 1955.
 In 1962 he found it parked in the weeds on some land he had inherited for grazing the Heffrin family's three horses. Spade jugs the tractor's big iron wheels are found in a nearby month on them on and spent a month with the help of local garage mechanic, Billie Schultz.
 Even his mother pitched in to help him find odd parts such as spark bolts.
 "With the new coat of paint I just gave it, the old Allis-Chalmers looks pretty good," said John. "It runs good, too, except the transmission must be torn because it seems to 'hang' in third gear."
 In Milwaukee, Wis., the manufacturer dug out an old operator's manual and parts book from its archives to make it easier for him to work on the tractor.
 Rollin has a unique way of starting the engine. Instead of turning the hard crank to turn it over, he winds a 10-foot length of rope around the belt pulley and then pulls hard and fast to start the engine. Though highly unconventional, the method works.
 With the old tractor, Rollin and his 18-year-old brother, Roy, earn 97 acres of rented land. Earnings from crops of oats, wheat and hay, and from the sheep and cattle they graze are out aside for their education.
 Born in Weatherford, Texas, Rollin's interests in farming dates back to a dairy farm his father, Roy, operated near Hutchins. Since moving to rural Hutchins, the youngster is extremely active in 4-H Club work. He was chosen one of the top three boys in Dallas County, which has about 2,500 4-H members.
 His father now manages the train elevator at Lancaster. Rollin has an older sister, Kathlene, 17.
 Darrell Brown, assistant (Dallas) county agricultural agent, says of Rollin: "Chances are that he will go to the top in almost anything he makes up his mind to do."
 His vocational agriculture instructor at Wilmet-Hutchins high school believes he is one of the best students he has had in 21 years of teaching.
 Besides being able to maintain the antique Allis-Chalmers tractor in top shape, Rollin is also a good driver. He took first place in the Dallas county tractor driving contest in 1963, and went on to place second in the 19-county district meet. He ranked 10th in the state contest and was the youngest entrant.
 Rollin takes special pride in a merick he wrote for an English class:
 "I love my tractor with all my heart.
 I hope that we will never part.
 The engine it misses,
 It fires and hisses
 I just hope that next time it will start!"

Watch Fires! Don't Burn Without Permit

Fire chief, James Kensler, asks people in this area to be careful when burning rubbish because of the dry grass and high danger of grass and forest fires.

"It is surprising," he said, "how quickly grass catches fire—even now, and in a couple of weeks it will be worse."

Kensler noted that on March 24 Jack Conley of Conlin Rd., Chelsea carelessly set fire to rubbish and the wind swept the fire to engulf a 200 acre area near Chelsea. He was given a $25 fine by C. A. Rogers of Sylvan township-Justice of Peace.

The local fire chief said that similar action will be taken in the Manchester area if people fail to heed the warnings.

He advises farmers and landowners, (1) not to burn grass and (2) to be sure and obtain a permit to burn safely if they do intend to start fires.

"Spring burning to remove last year's dry and matted vegetation may be the easiest way to get rid of plant debris, but it also is one of the speediest ways to deplete soil fertility."

Burning robs the earth of valuable organic material. Every 100 pounds of dead, dry litter requires almost 100 pounds of phosphorus, calcium and other elements to attain its growth. These elements were removed from the soil by the roots of the living plants.

District Forester Victor G. Horvath said that, "Flowed under, or permitted to rot and return naturally, the plants give these elements back to the earth. When burned most of these natural fertilizing agents are dissipated in smoke and are lost to the land forever."

Farmers who do decide to burn off grass or to incinerate trash are warned by the forest ranger that grass and other old vegetation now is dry enough to permit rapid spread of fires, even though the ground still may be damp.

Some of the rules which fire chief Kensler suggests are:

ACT 143, P. A. 1923, AS AMENDED, PROVIDES THAT:

1. You must have a permit to have an open fire except when the ground is snow-covered, or for domestic purposes, or to protect persons or property in case of fire.
2. Any person who wilfully, negligently, or carelessly sets a fire which injures or endangers the property of another, may, upon conviction, be assessed a fine of not more than $100.00 and costs of prosecution or imprisonment for 90 days or both such fine and imprisonment.
3. Any person who maliciously sets a fire which endangers human life or destroys the property of another, may, upon conviction, be assessed a fine of not less than $100.00 nor over $500.00 or imprisonment for a term of not over 10 years or both such fine and imprisonment.
4. Any person who negligently allows a fire to escape is liable for all expenses incurred by the State of Michigan in the suppression of such fire except for Department of Conservation personnel and equipment.
5. Any permit issued may be revoked if conditions are such that burning may not be done safely.

and other elements to attain its growth. These elements were removed from the soil by the roots of the living plants.

District Forester Victor G. Horvath said that, "Flowed under, or permitted to rot and return naturally, the plants give these elements back to the earth. When burned most of these natural fertilizing agents are dissipated in smoke and are lost to the land forever."

Farmers who do decide to burn off grass or to incinerate trash are warned by the forest ranger that grass and other old vegetation now is dry enough to permit rapid spread of fires, even though the ground still may be damp.

Some of the rules which fire chief Kensler suggests are:

- (1) Obtain a Burning Permit from the township fire department, or from a fire officer of the Michigan Conservation Department. These issued only when conditions are safe for such fires.
 - (2) Never burn too much at one time.
 - (3) Burn during the evening hours, when the wind is down and humidity higher.
 - (4) Never burn in a grass or leaf covered area. Choose mineral soil where there is no vegetation.
 - (5) Never leave any fire unattended, even for a minute.
- Michigan law requires burning permits for any fires started outdoors when the ground is not covered with snow, these enable the fire departments to limit conditions. The burning index takes into account such factors as wind velocity, humidity and rainfall. When the rating reaches a high-danger figure permits usually are not issued.
- These permits also enable fire departments to spot planned fires on maps preventing unnecessary runs.

BRUCE DANIELS APPOINTED TO SUPT. PUBLIC WORKS

Bruce Daniels of Fremont, Michigan was appointed at Monday's council meeting as the Superintendent of Public Works. Daniels was selected from some ten applicants for the job which has been vacant for the past three years.

Daniels, who was not present at the meeting, had previously been interviewed by several of the councilmen and village president. He has worked with the Fremont Public Works Department for eight years, beginning at the bottom and working up to the position of assistant Superintendent of Public Works, a post which he has held for the past three years.

He is 34 years old, married and the father of three children ranging in age from two to six years.

Manchester has been without a superintendent of this department since Claud Gage resigned. Since that time the work has been under the direction of the Public Works Committee. According to the village president, Eugene Bentschneider, the new superintendent has been highly recommended by the City Manager of Fremont.

Until school is out the new public works superintendent will be commuting between Fremont and Manchester on weekends, rather than take the children out of school at this time. His main concerns will be the roads, sewer and water supplies of the town, Mr. Bentschneider said.

School Board to Present Two Programs

Monday night the School Board discussed school finances in light of what was needed in the area schools. A discussion with area citizens before the Board meeting was of much help in making the decision.

Four mills will be requested for one year, the board decided. This would replace the four mills voted last year. It was also decided that in addition to the four mills, one mill will be requested for armarium material, math and educational television on a limited basis. The one mill earmarked will appear on a separate ballot.

The Board unanimously approved this request and hopes that the citizens and parents of the district will give full support.

Both the minimum special operating and the one mill are approved for the school tax bill to be given by Rev. Kendall Cowing of the First Methodist Church.

Citizens Meeting Township Budget Approved

Nearly a hundred citizens approved the proposed budget at the meeting of area residents and school board members Monday evening at the Nellie Ackerson School.

The proposed budget for the 1964 school year is for $450,838. This is an increase of $13,418 or slightly over two percent of last year's operation at $437,420.

Treasurer Dan Boutell reported on the financial status of the district and charts were distributed showing that the Manchester district has a very small bonded indebtedness compared to other districts in the county and state. The net bonded indebtedness of the district is $265,000 and is scheduled to be completely paid off in six or seven years.

Mr. Boutell said that the total millage as proposed would be less this coming year since the Pleasant Lake school bond issue has been paid in full.

In 1963 the tax levy for operation was 12.90 compared to 13.20 for 1964, an increase of .30 mills or $4,600.

The indebtedness of the 48 for the Pleasant Lake School has been retired so the debt levy will be 2.82 for the High School and 1.73 for the Nellie Ackerson School. This is the same as last year.

The Manchester School Board president, Luther Klager told the citizens at Monday night's meeting that the need for additional facilities at the school is important at this time.

"It isn't difficult for us to understand that in order for the young people who attend our schools to be geared to meet the higher standards of admission requirements at Universities and Colleges we must offer a more comprehensive background in the vocational areas," Mr. Klager said.

He commented on the success of the Manchester students in college. He also told the need to improve the offerings for the employment bound youth. Approximately half of the graduates do not plan to enroll in a full college program. Therefore, there is a need to provide these students with a more comprehensive background in the vocational areas.

Mr. Klager discussed the need for additional facilities. The enrollment at the high school is at capacity and it was suggested that a study should be initiated soon to provide facilities for this growth. He encourages all the citizens who are interested in serving on such a committee to contact any of the board members or the school offices.

President Klager welcomed the group and expressed his appreciation for the help the citizens' group has given in previous years.

Superintendent Harold Springstein reviewed some of the changes made during the current year. He noted that most of the improvements in the program came about as a result of citizen curriculum studies and recommendations.

Jacque Hainstock is in Herrick hospital where she was taken Sunday night following an attack of pneumonia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hainstock.

Township Budget Approved

The budget for Manchester township this year is $18,070 according to township supervisor, Clayton Parr. This, the supervisor said includes the total salaries of the township officers: $1,500 for supervisor; $1,400 for treasurer and $600 for clerk, along with $75 for each of two trustees. Last year's expense amounted to $15,321.27.

Other anticipated expenses include $3,500 to the Washtenaw Road Commission and in this sum is an allocation for money for 400 feet of calcium chloride to be placed in front of each farm house to lay the dust.

An amount of $5,250 is earmarked for the Manchester volunteer fire department and a library budget of $2500.

The township shows a balance of $330.97 a year ago and the balance this year is $790.62. The estimated income from Manchester township is $14,028, leaving a shortage of about $4,041. This is the money which the township is asking the allocation board for. Last year's budget was $3,650. The increase the supervisor said, is due to this being an election year. Parr said that there is an increase in the assessed valuation of about $64,000 in new buildings in the area.

George Johnston and Mrs. Richard Kuntz were named to serve another three year term as members of the library board and Fred Leeman was named to fill the unexpired term of Donald Dorff who resigned. The library budget for the year is $5,178 which includes salaries, social security, building upkeep etc.
