TOKENS.....

example is the Yellow Fever Memorial token. This is dated 1876 and was issued by the Memphis City railway company.

One issued at Dayton, Ohio, by a company which was known by a number of names such as "Hill To Route" and "Way of the Ass." The company's barn was located on a busy intersection and market place. At the car sheds, if passengers wanted to continue their journey, they had to change cars. Transfer were not in general use, but if passengers wanted to continue to the sparsely settled hilltop they were given a token—"The Way of the Ass".

There were two cars, according to Mrs. Johnson's story, which held 16 thin people. Mules were used to carry the cars up the steep hill. Coming down the outfit trusted to Providence and the force of gravity. During the descent the mules rode with the cars. A plait form was pulled out from underneath the rear of the car and the mules climbed aboard. The legend has it that on the back of the token is inscribed, "Going Down! One fare for all Asses". Mrs. Johnson has one of these tokens in her prized collection.

She tells about the time that she advertised for a special token. She had been told that although there were many made years ago very few were known to exist. She advertised and offered to pay $10 for all she could get. She got a reply, some elderly man who had worked for the company had 40 of them which he offered to sell to her. She hoped to be able to get him to sell for a lesser amount, because of the quantity. She was unsuccessful and had to pay $400 for them. She admits that was a hard lesson—but it happened only once and she has been able to trade many of them with other collectors for other tokens which she really wants.

She is running an ad for more tokens of the Manchester hotel bus line and is again offering $10 for them. This ad appears in this issue of the Enterprise.

Yes, and she would like to get some more information about the local hotel token. The hotel once stood where the Grossman-Huber Service station is situated. She would like to learn more about the history of the bus line which was operated by E. M. Silkworth.

98th YEAR NO. 31 Independent in all things. Devoted to County and Home News. AUGUST 4, 1966 10 Cents

Manchester Library P.O. Manchester Complimentary

Cited By House of Representatives

Carl F. Wuerthner

A resolution commending a local man for his many active years of participation in civic affairs has been handed down by the State House of Representatives.

Carl Wuerthner has received a copy of House Resolution 452 which cites him for citizen participation in civic, religious, commercial and political activities of community and state.

Mr. Wuerthner was born on Oct. 28, 1873 in Manchester. This was the year the cornerstone was laid in Lansing for the present capitol building.

He said he was told he was going to be given the resolution when he was in Lansing to attend the quadrennial convention of the Fraternal Society of Maccabees.

He has voted for every Democratic president since 1896, the year the first automobile appeared in Detroit. Mr. Wuerthner has not limited his civic participation to voting rights. He ran for office and was elected village president of Manchester for three terms commencing in 1944 when he was 77 years young.

After leaving that office he didn't relegate himself to a life of ease, but since 1956, at the age of 83 he served as vice president of the Union Savings Bank.

His involvement in civic affairs has been maintained throughout the years. This is evidenced by the fact that in 1961, at the age of 88 years, he secured 1095 signatures on petitions to have a post office drop box on Main St. despite the fact that he was crippled and had to solicit signatures while on crutches.

For three years he was secretary of the Senior Citizens of Emanuel and during 1965 attended 191 meetings of religious, fraternal, commercial and political organizations, and since January 1966, in his 93rd year, served as Great Lt. Commander of Michigan Maccabees. He is an active member of the United Church of Christ, United Commercial Travelers and Odd Fellows-Rebekah.

It was resolved by the House of Representatives on June 28, 1966 that: "the highest praise and commendation be extended to him for his lifetime of active participation and service to his community, church and state and that he be held as a sterling example of citizen responsibility and participation to be followed by all citizens of our state and that upon adoption of the resolution by the House of Representatives that an official copy be forwarded to Mr. Carl F. Wuerthner."

MYI Delegate Returns From Europe

by Brenda Eames Musical Youth-International, sponsored by People to People, returned Wednesday, July 27 from a five week tour of Scotland, Germany, England, Belgium and Switzerland.

Brenda Eames, a Manchester girl, was one of 94 students chosen from Canada, Michigan, and northern Ohio.

The MYI choir was directed by Mr. Lester McCoy of Saline and the band by Mr. Jack Bittle of Sturgis. The purpose of Musical Youth International is to promote international understanding and friendship between the United States and Europe.

Scotland and England are very similar countries. Both preserve their ruins and trees, and utilize all of their land. The fields are very green and are separated by shrubbery rather than fences. This makes a very beautiful countryside, Brenda said.

The atmosphere of the home is very warm and friendly. Every home has a flower garden in the front which is very impressive. The ladies are excellent cooks. Their cakes and cookies are outstanding. The five meals which the visitors were served each day included breakfast, coffee at 10 a. m. tea at noon, high tea at 5 p. m. and snack before bed.

The MYI was fortunate to compete in an international musical festival, the Eisteddoff, in Middleburgh, England. The band received first place and the choir was in third place. The night before the competition the MYI gave a concert at the Eisteddoff grounds. At the end of the concert the group was given a six minute standing ovation by five thousand spectators.

The tour spent two days in Belgium. The people there were very friendly but difficult to understand because of the language barrier. Brenda pointed out that she was fortunate in having a Belgium priest as the host.

The remaining part of the trip was spent in Germany and Switzerland. The Germans are jolly people and were easy to get along with. The group spent one night in a hostel—a teenage motel.

Due to the heavy schedule of 69 concerts in 35 days those on tour were very limited in the amount of sight-seeing they could do.

But the fact that the touring teenagers stayed with their host families helped them to gain some knowledge as to the way in which the people live in their homes, something about their habits and thinking.

Brenda found the trip very inspiring and hopes that she can return to Europe again. She

Township and County Election Returns

Two hundred from precinct 1 and 190 from precinct 2 went to the polls in Tuesday's primary election. Locally there was no contest in the township election. The officers are: supervisor, Clayton Parr; Clerk, Waldo Marx; treasurer, M. H. Wolfe; trustee, Malcolm Billings; trustee, Malcolm Billings; constables, Earl R. Alber, Allen Benedict, Paul W. Eisele and Lyle L. Moore. Committeeman, D. E. Limpert.

On the Republican ballot: Geo. Romney (governor) 213; Robert Griffin (US Senator) 205; full term Robert Griffin (US Senator) 184; to fill vacancy Geo. Meader, 110; State Senator, Gilbert E. Bursley, 191; Representative in State Legislature (51st District) Thomas Sharp, 187.

On the Democratic ballot: Governor, Zolton Ferency, 90; US Senator (full term) Jerome P. Cavanagh, 92; G. Mennen Williams, 54; US Senator (to fill vacancy) Jerome Cavanagh, 83; G. Mennen Williams, 47; Rep. in Congress (2nd District) Wes Vivian, 107; State Senator, Geo. Wahr Sallade, 85; Representative in State Legislature, Lloyd F. Hendee, 81.

Probate Judge John W. Conlin and Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien proved to be the top vote getters in two Washtenaw contests for judicial nominations.

Conlin's vote for the circuit judge nomination was more than the combined total of the other two candidates, and O'Brien's vote was slightly less than the combined total of the other two candidates for probate judge.

Locally Conlin chalked up 300 votes to 91 for Stanley G. Thayer; and 76 for Robert Fink.

Conlin will be opposed in the Nov. 8 general election by Stanley Thayer, former state Senate majority leader who polled 7,811 as compared to Conlin's 12,634.

Running third and failing to gain nomination was Robert V. Fink of Ypsilanti with 3,371 votes in the county.

O'Brien will be opposed in Nov. by Ross W. Campbell, an Ann Arbor attorney and Juvenile Court referee. O'Brien's total in the county was 11,733, while Campbell got 7,634 votes. Failing to gain nomination was Rodney E. Hutchinson, an Ypsilanti attorney who received 4,490 votes.

Both of the judgeships in which there were contests Tuesday are for posts created by the Legislature this year.

The Circuit judgeship will bring to three the number of judges on that bench. Conlin and Thayer will be in the running for a 6-year term and long-time incumbent, Judge James R. Breaker Jr will be on the November ballot unopposed for an eight-year term. He did not appear on the primary ballot.

Circuit Judge William F. Ager Jr. is not up for re-election. Until Jan. 1 Judge Conlin will continue as the sole probate judge. After Jan. 1 the Legislature provided two judges.

If Conlin is elected to the Circuit Court on Jan. 1 there will have to be a special election to elect another probate judge to fill his vacancy.

Although Jerome Cavanagh took a beating from G. Mennen Williams in the Democratic bid for the US State Senate, Washtenaw County tallied up 8,519 for Cavanagh and 6,168 for G. Mennen Williams.

County voters gave Gov. Romney 12,679 and Democrat Zolton Ferency 7,218 votes.

Brenda Eames

pointed out that she believes that Music is the Universal language.

Local School Plans to Use Church Facility

Some few months ago, when it became obvious that another First Grade Section would have to be added to the local school program because of increasing numbers in this age group, the Board of Education and the administration were confronted with a problem. Nowhere in the system was there a classroom available to accommodate this added first grade section. As was pointed out earlier in several articles relative to the Manchester Schools' building program, all buildings were filled to capacity and every available room was being fully utilized by the educational program. In addition to the extra classroom needed for the first grade group, two additional classrooms were needed to house two programs that are being added to the existing curriculum. These new additions are a corrective reading program and a guidance and counseling service for upper elementary and junior high students. This new program is being implemented on a full time basis in the local schools to provide much needed assistance to students with various reading difficulties and other school related problems.

Therefore, it became necessary to consider three additional classrooms over and above those which are presently available in the school facilities. Inasmuch as it is extremely difficult to arbitrarily move just one section of a given grade out of the school confines and leave two remaining, the administration recommends that all three sections of first grade be moved to outside facilities.

The first grade was selected to move to outside classrooms on the basis that this group had not attended any school program on a full day schedule. Because of this, it was believed, they would be less likely to be disturbed by such a move, than would other students who had known this experience.

In the study which preceded the recommendation to move the first grade into the church owned facility, the administration and the Board of Education considered portable classrooms, dividing all purpose rooms into classrooms, and the use of outside facilities. Portable classrooms on a lease purchase agreement would cost the school district approximately $20,000 a year for three years.

In addition to this would be the cost of a site, foundations and utility services.

The real problem with portable classrooms specifically in the Manchester district is not the cost of the unit but an available site to accommodate such a building. The Department of Public Instruction will not permit any additional buildings, school officials say, to be placed on the City Road school site. Even the existing high school property could not accommodate an elementary unit such as this, and the Pleasant Lake property, while adequate, would not be convenient for village first graders to attend.

Therefore, if portable classrooms were the only answer, an additional site would be necessary. In view of the known need for another elementary building in the next few years, it would appear that it is not feasible nor economical at this time to consider a site to locate just three classrooms of a portable nature.

Dividing existing all-purpose rooms into separate classrooms would provide the needed space, but it would deprive youngsters in all grades of physical education, educational television and lunch room space. If there were no adequate outside facilities available this could be done in an emergency for several years, but it would not be educationally sound or desirable.

A large factor in the recommendation to use outside classrooms were the convenient availability of these classrooms. The educational unit of the Emanuel Church of Christ is extremely suitable and most adequate for public school use. In addition to the three fine classrooms which are available, a large auditorium type room could also be put to use on occasions for combined meetings and activities of the first grade students.

The students in this facility would have all the advantages and benefits that are afforded the elementary students in other buildings. They would have educational television, library service and other shared educational offerings.

Before the school can definitely decide to use the facilities, approval and permission must be granted by the State Department of Public Instruction.

The rooms must also be approved by the Washtenaw County Health Department and the State of Michigan's fire marshal.

The Manchester School District is, at the present time, awaiting word from these agencies relative to the use of the classrooms.

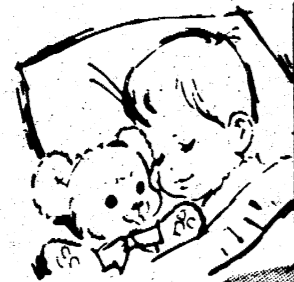

It is the thinking of the Board of Education and the Administration that this proposed plan offers the most feasible and economical answer to this problem.

School officials say that it is fortunate that the increasing enrollment is an orderly one. In Manchester the increase is about 50 a year. This number will continually increase as the district grows.

The district is not confronted with an extremely fast growth for a school district. School officials say that the facilities at Emanuel are able to accommodate the overflow until such time as a new building is ready.

Interested parents and citizens who would like to discuss the problem or any others, with the administration, can make arrangements to do so by calling the superintendent's office.

School officials say they will be most happy to discuss school matters with interested citizens.

St. Patrick's Church Celebrate 135 Years

-by Marie Schneider

The 135th anniversary celebration of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Northfield Township will conclude Sunday with an all-day potluck picnic on Sunday, August 7. A memorial mass for all deceased parishioners will be said at 9 a. m. Saturday.

St. Patrick's is the second oldest Roman Catholic church in Michigan. Its history dates back to 1829 when the three Catholic families came to the dense woods of Northfield township. They built log houses and started to clear the forest.

In 1830 they were visited by Fr. Patrick O'Kelly, who said mass in their homes. In 1831 there were 10 families and these devout people built a log church on the same spot where the present rectory stands. Those who erected the log cabin church with their own hands were John Keenan, Wm. Prindle, William Stubs, John McKernan, John Sullivan, Michael Portal, John McIntyre, Michael Bennet, Peter Smith, Michael Neligan, Patrick and Michael Walsh, Patrick Donavin and Bryan Galligan.

In 1835 Rev. Fr. Morrisey was appointed parish priest and a frame church 30 x 40 feet was built in 1837, where the cemetery now is. Although the log church was built in the spring of 1831, the land on which the building stood was not acquired by the diocese until the autumn of that year, when the 80 acres was offered at public auction to the highest bidder.

On September 2, 1831 Peter Y. Desnoyers of Detroit purchased the parcel for $100 cash. On Oct. 17, 1831 he assigned his right of the land to the Bishop of Cincinnati but now the property is owned by the Archbishop of Detroit. By 1840 the parish had 90 families and in 1850 the church was too small and a 30 x 60 addition was attached for a total cost of $350. The first resident pastor was Rev. Peter Wallace and the church became an independent parish. The frame rectory was built in 1865.

On December 5, 1874 the Rev. Fr. Joseph Van Waterschoot was appointed pastor. About the first thing he did was to suggest a new church as the old one was getting too small. He became very popular with the parishioners who called him Fr. Van. He told them he'd try to keep the parish out of debt while building and the parishioners decided to give him a try.

On January 18, 1875 the first stones were brought to the spot. From that day until the brick church was completed the materials were hauled and brought to the building location by the parishioners. John Boyle headed the building committee. The church still stands at 573 Whitmore Lake Road.

Fr. Louis Goldrick served for 35 years as pastor and was known as the "beloved pastor of St. Patrick's". He is buried in the church cemetery. He was known for his goodness and kindness to everyone regardless of their creed or color and was so well known by the general public that it was not uncommon for him to take two hours walking a block in Ann Arbor--so many people stopped to shake his hand.

One time the Ann Arbor News ran an article telling how long it took Fr. Goldrick to walk a block on Main Street. He was succeeded by Fr. G. Warren Peek who is now Msgr. Peek and pastor of St. Thomas. The present pastor is Fr. Arthur Lowry, chaplain at the Veteran's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Fr. Lowry supplied the background history of the church, much of which has been compiled from the "The Whitmore Laker."

STEER CLUB PLAYS BIG AT FAIR

One of the main attractions of the Manchester Community Fair will be the showing of the 32 steers by members of the Optimist Steer Club. Most of the steers were financed by notes endorsed by members of the Optimist Club.

The steers were brought by a committee of Optimists and fathers of the Steer Club members on November 21, 1965 from the Gaylord Livestock Auction and were insured by a Hartford Livestock policy.

Profits on the steers will go to the boy or girl who raised and trained the steer. This is part of the creed of the Optimist Club which is to aid the youth of the community.

L. V. Kirk is the chairman of the Optimist Steer Club and working with him are Dan Boutell, Norman Bucholtz and Tom Walton.

The local veterinarian, Dr. H. P. Eames and vocational ag teacher, Maynard Blossom are to be commended for their efforts in behalf of the program, according to Kirk.

In March the Steer Club members and their fathers were guests of the Optimists at a dinner meeting at which they were shown a film on feeding and marketing by William Hamilton.

These steers will be judged at 8 p. m. Wednesday, August 17 on the fair grounds and the auction will follow at 8 p. m. Thursday.

The Union Savings Bank here will be the host at the luncheon at Emanuel Church hall at noon Thursday. All Steer Club members and their fathers will be guests.

As is the service club's custom, the buyers and commission company representatives and others who have assisted in the Steer Club activities will be hosted by the bank.

Steers will be weighed in on the morning of the sale after being without feed or water for 12 hours.

Special awards to the club members have been donated by Grossman-Huber Service, L. V. Kirk Electric and Tom Marshall, Inc.

Fire Chief, James Kensler receives the keys to BIG DUTCH the newest piece of fire fighting equipment from Clayton Parr, Township Supervisor, also pictured Waldo Marx, Township Clerk, and Mike Wolfe, Township Treasurer.

'BIG DUTCH' The New Fire Engine Will Be On Parade Next Tuesday

-by Marie Schneider

Folks in Manchester are more than mildly interested in this village's newest piece of fire fighting equipment. Everyone would like to have a chance to have a good look at it. That is, they'd like to see it, but not on a service call.

Fire chief, James Kensler, says that everyone in the area will have an opportunity to get a view of it as the $19,881 fire engine takes its place in the mile and a half long parade next Tuesday evening, to open the community fair. He wants it understood the new fire truck will be returned immediately to the fire hall. It will not be left on the fair grounds.

The local fire department is just proud of the much needed piece of equipment which was bought by Manchester township with money which the township officers have been accumulating for the past seven years. The chassis was purchased from the local Ford dealer and sent to the John Bean Co. in Lansing in August of last year. There the equipment was built on. The bill for the chassis was $5,958.

In 1947 the late Charles Waltz, then Manchester township supervisor, suggested that the township take over the financing of the fire department. Prior to that time the volunteer department was operated on a makeshift basis with money from subscription to farmers in the outlying districts. If the farmer "belonged" to the tune of $50 a year his property would be included and if he needed the department they would answer the call. Otherwise there was some special assessment connected with the out of town calls. But the system didn't work out very well.

At that time the department had only the old hose truck. In 1950 Clayton Parr was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Supr. Waltz.

Since that time the Township Board has been very active in the affairs of its fire department. Supr. Parr, treasurer M. H. Wolfe, and clerk, Waldo Marx are proud that they were able to appropriate the necessary funds without voting special millage to secure the money.

This is quite a changing from the old bucketbrigade or the first chemical wagon bought in 1924. The second piece of equipment was a tanker to carry water. Then the township voted one mill for the purchase of the first piece of equipment. In 1947 with a chassis from Carl Schaible and equipment costing $5,147.25 from the John Bean Co. the Manchester department had its first complete fire truck total of $6,606.57. This is being used today.

SUCCULENT SALAD STILL SECRET

MUM-m-m-m's The Word About Recipe

It seems as though an excellent place to acquire a new recipe would be through the newspaper. But when the editor is asked to pin point a specific recipe --well, that's another story.

Many of us fall into the category of those who are flattered when asked how to make some favorite dish. We give the directions to the most minute detail. "We almost go along with the recipe and the cook definitely has our blessing."

It is, particularly, when the request is for the dressing for the cole slaw used at the Manchester Chicken Broil.

We've heard that there are those who do not share our enthusiasm in passing along the deep secrets of the culinary art. And here is where we hit the snag.

ENTERPRISE DIVULGES SALAD RECIPE

(1) 5 men to cut the cabbage (2) Dr. Jones's fine hand in the mixing.

(3) The most important part-- strict supervision in pouring of the dressing, SEE it's easy as 1-2-3 and your done.

"We'd like to pass out the recipe for the cole slaw dressing--but we can't. Try to visualize what this could do to the chicken broil," explained Klager who dreamed up the Chicken Broil in the first place.

He was backed by Rolland Grossman, his co-chairman for all of the 13 years that the broil has been served.

"Why that cole slaw is just as much a part of the Dutchmen's Chicken Broil as the sauer kraut cutters that slither the cabbage," Rollie volunteered.

Don't misunderstand, they are flattered by every request they receive. But every salad maker at the Big Broil has to sadly shake his head when he is confronted for the salad recipe. Some people think it is some sort of dressing which is bought all prepared. Nothing is farther from the truth. The salad committee makes the dressing in advance.

But these connoisseurs have too much at stake. They explain it this way:

"Why if we give our friends this recipe, think of the broil. If the thousands of patrons could be seated at their own table and be served a salad bowl heaped with cole slaw--the Dutch way, maybe they wouldn't drive for miles and miles to come to dinner. Its like the frosting on a cake. That salad adds a certain zest to the dinner," Klager pointed out.

It has been 13 years since a couple of very good chefs in town, Dr. J. R. Jones and Earl Koebbe made the first dressing and every salad maker since has taken an oath not to divulge the secret formula. The 19 salad makers this year were no exceptions.

"To take our salad recipe, would be like taking Santa Claus away from Christmas. We can't do it," Rollie was firm but final.

Its nice to know that their efforts are appreciated and they heartily invite everyone to come to the broil again next year, the third Thursday in July and eat the cole slaw. Over 10,000 did this year. It seems to go so well with that Manchester broiled chicken.
