

MAIN STREET

It's been a long time since we've had a Main Street column in the Enterprise. Sometimes there are things to be printed and some-how there is no place to put them.

These little plants express our feelings too. We refuse to believe winter is on the way. Doesn't it usually start to snow around Thanksgiving?

Sometimes we need a little space to clear the air, too. First of all, and this is important to every small town newspaper, we want it clear that we do not slant the news.

In our opinion, news is when a thing happens. Such is the story of the Summer Recreation Program which appears in this issue.

On this slanting the news-we were accused but once. Later they apologized when they found the article in the paper.

If it wasn't for the Main Street column how could we ever let you know that we finally gathered the walnuts. Did you ever have an idea you wanted to do something special to help out.

Looking out the window it seemed as if a giant had invisibly been shaking the tree. There was no breeze but the leaves and big green walnuts were tumbling down.

We wondered if it was possible to over estimate how many we had in the first place. Yes, we decided it could be done.

Watching out the kitchen window at a cardinal sipping at the ear of corn, our eyes wandered over to the walnuts.

We watched in disbelief. As we looked back at the walnuts there was the bushy tailed squirrel grabbing one.

Its a funny thing. With bushes down under the tree just waiting to be picked up, our funny friends chose to take the few we had gathered.

MAIN STREET

With election day almost here, practically on the heels of Halloween it is hard to know whether we should be writing about hobgoblins and witches riding brooms or should be basking in the beautiful weather and wondering if this warm spell is just the heat from some of the comments of candidates who have been giving their final round of speeches.

It is some comfort to know that Manchester is going to be in there stretching and helping speed up the reporting of vote results.

For those who won't be able to vote on Tuesday, Nov. 3 and who want an absentee ballot, they should make arrangements to have someone get one for them from Waldo Marx.

The large ballot contains the names of people seeking office for national, state and county.

1. the referendum ballot and vote on a county tax limitation proposition.

2. is the non partisan ballot to vote for three judges of the Court of Appeals, one judge for circuit court and one for probate court.

3. referendum ballot-to vote for or against the future use of the Massachusetts ballot. (By the way we have a copy of the 1962 Massachusetts ballot here in the office if you want to take a look at it.)

4. referendum ballot to vote for or against the future use of the Massachusetts ballot.

5. this is the local township ballot

Talking over the coming election among ourselves here in the office we had a chance, along with about fifty others, to ask the publisher his views of the coming election.

There is such a demand on the part of the intelligent voter these days to know, not only what is happening, but why it is happening and how, what transpires fits into the general political and social pattern that I say, I am an Independent. No banners. No party. No Band Wagon for this boy! I'll choose the man I believe will do the best job!

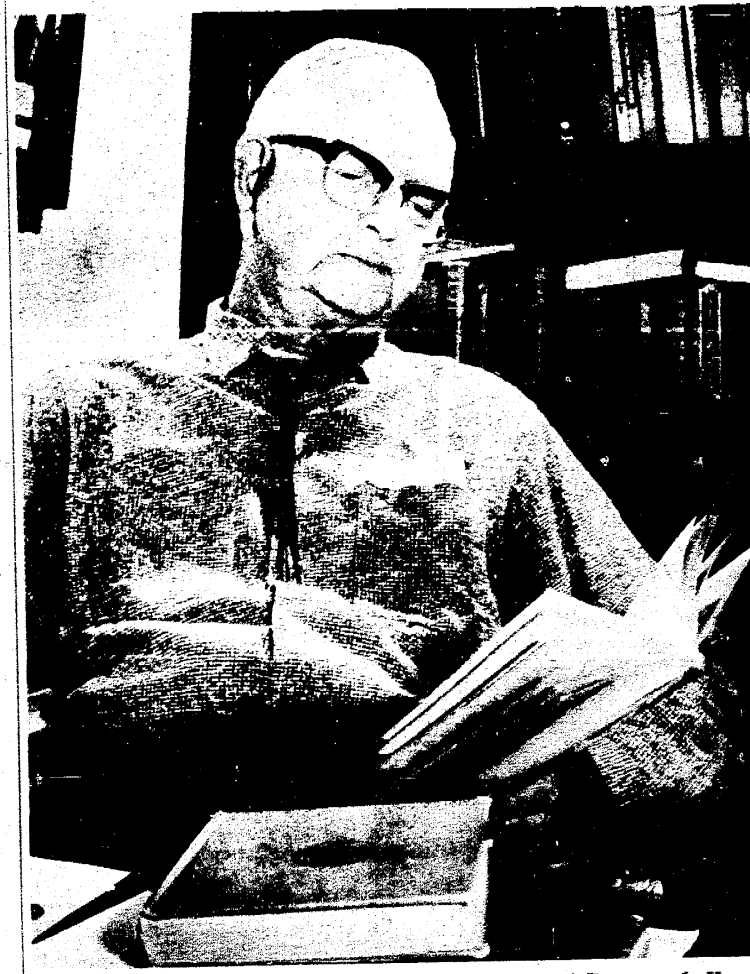

Mr. Brazee graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1908 and with his wife, Helen moved to Chinook, Montana where they lived on a ranch and taught school.

They returned to Tecumseh in 1921 where he taught in rural schools until joining the teaching staff of the Tecumseh High School in 1922.

PASTOR TREASURES McGUFFEY READERS

Former Manchester resident and minister at the Iron Creek Church for more than 33 years is packed and ready to leave, with his wife, to spend the winter at St. Cloud, Florida.

Why will Rev. Brazee be packing some old McGuffey Readers down to Florida? First of all, he never tires of them and reads them over and over.

During his life time he has collected well over fifty old and rare books, and a five volume Bible Commentary, written by Matthew Henry in the 18th Century.

As he fingers over the treasured copies there are the old McGuffey Readers used by his own parents during the Civil War days. There are others, such as text books by Appleton and Harper.

Mr. Brazee graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1908 and with his wife, Helen moved to Chinook, Montana where they lived on a ranch and taught school.

They returned to Tecumseh in 1921 where he taught in rural schools until joining the teaching staff of the Tecumseh High School in 1922.

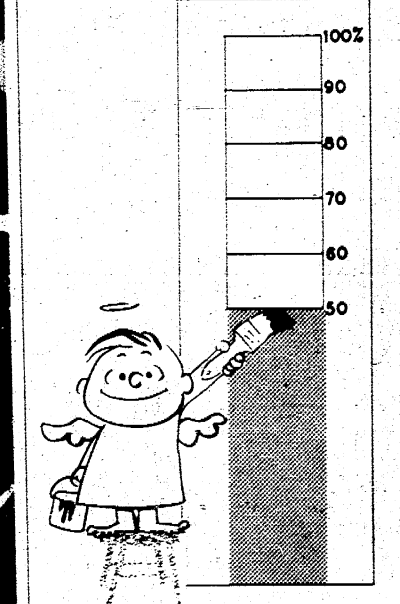

There were no bright pictures in the books. They were not particularly attractive. There were no wide margins. They were printed to teach the student and not entertain him.

One thing was certain the old-time educators added a moral to their stories. These things came in handy to Rev. Brazee, who during the years at the Iron Creek Church, would call the children up to the front every Sunday during the service for a few minutes.

These old volumes bring back memories of his own childhood, his parents, his own children, and the many children he taught during the years.

And if you want to get away from the whole bit for a while--for a view of the situation from the air--contact John Neuderter at the Adrian Municipal Airport on Saturday or Sunday.

COMMUNITY CHEST REACHES HALFWAY

Manchester's Community Fund and Red Cross Drive reached the halfway mark after two weeks of hard work by volunteer solicitors, according to Campaign Chairman, Mrs. James Baker.

The Division Chairmen have not been able to make final reports. An actual count during the past week--and showed that $4800 has been collected in the drive to raise $10,152.

The most encouraging reports come from Industry, Outside Business and Village House to House, with somewhat harder sledding in Local Business and Rural. Clarence Fielder reports $2,000 from Industry but this figure should rise considerably during the coming week.

The Industry Division includes Double A, and John Althouse, heading up the Double A Drive, states that the company goal of $3,000 is nearing the mark.

People who wish to donate but have been out when their solicitor called are asked and urged to seek out their solicitors, or they may mail in their contributions to the Manchester Community Fund, care of L. D. Vogel, treasurer of the fund.

The drive is scheduled to end this week. A generous out-pouring of gifts during these final days of October will help to keep the record clean.

COMING EVENTS

HISTORY OF CAMPAIGN BUTTONS

No matter which presidential candidate's campaign button you wear this election year, you'll be carrying on an American tradition that dates back to 1824.

Campaign buttons first popped up during James Monroe's last year in office, according to a booklet entitled "America Goes to the Polls" published by the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. But the button worn by supporters of Andrew Jackson took nearly ten years to develop.

It seems that in 1824 Congress voted to award Jackson a gold medal for "bravery and successful repulse of British troops who had recently attacked New Orleans." But the inscription on the award of a gold medal was not to be a political one. It was to be a national one.

The medal was first struck, and Jackson's supporters wore buttons with the inscription on them.

Small brass discs which bore the name and likeness of the General and a reference to his victory at New Orleans, thus was born the symbol of the American presidential election—the political campaign button.

In 1828, campaign button makers produced the first true portrait of a presidential candidate. Abraham Lincoln, once known as a "stage drama" figure, was the first to have his portrait on a campaign button.

In 1832, the first campaign button was made of paper. It was a portrait of Andrew Jackson, the President of the United States, and the inscription "Jackson for President 1832" was on it.

The medal was first struck, and Jackson's supporters wore buttons with the inscription on them.

Halloween Party Oct. 31

Witches Brew served with round brown objects from outer space will highlight this Saturday's activities when the local Jaycees launch this year's annual costume Halloween party at the athletic field for the elementary school children.

Jaycees ask that all parents caution their children in crossing the streets going and coming from the party because of their impatience due to some costumes. In case of rain the party will not be held.

Immediately after the judging and the awarding of prizes the Jaycees will serve a special Witches Brew from Higgins and Son Orchard and in addition to the brew Space Wheels will be served made possible by the Manchester Bakery and Grocery.

All children between kindergarten and the 6th grade are eligible to attend.

Manchester quarterback Bob Rigg was a hand in both touch-downs during the first period by heaving a 40-yard aerial to end Rich Boyce. Rigg counted a fourth quarter rally by sneaking over the goal line. Ron Panches kicked the conversion.

The fourth period marker was set by a punt return by safety Steve Sloan who also sparked the team's offense. Whitmore Lake led 3-1-1 in the league.

WASHTENAW COUNTY COLLEGE EXPLAINED

About half of Washtenaw County's school graduates are in need of further education, but the county professor pointed out, Professor Raymond J. The speaker at Dexter High School was part of a group of Milan, Chelsea, and Saline, Manchester and other community leaders making his statements on behalf of the Committee for a Washtenaw County Community College.
Young said that the high school graduates of which he speaks are "good material" for higher education, but cannot today meet entrance standards at the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University.
Young urged creation of a county community college with strong emphasis on post high school occupational as well as academic education "as the best solution to the problem."

WINTERIZE SILO UNLOADERS Before freezing weather may cause a silo unloader breakdown, make sure it's in top condition. Sharpen all the clipper teeth and replace broken ones. Check the V-belts, motor and electrical wiring for breaks, sign of wear or age. Be sure it has adequate overload protection. It's a good idea to install an ammeter on the unloader so you can tell how much load is on the machine when you are at the bottom of the silo.

Cows capable of high production will drink more and thus produce more than other cows. Drinkers are calibrated to feed-meter with overhead bins.

SAFETY EMBLEM at right was developed by Ohio State University to symbolize and alert drivers to slow moving vehicles. Its colors are reflective red for night-time and fluorescent orange for daytime. It is 14 inches high and is to be used with other safety devices such as flags, lights and reflectors-not to replace them. A proposal is before the American Society of Agricultural Engineers to make it a safety standard.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO WELCOME VISITORS

Many people—especially parents of children in school—are curious about what goes on inside today's modern public school buildings. Yet a great many never get around to going into one to find out.

During the entire week of Nov. 3 through 14 many public schools in every state will open their doors to anyone who cares to visit.

Manchester Public Schools will also welcome visitors. American Education Week, the theme for which is "Education Pays Dividends" is the public's week in school, a time devoted to showing the public what goes on in the public schools.

New developments in the public schools have raised the curiosity of some people and have baffled others said Theodore H. Tapping, Jr., Supervising Principal.

According to Mr. Tapping these new developments include:

- Teaching reading. Many different methods are being tried to find the best way to teach reading.
- There is the phonics approach, the look-say method, the augmented alphabet, individualized reading and programmed learning.
- The phonics approach shows children spoken words in written form and teaches children to memorize the way words look to give them an early feeling of success.
- The phonics approach shows children spoken words in written form and teaches the transformation from sound to symbol.
- Teaching math and science. New methods of teaching these subjects have been publicized recently. The new math has brought parents back to school for math courses to keep up with what their children are learning. These new developments have probably been the most baffling to people who learned math by means of older, more traditional methods.
- Automation in schools. This is another area that has been widely discussed and that has made people curious. To what extent is modern technology being used in the schools and to what extent will it be used in the future? Machines are being developed for classroom use, for school administration, and for testing. How today's automated world will affect

SHARON HARD HIT BY DROUGHT

Washtenaw County has been classified officially as "drought-stricken" by the United States Department of Agriculture, the Federal Farmers Home Administration (FHA) has announced in Washington.

County Extension Director, Donald R. Johnson classed the dry weather losses in the county as "spotty" and was surprised that Washtenaw had been classed "drought-stricken", although area farm leaders agreed that there has been a dry weather problem here.

Washtenaw and 11 other Michigan counties are eligible for "emergency" FHA loans to help them recoup losses to crops, pastures and livestock. The loan authorization will continue through 1965.

According to Johnson, some areas around Manchester and Milan are hardest hit. He said the Sharon Plains in Sharon Township with light soil, along the Sharon Hollow Road, was suffering and corn is hard hit, because of lack of rain. In areas where the soil is heavy (clay type) the moisture is retained. These farmers are not effected. Just about half of the farmers were hit hard he said.

"You can go out in almost any community and find a few farmers who have been affected this year significantly. Rainfall has been adequate or more than adequate in some parts of the county. Others have had almost no rainfall," Johnson explained.

The drought-stricken classification was requested by Carl Robinson, local FHA director as an extension of a similar authorization made last year when drought conditions were more prevalent.

Robinson said his office had received no requests for assistance but the emergency credit was requested "in case some should be received".

Full information on the emergency program may be obtained by contacting Robinson at No. 3-8541, Extension 434.

THE VERDICT

The jury, after seeing the staggering evidence at Black's IGA (Michigan Center), Black's IGA (West Prospect), BH's IGA (Brooklyn), A & B IGA Manchester (Main Street), A & B IGA Napoleon (S. Brooklyn Road) on display passed a verdict of guilty!

The jury deliberated for a fourth (1/10) of a second before passing the verdict.

A reporter interviewed the friends of Mr. High Grocery Cost, Mr. Lickum Stamp, Mr. Out Out Coupon, and Mr. Tricky Gimmick to get their comments. They turned red with anger and told the reporter they would never be allowed in the IGA Stores again because of the low, low prices!

Sheriff's Equipment Produced By Harvey

—Douglas J. Harvey, Democratic nominee for sheriff, produced at a meeting last night a cardboard box containing what he described as "$300 worth of Sheriff's Department clothing and equipment which is not logged, listed or accounted for by Sheriff George A. Petersen."

Harvey, an Ypsilanti Township resident, appeared for a talk at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association at Kaiser School in the township.

Recently Petersen denied contentions by Harvey that his department has a poor system of accounting under which tax payers' money is wasted by missing equipment which is neither logged nor charged out to officers.

Included in the equipment and clothing which Harvey exhibited to the audience last night were four pairs of Sheriff's Department uniform trousers, a blouse, a pair of handcuffs and eight badges.

"This equipment was turned over to me by four deputies who resigned from the Sheriff's Department," Harvey said. "I have with me written statements from these ex-officers that none of this equipment was ever recorded when it was issued or demanded from them when they resigned."

In addition, Harvey charged that official Sheriff's Department identification cards carried by all uniformed deputies are not surrendered when an officer resigns.

"This means that former officers, if they desire, could be by the use of the uniforms and identification cards which they were not required to give up make arrests or obtain information normally available only to duly appointed policemen," Harvey said.

Harvey said Sheriff Petersen's recent denial that he puts men on road patrol without first

OLDEST CITIZEN RUNS FOR OFFICE

There is little doubt that Carl Wuerthner is setting a record in the state for being the oldest person running for a public office in a township election. Wuerthner, 91 years, is competing for the office of township clerk on the Democratic ticket. Voting for the same office is incumbent, Republican, Waldo Marx.
 During his long and colorful lifetime, Wuerthner has served as village president for three terms and has held many other public offices. He is still very active in the Maccabee Association of which he is Great Lt. Commander. He celebrated his 91st birthday, October 28.

Wuerthner became interested in politics in 1907 when he helped organize the Young Men's Party. He organized the Progressive party in 1919 in Manchester and has been a guiding influence ever since. He has always frowned when there were not two complete slates of candidates in any election. This prompted his name to be put on the ballot this year.

Rundown On Manchester And Area Vote

MAIN STREET
 Election is over! One interesting note is that for the first time exactly 50 years Manchester goes on record as endorsing a Democratic ticket. The last time was in 1914—World War time when Manchester voted for Woodrow Wilson.
 It was about ten o'clock on election night that one of the members strolled up to the village hall and made a bit of an announcement as he looked over the fellows counting the votes.
 "Even though Goldwater is carrying the entire South and Manchester, I believe he is going to lose."
 And one of our barbers was heard to remark that he hoped the farmers would quit griping about the farm program. Apparently the members of the west, and mid-west must like the program because the way they supported Johnson.
 Regardless of who won, one thing is certain, we will have to do everything we can to help. Some of these jobs look pretty big.
 Come Friday night, folks in town will do well to drive to Clinton to help the local Dutchmen by their support from the side lines. This promises to be a real game—with both teams tied for first place. Manchester and Clinton have been rivals—real rivals from way back. We ought to know.
 Then Sunday there's the Turkey Shoot at the Schaffer Airport sponsored by the local Jaycees.
 Monday night Council approved some ordinances which are in the Enterprise in another section. One concerns BURNING of Waste Materials, Leaves etc. There is another ordinance dealing with Building, repairing and meeting specifications in the community. There is a fine of not less than $100 if persons continue to work about a building after a stop work order has been issued.
 In another ordinance the council approves amending Ordinance 3 dealing with transient traders and dealers and peddlers and it explains who must have licenses to deliver. There is a list of the businesses excluded from this ordinance on dogs—running at large and howling. There is a $100 fine attached to this ordinance. A word to the wise would be to read these ordinances. They are intended to help everyone in town and represent hours of study by the council in an effort to improve this community.
 Work began this week to take the deposit of sand from the polls in well No. 1. This clean-up job by Dumar Drilling of Toledo is underway by a new jet water. According to the powers that be we can expect good well water very soon!

HOPES TO CONNECT—Quarterback Bob Rigg tests his passing arm which he hopes will be on target Friday night in Manchester High School's bid for the Lakeland C Conference title.  Rekindling title memories is nice but the real thing is even nicer.
 Manchester High School's football team, which this season has been reviving memories of 1958 and '57 Flying Dutchmen championship outfits, hopes to bring back a title of its own Friday night from Clinton. ratings while Manchester is tied with Jackson St. Mary's for 10th.

Clinton has an edge in overall records, 6-0-1 to the Flying Dutchmen's 4-2-1. And the Redskins have all the better of it in offensive and defensive statistics. Clinton has scored 178 points to Manchester's 78. Clinton's defense has allowed 50 to Manchester's 82.

So, it is obvious that coach Jack Raffaelli's Dutchmen have an uphill battle on their hands to come away with the crown. But they could have a decided edge when it comes to incentive.

Manchester hasn't won a football title since the glory days of 1958-'57. It won back-to-back crowns those two years in the League of the Lakes and lost only once in 16 games.

A Dutch victory would also assure them of their first winning season since a 5-3 record in 1959. A year ago Manchester broke even in eight games. This is Raffaelli's first year as head coach. He was an assistant for the Dutch last season.

Boosting Manchester's hopes Friday is a 13-0 victory over Whitmore Lake, the latter's only league loss this season. Clinton could do no better than Whitmore Lake, 6-6. However, Manchester was held to a 6-6 tie last Friday by Ann Arbor University High, a team Clinton beat 20-7.

Quarterback Bob Rigg has been the sparkplug in Manchester's attack. He has thrown five touchdown passes—three to end Rich Pniwiski—and has scampered for two others himself. Fullback Mike Nickerson has scored once on each a run and a pass as has halfback Jim Sloat, who is the team's leading runner.

But the Flying Dutchmen's strength figures to be in their defense. Steve Bentschneider has picked off three passes, turning two of them into touchdown runs of 65 and 40 yards.

Pniwiski, linebacker Jim Fielder and 230-pound tackle Denny Hamilton are other outstanding performers on offense. Don Kirk, 225-pound center, and 210-pound tackle Ron Funches give the Dutch good size on the line with Hamilton. Eugene Huber and Jim Samonek handle the guard chores. Jim Mann takes over at a defensive end spot while Clete Marshall and Sloat are defensive backs.

The Dutch defense faces a stiff test from the likes of coach Phil Bareis' fullback Wayne Poore and quarterback Dennis Draic. Poore's running has
