CHINESE PHILOSOPHY:

"At home we go shopping and buy a chicken. We bring it home and it is butchered and cooked. No animal is killed and refrigerated for days before it is eaten. You may not believe it but the flavor is much different. Try it sometime and see," she suggested.

She said that in the better restaurants when people order fish there is a tank and they pick out the one they want live. It is quickly killed and cooked and served at once.

She said that it is the hope of the parents in her homeland that the children can grow up and bring government jobs, for the salary is more than in private industry and their parents and grandparents are not too old.

Her own children have followed her and she has three are enjoying the cold weather in Michigan. She is enjoying it and never goes. From her observation she believes that families are closer knit in her country. Advantages here should not be taken lightly, they should be treasured.

We are enjoying the opportunity to visit and work here and a word of advice to youngsters might be that they should all take advantage of this chance to receive a good education—for it is something that one can take from them," Mrs. Ma concluded.

The John B. Swainsons Relax In Century Old Home

By Marie Schneider

The John B. Swainsons are looking forward to spending a lot of time in their renovated century-old farmhouse. This second home for former Gov. Swainson is a 165 acre tract on Hogan Road, 2.5 miles southeast of Manchester.

They say they love the place and find it a relaxing change from their Lafayette Towers apartment in Detroit.

Many people have wondered how the former governor, now a Wayne County Circuit Court Judge, happened to select the farm.

First, the location was right. It is an hour's drive from Detroit and also from Lansing. Swainsons wanted to locate away from the city. They hoped it might have a wooded area where there might be good hunting and, lastly, they hoped it might have a lake.

Judge Swainson said that he told the plans to his long-time friend Allen W. Schaffer of Manchester.

Schaffer listened and finally asked, "Did you ever consider the Manchester area?"

Schaffer, president of the Schaffer Lumber Company of Manchester and Jackson visualized this as being the right location. But he admits, he didn't know of a farm for sale which would meet the requirements.

It was Dr. H. P. Eames, who first learned that the farm which had been in the Martin family for just a few months short of a century was going to be sold. It was too much farm for the owners and they were planning to move to their smaller farm house down the road.

The local veterinarian had been alerted by Schaffer to help look for a suitable location.

Schaffer phoned the Judge and met him at the airport where Swainson boarded Schaffer's plane for a quick look at the farm. He says he was so impressed that he actually bought it before his wife saw it. She and the children were on vacation. They bought the farm in June 1964.

The Swainsons, their sons, John-Stephen, 18, a student in Michigan State University, Oakland, and Hans Peter, 16, and daughter Kristina Ann, spend as much time as possible in their new home.

LIBRARY NOTES

Recently there have been several changes and improvements made or are now being made at the Manchester Township Library. The Washtenaw County Library has supplemented the collection of non-fiction and reference books. Books on the Fine-arts, History and Technology circulate surprisingly well. Adult fiction circulates extensively and new books are constantly being added in this area. Best-sellers are always well represented and are kept on a special shelf, readily available.

Popular magazines such as Life, Look, Readers Digest and Holiday are subscribed to and are kept for at least three years. The reader's guide is very helpful when it comes to locating special articles in the magazines. Many citizens do not know how this operates and would be interested. They are invited to visit the library and the librarian will be pleased to demonstrate.

Mr. Tom McNutt's customers at the Silhouette Beauty Salon may now enjoy library books as the Beauty Salon is a pick-up station for books from the library. Books are rotated often and returned to the township library.

The Historical Room at the Library is always of interest to Manchester citizens. (Even with UMMA gone). Drop in and see the collection of old pictures, books, maps, and other artifacts of Manchester's past.

The Library Board and the Librarian are proud of the library and believe it to be one of the best in the area. The Board meets the first Monday of the month and anyone is welcome to come in and make suggestions.

A book sale is being planned for the early spring. If you have any books you would like to donate to the sale people in the community are invited to bring them to the library.

Library hours are: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 1:00 to 6:00 p. m. and on Wednesday from 1:00 to 9:00 p. m. and Saturdays from 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon.

Leslie L. (Bud) Rogers, 40, of Manchester became the fourth person to die on Jackson County Roads this year, when his car ran off a curve on Jackson Road a quarter mile east of Wolf Lake Rd and struck a tree.

Napoleon deputies said that the car traveled 150 feet along the shoulder of the road before hitting the tree.

Mr. Rogers, driving from his sister's house in Napoleon to his home in Manchester, was alone in the car.

PEACH BULLETIN NOW OUT

The Michigan peach-growing industry has expanded steadily to a yearly production of three million bushels since the first pits were planted near St. Joseph by an Indian trader in 1775. Commercial peach production actually began about 75 years later when 25 acres were put into production near the area of the first planting.

A new Cooperative Extension Service Bulletin, "Peach Culture in Michigan" examines the historical as well as the practical aspects of peach production in the state.

Written by Stanley Johnson and R. Paul Larsen of the Michigan State University Department of Horticulture, the bulletin explains the practical positions of peach production from selecting a site to harvesting and handling the fruit.

Special emphasis is given to methods of training young trees and pruning bearing trees. Many pictures showing special procedure for training and pruning are used. Other production measures receiving the benefits of the latest research are varieties, pollinators, selection of nursery stock and soil management.

This action makes no change in the diverted acre provisions of the program.

SWAINSON RELAX IN CENTURY OLD HOME

The inside of the 14 room dwelling was completely gutted and reconstructed into 11 rooms. Mrs. Swainson, with the help of a lumber company draftsman from Jackson, redesigned the interior without the aid of an architect.

A porch was removed from the exterior and columns added. Arched windows with their beveled glass windows were retained. The house is painted white siding with green shutters.

What was once a summer kitchen at the rear is now a large family room with exterior walls of field stone. "I call it the barn room because some of the wood in the room came from a barn on the property. And too, I like to get away from calling it a rumpus room, or even a family room," Mrs. Swainson said.

Material for the huge split-stone fireplace came from the Swainson farm. The large beam forming the mantelpiece was found on a nearby farm.

The two Early American style sofas in the room are covered with red and white small-check and draperies and valances are of deep red burlap with a beige-tinted scroll design above the hems.

A custom-built narrow drop leaf coffee table is as long as the sofas. The wainscoting is of lumber from one of the unused buildings on the farm and hand-hewn beams were found in this area. The new oak flooring is fastened with screws and pegged.

A rocking chair in the barn room is a replica of President Kennedy's rocking chair and was a gift from the former governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford. Mr. Sanford and Judge Swainson attended the University of North Carolina at the same time.

Judge and Mrs. Swainson share an interest in antiques. A prize possession is a lovely Welch dresser built in 1690 and was purchased from a dealer. It is a dining room accessory with three uncovered, narrow shelves to stand plates on and to arrange cups and small dishes. A massive piece, it has numerous drawers and cabinets. While the old Welch referred to the furniture as a dresser, it would be called a buffet or sideboard in this country.

Mrs. Swainson plans to make the dining room the only formal room in the home. Her plans call for Williamsburg colonial furniture, small sofas and chairs and a large chandelier. The room now contains less formal colonial pieces.

Above the rolltop desk in the combination master bedroom and study is a framed invitation from President Johnson to a White House luncheon. The Swainsons attended the function in July, 1964.

The chair at the desk was once in the House of Representatives at Lansing and was purchased when the state bought new ones.

The second floor contains four bedrooms and one of the three baths in the home. A brass bed in Stephen's room, decorated in shades of blue dates to 1840. Judge Swainson bought the piece in a small antique shop. It was green with age and repeated attempts at refinishing, stripping and polishing brought back its original luster.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
AT YOUR SERVICE
TO HELP YOU SELL

The modern kitchen has hints of older times with its two long cupboards curtained on the inside. An antique brass chandelier, made in Denmark about 100 years ago, hangs over the custom-built table of the same light wood which fashioned the coffee table.

Numerous cupboards in the conveniently arranged kitchen are of dark wood placed over and under light-colored counters. And in these cupboards are table service for one hundred guests!

Walls in the family room, dining room and kitchen are painted in off white. Predominating colors in the home are shades of gold and red. Bedrooms and the upstairs hallway are wallpapered.

Stephan plans to place a wing-spread eagle plaque, given to his father as commander of the state national guard, above the bed.

There are many, many little family treasures tucked away in the big farm house.

The small antique dresser in Kristina's room which has a rose and white color scheme, was a possession of Hiram H. and Lydia Clark Martin and their descendants who owned the home for 99 years and 11 months.

The Swainson purchased the home from Harriet Martin Mackintosh and her husband, Donald and brother Hiram Martin. Mrs. Mackintosh and Mr. Martin were grandchildren of the original owners. Mr. Martin died before he could see the renovated homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh now live on a farm near the Swainson home.

The mud room, so called when the house was built because occupants removed footwear there is now a utility room with built-in cabinet.

Judge Swainson hopes to build a track room in one of the new unused sheds. The Swainsons and their two sons are able to pursue their interest in hunting on their new acreage. Even their dog Rebel might enjoy hunting. One thing is certain, no one can fool Rebel when the family car heads for Manchester and the big friendly dog likes to tag along as the Judge and guests tour the farm in his gold cart.

Sharing an interest in hunting Judge Swainson and Hans Parer look over a few of the guns which for the present are mounted on the wall in one corner of the barn room.

New Stamping Plant To Hold Open House

- by Marie Schneider

Three local men who have done a remarkable job in promoting this community in many different fields of service will be given special recognition Saturday evening at an "Appreciation Banquet". Honored will be Eugene Bentschneider, Clarence Fielder and Ted Stautz. The event will tie in with the open house at the new Manchester Stamping Plant, which is one of two which the three men own.

Manchester Stamping Corporation got its start in 1963 when the three bought the business and equipment from Bramm Construction of Brooklyn. Until January of this year, Ted Stautz, president of Manchester Stamping, spent most of his time at the Brooklyn operation while Bentschneider and Fielder worked at the Manchester Tool & Die, which they also own.

The new Stamping Plant was built two miles west of Manchester Tool and Die, across the village to the outskirts at 17951 Austin Road.

Referring to the three men, Ted Roberts, general chairman of the Saturday "Appreciation Banquet" points to the fact that "every civic venture promoted in the village for many years has had at least one of the three on its working committee."

The banquet is open to the public and will be served by the Knights of Columbus.

Fielder and Stautz are both local boys and graduated in the Class of 1941 from Manchester High School. Bentschneider is the son of the E. L. Bentschneiders and was born in Jackson. He graduated from Napoleon High School in 1941.

The three have diversified interests and possibly this is the reason they enjoy working together. They are all tool and die journeymen and served their apprenticeship with the Ford Motor Company at the former Manchester plant.

Stautz and Fielder entered service on the same day—January 21, 1944. Bentschneider joined the Marine Corps in March 1944. After their term of service they all went back to Ford Motor.

In September 1952 Fielder and Bentschneider left Ford Motor to work at Ratel Television in Grass Lake. It was during that time that the two decided to go in business for themselves. So, keeping their steady jobs they decided to set up shop in Fielder's garage. After their regular work day the two spent many long, hard hours working in their garage shop—while Fielder's car was left in the yard.

During that time Stautz decided that his dish would be "Go West, young man!" He and his brother, Robert, equipped with combines followed the harvest from June through September, from Oklahoma to North Dakota. It was a good experience but Stautz was glad to return to Manchester, where he operated a milk route for six years. He worked part time at Double A Products and finally went to Ratel in Grass Lake, too.

Fielder and Bentschneider outgrew the garage set-up and were looking for a location to put up a building and go in business for themselves. Bentschneider was the first to leave Ratel and he worked alone in the garage while Fielder joined him on the night shift.

Stautz had some land, adequate for the building, so the three went in as partners, and Manchester Tool & Die was born.

DOUBLE A EXPANSION APPROVED

Construction is expected to begin almost at once on a $250,000 addition to the Double A Products plant here.

Council approved of a $152,714 building permit for the project on Monday night at the regular meeting.

President Eugene Bentschneider read the following memorandum from McNamee, Porter and Seeley Engineering consultants for the village:

Memorandum
 Re: Manchester, Michigan
 Sewer
 Date: February 15, 1966

On Friday, February 11 Mr. Limpert, resident of the Village of Manchester, called at our office to discuss the possibility of his constructing apartment units in the area north of Washington Street in the oxbow formed by the Raisin River.

The nearest sanitary sewer to his development is the 8-inch sewer in Washington Street which extends northerly from Madison. This particular sewer is connected in to the Old County Drain system which extends westerly outside the City Limits and then runs through the City and empties into the Raisin River south of Duncan Street. At this point there is a diversion chamber which diverts the dry weather flow into a 12-inch sewer which extends across the River to the pumping station. We pointed out to Mr. Limpert that this Old County Drain system periodically floods during heavy runoff from storms and melting snow and that the Village has had trouble with flooded basements in this area.

For this reason in 1961 we studied this problem and came up with recommendation for a series of storm sewers to remove considerable amount of the storm water from the Old County Drain system so that it would not flood. However, these storm sewers cost considerable amount of money and the Village had never proceeded with them.

We therefore pointed out to Mr. Limpert that we could not recommend that he be allowed to connect into the 8-inch sewer in Washington with his apartment development, but that we would recommend that he be permitted to tap into the sewer in Madison Street near the Post Office. This particular sewer is almost exclusively a sanitary sewer and runs directly to the pumping station so that there should be no problem in flooding or the apartment development causing any other flooding in the area.

We gave Mr. Limpert a copy of our master plan for storm drainage in the area dated, June 1961 entitled "General Sewer Plan Southwestern Area."

J. C. Seeley

COMMUNITY CHEST ALLOCATES FUNDS

Manchester Community Chest Board met February 17 to allocate funds for the agencies as listed and budgeted for the area drive last fall. All were ordered paid except Columbus hall in Manchester.

The public is urged to attend the annual meeting and to give opinions which will assist the board in forming policies for the coming year. There is also an annual election.

Four board members whose term of office expires this year are: Clarence Fielder, Mrs. Duane Roller, Clayton Parr and T. H. Tapping, Jr. A proper slate for these offices is to be presented at the March meeting by the nominating committee: Mrs. Franklin Reck, Mrs. D. D. Ludwick and Fred Leeman. Suggestions for board members should be given the committee by March 22, so all nominees may be contacted before the ballots are printed.
