SERVICEMAN WRITES HOME

Pvt. Ray Wurster writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wurster from Germany: May 29, 1966

Dear Mom and Dad: Guess the only way to write this letter is to give you a step by step account of the trip.

Thursday, May 26 We got up at 4 a. m. Between 4 and 5 a. m. we turned in our linen and ate breakfast. At 5:45 a. m. we left to be checked out for the last time.

We arrived at the airport at 7 a. m. and checked out at 8:15 a. m. for Philadelphia, Pa. We flew over the Indianapolis Speedway but couldn't see much because of the altitude. We were flying at 15,000 feet. Arriving at the airport at 11:30 a. m. we took a bus to Fort McGuire Air Force Base in Wrightstown, New Jersey.

Friday, May 27 We left the McGuire Base at 1 a. m. Flying at 34,000 ft. we didn't have much of a chance to see London for the clouds. They said the temperature was 75 degrees below zero and the plane was traveling at 600 MPH.

We arrived at Frankfurt, Germany at 7:05 a. m. your time which is 1:05 p. m. here. We are 6 hours ahead of you! It took an hour to claim baggage at the terminal. And about midnight we got to bed. It takes sometime to get our linens etc.

Saturday, May 28 We got up at 5:30 a. m., not much sleep. Hanau is about an hour from Frankfurt. Both the Chaplain and the Major gave us a talk. They actually served us coffee and donuts. We had a good conversation with the major and a sergeant once the lecture was over.

After chow we left for Wildflecken, one of Hitler's strong holds. This is where he trained his storm troops. This is the strong hold that Patton never realized existed until he was fifty miles past it. Patton was down in the valley when he went by and it was very well camouflaged. The hooks in the roof that were used to hang the camouflaging can still be seen. This place is known as "The Hill" and is situated on a hill. The scenery from this point is beautiful. Now I can see why this is called God's Country--looking at the scenery, that is what it is.

Went to the EM Club and there was some good entertainment. This included a band and a floor show that was pretty good. They had all kinds of mixed drinks and beer. Both are cheap compared to prices back home. Before this we ate chow and got acquainted with the post. It isn't big, but we still didn't get to see it all.

Tuesday we process and after this we get a permanent company. To make sure that I wouldn't forget anything I took a few notes. As you can see by this letter I arrived safely with no problems whatsoever. After Tuesday I hope to have a permanent address. I will write to you as soon as I find out what it is. I am in need of sleep and hope to get some tomorrow. There isn't much to do until Tuesday. I'll want you to send my German book as soon as I find out what the mail service is.

Sunday, May 29 I didn't get up until noon. It seemed good as I needed sleep. I looked around the post in the afternoon and went to the 6:30 p. m. show. After that we went to the EM Club and listened to the band until it closed at 10:45 p. m. Will write more tomorrow.

Monday, May 30 Here it is early afternoon. No, I didn't just get up if that is what you are thinking. But I did sleep until shortly before 10 a. m. For the present there isn't much else to do. But all this will change on Tuesday and it will be a welcome change. This is getting a little boring.

Tuesday, May 31 Today we went to personnel to find out where we were going and what we are going to be doing.

The one sergeant said he would like to know if I would like to get into maintenance and I told him that I would as it is working with trucks and wheeled vehicles in one section and in the other you work on heavy equipment. I don't know yet if this is what I'm going to be doing as they sent five of us to D Company which is located at Badnauersfeld. This to us is interesting because it is within 10 miles of the Czechoslovakian border.

If everything works out right I'll be a maintenance man down here. I hope this is what I get, as the work seems as if it would be interesting or should I say that it is the type of work I think I would like.

By the time this letter reaches you I'll be back as we have a 26 day training period up there. This will be about the same that we had in AIF. Thought I was out of it temporarily. Ha! Ha!

Wednesday, June 1 Happy Birthday, sister. Thought that I would forget, didn't you? Well, I didn't. Feels that a surprise!

Today they issued us most of our equipment and tomorrow we start in the field for 20 some days. We stay in the barracks at Wildflecken. They told me today that I was to get on the job training as a mechanic. This includes both gasoline motors and engines. Funny thing about the army, they train you in one thing and then put you in something else.

On this field trip we take almost everything that we have. About the only thing you don't take is your dress uniform and we are even taking one pair of dress clothes.

My address is: Pvt. Ray E. Wurster, US 55867331 Co. D, 54th Engr. Bn. APO, New York 09171

I'll bring this letter to a close. This will be the first and last time I'll write until I return from the field. Write, when you can even if I don't as I'll receive your letters when we are on the field.

Love, Ray

LAMB FUND HITS 7,000, MARK

At this time $7,009.92 has been collected by residents of Manchester and Chelsea to help Melvin Lamb family defray expenses involved in a kidney transplant operation.

Melvin "Red" Lamb and his Jeanette are at present staying in an apartment across from the Cleveland Clinic while he awaits word that a possible kidney will be available.

He is at the top of the list for transplant.

According to his sister, Mrs. Melvin Wurster, who spent the weekend with the Lambs, he is in good spirits. In a telephone conversation with him Wednesday night he said he was suffering from heat. This, she said, causes him to perspire and his blood pressure to go down. At this time doctors have ordered more liquids and small amounts of potato chips to help intake to increase the blood pressure.

It had been hoped that Lamb might receive a kidney this week following an accident in which a year-old boy died, but the parents refused to permit the transplant, Mrs. Wurster said.

The Union Savings Bank here had been set up for the 31-year-old Manchester resident, the father's vice president, Dan Boutell stated that the fund now stands at $6,367.92. A similar fund has been set up at the Chelsea State Bank which reports a total of $1,000 at this time. Chelsea has had a concentrated fund raising effort Chelsea bank officials said.

The largest fund raising project of the dance held at the High School by the alumni classes of 1944 and 1955 of which Mr. and Mrs. Lamb were members.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wab who were co-chairmen of committee the dance netted $600. Next largest contribution came from the community breakfast sponsored by the local Legion Auxiliary and to which the churches of the area contributed help. According to Sutton, Legion Chairman, breakfast netted $1,001 with an additional $15 to be added.

According to Rev. Ralph Stermer of Emanuel United Church Christ, who is treasurer of the fund and instrumental in launching the campaign, the rest of the money raised was from civic organizations and firms and private donations.

Results of a dance held in Bridgewater are not available at this time.

Lamb's two children are presently staying with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Layer, of Bethel Church Rd. Their parents are in Cleveland.

Lamb's condition is the result of childhood illness. He had been having trouble last October and since that time was hospitalized at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor and later moved to the Cleveland Clinic where his kidneys were rechecked Friday, May 27. Since that time he has had to use the dialysis machine twice a week.

Chicken Broil Committee Detail Plans

Special longer pits (300 ft.) have been built to give Faster Service. Less waiting. Fantastic attention is given as...

3500 Michigan broilers, large halves, slow-broiled and butter-basted at one time, under the supervision of Dr. Zindel, Michigan State Poultry Department.

GLASS BLOWING AS A HOBBY

—by Marie Schneider

Have you ever watched a glass blower at work? There is something very fascinating about that tube of glass that expands to form all sorts of fragile ornaments. This uncommon art is practiced by Ronald Stermer of Saline, who does it as a hobby.

During the summer months he spends his weekends at Stage Coach Stop in the Irish Hills on US-12 blowing glass to the wonderment of those who chance to pass by. Stage Coach Stop is owned by F. Bahlauf of Jackson.

Stermer's hobby is responsible for all the dainty vases, candlesticks and tiny animals and birds which decorate the what-nots in their Saline home.

But this is a by-product of his profession for Ron is a glassblower specialist in industrial research.

He is the guy who blows those intricate test tubes with all sorts of big glass bubbles scattered around on them.

For them it was "Old Home Week" and class reunion combined and a chance to rekindle old friendships.

This year there will be four lines of charcoal pits totaling 300 feet, thus assuring faster service and a continuous flow of delicately broiled chicken to the serving lines.

The Manchester Broil, the most famous event of its kind in Michigan, is conducted under the general direction of the Michigan State Poultry Department and the personal supervision of Dr. Howard Zindel, head of the department.

The slow-broil method, in which the chicken is basted with butter and never bumed or blistered was developed by Michigan State especially for community events.

The largest committee presides over the pits, where 100 men do the broiling and basting. There are subcommittees to preheat a ton or more of charcoal and deliver it to the pits. The chicken is taken from the truck to the grid, turned and basted. The chicken is tested for finish and the cooked chicken is delivered to the serving lines.

Again this year there will be two ticket lines and a special line for take-outs. There is a large number of hosts to show guests to tables seating twenty five hundred people at one time, and to clean up places for newcomers. There are committees for coffee making, ice cream, soft drinks, and bringing out potato chips, radishes, and buns, for cutting slaw and bringing it to the serving tables. There is an audio committee, to announce distinguished guests and advise the waiting diners of the chicken supply.

Side attractions this year are two softball and speedball games. Visitors agree, though, that the main attraction is the broil itself, with 3500 chicken halves broiled at one time over 300 feet of charcoal pits.

Sponsors are the Optimists and Jaycees, and all proceeds go to the youth activities in the area. Prices are the same as they were when the first Broil was held 13 years ago: $1.50 per ticket.

COUNTY NEWS TEACHERS

The annual meeting of the Manchester Board of Education will be held Friday at 8 p. m. to formally accept bids for the $520,000 high school addition here.

The bids were opened at an earlier meeting and then given to architects so they could evaluate them. Approval is expected on Friday.

Earlier this week the school board met and reelected their officers: Luther Klager, president; Bill Uphaus, vice president; Dan Kell, treasurer and Laurin Leeson, secretary. Newly elected to the board are Clarence Miller and Allen A. Alber. The members were brought up to date on the building plans for the school addition.

The total construction cost for the addition came in below the architect's estimates and are about 100 square feet. It is believed the ground will be broken for the school later this month, according to Robert Swartz, superintendent of schools.

In the recent school census it was noted that there is an additional 14 in the school district. Last year there were over 50. But over the last 12 years the increase was children a year until the last year, the superintendent said. He pointed out that with the increase in building the indications are that the trend will be upward.

The new census showed the following number of children from year and under:

THE LANSING REPORT

FROM senator GIL BURSLEY

One of the more pleasant aspects of a legislator's life is in becoming high school students to the State Capitol.

It is a real worthwhile visit for a legislator to undertake. They get to see the Senate and House in action and to visit with the Governor and the Governor.

There are interesting exhibits in the Capitol proper under the same dome as well as at the Michigan Historical Society's museum only a short walk north on Capitol Hill.

During this past session I had the pleasure of welcoming student delegations from Manchester, Saline, Burnsh, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

One of the most interesting groups was Musical Youth International. I invited the 95 high school musicians to give a concert on the steps of the Capitol which they did last week and it was magnificent. They were greeted by Lt. Gov. Bill Milliken and various legislators.

This talented group is now on a 40 concert tour of western Europe which will last some 5 weeks.

Some of the high school students in Musical Youth International include: Brenda Eames of Manchester and Mary Beach, Nancy Girbach, Beth Volz and Gay Wedemeyer all of Saline.

AI GAIGE HEADS LEGION

KEY COOPER TALKS ON 'CHANGING CHARACTERISTICS'

John Cooper, executive director of the National Association of Manufacturers, spoke at a luncheon here today on the "changing characteristics" of the American economy.

Cooper, who is also president of the American Manufacturers' Association, said that the economy is moving from a "mass production" economy to a "service" economy.

He pointed out that the service economy is characterized by a higher proportion of the population working in the service sector, and that this is leading to a higher standard of living.

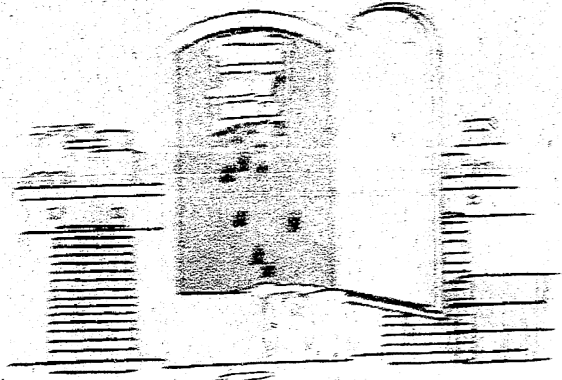

Cooper also discussed the importance of innovation and research and development in the service economy, and the need for government support in these areas.

The luncheon was held at the Manchester Hotel and was attended by a number of local business leaders and officials.

PRUDEN STEEL FRAMED CATTLE SHEDS PROVIDE CLEAR SPAN MANEUVERABILITY AND VERSATILITY

Ten foot cantilever roof overhang is useful to provide shelter when manger is located along the face of frame leg. It is also used along the open side of a cattle shed to keep rain and snow out of bedded area as well as to provide more shade in summer.

Pruden frame sheds are frequently used to shelter cattle in one end, and to store hay in the other. This building near Browns, Wisconsin, uses the roll type of metal roofing on wall as well as roof.

Hay is fed directly into feed bunk under cantilever. Note how hay can be packed to the peak where there are no internal parts, hay or framework in the usable storage area.

200 CHEFS SET TO SERVE 'Chicken At Its Finest'

by Marie Schneider

It's Chicken Broil time again! You can almost feel it in the air as men folk in this southeastern Michigan community prepare for the 13th annual event.

This small village nestled close to the Irish Hills, near Wamples Lake and Pleasant Lake, is situated just 22 miles southwest of Ann Arbor, 22 miles east of Jackson and about 18 miles north of Adrian. For several years there hasn't been rail service or a bus route but on the third Thursday in July all roads will lead to Manchester.

Just how Manchester goes about serving chicken dinners to more than five times its population is a marvel to many. It could be that Luther Klager and Roland Crossman have something in common with the Pied Piper. They have been engineering this big event ever since it started. One thing is certain, they have the cooperation of every man in the village and the townships surrounding it.

This is no small project. It started big. At least that was the opinion of folks here when over 2,000 were served at that first Broil. But it has been snowballing ever since. Last year 8,500 were served. Where will it stop? No one seems to have the answer.

Women have no part in the dinner arrangements, the preparation or the cleanup. It is their chance to be Queen For a Day. They can invite friends and relatives with nary a thought of who gets and prepares the food, or who works on the cleanup.

They know there will be four lines of charcoal pits totaling 300 feet to insure faster service to the guests, and that the red carpet will be out.

The chicken will be served well done and golden brown. This comes when the chicken halves have been slow broiled over charcoal pits. This chicken will be basted with 120 pounds of country fresh butter and it is never burned or blistered. It will be lightly salted. There will be no guess work when these 200 chefs set about their task. Working these long hours with the eager chefs will be the hosts, servers, and cashiers.

Chicken at its finest--the Manchester way is no happenstance. It is the result of experts in the field at the Poultry Department at Michigan State University. These men set out to prepare chicken to come into its own in Michigan. It was Dr. Howard Zindel of Michigan State who came here for that first broil 13 years ago. He wanted to make sure that the chicken was broiled just as he directed. He will be here again this year.

Men in gleaming white aprons and chef's hats will preside over the pits. Some one hundred serve on this detail alone. Sure, they will have help! The more than 2 ton of charcoal will have to be preheated and delivered as needed to the pits.

Michigan chicken is generally plumper. Michigan chicken halves are considered better conditioned than imported varieties. Each half will average 18 ounces or more and will emerge lightly frosted but not frozen from refrigerated trucks and put on the grids.

Can you visualize about 3,600 pounds of cabbage being consumed in a single meal? This would make quite a mound. But come Thursday, July 17 all the German sauerkraut cutters will be in use and fresh heads of cabbage will be converted into slaw with a vinegars and oil seasoning accented with plenty of celery seed, second to none.

All the buns which will be served will be baked right here in the Manchester Bakery. The more than 25,000 radishes will be grown on a farm near here. There will be potato chips, coffee or milk on the menu. Sound good? It is.

Professor Zindel will tell you that the secret of the whole thing lies in the way the chicken is broiled. Every piece is tested. Chefs wearing white canvas gloves check the chicken. The meat must move free of the bone when it is done. This is the important test. No amateur works in this department. This is a job for the skilled chef. It takes 1 hour and 45 minutes to slow broil a chicken half. During that time it is turned 50 times. And men will wear out 100 dozen pairs of gloves.

Detailed planning goes into the broil. Many try to copy it with varying degrees of success. And these businessmen will close their stores and the farmers will forget their work in the fields on this one Thursday afternoon. They will serve chicken--slow broiled, at its very best.

Team work is a must! There will be 28 committees on the work team. Long ago the Optimists and Jaycees called to the Scouts, 4-H, FFA and Farm Bureau for help. One committee remains constant. It is the famous weather committee. Never forgetting that good weather plays an all important part in the success of the broil the weather committee begins its part in the affair early. Heading this group are all the clergymen of Manchester and the country churches. Loud speakers will herald the arrival of out-of-town guests, out-of-state-guests and those who will be visiting here from abroad.

There will be ticket lines--two of them--and a special line for take-outs. And everything will run smooth. It has for 12 years. There are committees for coffee making, ice cream, soft drinks, and cutting and preparing slaw.

Paul Bunyan has nothing on Manchester when it comes to the Big Chicken Broil. And these visitors will come, not only to the dinner, but to watch the spectacle. Those who have moved away will return to eat and visit. For them this will be "Old Home Week". There will be class reunions and everyone will have a chance to stop off and visit old friends.

Two Class-A softball or speedball games will entertain guests before and after dinner. The sheriff's mounted detachment will direct traffic.

Dinners will be served from 4:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The price is the same as it was in 1954: $1.50 per ticket. And just the same as when the first Big Broil was held the profits will go to the support of youth activities in the area.

Shake hands, fellas, and come out fighting! Saline's Centennial Chairman, Lauren Wild thanked Gale Koebbe (village president) for the key to the city. (l to r) Al Gaige (hub!), Lyle Widmayer and John Althouse, councilmen, look on.

Saline's centennial caravan here Saturday was the longest to date with some estimating that 450 cars rolled along the 12 mile blacktop Manchester. Adding spice were the buggies, carts and old vintage music of all kinds added to the street dance in front of the mill.

The water is fine, boys! Come on in!

Saline wasn't the only town represented in the parade here Saturday. The local boys joined in with special musical effects.

You've heard of roll out the barrel--this is wash out the barrel! The fire department vs. the Dutch firemen.

NOPSIS OF A FIASCO

Adrian street was blocked off for the Centennial dancers but the wind spilled over the entire business section. After the notes of the polka faded away the local boys took a long look down Main Street and decided that wasn't all that spilled! Some of the firemen rolled their sleeves (there were no more barrels to roll out) and with the village street broom swept up the mess. The new fire truck got worked out hosing down the blacktop--just like in Holland. And when the church bells started to chime Sunday there wasn't a trace of the dirt on the town! That is, except for a truck load of cans in the age dump.

KUETHERS TO VISITATE MANUEL

Rev. and Mrs. Gustav H. Kuether and their two children will be special guests of Emanuel United Church of Christ Sunday, July 17 at which Rev. Kuether will deliver the sermon in both the 8 and 10 a. m. service. He will use the work of Mission as his theme.

Kuethers are home from San Pedro Sula, Honduras for the annual holiday and will be returning next month to continue their work with the Honduras mission of the church and especially with the Association of Evangelical Institutions which works through the departments of Comm. Communications, Education and Medical-Social Work. Both Rev. and Mrs. Kuether, the former Susanne Higgins, hold responsible positions on the boards of the institutions.

Beyond this, Rev. Kuether was appointed Field Coordinator of the Honduran Mission at the beginning of the year and carries responsibility for major decisions in all phases of the mission.

The Kuethers will be happy to meet again with friends and relatives and to introduce Lynda, who is making her first trip to the States.

All those who are interested in hearing about the work and meeting with the Kuethers are invited to one of the services and it is hoped will stay for an informal visit after the service.

USE OF RAILROAD PROPERTY DISCUSSED

Officials of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. have discussed with council the possibility of using the railroad property purchased last year by the village for a right of way to install a main trunk line from Ann Arbor Street to Union Street.

Village president Gale Koebbe and councilman, John Althouse brought the Manchester Planners up to date on this possible use of the property when that group met Monday evening, but no action was taken by the Commission nor did the commission express any opinion as to whether or not they would favor such use.

The Commission is awaiting word from the federal government on the request of a 701 Grant for the village. Commission president Ed Galloway reported that no word has been received at this time.

MORE FUNDS ADDED

Funds are again being added to the Melvin "Red" Lamb fund from the Chelsea area. These will help defray the expenses involved from a kidney ailment and probable kidney transplant.

Another $332 has been added to the Lamb fund through sale of chances on the Television set from the local legion post.

During the past week eight Chelsea area 4-H clubs worked together to sponsor a second benefit bake sale and bazaar.

Mr. William Van Riper, one of the leaders in charge of organizing the sale said the clubs received articles for the sale from other persons who wanted to do something to help.

A check for more than $370 will be sent to the Lams. Melvin and his wife are in the Cleveland (cont. on pg. 2)
