

REGISTER NOW FOR NURSERY SCHOOL NEXT FALL

-by Marie Schneider

Now is the time to register your child for the Manchester Co-op Nursery next fall.

"This may seem a bit early, but under our present system and tight budget it is the only way we can operate," said Mrs. Charles King, in charge of publicity.

Parents who have had children in nursery school take priority until the first of April and then enrollment is on a first come first serve basis. So if parents want their names at the top of the waiting list it is time to contact president, Mrs. Glen Lehr Jr. or one of the other officers.

The nursery has come a long way since a few mothers got together in the summer of 1963 and decided that the community needed some type of pre-school program for their children. They visited co-op nurseries in the area for ideas. Finally, the Emanuel Church offered the use of two of their Sunday school rooms for the school and Mrs. Russell Wolff, a former school teacher and a Sunday School teacher agreed to teach. The first session of the co-op nursery was on January 9, 1964 with five children attending. Now twenty children are in classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. The teacher is the same. She points out that it is a lot of fun—and a lot of work. There are no report cards to mark but it is no small job working with youngsters who range in age from three to five years.

In the local set-up there is one adult for every five children. That is where the co-op part comes in. Each mother agrees to take her turn helping with the children. Unlike the local school system the nursery school is not limited in area and can take children from any place to enroll. One child comes from Clinton every school day and three mothers pool rides in from the Pleasant Lake area.

The school year follows the local school calendar and the nursery school children enjoy vacation from classes in conjunction with children attending the public schools.

"The correct name of our co-op nursery is Manchester Day Care Center, Inc. That is the name it is registered under. It is licensed with Social Welfare Department through the Detroit office. Because parents help with the program children can be enrolled at a cost of $5.00 a month. There is a registration fee but this is applied on the monthly fee. Parents agree to attend the business sessions and help work out the problems as they arise.

"One thing we stress," Mrs. King pointed out, "we want this program to be cooperative. Parents must attend meetings and, of course, we want them to voice their opinions. This is the only way a project of this type can succeed."

Those affiliated with the co-op school say that this type of program has been sadly lacking in the Manchester area and they hope that more parents will take the time and effort to see the school at work. Only then can they realize how much this type of school can offer by teaching children to share, to build, to sing, to play and work together and get them ready for kindergarten classes.

The mothers take turns furnishing juice or milk and crackers for snack time and the little pre-schoolers who attend bubble with excitement when they tell about the nursery school.

Mrs. Richard Kuntz was the first president and was very influential in getting the co-op nursery started in Manchester. Working with Mrs. Lehr are: Mrs. Clifford Elliott, Mrs. Ronald Fessenden, Mrs. Edwin Walk and Mrs. King.

CHINESE PHILOSOPHY: STUDY, STUDY, STUDY!

Marie Schneider

A Chinese woman finds living in the United States much different than in Formosa. Mrs. Wei Yi Ma is teaching Chinese at the University of Michigan on the invitation of Professor Alexander Eckstein of the Economics Department of the University of Michigan. Prior to coming here to study at the University, her husband, Wei Yi Ma worked in the Chinese Embassy and Mrs. Ma taught the Chinese language to Americans in Formosa.

Mrs. Ma told a group of women, meeting at the Methodist Church that she finds Americans much different than she had pictured them to be. She finds that students, for the most part, do not put the emphasis on study here that they do in China.

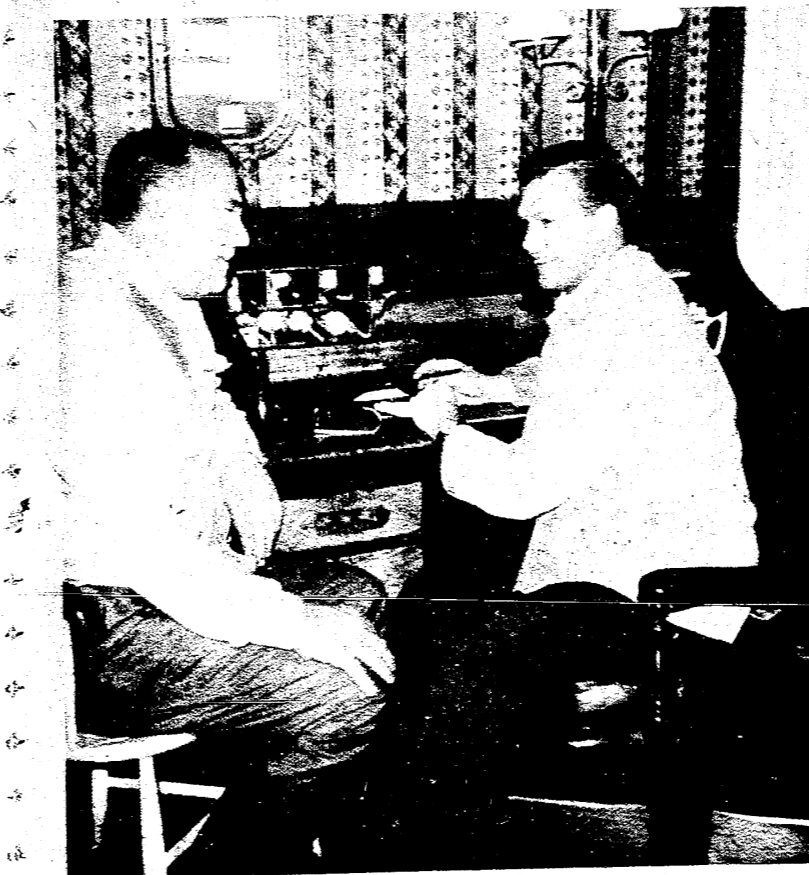

She explained: "In the first place every parent starts when the children are very young to urge them to study, study, study. This is very important because of the heavily populated country. Only those students with the highest scholastic records can continue their education. There isn't room for everyone. Realizing the importance and necessity for acquiring an education, if one is to be able to make a good living, each child studies almost constantly. Here it is so much different. Possibly children in the United States might make better use of the advantages which are given to them. To us, at least, it would seem that way."

"It seems to me that children here have too much free time. They do not have much home work to do, compared to our way of life. At home children want to study because they want to improve their way of life. They are taught from the beginning that the only way they can ever hope to succeed is through constant study. Here everything is handed to many of the children and everyone tries to make things so easy for them that they take things for granted. Perhaps this is not good," Mrs. Ma said.

She explained that the Chinese have great respect for the older people and just because the young people marry does not mean that they no longer seek advice from their parents. They still seek their advice, realizing that their years of experience has been a very good teacher. As a rule older people who cannot take care of themselves live with other members of the family rather than in homes for older people.

Mrs. Ma received her bachelor's degree in Education from Taiwan and her master's degree from Philippine Women's University. She taught Chinese for six years in Formosa while her husband worked for the Chinese government.

Some of the customs here are very different. She explained. Back home the women go shopping every day. Everything is served fresh. They never can or freeze foods. This isn't necessary because there are three harvests a year. She believes that American food flavor is lost by canning and preserving. Cont. on page (8)

BUDGET MEETING MARCH 7th

TV PROGRAM TO FEATURE

JUDGE SWAINSON AND MANCHESTER FARM

A television special presently scheduled for February 15 on CBS entitled "The Class of 1949" and depicts the present activities of a number of graduates of the University of North Carolina in 1949 and relates what has transpired in their lives since graduation. Wolper Enterprises has been awarded the contract to produce eight television specials during the current season. One of their production last year was "The Making of the President-1960".

Of interest to viewers of this program will be the Tuesday, Feb. 15 program, part of which was filmed in Manchester at the farm home of former Gov. John B. Swainson. The Wayne County Circuit Judge was a graduate of the University of North Carolina in 1949. Also filmed with Judge Swainson was Allen W. Schaffer, well known lumberman of Manchester and Jackson. Schaffer is instrumental in getting the Swainsons to locate here.

The University of North Carolina was selected after research into more than one hundred colleges and universities and the Class of '49 was selected primarily because this was the first post World War II graduating class. The diversity of achievement of some of the graduates was another reason for it included Andy Griffith, Vic Seixas, amateur tennis player—now a noted professional tennis star, former Gov. of North Carolina the Hon. Terry Sanford and Judge Swainson.

In order to record on film some of the daily events in the life of John Swainson, a film crew from New York spent three days with him recently. They filmed him in the capitol building in Lansing, the Wayne County Court Building, his apartment in Detroit and the farm property on Hogan Road in Bridgewater Township. Mr. Allen Schaffer, of Manchester, who was primarily responsible for bringing the Swainson family to this area, was also filmed at the time the footage for the forthcoming television special was gathered.

John B. Swainson lost both of his legs due to a land mine explosion during World War II. Upon being discharged from Percy Jones Hospital in Battle Creek, he enrolled in Oliver College in Olivet, Michigan. Due to a slip on some snow and ice in the fall of 1946, he was advised by the orthopedic physician who re-amputated his right leg which was injured in the fall that he should seek a more temperate climate. In March of 1947, he enrolled at the University of North Carolina, and was graduated from there with a B. A. Degree in 1949.

Rather than return immediately to Michigan after he received his Bachelor's Degree, he enrolled in the Law School and was elected President of the University of North Carolina Law School Association, the student government organization of which all students are members.

Upon graduation from law school, John Swainson returned to Michigan and in 1954 was elected

OPTIMIST CLUB ORATORICAL CONTEST

For the third year the Manchester Optimist Club is sponsoring an oratorical contest.

According to Ted Tapping, Optimist president, "We are still trying to generate interest in this project but like everything new it is taking time to get a number of students to take part."

The club president, who is also junior high school principal, is anxious to have enough interest in the contest to have students compete in a run-off assembly program at the school and have the top four or five students compete on March 14 at the local Optimist meeting.

This year's subject is: "Optimism—Youth's Greatest Asset". The talks are to be not less than 4 minutes and not more than five and will be judged on personal qualities, material organization, delivery and presentation and overall effectiveness. Working with the students locally will be Mrs. Mildred Breitenwischer and John Raffaelli. The contest is open to boys who will not have reached their 16th birthday by December 31.

The Zone 6 Oratorical contest will be held on April 21 at Mc Kenny Hall at Eastern Michigan University.

Working out the details for the banquet are representatives from each of the organizations in town including the Optimists, Jaycees, Knights of Columbus, Masons, the American Legion Post and the Chamber of Commerce with Ted Roberts the general chairman. Tickets are $3.00.

Council approved two building permits at a short business session on Monday evening. They gave approval for building permits to Ralph England for a family room at his West Main Street home and to Clarence Fielder for a new bathroom.

In a letter to council from D. E. Limpert he noted that it had been some time since the village engineering firm had been approached concerning sewer and water facilities for his property at the northwest section of the village.

The communication indicated that progress on the 12-unit apartment facility "hinges entirely upon the availability of these facilities."

"I am available for discussion at any convenient time and would appreciate some determination being made. Hoping there can be progress made on this project, I remain,

D. E. Limpert."

Councilmen said they cannot act until the engineering study is complete.

There will be a hearing of the proposed budget at the March 7th meeting. Work on the budget will continue after the February 21 council session.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS MUST BE REQUESTED

A General election will be held in Manchester on Monday, March 14.

Village Clerk, Lyle Widmayer urges people who will not be able to vote at that time and who want absentee ballots to make application for them as soon as possible.

This year the registered voters must sign a written request for the absentee ballots. The clerk warns that these ballots must be returned by 4:00 p. m. on March 12 to him.

The new law requires that voters must be registered at least 30 days preceding the election. Both tickets have candidates running for office in the annual village election.

The last day to register for the election is February 11 from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

CLAIMS FUND IN EFFECT AS OF FIRST OF YEAR

The new Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund is now in effect and claims for accidents which have occurred since the first day of 1966 may be filed by innocent victims of uninsured motor lists.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, chief administratng official of the Fund, said he did not expect any claims to be coming in for a while yet until possibly the end of the month at the earliest.

"Persons have one year from the date of the accident to file against the Fund," Hare said. "In any event, our Lansing central Fund office is getting geared up for business." The Fund's director is Robert E. Hall, Lansing attorney and insurance executive.

Hare said persons who have not contributed into the Fund since they have until February 28 to buy plates and make their contributions are eligible for making claims against the Fund.

Michigan's car owners were reminded by Secretary of State James M. Hare that they do not have to have their car titles to buy 1966 license plates. The previous year's registration certificate will do just as well.

Hare explained that many persons have a late model car and have a lien on it and do not have a title.

"In 1965, Michigan became a title holding state. All titles are sent to the lien holder such as the bank or finance company until the contract is paid off."

Branch offices had received many inquiries from persons who thought they had misplaced their titles when they had never received them in the first place, Hare said. Registration certificates are usually easier to produce since most motorists either carry them in their cars or on their person.

Hare urges everyone who has not already purchased his 1966 plate to do so before the last of the month when there are many distraught, angry persons hating the long waiting lines.

He noted that license sales are taking longer this year because of collections for the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, in some instances up to three times as long.

1966 WHEAT AND FEED GRAIN SIGN-UP IS UNDERWAY

The sign-up for the 1966 Wheat and Feed Grain Programs is now underway at the ASCS office. To help farmers understand what the program offers some of the highlights are outlined.

The program is entirely voluntary and the producer can take part or not, as he chooses. If he does participate he is eligible for price support and other payments. The producer will also receive $.30 a bushel times the yield established on his farm up to 50 per cent of his feed grain acreage.

The 1966 farm yields have been increased over previous years which will increase the over-all payments to the producer.

As in the past, producers are required to divert at least 20 per cent of their feed grain base from the production of feed grains. For producers with bases of over 25 acres there will be no diversion payment on the first 20 per cent diverted. This is a change from last year's program.

For the purpose of the price support payment, a participant who plants within 90 per cent of his feed grain base acreage will be considered as having planted his entire eligible acreage.

As in the feed grain program, the wheat program is entirely voluntary. A producer having a wheat allotment on his farm is eligible to participate in the wheat program. He must divert 15 per cent of his total allotment for which he will receive no diversion payment. The 15 per cent mandatory diversion is not a part of the allotment issued to the farmer. However, he can divert additional acreage up to 50 per cent of his allotment and qualify for diversion payment.

Yields for all farms were reviewed and adjustments made for expected yields. The use of current cultural practices and normal weather conditions were considered.

The value of the domestic certificates in 1966 will be the difference between the national average loan rate of $1.25 and parity as of the beginning of the marketing year on July 1, 1966. Expected value of the certificates in Washnetaw is approximately $1.31 a bushel. This compares to $.75 a bushel in 1966.

The maximum number of bushels of wheat on a participating farm which is eligible for certificates is determined by applying 45 per cent to the projected yield times the farm wheat allotment.

The acreage being diverted under winter program cannot be used for any crop or cannot be pastured.

Producers are still required to maintain acreage in conserving uses equal to the conserving base on their farms.

One last important requirement is that a producer participating in the feed grain and wheat programs on one farm is required to comply with the feed grain base and wheat allotment on all farms in which he has an interest.

All producers are urged to sign-up before the last few days. It is important that all interested persons obtain complete information as to his benefits. The deadline date for sign-up is April 15.

Can We Inspire Another "Edison"?

Somewhat — from someone — young Thomas Edison whose birthday we celebrate this week, received the inspiration and encouragement which led to the invention of the first successful light bulb — and the magic of electricity spring forth to change the world.

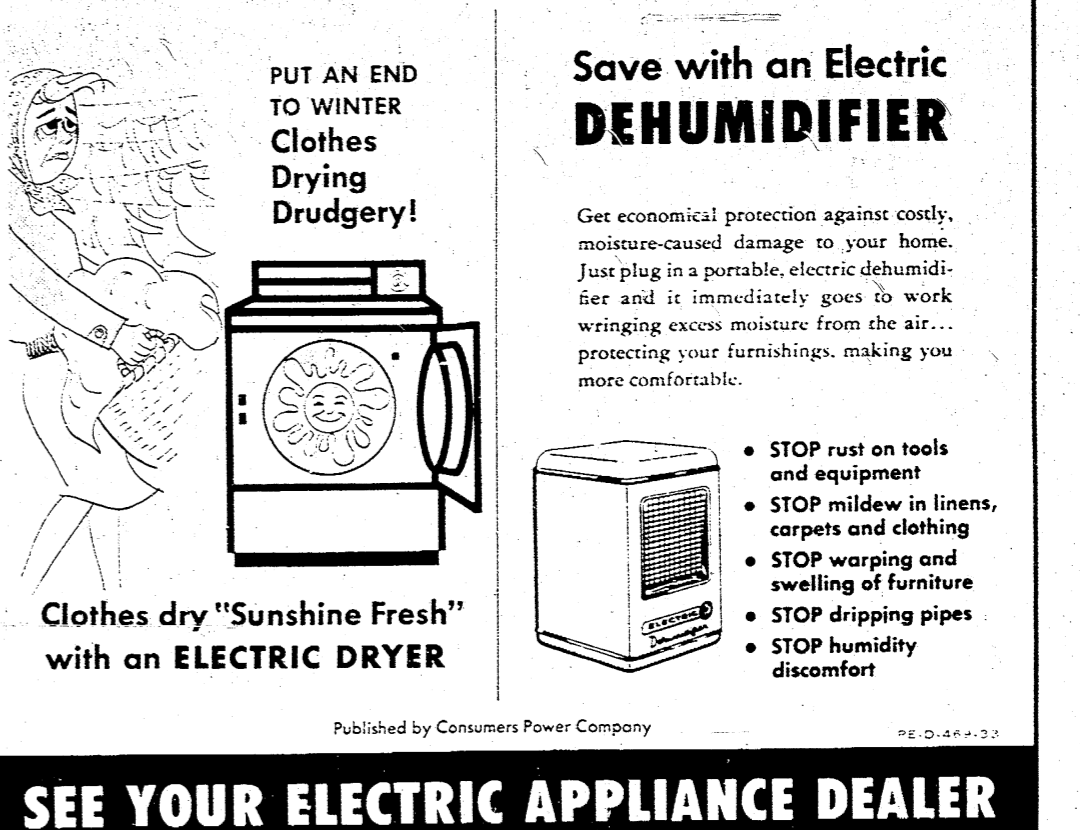

Like Tom Edison, modern youth has an inquiring mind. It is the responsibility of persons "in the know" to enlighten and inspire these youngsters.

Consumes Power, through sponsorship of conferences like the recent Youth Conference on the Atom, helps create a stimulating atmosphere for Michigan youths looking for answers. Sponsorship in other programs like the Junior Engineer Technical Society and scholarships to advanced educational institutions, also encourages science-minded boys and girls. Junior Achievement and 4-H support help still other youths to gain an insight into the business and professional world.

Youth deserves answers and encouragement and we as Consumers Power strive to supply some of the answers... some of the inspiration.

CHINESE PHILOSOPHY:

"At home we go shopping and buy a chicken. We bring it home and it is butchered and cooked. No animal is killed and refrigerated for days before it is eaten. You may not believe it but the flavor is much different. Try it sometime and see," she suggested.

She said that in the better restaurants when people order fish there is a tank and they pick out the one they want live. It is quickly killed and cooked and served at once.

She said that it is the hope of the parents in her homeland that the children can grow up and secure government jobs. For the salary is more than in private industry and their parents and grandparents are not too young.

Her own children have followed her and she has three are enjoying the cold weather in Michigan. She is enjoying it and never goes. From her observation she believes that families are closer knit in her country. Advantages here should not be taken lightly, they should be treasured.

We are enjoying the opportunity to visit and work here and a word of advice to youngsters might be that they should all take advantage of this chance to receive a good education—for it is something that one can take from them. Mrs. Ma concluded.

The John B. Swainsons Relax In Century Old Home

By Marie Schneider

The John B. Swainsons are looking forward to spending a lot of time in their renovated century-old farmhouse. This second home for former Gov. Swainson is a 165 acre tract on Hogan Road, 2.5 miles southeast of Manchester.

They say they love the place and find it a relaxing change from their Lafayette Towers apartment in Detroit.

Many people have wondered how the former governor, now a Wayne County Circuit Court Judge, happened to select the farm.

First, the location was right. It is an hour's drive from Detroit and also from Lansing. Swainsons wanted to locate away from the city. They hoped it might have a wooded area where there might be good hunting and, lastly, they hoped it might have a lake.

Judge Swainson said that he told the plans to his long-time friend Allen W. Schaffer of Manchester.

Schaffer listened and finally asked, "Did you ever consider the Manchester area?"

Schaffer, president of the Schaffer Lumber Company of Manchester and Jackson visualized this as being the right location. But he admits, he didn't know of a farm for sale which would meet the requirements.

It was Dr. H. P. Eames, who first learned that the farm which had been in the Martin family for just a few months short of a century was going to be sold. It was too much farm for the owners and they were planning to move to their smaller farm house down the road.

The local veterinarian had been alerted by Schaffer to help look for a suitable location.

Schaffer phoned the Judge and met him at the airport where Swainson boarded Schaffer's plane for a quick look at the farm. He says he was so impressed that he actually bought it before his wife saw it. She and the children were on vacation. They bought the farm in June 1964.

The Swainsons, their sons, John-Stephen, 18, a student in Michigan State University, Oakland, and Hans Peter, 16, and daughter Kristina Ann, spend as much time as possible in their new home.
