

Local Teacher Resigns

by Marie Schneider
A Manchester school teacher has resigned as a full time instructor in order to spend some time with her husband, Mrs. Erwin (Ina) Haeussler, who for some 28 years taught in Wash-tanaw schools...

When the weather was cold, she and her husband would go over to the school and start the fire so it wouldn't be so chilly in the morning.

Manchester MYI Members Write Home

Letters from MYI members now travelling abroad are being welcomed by the Enterprise. Parents of these music groups are cooperating. Parts of these letters are being printed. It goes without saying that the three Manchester students are not aware that maybe their letters home might be of general interest.

This first letter is written from England by Lucy Feldkamp to her parents, the Reno Feldkamps:

Dear Fahmily,
I ahm beehveeng a supah toim. Weethin foive daties I hahve peecked up an English accent—a little of a one anyway.

I have written a whole pile of postcards but I haven't any stamps and since the British government demands you pay for your postage I have to get some somewhere.

I have changed my money but all I have bought is two bus fares. I have ridden on the upper deck of a double decker bus and have seen the English channel, the River Thames, Buckingham Palace, Big Ben, Downing Street (but not No. 10), Picadilly circus and many, many other things.

Also saw Canterbury cathedral, Hastings (where the battle was fought) and Westminster Abbey. But only from a distance and we got out only once. My watch is working perfectly. I set it by Big Ben and its been right ever since.

The boys are going literally wild. We have sung at three girls schools and they ALL wear mini-skirts (not the schools, the girls.) In fact, just about the only people who don't wear mini-skirts are the men, nuns and 90-year-olds.

You should hear some of the girls complain. Here we stand in our sober uniforms with skirts below our knees. We haven't the minutest chance.

The plane trip was fine. We got a glance at Montreal as we passed over. We had to land at a different airport because of the heavy fog. Would you believe that the first thing my host family said about London was that it was hardly ever foggy? They did!

There is all sorts of history around here. The first college we sang at was built over an old plague pit. The third one we were at had two ghosts. One was the grey nun, who walked only on one part of the lawn—the only part that was sacred. There used to be a nursery there in the old days. There is also a man (ghost) who supposedly comes to the dorms and sits at the foot of the girls' beds.

We are doing on the average of two concerts a day. Maybe you can see now why I've been so busy.

See you in four weeks,
Lucy

SCOUTS HOME AFTER WEEK AT CAMP

Troops 426 and 436 returned home after a week at the Bruin Lake Scout Camp. Seventeen scouts and their leaders, Robert Armentrout and Larry England spent the week camping out.

This second letter is from Pratt to his parents the James Pratts.

Dear Mom and Dad,
This is the first chance I have had to write to you since my first letter. The mailman (Mr. Connell) has a batch of letters to give us tomorrow. I hope there is one for me in it.

The first part of our trip included Reading, London, Eastbourne, Dover, Crayden and now Middlesborough.

I am staying in a very nice home tonight but I stayed in a real dump last night.

I believe I've had the most fun so far in Eastbourne. We were constantly entertained by the 500 girls who go to the all girls' college there.

This is very beautiful country around here as you can see from the postcards I'm sending Gary, Marilyn, Pat etc.

Seems like I've made about a thousand new friends and am having a great time. The skirts are shorter, the girls are prettier and friendlier over here. I'm not lonely. Ha, ha!

I'm keeping a good diary so I'll be able to tell you everything when I get home.

Love,
John

MYI TOURING EUROPE

Musical Youth International arrived in London Saturday, June 24 to begin a five-week European tour. They performed in two concerts Sunday in Reading to large appreciative audiences.

Mr. Gwyn Arch, head of the Music Department of Bulmerhe College of Education at Reading, rated the group "one of the finest musical organizations" he had heard. The Town-Hall audience in the evening responded, at the conclusion of the program, with the traditional "rhythmic applause".

The 1967 MYI Tour Group continued their schedule to Eastbourne on June 26th. An audience of 5000 heard the afternoon program in the city Band Stand on June 27. The evening Formal Concert was presented to the Queen's College students, who, together with Eastbourne Rotary Club, hosted the group.

Musical Youth International, is a Teen-age affiliate club of People-to-People. By living in homes where they perform, they share the life of each community, and thus extend their experiences of international communication. Further concerts are planned at the International Eisteddfod, in Llan-gollen, Wales, in Budepest, Vienna, and Ansbach, Germany. Upon their return home, MYI will appear at EXPO 67, at the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa, Canada, and Washington, D. C.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

College Week Classes Fits Three Needs

Classes offered to Michigan's homemakers through College Week for Women fall into three categories, according to Mrs. Helen Fairman, Extension home economist in Washtenaw, Lenawee and Monroe counties.

"The annual event at MSU offers information for leadership and community development, home and family life and individual enrichment," Mrs. Fairman said. The week is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, and is scheduled for July 25-28 this year.

Homemakers who attend the entire session may register for three classes specially designed for them. The classes meet three times, and are taught predominantly by Michigan State University staff members.

Topics of continuing interest to homemakers include: "Improving International Understanding," "Safe Food Handling Pays Off," "The Changing World of the Consumer," "Maiding Marriage and the Family More Meaningful" and "Art in the Home."

Over 30 classes are offered for homemakers to choose from. Attendance is expected to top 1,000 Mrs. Fairman said.

In addition to classes, the homemakers have an opportunity to attend special programs.

Rounding out this year's theme, "Michigan Yesterday and Today," will be a pageant of Michigan history, written, costumed and presented by the homemakers themselves. This project has been in preparation since early 1967, Mrs. Fairman noted.

In addition, the homemakers will hear Robert Thom, a noted illustrator of Michigan history, and Dirk Gringhuis, current artist at MSU's museum.

Mr. Thom, noted illustrator from Birmingham will use reproductions of his own illustrations to show aspects of the state's history, according to Mrs. Fairman. Women from all parts of Michigan will present an historical pageant for which they wrote the script and located authentic costumes.

Speaking of his Michigan history series of illustrations, Thom is quoted as saying, "You can't fake history. You have to know how people lived, what they wore their physical characteristics and surroundings, the architecture and furniture of the time, and the household implements."

With this in mind, he traveled several thousand miles in search of historical facts and information for the 25 paintings in the Michigan series, commissioned by Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

College Week For Women is an annual event at Michigan State University, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at MSU. It is open to any woman in Michigan. Information on programs and classes offered during the week are available through the Cooperative Service office in Ann Arbor, Monroe and Adrian.

Coffee Hour Planned By St. Mary's

There will be a Centennial Coffee Hour on the church lawn at St. Mary's after each of the Masses Sunday, July 9 on the church lawn, weather permitting. The committee would appreciate it if every lady of the parish would bring either sweet rolls or coffee cake.

This will be a parish affair, according to Mrs. William Schwab president of the Altar Society.

She is encouraging everyone to wear Centennial clothes to the Masses at 8, 9:30 and 11:15 a. m. In the event of rain the affair will be in the church hall.

Scholarship Winners Return Home

Kathy Feldkamp is home again after two weeks at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp at Muskegon. Virginia Vogel attended the Music Camp at Interlochen for a two week period.

Both girls were awarded Band Booster Scholarships. Kathy was sent to the Blue Lake Camp because there were too many applicants at Interlochen.

Centennial Lawn Party In Twentieth Century Plans

A Centennial Lawn Party will be given by the Twentieth Century Club for the older adults in the area at the Walton Home on Main Street, Tuesday, July 25 from two to four in the afternoon. Those whose birthdays are in the first half of the century which Manchester is celebrating (1867-1920) are the special guests of this occasion. The older citizens in the Manchester Area are invited to come and "sit a spell" and watch the activities while they chat about "the old times" and sip pink lemonade or iced tea. There will also be an antique display of special items of interest to the community. If anyone has an antique with an early Manchester history, which he would like to have displayed, he may contact Mrs. Tom Walton or Mrs. Rolland Grossman before July 22nd. Working with Mrs. Walton is the president of the Twentieth Century Club, Mrs. Rolland Grossman, Mrs. Aivin Kappler and Mrs. Franklin Reck. Mrs. Tom Marshall and Mrs. Maynard Blossom are in charge of the hostesses and waitresses. Mrs. Ray Kerr is chairman of the refreshment committee. Mrs. Ray Trolz and Mrs. Walter Vogt will schedule transportation for those who need it and Mrs. Charles Cresswell and Mrs. Leo Scully will organize the antique display.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Thomas Hicks, the 4th grade and building principal at the Pleasant Lake school, will be teaching in a parochial school. Mrs. Ray (Elma) Trolz is retiring from the Manchester School system. Mrs. Robert England will be leaving the area. Mrs. Kathleen Morrison Garmise was married at the end of the school year and will be moving to New York. Mr. Chester Koceski, high school principal, says that report cards can be picked up at the high school office week days from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Heat --- Take It Easy This Summer

You can't really beat the heat. Whether it's the heat or the humidity or both, it's hot in almost all of the United States in July. After weeks of sweating and steaming, it's not uncommon to find the heat is beginning to wear you down. You can't do anything about the outside temperature. You can avoid it if you're fortunate enough to work and live in air-conditioned comfort, but it still will be hot outside. The American Medical Association points out that there are some things you can do to be more comfortable—things that can help you beat the heat. Stay out of the sun as much as possible, especially during the middle of the day when rays are hottest. Wear light, loose clothing. The ladies have an edge over the men in this respect. Drink more liquids than usual, but take extra salt only on your physician's advice, particularly if you have liver or kidney trouble or a heart condition. Take a shower or dip in the pool once or twice a day to cool off. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat your regular diet and don't go overboard on cold cuts and salads, unless you like them anyway. Get up early in the morning to do your heavy work on the lawn

NOTICE Dear Mervin: We missed you again at Ben Franklin but there was a lot of confusion there last Saturday I was picking out some Children's Boxer Shorts on sale when suddenly a terrible burst of rifle and machine gun fire came from one side of the store...the smell of gun powder...then an answering barrage plus torpedoes and grenades from the other side! A woman screamed, "We're being bombed!" and everybody began to run around like crazy...I found all our kids well armed...at one side of the store...they were "at war" against that little Bobby from the next block and two of his friends...nobody was hurt of course, because all of Ben Franklin's Fourth of July guns and noisemakers are harmless cap-turing...But I just got the kids out of there and took them home. I'll meet you for sure, though, next Saturday...at the scarf counter. BEN FRANKLIN has 39c Nylon Sweater Head Scarf on sale at 2 for 49c! Love, Pauline

HIGHLIGHTS

Looking along the streets there is no question in anyone's mind that this community has gone all out for the Centennial. With perfect weather, lovely old gowns and many bright new ones dotting the streets Manchester looked like something taken from a history book of long ago.

Bearded men, derby and stove pipe hats, colored vests and even antique rockers on some of the lawns add color to this panorama of early Manchester.

Threshing, as it was done many years ago will be of interest to many who will go to the Farm west of town Saturday, July 22 to see the old machinery in operation.

The Big Chicken Broil will be the next big event, which this year will take on a Centennial flavor.

Rolland Grossman, who for many years has worked with Luther Klager on this program is asking that everyone who has costumes wear them on that day.

Last year there seemed to be a bottle neck in the take-out. This year the take-out department will be all by itself. It can be reached easily from Wolverine Street.

This year preparations are being made to feed 10,000. The price is the same $1.50 for a large plump chicken half, cole slaw, radishes and potato chips.

MANCHESTER CENTENNIAL parade Chairman Bill Halnstock, left, and centennial Chairman Irving Gill, right, give certificates and corsages to Mrs. L. C. Kent, 87, widow of the doctor who served this community for 50 years, and Carl Wuerthner, 93, parade marshal. They rode together in a 1921 model car at the head of Tuesday's parade.

THE LOOMIS BATTERY of the 1st Michigan Light Artillery of Detroit marched in the mile and a quarter long parade July 4th. Some were in original Civil War uniforms. Later at Carr Park the unit put on a demonstration with their two Civil War cannons. The show place was the southern end of the park. There was a record crowd on the unusually cool but sunny day. Many were in costume, including entire families. They had listened to the high school band directed by R. C. Sortor and Roger Morrison. A narrator explained in detail how the cannons operated. These were reworked barrels taken from confederate cannons. There was a breath-taking silence as the old cannons blasted away into the marsh land. One of the members told a spectator, "We can have the barrels reworked but we have to save these original wheels!" The show was the grand finale to the Centennial holiday.

CHICKEN BROIL COMMITTEE DETAIL PLANS

Marie Schneider

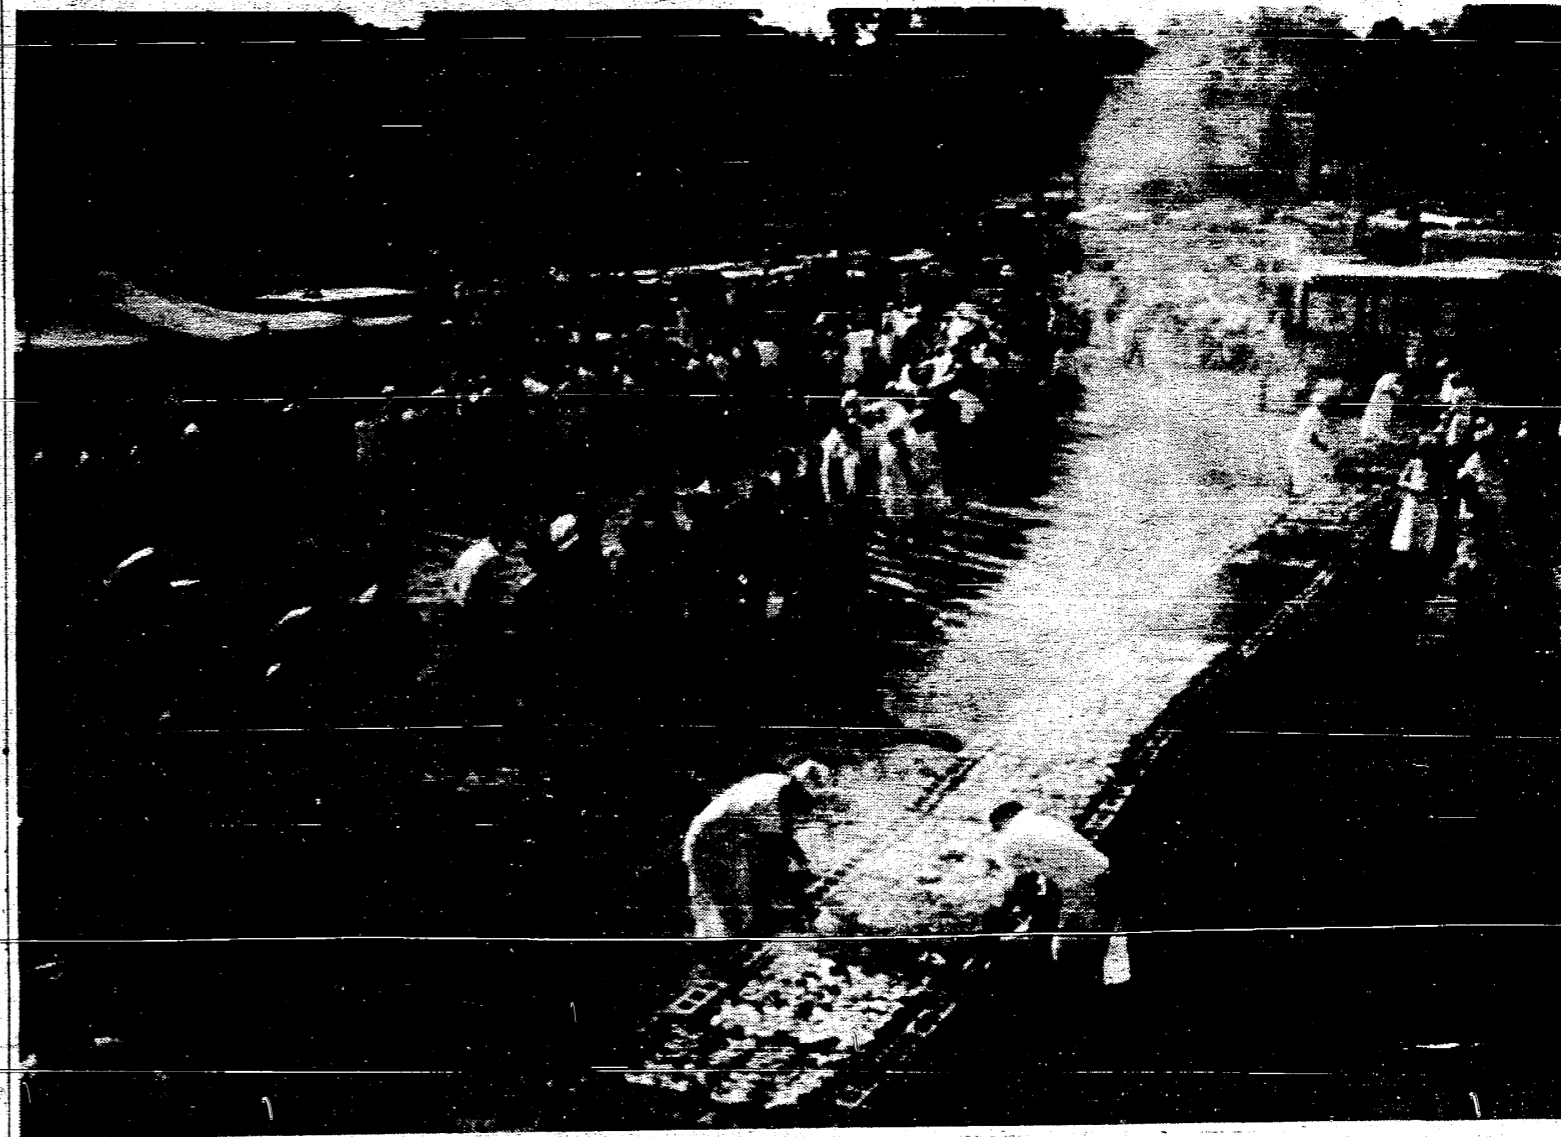

The time is fast approaching for the community's 14th annual broil chicken broil which will take place Thursday, July 20th on the High School Athletic field. For many years this has been a popular event drawing huge crowds from all over the state and other areas. People who come for their vacations so they will be in the Manchester area at the time of the broil.

Serving will begin at 4:30 p. m. and will continue until everyone is served. Many working on this committee will be up at dawn and hard at work.

This year the community is offering an added attraction for Manchester is in the midst of its Centennial Celebration. So as the community invites friends far and near to join in watching the chicken broiled at its finest, the invitation adds . . . "see as we turn back the pages of time."

Manchester is prepared to serve 10,000 people this year . . . at all time high, according to Luther Klager and Rolland Grossman who co-chairmen the biggest broil in these parts of the country.

There will be no hustle and bustle during the broil. Everyone working on some 28 committees has been instructed as to their jobs--all 300 of them.

It is a sight to watch these committees. This year the male population has a wide variety of elaborate appendages. Imagine some 100 white hatted chefs wearing authentic assorted mustaches and a variety of Vandykes, imperial, mutton chops, goatees and sideburns, as they broil and taste the plump chicken halves.

More than two ton of charcoal will be preheated by a sub-committee and delivered to the pits. The chicken will be packed in ice but not frozen and brought in refrigerated trucks.

Then it will be put on the grids and slow broiled over four 75 foot pits. Some 125 pounds of country fresh butter will be used in the broiling. The chicken is never broiled in the slow broiling process which was developed by Michigan State University's Poultry Department.

Again this year Dr. Howard Wendel, head of the Poultry Department, will personally supervise the chicken detail. Imagine watching 3,500 chicken halves broiled at a time.

Chefs wearing white canvas gloves will check the chicken. The meat must move free of the bone when it is done. This is a job for the skilled chef. It takes one hour and 45 minutes to slow broil a chicken half and during that time it is turned 50 times. More than 100 dozen pairs of gloves are worn out during the day.

This is a day out of the kitchen for all the ladies. On this day they invite friends to dinner with no concern about food. The dinner will be served entirely by men. But the women of the community have agreed to wear their Centennial dresses. For months talented seamstresses have been making authentic costumes of the Civil War period. Some have the bell sleeves, the hooped skirts and bows and frills. A few will be wearing originals of the period. There'll be sunbonnets and perky hats of bygone days. Even some of the small fry will have derby hats (maybe a little large) and brilliantly colored vests to complete their costumes.

Jolly Rolly Grossman admits that "folks here have gone to a lot of fussin' for this occasion. The women fussing at the beards on the men and the men fussing at the long skirts on the women. And this is at a time when mini-skirts are all the rage."

"If folks weren't so busy getting ready for the chicken broil, we'd probably have another war erupting right in this quiet corner of Washtenaw County."

If you have never had an opportunity to see an old German sauerkraut cutter at work this is your chance. These big old slicers have been brought out again to slither up a couple of tons of fresh white cabbage. The cabbage is sliced fresh during the afternoon and a salad dressing is added to make this the most succulent salad ever served.

A word to the wise is to eat and enjoy the salad with its vinegar oil dressing. Don't waste your time trying to get the recipe. These Dutchmen guard it with their lives and no one learns the secret recipe.

Radishes, buns, potato chips coffee and milk give the finishing touch to the menu.

When this community prepares to serve more than four times its population there is no question that there must be detailed planning. What was once a project by the Optimists and Jaycees is now involving the entire community and the countryside as well. The scouts, 4-H, FFA, churches and Farm Bureau groups all assist.

One committee has remained the same through the planning of the 14 broils. This is the famous weather committee. Never forgetting that the weather plays an all important part in the success of the broil this committee starts its work early. Clergymen from the three churches are joined by others in the rural area. The committee has been so successful that it has never been changed.

During the past year a bottle-neck at the take-out area has been studied. This year people wanting to be served take-outs will go to the Wolverine Street entrance. There will be two gates. The Carr Park area at the west end of the village will be readily available for those who do not want to eat on the Athletic field.

Again there will be the loud speakers to herald the arrival of visitors from out of town, out of state and abroad. This will be "Old Home Week" a day of reunions and greetings. This will be a chance to say hello to friends.

There will be no traffic problems between cars and the Centennial buggies and cabs that carry hungry diners to the broil. The Sheriff's mounted detachment will direct traffic.

For the entertainment of everyone two Class A softball or speedball games will entertain guests before and after dinner.

This community's welcome mat is out again. . . as 10,000 guests are invited to taste Michigan Broiled Chicken at its finest and at the same time help Manchester celebrate its birthday--its 100th birthday!
