COMMUNITY COLLEGE TO OFFER APPRENTICESHIPS

On November 25 Washtenaw Community College will begin a program of "high impact" trade instruction for apprentices and journeymen in seven of the skilled trades. These trade offerings are designed so that an individual can complete an apprenticeship in four years. A journeyman can continue to upgrade his skills so they won't become obsolete with technical change.

At the same time a tradesman whose skill is being phased out can be cross-trained in another field to keep a skilled tradesman status. Included will be die cast die maker, die maker, toolmaker, machine repair, industrial electrician, millwright and mechanical designer. It is hoped that in about 2 years this program will include 15 skilled trades.

Paul R. Hunt, dean of occupational education, says that this is different from other community college occupational programs in that the trainee has already selected his field. This will help meet the nation-wide requirements of industry.

Classes will be conducted evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. and the costs will be the same as for other college courses, $9 per credit hour for an in-district student or $18 per credit hour for an in-state student.

BOOK FAIR NEXT TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY

An unusual opportunity awaits early-bird Christmas shoppers at the Manchester Intermediate School next week.

A book fair and sale will highlight National Book Week at the Junior High Library November 1 and 2nd.

Mrs. Maynard Blossom Jr. High Librarian, would like to emphasize that this is the first time in many years that book shoppers will be able to view and select from so many books at one time in Manchester.

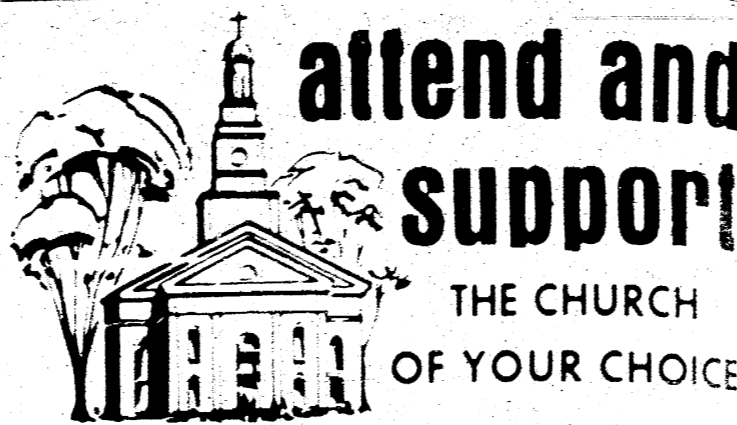

A ten per cent discount will be given on all purchases. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m. both days and from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday November 2 for the convenience of those who cannot come during school hours.

Mrs. Blossom said that there will be about 300 books to select from.

WASHTENAW LIBRARY ADDS FILM PROJECTOR

The Washtenaw County Library now has available an eight-millimeter silent projector for loan to the public. This is a result of the wide public acceptance of the library's new silent film service.

In less than six weeks, the silent films have become some of the most popular additions to the library, the staff reports. In September, there were more than 100 showings to more than 1,000 people. With the addition of a projector for loan, circulation is expected to increase.

The county library has 46 silent eight millimeter films including comedy, news and features.

Films and projectors may be reserved by calling the Washtenaw County Library, 665-0683, or by going to the library which is located in the basement of the Ann Arbor Public Library. Catalogs for both eight and 16-millimeter films are available.

Al Samborn Out-County Candidate For Washtenaw Community College

Albert J. Samborn, executive vice president of the Ann Arbor Board of Realtors and a resident of Dexter, announced that he will seek election to the Washtenaw Community College Board of Trustees for a four-year term.

There are seven seats to be filled on the board. The new board members will be elected on November 8 and will take office January 1.

Three incumbents, Evert W. Ardis, Edward Adams Jr. and Richard C. Creal will run for the three six-year terms. Incumbent Ralph C. Wenrich, Robert Foreman and Albert Samborn have announced for the two four-year terms. There are three candidates for the two two-year terms: Kenneth J. Beer, J. Douglas Cook and Anthony J. Procassini.

"I have been interested in the development of the community college from the beginning of the feasibility survey. I am convinced that this college can and will serve a vital area of educational need which has not been adequately served up to now," Samborn said.

"In this day of the 'knowledge explosion' when we must continue to study and retrain to stay current it is vital that we do not neglect the vocational technical levels of continued education."

"I feel my membership on the Board of Trustees could serve to broaden the over-all representation and aid in the vital area-wide communication process which is so necessary to the successful operation of the college," Samborn said.

The candidate, who was appointed to his post with the Board of Realtors last May was employed by radio station WPAG for the preceding 17 years. He started with the station as a general announcer in 1949, became a time salesman in 1950, program director in 1951, and news director in 1952. He held the latter two posts when he left the station.

Samborn has been active in school and other civic organizations in Dexter, Ann Arbor and the county.

A member of the Dexter Board of Education, he is chairman of the Steering Committee for the County School Reorganization.

He was county chairman for Michigan Week in 1965, and has served on various boards and committees of the local and state United Fund, Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Associated Press.

In Dexter, he is or has been president of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the PTA, cubmaster, member of the adult advisor board for the Dexter Youth Club and chairman for the Dexter Methodist Church building fund campaign.

Samborn, 43, and his wife have two children, Jim 18, and Cheri, 15. The family lives at 7195 Dexter-Ann Arbor Road.

TO THE EDITOR

Mr. & Mrs. George Koda
Editors
Manchester Enterprise
Manchester, Michigan

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Koda:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the numerous organizations in the Manchester area who have been kind enough to extend invitations to me to appear before them during the past several months. As many of your readers are aware, the United States Congress has held an extraordinarily long session this year. To transact this business, I have been obligated to remain in Washington weeks longer than earlier anticipated, and as a consequence, often at the last minute, I have been obligated to cancel commitments to attend events which I had accepted earlier in the year.

With the 89th Congress now about to adjourn, I am pleased to be able to report that I shall be in the District full time during the coming weeks, and look forward to meeting with those of your readers with whom I have not been able to meet to date.

Sincerely,
Weston Vivian
Member of Congress

Vocational Committee Include Two From Manchester

The policy committee of the Washtenaw-Livingston County Vocational Technical Education Opportunities Study met in Ann Arbor on Thursday of last week.

The policy committee is composed of school administrators, school board members and lay citizens from each school district in the two-county area.

The committee is responsible for overall planning and supervision of the study. Implementation of the policy committee's plans is to be carried out by the study director and the executive committee, composed of nine members from the policy committee.

At the October 20 meeting the policy committee moved that all schools in the two-county area—both public and non-public—are to be included in the study, and they instructed the study director, Earl Schaffer, to invite the participating non-public schools to send representatives.

The policy committee reviewed existing data available from other studies which have been conducted in the two counties, and policy committee members submitted to the director, recommendations for membership on the various survey study committees being established.

The committee restated its philosophy that this study does not carry any endorsement for a particular type of training, but is intended to explore various organizational possibilities for providing both secondary and post-secondary vocational-technical education opportunities for all young people regardless of where they may live in the two-county area.

Future meetings of the committee are to be announced. Policy committee representatives from Manchester are Supl. of Schools, Robert D. Swartz and School Board member, Clarence Fielder of 124 So. Macomb St.

During the summer months, a policy committee was established composed of one school administrator and one board member or lay citizen from each school district.

During July and August meetings were held to establish general guidelines for the study. They appointed an executive committee and charged them with hiring a study director and getting the study under way.

At the initial planning session earlier this month, chaired by Nick Ianni, Washtenaw Intermediate District Superintendent, the executive committee confirmed the appointment of Earl Schaffer of Ann Arbor as the study director.

The steering committee also reviewed the proposed outcomes for the study and accepted the following as broad objectives:

1. To assess the employment outlook for Washtenaw-Livingston County youth.
2. To identify and evaluate existing other vocational-technical programs.
3. To identify and recommend needed programs.
4. To recommend possible methods of organization and administration of vocational-technical education programs.
5. To identify optimum locations for vocational-technical education programs and facilities in the two-county area.
6. To investigate methods of financing vocational-technical education programs.

4-H CLUB NEWS LOCAL YOUTH IN LIVESTOCK SHOW

Twenty-four 4-H Club members from Washtenaw county will be among the 400 young showmen from all over Michigan who will participate in the 37th annual Detroit Junior Livestock Show, to be held October 31 to November 3 at the Michigan State Fairground.

The show will provide a first hand opportunity to "learn to do by doing", according to Ed Poole, Extension Area 4-H Youth Agent.

The 4-H'ers will be competing for fame and fortune—but are assured of a fine educational experience—as they lead their carefully fed and groomed animals before the judges.

Some of the showmen from the area are entering animals in the carcass classes. These animals will be weighed and evaluated on Monday, October 31, carcasses from animals entered in the fat stock show will be weighed and classified on Tuesday. Carcass class members are Mike McCalla, Ann McCalla, JoAnne McCalla and Judy McCalla of Ann Arbor; Bob Kuschmaul Jr. of Chelsea; Robert Girbach, Marlene Girbach and Kenneth Feldkamp of Saline in the Swine Division. Those in the sheep carcass class are Gail Girbach and James Burmeister of Ann Arbor; Mike Bristle and Jim Bristle from Chelsea.

The carcass classes are in their fourth year, and provide an opportunity for the young stockmen to see if their feeding methods are producing the top-quality meats demanded by today's consumers.

All other livestock will be entered on Tuesday, Nov. 1. Members showing will be Ed, Wesley, Leon and Fred Gall; Gary Girbach and Marlene and Mary Alice Girbach of Saline; Nancy Dumble of Ann Arbor and Barry Bevier of Ypsilanti in the Beef Division.

In the swine division, Robert Girbach, Marlene Girbach, Mary Alice Girbach and Kenneth Feldkamp of Saline; Bob Kuschmaul, Howard and Kenny McCalla of Chelsea; Mike McCalla, Ann McCalla, JoAnne McCalla and Judy McCalla of Ann Arbor; Gordon McCalla and Mary Ann McCalla of Manchester. Members showing in sheep are Gail Girbach and James Burmeister of Ann Arbor and Mike and Jim Bristle of Chelsea.

Wednesday will be a full day of judging as well as evaluation of pork and lamb carcasses. The traditional exhibitors awards banquet will be held in the evening.

High point of the show—the Detroit Junior Livestock Sale—will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. Sale of the top animals usually brings spirited bidding.

The show is sponsored by the 4-H Club Department of MSU's Cooperative Extension Service and the Detroit Junior Livestock Society. The society is a group of businessmen dedicated to promoting efficient livestock production among Michigan's young stockmen.

Vacationing Bertkes Tell of Trip to Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bertke have returned home after a 10 day vacation trip to Florida. They traveled through the area around Key West and saw the devastation brought by wind and rain from "Inez".

They mentioned that trailers in camps were badly damaged along with electric signs, trees and all types of shrubbery. The weather around Key West was hot and sultry. Bertke's stayed at Homestead before going to the Keys.

At Miami they visited the Parrot Jungle where 150 macaws intrigued them. Among the birds that put on a colorful show were a hundred flamingos and an hour show of performing parrots.

The park was beautiful with flowers and cacti of all kinds.

They stopped at the citrus fruit groves and picked some fruit, including oranges, tangerines, grapefruit, avocado and limes.

Bertkes thought the Cypress Gardens a real showplace with skid performances and a tropical wonderland. They were impressed with the sausage tree which they found almost hard to believe was real.

At Lake Wales they saw the reproduction of the Last Supper—made of 300,000 pieces of tile. They were told that the priceless art treasure was saved from the Russians during the Berlin Airlift and brought to Florida.

Then they toured the jungle of wild animals and as they started their trip back north they marveled at the acres of pecan trees and learned that the harvest time for them is in November.

They left the area of the Spanish moss to come through the Smoky Mountains but the fog and rain hampered them and they were unable to take very many pictures.

They did manage to get one of a big black bear as he begged for food near a garbage can.

Another point of interest was the tobacco barns and a short stop at Ren Fro Valley.

They reported having good luck in obtaining lodgings and noticed a decided change in the weather as they drove into Ohio. The Bertkes have, in their travels, managed to spend some time in each of the states except California and Hawaii, and plan in the not too distant future to include them in their travels.

CAP Breaks Ground For New Building

CAP, Inc. broke ground Sunday for its new manufacturing and training facility on Enterprise Drive.

The site is just off Jackson Rd. six miles west of Ann Arbor.

Mayor Wendell Hulcher was the main speaker. The new facility will allow the non-profit industrial firm to at least double its employment of handicapped workers and install new training facilities for others.

Also on the program was Mrs. Ventia Dickerson, founder of CAP and its president and general manager.

Mrs. Dickerson, who conceived the idea of an industrial organization owned and operated by the handicapped after she was crippled in an auto accident, said the new building will nearly double CAP space and bring its present crew of 60 workmen under one roof again.

The steel-panel structure will make available 17,500 sq. feet of space. Designed by the architectural firm of Louis Kingscott and Associates of Kalamazoo, the project is being contracted.

CAP now employs people in light manufacturing, assembly, salvage and custom projects obtained on competitive bids with industry. The firm expects to increase its employment rolls to at least 100 by April, Mrs. Dickerson says. The company has a current waiting list of 300 handicapped persons seeking employment and training.

Rapid growth of the firm resulted in its being located in four different rented buildings in as many years starting in 1960. Public contributions still are being solicited for its first permanent headquarters.

The new CAP factory will include an enlarged evaluation and training section for new employees and also provide for a sheltered workshop for assisting the severely handicapped.

CAP is negotiating with Claude Whitehead, superintendent of rehabilitation with the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, for a contract to provide a regular staffed training program, Mrs. Dickerson explains.

The CAP program of evaluation and training already has resulted in placing a large number of its "alumni" in private industry.

FARM LOAN PROGRAM HELPFUL

Many young farmers in Lenawee and Washtenaw Counties are finding the farm ownership loan program of the Farmers Home Administration an effective tool to buy the farms of their retiring elders or even to expand their own small operations.

This is the word from Carl L. Robinson, Farmers Home Administration supervisor serving the three county area.

"The demand for this type of credit," Robinson said, "is greater today than it has ever been before. Established farmers need this sort of credit to enlarge and up-date their operations, other farmers need this type of credit to work their way out of financial difficulties and, in many cases, they need to use their equity in real estate to restructure on manageable terms, short term debts incurred for long-range improvements."

Family farmers may use FHA's farm ownership loans to combine small land tracts into economic units, establish permanent pastures, finance needed soil and water improvements, construct or renovate dwellings and essential farm buildings or take other steps to increase farm income producing capacity and efficiency.

Like other FHA loans, farm ownership assistance is advanced to qualified family farmers who are unable to obtain credit from conventional lenders. Farm ownership loans are advanced at 5 percent interest payable over 40 years.

The Farmers Home Administration also makes loans to pay farm operating expenses, meet emergency credit needs of farmers, develop community water and sewer systems, grazing associations, build housing in rural areas including housing for senior citizens and farm laborers, and raise income levels of rural and farm people.

Additional information is available to interested persons if they contact the Farmers Home Administration, 111 South Ann Arbor Street, Saline.

George Romney says this about Stan Thayer

Dear Stan:

"Congratulations upon your nomination to the circuit bench of Washtenaw County in the recent primary election.

"I'm particularly happy to see that your interest in giving continued public service to the citizens of your part of Michigan has not waned. As a member of the Michigan Senate, where you were Majority Leader, and as a member of the Michigan Employment Security Appeal Board, you have exhibited qualities of leadership and conviction too rarely found in areas of public trust.

"These qualities and the many others that have marked your public service career certainly make you highly qualified for a circuit judgeship."

Highway Built Around Gravesite

There is no sentiment in growing, grinding bulldozers, but the conscience of the people guides their gouging.

Seldom has this been more evident than in highway construction project now underway on 8 miles of US-31 bordering the east arm of Little Traverse Bay north-east of Traverse City.

On the east side of the road, near Yuba Creek midway in the project extending from Acme north to Elk Rapids, there rests a grave-stone chipped and nicked by the tacks of weather and time.

Hard-to-read, the inscription on the stone identifies the spot as the burial place of William Leith, aged two years, ten months and 21 days when he died in 1859.

William was buried there by his father, a farmer, who settled with his family in the wilderness to take a job in a sawmill after an unsuccessful foray into California to strike it really rick in gold.

Legend has it that William died of scarlet fever as his parents were planning to leave the area with their six children to return to their native Ohio.

There was no cemetery nearby at the time, and his parents buried him along what was then a wagon trail.

Later the tombstone was brought to Traverse City by ship, a pine seedling was planted beside the grave, and relatives who remained in the area tended the gravesite for years.

The pine now towers over the spot.

Three years ago, when State Highway Commission design engineers drew up plans for the modernization of US-31, the hard facts of road engineering indicated the improved road should pass over William's gravesite.

But a sense of human values, always an "X" factor in highway engineering, tilted the scale against such a decision.

The designers modified plans so that the gravesite would remain untouched.

Work near the site with the heavy equipment of Pickett and Schreier, Inc., Allegan, is now finished and the last mile of paving on the $415,277 project was completed last week—months ahead of schedule.

For motorists driving along this picturesque bayview highway hereafter, there will be an ever-so-slight deviation as future travelers respect the grave of William Leith, boy pioneer.

HUNTERS WARNED ON TRESPASS LAW

Hunters are causing the usual problems with violations of the Horton trespass law, according to Michigan State Police at the Blissfield and Clinton Posts, where a number of complaints have been made.

The Horton Law, authorized by the late Senator Norman B. Horton of Lenawee makes the farmer, the land owner, the king of his domain. It's illegal for a hunter to set foot on a farm regardless of whether it is posted with "no hunting" or "no trespassing" signs, or not.

To be within the law, state police say, hunters must ask permission to hunt on every farm. When they don't, they are liable to arrest and prosecution. If they are stopped and asked to leave a hunting area—when permission hasn't been granted—the best advice is to do so promptly and graciously and give thanks that an arrest hasn't already been made.

The Horton trespass law is just that tough.

MRS. BENNETT C. ROOT

The widow of Bennett C. Root died Monday, October 17 in Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Born in Glencoe, Ontario, Canada, 77 years ago, she came to Detroit as a young woman and entered Nursing School from which she graduated.

She was married to Bennett Root at Gaylord, Michigan in 1900. He preceded her in death Aug. 3, 1963.

Mrs. Root was a visitor in Manchester on October 11, having recently returned from a trip to Europe. She was called to Calgary, Ontario, on Oct. 12 by the death of her brother, Leonard Walker.

The following Friday she became ill and entered the hospital there, where her illness was diagnosed as meningitis. She died October 17.

She is survived by a daughter, Margaret Jane Nietzel of Cass City, Michigan, a son Luther Murray of Miramar, Florida, a grandson, Luther Murray, Jr. serving in the Armed Forces in Viet Nam and a brother Meredith Walker of Alberta, Canada.

Mrs. Root was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, Gifford Chapter 369, Gaytown, Michigan and of the Trinity Methodist Church, DeLand, Florida where memorial services were held last Friday.

Post Office Warns of False Ads

Postal authorities took steps today to thwart a gun-selling scheme that seeks to capitalize on gun control legislation pending in Congress, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced.

The Post Office Department's Judicial Officer issued a foreign fraud order against International Import-Export Company, which offered guns of all kinds, as well as jeeps, at unrealistically low prices. International's scheme calls for remittances to be addressed to Leme Palace, Room 1214, 656 Avenida Atlantica, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The fraud order, which was issued at the request of the Post Office Department's General Counsel, requires postal officials to return to the tenders all mail addressed to International or to Room 1214 of the Leme Palace, a hotel, and to refuse payment on money orders obtained by International.

The fraud order was based on the lack of credibility in the firm's advertising claims.

Some 25,000 pieces of advertising were mailed from California to persons in 11 cities throughout the country. These were Chicago, Miami, New York City, Atlanta, Detroit, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Little Rock, Birmingham, Alabama and Jackson, Mississippi.

Articles of this type cannot be imported into this country without a license from the Treasury Department.

The jeeps are offered for sale at $125 each or $150 with an electric winch. Supposedly the jeeps were the type used in World War II and the Korean War.

The 32 different guns offered include hand guns, automatic rifles, riot guns, flare guns and carbines. A 25 caliber pistol is described in the advertisement as "tiny but a real killer."

The price range is from $10 to $150. An assortment of eight Mauser type rifles are offered at $20 each.

The mailings have been traced to a Las Vegas, Nevada firm and postal inspectors are vigorously pursuing the investigation.

ESCH QUESTIONS WES VIVIAN

"My opponent is in serious trouble with the farmers of this district and it will take more than Secretary Freeman to bail him out," Marvin Esch, Republican candidate for Second District congressman told a group of farmers while on tour in Washtenaw County.

Hitting at Weston Vivian's voting record in Congress and noting that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman was to campaign for the Democratic candidate on Wednesday, Esch said he would like "honest answers from either or both on their actions against the farmers of this district."

"Mr. Vivian tried a bit of deception in a recent newspaper ad by boasting that he voted for House Bill 10 which provides extra income tax credit toward farmer retirement," Esch said. "The truth of the matter is every single member of the House of Representatives voted for this bill and my opponents 'yes' vote didn't take much courage."

Esch noted that Vivian voted against every major piece of legislation backed by the Farm Bureau in 1965, while at the same time voting 100 percent for legislation backed by the AFL-CIO and Americans for Democratic Action.

"The wishes of these two groups can hardly be compatible with those of our Second District farmers," Esch said.

"The panic button was pushed for Secretary Freeman because Vivian suddenly realized that he hasn't kept in contact with the farmers who comprise 40 per cent of the populace of this district," Esch charged. "Let either of them answer these questions, and see if their answers make sense."

- Esch asked his opponent to answer:
1. Why he voted 100% against the farmer and 100% for COPE & ADA?
 2. Why Secretary Freeman was "pleased to report" last spring that the farmer's prices on certain key items had gone down.
 3. Why the cutback on military purchases of pork and butter?
 4. Why was corn and wheat dumped on the market this spring?
 5. Why were quotas on cheese imports lifted, other than to keep the prices down?
 6. Why were hide exports limited, except to keep prices down?
 7. Why has the present Secretary of Agriculture used policies which were meant to aid the farmer, against him?
 8. Why has Mr. Vivian stood by and refused to speak out against this deplorable situation?

"The farmers of this district certainly have not gotten the representation they have a right to expect from their congressman," Esch said. "This is a situation I trust they will correct next week."

My sincere thanks to all my friends, neighbors and relatives for remembering me with cards and gifts while I was in the Saline Hospital and since I returned home. Thanks to Rev. Price for his visits. Mrs. Alton Geiringer

Candidacy for WCC Board

A. J. Procassini

A. J. Procassini, Director of Industrial Relations for Bendix Systems Division, has announced his candidacy for a two-year term on the Board of Trustees of the Washtenaw County Community College.

Procassini was a candidate for the initial Board in 1964, when the proposal for the Community College was presented and approved. With six trustees being elected from a field of 38 candidates, Procassini ran seventh.

In announcing his candidacy, Procassini said: "Because of the tremendous technical growth of the area, the needs and desires of our citizens, and the changing requirements of our industries and businesses, the Board will be faced continually with many varying and complex problems, such as building, costs, and curriculum. The trustees must, therefore, be knowledgeable in many areas and responsive to the needs of all peoples, of all geographic areas, of each segment of our community in order to set policy and guide lines. I believe that my professional experience in business and industry and my previous work on the community college, should qualify and provide me with the overall perspective essential to serve the community successfully in this capacity."

For the past four years, Procassini has served as an officer on the Ann Arbor City Council's Economic Development and Manpower Commission. He currently is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Committee to study citizen's survey on the need for a Community College. Previously he had participated extensively in the Chamber of Commerce's original survey on the possible need for a Community College. Procassini has been active in the Chamber of Commerce for the past ten years, and is currently serving on the educational committee.

ISSUES ON NOV. 8th BALLOT

Washtenaw County voters will go to the polls on November 8 to cast their ballots on three bonding issues which will total $6,705,000.

Each of these proposals for the three-art capital improvement program may be voted on separately; the total package will cost $6,750,000. The County has stated that bonding for these three much needed facilities which will run for 20 years will cost not more than $.72 a year for $1,000 of assessed valuation of property as equalized, according to a report from Elaine Rice, chairman of Public Relations Committee, Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors.

These issues are:

1. To build an addition to the present County Building to house two new Circuit Courtrooms with their necessary offices and facilities for a total of $1,165,000.
2. To build a Juvenile Court Center at Washtenaw and Platt Roads, where all the needs of juveniles who are in trouble through neglect, or their own misdeeds, can be handled. This will house offices of the Juvenile Court workers and the Judge, contiguous to new Detention quarters for a cost of $1,490,000.
3. To build a medical facility of 176 beds for extending nursing and rehabilitative care as a replacement to the present County Hospital on Washtenaw Road, also to be on the County Farm property for a cost of $4,050,000.

Past records in the county show that the Board of Supervisors have been reluctant to request bonding power from the taxpayers unless they felt convinced of the need, according to Mrs. Rice.

The Board gives these reasons for the needed bond proposals. In 1940 the County population was 80,000; in 1966 it is approximately 200,000; by 1980 it is expected to be in excess of 300,000. The Board points out that the County Building is being outgrown. That the county will have to meet the growing need for juvenile services.

Ten years ago, when there was only one Circuit Court Judge, there were two courtrooms. Two years ago the second Circuit Court Judge was elected. Not too long afterwards the state legislature made it mandatory for counties with population such as Washtenaw to provide a third Circuit Court Judge. This judge will also be voted in on Nov. 8, along with the proposals. In order to provide some room for this third judge, and the fourth judge who will follow, with the projected population growth, the county has proposed a $1,165,000 addition to the present County Building. This will extend the East wing northward along Fourth Avenue. This is Proposal # 1 on the ballot.

Providing temporary quarters for the third Circuit Judge has necessitated acquiring rental quarters in the Masonic Temple for the Juvenile Judge and his staff at a cost of about $19,000 annually. This is Proposal # 2 on the ballot.

The present medical facility building, which cares for 81 patients was constructed in 1917. A trial run to put the need for a new County Medical facility before the public was made in 1960. At that time the nursing home operators and some members of the County Medical Society seemed opposed. Since that time the County, in cooperation with the County Planning Commission carried out a study which gave high priority on needed capital improvements. This study was brought up to date with regard to Social Security legislation of Titles 18 and 19 by John Griffith of the University of Michigan Bureau of Hospital Administration.

CIVIL SERVICE POSITIONS OPEN

Employment opportunities in some 30 categories under the Michigan State Civil Service competitive trainee examinations for college graduates was told today by Senator Gilbert E. Bursley, (R) Ann Arbor.

Any college graduate to age 50 may apply for the examinations, the first of which will be given November 19, 1966. The employment lists will be active until November 22, 1967.

"The positions are in areas ranging from Administrative Analyst through Urban Planning. This affords an opportunity for those who are currently employed to find greater avenues of contributing to Michigan's growth," Senator Bursley said.

The positions are in a major portion of Michigan's nineteen principle departments, with a total classified employment of 35,441 through December of 1965.

Complete information may be obtained from the Michigan State Civil Service Office, located in the Lewis Case Building, Lansing.

SITE FOR WCIB OFFICE BUILDING AGREED UPON

The Washtenaw County Intermediate Board of Education may have a new site for an office building according to Supt. Nicholas A. Ianni. He said that the Detroit Edison Co. has agreed to sell the board a 38-acre parcel on Wagner Road, in Scio Township.

This was the site that the Board had hoped to acquire but began to look as though it couldn't be obtained when the board learned that Edison had an option on the land. Ianni has been instructed to seek an option on a 18-acre parcel adjacent to the Edison property which it could hold until January 1.

A new state law gives the school board the opportunity to levy up to one mill on every dollar of the intermediate districts state equalized valuation simply by resolution.

If the site is selected then an office building for the intermediate district can be erected and would be financed by this bonding power which could mean about $725,000 in revenue. The size and cost and bonding procedure will be discussed at the November meeting of the board.

What started like an early winter snow flurry Wednesday morning gained momentum until it reached a major winter storm by evening with high winds swirling and beating the snow into high drifts. Roads were clogged and crews worked through the night to keep main highways open. Pictured is Main Street, snapped by the publisher at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Beautiful snow! Our cameraman was out again and snapped another picture of the same Main Street area at 8 a.m. Thursday. This amounted to the earliest winter snow storm recorded in the history of the state with snow recorded at 7.5 inches by 7 a.m. Thursday. Traffic was slowed to a snail's pace and drifts were piled high on the thawed ground. Not much business Thursday morning!

BOOK FAIR LAUDED AS SUCCESS!! T. H. Tapping Jr., Junior High Principal and Mrs. Maynard Blossom school librarian, reported that they were highly pleased with the response to the first project of its kind in six years. A ten percent saving was passed along to the buyers and total sales brought in more than $300. The year's first snow, Wednesday, which piled drifts along the highways didn't keep some brave souls from stopping off Wednesday to look over the books.

"Another year we'll plan to have the sale last through a week instead of a couple of days. Then," school officials explained, "if we should encounter bad weather for a day it won't mean so much. The two-day sale which ended Wednesday night saw about 150 books sold."
