QUALITY TIPS

A slogan quite often seen on the farm pick up truck is: Clean Cold Milk.

What does the word clean mean to you? To most people clean milk means only that: It is free of extraneous material.

Milk to be high in quality must be produced in a clean atmosphere using good sanitary practices and clean equipment.

Andrew Kalmus Retires From Tool & Die

On Friday, March 1, Andrew Kalmus was the guest of honor at a retirement dinner at Bill Cones in Jackson.

Mr. Kalmus had been employed at Manchester Tool & Die for three years and remarked upon his retirement, "I wish I'd have come here sooner."

Prior to that he was employed at Ford's, Allied Products and several smaller shops. He learned his tool and die trade in Hungary and came to America in 1921 at the urging of an uncle in Detroit.

This spring the Kalmus' plan a four to five month visit with their families in Hungary and Budapest. Mr. Kalmus returned to his homeland in 1959 but was unable to see one brother at that time.

hobbies and he and his wife plan to spend their retirement in Manchester. His five grandchildren will enjoy the miniature toys he makes.

Family Service Holds Meeting

The Manchester Family Service held their annual meeting on March 7, 1968 in the Manchester Library.

The treasurer's report was read and filed. The following officers were elected for the year 1968-1969.

Mrs. Barbara Clevedance and Mrs. Nina Romane discussed the history and activity of the Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center.

Highlight of the evening was the discussion about Crises Emergency Service. This is operated on a 24-hour basis.

The emergency phone is 761-9834. The general number is 761-9830.

If spring came but once in a century, instead of once a year, or burst forth with the sound of an earthquake, and not in silence, what wonder and expectation there would be in all hearts to behold the miraculous change!

Chamber Gets New Ideas From Speaker

Mr. William Bott, president of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, gave the Manchester merchants a lot of "food for thought" concerning the appearance and future of Manchester.

Mr. Bott's opening comment to the Chamber was "Don't try to compete with larger stores in surrounding towns, you can't."

Another important point expressed by Mr. Bott was the need for a town to develop an identity.

These include such elements as local planning expertise which influence industrial and commercial decision-makers concerning expansion of existing facilities and the location of new installations, he said.

The recommendations of TALUS will be guided by the needs and desires of the people of the region as revealed in our surveys and by the suggestions of county and local planning officials with whom we are in constant contact," Rubin said.

Mr. Bott urged the merchants to take a "good hard look" at the fronts of their stores.

He also told the chamber that Manchester's problems were the same as Ann Arbor's; parking, sewer lines, etc.

Mr. Bott closed his talk by telling how the Central Business District in Ann Arbor is tackling their problems.

After the meeting was adjourned, many members of the chamber expressed favorable comments on the ideas given them by Mr. Bott.

Manchester's Future Tied With Area Says I. J. Rubin

The future of Manchester and Washtenaw County is tied closely with the future of the seven counties of Southeastern Michigan (SEM) Irving J. Rubin, director of TALUS (Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study), a study financed partially by federal and state funds, told Manchester people Monday night.

Rubin is coordinating a $4.5 million, four-year study to provide a plan for development of Southeastern Michigan through the year 1990.

More than 250,000 interviews were conducted by TALUS to obtain the basic data needed concerning travel and living habits of SEM residents and the geographical characteristics of the region, Rubin said.

With this data base, TALUS predicts an increase in the population of SEM from 4.4 million to 8.2 million by the year 2,000, and residential expenditures of $36 billion to provide new homes and to replace those that are or will be deteriorated by 1990.

Manchester will share in this growth, but the degree of expansion here or elsewhere in the seven counties will depend on a number of factors," the director said.

These include such elements as local planning expertise which influence industrial and commercial decision-makers concerning expansion of existing facilities and the location of new installations, he said.

The recommendations of TALUS will be guided by the needs and desires of the people of the region as revealed in our surveys and by the suggestions of county and local planning officials with whom we are in constant contact," Rubin said.

"Our assignment is to propose, and we have faith that the people of the region will have the understanding to recognize that adoption of the final TALUS plan will be for the benefit of all future residents of SEM."

Growing awareness of the close ties of all segments of the SEM Region has led to new needed steps to cope with problems, Rubin said.

Common sense has dictated development of water and sewer facilities for large areas crossing boundaries of cities, villages, townships and even counties, he said.

Moreover, Rubin said, parks and other recreation facilities are being planned and developed on a regional basis.

In other phases of government, common interests resulting from common problems has led many of the leading governmental figures of the region to work more closely to share ideas and solutions, the director said.

He cited the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, (SEMCOG) formed in January, as a means of accomplishing these objectives.

More than 100 local units of government, including boards of education, have joined SEMCOG, a voluntary association of governments in the seven counties of Southeastern Michigan, Rubin said.

SEMCOG is formed under provisions of state law which enabled the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission to function.

"SEMCOG will be able to recommend to local units of government programs and actions that are first agreed upon by its membership," Rubin said.

"Local units will join in these programs only if local governing bodies approve."

Heretofore, the Red Cross set 60 years as the cut-off age for donating blood. The change has been made with the approval of the National Medical Advisory Committee to the Blood Program Dr. Chrisman explained.

He said that the rules for persons at the other end of the age spectrum also have been made more flexible.

In the past, would-be donors between the ages of 18 and 21 have been permitted to give blood only with the written consent of a parent or guardian. Now, a self-supporting 18-to-21-year-old, living away from home, may donate without parental permission.

FEATURES, SPORTS, EDITORIALS

While I was attending my first Council meeting as a council member, my wife, Pat attended a meeting on Manchester's future as reported on page one. Below is an editorial written by her concerning this meeting.

"MANCHESTER, ONE BIG SANITARY LAND FILL?"

Irving J. Rubin, director of a research group known as TALUS jokingly made the following remark Monday night after surveying the small attendance present. "In 1969 when we return with our finished plan making Manchester a sanitary land fill, the crowd will undoubtedly be larger."

Mr. Rubin proceeded to explain the manner in which his group has been gathering data for their proposed plan and the various charts involved. TALUS has been given a deadline of mid-1969 to present a plan of best utilizing the land and transportation facilities in their district (which includes Washtenaw County and thus, Manchester). There are some 200 groups such as Mr. Rubin's doing this same type of study across the nation. Multiply the 4.5 million which this project alone costs by 200 and you will have quite a sizable sum. Mr. Rubin stated that there are several studies even larger than their's which also takes considerably more federal and state moneys.

Mr. Rubin states that his group is "constantly" in contact with county and local planning officials and also stated that they base decisions for their plans on the plans already drawn up for the local area. I would personally like to know how they can base any decision on what happens to Manchester on plans which the Planning Commission does not have yet. (When Manchester is fit into a plan for Detroit expansion, we know how much influence we'll have.)

When our plans are completed certain areas will be laid out for residential, industrial, commercial and recreation. This brings to mind the question . . . What happens to our plans in the years to come when TALUS reveals their elaborate plan for this district. Mr. Rubin states, "There will be conflicts (an understatement) as to what will happen to certain areas but what other alternative do we have?"

In other words, Mr. Rubin is saying, do not plan, build or progress for Manchester will be gobbled up and its structure completely changed in just a short time. I for one cannot see how one small group can decide what is best for Manchester or any other area for that matter. I realize that problems will exist as population increases, but I feel that Manchester will plan for these changes and does not need an organization such as TALUS to tell us what we should or should not do with our area. Mr. Rubin cites SEMCOG, a "voluntary" association of governments in the seven counties of Southeast Michigan and then states that SEMCOG will only be able to recommend programs and actions that are first agreed upon by its membership. If Manchester is not a member and most areas are, does the majority rule?

A comment I heard after his talk was made by Carl Pedersen, a school board member, "Manchester just may have to fall in line."

I am still a believer in a village or township and the people of that area having some choice as to what happens to them. Can you imagine, too, what the costs will be to change some of the conflicting areas which will undoubtedly come up. The TALUS plan will be made and after spending countless millions (which could be better spent elsewhere, like cleaning up downtown Detroit, where TALUS headquarters is based), the plans will perhaps not even be feasible.

What usually happens to elaborate plans such as these is that after money has been spent, research and plans completed, it sits on the shelf and gathers dust; but in the event attempts are made to put these plans into effect, I will stand my ground believing that Manchester should decide its own future.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir: First of all I must commend you for the new spirit you have given to news reporting in Manchester. We no longer live within the community but we enjoy hearing from home and can sincerely say we feel the paper has improved immensely since you became publisher.

I feel it is necessary for me to give you my views concerning a recent editorial in your paper. It was found on page two of the March 7, 1968 edition, No. 21. There was no title.

In commenting on the recent riot in Detroit the writer states "... after the Detroit riot, the major car manufacturers hired some 8,000 hard-core unemployed. Less than 6% stayed at their new jobs." The first question one must ask is why hire them at all? As a humanitarian gesture or to get them off the streets? Which-ever, they are stop-gap measures merely effected on the spur of the crises to cure symptoms, not diseases. It's a fact big companies don't hire men like that normally. You don't get jobs paying like that without an "in" or a degree or trade.

Another statement was "As one negro put it, he'd rather bum around all day..." than work. To us who do work all day these words can only mean the man is a lazy, good-for-nothing bum. By our cultural standards, true. Had we been raised in the inner-city, our standards would be radically different. Along with the phrase "... many negroes are living in deplorable conditions, ..." May I add a goodly number of whites. The writer states "... but we wonder if perhaps this is by choice instead of force." Force in our country no longer envisions whips and irons but by subtler, spirit-killing means men are forced to degeneracy. A few examples are holding enormous interest charges over a person you know cannot read what he is signing, charging exorbitant prices to rent substandard housing, referring to the ignorant, uneducated inner-city person as "slum", irresponsible one, or the word I believe I want, "inferior." No one is forcing these people to put up with their environment but into what better environment can they immigrate without social and cultural repercussions?

We would be dead if we were not jolted out of our complacency by riots, mass lawbreaking - not the least of which is the market in narcotics to our young people - and general chaos. I concur with the author for the need of stronger court action. In my opinion all people involved in some phase of lawlessness should be punished, however I cannot agree with the pat statement, "What we have is just a simple case of rank lawlessness..." My disagreement hinges on "just a simple case." There is nothing so simple about mass riots, and when we start locking up thousands of people who riot we are entering into a new phase of law enforcement. It is obvious we are not yet ready to cope with this new form of criminality. When entire neighborhoods go off on lawless binges something is justifiably wrong.

It is an undeniable fact, while theoretically all men are equal in this country and should be treated equally, in the clutch men with money, power, and prestige win out. Slum real estate is not cheap. The connection is obvious. If inner-city conditions now prevalent do not change, we can prepare ourselves for more, many more long hot summers. We may build bigger and better jails to house our criminals and better train our police and National Guardsmen, but let's not spend all our time and money on bandages to cover the wound instead of finding a cure for the disease. Fortunately for the disease-carriers the wound is getting the brunt of the treatment.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Russel A Buss 938 C N, Meadow Odessa, Texas 79760

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Hats off to my neighbor church who has evaluated the needs of teenagers in Manchester and set forth to meet those needs.

Just drive by Emmanuel Church Hall on the weekend nights and count the cars. Young people are reporting that they "love" the Ping Pong, the juke box is "keen", and the Euchre games are so much fun, they hate to break up and go home.

Can you think of anything better than this church atmosphere for such good clean fun?

Thank you all!

EDITORIAL

THE CHURCH

One of the most unique institutions of our time is the Church. It is unique because of its origin and unique because of its mission. It is commonly thought of as a building, in most cases a fine edifice where worship services are conducted, and more definitely it is thought of as a particular denomination. While in a sense this is all true but better is the description that it is the people of God who have come to a vital and personal relationship with God through faith in Jesus Christ, His son.

The origin of the Church dates back to the day of Pentecost recorded in the Bible in the Book of Acts, Chapter 2:1-4. The Church is composed of all born-again believers who have been made anew by the power of the Holy Ghost and of which body Jesus Christ has become the Head. It is of most importance, therefore, that Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God have preeminence in all of the activities of the people which are called "The Church."

Closely linked to the origin of the Church is its Mission. We present the mission as unique because God commissioned the Church to carry the Gospel Message of His redeeming love to all the world. Jesus said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel", also that "repentance and remission of sin should be preached in His name among all nations."

We, therefore, present to you the message of God's Word, that Jesus Christ died on the cross to save you from all sin, and we urge you to accept Him as your personal Saviour. Upon the conditions of repentance toward God and faith in Jesus Christ, God promises to redeem you and by this experience you may be a part of the Church.

A cordial welcome is extended to all to come and worship with us at the Iron Creek Community Church.

Pastor, Ralph Janofski

ATTEND YOUTH CONFERENCE

Four hundred young people attended the Michigan Youth Conference for Natural Beauty and Conservation on Saturday at Michigan State University.

Thomas Reid, director of civic and governmental affairs, Ford Motor Company, Detroit, gave the keynote address. He focused on the importance of keeping youth informed and challenged them to action programs in their home communities. Each participant received a pine seedling from the Michigan Association of Nurserymen with which to begin their local activities. The conference emphasized group action and "back-home" promotion as the key to improved natural beauty and conservation.

Youth agencies sponsoring the conference included 4-H - Youth Programs, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, Future Homemakers, Girl Scouts, Future Farmers, YWCA, Boys' Clubs, YMCA, and Red Cross Youth. Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., cooperates in sponsoring this event.

FARM NEWS

DEADLINE NEARS FOR LOANS ON 1967 CROPS

Producers with 1967-crop wheat, barley, rye or dry edible beans were reminded by Frank Light, Chairman of the Michigan State ASC Committee, that the final date for requesting loans is April 1, 1968.

Light noted that the maturity date for loans on these crops is April 30, 1968, but added that resale or extension privileges for an additional year are available on 1967-crop wheat and barley. This means, he explained, that producers with farm-stored wheat or barley loans may request to resell their loan with the county ASCS office. Approval of the request will extend the maturity date for an additional year. He added that producers storing under the Reseal Loan Program for the 1968-69 program year will earn a storage payment of approximately 13 cents per bushel per year. This payment would be prorated in the event the crop is not stored for the full program year.

The same thing applies, he added, to wheat and barley stored in approved commercial warehouses, but the producer must request extension of his warehouse-stored loan not later than April 30, 1968. He did point out that in the case of warehouse-stored loans, storage charges at the rates under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement will be paid to the warehouseman by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Light noted that 1967-crop rye and dry edible beans were not eligible for resale or extension this year, so producers with loans on these crops have the option of repaying the loan or delivering to the Commodity Credit Corporation. He ended up by saying that, in the case of all four crops - wheat, barley, rye and dry edible beans, producers who did not obtain loans by April 1, 1968, could apply for price support and obtain resale loans if they contacted the county ASCS office by the April 30 maturity date.

For 1967-crop honey, Light noted that the maturity date of March 31, 1968, can be extended to April 30, 1968, if producers apply to the county ASCS office by April 1, 1968.

HORROR "STORIES"

Pleased with the results of our new, comprehensive state-wide meat inspection law, Michigan farmers were as shocked as anyone last year to hear reports that many meat processing plants across the United States were unsanitary. They cringed at glaring headlines telling of filth, flies and disease supposedly existing in some plants, with the stories followed immediately by demands that Congress enact a federal meat-inspection law. The outcome was predictable.

Only after the passage of the law has it become apparent that many of the horror stories were produced by government inspectors to convince Congress to ignore state's rights by new and sweeping federal consumer "protection."

A number of states, Michigan among them, had already passed and were enforcing state meat inspection laws with more rigid standards than those contained in the federal act. Mandatory application of the federal standards will actually lower the quality of meat inspection in Michigan!

It becomes increasingly obvious that the press, the President and the public were taken in.

The President quoted a federal inspector's words in signing the new law. "... beef was being broken (cut up) on an open dock, by a dirt road, in 95-degree weather. There were flies in the meat..." the President said.

At the time few thought to check the accuracy of this, and other such reports, until the weekly newspaper, "The National Observer", began to collect facts. The owner of the plant in question flatly denied any truth to the reports. The dock is adjacent to a paved street, not a dirt road. "Beef is not cut up on our docks and never has been..." the owner said. The plant has been regularly inspected and approved by U. S. Army Veterinarians since 1963, and is under tight Colorado state inspection.

Not an isolated instance, the National Observer reports that apparently in the fervor to push a federal meat inspection law through Congress "... the word

MICHIGAN LEGISLATIVE REPORT - Thomas G. Sharpe

For some time I have wanted to attempt to express the very deep pride the people of my district feel in the young men who are currently serving in Vietnam.

There are those of us, here at home, who saw combat in some far-flung corners of the globe during World War II. There are those who stumbled on frostbitten feet across the bitter hills of North Korea. But veteran correspondents, who are currently covering their third war, tell us regularly, in the newspapers, that the grim struggle now going on in the jungles and rice paddies is being waged by the finest force of fighting men this nation has ever fielded - and we are proud indeed!

Unfortunately, if the boys in Vietnam read the same newspapers, they may see less reason for pride here. They may read of draft-card burnings and draft-dodging seminars, and of numerous other occasions when their heroic struggle is openly defiled and defamed. And what can we say to them?

It sometimes seems to me that the very history of democracy, in a world increasingly hostile to democracy, is the history of men fighting wars that are not of their choosing, at the most inopportune times of their lives, in the most unstrategic of places.

The miracle of democracy is that, for all the freedom it affords the individual, it somehow continues to produce men with the will and the courage to do this.

This nation's battles have always been fought by a valiant few for the benefit of many who were frequently uncaring, craven, or totally obsessed by self-interest. This was true at the Delaware and at Valley Forge, and it is true today.

Yet never before has this fact been so painfully obvious. And even with the hindsight of history, we seem to have neither the words nor the wisdom to explain why. We can only ask, as the Long Beach Dispatch recently asked, "How can it be?" "How can it be?"

"That one boy dies rotting from malnutrition and torture in a jungle prison camp in North Vietnam ... and another boy splits and tumbles on the flag on his country on the steps of a university of learning?"

"That one man of medicine begins his 30th straight hour standing over an operating table in pursuit of life for men serving his country ... and another man of medicine implores crowds of young men to refuse to serve their country?"

"That one Negro holds the face of his dead white comrade in his arms and cries pitifully in a dirty hole in Vietnam ... and another Negro screams with hate against his white brother on the streets of countless American cities?"

"That one man of God shields a wounded boy from an enemy bayonet with his body and dies

... and another man of God uses his cloth as a shield to preach hate, dissension and lawlessness? "MY GOD, how can it be?"

LOCAL HOLSTEIN HAS LACTATION CREDITS

Leo-Bur Flation Nijer 5494404, a five-year-old Registered Holstein cow owned by Leonard Burmeister, Ann Arbor, has produced a noteworthy record of 21,660 lbs. of milk and 805 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days.

Michigan State University supervised the production, weighing, and testing operations, in cooperation with the official breed improvement programs of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

This level of production may be compared to the average U. S. dairy cow's estimated annual output of 8,513 lbs. of milk containing 315 lbs. of butterfat.

WASHINGTON REPORT - Congressman Marvin L. Esch

Automobile insurance, the subject of many a public outcry, has begun to receive increased attention in Washington. Congress, which once determined this area outside its concern, now has begun to take a long hard look at the industry.

The many changes affecting insurance over the years and increased public complaints have brought about a feeling in Congress that there is a need to reevaluate the government's role in this field.

tion and assessment of different rates for various categories of policy holders.

With the publication of a House Judiciary Committee Study in 1967, Congress began the task of gathering detailed information on the problems and possible means of reform.

Several bills were introduced in 1967, outlining federal action to reform automobile insurance practices. One of the measures to be considered is a Joint Resolution of Congress to authorize a comprehensive study by the Transportation Department.

I have continued my concern and interest in this issue and look forward to reading the results of the federal studies which may suggest means for the development of a more workable and equitable system.

RESIDENTS WARNED ABOUT SPRING SCHEMES

With spring approaching, Michigan residents are cautioned by the State Police to beware of a seasonal resurgence of various schemes of confidence men to get money by trick or fraud.

The swindle mechanics involve impressing some depositor that his or her help is needed, in confidence, to check out some employees. To provide this help, the depositor is persuaded to draw some savings from the bank for use in a transaction to "test" the employee and the depositor is assured that the money will be redeposited later.

Because this fraud has persisted in this country in recent years despite arrests of some involved in it, anyone approached on such a scheme is urged to report it to a known bank official or to police.

State Police also point out that other fraudulent activity, usually involving transient workers, is resumed in warmer weather.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE FOR FORD-PAID MEDICAL EXPENSE COVERAGE?

Ford Motor Company is looking for several thousand people.

The search is on to let them know that beginning March 1, 1968, Ford-paid medical expense coverage is available to eligible surviving spouses of employees and retired employees. Ford estimates there may be several thousand people who have lost contact with the company and who are eligible for the new benefit.

To be eligible for Ford-paid hospital-surgical-medical insurance coverage, a spouse must apply for the coverage and be the survivor of a retired employee or of an employee who would have been eligible for a normal or regular early retirement at the time of his death.

Surviving spouses who are 65 or older also must be covered by the medical insurance portion (Part B) of Medicare to be eligible for coverage in addition to meeting the other requirements.

Ford recently mailed several thousand applications for coverage to surviving spouses of retired employees who are currently continuing Ford group medical insurance coverage by making the premium payments and to surviving spouses eligible for retirement plan benefits. Any surviving spouses who have not been contacted who believe they may be eligible for the coverage may obtain applications from the coverage from personnel representatives at any Ford location.

With Spring "bustin' out all over," everybody wants to "bust out" too.

Unhappily this is the time when parents, in the urge to get out, too often make the fatal error of leaving small children alone in the house, according to Fire Chief Jim Kensler.

That quick shopping errand, that brief cup of coffee with the neighbor next door is all the time needed by fire to do its deadly work. Sometimes the children start the fires, playing with matches or stoves. Sometimes fire simply seems to choose this moment to strike.

The shocking fact, established by National Fire Protection Association studies, is that one child out of every three who die in fires was alone and helpless when the fire struck.

In the majority of instances, these are not cases of outright negligence, but happen on the part of otherwise conscientious parents.

Whenever you are tempted to run out for "just a few minutes" without the children, don't. Take them with you, or leave them home with a competent older family member or babysitter.

Play it safe, and you'll never be sorry!

SHAKESPEARE CLUB MEETING NOTES

The Shakespeare Club met for their regular meeting, Tuesday March 12 at the home of Mrs. Lowell Parr.

For the program, Mrs. Ralph Kuehler reviewed the "Life of Albert Luthuli" - Zulu Chief who worked for "Human Rights" for his people, and was the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1960. Mrs. Martin Keasal, had the topic "Should the Church Meddle in Civil Affairs?" This controversy affects virtually every major religious body.

During the business meeting, new officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. Donald MacKintosh, President, Vice-President, Mrs. Philip Kern, Secretary, Mrs. Elias Dennis, Treasurer, Mrs. Malcolm Billings, and Parliamentarian, Mrs. Ralph Kuehler.

The next meeting, Tuesday, March 26 at 2:00 p.m. will be a "Charity Project" at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Marx, assisted by Mrs. Wm. Palmer at which time "Walker Pockets" will be made for the Washburn Co. Hospital. Members are to bring material suitable for this project.

| Sleeplessness       | Tri-facial Neuritis | Excessive Worry     |
| Double Vision       | Nervous Breakdown   | Numbness            |

This list contains the many signal-warnings of disease "in the making" It's the only way the body has of saying help! WARNING Do not take pain or symptom killing drugs because the signs of trouble listed above indicate pinched or irritated nerves somewhere along the Spinal Cord. To numb these important warnings would be like covering up danger or stop signs on the highway at night... and would only lead to disaster.

WHAT DO WE DO FOR PAIN THEN?

Better find the cause...Correct it...and leave it alone, nature will do the rest. Nature has healed every disorder - True.

Ever notice the television commercials?... "The short headache"... "The pressure on vascular nerves"... this pressure is probably the pressure of a vertebra in the neck off-center pressing on the nerve in charge of the blood vessel (vascular nerve) in question. No pill can correct it...only numbs the pain signal. The cause must be corrected or it will return...most headaches do...more pills...more headaches and more pills and more money to the pill company. Someday...that swollen blood vessel that caused the headache may blow up and the blood will leak out into the wiring circuits of the brain and...someday...they will call it a stroke...and you say "I've cut your life with one side or the other paralyzed...then you say to yourself, "Was it worth all those pills for relief?" No!! Now you would give anything to correct the cause.

NOBODY WANTS THAT TO HAPPEN !

All that needs to be done is correct the pressure on the nerve by gentle chiropractic adjustment to the primary vertebra and bingo...free the life in the troubled nerve and the life within will quiet...relax...and correct. Makes sense... doesn't it?

Why X-Ray The Spine? When we take x-rays we look for the answers to three questions: 1.) What is the cause? 2.) Can it be corrected? 3.) How long will it take?

THE FAIR HOUSING ACT OF 1968

The proposed Fair Housing Act of 1968, Senate Bill 804, would establish the legal guidelines for the mandated implementation of the constitutional provisions preventing discrimination in housing on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin.

March 6, 1968.

The bill contained the same basic provisions as fully analyzed in the State Chamber Legislative Report SL 1-68, issued on Jan. 26, 1968. One new section was added. It reads as follows:

"Nothing in this act shall prevent the unencumbered transfer of property by sale or rental. The state commission, local commissions and the circuit courts shall not seek or issue injunctive relief to prevent the unencumbered transfer of properties by sale or rental." The purpose of this amendment by the State Affairs Committee is to make clear that transactions relating to land and its title should not be encumbered by injunctive actions instituted by the commission. However, when the matters are properly before the Court, following the orderly procedures provided by the bill, the broad judicial powers would be operatable. On March 7, 1968, the bill subsequently was referred to the Senate Committee on Appropriations for the purpose of determining the fiscal implications of the bill. On March 13, 1968, the bill was reported back to the Senate floor. Action by the Senate is expected at an early date.

URGED TO SEEK REELECTION

Second District Congressman Marvin L. Esh is being urged by the District Republican Committee to seek re-election. At a meeting Monday evening in Ann Arbor, the committee unanimously adopted a resolution commending the Congressman and asking him to run for a second term.

Speaker for the event was State G. O. P. Chairman, Mrs. Ely M. Peterson who joined in the tribute to the freshman Congressman. She pointed out that the House Minority Leader, Gerald R. Ford, has made it clear he is counting on Marv Esh returning to the 91st Congress in 1969.

Rev. John Byrnell of Shaugh, England protested to his wife that wiping dishes was not a man's job. She quoted from the second book of Kings, Chapter 21, Verse 13: "and I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down." Michael Szej had his friends pack him into a small crate and take it to the airport in Philadelphia for air shipment to Melbourne, Australia. But Mike got weary waiting in his box at the terminal and when he heard someone walk by he asked "when does the plane leave?" His trip ended right there.

TWO ESCAPEES CAUGHT NEAR MANCHESTER

Two escapees from the Boys Vocational Training School at Whitmore Lake were captured early Wednesday morning by officers Trolz from the Sheriffs Dept. and McCormick from the Chelsea Police force.

The pair, both 16, had earlier broken into the house of Fred Kennedy at 6451 M52, Manchester. They had searched the basement and were trying eggs when Mr. Kennedy awoke and discovered them. The boys were armed with a 22 pistol and a 22 rifle. They took Mr. Kennedy's money and proceeded to awaken Mrs. Kennedy. Fred went to the basement and got a 30-30 rifle. When the boys came down to get him, he shot one of them in the leg. In the exchange Mr. Kennedy was wounded in the arm.

The boys fled, leaving the 22 rifle behind. They were spotted later by Brian Alber and Joe Brady who called the Sheriffs Dept. Joe and Brian detained the boys by talking to them while the Sheriffs men arrived. After the arrest it was discovered that one boy still had the pistol under his belt.

The pair had been the object of a wide search Monday night when they went into a field after a high speed chase by an officer from the

by Carolyn Ahrens

Twenty years ago, Kenneth Kouba and Gerald White opened a J. I. Case farm implement shop on Chelsea-Manchester Road. They used their last initials to form the name of their shop - K & W Farm Supply.

In 1950, Kenneth Kouba bought out his partner and continued in the business alone until recently when K & W was incorporated and his son Larry became part-owner.

K & W carries all J. I. Case equipment and parts, small items such as air compressors, portable heaters, tires and batteries. Their stock consists of Diesel-powered tractors and machinery, grain elevators, planters and all the modern farm equipment used today.

They depend on agricultural farm equipment, maintenance and repair for their main source of business but have some utility equipment in stock.

Ken Kouba remarked, "There has been a gradual change in the farm machinery since we began with the equipment of years ago, the Diesel equipment for instance. Also the compact garden tractor has especially become a top market item."

Besides Ken and Larry Kouba there are two full-time and two part-time mechanics. The shop will soon be enlarged to further accommodate the customers.

A sales and service shop such as K & W will always be in demand in a farm community such as Manchester and Southeast Michigan.

March of Dimes

Manchester March of Dimes Chairman Conrad Gonyer has reported a total collection of $896.39. The total for this year was down from last year due to strikes and lay-offs effecting Manchester residents.

"I don't get a chance to do these shows as often as I would like to," he states. "Most of the time I travel around the country with my regular act, working at clubs and conventions, usually for adult audiences. But I enjoy doing tricks for youngsters, and both young people and adults come to these school shows. That's my favorite kind of an audience. I have a lot of comedy material in this show, and people seem to like it. Everyone likes to laugh."

The show will be Friday, March 29 at 8:00 p.m. at the Manchester High School. Tickets will be available at the door. The program will be sponsored by the Yearbook Fund.

TV Entertainer To Appear

James Reneaux, whose home is in Jackson, Michigan, has presented his polished sleight of hand act at night clubs and TV shows in sixteen countries, including the Today Show, the Tonight Show, and the Ed Sullivan Show on U. S. Television.

Mr. Reneaux has prepared some new routines, which, combined with his well-known night club act, make a complete show. To test his new program for audience reaction, he is presenting it at school auditoriums near Jackson, when his schedule permits.

"I don't get a chance to do these shows as often as I would like to," he states. Red Cross Seeks Youth

Young people for summer volunteer service in hospitals are now being recruited by the Wash-taw County Chapter, Mrs. Richard A. Ware, Chairman of Volunteers, announces. Cooperating hospitals are St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Veterans, Wash-taw County and the Geriatrics Unit of Ypsilanti State Hospital. To serve effectively, Mrs. Ware says, each Volunteer receives intensive classroom and on the job training by means of a 20 hour program developed especially for Youth volunteers. Highly skilled technicians handle this training program and upon successful completion a "capping" ceremony is held. The first meeting will be held Saturday, April 6, 1968 from 9:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. at the Red Cross Operations Center, 2729 Packard Road, in Ann Arbor. Any student who will be age 15 by July 1 is eligible. Applications for this service may be obtained at the Red Cross Operations Center from Donald Peak, Director of Youth Activities for the Red Cross.

The Volunteers successfully handle such responsibilities as: Assisting a new patient to the correct ward or room, assisting in occupational therapy and recreation, assisting patients in the dining room, carrying trays for disabled patients, distributing mail, handling in-hospital errands and messenger service, as well as various other necessary tasks. Service is rendered only to the general medical and surgical patients excluding the isolated, the acute psychotic, and the actually ill patients. Because of the important tasks Volunteers are called upon to accept and for their protection, each Youth Volunteer must have a current physician's certificate (a chest x-ray is provided by the hospital).

For further information call the Red Cross Operations Center, 971-5300.

We will have a full report on the committees appointed by Mayor Althouse in next weeks paper.

We also apologize for omitting Herb Mahony's name in the election results two weeks ago. Herb was elected with 115 votes.
