Postmaster Marvin Kirk reported today that Postal Services Day, September 22, will highlight those services offered to the community by the local post office.

Lansing -- Even though it is a popular tourist state, Michigan should step up its promotion programs in an effort to lure more foreign visitors, Sen. Gilbert E. Bursley (R-Ann Arbor) said today.

"Last year, the United States Travel Service—a federal agency—received requests for 137,200 pieces of material about Michigan," adds Sen. Bursley, who is chairman of the Senate Economic Development committee.

"But various tourist offices and organizations in Michigan provided the federal agency with only 30,000 brochures, pamphlets, maps, posters and other pieces of sales materials."

"It is very apparent that we could do much more in promoting Michigan to foreign visitors."

"When we fail to do the job we should be doing, we create a vacuum into which other states are more than ready to step. Therefore, we must gear ourselves to a faster pace lest we fall by the wayside."

MICHIGAN NEEDS TO DO MORE PROMOTING ACCORDING TO SENATOR

Sen. Bursley noted that the United States Travel Service, part of the federal commerce department, was established in 1961 to promote foreign tourism to the United States in hopes of strengthening the domestic and foreign-commerce and increasing under-

The federal service maintains 11 regional offices overseas—six in Europe, three in Latin America and two in the Pacific Far East.

"Michigan has an abundance of scenic wonders, cities, shopping centers and industrial complexes, which are popular attractions for foreign tourists," said Sen. Bursley.

"Last year, 13 feature stories and special articles were distributed overseas by the U.S.

Tourist Service in seven languages. Supported with photographs, they covered subjects ranging from Greenfield Village to Michigan's great water areas.

"Brochures, pamphlets, maps and posters were circulated to travel agents, tour operators, carriers and potential visitors."

"Among Michigan festivals publicized were Mackinac Island's Lilac Festival, Detroit's International Freedom Festival, Muskegon's Seaway Festival and the Traverse City Cherry Festival.

"The State Tourist Council has produced a film, 'Michigan USA', in four languages and more than 70,000 persons saw it in the first three months it was distributed. Federal travel service libraries also have prints of 'Michigan Winter Wonderland' and 'Detroit, City on the Move.'"

"Michigan should make a much greater effort to get a larger share of the 1,160,000 overseas visitors, 410,000 visitors from Mexico and 6 million from Canada who come to the United States."

Sen. Bursley said that many of the visitors are industrialists and, if given a good idea of Michigan's potential, could do much to help Michigan's economy through increased trade.

on Church Celebrates 100 Years

Marie Schneider

Travelers and residents in Freedom Township, Washtenaw County, have had the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church for a long time. The church, now celebrating its 100th birthday, is located ten miles northeast of Manchester.

The church is at the intersection of Fletcher and Waters streets.

People of the community are invited to a community service day, Sept. 17, when Rev. Eld J. Diener of St. John's Lutheran Church, Bridgewater, will lead the 7 p. m. service with hymns in the parish hall.

A public jubilee centennial celebration will bring to a close the 100th anniversary of the church with the 10:15 a. m. service Sunday, Sept. 24, at which Rev. B. Piper of Zion Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor will be the preacher. He is vice president of the Michigan District of the American Lutheran Church.

On Nov. 20, 1865, members of the Thomas Evangelical Lutheran Church considered it wise and in the best interest of everyone to organize into a separate congregation. But it was not until 1867 in May that John K. Schenk started to erect the church building which cost $3,213.

From November 1865 to May 1867, the Rev. Mr. Hildner of the Church in Freedom served as congregation.

The first church building committee included John Roller, Jacob Eschelbach, John Schenk and Michael Hinderer.

In the early years the Zion church was served jointly with other churches, but in August 1873 the Rev. John Baumann took over as a full time minister. The congregation purchased the Emminger property and provided a parsonage for its pastor and a school for the religious instruction of its children.

The cost was $593. A new parsonage was built in 1889 and the following year a number of members left the congregation and organized the neighboring St. John's Evangelical Church.

The Ladies Aid, organized in 1895 still serves the church today. Members sometimes encounter problems as they look in the records of the church because of a language barrier. All services and business of the church were conducted in German until 1926, when the congregation requested that the English language be used in special services. Beginning in 1930, regular English services were instituted and by 1951 only one service a month was conducted in German. Today German is no longer used.

Not all churches have a band, but the Rev. H. Lemster organized one in 1893. In 1909 a major building program provided for an addition to make room for the altar, sacristy and organ. Art glass windows were added. The church planned its golden jubilee festival for July 1, 1917 and everyone was working diligently.

LOCAL HOLSTEINS RECEIVE CREDITS

A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in area herds has been received from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The actual food production output, under official testing rules, by these local Registered Holsteins is:

Leo-Bur Pontiac Lady 5711837, a three-year-old, produced 17,130 lbs. of milk and 635 lbs. of butterfat in 351 days. Leo-Bur Pontiac Lassie 5691971, a three-year-old, had 18,680 lbs. of milk and 615 lbs. of butterfat in 327 days. Both are owned by Leonard Burmeister, Ann Arbor.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,513 lbs. of milk and 315 lbs. of butterfat by the average U.S. dairy cow, notes the national Holstein Association.

Michigan State University supervised the sampling, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the Holstein organization's herd and breed improvement programs.

Did you hear about Joe and the "atom accident?"

Front Page news in California and elsewhere. Seems they were building this nuclear power plant. Pouring concrete for the turbine building, and the cable broke. Smashed Joe's arm.

Nuclear accident? Well, not exactly. No nuclear fuel was on site, and they won't be loading any until next year. But it's an atom plant, so it made Front Page, instead of Page Seven. An atom smasher, you might say.

What price progress? Since Consumers Power now is building its second nuclear powered generating plant in Michigan, we would like to share a few facts with you.

There are 59 nuclear electric plants now in operation, under construction, or in the planning stage in the U.S.

By 1980, our country's electric utilities will be 25 percent nuclear in terms of generating capacity.

Nuclear power technology is here to stay. It works. It is proven. And there has not been one injury from radiation exposure in over eight million man-hours worked in commercial nuclear power plants. In fact, there have been fewer accidents in nuclear plants than in other types of power plants.

The atomic safety and licensing board of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission is known for over-conservatism in probing into power plant design. A license is issued for construction only after thorough study of the plant's inherent safety features.

Shouldn't we keep things in perspective? Page One is still for the big things. Atom "accidents" without atoms hardly seem to warrant it.

EMANUEL CHURCH NOTES

At 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14 the Women's Fellowship annual meeting will be held. At that time John Pratt will speak of his trip with the Michigan Youth International.

All women of the United Church of Christ in this area are invited to attend an all day meeting Friday, Sept. 22 at 9:30 p.m. at the Irtchfield United Brethren Church.

ZION CHURCH

gently when a cyclone on June 6 ripped through the area and ruined part of the church and parsonage and several homes belonging to members Christian Gran, Michael Schiller, Martin Wenk, John Wenk and Edward Koch.

But these staunch Germans didn't give up and they increased their efforts with long hours of work so that the golden jubilee was celebrated September 16, 1917 with a rededication of the reconstructed church.

In 1942 the church celebrated its 75th anniversary and it was then that the by-laws of the church were translated from German to English and distributed to the congregation.

Because of the World War II restrictions, the parish hall which was already on the drafting board could not be completed. But it was constructed across the road from the church in 1945 at a cost of $88,815 and dedicated in 1948. A new parsonage was built in 1954.

The Rev. M. W. Bruckner served the parish for the longest period. His pastorate began in 1926. He retired in 1955. Now 90 he retains his membership in the church and plans to take an active part in all the centennial services.

The church was extensively redecorated in 1962 and the choir loft enlarged. In February of this year the Rev. C. J. Renner, who had served Zion for eight years, resigned because of ill health.

Because of this the centennial committee faced the responsibility of preparing for a series of celebrations without a fulltime pastor. But on June 11 the Rev. John R. Morris was installed as the new pastor.

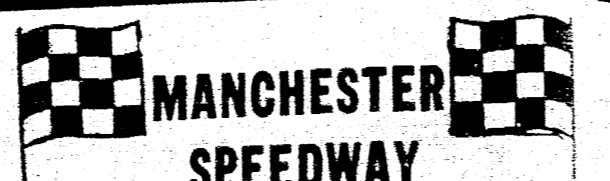

On the centennial committee are Martha Eiseeman, Evelyn Haab, Wanda Heyclaus, George Prinsing and Norman Wenk.

The early Germans who founded the church a century ago might be confused if they entered the church today where no German is spoken. Some improvements have been made in preparation for the centennial which included sidewalks and curbing for the church and parish hall and a new roof on the hall. But one thing is quite certain the founding Germans would be pleased with the well kept buildings and attractive lawns of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church.

EMANUEL CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, Sept. 24 the teachers and officers of the church will have a special congregational meeting immediately after the worship service at 10:30 a.m.

Problems concerning the village were aired at the Tuesday meeting of the Manchester Planning Commission at the members listened to John Auning of Wilcoxon-Lehman and Associates evaluate some of the prime problems.

- He listed the following as major problems of concern: 1. Large number of two-family dwellings. 2. Scattered industry in the residential area. 3. General appearance of the Main Street above the first story of the buildings, and 4. The tight building program which has been employed along some of the streets blocking street expansion.

Wilcoxon-Lehman & Associates are the village planning consultants hired by Manchester to guide the long range planning program for the community.

Mr. Auning reported that the present land use study is finished. The Jaycees are planning to distribute a questionnaire to every home in the community in the near future. It is hoped that residents will cooperate and fill out the questionnaires so that the planners will get a true picture of just what the community wants and expects in the future expansion plans.

The next meeting of the local planning commission will be Oct. 10th.

There is no question about Allegro 11 being in the tradition of Ford Motor Company's Mustang and Cougar. A sporty, two-passenger experimental design roadster, it is a "second-generation" version of the original Allegro, a closed fastback vehicle shown for the first time in 1963. Built on a 99-inch wheelbase, Allegro 11 is 169.3 inches long and 66 inches wide, has a cowl height of only 33.25 inches and measures 41.25 inches from the ground to the top of its roll bar--more than eight inches lower than the over-all height of its predecessor and about 10 inches less than the Mustang and Cougar.

Revenue Bonds O.K'd for Water Improvements

Plans have been submitted to village council by the consulting engineers for the construction of water mains and other improvements to the water system here. Attorney General Frank J. Kelly, Chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission sent word that Commission has approved $5,000 of Water Supply and Waste Disposal System Revenue Bonds for Manchester. The bonds run until 1997. Bids for the construction work will be opened September 29.

Basically the plans call for the construction of an elevated water tank and two additional water tank extensions. On Hibbard at Main Street a main will be extended to the railroad grade and continue west along that property to the new well on Ann Arbor Street.

The pump from the abandoned well on North Macomb Street will replace the one at the East Main Street well. Another line will parallel the main running on Hibbard along the railroad grade and continue west to the Ann Arbor street new filtering tank. There the water pumped from the old well will be filtered before going into the water mains.

The two filters at the Macomb Street pump will be moved and other added at the new site. The new filter will filter 150 gallons per minute or a total of 450 gallons per minute.

A new main with a river crossing from the new well will hook at Macomb with a connection to Washington which will pick up their dead end in the water main. These are the plans but they will be finalized until the bids for the $275,000 project are

County Wide Ambulance Service Approved

Washtenaw county will not be without ambulance service on October 1. Manchester Supervisor Clayton Parr, said he was glad that the problem has been ironed out--at least on a nine month-try-out with the Superior Ambulance Service of Wyandotte.

The county funeral directors decided nearly three months ago to go out of the ambulance business. Superior's cost is $93,333 for the nine month period.

Five local companies banded together to make an offer, but the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Supervisors didn't match the one offered by Superior.

Break-in Reported At High School

Manchester High School was broken into Tuesday night for the second time since school convened.

According to Police Chief, Bill Wilson, $30 in cash was taken from the superintendent's office and damage was estimated at about $250 in the school book store and the superintendent's office.

The police chief says he has some good leads and "it's just a matter of time until they are caught."

The first break-in was on the opening day of school.

CAMP SO-BER SAYS 'THANKS'

Camp So-Ber held a chicken barbecue Sunday--according to none. This Brothers of the Brush Chapter was organized early in the Manchester Centennial and was probably the most active of any of the Chapters.

Included in the group were people from the Shaton-Freedom area. It was soon after that the Centennial Corporation realized that this group would play an active part in the summer long plans.

One of the most significant weekends, the July 4th holiday, was when Camp So-Ber members came to the front with a Farmers' Day Parade. They brought in antiquated farm machinery from all over the area.

Many people were involved--including some from out of town. Camp So-Ber members wanted to say "thanks." They did. Last Sunday these busy people, mostly farmers, showed their appreciation to those who helped them.

They were guests of Camp So-Ber at a chicken broil which was a miniature Manchester Broil--except there were many trimmings as only the excellent cooks of the Camp So-Ber members could congeal up.

There was everything from scalloped potatoes, salads of all sorts, relishes and cakes of all kinds including hickory nut. Name it--they had it.

It was a family affair and each family brought chickens along with dishes to pass. Early in the morning a work crew set up the gifts. They had had plenty of practice in the past fourteen years. By one o'clock the plump chicken halves were done to a Manchester style. cont. page 5

School Addition Dedication Slated For Sunday

Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan will deliver the dedication address Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Manchester High School addition.

The dedication and open house will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. at the East Main Street location. The Manchester PTAs will serve refreshments during the open house.

The High School Band will play under the direction of Robert C. Sortor and guests will be introduced by Supt. of Schools, Robert D. Swartz. Chester C. Kosicki, High School Principal will introduce the faculty.

Architect Edward Jennings will present the building which will be accepted by Luther C. Klager, president of the Manchester School Board. The Manchester High School Varsity Choir will be directed by Roger Morrison.

The Manchester Public School District approved the $520,000 addition to the High School on December 16, 1965. Construction was started in August 1966 and completed in June of 1967.

The building expansion provided the district with a new high school library, a new music room, five additional classrooms, a large study auditorium, two new science laboratories, enlarged shower and locker facilities ample corridor space with 600 lockers and new administration offices. The present high school building will now accommodate 600 students at maximum capacity. The architect was Louis C. Kingscott & Associates, Inc. of Kalamazoo and the major contractors were: Cunningham Construction Co., Tumens Electric Service and Spartan Plumbing & Heating.

WELCOME SWEET SPRINGTIME! The crocus is usually associated with the early spring. But the crocus at the Manchester Township Library switches the seasons. Instead of peeking through a winter covering of leaves at the first sign of spring the library variety pops up after the first leaves drop in the fall.

The crocus, a member of the iris family, is a most delicate shade of orchid. The two beds with hundreds of blossoms receive no special care. But they never disappoint those who watch for them to appear.

Miss Jane Palmer, retired librarian, says that the first bulbs were planted by the wife of Dr. James A. Lynch on the south side of her new home--built in 1867 in a park area once owned by Major John Gilbert. The house was sold in 1934 to become the Manchester Township Library. After Miss Palmer became librarian she moved some of the bulbs around to the rear of the library and this accounts for the two beds. The crocus have every right to be especially lovely this year, they too, are celebrating a centennial--along with Manchester. cont. page 5
