

TAX COLLECTION GOOD IN TOWNSHIP

Manchester Township treasurer M. H. Wolfe says that of the $207,665.83 taxes for Manchester Township there is only $9,400 delinquent. This amounts to 96 per cent of the total. This the treasurer pointed out is about one per cent more than last year.

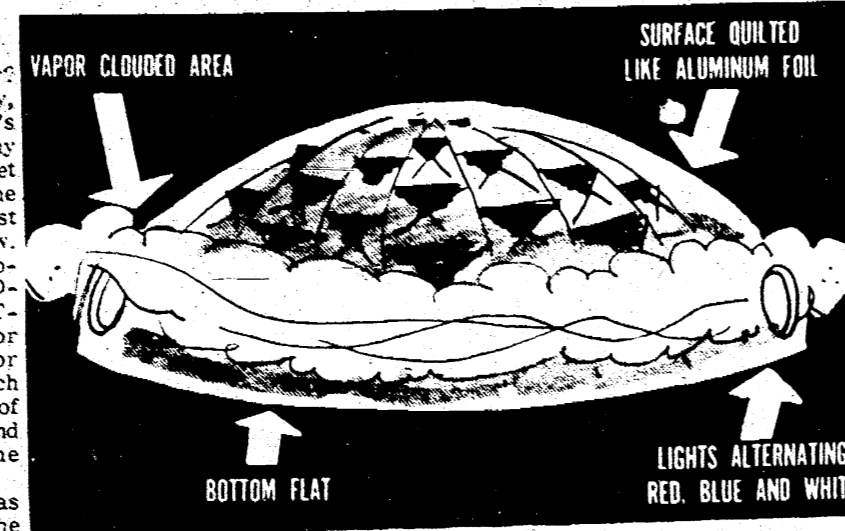

He noted that the part of the Brooklyn School District in Manchester Township for a total of $8,924 tax there is $1200 delinquent and this brings the overall percentage of delinquent taxes up in the township. In the Manchester School District the percentage of paid taxes is 96.5 per cent.

DUCK FOLKS - 'DEXTER'S' ON THE PROWL AGAIN

Why call it just a flying saucer? There's Hurricane Betsy, Gertrude, Alice, etc. There's Apollo, Gemini, too. So why not name this new gadget "Dexter." That's where he, she or it made her or his first landing - as far as we know.

Then again, "Dexter" is appropriate because, let's say Dynamic E-lectronic X-ray Transmitting E-vasive R-eactor spells out "Dexter," and for my money this makes as much sense as many of the initials of various Government bureaus and departments now carrying some fancy title.

But the point is, "Dexter," as we'll call him, she or it, in the future, appears not to be a myth.

Sketch of 'saucer' by Free Press artist Dick Mayer

There's something to it, to be sure. If there wasn't something to it, Wastawash County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey, of not too many miles from here, wouldn't be traipsing around the countryside searching.

"Dexter" is literally in our back yard. He, she or it has been sighted by far too many to be called a myth. Frank Manner, of McGuinness Rd., who claims to have been the nearest to "Dexter," and who has given a pretty accurate description, is considered an honest and trustworthy fellow, and county and state police can't all be wrong - so let's concede "Dexter" is a reality.

Keep your eyes open. Look for an object similar to one pictured here, thanks to The Detroit Free Press, who so generously allows us to use their first official drawing of "Dexter." You'll see a blue light, or was it green, or red, or yellow. It has two lights, one on the back and one on the front, or were they in the center, or were there four. It was huge, or is it small, or medium size. It will be flat on the bottom. No, maybe rounding slightly. There is a bubble in the center. No, the bubble is slightly to the rear, or is it toward the front. When you approach it, it will glow brightly - or will it fade from a crimson to a gay yellow. Beware, because as you near it, it may spit fire, or does it throw liquid. There may be little green monsters descending from a ladder attached to the hatch, or isn't there any hatch, or aren't they little green monsters.

Whatever, "Dexter" is here, and after scanning newspapers and reading reports, who knows but in the future, and near future, too, our own government will come up with an announcement of a new gadget.

We are happy "Dexter" selected, from miles and miles of land throughout this universe, this tiny spot of "Dexter, Michigan, in which to make his initial landing. To pinpoint a landing in our back yard may be a victory for us - or will it mean defeat. Who knows?

MOTHERS INVITED TO VISIT CO-OP NURSERY

The Co-op Nursery is planning a different type of program for parents who would like to visit the nursery before enrolling their children for next year's session.

According to Mrs. Charles Kirk in charge of publicity, the plan is to call for coffee hours throughout the rest of the current year.

Under this program mothers who would like to visit the nursery are asked to call Mrs. Glen Lehr Jr. at G-8-182 and tell her when they would like to visit and see the children in their regular nursery session. This, the officers feel, would "give the visitors a more comprehensive idea as to the working of the co-op plan rather than attending an open house."

The regular April 6 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Melvin Mahle at 1475 Austin St. at 8 p. m.

Enrollment is limited to 20 children and officers ask that those who seriously want to enroll their pre-schoolers should do so at once to avoid disappointment.

THE KULENKAMPS HELP CANCER DRIVE

-by Marie Schneider

When organizations want a job well done in the community it is not uncommon to think of having the "Kulenkamp Girls" do it for them. So with the annual cancer drive getting underway in April it was logical to ask the Kulenkamps to staff the envelopes and address them to people in the area. The Misses Kulenkamp have been doing this type of community service for more years than they care to number.

They are the Misses Emma, Lydia, Ella and Lillie. But on second thought, don't be confused--these women are only four of the ten living children of Mr. and Mrs. Elard Kulenkamp. Eight live in the Manchester area and attend services at Emanuel every Sunday. A brother, Henry, is custodian at the church.

"We really don't deserve any special credit for what we do for the community. Others do just as much. It just happens that we've all retired and can't honestly say we haven't time. That is, all but Lydia. She still goes to Ann Arbor several days a month to work for the engineering firm where she was a full time secretary for many years.

Lillie worked at the Deaconess Hospital as a secretary for years until her retirement.

Then they came back to Manchester where Emma and Ella had bought a house in town. So the four live together.

"We have never had a serious argument of any kind and enjoy doing things together. Ella likes flowers and enjoys gardening. This is a pastime which her sisters do not share with her," Lydia said.

The four believe that just because they have retired is no reason for them to set down and let the rest of the world roll by. They have plenty of interests--such as addressing the monthly bulletin from the church and hand folding some 500 of them. They have their typewriter and Lydia drives a car. This gives them transportation.

After Lydia returned to Manchester she was instrumental in starting the Senior Citizens Club of the church and has been president for its three year existence. She insists that this is no special honor and always says that no one else wanted the job. But the membership has climbed from 15 to over 50 in the three years.

The Senior Citizens are collecting cancelled stamps which they send overseas. They collect all kinds of greeting cards for distribution to various organizations. And the Kulenkamp Girls recall that when collecting for an Honduras Mission they were requested not to send any cards with candles on them. They never learned the reasons.

They have been community fund solicitors, too, even back on the farm in Sharon Township Ella and Emma took part in the program. Their home has been a meeting place for workers putting quilts together to be used later for distribution to needy families.

Lydia sends out the devotional books to service men. They are quick to add that their other two sisters in town do just as much community work as they do. They mean Mrs. John Trols and Mrs. Louis Grossman. A brother Otto is a farmer in the area and another brother lives in Grass Lake.

Civic minded Kulenkamp sisters are shown as they stuffed and addressed envelopes in the annual Cancer Drive. They are Lydia, Ella, Emma and Lillie. Shown with them are Mrs. Rolland Grossman, who heads the out-county drive, Mrs. Willard Mann, local drive chairman and new village President, Gale Koebbe as Koebbe makes the first donation to the Big Drive and Proclaims April Cancer Month!

TELL YOUR NEIGHBOR

Village president Gale Koebbe has proclaimed April Cancer Crusade month for Manchester and the surrounding area.

With the launching of its educational and fund-raising Crusade on April 1st, the American Cancer Society will begin a stepped-up program that could save thousands of lives each year from cancer.

Mrs. Willard Mann, who is the local chairman said the Society's immediate goal is based on the fact that cancer of the uterus, colon, lung and skin (to mention a few) constitute over 60 per cent of all cancer cases diagnosed and almost 50 per cent of all cancer deaths. She said that "early and adequate application of present-day medical knowledge in detection and treatment of cancer of these sites alone could save thousands of Americans."

Mrs. Mann, Manchester Crusade chairman of the 1966 Crusade are well underway.

Miss Lydia Kulenkamp and her sisters have addressed and filled envelopes voluntarily for everyone in the Manchester mailing area.

The Society spokesman said about 49 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer if present rates continue.

She said that reaching the families of Americans with life saving facts about cancer will require a large increase of American Cancer Society volunteers.

"It is the volunteer who emphasizes the 'Tell Your Neighbor' program of the Society-giving time and effort to spreading life-saving facts about cancer. It is the volunteer who saves lives where people live. It is the volunteer who raises money for expanded research, education and service programs."

Mrs. Mann said the best thing people in Manchester can respond to is the Society's 1966 Crusade message--"Fight Cancer with a Checkup and A Check."

During the month there will be a number of coffee hours arranged by Mrs. Glen Lehr, Mrs. Richard Knouse, Mrs. Irving Roberts, Mrs. Norman Bucholtz and Mrs. Finn Olsen.

A number of other things are being planned such as a Tag Day later in the month.

Grants in Michigan for research for 1965 amounted to $320,127. Included in this amount Michigan State received $25,000; U of M $109,237 and Wayne State $110-137.

In Manchester one of the proposed big fund raising events will be the Public Card Party on Friday, April 22 at the Emanuel Church Hall.

Annual Athletic Banquet Date Set

The annual Athletic Banquet which is sponsored by the Optimist Club and the Athletic Booster Club will be held Monday, April 25 at the Knights of Columbus hall.

The dinner is slated for 7:00 p. m. and reservations can be made by calling E. G. Mann Mill, Clarence Fielder or Chester Koechester.

Community Chest Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Community Chest was held Tuesday at the Civic Auditorium and four board members were elected.

They are incumbent Clarence Fielder and Mrs. Irvin Gill, Luther Klager, and Robert Swartz.

Officers elected by the board are: President, Edward Galloway; vice president, Stanley White; secretary, Mrs. James Baker and treasurer, Louis Vogel.

White was named to represent the board at the Michigan United Fund budget meeting at Lansing in May. Vogel was selected to sit on meetings of the Washtenaw County Red Cross.

Seventeen agencies were represented at the annual meeting.

It was reported that there is now a $1,415.28 balance on hand.

Colored Eggs Not New For Eastertime

When your children search for colored eggs this Easter, they'll be renewing a custom far older than Christianity.

Eggs represent the new life that returns to earth every spring around the time of Easter. The custom of exchanging eggs as part of the celebration began in ancient times. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs in the colors of spring and gave them to their friends as gifts. Some early peoples believed that the earth had hatched from a giant egg.

The early Christians of Asia and other eastern lands exchanged eggs at Easter. They colored the eggs red.

Elaborate decoration became the rule in some eastern European countries.

SCHOOL DISTRICTING VOTE SET FOR JUNE 13th IN COUNTY

The Washtenaw County Intermediate Board of Education has set June 13 as the election date for voters to approve or disapprove a county school district reorganization plan.

This plan will call for the primary districts of Braun, Frains Lake and Superior Township Townline to be annexed by the Ann Arbor School District and the Kimmel primary district would become part of the Willow Run district.

The election date will coincide with the general election dates of the school districts involved.

Trustee Albert J. Coudron said that the reason that it is being done at that time is to save the taxpayers considerable money by having this election at the same time.

A majority of the voters in the proposed districts must approve the plan and the Ann Arbor board of education earlier had expressed some opposition to the reorganization plan. This would be the product of the Washtenaw County Intermediate School District Committee for the Reorganization of school districts.

A committee was formed and developed a plan to insure that all county primary districts were incorporated into kindergarten through 12th grade districts. The committee proposed a plan but did not adopt it --whereby all county school districts would be lumped into one large school system but this plan was dropped when it did not gain favor.

The county-wide proposal has not been dropped and the intermediate board approved a resolution encouraging cooperation between the Washtenaw School officers and Eastern Michigan University to study a more effective reorganization plan including the advantages and disadvantages of a county-wide system.

JULIUS W. HAAB SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS TO RETIRE

Julius W. Haab, Superintendent of Washtenaw County Schools has announced that he will retire effective July 1. The 70-year-old superintendent's retirement will bring an end to a 27-year career as the administrative head of county schools.

Haab says that there has been a great many changes in county education in his long career. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan and had a 12-year banking career before working on his educational service which began in 1939. At that time Haab decided to seek the political office of county school commissioner on the Republican ticket. The position of superintendent did not exist at that time.

He defeated the 12-year Democratic incumbent, Miss Cora Haas, by a slim margin of 70 votes, 6,486 to 6,426. He took over the position of county school commissioner in July, 1939.

At that time there were 153 individual school districts in Washtenaw County. There are only 15 today, and if the next step in school reorganization is approved by voters this spring there will be just 10. This plan calls for incorporating five primary districts into kindergarten-through 12 districts.

In 1939 there were 14,358 students in the public and non-public schools. Today there are 44,112. This gives some idea as to the growth of Washtenaw since Haab took office. He continued as county school commissioner until 1947, when school commissioners automatically became appointive superintendents. This is the office he holds now, and is one of the longest on record in the state.

Julius Haab was born in Freedom Township on May 18, 1895, a member of one of the oldest Washtenaw County families. He was graduated from Ann Arbor High School in 1915 and in 1920 from the U of M where he majored in economics and school administration.

After he graduated he was head of the brokers loan department of the People's Wayne County Bank where he was "lucky and had the good fortune to marry the president's secretary". She is his wife, Louise.

In 1933, because the bank went into receivership as a result of the depression and because he was "out of touch with humanity" Haab came back to Freedom Township to teach its rural schools. He continued to teach in the township until his decision to run for county school commissioner in 1939.

He says that "Each succeeding generation finds itself living in a different kind of world with many fast changes. These facts must be considered as school programs are planned.

"As social and economic changes take place, and as the nature of those who come to the school changes, so must the curriculum change. Educational programs cannot remain static—they must be flexible and must be constantly evaluated."

POSTMASTER ATTENDS TRAINING SCHOOL

Acting Postmaster Marvin Kirk of Manchester has just returned from East Lansing where he attended the three days at the 5th Annual Postmasters Training School.

The school is sponsored by the Michigan Chapter, National Association of Postmasters in cooperation with the Chicago Regional Office of the Post Office Department.

This is a voluntary school that may be attended by any Postmaster in the lower peninsula of Michigan and entirely at the expense of each attending postmaster. A complete staff of instructors from the Regional office, assisted by some of the Postmasters, conducted classes in various subjects.

Postmaster Kirk of Manchester spent three hours each in the following classes of his choice. These included maintaining cash books, public relations, basic principles in Post Office management and requesting of supplies.

Postmaster Kirk states that these refresher courses each year not only help him keep abreast of constant changes in postal operations, but afford an opportunity to compare notes with and exchange ideas with many of the Postmasters from throughout the State who also attended the school.

An opportunity also was presented to discuss individual problems with the various department heads from the Regional office.

Mr. Kirk said that much time was spent in trying to impress on the postmasters the need for using zip codes in mailings. Mr. Kirk said that beginning January 1, 1967 all mailers of all classes of mail will have to include the zip code. The local postmaster said that everyone should do it as a matter of policy now so that they will be in practice which will be to their advantage when the deadline arrives.

The American Cancer Society has lifetime research professors who are seeking the answers to such questions as: Why do some individuals get cancer while others do not? How do cancer cells differ from normal cells? Is a drug being found to cure or prevent cancer? Today the Society supports 22 such research professors. Your contribution to the 1966 Cancer Crusade will help expand this research attack.

One Out of Two

Some 49,000,000 Americans now living will eventually develop cancer, if present rates continue. One out of three will be saved. However, the American Cancer Society says that one out of two could be saved without any new knowledge. An annual health checkup and early diagnosis and prompt treatment could accomplish this.

"SO HOW HAS EVERYTHING BEEN SINCE CHRISTMAS?"

CRITICAL SPEED AT NIGHT—55 MPH

A little-known fact regarding the dangers of speed at night on unlighted roads hinges upon the requirement of the Uniform Vehicle Code that auto headlights must reveal persons or vehicles at least 350 feet ahead. At 55 mph, the night speed limit in many states, a motorist requires 330 feet to stop his car.

This means he is dangerously close to being unable to stop in time to avoid crashing into a stalled vehicle or other stationary object on the road ahead. At 60 mph, with a probable stopping distance of 404 feet, it is doubtful that a driver could stop his vehicle in time, and at 70 mph he is limited to the unattractive alternatives of crashing or swerving off the highway.

These figures are based on normal, favorable conditions: dry pavement, absence of hills or curves which would further limit vision, brakes in satisfactory condition, alertness and normal reaction time on the part of the driver.

Any one or a combination of such conditions as wet pavement, vision-obscuring rain or snow, poor brakes, driver drowsiness or fatigue increases the stopping distance and reduces the safe driving speed.

The problem presented by the 350-foot visibility with headlights is seen more clearly when compared with the 1800 feet recommended by highway experts as the minimum distance a driver should be able to see in daylight on hills, curves, etc.

As a step in increasing visibility and reducing the hazards of nighttime driving, the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau recommends more attention to lighting of highways, particularly in what it calls the critical areas. These critical areas are listed as: interchanges and intersections; connections to service areas; bridges, overpasses and viaducts; transition sections, such as changes in number of lanes and traffic direction and toll plazas; dangerous curves and hills; railroad grade crossings; and approaches to urban or

The roots of America's national pastime go back to the year 1330 when milkmaids and farmhands first played 'stoolball' in England. A ball was thrown at an upturned milking stool, which the batter had to defend with hand or stick.

Then someone added 'bases' to the game; when the batter struck the ball, he ran the circuit of bases. This version, still called 'stoolball,' was first played in America in 1621.

The earliest written reference to baseball, as well as the earliest known illustration, appeared in an English publication called 'A Little Pretty Pocket Book.' Published in London in 1744, it contained pictures showing crude posts that served as bases.

COUNTY JUVENILE HOME GETS COURT

Practically everything is wrong with the Washtenaw County Juvenile Detention Home from the basic floor plan to the court decision of who is placed there, according to a study for Project 74 by a representative of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The report's author, Gordon D. Nelson of the Children's Bureau, does single out for praise the home's superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Shanahan.

"They are to be greatly commended for the warm atmosphere and generally constructive care provided in the home despite many inadequacies in the building, limitations in staffing, and weaknesses in processing," Nelson said.

To improve processing of cases going into detention, the court should have around-the-clock intake coverage to determine if a child should be detained, it should set forth admission standards so that the police, court workers, and public will understand when detention is essential, and cases where youths are detained should be handled ahead of those who can await disposition in their own homes.

Dependent or neglected children who are sometimes placed in the detention home because of their home problems should never be held in detention but should be given shelter care by the State Department of Social Services or private social agencies.

Children receiving clinical study to determine if they need hospitalization should be treated as out-patients when secure custody is not needed for them.

A number of children who have been committed to state hospitals or other psychiatric facilities are now being held for long times awaiting admission.

Every effort should be made to get those who are emotionally disturbed into medical setting immediately on an emergency basis rather than having them pass through detention enroute just because they are under juvenile court jurisdiction on a delinquency charge.

Most controversial of Nelson's recommendation arises from his observation that many children are kept for long periods in detention after being committed to a state training school or hospital.

These long stays after a commitment, due to state institutions having control over when they will take a child, results in deterioration of the child while awaiting acceptance, he said.

The county should press that state to take children immediately on commitment. If the state refuses to accept them, these children should be released pending acceptance. "As long as detention is abused through serving a 'cold storage' function, the state is less likely to meet its obligation fully. The system as presently operated is extremely unjust to the children who experience this dead time in detention and is defeating sound rehabilitative processes," Nelson said.

Gov. Romney has recently announced that the state accept delinquents as soon as they are committed by the courts. Also the Boys' Training School in Whitmore Lake is scheduled to open a 150-bed wing in May.

But how open this policy can remain to be seen. Right now that institution has a 50-bed unit it cannot open because it has been unable to employ staff.

Nelson recommends that the county promote state responsibility for detention planning and that the county promote contractual agreements with surrounding counties to purchase detention care and proceed to build a facility which can offer a fully approved program.

While working on these goals, the court should try to reduce admissions to detention by better screening and thus reconvert the bedrooms created in 1964 to activity space.

The staffing pattern should be revised, the superintendent should live away from the home, be paid straight salary and have full administrative responsibilities for the home, his apartment should be converted to a boys' dayroom, a fenced playground twice the size of the present play area should be adjacent to the home with entrance from the day room, a school program with two special teachers should be provided and intercom system added, and a full time nurse should be put on the staff with a doctor on call.

Children should be in detention only if they require secure custody for the protection of others or of themselves, Nelson said. Granting passes for home visits or special occasions is not consistent with proper use of detention.

He also stresses the importance of parental visits which have been curtailed since the 1964 remodeling.

The school program, now limited to a half-time teacher from the Ann Arbor Public Schools, is under study by the Board of Supervisors which hopes to provide two full-time special education teachers and two portable classrooms as recommended by the County Intermediate School District.

THE KULENKAMPS HELP CANCER DRIVE

Last year the four sisters went to Florida to see their eldest sister, Mrs. Julia Enquist, who resides in Florida. It is obvious that they are a closely knit family and enjoy being together.

"Why, I really don't think anyone should make a fuss about us doing this work on the cancer drive. We've been doing it for sometime. Why shouldn't we? We have the time necessary to do it," Lydia said.

The three storage areas of the home - attic, basement, closets - are the spots where 16.4% of all dwelling fires originate, according to National Fire Protection Association studies.

HOW TO CELEBRATE EASTER AND CHRISTMAS

"We'll have Christmas at Easter," Mrs. Floyd Schiel promised her son, SP/4 Charles Schiel. He was stationed in Viet Nam near Phuoc Vink, a jungle town at Christmas time. In fact he spent six months there as a truck driver. He was discharged at Oakland, California and awarded the Good Conduct and Viet Nam Service medals. Last Saturday he arrived at Willow Run.

Charles finds that the weather here is cooperating with the Christmas plans for Sunday. A neighbor, Stanley Pam cut a Scotch pine for him. The temperature at Viet Nam for the Christmas holidays soared to 120 degrees. "Of all the things which were sent to me while in the service I appreciated most having them send Kool Aid. There we used it to flavor the water so we could drink it. They have so much chlorine in it that it fairly burns your throat. The food was both poorly prepared and scarce. Sometimes native girls would bring oranges and another kind of fruit which somewhat resembled strawberries. "We were lucky and had good laundry service. The native girls would pick up the laundry on one day and return it clean and pressed the next day. If we forgot and left anything in the pockets these things would be returned too," Charles said.

Another interesting thing he mentioned was the type of flat iron which the natives use. First, there is no electricity. But the natives have flat irons in which they build a charcoal fire to keep the irons hot.

Every serviceman had his own handle for light but when they got to the big guns the candles flew out.

"This didn't trouble me for I hardly ever had a candle lighted. In the six months I was in Viet Nam I slept in a bunk only 13 nights," the 24-year-old soldier said.

He recalled that on Christmas day had a very good turkey dinner that he applied to Christmas only.

At the family gathering Sunday, Mrs. Schiel will be entertaining Charles' sisters, the Robert Richmonds of Brighton and the William Hainstocks of Manchester.

PLEASANT LAKE PTA MEETS APRIL 12

New officers have been elected for next year as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Paul Boehler; Father Vice president, Lynn Voegeding; Mother Vice president, Mrs. Gilbert Luck; Teacher-Vice president, Mrs. Willard Hanks; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Theodore Guenber; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Lynn Voegeding and Treasurer, Walter Grothe.

TB TESTING SET FOR APRIL 20

The annual Tuberculosis testing program for all 9th graders and adult school personnel (including faculty, bus drivers and maintenance men) will be done by a team from the Southeast Michigan Tuberculosis Detection Project.

Testing will be done on April 20 starting at 1:00 p.m. at Manchester High School and ending will be done April 22 in the early afternoon.

It is not necessary to repeat a Perculin test on persons who have had a positive reaction to the test. X-ray follow-up of tuberculin reactors and their associates will be done through the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Clinic.

EASTER EGG HUNT SET FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 9

The annual Jaycee sponsored Easter Egg Hunt will be held at Carr Park at 2:00 p.m. Saturday. All pre-school children and those through the fourth grade are invited to hunt for some 2,000 eggs which have been donated by Klager Hatchery.

In addition there will be some prize eggs which will be clearly marked for extra prizes to be given by the Jaycees.

Ray Tirb, in charge of publicity asks that children bring some type of container or basket to put their eggs in. He pointed out that it is pretty hard for little folks to juggle a dozen eggs or more without a basket.

Of course there is a prize for the one who finds the most eggs.

Easter Sunday Services

She is the executive secretary of the association. A busy and interesting itinerary is being planned for those attending. At this time the School of the Year Award will be given. There will also be contests for Make-up and talent. A pageant by the students will be another highlight. The annual election of officers is also on the agenda. Some of the modeling techniques of Europe will be discussed by Peter Glenn of New York, publisher of the Madison Avenue Handbook. Mary Gordon of TWA airlines will instruct the directors of schools on how to prepare the stewardess for airlines. Colin Fox, internationally known male model will also appear on the program.

APPOINTED TO FILL UNEXPIRED TERM

Council here has approved the appointment of James Bauer to fill the unexpired term of Gale Koebbe on the council seat.

JAMES E. BAUER

The one-year vacancy occurred when Koebbe was elected village president. Koebbe said he believed the spot should be given to Bauer, "Because Bauer was interested enough in the village affairs to run for office in the annual election and there were 108 people who voted for him. It seems to me that he deserves the spot."

The Monday night council meeting was opened by prayer by the Rev. Fr. Raymond Schlinkert.
