M-M-M GOOD

by Carolyn Ahrens

Word has already been spread, or most likely after fourteen years of sponsoring the most popular event of its kind in Michigan, no one needs reminding that the 15th Annual Charcoal Chicken Broil is upon us. On Thursday, July 18th at the Athletic Field, 3,500 golden brown chicken halves will be ready for the first serving at 4:30 p.m.

Over 10,000 guests are expected again this year and already the 28 committees are preparing for the state-wide event. Although the ladies are only to relax and enjoy the evening, they might give a helping hand by sending out, by the 13th of July, the postcard received in the mail. Remind your out-of-town friends and relatives of our goal--the youth who benefit from the proceeds--the delicious charcoal broiled chicken--and the side attractions of exhibits and a softball game.

Co-chairman Ludy Klager reports that there will be designated parking at high school and Double A Products with shuttle service to and from the Athletic Field. This will relieve some of the traffic congestion and parking facilities at the Field.

Tickets are now available from the workers or may be purchased at the gate for $1.50, the original price fourteen years ago. Last year's profits of over $4,700 along with some of this year's profits will total a $6,000 pledge to the high school for track facilities.

The Frobnoll Party for the men workers will be held at Carr Park on Thursday, July 11 at 6:00 p.m.

Any man who has not been contacted by letter and wishes to help may contact Dan Boutell or Rollie Grossman. Ted Tapping is in charge of student help and any boy who would like to help may contact Mr. Tapping. These boys must register with him, the committee stressed. You will be most welcome.

Double A Honors Employees

By Carolyn Ahrens

A luncheon was held at Double A Products Company Wednesday, July 3, in honor of thirty-one employees who have been at Double A Products twenty years or more. They were presented with service pins by Mr. Donald A. Roach, General Manager. This is a "first at Double A", a company spokesman pointed out and they hope to continue the program annually as a 20-year service club, a club as yet unnamed.

Included at the luncheon as special guests were two employees who will retire within the next month, Julian Greenstreet who has been employed at Double A for twelve years and Frank Baker for nine years. The Management Committee also attended the luncheon.

The twenty-year-or-more employees were: Fritz Schiller, 32 years; Hollie Ayres, 31; Bill Johnson, 31 (he could not attend the luncheon because of illness); Alfred Strang, 31; Harry Martin, 29; Ed Ross, 28; Bill Eckles, 27; Opal Mann, 27; Leroy Dresselhouse, 27; Walt Silveus, 27; Bessie Pittman, 27; Bob Diferderfer, 27; Myrtle Kemmer, 26; Walt Kies, 26; Leonard James, 26; Peggy Beissel, 25; Daisy Walz, 23; Earl Uhr, 22; Ed Hooten, 22; Art McCee, 22; Erv Kappler, 22; Gene Heckaman, 22; Irv Gill, 21; Vern Herman, 21; Bob Dunny, 21;

Larry Leeson, 21; Larry Miller, 20; Paul Kappler, 20; Fritz Wurster, 20; Jim Sloan, 20; and Bud Everole, 20 years.

The employees are looking forward to this annual program again next year, a representative added.

Grand Opening

The Kopper Kettle will hold its Grand Opening Monday, July 15 from 6:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Irv and Donna Gill would like to extend an invitation to you to stop in and have a look around.

We hope everyone will turn out to welcome Manchester's newest addition.

On Sunday, July 7, 1968 at a 10:00 a.m. service, members of the Iron Creek United Church observed the 100th year of the original building of the Free Will Baptist Church of Iron Creek. After the services the parishioners gathered for a church picnic. Special services were then held at 3 p.m. with the reading of the church history by Thomas Cushman in the absence of Rev. Alvin Brazee, former pastor of Iron Creek Church, who could not be present due to illness.

The program included several guest speakers including Iron Creek pastor Rev. Ralph Janofski, Rev. Forrest Cook of Grass Lake, Leonard Solder of Flint, Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Betts better known as the "Musical Betts" and an all-male choir as was the custom of years ago.

Rev. Cook drove a 1923 Model T from Grass Lake to the occasion and Mrs. Mina Trolz was appropriately dressed in centennial clothing.

The Little Church, as Iron Creek Church is often called, actually began in 1855 when a group of believers held services at Iron Creek School for several years until the present church was built and dedicated in 1868.

There have been many improvements over the years including electricity replacing oil lamps, heating stoves to an oil furnace, a church basement was dug out by hand in 1946, an electric organ, modern-day carpeting and many other repairs and gifts made possible by the generosity of the parishioners.

On March 27, 1905, funds were raised to build a parsonage, as noted by the history records. The dedication and love for their Little Church is seen today by the parishioners who have gathered together in remembrance of the foundation of their church. Many of the original founders being grandparents, aunts and uncles of today's church members.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATIVE REPORT - Thomas G. Sharpe

I hope that everyone who reads this will immediately do an important favor for the workings of representative government.

Whether you are a Republican, a Democrat or an Independent, I urge you to go to a calendar in your home and draw a circle around the date of August 6th.

That is the day of the primary election in Michigan.

It is also the day upon which an incredibly large number of citizens will forfeit, through their own apathy and forgetfulness, what is basically the most valuable thing they possess -- their free choice of those who will serve as their employees and spokesmen in government.

In 1966, some 24,368 citizens I represent in Livingston County, and in portions of Washtenaw and Lenawee counties, went to the polls in the November general election.

Only 8,021, less than a third as many, bothered to vote in the August primary.

To illustrate just how ridiculous this is, suppose that you and two other men owned a farm or a business as equal-shares partners, and that you were about to hire a foreman.

Suppose one of your two partners said, "I'll look over all the applicants and pick out two men I like best. Then the three of us can vote on which one of those two we'll hire."

You would never agree to this. You'd say, "Look, I'm a full partner in this enterprise, and I've got a right to have my say about the qualifications of all the applicants, not just two of them."

So why do something just as ridiculous when it comes to hiring employees to fill important, policy-making positions in government? Why let one person do the deciding for three?

The smaller the voter turnout in any election, the greater the possibility that the person elected will represent some special-interest group, rather than all the citizens.

It is in primary elections that such abuses most often take place.

A special-interest group, whether labor, business or professional, can rarely hope to command a majority of the November general-election voters. But on the record, in this district as in most areas, a primary can be won with only a third as many votes.

Our two-party system is the very keystone of our enduring and successful form of government. Yet there is nothing to prevent one party from entering a candidate of their own in the opposition's primary and then urging their members to cross party lines. If such a scheme succeeds, due to voter apathy in August, the citizens find themselves robbed of a real choice in November.

This is why, once again, I urge everyone to circle that date of August 6th on the calendar.

OFFICES SERVE AS EFFECTIVE LIAISON

Congressman Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has established his Washington and Ann Arbor offices as an effective liaison between the Federal Government and local officials to deal with the problems created by the recent flooding in the 2nd Congressional District.

Esch has contacted the following Federal Agencies to tap the federal assistance available for such an emergency: Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, (FWPCA), Department of the Interior; Department of Housing and Urban Development; U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; Office of Emergency Planning; and Small Business Administration.

The Congressman and members of his staff have maintained direct lines of communication with officials and local citizen groups in the City of Ann Arbor, Scio and Webster Townships, Milan and South Rockwood -- the areas which suffered the most damage from the flooding.

In addition, Esch arranged for two field representatives from the FWPCA to visit some of the areas and to report back to the Congressman and to local officials. The Corps of Engineers also has sent officials to the area to investigate and appraise the damage. Most of the Federal agencies which Esch has contacted have emergency funds which are used only in areas which have been declared a "disaster" by the President.

This determination has not been made, but there are still types of federal financial and technical assistance available for the longer-range rehabilitation of damaged facilities.

The man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder - a waif, a nothing, a no man. Have a purpose in life, and, having it, throw such strength of mind and muscle into your work as God has given you.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The July meeting of the Community Chest Board resulted in two major news items. Theodore H. Tapping, Jr. was named Campaign Chairman for the October United Community Fund and Red Cross Drive and the budget adopted for the drive's sixteen agencies was $14,615.00. This is $1,111.00 more than last year or approximately 8 1/2% increase.

Mrs. James Baker, president of the Community Chest Board announced, D. D. Ludwick was appointed as citizen advisor to the County Wide Planning Committee for Social Agencies. The two board members on this committee are Louis Vogel and Mrs. Franklin M. Reck.

Dates for the fall drive will be set at the next meeting which will be held August 7 at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Reck.

What is a VETO?

Both the President and the Governor of Michigan have the constitutional right to veto -- or disapprove -- a bill passed by the federal or state legislative body.

In Michigan these procedures are all carefully spelled out in the state constitution. A bill which is passed by the Senate with at least 20 affirmative votes and by the House of Representatives with at least 56 affirmative votes is then presented to the Governor for consideration.

He has 14 days in which to act. If he signs the bill it becomes law. If he takes no action during the 14 days it still becomes law without his signature. If he disapproves the bill within the 14-day period he then returns it with his veto message back to the legislature. This disapproval process is a veto.

It is possible to enact a bill into law in spite of the Governor's objections. To do this 2/3 of the Senators elected and serving and 2/3 of the Representatives elected and serving must vote again in favor of the legislation. This means a minimum of 26 Senate votes and 74 House votes. This is called "overriding the veto."

Governor Romney has just permitted the "Sunday Liquor" bill to become law by taking no action on it for 14 days after it had reached his desk. In a public statement he indicated dislike for this legislation but felt perhaps the potential convention business and the provision limiting it to food establishments were off setting factors. Personally I voted against the measure.

The Governor also permitted a bill to become law without his signature which involves mining properties in the upper peninsula. The original bill was unquestionably bad because it gave private companies the same power of eminent domain as a public authority would have. The bill was amended and the Department of Conservation is the only body with such power in the revised version. I think the final bill was acceptable.

Governor Romney vetoed a bill where members of the Legislature would not pay the Lansing city income tax. I think this action by the Governor right. I too opposed the bill.

WASHINGTON REPORT - Esch

Did the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. bring on the passage of the civil rights bill? Did the assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy hasten the enactment of an anti-crime bill which included controls on hand guns? The answer to both questions is no, but from what you read and hear you might believe otherwise. The truth is that, while these senseless acts may have added support for these bills, they were scheduled for consideration well before either assassination. Yet the coincidence of their passage immediately after these events would tend to reinforce the belief of some that Congress acted hurriedly in a time of great emotion.

Certainly emotional appeals have an effect on Congress; especially when they come in great numbers from the people. While the anti-crime bill was not a result of the Kennedy assassination, a strong gun control bill may well be. Under serious consideration since the beginning of this decade, effective gun control legislation has been blocked each year. The great outpouring of public support for such a measure never came until after the tragic incident in Los Angeles and now is being followed by increased Congressional attention. It is unfortunate that it sometimes takes such a set of circumstances to get needed action but this has been the case with gun control legislation. Now it is the responsibility of Congress to apply reason and logic and develop objectively an equitable bill.

Prior to the assassination I had received few letters on this issue mainly from those who felt strongly one way or another. Now I am hearing from great numbers who have suddenly realized the need for some action. This new surge of support serves to reinforce my own support for reasonable and effective gun control and reflects what has been shown in national polls and in my own questionnaire results.

Opposition to gun control comes from those who fear violation of constitutional rights to keep and bear arms and from those who fear burdensome restrictions on sportsmen and collectors. In my opinion, none of the legislation being seriously considered would substantiate these fears and none that did would receive my support.

I will support, however, legislation requiring registration of all guns and certain restrictions on their sale and transportation in interstate commerce. I cannot conceive of a reason why any law abiding citizen would refuse to register his gun. Certainly this small inconvenience to the individual, would be repaid manifold by added safety and order in our society. Although there is good reason to believe that the criminal would not register his gun, law enforcement would be given another tool for criminal arrest and for tracing stolen weapons and apprehending their users. Strong restrictions on the purchase of guns by juveniles would end the free access youngsters now have to deadly weapons.

I am not one who believes that each American is responsible for the tragic events we have experienced this year. Nor do I argue that regulation of guns will solve our national problems of violence. Foremost we need strict enforcement of existing laws by law enforcement officials and the courts. We need more responsible treatment of violence by our public media. We need to break down the increasing polarization between opposing forces in this country. And we need to attack the environmental conditions that foster violence and tragedy.

Gun control can only be considered the application of a bandaid to a large wound. Let's hope that the solutions to our root problems will receive the type of support which has been generated for this lone need.

CHURCH EDITORIAL

Rev. Thos. E. Hicks
Is there any doubt that today's revolting, immoral and fear infested society is but an evidence that we have procrastinated too long from the truths once established by our forefathers faith. Pledge, I plead with you, become aware at least of the premise that outlines the two major conflicting philosophies which struggle for dominance in every strata of our educational system.

Let us be aware that any enemy of our democratic system and its christian derived blessings of free speech, and press and religion must first confound our educational goals (purposes) institutional arrangement and methods. And err you question my alarmism of such, let me suggest that you visit our Manchester library and obtain a copy of the book 'The Revolution in Education, by Mortimer J. Adler and Milton Mayer. I have found this book most helpful in defining the Modern and Fundamental positions and then comparing the educational, social and political consequences.

It has also helped me to clarify and refute the false (evil) logic I have been confronting in a college course in Philosophy of Education at E. M. U. However, my research into these issues which have been affecting church and state relationships in Public School began back in 1965. In that year I wrote a term paper for a Principles of Teaching Course in which I sent out a questionnaire to 57 of our states school superintendents, in an attempt to gain the general reaction of our academic administrators to the 1962, 63 Supreme Court Rulings on Prayer in public schools.

I'd like to share with you the surprising finding of their negative attitudes and fearful surmises of these issues. If at all interested please let me hear from you. But let me bring this research up to date by stating what this summers philosophy course has disclosed. Friends it is evident that we are no longer in a struggle for freedom of religion but are being pressured into acceptance of curriculum and methods which will result in freedom of religion, etc. or the dominance of Socialistic Atheistic Philosophy.

Now although I am first and foremost a Christian I also am an American and thus am fighting for the philosophy of democratic freedom.

The Fundamental or Conservative Philosophy, have you made your stand on these issues? Have you weighed the consequences of procrastination or compromise? "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

"Frontier Farmers Cleared the Way" — is the theme of a float planned by Chippewa county farmers for entry in summer-long parades and celebrations to be part of the "Tricentennial" programs at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

This year the "Soo" celebrates its 300th birthday commemorating the arrival from Quebec in 1668 of Father Jacques Marquette, and the founding of the first permanent mission to the Ottawa Indian tribes.

The log cabins erected as part of the mission were the first substantial buildings in what was to become the state of Michigan and marked the founding of the city of Sault Ste. Marie.

At first there were no real farmers, although all lived close to the forests and soil. Food was plentiful from hunting and fishing but limited in variety — especially during the long, hard winter months. Vegetables other than occasional dried beans and peas were largely unknown. Grains were not grown and flour for bread and refined sugar were costly trade commodities usually in short supply.

But the woods were full of blueberries, currants, wild raspberries, gooseberries and "choke-cherries" (so named by the settlers because of their gagging bitterness if eaten when not fully ripe), and sugar could be had by boiling the sap of maple trees.

Fur trading helped maintain contacts with the outside and furs were valuable trade goods which bought the flour, guns and powder, axes and other tools which provided protection from attack or forest fire. In time gardens were a natural addition, and fresh corn and vegetables were welcomed to the menu.

Hunters became farmers almost by accident, first among the tree stumps and rocks and then in fully cleared fields, with the pioneer farmer equally handy with ax, plow or gun.

That's the scene members of the Chippewa county Farm Bureau are planning to depict on their Tricentennial float, reminding everyone how then, as now, agricultural production clears the way for roads, schools, shopping centers, leisure time for arts and science, and other attributes of civilization.

1968 CROP WHEAT CERTIFICATES VALUE TO BE $1.38 PER BUSHEL

A value of $1.38 per bushel was just announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 1968-crop wheat marketing certificates. Certificate payments to approximately 43,000 Michigan wheat growers will begin soon from county ASCS offices.

Frank J. Light, Chairman of the Michigan ASC State committee, stated that the certificate value is based on the difference between the July 1, 1968 wheat parity price of $2.63 per bushel and the 1968-crop national average loan rate of $1.25 per bushel.

Certificate payments to farmers are based on the projected production on 40 percent of the 1968 farm wheat allotment. This reflects the wheat used for domestic food on which program cooperators receive 100 percent of the wheat parity.

Mr. Light added that certificate payments add substantially to the income farmers receive from marketing their wheat. In determining total return per bushel for wheat, cooperators divide their certificate payment by their total production to get an average per bushel payment, about 50 cents.

By adding this to the price they receive in the market, participants in the program can find their total return per bushel.

Millers and others purchase wheat marketing certificates at 75 cents per bushel on all wheat processed for domestic food use. The remainder of the certificate payment is made up by the Government.

MORE DAIRY CATTLE SHOW "BEEF" DISEASE

A cattle disease once thought to be a hazard only to beef feeders has been showing up more often in Michigan dairy herds.

Veterinarians say there is no epidemic as such, and no apparent cause for major alarm. But wise dairy farmers will watch out.

The disease is identified by the name "infectious bovine rhino-tracheitis" —IBR.

There are at least three, and some experts say four, varieties which have different major symptoms. The name "red nose" has been widely used for the disease, but this is a bad label since, in dairy cattle at least, the nose is seldom noticeably red.

Severity of the disease varies considerably.

It spreads so rapidly within an infected herd that isolating sick animals doesn't help. It shifts hard in a milking herd, the economic loss can be disastrous.

If you like the taste of golden brown chicken, attend the Chicken Broil Thursday, July 18.

CONVERTING FARM TO RECREATION AREA IS NOT ALL "FUN"

If you have farm land and are considering turning it into a recreation area, mark August 1 on your calendar and visit Merry Lake, just off M-99 near the Ohio-Michigan state line, south of Hillsdale.

Robert and Mary Cooper have had some interesting, and distressing, experiences converting a dairy and general farm into a private lake and recreation area. They will share some of them with visitors at the State Farm Management Tour on August 1 at 9:30 and 10:45 a. m.

In 1959 the ambitious and enterprising couple sold their tire and auto equipment business in Oregon, Ohio, (near Toledo) and came to southern Hillsdale County to farm.

They delved into the history of the area and found that a mill pond was once located across the road from their farm. More than 120 years ago, this pond water, from Silver Creek, powered a grist mill in the center of a community called Amboy.

The Coopers dreamed of a recreation lake, stocked with fish, where permanent residents and their families could enjoy swimming, boating, fishing and rural living away from busy industrial cities.

In 1966 they bought the first 372 acres of their present 630 acres in the block of land they are developing. To develop the lake on Silver Creek they had to build a dam 550 feet long, 20 feet high and 70 feet wide at the base.

Clearing the lakebed of trees was no small job. But the Coopers contracted with a manufacturer of pallets to clear the site for the lumber. A total of 69,000 board feet of lumber was cleared.

To burn the branches, roots and trash, Cooper found a supply of junk tires that had to be moved. These were hauled to the brush piles to "feed the flame" and keep the fires burning.

A total of nearly 500 lots around the lake have been plotted and there is a potential for 250 more, the Coopers say. Some have been sold and homes built. Construction of a $347,000 central sewage disposal system will start as soon as a permit can be obtained. It was found that the land did not have good enough percolation for individual sewage disposal. But the central system will cost no more than $500 to $700 a lot, including bonding, which Cooper says is little more than individual systems for the lots would cost.

The private lake has been stocked with fish and also offers boating and swimming for residents.

One of the big features of Merry Lake is the restaurant built in an old dairy barn. The loft, with rustic decor, panels of rough-cut walnut and big oak beams, seats 120. A grill, short-order area and kitchen are located downstairs. An old silo, at the edge of the lake, has been converted into a lighthouse, and a refreshment stand is being built at ground level.

Plans are underway to expand the restaurant facility with a steak house behind the barn, Cooper says. They lease the restaurant facility, although they operated it themselves in 1967.

Cooper admits it probably cost as much to make the old barn into the restaurant as building a new one, but he believes its unique features have some "customer drawing power."

"Management ability and being able to get along with people," says Cooper, "are the big qualifications for successfully converting a farm to a recreation area. Good records are necessary for cost control," he adds, relating that his wife Mary was a "book-keeper when I married her and has been keeping records at the tire store, dairy farm and now the recreation farm."

Since some of the land in the recreation farm is tillable, the Coopers lease it on shares. A total of 29 acres of wheat, Approximately 80 head of cattle were exhibited at the one day show. Judge was Kent Mattson from ELV Apache Ranch, Lapeer.

22 acres of oats and 11 acres of soybeans are the 1968 crops.

The Coopers have three children. A son, Bob, is in Vietnam with the U.S. Army and is looking forward to returning in the fall to become a part of the Merry Lake enterprise. A married daughter, Mrs. Owen Smith, lives in the community, and Aless, 16, a high school student, lives at home.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Mary Lou McConnaughey has announced her candidacy for State Representative from the 51st District on the Republican ticket.

Married and the mother of four children, Mrs. McConnaughey lives at 427 Livingston St., Howell. She is a member of the Walnut Street United Methodist Church where she teaches Sunday School. An active participant in the Boy Scout program in both Howell and Pinckney, she has served as a Den Mother and an organizer. She is past president of the Howell Welcome Wagon, a working member of the National Federation of Republican Women; she was a guest to the State Republican Convention and a delegate to the Republican Women's Workshop this year.

Mrs. McConnaughey feels the lack of communication between representatives and their constituents is one that should be remedied, and she feels her ability to communicate with people will prove valuable toward this end if she is elected.

"More than ever before there is a need for women in politics, especially on a state level," Mrs. McConnaughey said, "Women have been the foundation of unity between home and family, school and local business, and at a time in history when there is so much unrest within the state because of civil liberties, so much concern about law enforcement, educational problems such as teacher strikes, and parochial and vocational education programs, welfare and mental health programs, it is time to use the natural abilities of a woman who has dealt with these problems on a local level."

"She hopes her experience and knowledge may bring to our state a moral and spiritual leadership that will encourage individual citizens to commit themselves to working for a government of unity, understanding and moral principles."

IRON CREEK CHURCH

In memory of Iron Creek Church is a verse that very much describes it entitled "The Little Church"
"There is something about a little church,
A little church with its door swung wide!
That seems to say to passers by
Come in, come in, and rest inside,
Find friends and comfort, love and peace,
Find Christ and his gentle presence here,
Forget your worries and find release
From hurry and trouble, from grief and fear.
The world roars by, but there's peace inside,
Of the little church with its door swung wide."

'Chicken Eaters' invited back to Manchester
SIDEWALK SALE NEXT WEDNESDAY

By Carolyn Ahrens

Manchester merchants will again sponsor the Sidewalk Sales on Wednesday, July 24. A wide variety of items will be on display outside the stores as well as numerous sale articles inside. As pointed out by one merchant, "We hope to make this year's sales much better and every merchant wants to make the goods as fresh and interesting as possible. We want to clear out this year's goods for next year's items."

The merchants feel these sales have created local interest and are prosperous to them as well as the buyer. The idea came about five years ago when the sidewalk sales became popular in several area towns.

A number of ladies were contacted at random by telephone for their opinions on the sales. Mrs. Theodore Blumenauer of 9300 Chelsea-Manchester Rd. said, "I think they're wonderful because usually the sale things are useful and at a better price. I enjoy the sales and I'd like to see them continued."

Mrs. Burton Murray of 11918 Elmdale Drive, "It's a nice sale and a lot of fun. I like sales of any kind and usually find good buys."

"I'll be there if it's nice weather," Mrs. Peter Cash of 220 Madison said. "I have bought some things and I think the sales are a good idea."

Mrs. James Scully of 516 W. Main felt that the prices were good but would like to see some newer and better items. She added that she definitely hoped the Manchester Sidewalk Sales would continue.

Mrs. James Bauer of 404 E. Main said, "I think they're nice. It promotes interest in town."

And as pointed out by one lady, "This is a small town and we have fewer stores. Our merchants can't really give the items away but the sale items they do have are good."

There will be a small carnival again this year and concession tickets for the children will be available from any of the merchants and at the bank. With these special tickets the rides will be 10 cents but without them the rides will be 25 cents. Tickets will be available Tuesday, July 23 and Wednesday, July 24, the day of the Sidewalk Sales.

And shoppers might also remember St. Mary's Ice Cream Social will begin at 4:30 p.m. so take the family out to the social and enjoy the Manchester Sidewalk Sales.

On June 22 at 7:00 a.m., thirty-two Boy Scouts from Troops 426 and 436 along with eight fathers left Manchester for an eight-day trip to the east coast. The caravan included five station wagons, one car and one pick-up truck.

They traveled through Canada to Niagara Falls and arrived about 1:45 p.m. that afternoon. After seeing the Falls, they traveled on to Buffalo, New York and stopped at Letchworth State Park where they spent Saturday night and Sunday enjoying the beautiful park facilities including a pool and the "breath-taking sight of the gorge and the Falls." That Sunday morning the entire group attended church and as noticed by one father, "It was an impressive sight to see all the boys in full dress uniform march into the church single file. You could actually hear the congregation gasp."

The group left Letchworth Park early Monday morning and traveled to Albany where one of the station wagons and the pick-up broke down in a rain storm. They were delayed 4 1/2 hours but this in itself brought about an exciting adventure for the boys. The Sales Manager for the Ford garage made arrangements for a police escort from Albany to the Colonie City Park Pavilion at Newtonville, New York where they found shelter from the rain for the night. When they arrived in Newtonville, they were met at the town hall and introduced to James Kiker, Director of the Colonie Town Park. Mr. Kiker arranged for the new million-dollar swimming pool to be opened the next day for an hour for their use.

The next stop was Salisbury State Park which was near the ocean and an amusement park where all enjoyed the facilities. On Wednesday they arrived at the Naval Base at Portsmouth, Mass. about 1:00 p.m. A Navy bus took them on a tour of the base and one of the most interesting sights was the Reserve Training Submarine stationed there. The Manchester group ate supper with the men and Lt. Laine arranged for the troop to spend the night at the barracks - but with one stipulation -- the boys had to stand fire guard all night with two boys on duty for 1 1/2 hour shifts.

Thursday brought a scenic drive along the ocean and a visit to the Navy Shipyard in Boston then on to Bunker Hill and a visit to the Old North Church. An unexpected meeting in a grocery store with another scout leader brought about a visit with Boy Scout Troop 79 of Springfield, Mass. Their new-found friends then directed them to Camp Woronook, a Scout Camp in the mountains. On Friday, the Manchesterites were in Batavia, New York, again in a grocery store, more conversation, a new friend and a night in the Methodist Church and out of another rain storm -- the plague of the week. The following morning they started for home after cleaning up their "basement camp." There are memories, tales and adventures that could only happen to boys, one of them being Jim Baker. At a tailgate lunch on their way home, Jim used his scout knife to make a sandwich. He then folded up the knife and put it in his pocket, mustard and all. When asked, "Just what will you tell your mother?" he replied, "Oh nothing, she expects things like that." The caravan arrived in Manchester at 7:02 Saturday evening and were escorted by the village police to the Ted Roberts' home and were met by their parents. The trip was called "a successful and happy one for all."

Scout leaders Lary England and Ted Roberts would like to thank Ron McNally, Chief Cook and Bottle Washer, Chuck Steele, Ed Steele, Tom Gormley, Russ Wolff who acted as treasurer and Tony Schlosser for taking the time to make this trip possible for the Boy Scouts of Troops 426 and 436. They also add a special thanks to all the wives and to Dick Way for the use of his truck.

Campaign '68

Karen Kirk

The elections and conventions are nearing and many are thinking about the candidates' opinions on various issues.

Several Manchester area residents were asked about their opinions on the upcoming events.

The questions asked were: Statement: McCarthy said he would support Rockefeller if Humphrey wins the nomination because he doesn't agree with Humphrey's stand on Vietnam. George Wallace is gaining support in the North, about 10 percent in a recent poll.

Question: Would these statements imply the downfall of the major political parties or will these men's actions not affect the campaign's outcome?

Question: Disregarding any political party ties, what kind of stands on what issues would you like a presidential candidate to take?

Question: Do you think there should be more information made available about congressional candidates on both the state and federal levels? How important do you believe the congressman's job is?

Russell Smith, 14658 Hazle Road, I don't think they will affect the two party system. Humphrey will get the nomination. There is no problem about Wallace, he won't get far. People have been subjected to too much propaganda about him. Wallace is up against a lot that would require a great many changes in order for society to accept him. A candidate should take a stand on Vietnam. Have them get in there and get the thing over with, use a few A bombs if necessary or get out without even a token.

The congressman's job is pretty important. We can know the candidates by the local paper's publicity. Maybe the radio stations should have statements of the candidates views. Perhaps we need a complete knowledge of their background. Alan Alber, 7753 Hasley Road, Their actions will affect the campaign but I am not sure if the outcome will be changed for better or worse. A third or fourth party will not affect the outcome even though it has happened before. None of the extraneous parties have enough power to sway the campaign.

A presidential candidate should take a stand on the Vietnam war, the problem of poverty in this country and the race problem. The congressman's role is real important. Basically, 3/4 of the people don't know what is going on in regard to their congressman's work. It wouldn't help to have more publicity because approximately 25 percent of the people would understand the information. Mrs. Lewis Vogel, 11437 Pleasant Lake Road, They won't affect the campaign's outcome, besides it's too early to tell. We have to see the candidates
