Handing him the certificate of merit was club president, Clarence Fielder while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kirk watch. For seven years he was active in the 4-H with his main projects being in conversation. For his work in conversation Mike was awarded a gold medal, State show award, and the State Conversation Award which was a trip to Camp Shaw in the Upper Peninsula. During his junior year Mike was chosen by the class and faculty to represent the Optimist Club at the Marican Legion Wolverine Boy's State. In his 9th and 10th grade he earned two junior varsity football letters and was co-captain in his 10th grade. He was a co-captain again this year and was on the varsity team in his junior year.

Mike's future plans include majoring in pre-law in college, attending law school and then the F.B.I. Academy in Washington, D. C. Besides working on his father's farm, he has worked on other farms, worked as an electrician's helper and on reconditioning automobiles. Gene Bentschneider, his sponsor, congratulated Michael on behalf of the club and presented him with a patch.

Double A Products Responsible For 50% of Fund

Double A Products has once again shown its profound interest in the home town by collecting and donating 50.8% of the total Manchester United Community Chest and Red Cross Campaign for 1967-68.

When general manager Donald Rausch gave the Double A Products check for $2500 to campaign chairman Joseph Fitzgaid this week he also presented a pledge from the company's employees for $4,362.75. This makes the total gift from Double A, $6,862.75. Double A, the local subsidiary of Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company, is not only the largest single contributor to the local fund, but the first to give a final report this year.

Peter Kensler, chairman of the company drive said that the employees pledge is very close to the amount given last year, considering that there are now fewer employees. The amount of the pledge which will go to the sponsoring Community Chest has not yet been computed, but it is hoped that the $1500 or $1800 which usually goes to towns where the employees live will be replaced in the Manchester fund by the Ford employees whose pledges will be late in coming in this year. A team of 32 solicitors and 2 coordinators directed by Peter Kensler did the speedy and efficient campaign on Double A Products. Commendations go to coordinators, Opal Clark and Jeanne Morrison and to solicitors: Elta Clark, Florence Horan, Maureen Strong, Donna Moe, Bonnie Heckaman, Elaine Marr, Elaine Steele, Irene Wurster, Myrtle Kemmer, Mabel McLean, Lenore Seale, Ellen Todd, Edith Harris, Lillian Schooley, Ardis Scheld, Olive Kappler, Olive Hazen, Marilyn Samonek, Elizabeth Bishop, Lucinda Wurster, Susan Scheid, Naomi Foster, Carol Spike, Phyllis Baker, Amanda Schaible, Olive Feldkamp, cont. page 3

Need For Blood Critical

EMERGENCY BLOODMOBILE IS SCHEDULED

Manchester Red Cross Blood Club is down to 22 pints with winter demands coming on. An emergency Bloodmobile is scheduled for next Tuesday at St. Mary's Church Hall from 12 noon to 6 p.m. The Altar Society is in charge of the cartons and Mrs. Rolland Grossman is Chairman of the Day.

Ford employees at Ypsilanti and Rawsonville plants from this area will be able to give at this Bloodmobile for their Ford Bank or for the local bank because there will be no blood clinics at these two Ford plants until next summer due to the strike and recent cancellations at these places.

Flu shots do not affect blood donors for more than 24 hours, so anyone having had a flu shot or getting one this weekend will still be eligible to give.

It is of great assistance to the clinic working crew if everyone who possibly can would register in advance. To do this call Mrs. Rolland Grossman, GaS-2311 or Mrs. Franklin Reck, GaS-4491. Double A employees will register at the shop as usual.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The River Raisin Farm Bureau group will meet Wednesday, Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. at the Sharon town hall.

Birthday Is Occasion To Don Centennial Suit

by Marie Schneider

Carl F. Wuertmer, the oldest life-long resident of Manchester celebrated his 94th birthday last Saturday, Oct. 28. He was honored at a birthday dinner at the home of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Rothoeler of Jackson.

Other guests included his daughter Mrs. Paul Rague and her daughter Carole Ann of Benton Harbor. Also at the party was another cousin, Miss Anna Rothoeler, who is here visiting from Schwemmer, Germany and Mrs. Emma Hocknut of Jackson.

The Senior Citizens of Emmanuel also had a birthday party in his honor last week.

Mr. Wuertmer has been active in village affairs all of his life.

He is a member of the United Commercial Travelers since 1902, the Odd Fellows for some 40 years and a member of the Rebeccas. Along with Ed Dressehouse he was cited by the Optimist Club "for their unselfish contribution of time, energy and money to greatly increase the value of living in Manchester." They were given gold watches. For eight years Wuertmer served as a member of the executive committee of the Federal Grand Jurors Association.

In 1935 he was named to a committee to raise $15,000 to bring the Double A Products Co. to Manchester and was secretary of the building committee. When he returned from his first trip to Europe in 1949 he collected some 50 parcels of clothing to be sent to help the needy. Since then he has made three other trips to Europe and one to Africa in 1953.

Wuertmer was one of seven delegates to the mission festival on the Gold Coast in 1953 when they were celebrating their centennial of the arrival of the first German missionaries there. He cont. page 8

DEVELOPMENT OF THE 1968 AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

Eighty-three County ACP Development Groups will be meeting this month in Michigan to formulate their 1968 County ACP Program, Frank Light, Chairman of the Michigan State ASC Committee, said. These meetings are held annually at the grassroots level to determine the soil, water, woodland and wildlife conservation practices that are needed in each county.

County ACP Development Groups consist of the County ASC Committee, including the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service Technician, County Supervisor of the Farmer's Home Administration, members of the governing body of the Soil Conservation District, Forestry Service, farmers' organizations, and others with conservation interests.

This group has broad authority to develop the kind of soil and water practices needed in each county within the framework of the National ACP Bulletin and Michigan Handbook.

The ACP Program has been in effect since 1956 and reduces the loss of agricultural soil, water woodland, wildlife resources and improves the prospects of their efficient multi-purpose use in providing an adequate supply of food, fiber, water and wildlife for the future.

Ambulance Service Provided By County

Washtenaw County now has available a medical transportation system which is an excellent addition to hospital and patient care resources, according to Dr. Otto M. Engleke, County Health Officer.

If action had not been taken by the County, two-thirds of the geographical area of the county would have been without a medical service on October 1, when all but three of the local general directors voluntarily discontinued their ambulance business. The county took action on September 18 to make ambulance service available twenty-four hours a day to all areas of the county, to promote the public health, safety and welfare.

A contract was negotiated with the Superior Ambulance Service, Inc. which guarantees the availability of this essential service to everyone at all times, anywhere in the county. The county sponsored and financially backed contractor guarantees superior quality service.

The Superior Ambulance Service is operating in compliance with the standards recommended by the American Medical Association, U. S. Public Health Service, American Ambulance Association, and the U. S. Highway Safety Program.

Superior Ambulance has five properly equipped ambulances strategically located throughout the county to provide minimum response time for emergency calls and maximum convenience for private patient and invalid medical transportation. Two additional ambulance vehicles and an ambulance helicopter are on call if required. The helicopter is based at National Airport, Ford Road, Westland.

Each Superior ambulance is a late model, air-conditioned Cadillac designed and constructed for patient care and comfort with sufficient headroom to accommodate patients in the Fowler's position. Equipment recommended by the American College of Surgeons Committee on Trauma is carried in these ambulances.

Two trained attendants accompany each ambulance when in use as such. The attendant-driver is 25 or more years of age. The training consists of the Advanced Red Cross First Aid Course, the Medical Self Help Emergency Child Birth training and, under the terms of the contract, such other training as may be prescribed by the Washtenaw County Health Officer.

Each ambulance has dependable two-way radio communication with the central dispatch office operated and paid for by Superior Ambulance Service, Inc. The Superior radio control network is licensed by the Federal Communication Commission and operates on a special emergency service frequency free from interference. The dispatch center has a "hot line" telephone and constant radio communication with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. For ambulance service anywhere in Washtenaw County the local phone number is 769-2300.

The county, in seeking a solution to the ambulance problem directed its efforts and dollars toward obtaining the highest possible standards for equipment, personnel, training, reliability and patient care. To secure the desired professional standards, the county agreed to pay the contractor no more than $12,500 in any one month. Under the terms of the contract the county's payments are reduced as the number of ambulance calls per month increases.

The more the ambulance service is used the more tax money is saved, according to the county health officer.

The ambulance service does not offer cut-rate or bargain service. Their fees for private patient transportation are $22 plus $1.00 a loaded mile and $25 plus $1.00 a loaded mile for emergency calls. These rates are in line with national averages.

The program has the support of the Washtenaw County Medical Society and the Health Department which has been given responsibility for its administration. The phone number for the ambulance service is 769-2300.

HOWARD HEATH HONORED FOR FARM SHOW

At the annual meeting of the Federal Land Bank Association of Ann Arbor held at the Dexter High School, a special commemorative award was presented to Howard Heath, Farm Director of Radio station WPAG for his many years of service to agriculture.

Presenting the gold medal award to Mr. Heath was Robert Hall, vice president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul. This award has been authorized by the 89th congress and approved by the president of the United States. President Johnson, former President Eisenhower and Gov. Romney are among the select few having received this award. This originated as a part of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul's 50th anniversary celebration this year.

In the local area, the name Heath is synonymous with farming. The entire Heath family now operates almost 3,000 acres in the Milan area, and Howard Heath's 100 acre farm is 20 miles out of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Heath, a civic minded person, is completely involved in any activity that provides a better community for everyone.

He has been WPAG's farm director for over 20 years, with 22 years of radio service to the farmer's friend, who, every morning and every noon, stops by to chat for an hour, by way of radio. He has a relaxed, informative show, geared strictly to the agribusiness society.

He started with a mere 10 minute program on WPAG and his show has grown to two hours daily devoted to the farmers in the area.

The service rendered by Howard Heath's farm show is evidenced by the fact that WPAG received the 1967 annual award for the best radio farm show from the associated press.

DUTCH BEAT RAIN, SLEET AND NOVI 14-0

Manchester's Dutchmen played like true champs in the rain and sleet at Novi Friday afternoon. Rick Lowery scored both touchdowns on quarterback sneaks as Lyle Jacob ran for both extra points. The defense team showed Novi why the Dutchmen remain undefeated. The boys had to change jerseys and socks at half time because of the bad weather.

From this sportswriter's viewpoint the Dutchmen are ready for ALL of the Redskins. "Lefty"

J.V.'s LOSE TOUGH ONE

The Dutch J.V.'s were on the losing end of the 8-6 game with Ypsi-St. John played here on October 25th. The bright spot for the Dutch was a 45 yd. run by Mark Lentz for a touchdown. The Dutchmen had the ball on the 8 yd. line of St. John's when a couple of 15 yd. penalties pushed them back to the 38 yd. line. They got the ball back to the St. John 5 yd. line and then had to give it up on downs. The last game for the J.V.'s is in Onstead on November 1. "Lefty"

"What's a GAS INCINERATOR got that I haven't?"

"Maybe I don't look so good... but I do lend a bit of strength to the place. And I'm quite a drawing card when it comes to flies and vermin! What's so great about a Gas Incinerator... always bragging about its health and cleanliness—that it doesn't even smoke when it consumes rubbish and refuse. Well, I'm not taking any more 'garbage' from them! You'll see... replacing me with an automatic Gas Incinerator will make a big difference in their life!"

still sports the African shirt and hat he wore on that occasion. It took some talking on the part of the local centennial parade chairman, Bill Hainstock to convince Wuerthner that he shouldn't do that shirt and hat for his part as the parade marshal. He agreed but he wasn't to be dealt with lightly.

When there was a lull in the July 4th celebration Wuerthner came up missing. When he returned he was wearing that African shirt and hat.

He has many cherished memories of the early days of Manchester and can remember the sound as the wagons lumbered over the old plank bridge across Main Street.

He chuckles as he tells of an incident when he and his brother Gus were ten and twelve years old. Their father owned one of the eight taverns in town. Church women were always inviting the boys to attend services. He doubts if any received more invitations—and they most always went. Usual.

"Usually they gave us a front row seat—especially in the Baptist church. I doubt if very many know where it stood. But it was on West Main where the Kent residence is located," he said.

One such occasion he remembers vividly. It was a hot Sunday in August. Some prominent women in the Methodist Church had asked us to Sunday evening service.

"Father didn't have very good health. Gus and I were in the saloon with him that afternoon and a customer wanted a Limberger cheese sandwich. Father needed a new loaf brought up from the basement.

"I was elected to go. There was a full case in the cellar but I didn't have the slightest idea how to get out one loaf. I tugged away and finally broke one of the loaves. When I managed to get a whole loaf I took it to father.

"He was pretty disturbed when he saw the loaf and ordered me to scrub up with plenty of soap. I thought I did. But that Limberger cheese got under my fingernails. Gus and I looked neat and clean when we went off to the church services that evening.

"Those were the days of the brass chandeliers with the oil wicks. "We were given seats next to the prominent women whose guests we were. The windows were open and the bugs and millers started to flit around the dim lights. "We got warmer and warmer. I could smell that Limberger cheese stronger and stronger as it melted under my fingernails. The ladies moved farther and farther away. Gus and I were embarrassed to death. Finally someone suggested that we move up to a couple of chairs along the wall. To this day, at the mention of Limberger cheese I think of that night at the church," Wuerthner said.

In a little clipping from the Manchester Enterprise of Jan. 30, 1913 there was this item: "The parcel post has contributed to the happiness of at least three persons. Gus Wuerthner of the firm of Wuerthner Brothers, clothiers in this village sent a quantity of Limberger cheese to his brother Julius, who is an attorney at Gratiot Falls, Montana. A postal from the northwest announced that the cheese arrived safely and was promptly disposed of by the law firm. This speaks well for the new parcel post prompt service—else the cheese might have spoiled in transit (?)."

When Wuerthner was in high school he told his father that he wanted to quit and go to Brown's Business College in Adrian. He felt that he and his brothers were not accepted by the better families because of the saloon business.

Without much delay the elder Wuerthner arranged for him to go to the business school. It was not long until Mr. Wuerthner opened the Wuerthner Clothing Store and sold the saloon business.

"We were in the clothing business for a long time. Carl and his brother Gustaf became partners with their father in 1909 and in 1912 they bought out their father and the store became known as Wuerthner Brothers. Wuerthner added the wholesale business in 1924 and Walt Schaible became a silent partner in 1927. Schaible bought the store in 1941. Wuerthner sold the wholesale business to a former partner, Richard Alden in 1952. He said that during the years of the clothing store they usually had a special every Saturday—when the farmers would be in town. This sale often included three work shirts for a dollar. Dugaries on sale would cost about 50 cents. And here too, it is well to remember that the average worker received 75c a day. "Sometimes, when I think back, some of those things seem to have taken place a long time ago—and then often seem to have happened only yesterday," he said cheerfully.

Mr. Wuerthner lives today not yesterday. He still attends some meetings, reads and watches television. The one thing he regrets most is that he can no longer drive a car.

Plan To Merge Ten Districts Of County

A proposed plan to merge the 10 districts of the Washtenaw County Intermediate School District into four districts is the subject of consideration in numerous meetings of the Washtenaw County School Officers Association and other groups. If this plan jells Manchester and Chelsea would form one district to be known as West Washtenaw County Community District. Ann Arbor, Dexter and Willow Run school systems would be known as North Central Washtenaw County Community District. Ypsilanti school systems and Willow Run would make up the East Washtenaw County Community District and the Lincoln, Milan, and Saline districts would combine to be called Southeast Washtenaw County Community District.

This proposed merger of the schools to form the larger districts cannot come about without the voters approving the plan. In December, 1965, a committee for the Reorganization of School Districts in Washtenaw County submitted its report to the Michigan State Committee for the Reorganization of School Districts in Washtenaw County. The plan submitted, and approved by voters in the districts involved merged three primary districts with the Ann Arbor district and one primary district with Willow Run. Three other primary districts in the county were merged with districts in two adjoining intermediate districts. Eight school districts, all providing programs for children in kindergarten and grades one through twelve, were not included in the proposed changes. These districts were: Manchester, Chelsea, Lincoln, Dexter, Milan, Saline, Willow Run and Ypsilanti.

As a result of the approval of the voters of the recommended plan, all primary districts in the county were merged with high school districts on June 13, 1966. At that time, the County Committee indicated that other plans had been considered during the study but that its recommendations were based upon what is politically feasible rather than what is educationally sound. Time and resources did not permit study of a "one district plan" or other alternate plans for the county.

In July, 1966, John Montague, president of the Washtenaw County School Officers' Association, approached officials of Eastern Michigan University in behalf of his organization to obtain assistance in making a study of the county to determine the feasibility of a "single school district." As a result of the meeting the University agreed to assist with a county-wide school district reorganization study by providing both financial and personal assistance.

The study was undertaken by Kenneth Grinstead, associate professor of education at Eastern Michigan University. Dr. Grinstead was assisted by six experienced school administrators working on graduate degrees in Education Administration.

It was an experience that I wish more young people might enjoy. We were on the go with a busy schedule for sometimes four concerts in two days, punctuated by four Mayor's receptions and two civic dinners. More than 5000 people, many of them school students, attended the Tues-side series of concerts and each audience called for more," young Pratt said.

Reunions of former friends added to the pleasure of the tour. At Nonington College of Physical Education, at Dover, three Ypsilanti students greeted their former exchange teacher, Mr. Derek Hyde.

One Middlebrough critic was quoted, "Old Sousa will never seem quite the same again." A professional sounding high school brass band is a new concept in England, but MYI is exemplifying this fine achievement of American public school music. In a county where choral tradition has long been of the highest standard, this same critic continues, "I have rarely heard a young choir sing better."

With this type criticism offered to the young Americans

Chrysler Proving Grounds Brings U F Percent Up

Chrysler Corporation Proving Grounds' interest in United Giving is divided among many different funds because of its location in the County. The donation presented to Manchester this year by company officials is almost as large as last when they had more employees. The $250.00 gift from the company for the Manchester United Community Fund and Red Cross Drive plus $480.20 from the employees by payroll deductions makes a 1967-68 total of $730.20. Large gifts like this bring the percentage up by giant steps—Joseph Fitzgerald, Campaign Chairman has received reports making 50% of the $13,504 quota. He says, "Final reports are coming in fast. Maybe, we'll make a record and be through before deer season."

It was no wonder they enjoyed their jolly old England. After a two-day visit in Chester, MYI went to Wales and entered the International Eisteddfod at Llangollen. Young Pratt said that his host family let him drive their car and everyone seemed so willing to cooperate to make their stay pleasant in England where he emphasized they managed four meals a day.

He found that England and English people were very proud of their past. It was not uncommon to see homes that would be well over a hundred years old and in excellent repair. John said he believes that the Musical Youth International (MYI) has much to offer young students—both in showing students the value of continuous practice and preparation for the trip and also learning to live with other people and see them in their own surroundings. "If we can become friends of people in other countries we will all do more to try and promote peace between nations. It is as simple as that," Pratt said. "Before we ever left the chorus had intensive rehearsals from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. so you can see it wasn't all play. But we loved it and judging from the crowds who attended I believe that the audience was impressed," he explained.

"I felt right at home in England when they served Kell-ogg's corn flakes, bacon and eggs. But one thing confused me at first. They called cookies biscuits. Some of the places didn't have screens on the windows and once I went off and left the light on. When I returned it was quite a job getting rid of the bugs and millers. We stayed in hostels in Germany. There we did encounter some problems such as trying to wash clothes and get them dry before we'd travel on. This was not very easy some of the time," he confessed.

The youth camp in Budapest was of special interest to John and quite an experience. There were police guards and barbed wire strung around the camp area.

One of the highlights of the trip for John was when they were in Tubingen, Germany where they put on a concert. John had hoped to sometime see his aunt and uncle the Bill Kulekamps of Ann Arbor. He said he couldn't express how happy he was, when, getting ready for a concert he heard someone call out "Hi John." There were the Kulekamps!

John feels that all students who possibly can should try to go on a similar tour. It is an experience that they won't forget and as he says, "It is a good idea to try and find out how other people live. It will make more friendly relations between countries."

Bids Lacking For Revenue Bonds Twice Manchester Council has advertised for bids for the sale of revenue bonds totaling $275,000 to enable the community to go ahead with a program to improve the water system here. And twice there have been no bids to open at council meetings. Village officials point out that under the state law council can now award a company a 30-day option to give a brokerage firm an opportunity to sell the bonds. At this time Watling, Lerchen and Co. of Ann Arbor and Kenoyer, McArthur Co. of Detroit have been pinpointed for the job. If successful they will submit a bid to council. They will have 30 days to attempt to sell the bonds, according to Gale Koebbe village president. If the brokerage firms are unable to sell the bonds by Nov. 29, the date that the construction bids expire, the whole program will have to be rebid unless council can get the construction bidders to extend their bids for a longer period of time. Firemen Called Manchester Firemen made a run early Wednesday morning when a furnace had over-heated at the home of Raymond Jacob Jr. at 18233 Pleasant Lake Rd., Sharon Township. Damage was estimated at $75.00.
