WEIRD VOODOO PLANTS ADD VARIETY

Marie Schneider

A Manchester man's hobby is raising flowers. From early spring until the snow covers the ground by Kern has flowers growing in ornamental arrangements in his yard. Some are commonplace and others are very unusual.

One of those which falls into the last category is the Voodoo plant or Sacred Lily of India.

A row of these umbrella-like plants borders one of the flower gardens now. He says that sometimes motorists stop their cars and inquire about them and what they are.

This could be expected for there are very few in the United States.

The plant grows from a bulb and no blossom while it grows in the ground but blooms early in the spring from the bulb without the aid of soil or water.

Mr. Kern said he first became intrigued with the Voodoo plant when his aunt acquired one. Later he bought a small bulb. That was about 25 years ago. He kept planting it each spring but it was several years before it blossomed.

Community Chest Drive to Start Next Week

Manchester United Community Chest Drive will start next week when Irvin Gill and her team of collectors will begin contact with businessmen in the area.

The United Fund Kidney Foundation is of special interest to Manchester people. The break through in the aid they can give their patients this year is the result of years of research which contributors have helped with.

The Manchester Blood Club is one of the vital links in the chain of life. Ninety people in the area gave blood to the club and many others offered to meet the need last spring.

Now is the time for those who cannot give blood to share the cost of this community service.

This is one of the dozen things the Red Cross does locally to help, not to mention the national and international phase of its charter with the United States government.

Each agency has a thrilling story of service to someone dearly loved--now is the time to "Be BIG enough to give a LITTLE more."

COUNCIL OF NURSERIES' FALL CONFERENCE SLATED

The Huron Valley Council of Cooperative Nurseries' Fall Conference will be held at the Ann Arbor High School on September 30.

This includes some 26 members involving nurseries in several communities--Manchester, Chelsea, Milan, Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Dundee, Monroe, Saline, South Lyon, Whitmore Lake and Hamburg.

Conference Co-chairmen are Mrs. Robert Horwood of Plymouth and Mrs. John Sheard of Ypsilanti. Mrs. Richard Kuntz of Manchester is publications chairman.

Keynote speaker at the conference will be Monsignor Hugh Michael Beahan, Director of Radio and Television of the Diocese of Grand Rapids and president and General Manager of WXTO-FM, member of Aquinas College Faculty. Monsignor Beahan has appeared on several network productions including "What's My Line", "To Tell the Truth" and CBS's "Look Up and Live".

The conference open at 9 a. m. with the general session at 10 a. m. with Msgr. Beahan having as his topic "It's Tough to be a Parent."

The purpose of the conference is to give parents, teachers, school administrators and other interested persons a chance to share views on current programs and approaches in order to enhance the lives of young children and their families of today.

In Manchester Nursery School sessions begin October 3 at the Emanuel Church Hall with Mrs. Paul Boehler as the teacher.

To enroll children call Mrs. David Little at 428-8153 or Mrs. Laurin Bertke at 428-8134.

The nursery is sponsoring a Tupperware demonstration at 8:00 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 5 at the Emanuel Church hall. The public is invited.

This is the 5th year for the local Nursery School and the program can accommodate 20 children from three years to school age.

than two weeks. The Sacred Lily of India is a long stalked affair. It is stubbed green with a huge dark maroon flower. The color of the stalk often gives it the nickname of "snake plant."

Technically it is named amorphophallus-spec-reveri. Some think the plant is frightening because of the uncanny way it grows and blossoms. There is a record of one possessor who really "panicked" when the bloom shot up in the air.

The plant reportedly originated in what is now South-Vietnam in southeast Asia and was brought to England in 1871.

VISITS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Reck of New Brunswick, New Jersey were guests at the home of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Franklin M. Reck on Sunday and attended the dedication ceremonies for the Franklin Mering Reck Library.

Benefit Smorgasbord To Aid Roger Hill Family

Methodist men here are planning a benefit smorgasbord to help a former Manchester man and his family.

The Roger E. Hills of 2397 Carpenter Road, Pittsfield Township must move to Arizona before winter sets in--if they are to assure the health of their young son Tommy. The other children are Kevin, 2, and Vicki Jean, 3. Hill needs a job when he gets to Arizona.

The Methodist men rallied to help the former member of the church when they heard of his plight. The public smorgasbord will start at 5 p. m. until all are served on Saturday, October 7 in the church hall.

While many Michiganders look forward to winter and snow and enjoy watching winter's escapades this family hopes to be far away. If they don't leave, Tommy may not see another spring.

Tommy is about five months old and when the weather is bright and warm he seems to be pretty much like other children his age. But cold, damp weather might bring the youngster's life to a sudden end.

Tommy, like his 28-year-old father and two-year-old brother Kevin has a respiratory ailment called bronchiectasis.

According to his aunt, Mrs. Eugene Walter of Manchester, both of little Tommy's lungs are infected. The affliction is a type of fungus growth which prospers in cold, damp climates but is arrested in warm dry climates.

So the Hills are looking forward to going to Arizona to get into the climate which may save Tommy's life.

A year ago in July, Roger Hill had about 70 per cent of his right lung removed. This is a way that the disease can be checked. But such an operation won't help Tommy--both of his lungs are affected.

Rev. Oscar Cooper of the Manchester Methodist Church is negotiating with another former Manchester resident who lives in Arizona to see if he can help obtain work for Hill. Since his operation last year, Hill has been unemployed. Aid to Dependent Children's Program is helping with the family income.

Before his operation, Hill was employed at the Ford assembly plant and later gained experience in office work, including bookkeeping, general business and typing. He worked as a hospital orderly and did sales and stock work at a department store.

FAIR BOARD EVALUATES '67 FAIR

Manchester Fair Board officers met to evaluate the reports of the Community Fair.

"Without question," said Fair Board President, Ted Stautz, "it was the largest to date. Several factors entered into the picture. First, it was a day longer than usual. This was because of the Centennial Day Celebration. Then, too, there were more entries in farm produce, vegetables, grains, home economics and flower displays. The only department down was the antique display."

Fair Board officers reported that the gate was above other years--and of course the weather--cont. page 9

Volunteers Staff Ypsilanti Bloodmobile

Nineteen volunteer Red Cross workers from Manchester's Red Cross Blood Club staffed a Bloodmobile at the Hydromatic Division of the General Motors Corporation in Ypsilanti on September 19 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Mrs. Roland Grossman was Chairman of the Day and the nurses who helped were Mrs. Willard Mann, Mrs. Stanton Roesch, and Mrs. Ted Tapping. Staff aides were: Mrs. Finn Olsen, Mrs. Martha Schill, Mrs. A. W. Schaffer, Mrs. Tom Walton, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, Mrs. Douglas Higgins, Mrs. Earl Koebbe, Mrs. James Pratt, Mrs. Norman Higgins, Mrs. Robert Swartz, Mrs. Ronald Jenter and Mrs. Fred Leeman.

The Canteen workers were: Mrs. Earl Alber, Mrs. Robert Clark and Mrs. Harold Alexander.

The local volunteers usually work at several out of area Bloodmobiles per year as well as the Manchester clinic.

Manchester is scheduled to have another clinic on March 8, 1968. The present clinic in the Club bank is 38 pints and if another clinic is needed a cancellation date will be picked up in late October or early November.

Mr. Kern said he first became intrigued with the Voodoo plant when his aunt acquired one. Later he bought a small bulb. That was about 25 years ago. He kept planting it each spring but it was several years before it blossomed. Late in the spring, when all signs of frost are gone, he plants the bulbs. The plant is very slow start growing and it might be several weeks before the shoot peeks through the ground. But once it starts its growth is very rapid. In fact, he says, you can almost see it spring up. The leaves spread out like an umbrella at the top of the stalk to form a most unique looking plant three or four feet high. The leaf spread is about three or four feet and it resembles some type of miniature palm tree with its dark green leaves. After the frost kills the top, the bulb should be dried in the sun. Bulbs range in size from ten to twelve inches in diameter. Some times there are bubbles which can be saved and planted another year. A mature bulb might weigh seven or eight pounds. It takes about eight years for a bulblet to blossom. Storage should be in crates like potatoes. About the last of February the bulb, which resembles an oversized gladiolus bulb, is brought up into the light and placed in a large container--because it becomes almost top heavy during the growing process. The weird thing is that it grows without any soil or water. It is uncanny that it can be measured with the naked eye. It reaches about 68 inches in less than two weeks. The Sacred Lily of India is a long stalked affair. It is stubbed green with a huge dark maroon flower. The color of the stalk often gives it the nickname of "snake plant." It is also called the Devil's Tongue, and on the other hand, the Sacred Lily of India. Technically it is named amorphophallus-spec-reveri. Some think the plant is frightening because of the uncanny way it grows and blossoms. There is a record of one possessor who really "panicked" when the bloom shot up in the air. Besides it gives off a very unpleasant odor for several days when it is in full bloom. Then the maroon blossom with its deep purple tongue (about 24 inches long) resembles the calla lily--on a huge scale. The plant reportedly originated in what is now South-Vietnam in southeast Asia and was brought to England in 1871.

AT LAST . . .

We now own the Enterprise lock, stock and back issues. (Soy, have we got our work cut out for us.) We kind of hated to see the J.R. News die, but we'll forget that sometimes unpopular little item and concentrate on making the Enterprise worth reading from front to back. Don't expect an overnight change, however. It will take a little time to incorporate all of our ideas.

We will be able to assist by Marie Schneider who has written the last four issues under somewhat less than ideal conditions. We'll get organized yet, Marie.

In our sports section we'll be assisted by none other than Lefty Ross. (You'll notice we didn't say abby, just adding Lefty.) We're really very glad he's going to help us out. We're going to try to bring you a sports section that will be worth a subscription to the paper even if we didn't put anything else in.

As for editorials, this is just what we've been waiting for. We have a lot to say and this page is where we'll say it. We hope in the future to get some of you to voice your opinion in a letter to the editor.

And a word on publication day - when will you get the Enterprise? We print it on Wednesday and it will be in the early Thursday mail. This is how it will be unless a major catastrophe occurs, like the press refusing to run. But we think its safe to say you can look forward to the paper every Thursday.

A note from the Publisher:

In the near future I will be including a story about myself. I really haven't done anything worthy of an article, but I do get a little tired of being called Mr. Ryback or asked where Mr. Ryback lives, etc. So we'll justify printing my story just to clear up the big mystery about this guy - Ryback.

Seriously, we're very happy to own the Enterprise and hope we can create a paper that Manchester can be proud of.

WHY IS "MODERATE" A DIRTY WORD?

We read the various wifery comments on political candidates with great interest. We're always amazed by the great importance these men attach to their own evaluations of men and issues. Somewhere along the line, they've gotten the idea that they alone are responsible for choosing the best man. At present, their hero seems to be either a liberal Democrat or a conservative Republican and anything in between is regarded as something less than dull. The important thing appears to be that you are either blindly for an issue or violently against it. These two extremes make most of the headlines and are considered the most likely candidates.

If we were to describe our own political feelings, we would be classified in the dull group of moderates. We have our own ideas and if we think we're right, we'll stick up for them. But, we don't feel we have the right to definitely rule out someone else's idea if it may happen to disagree. Political writers seem to forget there are two sides to every issue and good and bad points in every man; and that the way to choose is to evaluate these points.

The moderate who listens to both sides before making a decision seems to be going out of style. To be a real intellectual, and popular, requires an "enlightened" view which can't be disputed. They never say where or how they acquired this amazing answer to world problems. All they require is that you accept it as true.

The great boss over Gov. Romney's statement of brainwashing proves our point. Voters are made to believe that they aren't capable of evaluating this statement on face value, but they must accept the political writer's interpretation. We find the only time we've been brainwashed is when we have read one of these "enlightened" articles without bothering to check the other side.

We hope never to get the mistaken idea that in 25 words or less, we can decide for the voters in this country who is the best candidate and that a voter who makes up his own mind is just one step above treason.

Christmas Project Planned

Hundreds of Red Cross Volunteers in Washtenaw County have started the ambitious Christmas Project of 1967 to provide individual Christmas Gift Bags to servicemen in Vietnam. Civic, patriotic, fraternal, religious and social groups have already completed making one thousand sturdy cloth bags. The contents are such items as plastic soap cases, small packages of writing paper, self-seal envelopes, plastic toe brush holders, terry cloths, nail clippers, combs, plastic cigarette cases, pocket games, small tins of nuts or candies vacuum-packed, windproofed cigarette lighters, etc.

Many of these items are needed," Rev. Sidney Rood, Chairman of the Special Vietnam Project Committee said.

Each community in the county has a chairman working on this project. The wonderful reception by servicemen in Vietnam during the Christmas season testified to its value and popularity.

One letter reads: "Maybe you don't understand what I mean so let me explain. I'm from Ypsilanti. To hear from someone in your home county really makes you think someone back there cares. Just to know someone you don't even know wishes you a Merry Christmas made my job a little easier." Hundreds of letters like this were received last year. Rood continued, "and we want to make certain that every boy receives one during the holiday season.

They will be distributed by Red Cross Field Directors throughout Vietnam to all servicemen and women. All groups of individuals wishing to participate may call the Red Cross Operating Center 662-5546. It is important that all items to be put in the bags be received at the Operating Center by October 1st.

For those who prefer, money contributions can be made to purchase items, instead of the items themselves.

Map of Water Improvements

Basically the plans call for the construction of an elevated water tank and two additional water main extensions. On Hibbard at Main Street a main will be extended to the railroad grade and continue west along that property to the new well on Ann Arbor Street.

The pump from the abandoned well on North Macomb Street will replace the one at the East Street well. Another line will parallel the main running on Hibbard along the railroad grade and continue west to the Ann Arbor street new filtering station. There the water pumped from the old well will be filtered and going into the water mains.

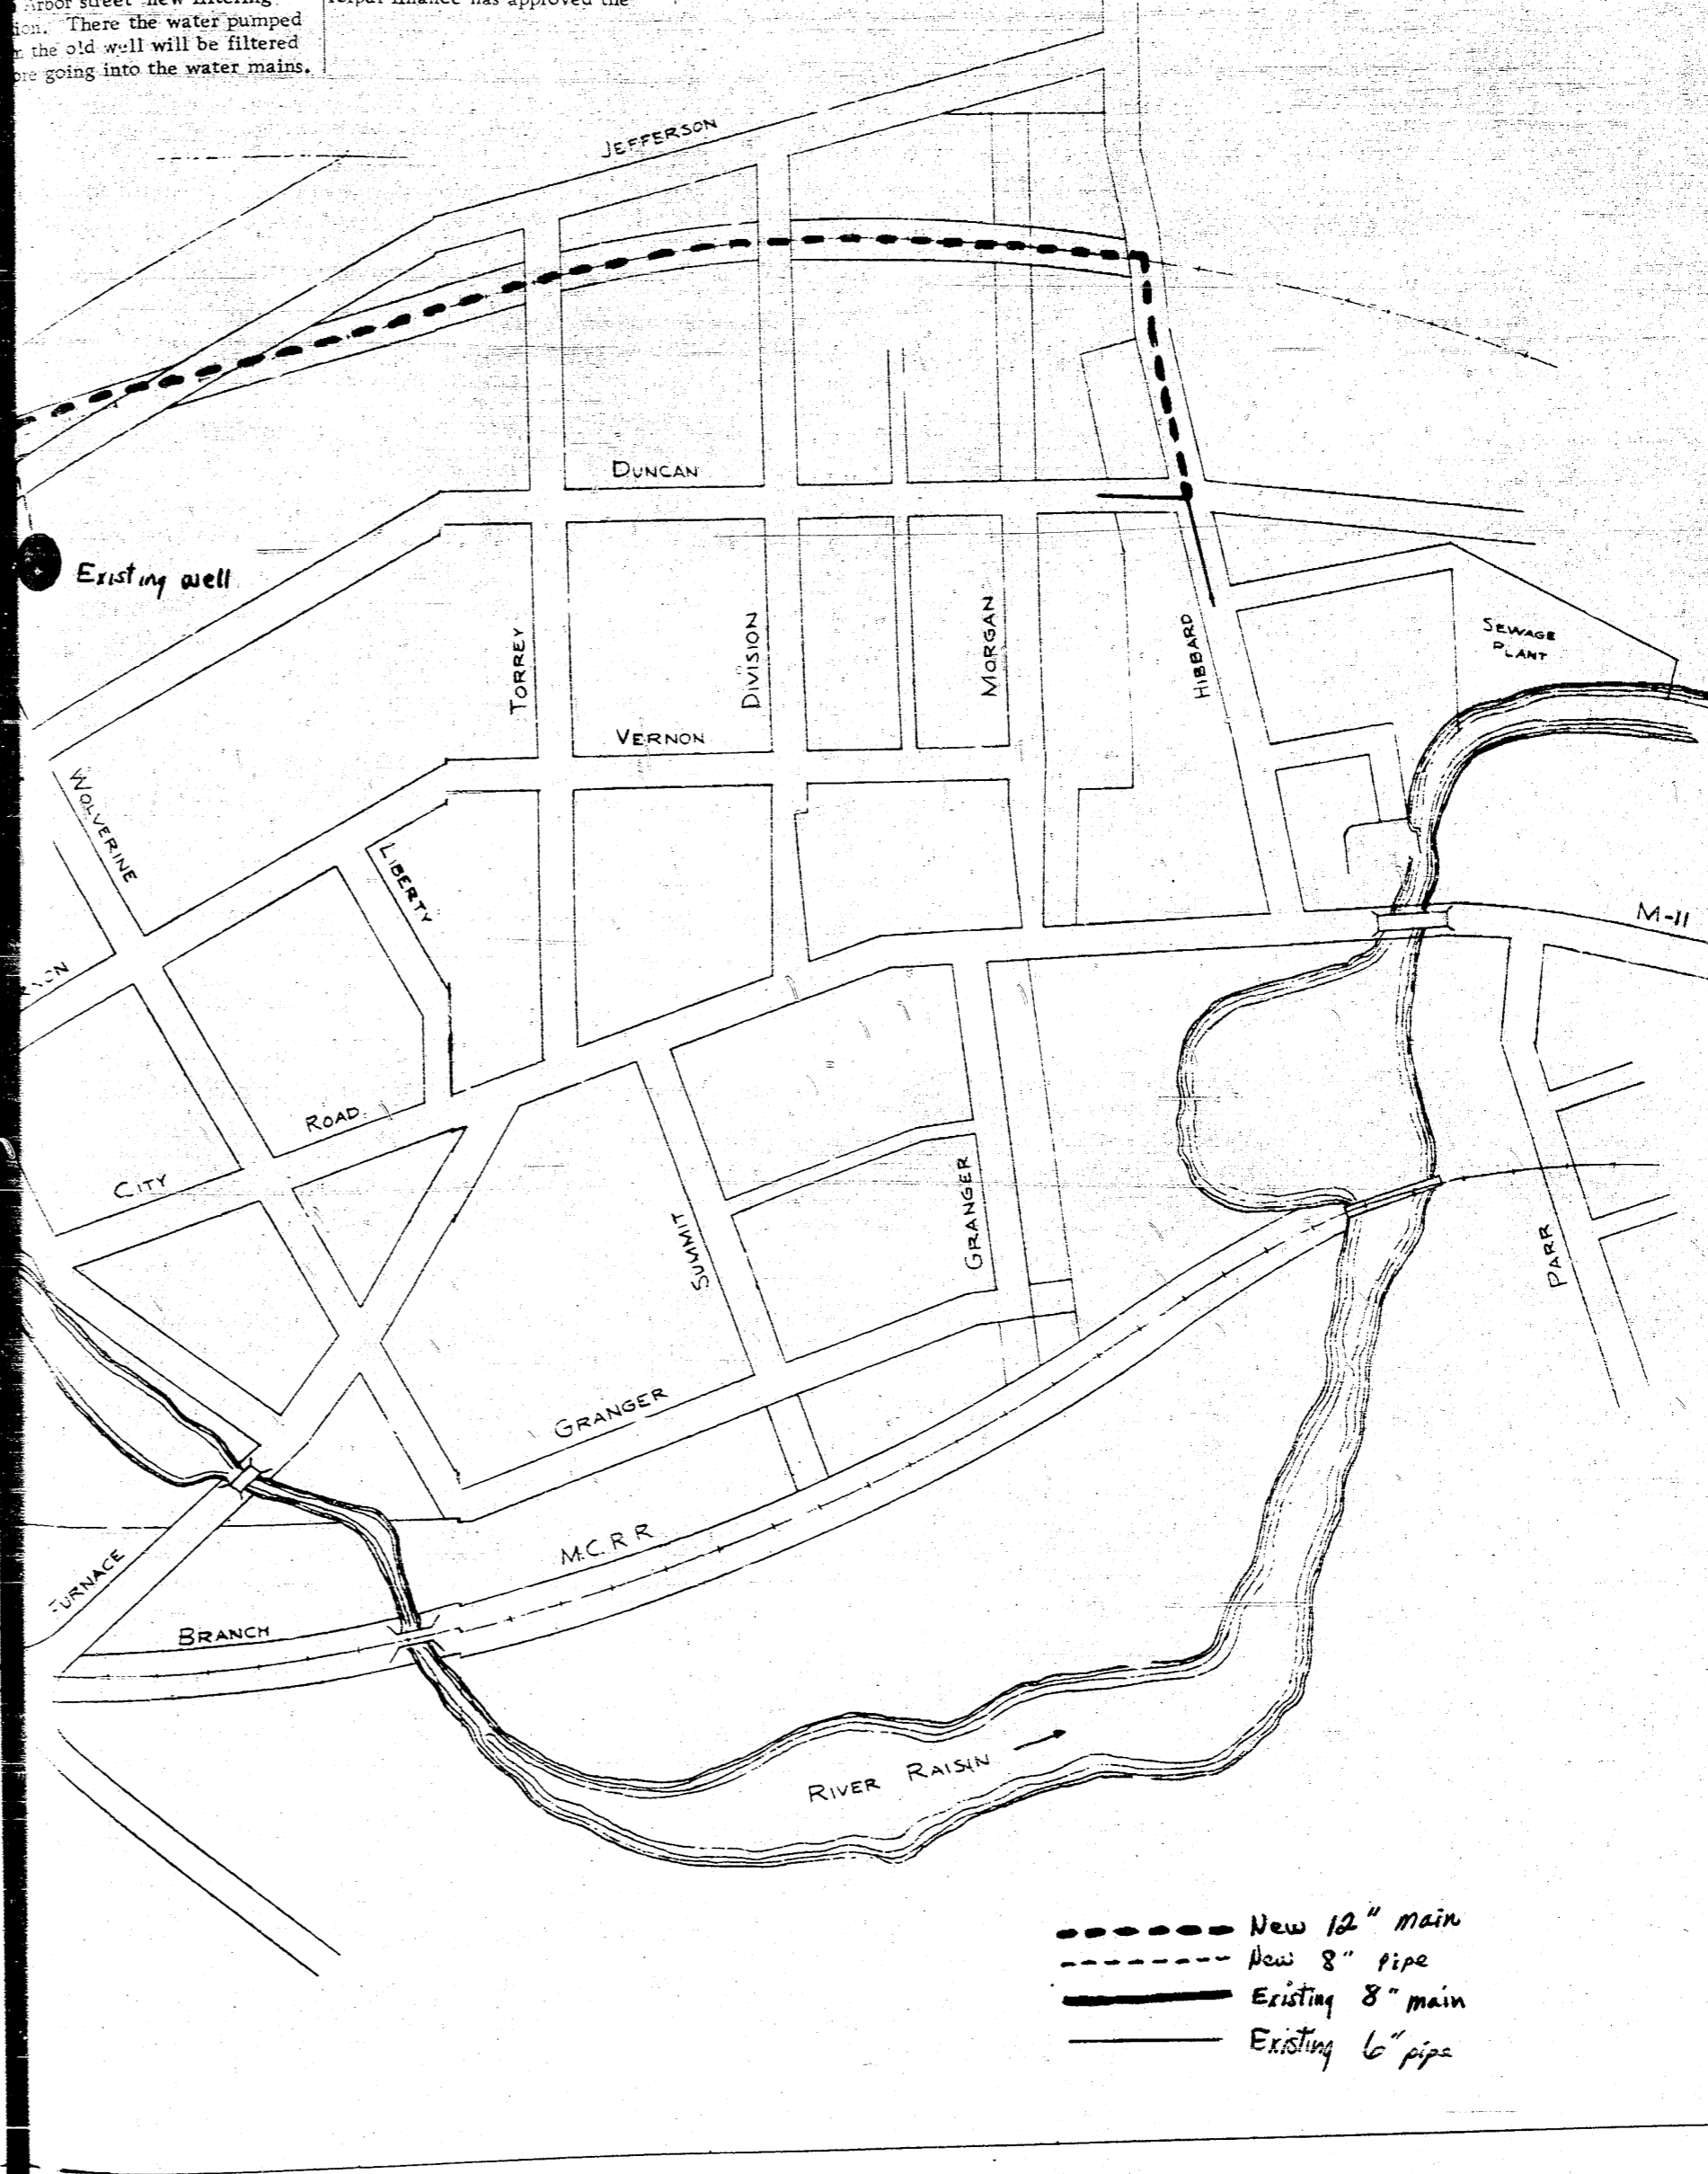

The two filters at the Macomb street pump will be moved and another added at the new site. Each will filter 150 gallons per minute or a total of 450 gallons per minute.

A new main with a river crossing from the new well will hook on at Macomb with a connection at Washington which will pick up another dead end in the water system.

These are the plans but they cannot be finalized until the bids for the $275,000 project are opened on September 29. Municipal finance has approved the sale of the bonds. Bids for the sale of bonds will be opened at the regular council meeting on October 16.

With a new elevated water tank engineers say that the water pressure on Ann Arbor Hill will be about 50 pounds compared to 65 pounds of pressure in the low areas of the community. Further plans concerning the elevated tank are expected from the engineers.

Watch Out For Children

A trucking industry spokesman reminded drivers that traffic hazards occasioned by the presence of school children are not necessarily confined to posted school zones.

"Nor are they confined to any one age group," continued Mr. Jerome Gilles, Safety Director of the Michigan Trucking Association in connection with the Michigan trucking industry's Courtesy and Safety Campaign, "Fall Hazards."

"The high school student in his car may be just as much of a hazard as the first grader running across the street, or the kid in between age who rides his bicycle carelessly. 'These problems,'

Gilles said, "appear to be especially acute in suburban areas where the kids are often required to get to school on their own and where they often lack the awareness of traffic that is essential for survival in more heavily-populated urban areas. In many places, large numbers of school children will be found on certain streets while still a considerable distance from school."

The possibility of a child dashing into the street or crossing it carelessly is, perhaps, even greater there than in a school zone because of the absence of crossing guards or other controls. Of course school-age drivers can create a problem anywhere at any time if they fail to pay attention to their driving."

Mr. Gilles urged parents to exercise greater control of their children enroute to and from school.

1. For very young children, select the safest possible route with a minimum of traffic. Go over the route with the child and insist that he use it.

2. Children riding bicycles to school should be advised to use streets with light traffic as much as possible and should be cautioned about traffic hazards and the importance of heeding traffic control devices.

3. Instruct children to come directly home from school before going anywhere else.

4. Children riding school buses should be warned to avoid roadside horseplay while waiting for the bus and they must be instructed to sit quietly on the bus.

5. Teenage driving to school must be constantly reminded of the importance of safe driving and obeying traffic regulations.

Finally, Mr. Gilles urged parents to cooperate with school officials in any steps they may take to control student vehicles traffic around schools.

Of more than 81,500 Registered Holsteins officially classified for type last year, only 1,283 were rated "Excellent."

The Macomber Holstein moved into the "Excellent" bracket for the first time during a recent classification of the herd by Peter G. Blodgett, Philadelphia, Pa., an official classifier on the staff of the national Holstein organization.

She scored 90 points. Animals scored "Excellent" in previous programs are not included in this listing.

Intermediate School District Growing Fast

The Washtenaw County Intermediate School District is believed to be one of the fastest growing units of government in the area. During the 1966-67 fiscal year plans went along smoothly for a new $720,000 school service center in Scio Township.

The intermediate district rented 7,200 square feet in the Benz Building in Ann Arbor but it outgrew the area when it nearly doubled the number of employees. Programs were extended and added in special and general education so that it was necessary to lease an additional 7,000 square feet in the Benz Building.

It is expected, according to School Supt. Nick A. Ianni, that it won't be necessary to add so many more programs but to refine those which have been started. The district has a comprehensive special education program that includes services for the homebound, physically handicapped and vocational rehabilitation and visiting teachers programs.

Plans for the operation of the Juvenile Detention School and the County Trainable School got underway for the first time during this last fiscal year. Additional personnel to all of the programs was added so as to reach and service more handicapped children in Washtenaw.

There are three new programs, all designed to serve the 10 local districts in the county. These include a data processing center, an instructional materials center and department of instruction.

The Intermediate School District also combined with the community college to conduct a survey relative to vocational education possibilities for high school students, and acted as the delegates for Project Headstart.

During the past year the Intermediate District approved its first commitment to tax the electorate for monies to build a new administration and service center building. This resulted in a $720,000 bond issue.

The $720,000 in bonds represented the Intermediate District's use of special bonding power granted by state legislature.

The state law provides that an intermediate school district can levy up to one mill on every dollar of the intermediate school district's equalized valuation simply by resolution. The resolution was adopted last Nov. 15.

The new facility which the funds will finance will be located on a 35-acre site in Scio Township near the corner of Wagner and Scio Church Road and will be completed in 1971. Looking ahead the Superintendent hopes for bonding out some of the programs now in a way rather than more expansion.

Call 769-2300

AMBULANCE SERVICE

Any one desiring the services of the Superior Ambulance can receive them by calling 769-2300 according to Clayton Parr, Manchester Supervisor. He advised that anyone who finds this number they should call the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, which maintains a direct line with Superior.

A spokesman for Superior said helicopter rescue service will operate out of Westland, and will be able to reach any point in Washtenaw County in 12 minutes from the time notification is received.

Phil Nelson, manager of operations for Superior, announced the location at which ambulances will be stationed. They are at 2000 Ecorse Road in Ypsilanti Township, on Michigan Avenue at Saline, at University Micro-Films on Zeeb Road at I-94, at the municipal building in Chelsea and at the sheriff's garage in Ann Arbor. Nelson said the fifth location, in Ann Arbor may be a temporary one.

In every area the phone number is the same: 769-2300.

COMMUNITY CHEST BUDGET BREAKDOWN

The Manchester Community Chest Budget for this year totals $18,504. In a break-down The American Red Cross is the largest recipient and receives $3,900.

Manchester Recreation will receive $3,000 and Michigan United Fund (35 agencies) is in line for $2,679. Portage Trails Council of Boy Scouts will receive $1,100.

The Manchester School Band is budgeted to get $300, Manchester Student Council $200 and the Yearbook $250.

The Salvation Army will receive $775 and Cystic Fibrosis $225.

Coming in for $150 each are: The Clovers, Michigan Children's Aid, Catholic Social Services and Washtenaw Association for Retarded Children. Huron Valley Child Guidance is slated for $75; Manchester Family Service, $100; and Manchester MOM's Club and Pleasant Lake School each $50.

WOM CLUB NEEDS ADDRESS OF SERVICEMEN

Manchester MOM's Club needs the addresses of men in service so they can remember the service men at Christmas time. These include those in service from the townships: Sharon, Manchester, Bridgewater and Freedom.

Mrs. Roy Lowery is the contact woman. Her phone number is 428-5413. Packages for overseas distribution must be in the mail by November 1st. The sooner these addresses can be either phoned or sent to her the better.

GAS STOLEN

Farmers in the area are getting pretty annoyed because of robberies involving gas taken from private gas pumps.

Robert Cole of 55018 Sharon Hollow Road reported that the lock on his gas tank was broken last Thursday night and gas taken. Cole figured that the intruders would return and he would be ready for them.

Sunday night he caught 3 at the gas tank again. He ordered them to halt, according to police chief, Bill Wilson. When they

Radishes Grown on Farm near Manchester Harvested by the Tons

-by Marie Schneider

Did you ever stop to consider that the gay little bag of bright red radishes might have a story to tell you if they could?

They might have first peeked through the ground on a radish farm eight miles north of Manchester. Next time you shop take notice. See if the white print on the cellophane bag reads, "George Weasel, Inc."

Radishes are one of the few crops which can be harvested, and replanted about every four weeks.

According to Mr. Weasel, he begins the Michigan operation in May when the first radish seed arrive at his 250 acre project. He leases land on Esch road from Tom Walton. Weasel said,

"Although I've been in the radish business since 1950, until very recently I've been disappointed with the seed planters manufactured in this country."

At this time he is using a planter imported from England which can plant 80 acres of radishes a day. It takes 15 pounds of seed to the acre and this year radish seed hit a long-time low of 70 cents a pound.

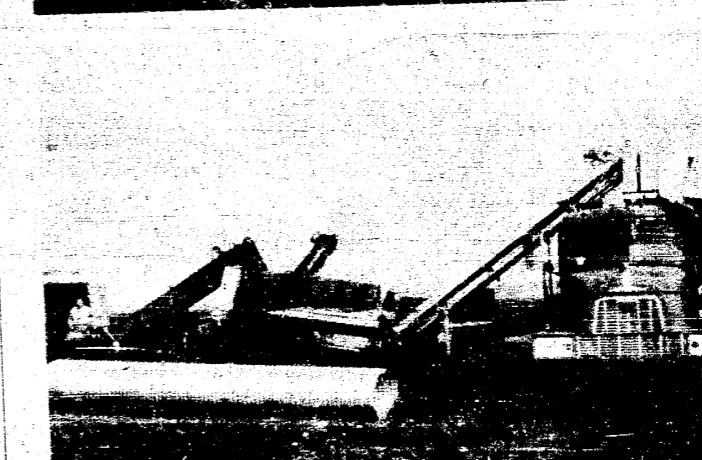

The radish specialist says that he had operations in Lemington, Ontario, Canada for five years before coming to Michigan. In fact, he says that about five years of continually planting radishes in any area is enough. From that time they will not produce very well and he said scientists have been unable to determine just what is removed from the soil.

He mentioned that mint reacts in the same manner. Weasel plans to finish up the Michigan operation in a couple of weeks or so—depending on the weather. The cool weather has retarded the production in recent weeks.

In September he started planting near Belle Glade, Florida where his winter radish farm program of 5,000 acres does a land office business in the glades. He explained that Michigan is not ideally suited to radish production. Michigan is about 800 feet above sea level. Florida is at sea level. He believes that radishes must have a water table. The sun dries out the Michigan land and "we have to depend on rainfall. This past summer it has not been very plentiful. Ohio is 700 feet above sea level—so that is somewhat better."

Automation has cut down on labor in this field. Where he once employed over 2,000 people with the new modernized equipment he can work the same number of acres with 100 employees.

When Weasel winds up his harvesting for the year, the giant machine will have a special permit to lumber along the highway during the daylight hours to Perryburg, Ohio. From there it will be shipped by rail to the Florida radish farms. Weasel is building a third machine like the one used here. Each is capable of pulling and topping a half

After the heavy rain the other day the muck, single track road leading back to the operation didn't appear very favorable.

Weasel and his employee had no problem getting there. They flew in from McClure, Ohio, headquarters for his business. In fact Weasel always flies. He doesn't have time any other way. His white, twin Cessna Sky Night lands on gravel on a ditch bank across the fields. He also owns a Laer Star. This 12-ton plane carries 1,400 gallons of fuel. He uses the Laer Star commuting to Florida.

He wastes no time and almost before you can wink your eyes he's off across the field in the lumbering giant 12-row harvester. The machine, which he and his men built, pulls a half ton a minute. Time plays an important part, at about two o'clock on a warm day the radish tops start to wilt down and then the harvester stops work.

At the peak of the harvest Weasel flies the workers in to Manchester Monday morning and they stay until Wednesday when they return to Ohio.

Few of us realize that the ounce package of red radishes which look so fresh on the grocery's vegetable rack might have a pretty busy time in the last 24-hours-from the radish field, through the washing and grading, traveling by truck to Ohio to be washed again and packaged, loaded on trucks for Chicago or Detroit and other points for quick distribution and maybe back to Manchester to be sold.

MASONIC BANQUET OCT. 16

The annual public Masonic banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, October 16 at the Bethel United Church of Christ.

Reservations must be in to Earl Alber by Friday, October 13. Mrs. Bertie Flanders will be featured on the program. Densel Fuller of Ottisville will be the toastmaster at the dinner.

Jaycees To Deliver Questionnaires

The local Jaycees will be the distributors for questionnaires on Thursday evening in a planning survey study of the village.

Gale Koebbe and Harry Macomber, Planning Commission members and also members of the Jaycees are in charge of distribution. They will be ably assisted by all of the membership.

The village of Manchester Planning Commission is undertaking a three year program of study and proposals for the future development of the village.

In order to obtain citizens' opinions and feelings regarding various aspects of the area, they are asking aid by completing the questionnaire, sealing it with the return address on the outside: Villan-Lehman & Associates, Inc., Southfield, Michigan. No postage is necessary and the answers to the questions will be tabulated.

Through this survey a wide range of local thinking will be assembled—thinking which could be overlooked in the normal course of data collection. Everyone will have an opportunity to express themselves on a wide range of subjects concerning existing and future development in the village. It is the thinking of the committee that the collective answers will be beneficial as a stimulus to both the consultants and the Planning Commission in arriving at the best possible planning for Manchester.

Some of the questions are: What major attraction induced you to become a resident of Manchester? If a native, what induced you to stay? What physical feature or area in the village do you consider least attractive? Which one single feature represents the community's greatest asset? Should the village be incorporated? Why? Adequacy of business development in the community? Does the village need additional fire protection, police protection, parks and recreation, schools?

There are also blanks for many additional comments and suggestions including—What do you see as the biggest immediate problem?

It is hoped that everyone will give consideration to the questions and return the filled out questionnaire for evaluation.

JAYCEE RIVER CLEAN-UP SLATED

The Manchester Jaycees are beginning their campaigning for a river clean-up Sunday, October 15. The starting time is 1 p.m. at the Main Street bridge.

Sunday has been selected because it is the only time that some of the equipment which will be used is available.

There is the problem of manpower on work days. This is a charitable work which can do much to enhance the appearance of the community. The Raisin River is not a thing of beauty when it is full of dead trees, stumps and debris. The Jaycees who planned the event, point out the afternoon hour will not conflict with any church service in the area and the work here is by no means confined to Jaycee membership. Manchester belongs to the people who call it "home" and everyone should be actively taking pride in improving the continued on page 8
