

To make tasty baskets for breakfast eggs, first scoop out the centers of unsalted enriched hamburger buns. Break the insides of the "baskets" with butter or margarine seasoned with herbs. If you like, then toast under broiler or in a hot oven. Fill each basket with creamy scrambled eggs. Save the scooped-out crumbs for breading meat or fish, or adding to meat loaves.

Seafood dishes, always delicious, are especially popular during Lent. Here's an idea you'll want to try. Prepare a basic biscuit dough based on 1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour. Divide the dough in half and roll each half to an 8-inch circle. Place one circle in an ungreased 8-inch pan. Spread with a favorite, simple tuna salad mixture. Place second circle of dough over tuna. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in preheated 350° oven. Cut into wedges and serve with cheese sauce.

Auto Tourists Top 22 Million

The State Highway Department has estimated that 22.6 million tourists traveling by automobile took vacation trips in Michigan in 1964.

The estimate is part of a study of tourists using Highway Department Travel Information Centers, plus interviews with tourists at selected highway locations.

The study indicates that Michigan is already into the $200 million annual tourist spending bracket on the basis of automobile traveling tourist spending alone.

The estimate does not take into account the expenditures of tourists who enter or move about the State by airplane, bus or train transportation.

The report shows that the Travel Information Centers operated by the Highway Department served more than 265,000 tourists in 1964 up 21 per cent over 1963. Approximately two million pieces of tourist literature from public agencies and private businesses were distributed at the Travel Centers.

Permanex Centers are located at Ironwood, Menominee, Mackinaw City, Monroe and New Buffalo, and bds are being taken to construct Centers at Sault Ste. Marie, Port Huron and Clare. Temporary facilities were operated at the latter three locations during the tourist season.

The study also showed that:

1. Michigan is a great vacation state for children.
2. About one-fifth of the tourists surveyed were children under 18 years of age, but in June, July and August, the percentage of children increases to one-third.
3. Michigan scenery is a major tourist attraction.
4. The single most mentioned influence which caused the visitor to stay longer than he or she planned was "beautiful scenery" and "local attractions" and "friendliness of local people".
5. Michigan attracts a significant number of tourists in the upper income bracket.
6. A family income of more than $12,000 a year was reported by 21.5 per cent of the tourist parties using Travel Information Centers.

4. Tourists often come back again.

Of the visitors from other states using Travel Information Centers, 68 per cent said they had vacationed in Michigan before.

The Highway Department has been working closely with the tourist research study underway at Central Michigan University. The data from the Highway Department roadside interviews and the economic data reported by tourists themselves on questionnaires are being turned over to the University for further analysis as part of the Central Michigan University study.

The study of the tourists using the facilities confirms that Michigan is one of the nation's outstanding tourist states, that there is four-season tourist traffic and that the State is close to the $1 billion tourist spending mark.

More than 400,000 individual tourists are expected to be serviced at the Travel Information Centers in 1965.

Sense and Nonsense

How often have you heard someone say that dogs need lots of exercise, or that the city is no place for a dog because dogs need lots of space to roam in. Or, that a dog needs to wander wherever he wishes in order to be happy.

This is sheer nonsense. Dogs don't need a lot of exercise. They don't need to be outdoors all day, nor do they want to be. Your dog likes to be with you. If you want to walk your dog, you will go along happily. But if you prefer to sit and read, your dog will be happy to lie beside you.

Dogs who roam the neighborhood usually do so because they are ignored by their owners. They get bored and form the habit of roaming about. And once the habit is formed, it is hard to break. So don't let your dog begin.

HOMEMAKER OF TOMORROW

Mary L. Leeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leeman has earned the highest rating in the Manchester High School in the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Last December 1, senior girls in Manchester joined half a million others in more than 14,000 of the nation's high schools in taking a 50-minute written home-making knowledge and attitude examination. This marked the 11th consecutive year in which such a test, covering a wide range of subjects, had been administered in schools throughout the country.

The 1964-65 test formed the heart of the year's Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Together with teaching materials provided to participating schools, it was designed to help achieve the goals of the sponsor, General Mills, Inc. These goals are (1) to enhance the dignity and prestige of the American home; (2) to stimulate interest in home-making; (3) to emphasize the outstanding contributions to the home being made by high schools and high school teachers.

Science Research Associates, Chicago, an educational testing and publishing firm, constructed the test and scored the results. The Girl with the highest score in each participating school has been named Homemaker of Tomorrow for her school, and received a distinctive award pin. Then too, her paper has been entered in competition for state and national honors.

On the basis of the original examination, a Homemaker of Tomorrow and runnerup for each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia will be named in the near future. Each state homemaker receives a $1,500 scholarship and an expense-paid tour of the eastern United States for herself and school advisor.

Mary Lou is a Senior in Manchester High and a member of the Future Homemakers' Class instructed by Mrs. Keith Doelker.

Mary Lou has majored in Home Economics during her four years of high school and came to Manchester from Ann Arbor in November 1963. She plans to attend Northwestern Michigan Junior College at Traverse City and is now planning to study to be a Medical Technician.

RIVER WATERSHED HITS SNAG

A temporary set-back in plans to develop the Raisin River Watershed project could delay the development as long as an additional year, officials indicate.

It is the failure of the project to qualify for federal aid under Public Law 566. Arlo Benzmann, state survey chief said there are four basic reasons for the decision.

The reasons include lack of floodwater storage structure sites, distance of floodwater damage areas from possible structure sites, limited cropland flooding and flood water cost not economically justified.

The watershed area is top-heavy in recreation possibilities but the flooding problem is not as severe as many thought, Benzmann said.

He termed the decision a "temporary set-back" in the well-laid plans. He said the findings mean the watershed will not qualify for federal aid under Public Law 566. He said the project is "far from dead."

Mayor Harold Easton of Tecumseh, watershed president, pledged a new effort to see the project through. "We have lost some valuable time but we have gained experience and we will see the project through to successful completion," he declared.

Benzmann said possible recreation impoundment sites are located at Brooklyn, Manchester, Iron Creek, Sutton Road, Wolf Creek junction and Canadagua. None has floodwater impoundments, he added.

"There are 7,087 acres of farmland flood plain in the 678,720 acre watershed, but only 31,154 acres are being cropped, or about 1.44 per cent of the total acres involved. The bare minimum to qualify under Law 566 is five per cent," the report states.

Benzmann pointed out the assets of the watershed for recreation and public water supply purposes. He said there are many possibilities open for continuing the project through other laws.

Easton said the committee plans an immediate study of other aid prospects, including a new organization, the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, to find out how much help can be obtained.

SITE POSSIBILITIES FOR COUNTY COLLEGE NARROWED

The county's community college is likely to be built on a 300-acre site in one of six townships bordering the main population concentrations of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. This was the opinion of the college board at the meeting last week.

The area under consideration is narrowed to Ann Arbor, Superior, Ypsilanti, Pittsfield, Lodi and Scio Townships.

Later some members said that Ypsilanti and Superior Townships were "too far east" and students from the western townships might have to travel through two populated areas to reach the college.

Discussion on limiting the possible locations to these townships came after board members reviewed the areas of the five sites which have been suggested to them by land owners so far and traced routes to them from various cities and villages. Only two of the five sites suggested are within the six townships in the favored area.

The 300-acre area seemed to gain acceptance as adequate for the foreseeable future. One member commented that if there is more enrollment than can be accommodated in that space the board can then consider establishing a second campus. Another said that the board should not arbitrarily reject less space "until we see what we can do with it."

All five suggested sites are approximately 150 acres.

Accessibility to the college by a large number of potential students will be one of the main factors in site selection, the trustees said.

The post of president of the college is also under consideration. Among the criteria suggested were a PhD or EdD degree, at least five years in a leadership role in education, business or government, and familiarity with the responsibilities of developing curricula, staffing, financing, and construction of a community college.

Salaries discussed were in the $20,000 range with indications that the salary will be left "open" to discussion when the board begins interviewing candidates.

The announcement seeking applicants for the presidency will be distributed to the placement offices of major universities, the 11 community college leadership training centers in the county, foundations and professional associations.

The board will screen the applications to decide which candidates to interview and will conduct interviews sitting in committee of the whole. Interviewing may begin shortly after May 1.

SPRING ACHIEVEMENT DATES SET IN COUNTY

4-Hers in Washtenaw County are involved in the busiest season of the year. March 23-25 is the County Spring Achievement program in the Ann Arbor High School and all winter projects are being completed for the event. Winter 4-H projects involve 144 adult club leaders, 219 boys and 586 girls. There will be 421 clothing exhibits, 185 knitting exhibits, 45 food exhibits, 69 conservation exhibits, 123 wood-working exhibits, 132 leathercraft exhibits, 29 gardening exhibits, 27 electrical exhibits and many other 4-H projects involving a smaller number of members.

Projects are now being completed by the 4-Hers and will be evaluated by 4-H leaders serving as judges. In the evaluation session, the 4-Hers are given the chance to discuss the project with the judge. This evaluation technique, commonly called "Individual Evaluation" allows the member to explain what has been learned, and what problems were encountered. The 4-Her receives direct benefit by hearing the judges comment. All 4-Hers will be given a "A", "B" or "C" rating and exhibit ribbon.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE HAS SPECIAL MEANING FOR 4-H MEMBERS

A popular and rewarding pursuit for 4-H Club boys and girls throughout the state is taking pictures. After several years as a pilot project, the 4-H photography awards program has just completed its first year on a nation-wide basis.

Well over 3,300 members in 1,241 counties qualifies for a county photography medal, reports Kenneth H. Anderson, associate director of the National 4-H Service Committee.

"This is a tremendous accomplishment in the first year of a new 4-H program", he said. The young camera enthusiasts sent in glowing and colorfully illustrated reports of their efforts. The 4-H Service Committee was one of the early planners of the program and responsible for obtaining the backing of the Eastman Kodak Co.

The leisure-time hobby has turned into a real help for school, church and club activities. Club members are supplied with how-to-do-it manuals prepared by experts from the Cooperative Extension Service and Kodak.

Last year Kodak provided $25 U.S. savings bonds to the winners in 37 states. This year the company will give $50 savings bonds in each of 50 states and a chance to compete for one of eight all-expense paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress.

The project begins with basic instructions in care and handling of a camera. Many 4-Hers say that they use their newly-learned photography skills to record progress in home improvement, conservation, safety and other projects. Three work units are now in use and cover subjects from holding cameras to developing film and enlarging pictures. Fourth and advanced units will be off the press this spring.

Attractive county medals fashioned like cameras are offered to the top four photography members.

In each county/ State and national award winners will be named later in the year by the Extension Service. Any boy or girl between the ages of 9 and 19 can enroll in a 4-H photography program, advises the National 4-H Service Committee. Contact a local club leader or county extension agent.

COUNTY DRESS REVUE PROGRAM SET

4-H Girls taking the knitting or clothing project are now spending many hours in front of the mirror modeling for the competitive modeling 4-H program. Themes for this year's Dress Revue are: Senior Miss Class "Reflections in the Mirror", Junior Miss "The Mirror and You" and Young Miss "Through the Looking Glass."

All Dress Revues are at 8:00 p. m. in the auditorium of the Ann Arbor High School. Junior Revue is March 23, Young Miss, March 24, and Sr. Miss is March 25.

This is the first year that Washtenaw County Dress Revues have included knitted garments. There will be many hand knitted sweaters and co-ordinated outfits being modeled in this year's style revue.

The Junior Miss Dress Revue, Tuesday, March 23rd will involve 150 girls between the ages of 12-14 years. Some models will be wearing knitted sweaters but the majority of the garments will be common outfits of jumpers, skirts and blouses, dresses or sports clothes.

The Wednesday night program features 270 models 10-12 years old. These girls will be showing the cotton skirts, simple jumpers, and, or aprons constructed in their clothing projects.

Following the Dress Revue program, the 4-H members taking Recreation project will provide talent entertainment.

Climaxing the week of Spring Achievement events will be Thursday night Dress Revue and Awards Program. Girls between the ages of 14 and 18 years will be modeling suits, dress-coat outfits, tailored dresses, formals. Most of the Senior Girls have constructed their garments with woolen fabrics.

Each evening an honor of 20 modeling participants will be selected. From the top 20 group participants, four will be named each evening to represent Washtenaw County in the Dress Revue at Greenfield Village May 15th. In the Junior and Senior classes, four girls will also be named to participate in the State Show Dress Revue to be held the last week of August.

The Dress Revue programs are under the direction of co-chairman Mrs. Lewis Haselschwerdt and Mrs. Clarence Reddeman of Chelsea. The Chelsea area clothing and knitting 4-H leaders are serving as the general planning committee.

Mrs. Mary Brewer of Ann Arbor will be supervising the nomination of her revue and nominators will be Susan Walker, Manchester, Cheryl Ernst of Dexter and Beverly Windell of Chelsea.

MEASLES! WHY SCARE US?

The announcement of the Michigan State Medical Society's campaign to vaccinate children against measles may come as a surprise to a large segment of the public who consider it a harmless disease.

Why, you may ask, is measles all of a sudden a dangerous thing? The fact is, it isn't sudden; measles has always been a dangerous disease. . . and, in some parts of the world, has accounted for as high as fifty per cent of the infant mortality rate.

In the United States, its great incidence—better than ninety per cent of the population will get measles and in all likelihood recover without complications—partially accounts for the belief that it is a normal part of one's childhood. Because so many recover, however, does not minimize the twenty-seven deaths it caused among 48,872 cases which were reported in Michigan in 1963. Reported is the key word not only here in Michigan but throughout the United States, where perhaps only ten per cent of the actual number of measles cases are recorded with health authorities. For this reason, its serious complications are undoubtedly more widespread than even the experts can verify statistically.

Measles can trigger fatal pneumonia . . . it can cause severe ear infections . . . and, perhaps most dreaded of all, encephalitis, which may result in death or permanent brain damage.

Until 1963, there was no protection against this most highly invasive childhood infectious disease. Awareness of its more serious aspects would only have struck needless fear in the hearts of helpless parents.

Today, thanks to the efforts of such medical giants as Enders, Katz, Hilleman and Stokes, measles vaccines have been made available to doctors so the disease may be prevented and eventually eradicated. In praising these men and their accomplishments, however, we often fail to realize that we, as parents, really hold the key to the success of these measles vaccines.

And while our names will never embellish the pages of medical literature, parents can take pride in their prominent role in medical history as another killing and crippling disease of children is erased.

CONGRESSMAN VIVIAN STOPS TO 'CHAT' WITH MANCHESTER RESIDENTS

Congressman Weston E. Vivian stopped off in Manchester at the Knights of Columbus Hall Saturday to meet Manchester residents and chat informally with them.

Staff members say that the Congressman plans to take time out every ten weeks to visit the district he serves and personally talk with the citizens.

action, must be launched."

Vivian quoted a letter which he had received from Sargent Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, in which Shriver said: "This summer it is estimated that more than 100,000 four and five year olds from pockets of poverty in 300 communities will be enrolled in eight-week sessions aimed at: improving their health and physical abilities; developing their self-confidence; providing a wide range of classroom and field trips; establishing joint activities with their parents.

"In short, helping these children overcome the obvious deficiencies imposed on them by poverty and prepare them to face life and school with a better chance of success.

"The widest possible participation of communities and public and private agencies will be necessary if the plan is to succeed. More than 20,000 professional, neighborhood and volunteer workers are needed. The coordinated action of public health, welfare and public and private school officials on an unprecedented scale at all levels will be required.

of Michigan, is a member of the national steering committee for Project Head-Start. He stated that Mrs. Wilbur J. Cohen, of Ann Arbor, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, a member of his Washington Staff, will co-ordinate the efforts of this office, in providing liaison with the office of Economic Opportunity.

"I urge every school district and every community in the Second Congressional District to look at its needs and its resources, and to ask itself where there are children there for whom this program was designed," Vivian said. "If the answer is 'Yes', then I urge them to contact either my office or the Office of Economic Opportunity directly. In any case, my office has been instructed to assign top priority to aiding local communities in applying for Project Head-Start."

TREE AND SHRUB HOME STUDY COURSE

Many property owners are bewildered when they start trees and shrubs for their home landscapes. Lacking knowledge of foliage, flowers and soil needs, plants are poorly chosen and planted in odd places.

Walter Haldeman of the Pennsylvania State University says dogwoods make excellent small trees for home grounds. Their spring-blooming flowers brighten a garden at the start of the growing season. Green summer foliage turns scarlet in autumn, and red fruits in early winter make dogwoods attractive plants almost the year around.

According to a Penn State Correspondence course, dogwood culture is easy. They like moderately rich soil, either sandy gravelly or heavy clay, well-drained but constantly moist.

Dogwoods grow wild in many areas of Northeastern United States. They are usually found in the moist spots of the wooded areas. But they are difficult to transplant successfully because of long feeder roots. Root-pruned nursery plants make good growth when moved.

Growing best in partial shade, dogwoods also need protection from strong winds to keep their foliage and flowers from becoming damaged. Their roots grow deeply and broad leaved evergreens, flowers and ground cover plants grow well around them.

AREA LIBRARY BOARD NAMED

The eight-member governing board of the Washtenaw Area Library System has been elected from among representatives of the 11 area libraries which have joined the system.

On the board are Homer Chance and Mrs. Howard Blackenberg, representatives of the Ann Arbor Public Library and the Washtenaw County Library.

These libraries will be permanently represented on the board since Ann Arbor is the reference center and the County Library is the headquarters for the system.

Chosen for the remaining board seats were: Mrs. J. C. Huston, Dexter Library; Miss Katherine M. Wohl, Ypsilanti Public Library; Mrs. Regis Wolinger, Saline Public Library; Thurlow Sanford, Milan Free Library; Ray Mailhot, Willow Run Library; and William Ladner, Howell Carnegie Library.

The first board term runs until June 30, 1965 when the McKune Memorial Library, Chelsea and the Manchester Township Library and the South Lyon Library will be represented and three current members will step down.

A system is a formalized structure for cooperation between libraries in providing services and purchasing books and materials, and state and federal aid will be largely funneled through such systems, according to David Wilson Taylor, county librarian and director of the system.

The governing board will be chiefly an arbiter of aid money distribution, and its decisions are not binding on member libraries.

The average book in Washtenaw libraries circulates three times a year, for a total of nine weeks, Taylor said. Having several copies of a low demand book in one central location would save the cost of a low demand book in one central location would save the other 10 libraries the cost of a book that sets on the shelf for 43 weeks of the year.

System resources could also go into building collections of films, records and recordings which are too expensive for many small libraries, he pointed out.

Member libraries stand to make considerable savings by having clerical tasks, cataloging and book ordering administered centrally by the system, Taylor said.

PLANNING COMMISSION TO BE FORMED HERE

A nine-man village planning commission will be formed here to study water, sewage, parking and other village problems.

The resolution creating the commission was adopted at Monday night's meeting of the Manchester Village Council.

The board will tentatively include Eugene Bentschneider, village president; the village attorney, another city employe, and six members appointed by Bentschneider.

Plans call for the hiring of a consultant to work with the village planning commission when necessary.

Floyd Wauhi, of the State Highway Department was present to check with the council on the use of state funds for streets-local and major.

Manchester receives upwards of $16,000 to be used for upkeep of the streets from the state highway department. This money is obtained from the state based on gasoline tax and evaluated by the miles of streets and population of the community.

Manchester more than matches the tax dollar refund by the state.

FREEDOM IDEAL HOME-MAKERS MEET

The Freedom Ideal Home-makers met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Koenigster of Fletcher Rd. with the lesson on salads and new package products.

The luncheon was prepared from some of these products, as well as others.

After the meeting a silent auction was held to add to the treasury. A large choice of baked goods and other items were brought by the members.

MAIN STREET

Wednesday was the day for "wearing of the Green" but it looked more like Christmas-even though our shamrock plant never looked lovelier. Just know it wanted to show off for St. Patrick. Now they tell us that the shamrock seed for the emerald green plant originated in Czechoslovakia!

The snow began to swirl around shortly before 9 a.m. and by noon two and a half inches of snow covered the ground. The hazardous driving warnings were issued for the whole area and in the afternoon it started to rain. Later it turned to snow again. But Manchester was lucky, some states had tornadoes and much more snow.

According to the Farmer's Almanac (so they say, we haven't seen one) we are supposed to have the heaviest snow of the winter this third week in March. It seems that the little book hit the nail on the head when it predicted our "big snow."

Anyway you look at it spring will officially arrive on Saturday at 3:05 p.m. according to University astronomer, Hazel M. Losh. She says that it will be nearly six hours late this year. Then she adds that in reality spring will most likely arrive much later than that.

Blustery winds reached 45 miles an hour Wednesday and the five day forecast is for temperatures to average about 10 degrees below normal, which, for this time of year is 41 to 45 degrees with a low of 23 to 28.

Regardless of the weather, Albert Frey saw a flock of wild geese winging its way northward last week Thursday. That is a sure sign of spring. Of course they might have heard about the spring fashion show and luncheon in town on Saturday. Milady will be all agog to see the new spring fashions which are being displayed through the courtesy of our two dress shops. Of interest will be a pink coat with a pink fur collar.

So if you want to see the latest fashions displayed by our own Manchester models, don't forget - the date is Saturday, March 20. It is not necessary to have tickets in advance. So says our editor, and she should know. She is working on the publicity angle and selling tickets at the door for the Business and Professional Women, who sponsor the annual event. The luncheon starts at 1 p.m. in the Civic Auditorium on City Road.

Since about Christmas time the Sutton Agency has been passing out fine new windshield scrapers to their patrons. These pieces of automobile equipment have been coming in very handy with all the snow and ice. It may interest you to know that Wednesday Don Sutton's car was parked out on Main Street. When he went to get in the windshield needed to be cleaned off. You guessed it. He didn't have a scraper in his own car. Borrowed one from the car parked next to his. Oh! yes! it was one of those new scrapers-clearly marked "Sutton Agency".

Al Gagè took time out Tuesday from his plumbing shop to go to Lansing to attend the Lennox school for dealers. All this to give his customers the best in service and latest in furnace equipment.

The Junior High Operetta will be staged next week Friday and Saturday at the Civic Auditorium. Don't forget the dates.

Some people just fail to have a sense of humor, that is, when someone else is dishing out the humor. They can't take a joke when it is played on them.

It seems that our publisher, George Koda, wants to apologize. He played a joke on someone, who, we feel was encroaching on George's private property. Well, anyway, George is sorry-if this person's feelings were hurt. Ever stop to wonder if maybe George was hurt a little too? It could be-especially because someone failed to respect another person's property!

The Learn and Save 4-H Club had a preview of their sewing projects. They modeled their garments for their parents at the Pleasant Lake School last Sunday. Besides giving their parents a chance to see their work a little ahead of time, it also gave the girls an opportunity to acquire more poise and assurance necessary for the big county achievement program next week.

Out at the Richard Carlson farm at 18500 Burtless Road, the family is busy watching their new Arabian colts. The Carlsons are introducing the Arabian horses to this area. In fact they are planning to start a riding club if they can find enough interested people. So if you want to join-or have your children-call Mrs. Carlson. She'll be glad to hear from you.

The other day we heard a bit of news. Seems that one of the local families enjoyed a weekend up north. They took along their electric blanket. When they came back the blanket was put on the bed and somehow the switches were mixed.

The lady of the house kept turning up the control-but she kept getting colder. Her spouse was too warm. He kept turning down the control. Finally, about 4 a.m. he thought he would suffocate. He was sure he was running a fever and promptly went to take some cold pills. He must be coming down with the flu. A check revealed that the switches on that electric blanket were mixed.

GARDENING CONTEST ANNOUNCED

Youngsters interested in gardening will have a chance to compete for a varied list of 100 cash and other prizes, in the 1965 Young America Gardens contest just announced here by Flower and Garden Foundations. This year the top awards are a free trip to Disneyland for older contestants, since they were started. Flower and Garden Foundation, sponsor of the annual event, is a non-profit organization set up to promote greater public and private interest in gardening. It has concentrated its efforts on young people.

This year's contest will require those who enter to plant eight packets of seeds furnished to them in the contest kit, and later in various ways report on the results obtained. Zinnias, marigolds, alyssum, cosmos, tomatoes, and radishes are among the seeds to be distributed. The youngsters are to work out their own planting plan in a 200 square foot area. Those from age 6 to 19 may enter.

To enter it is necessary to send 25 cents in coin (postage and handling for the seeds and kit), name and address and age to: Flower and Garden Foundation, Box 357, Rosedale Station, Kansas City, Kansas 66103. The name and address of an adult who will sponsor the entry should also be given.

As usual, the contest will be divided into three regional sections (East, Mid-America, and West) and ten-ager will be judged separately from the younger group.

OPERATION CLEAN-UP - Just a one way path shoveled along Main Street following the "big snow" of Feb. 25. These are more of the pictures taken by publisher, Geo. Koda, which he believes every one would like to see. Due to lack of space they could not be published earlier.

WHERE TO BEGIN? Road maintenance crew gave the Main Street a cool look, decided it was a job for bigger equipment and concentrated their efforts on the side streets.

WHERE TO DUMP TONS OF SNOW? End loader in the distance works toward one end-of-the-river. Dr. H. P. Eames, whose car is ready to meet most emergencies, found going pretty rough that day. Can you back it out, Doc?

KODA'S KORNER

As we peek from our korner and look up Main Street we are glad that the technical error we made in our editorial last week didn't trouble you. Glad you picked out the meat and didn't consider the information untrue.

Technicalities can be applied to others. If we choose to bring out all of the technicalities in the operation of village, we'd be running a daily instead of just a weekly.

We only wanted to point out that any body of governors can not go on forever with their attitude of "Well, we know it isn't right, but who really cares."

This type of thinking will only lead them up a path of confusion and misunderstanding. We'd like it known NOW that we are not all sleeping in our korners.

After last week we are sure that most everyone is awake!

Let's take into consideration these factors: First-we are not the conscience of the village council. We believe it is their duty to inform the public when and where meetings (pertinent to the well being of everyone) takes place. If they don't like us nagging for this information, let them come forth with good intentions and inform us.

They seem to feel that we must beg and nag before we get results. Well, my friends, we are getting a little tired of that old line "everyone in town knows about it anyway so why make an issue of it". Maybe someone's image in town might be hurt. Now we ask you, "Should citizen be denied facts simply because he didn't attend council meeting?"

We say "NO". Such a blatant request to suppress the news is almost too ridiculous to bother answering.

What we are trying to point out is that everyone didn't know what was going on. We would like to point out that the council is chosen by the people of the community----the public, and that public has the right to know what is getting for its tax dollar.

Whether this governing body received only a few votes and was unopposed in the village election or whether they were seated in a stiff competition is unimportant.

They are the choice chosen.

So we say to these well meaning individuals and progress-prompting people, all we want to do is report the truth...that is all, nothing but the truth. It can keep a guy awake at night. And from phone calls...letters...and visits here we are sure of something else-- John Doe wants to know what is going on, too. Don't forget - he put you where you are!

* LETTERS TO THE PUBLISHER

TO THE PUBLISHER

March 30, 1965
We are in whole-hearted agreement with your editorial of March 25th. And we are keenly disappointed that the D. E. Limpert Apartment Project was not approved by Council.

We believe Mr. Limpert has improved the appearance of Main Street and feel that any additional project by him would be an asset to our Community.

We are certain there are many others in our Village who feel as we do-and would like to know the Council's reasons for voting down the issue.

Perhaps it would be pertinent to publish the building and zoning codes at this time.

TOWNSHIP ASSESSMENT

The assessment roll of Manchester Township includes real estate and personal property tax assessment in Manchester Township to be $3,556,205 this year, according to Clayton Parr, Township Supervisor.

This compares to $3,442,005 last year. This is an increase of $114,200 over last year or approximately three percent. This increase consists mostly of new property construction, both industrial and residential, in the township, Mr. Parr said.

In a breakdown Manchester school district valuation is real estate, $2,493,180 and personal, $517,095 for a total of $3,010,275; in Clinton real estate is $313,475 and personal is $28,450 for a total of $341,925; and in Brooklyn school district the valuation is real estate $199,305 and personal $4,700 for a total of $204,005.

This means that over half a million dollars of valuation is in the Clinton and Brooklyn school districts.

MEMORIAL BY CLUB FOR MABEL PARDEE

The Twentieth Century Club met at the Civic Auditorium Tuesday, March 23 to pay tribute to Mrs. Mabel Pardee.

Mrs. Pardee, whose interests were many, was particularly interested in music, thus it seemed fitting for the Twentieth Century Club to honor her at their annual Musical.

The Manchester Varsity Choir, under the direction of Roger Morrison, entertained 36 members and their guests.

The choir presented the repertoire which they will be using on their spring tour of Western Michigan.

Soloists were Karen Dorff, Brenda Eames, Kim Swartz and Mary Lou Leeman.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Frank Reck, Mrs. Maynard Blossom, Mrs. Glen Robinson and Mrs. Fred Leeman.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Harry Sutton. Mrs. Henry Mjka of Jackson will be the guest speaker.
