

B & PW SETS STAGE FOR DRIVE

Many people have questioned the Why and Wherefore of the Citizen's Scholarship Foundation of Manchester and before the Kick Off of this year's drive some questions should be cleared.

Manchester is one of 144 community communities throughout the nation that belong to the Citizen Scholarship Foundation of America, Inc.

Manchester with a population of approximately 1800 collected $1,300 and gave three scholarships.

The amount the student can receive depends on the amount he needs. Maybe he needs it for tuition or maybe just a small amount for books.

The money does not have to be repaid in a lump sum. It does not matter whether it is paid in $5.00 amounts or in a $50.00 amount.

The local Business and Professional Women's Club receives no monetary reward for the work the club does on the project.

The custom of drinking wine with meals is becoming more popular all the time, but many people are confused by the so-called rules concerning what wines to serve with what foods.

Traveling with children usually means sticky fingerprints on car upholstery and windows. Keep a damp washcloth in a plastic bag for quick hand-and-face cleanups after cookies and ice cream cones.

Census Survey to Reveal Number of Job Vacancies

How many job opportunities for household help are there in the United States? How many housekeepers, cooks, maids, day workers, baby sitters, gardeners, or odd job men are needed?

A sample of households in this area will help to supply the answer when the U.S. Bureau of the Census conducts its monthly Current Population Survey during the week of Jan. 17. It was announced today by Robert A. Tostoy, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office at Detroit.

Information furnished by local households will be combined with that gathered in 200 other sample areas of the country to obtain national estimates of the help-wanted situation in American homes.

In addition to these special questions on household help, Census Bureau interviews will ask about intentions to buy automobiles, houses, and major household appliances. Answers to similar questions asked last October revealed the American public was planning to buy these items at a high rate. The January survey will show whether the upward trend is continuing.

As in every monthly Current Population Survey, inquiries will be made in January to obtain information for the U.S. Department of Labor about employment in the United States. The January 1964 survey showed that, after allowance for seasonal changes, 3.8 percent of the 72.7 million in the Nation's civilian labor force were unemployed. Comparable figures for January 1963 were 6.7 percent unemployed out of 72.4 million.

FARMERS CAN KEEP POSTED ON WEATHER

Farmers in this area now have a "hot line" to the latest information on how weather may affect crops and profits.

The free service is offered by Anderson Fertilizer Company. It involves a telephone message that farmers may hear simply by calling a special number at the company's office. The weather number is Area Code 313-486-3410.

"The recorded message includes 90-second report on the effect of weather in this area, an important tool in planning for the coming crop year," according to F. C. Anderson, Jr.

While the basic message features soil moisture and other agronomic data, timely references are made concerning problems that may be expected as the result of weather conditions. In addition to local weather effects, messages also cover a broader regional picture for comparison purposes.

The recording is updated each Tuesday as a season progresses, reflecting the latest change in moisture and soil conditions.

"This is a significant advance in our Weather Effect service for farmers, a plan which has been in operation since late last year," Anderson explains. Prior to the introduction of the telephone service, company representatives used the weekly weather information in personal counseling sessions with local farmers.

"Such counseling will continue to be used in assisting customers to plan for maximum profits through sound crop nutrition practices, by the addition of the recording of weather messages will enable many more persons to benefit from the proven value of the data."

The Anderson recording is based on a detailed report supplied by an independent weather evaluation service which utilizes frequent reports from the U.S. weather bureau to supplement volumes of historical weather data.

The weekly report is developed by an electronic computer which digests the most recent weather conditions and interprets their effect on current and future soil conditions.

FARMER INJURED IN SILO MISHAP

A 29-year-old Lima Township farmer was seriously injured last Wednesday when his leg became caught in a moving silage machine.

Charles Trinkle of 9631 Trinkle Road underwent surgery at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor to repair injuries to his right knee and thigh, sheriff's deputies said.

Officers reported that Trinkle had climbed to the top of a silo on his farm to pull loose silage which had become clogged in a machine which was unloading the silo. Deputies said Trinkle's leg became wedged between an auger and an angle iron brace on the machine.

The machine apparently was still in operation at the time and moving parts crushed Trinkle's leg. His cries for help brought relatives to his aid, officers said.

Members of the family reported Tuesday that Mr. Trinkle is improving satisfactorily. He was taken back to surgery on Monday where doctors said he is responding to treatment.

RURAL ROADS IN SLOPPY CONDITION

Secondary and rural roads in the county are described as "sloppy" by Melvin Dick, administrative assistant to Howard G. Minier, engineer of the Washtenaw County Road Commission.

The wet and clinging snow that fell intermittently through most of Tuesday created some slippery road conditions.

Dick said there are a minor shoulder washouts and minor floodings on many county roads because accumulated snow prevented proper drainage.

He said a number of unpaved rural roads were muddy and the secondary roads in Lodi and Scio townships were in "poor" condition.

Michigan's Federal Income tax-payers who have dividend or interest income to report won't need to file a Schedule B this year. This information can now be reported right on the regular Form 1040 according to R. L. Nixon, Detroit District Director of Internal Revenue.

The second side of the single page Form 1040 has space for dividend and interest income data. Previously this information had to be reported on the separate Schedule B.

By Mary Whitman

The family crayon box is versatile.

Of course the youngsters wait first claim for their coloring books and freehand drawings. But some parents may find it worthwhile to keep a crayon box of their own.

Crayons have a great many uses for the workshop, the garage, for the family bulletin board and for household labeling," points out Alice Hanson of Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wisconsin.

New Whitman crayons — bright, strong and non-fading — come in forty eight delightful colors that inspire use by the whole family. In addition to the standard reds, blues, yellows and greens you can choose crayons in peach, violet, gold, silver, burnt sienna, ultramarine and dozens of variations.

Crayons can be used to make unusual place cards or colorful mats for a children's party. Planning an Easter feast? The youngsters can decorate. They could draw rabbit faces on hard boiled eggs in the shell, add rabbit ears cut out of colored paper, and stand the eggs in wide rings of colored paper labeled with each guest's name.

Even on non-party days crayons are useful. Want to remind the children about chores? Tape a big note written in crayon to the bedroom door or bathroom mirror or the front of the refrigerator. No one can overlook a message in magenta.

Crayons are handy in the garage or basement, too. Some can be used to label boxes of hardware, spare parts, or out of season clothing. The careful home craftsman who hangs his tools on pegboard finds another use. A crayon-drawn outline shows where each tool belongs, so it's easy to see if one's missing.

Crayons can even help plan dinner. If you label preserved or frozen fruits, meats or vegetables, use of different colored crayons lets you see at a glance what's in the larder.

Crayons won't replace pens and pencils. But their color and legibility make them cheerful helps at home.

To make toasty baskets for breakfast eggs, first scoop out the centers of unsliced enriched hamburger buns. Break the insides of the "baskets" with butter or margarine seasoned with herbs. If you like, then toast under broiler or in a hot oven. Fill toasty baskets with creamy scrambled eggs. Save the scooped-out crumbs for breading meat or fish, or adding to meat loaves.

Seafood dishes, always delicious, are especially popular during Lent. Here's an idea you'll want to try. Prepare a basic biscuit dough based on 1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour. Divide the dough in half and roll each half to an 8-inch circle. Place one circle in an ungreased 8-inch pan. Spread with a favorite, simple tuna salad mixture. Place second circle of dough over tuna. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in preheated 350° oven. Cut into wedges and serve with cheese sauce.

Auto Tourists Top 22 Million

The State Highway Department has estimated that 22.6 million tourists traveling by automobile took vacation trips in Michigan in 1964.

The estimate is part of a study of tourists using Highway Department Travel Information Centers, plus interviews with tourists at selected highway locations.

The study indicates that Michigan is already into the $900 million annual tourist spending bracket on the basis of automobile traveling tourist spending alone.

The estimate does not take into account the expenditures of tourists who enter or move about the State by airplane, bus or train transportation.

The report shows that the Travel Information Centers operated by the Highway Department served more than 265,000 tourists in 1964 up 21 per cent over 1963. Approximately two million pieces of tourist literature from public agencies and private businesses were distributed at the Travel Centers.

Permanex Centers are located at Ironwood, Menominee, Mackinaw City, Monroe and New Buffalo, and bids are being taken to construct Centers at Sault Ste. Marie, Port Huron and Clare. Temporary facilities were operated at the latter three locations during the tourist season.

The study also showed that:

1. Michigan is a great vacation state for children.
2. About one-fifth of the tourists surveyed were children under 18 years of age, but in June, July and August, the percentage of children increases to one-third.
3. Michigan scenery is a major tourist attraction.
4. The single most mentioned influence which caused the visitor to stay longer than he or she planned was "beautiful scenery" and "local attractions" and "friendliness of local people."
5. Michigan attracts a significant number of tourists in the upper income bracket.
6. A family income of more than $12,000 a year was reported by 21.5 per cent of the tourist parties using Travel Information Centers.

4. Tourists often come back again.

Of the visitors from other states using Travel Information Centers, 68 per cent said they had vacationed in Michigan before.

The Highway Department has been working closely with the tourist research study underway at Central Michigan University. The data from the Highway Department roadside interviews and the economic data reported by tourists themselves on questionnaires are being turned over to the University for further analysis as part of the Central Michigan University study.

The study of the tourists using the facilities confirms that Michigan is one of the nation's outstanding tourist states, that there is four-season tourist traffic and that the State is close to the $1 billion tourist spending mark.

More than 400,000 individual tourists are expected to be serviced at the Travel Information Centers in 1965.

Sense and Nonsense

How often have you heard someone say that dogs need lots of exercise, or that the city is no place for a dog because dogs need lots of space to roam in. Or, that a dog needs to wander wherever he wishes in order to be happy.

This is sheer nonsense. Dogs don't need a lot of exercise. They don't need to be outdoors all day, nor do they want to be. Your dog likes to be with you. If you want to walk your dog, you will go along happily. But if you prefer to sit and read, your dog will be happy to lie beside you.

Dogs who roam the neighborhood usually do so because they are ignored by their owners. They get bored and form the habit of roaming about. And once the habit is formed, it is hard to break. So don't let your dog begin.

HOMEMAKER OF TOMORROW

Mary L. Leeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leeman has earned the highest rating in the Manchester High School in the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Last December 1, senior girls in Manchester joined half a million others in more than 14,000 of the nation's high schools in taking a 50-minute written home-making knowledge and attitude examination. This marked the 11th consecutive year in which such a test, covering a wide range of subjects, had been administered in schools throughout the country.

The 1964-65 test formed the heart of the year's Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Together with teaching materials provided to participating schools, it was designed to help achieve the goals of the sponsor, General Mills, Inc. These goals are (1) to enhance the dignity and prestige of the American home; (2) to stimulate interest in home-making; (3) to emphasize the outstanding contributions to the home being made by high schools and high school teachers.

Science Research Associates, Chicago, an educational testing and publishing firm, constructed the test and scored the results. The Girl with the highest score in each participating school has been named Homemaker of Tomorrow for her school, and received a distinctive award pin. Then too, her paper has been entered in competition for state and national honors.

On the basis of the original examination, a Homemaker of Tomorrow and runnerup for each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia will be named in the near future. Each state homemaker receives a $1,500 scholarship and an expense-paid tour of the eastern United States for herself and school advisor.

Mary Lou is a Senior in Manchester High and a member of the Future Homemakers' Class instructed by Mrs. Keith Doelker.

Mary Lou has majored in Home Economics during her four years of high school and came to Manchester from Ann Arbor in November 1963. She plans to attend Northwestern Michigan Junior College at Traverse City and is now planning to study to be a Medical Technician.

RIVER WATERSHED HITS SNAG

A temporary set-back in plans to develop the Raisin River Watershed project could delay the development as long as an additional year, officials indicate.

It is the failure of the project to qualify for federal aid under Public Law 566. Arlo Benzmann, state survey chief said there are four basic reasons for the decision.

The reasons include lack of floodwater storage structure sites, distance of floodwater damage areas from possible structure sites, limited cropland flooding and flood water cost not economically justified.

The watershed area is top-heavy in recreation possibilities but the flooding problem is not as severe as many thought, Benzmann said.

He termed the decision a "temporary set-back" in the well-laid plans. He said the findings mean the watershed will not qualify for federal aid under Public Law 566. He said the project is "far from dead."

Mayor Harold Easton of Tecumseh, watershed president, pledged a new effort to see the project through. "We have lost some valuable time but we have gained experience and we will see the project through to successful completion," he declared.

Benzmann said possible recreation impoundment sites are located at Brooklyn, Manchester, Iron Creek, Sutton Road, Wolf Creek junction and Canadagua. None has floodwater impoundments, he added.

"There are 7,087 acres of farmland flood plain in the 678,720 acre watershed, but only 31,154 acres are being cropped, or about 1.44 per cent of the total acres involved. The bare minimum to qualify under Law 566 is five per cent," the report states.

Benzmann pointed out the assets of the watershed for recreation and public water supply purposes. He said there are many possibilities open for continuing the project through other laws.

Easton said the committee plans an immediate study of other aid prospects, including a new organization, the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, to find out how much help can be obtained.

SITE POSSIBILITIES FOR COUNTY COLLEGE NARROWED

The county's community college is likely to be built on a 300-acre site in one of six townships bordering the main population concentrations of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. This was the opinion of the college board at the meeting last week.

The area under consideration is narrowed to Ann Arbor, Superior, Ypsilanti, Pittsfield, Lodi and Scio Townships.

Later some members said that Ypsilanti and Superior Townships were "too far east" and students from the western townships might have to travel through two populated areas to reach the college.

Discussion on limiting the possible locations to these townships came after board members reviewed the areas of the five sites which have been suggested to them by land owners so far and traced routes to them from various cities and villages. Only two of the five sites suggested are within the six townships in the favored area.

The 300-acre area seemed to gain acceptance as adequate for the foreseeable future. One member commented that if there is more enrollment than can be accommodated in that space the board can then consider establishing a second campus. Another said that the board should not arbitrarily reject less space "until we see what we can do with it."

All five suggested sites are approximately 150 acres.

Accessibility to the college by a large number of potential students will be one of the main factors in site selection, the trustees said.

The post of president of the college is also under consideration. Among the criteria suggested were a PhD or EdD degree, at least five years in a leadership role in education, business or government, and familiarity with the responsibilities of developing curricula, staffing, financing, and construction of a community college.

Salaries discussed were in the $20,000 range with indications that the salary will be left "open" to discussion when the board begins interviewing candidates.

The announcement seeking applicants for the presidency will be distributed to the placement offices of major universities, the 11 community college leadership training centers in the county, foundations and professional associations.

The board will screen the applications to decide which candidates to interview and will conduct interviews sitting in committee of the whole. Interviewing may begin shortly after May 1.
