

EARLY FIRE DESTROYS BUILDINGS

An early morning blaze leveled an abandoned house and a barn on Lima Center Road, north of Scio Church Road, about 12 miles from Manchester, Tuesday.

Two passersby saw the blaze about 4:45 a. m. and called the Chelsea fire department. Later the Manchester fire department was called to assist.

Attempts to save the buildings were futile, however, because the buildings had been burning too long, firemen said.

Owner Dale Hepburn had been at the farm on Monday and baled hay was stored in the barn. The big barn was reportedly half filled with baled hay.

Cause of the fire was not known.

NEW COURSES OFFERED

Two new programs are going to be offered to students interested in the Western Washtenaw County Vocational Education courses when school opens in September.

Schools in Manchester, Dexter, and Chelsea belong to the district of which T. F. Blake is the director.

Classes in auto mechanics and photo-offset lithography will be taught by Charles Linn and Dan Teare, respectively. Classes will be three hours long each day for a five day week.

This will result in a total of 1080 hours of instruction over a two year period, in classrooms at a centrally located facility which will be renovated and equipped for them.

The total cost will be divided by the three schools. Equipment and salary costs are partially covered by State and Federal Funds.

The program is designed and intended for junior and senior students who have an interest in this type of work.

The purpose of the program is to equip students with entry skills for these occupations and to answer employment needs in the area.

Collecting Bottles Intrigues Librarian

-by Marie Schneider

This community has a librarian who is a collector of bottles. This doesn't mean that she collects all kinds of bottles. Her speciality is beer bottles, with a few others thrown in for good measure.

The librarian, Mrs. Burnill Hansen, is not a native of this area but she enjoys collecting bottles after moving to Manchester, where her husband is a teacher in the Pleasant Lake school and a neighbor's children were out for a boat ride on the River Raisin.

Suddenly she saw something shiny along the bank. They pulled over toward shore, dug down and discovered an old bottle.

"Most anyone else but me would have discarded it. I was curious to see what was printed on it. I took it home and scrubbed it up. In the glass was clearly imprinted 'Manchester, Mich.' I was thrilled because I had always had a soft spot in my heart for antiques," Mrs. Hansen explained.

That started the collection. She noted that beer bottles were not used much before the turn of the century but even so she points out that "this is a long time for an old bottle to be around."

Since she brought her collection down to the library one of her best bottle met an unhappy fate. It was a pet parakeet. One day when she came to work she found the cage open and the bird perched high on a book shelf.

In his hours of freedom he flew about and finally knocked down the prize bottle, smashing it into a thousand pieces.

One of her best ones met an unhappy fate after she brought the library boasts of a pet parakeet. One night he managed to open the door to the cage and took an aerial journey.

When Mrs. Hansen came to work the next day, the bird was perched high on a bookshelf, looking down at the pieces of her favorite bottles.

Some of the best in the collection came from basements in stores along Main Street and some are from the village dump. Most are green and brown in color.

Historically, the first distillery was built here in 1838 by Barnabas Case and Benjamin Davis. It stood on the bank of the Raisin near Furnace Street Bridge.

The distiller came from Inverness County, Scotland and located in Freedom Township before coming to Manchester. His name was John Falconer.

The first brewery was situated on the east bank of the river, near the Boyne Street bridge (now known as Duncan Street bridge). It was operated by Newman Granger. The building was taken down in 1874.

Although Manchester had three breweries and two distilleries during its long history, Mrs. Hansen shows only two kinds for the local breweries. Some have this inscription "Manchester Brewing Co., Manchester, Mich." Others say "George A. Einkorn Brewery, Manchester, pure and without drugs or poison."

The Einkorn Brewery was the last one in Manchester and was located on what is now known as S. Macomb Street. At that time it was Brewery Street. The business went out with prohibition.

The bottles all have a history and some of the old ones marked "Goebel", "Buckeye Bottling Works", "Michigan Union Brewery, Ann Arbor" (this has a big eagle), "Harman Handing's, Ann Arbor", "Northern Brewery, Ann Arbor", come from the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

In the Hansen collection is an old medicine bottle, marked "11.5 fl. oz. Solution Citrate Magnesia, dose: adults one half to one bottle as desired. Children in proportion."

A fruit jar in the collection was patented in 1858. This is a mason jar.

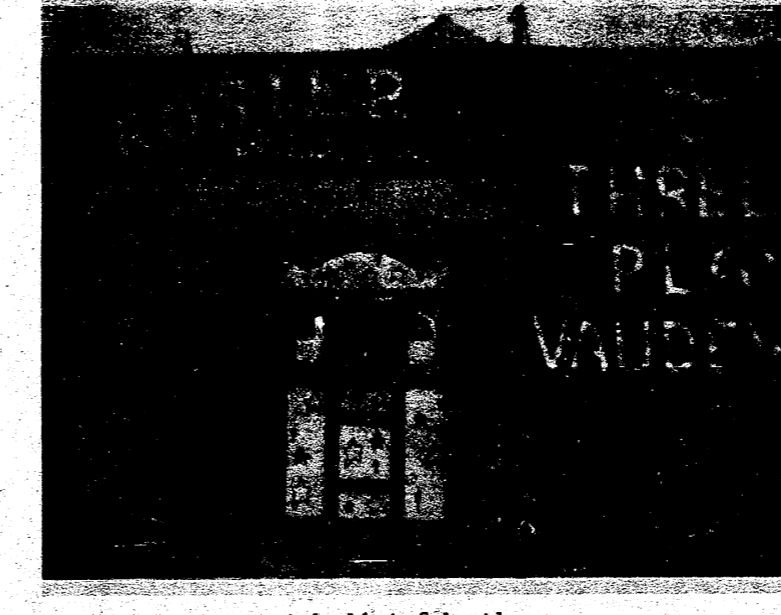

In the Manchester history there is mention that "in the 1830's Case and Fountain took a load of whiskey to Ypsilanti and charged $4 for hauling it and fetched back salt for $8 a load.

Some of the old-timers remember when they picked hops on what is now the Al Faulhaber farm and that there were round buildings to dry them in and later they were sold to the breweries. Another Hop yard farm was south of the village on the present Art Fehr farm.

TENT SHOW REVIVED

-by Marie Schneider

Michigan's only folk theatre has opened in the Irish Hills. Curtain time is 8:30 p. m. This is the oldtime tent show and is located at Stage Coach Stop across from Hayes State Park on US-12.

The Rosier Players bring a taste of old time acting under a striking tent of red, white and blue. The plays have three acts and vaudeville specialties, which the owners, Harold Rosier and Norman E. Persing say are for all members of the family to see.

Last week tragedy struck the Rosier players when two of the members of the cast were in a motorcycle accident and taken to the University Hospital. Tom Miller and Eddie Spooner who are recovering at the hospital will not be able to finish the season with the company.

In the face of this sudden blow the cast rallied around the situation and still opened the next night with the scheduled play, High and Mighty.

Howard Burley, who will play Mr. Pepper this week in "Mr. Pepper's Pepper Upper," stepped in to play a part last week with only eight hours to learn his lines. He did a remarkable job.

Miss Yvonne Persing is specializing this season in comedy roles. She also is appearing as an ingenue. She has marvelous control and flexibility in her voice and will play the part of Tessa in this week's play. She is the "maid of all work" at the Lovel Hotel.

She is a frowsy, untidy little girl of 17 who slouches and chews gum persistently. This role is quite a contrast from the role she was just in... a snippy high society girl.

Howard Burley will play Solomon Pepper, the town's "oldest inhabitant". He is a dried up little man of seventy or more who is wobbling about a bit uncertainly with the aid of an old crooked cane.

Jeff Long, on loan from another summer stock company, will replace Eddie Spooner as Tod Whipple.

Township Race Here is Not Lively

Residents of Washtenaw County's 20 townships will go to the polls August 2 to nominate persons for township offices, but in many cases there are no contests.

Manchester township is one where there is no contest. Just a Republican slate is offered.

Supervisor-Clayton Pam; clerk, Waldo C. Marx; treasurer-Michael H. Wolfe; trustees-Malcolm Billings; constables-Earl R. Alber, Allen B. Benedict, Paul H. Eisele, and Lyle L. Moore.

In Bridgewater Township there will be more of a contest: Rep.-Supervisor-Russell Hughes*; clerk-E. Lewis Blaisdell*; treas. Harold Bersuder*; trustee-Theo. Parker*; constable-Melvin Armbruster*.

Dem.-Supervisor-Carl D. Miller; clerk-none; treasurer, Audrey Miller; trustee, John Newcom; constable, none.

Manchester township clerk, Waldo Marx, points out that voters are to vote for their party ticket for US senator; representative in Congress, State Senator; Representatives in State Legislature and Township officers.

On one side of the large ballot is the Democratic ticket and the other side is the Republican ticket. VOTE ONLY ONE SIDE AND ONE PARTY, your vote will not count if you vote on both sides.

You will vote for delegate to the county convention. This is on a small ballot.

One one side is the republican ticket and the other side is the democratic. DO NOT VOTE ON BOTH SIDES. IF YOU DO YOUR VOTE WILL NOT COUNT.

The third ballot is for judge of the Circuit Court and Judge of Probate. These are non partisan. They are on one side of the ballot only.

Manchester Hotel Issued Tokens Way Back When?

Area Women Collects Tokens

-by Marie Schneider

"Do you know anything about the Manchester hotel? When was it erected and when was it demolished?" asked Mrs. William R. Johnson. She was holding a token in her hand. On it was inscribed "Manchester Hotel, Manchester, Mich. Good for one bus fare."

Mrs. Johnson is one of those people who collects, of all things, tokens. She, her husband and their nine-year-old daughter Mary live on Hogan Road, about six miles south of Manchester.

This particular token is new to her collection. She has had it about a week, having bought it at a coin collectors' exhibit at Traverse City.

Although she lives here it was news to her that the Manchester hotel ever gave tokens.

She said that in her collection, which numbers in the thousands, most of the tokens used in transportation, spelled the word bus with two of the letter S--buss.

Mrs. Johnson says that when she was a child she first started to collect stamps. She had poor health and this made a good hobby for her. Later she found collecting coins a lot of fun, until she stumbled onto some tokens at an exhibit. This intrigued her and she bought one. She did some research and found out the history of the token and decided that collecting tokens would be much more interesting than collecting coins.

This is understandable for she majored in history and english. "Each token has a history," she pointed out. Of prime concern to her are tokens dealing with transportation. Most of these were issued by hotels and were used to haul drummers and their sample cases from the hotels to the depot for the outrageous fee of 25 cents.

Then, too, the hotel would provide sample rooms where the drummer could display his wares while staying at the hotel. So the fare really included several side issues. When the salesman was departed along with all the sample cases, he was given a token for his return to the hotel.

Originally the Johnsons are from Muskegon. When her husband was sent to Arkansas by the Norge Co. Mrs. Johnson and Mary went along. She said that it was a paradise for token collectors. She still continues her hobby in this area where her husband is an engineer for Tecumseh Products.

One time she bought a metal detector. She wanted to hunt along the shore of Lake Michigan for tokens. It is interesting to note that although she never unearthed a single token she did find enough money to reimburse her the $125 she paid for the detector, not to mention silverware and all sorts of other metal pieces.

CANADIAN CLUB TO BRING CARS TO BIG MARCH

Methodists Award Fellowships

The Methodist General Board of Education's Department of Ministerial Education has awarded the first annual Fellowships in Preaching to four Methodist ministers for graduate study during the 1966-67 academic year.

The recipients of the Fellowships in Preaching will be the Rev. Richard C. Cheatham of Napoleon, Michigan; the Rev. Thomas C. Emswiler Jr. of Dallas Texas; the Rev. Charles R. Gipson, Meridian, Mississippi; and the Rev. Robert E. Manthey of Durham and Winston-Salem, N. C.

The basic stipend for each fellowship grant may be up to $3,500, depending upon the recipient's anticipated needs, said the Rev. Dr. Gerald O. McCulloh.

"While the fellowships are to emphasize preaching," he added, "preaching is to be construed as including interpretation and communication of the Christian message to people with whom the church's ordinary lines of communication have been broken as well as skill in formal pulpit preaching to the congregation."

366 Enrolled in College

Enrollment for Washtenaw Community College's first semester has climbed to 366, according to David Pollock, dean of student personnel.

So far the division of students is about the same for occupational courses, college transfer courses, and a fifth of the students are not sure just what they want to study.

Twice as many men as women have been enrolled, the dean said.

The counseling office staff at 204 E. Huron, Ann Arbor, has been holding counseling interviews and enrolling students. Applications may be obtained from that office for the college's first school year. Classes will begin September 15 at the college's main campus in the Willow Run area, the Automotive Center on Carpenter Rd. and the Health Sciences Center in Ann Arbor. Catalogues are also available.

High School Dropout at 79 Enrolls in College

A Grand Rapids man, who three years ago was just another 79-year old high school dropout has returned to classes.

Stories about Frank Burroughs and his returning to classes has been carried in all of the leading daily newspapers by AP wire but probably few in Manchester know that he is the uncle of Mrs. Don Mackintosh—of Manchester. She and her husband visit him frequently.

Today Mr. Burroughs, at 82 is a geography student at the University of Michigan.

"It's been bothering me ever since 1905 that I was a dropout," He says smiling, "so I decided it still wasn't too late."

Frank's high school career which began in Kalamazoo in 1809, ended in 1963 when he was awarded his diploma from Wyoming Park High School.

He retired a year earlier after raising four children and working for nearly 41 years as a salesman for Denison Mfg. Co.

"My wife and the kids kept telling me for years to go back to school, so when I got my high school diploma I figured I might as well keep on going," he says.

He enrolled in the correspondence course program at U-M, and has been taking credit courses for three years.

Through special arrangements made by the university, he does his studying at home and goes to Wyoming Park High to take his tests and final exams.

"Boy, I was pretty nervous when I went in for my first test," he recalls, "I think it was a carry-over from my old high school days. But I've got a lot more confidence now."

His first final grade was a C but he raised that to an A from his most recent course, economics of geography. In this received a 100 per cent grade on nearly all of his written reports and his mid-term and final exams.

"It makes me feel sort of good, a gray-haired and tottering old man like me able to get an A in college," he says.

Actually, Burroughs, who lives with his daughter, is remarkably spry and alert, and he can quote precisely what the mineral resources are of Scandinavia, how the emerging new nations of Africa moved toward independence, and why fishing plays a crucial role in the Chinese economy.

He has always been fascinated by geography and he says through his studies he's now enjoying traveling by proxy.

He has an amazing memory and does his studying early in the morning after making a pot of coffee and settling down in his front porch rocker.

His wife, who died last year, was a teacher; his father, an 1874 graduate of Michigan was a chemist, and a brother was a professor at Michigan State.

A daughter, Margaret, with whom he lives, is assistant principal at Eastern School and two other daughters, Mrs. Nancy Feldkamp of Manistee and Mrs. Genevieve Baker of Grand Haven are former teachers.

REUNION DATE CORRECTED

The Schlicht-Feldkamp reunion will be held at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, August 7 at Carr Park.

Summer Recipes
Keep Cook Cool,
Hubby Happy

Summertime is fun time — if you work it right. But for the housewife who simmers over the kitchen stove while her family lolls in the shade or paddles in the pool, summer's no lark. The wise homemaker works things so her family dines well on delicious meals that take a minimum of preparation — meals with a hearty main dish that's made ahead of time, a cooling green salad, and a light dessert. The secret is to plan dishes that take little or no watching while they cook and to stay out of the kitchen while the heat's on. Two Cooking "Musts" To prepare meals this way, there are two "musts" — a range with accurate heat controls, and proper cooking utensils. You can't stay out of the kitchen and keep cool if the oven heat creeps up

Nor can you leave food cooking on the surface if your cookpots are too thin, or bumpy on the bottom, or if they don't distribute heat evenly. These are the factors that cause food to stick and scorch, according to the Aluminum Association. Proper cookware must be made of a material that distributes heat evenly and quickly, with no hot spots. Of the materials commonly used in cooking, aluminum has the highest heat conductivity. What are some of the hearty, cook-in-advance dishes that make good summer fillers? Baked beans, oven-fried chicken, chili-and-beans, meat and vegetable soup, pot roast, ham, braised short ribs, spaghetti, boiled tongue — any of the many foods that can be cooked ahead to be refrigerated or frozen if you wish, then heated and served. Some are good served cold — oven-fried chicken, ham, and tongue, for instance. Here's one easy dish that fits any budget, pleases the palate, and keeps the cook out of the kitchen: Braised Short Ribs of Beef Buy two ribs piece for adults with big appetites, one rib each for the others. Place ribs in a sturdy aluminum Dutch oven. Cover with a large grated onion, one grated carrot, and a few slices of celery. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and ¼ teaspoon of either savory, rosemary or thyme. Cover tightly and cook over very low heat about one hour, or until tender, juicy and brown. If your Dutch oven is made of thick aluminum with a tight-fitting cover, you don't need to add water. To make summer chores even lighter, use Teflon-lined aluminum ware — it eliminates soaking and scouring since food doesn't stick to it.

TOKENS.....

example is the Yellow Fever Memorial token. This is dated 1876 and was issued by the Memphis City railway company.

One issued at Dayton, Ohio, by a company which was known by a number of names such as "Hill To Route" and "Way of the Ass." The company's barn was located on a busy intersection and market place. At the car sheds, if passengers wanted to continue their journey, they had to change cars. Transfer were not in general use, but if passengers wanted to continue to the sparsely settled hilltop they were given a token—"The Way of the Ass".

There were two cars, according to Mrs. Johnson's story, which held 16 thin people. Mules were used to carry the cars up the steep hill. Coming down the outfit trusted to Providence and the force of gravity. During the descent the mules rode with the cars. A plait form was pulled out from underneath the rear of the car and the mules climbed aboard. The legend has it that on the back of the token is inscribed, "Going Down! One fare for all Asses". Mrs. Johnson has one of these tokens in her prized collection.

She tells about the time that she advertised for a special token. She had been told that although there were many made years ago very few were known to exist. She advertised and offered to pay $10 for all she could get. She got a reply, some elderly man who had worked for the company had 40 of them which he offered to sell to her. She hoped to be able to get him to sell for a lesser amount, because of the quantity. She was unsuccessful and had to pay $400 for them. She admits that was a hard lesson—but it happened only once and she has been able to trade many of them with other collectors for other tokens which she really wants.

She is running an ad for more tokens of the Manchester hotel bus line and is again offering $10 for them. This ad appears in this issue of the Enterprise.

Yes, and she would like to get some more information about the local hotel token. The hotel once stood where the Grossman-Huber Service station is situated. She would like to learn more about the history of the bus line which was operated by E. M. Silkworth.

Cited By House of Representatives

Carl F. Wuerthner

A resolution commending a local man for his many active years of participation in civic affairs has been handed down by the State House of Representatives.

Carl Wuerthner has received a copy of House Resolution 452 which cites him for citizen participation in civic, religious, commercial and political activities of community and state.

Mr. Wuerthner was born on Oct. 28, 1873 in Manchester. This was the year the cornerstone was laid in Lansing for the present capitol building.

He said he was told he was going to be given the resolution when he was in Lansing to attend the quadrennial convention of the Fraternal Society of Maccabees.

He has voted for every Democratic president since 1896, the year the first automobile appeared in Detroit. Mr. Wuerthner has not limited his civic participation to voting rights. He ran for office and was elected village president of Manchester for three terms commencing in 1944 when he was 77 years young.

After leaving that office he didn't relegate himself to a life of ease, but since 1956, at the age of 83 he served as vice president of the Union Savings Bank.

His involvement in civic affairs has been maintained throughout the years.

This is evidenced by the fact that in 1961, at the age of 88 years, he secured 1095 signatures on petitions to have a post office drop box on Main St. despite the fact that he was crippled and had to solicit signatures while on crutches.

For three years he was secretary of the Senior Citizens of Emanuel and during 1965 attended 191 meetings of religious, fraternal, commercial and political organizations, and since January 1966, in his 93rd year, served as Great Lt. Commander of Michigan Maccabees. He is an active member of the United Church of Christ, United Commercial Travelers and Odd Fellows-Rebekah.

It was resolved by the House of Representatives on June 28, 1966 that: "the highest praise and commendation be extended to him for his lifetime of active participation and service to his community, church and state and that he be held as a sterling example of citizen responsibility and participation to be followed by all citizens of our state and that upon adoption of the resolution by the House of Representatives that an official copy be forwarded to Mr. Carl F. Wuerthner."

MYI Delegate Returns From Europe

by Brenda Eames Musical Youth-International, sponsored by People to People, returned Wednesday, July 27 from a five week tour of Scotland, Germany, England, Belgium and Switzerland.

Brenda Eames, a Manchester girl, was one of 94 students chosen from Canada, Michigan, and northern Ohio.

The MYI choir was directed by Mr. Lester McCoy of Saline and the band by Mr. Jack Bittle of Sturgis. The purpose of Musical Youth International is to promote international understanding and friendship between the United States and Europe.

Scotland and England are very similar countries. Both preserve their ruins and trees, and utilize all of their land. The fields are very green and are separated by shrubbery rather than fences. This makes a very beautiful countryside, Brenda said.

The atmosphere of the home is very warm and friendly. Every home has a flower garden in the front which is very impressive. The ladies are excellent cooks. Their cakes and cookies are outstanding. The five meals which the visitors were served each day included breakfast, coffee at 10 a. m. tea at noon, high tea at 5 p. m. and snack before bed.

The MYI was fortunate to compete in an international musical festival, the Eisteddof, in Middleburgh, England. The band received first place and the choir was in third place. The night before the competition the MYI gave a concert at the Eisteddof grounds. At the end of the concert the group was given a six minute standing ovation by five thousand spectators.

The tour spent two days in Belgium. The people there were very friendly but difficult to understand because of the language barrier. Brenda pointed out that she was fortunate in having a Belgium priest as the host.

The remaining part of the trip was spent in Germany and Switzerland. The Germans are jolly people and were easy to get along with. The group spent one night in a hostel—a teenage motel. Due to the heavy schedule of 69 concerts in 35 days those on tour were very limited in the amount of sight-seeing they could do.

But the fact that the touring teenagers stayed with their host families helped them to gain some knowledge as to the way in which the people live in their homes, something about their habits and thinking. Brenda found the trip very inspiring and hopes that she can return to Europe again. She dee, 81. Probate Judge John W. Conlin and Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien proved to be the top vote getters in two Washtenaw contests for judicial nominations.

Conlin's vote for the circuit judge nomination was more than the combined total of the other two candidates, and O'Brien's vote was slightly less than the combined total of the other two candidates for probate judge.

Locally Conlin chalked up 300 votes to 91 for Stanley G. Thayer; and 76 for Robert Fink.

Conlin will be opposed in the Nov. 8 general election by Stanley Thayer, former state Senate majority leader who polled 7,811 as compared to Conlin's 12,634. Running third and failing to gain nomination was Robert V. Fink of Ypsilanti with 3,371 votes in the county.

Locally in the race for Judge of Probate, Francis L. O'Brien and Ross Campbell had the same number of votes. They each received 154 and Rodney E. Hutchinson had 47.

O'Brien will be opposed in Nov. by Ross W. Campbell, an Ann Arbor attorney and Juvenile Court referee. O'Brien's total in the county was 11,733, while Campbell got 7,634 votes. Failing to gain nomination was Rodney E. Hutchinson, an Ypsilanti attorney who received 4,490 votes.

Both of the judgeships in which there were contests Tuesday are for posts created by the Legislature this year.

The Circuit judgeship will bring to three the number of judges on that bench. Conlin and Thayer will be in the running for a 6-year term and long-time incumbent, Judge James R. Breaker Jr will be on the November ballot postponed for an eight-year term. He did not appear on the primary ballot. Circuit Judge William F. Ager Jr. is not up for re-election.

Until Jan. 1 Judge Conlin will continue as the sole probate judge. After Jan. 1 the Legislature provided two judges.

If Conlin is elected to the Circuit Court on Jan. 1 there will have to be a special election to elect another probate judge to fill his vacancy.
