"Friendliness"

"The station at the top of the hill" often directs out-of-town customers to the Grossman-Huber Gulf Service station on the corner of Main and Clinton. The station has been a part of the community for over thirty years when the late Carl Toburen opened the business in the late 1930's. Mr. Grossman was one of Mr. Toburen's original employees.

Red Huber sold out his gas station, the locale of Don Walter's Body Shop, served in the U.S. Army for two years and upon his return in 1946 also began working for Mr. Toburen.

Then in 1954 Red Huber and Rollie Grossman became owners and partners of the Gulf Service station. Today they employ four full-time and several part-time employees and both are usually on hand to serve their many customers. Grossman-Huber handles minor tune-up and repair work as well as car washing facilities. They also sell many auto and truck accessories. The station is open daily from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Rollie Grossman and his wife, Liz, live in Manchester and are members of Emmanuel Church where Mr. Grossman is also on the church council. He is a member of the Optimist Club and a volunteer fireman and has been for over twenty-five years.

In May of 1964, Rollie Grossman was awarded one of the four awards given so far by the Manchester Junior Chamber of Commerce "in recognition of services to the community" involving such activities as the annual chicken broil.

Red Huber and his wife, Jerry, are life-time residents of Manchester and are members of the Emmanuel Church. Mr. Huber is also a member of the Optimist Club and the American Legion.

Grossman-Huber Service invites you to stop in any time.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
A Television Spectacular

It would have been called organized confusion. It was live. It remained that way because the delegates were not allowed weapons. This was a kind of circus. Not a little three ring Barnum & Bailey circus with elephants that is held under the Big Top, but a big 50 ring circus that was held in Chicago near the stockyard. You could call it a Barnyard & Daley special that was a big flop.

It was a flop because the elephants were replaced with something that is sometimes called a jackass and some of them acted that way. It wouldn't have been interesting if it wasn't for the stockyard. Someone must have opened a gate and let something out. I couldn't tell what it was because of the fog.

It sure was exciting when they showed the police using sticks to catch whatever they were and putting them in trucks. This show was rather long. Those that didn't see all of it won't have another chance. They plan no reruns.

I don't think there will be another Convention like it in 1972. There couldn't be.

A TRIBUTE TO DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER by Mrs. A. Vanlunen

For some time now, especially since he made the effort to make his appeal to his party and the nation, we have listened for medical reports from Walter Reed Hospital concerning our ex-President. A bouquet to the living is more fitting than a dozen garlands for the dead. Life Magazine's article in the August 16 issue on "The smile of sincerity in an age of contrivance" is as fitting and timely as it is surprising. I knew that many, even liberals, are worried about the growth of the Federal government. The author warmly appreciates Ike's conviction that "the momentum of the big bureaucracies tends to sweep the Cabinet officers right along with them, and these men are often almost powerless to combat the system which grows bigger when it is obvious that in some ways it should grow smaller."

Ike thinks the President should use his Cabinet and the National Security Council because "you need bitterly debated advice and conflicting considerations", to escape the deep personalization of the Presidency. Perhaps he understood his job and the Presidency better than we gave him credit for.

The Congressional Record gives, in remarks by Hon. George Meader, our former Congressman, on Friday, August 20, 1954, a summary and appraisal of the 83rd Congress and the Eisenhower Administration. Every knowledgeable legislator says, "The American people have resumed their forward progress under traditional principles of economic and political freedom for the first time in two decades. A government and controlled economy has been rejected and we have turned our back on socialism."

scrap-processing, paint retail, merchandising and a host of other activities in which the Government ought not to be engaged. The curtailment of these activities is reflected in a reduced number of employees in the Federal Government and a reduction in its cost.

Again on finances from the same Congressional Record: "The Eisenhower administration inherited . . . a backlog of commitments in excess of $80 billion for which there was no money in the Treasury. Until those obligations can be discharged, a balanced budget cannot be attained, and tax relief of necessity has to be limited . . . Economies made it possible to cut excise and personal income tax substantially and to eliminate the excess-profits tax. Such tax relief totals $7 1/2 billion a year."

On subversives Mr. Meader continues: "Democrats pooh-poohed Communist infiltration of our government, labor unions, educational circles, and other important segments of our national life. Immediately after taking office, the Eisenhower administration recognized subversion and espionage and dealt with them effectively and forthrightly. A tougher program against subversives was initiated without any loss at all in civil liberties and individual rights. We outlawed the Communist Party and provided enforcement agencies with the tools to ferret out and prosecute those who would overthrow our government."

On foreign affairs: "While New Dealers coddled Communists, Russian imperialism since World War II engulfed 800 million peoples in China and eastern Europe. We were bogged down in a stalemate war in Korea, Egypt and Britain were at swords' point over Suez. Viet Minh Communists were gaining ground in Indo China." Remember this was 1954, 14 years ago.

In conclusion Meader says of our Ike, "It is refreshing to have a President who recognizes the prerogatives and independence of the legislative branch - who works with rather than on the Congress. Without this atmosphere of co-operation and mutual respect, the Eisenhower administration and the Republican 83 rd. Congress could not have progressed so far in such a short time in their crusade to advance our national welfare under time-tested principles of economic and political freedom and efficient and honest government."

This appreciation of Ike, the President, rests on 20 year perspective and we now have 14 more years of perspective to judge. We have witnessed intensive TV eulogies which have raised to sainthood men who by word and action were not saints. This is an honest attempt at a more complete appraisal of our living ex-President. I wonder if the Enterprise would welcome your bouquet?

ARNOLDS RETURN FROM CANADA

Upon their return they again stopped in Winnipeg for several days.

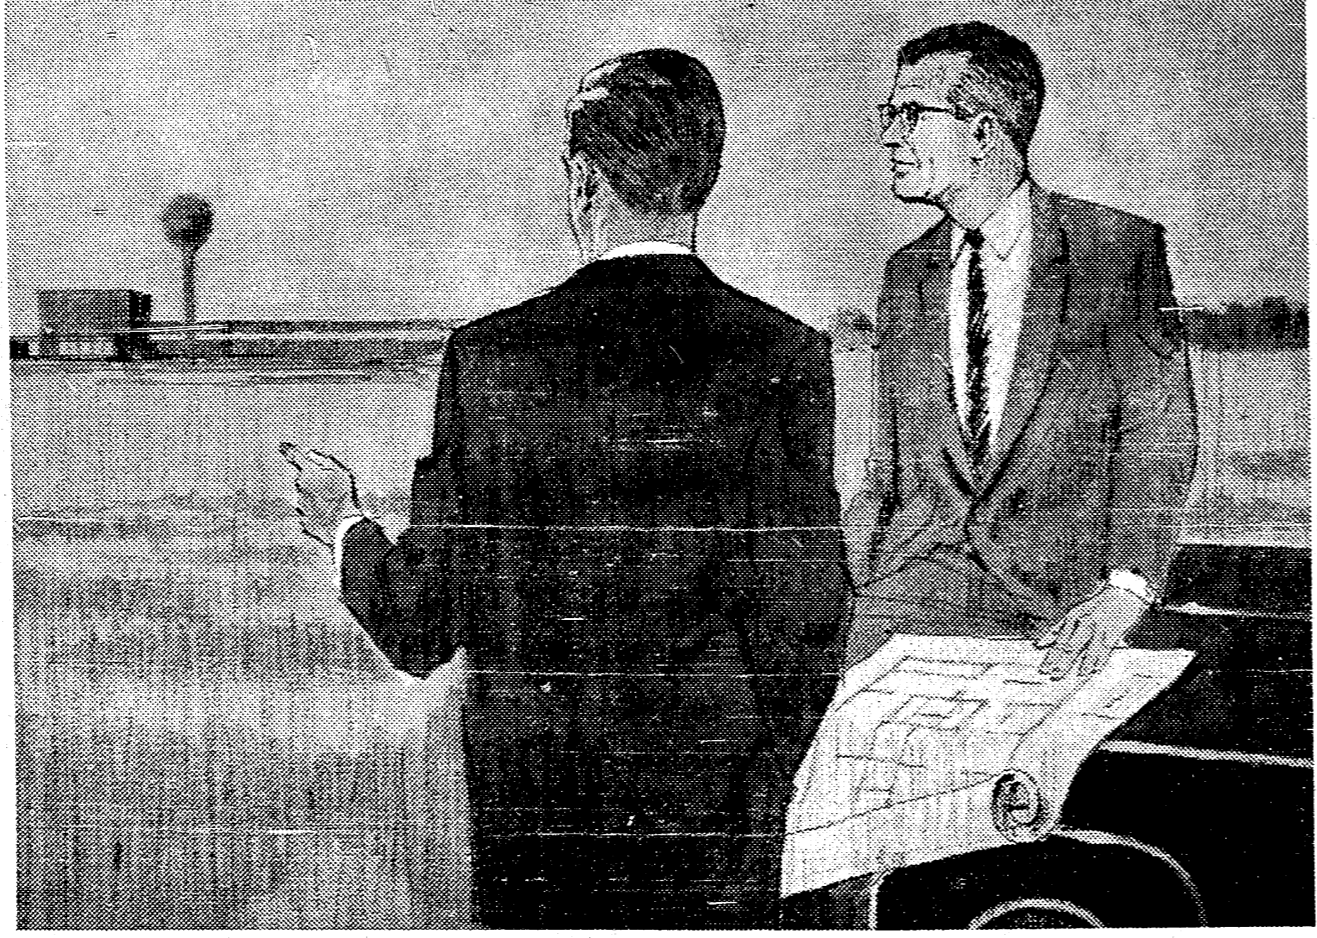

The Arnolds had traveled through Minnesota to Canada and had traveled by car 4,115 miles before returning to Manchester.

Just to keep up with its growing population, Michigan needs 100,000 new jobs each year. Many of these new jobs develop with the natural growth of industries in Michigan. But many more jobs are created when plants and offices move into the state from outside.

That's where the Job-Makers of Consumers Power come on the scene. They are a small group of highly-qualified Michigan boosters, industrial experts whose heads and briefcases are crammed with information. We call them our Area Development Department.

Through personal visits and advertising in national business publications, these energetic men urge industry managers to move to Michigan. They tell about the many advantages our

BOARD OF EDUCATION ADOPTS NEW POLICY

The Manchester Board of Education has adopted new noon hour boundaries for all fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. This action was necessitated by the crowded conditions that exist in the intermediate building during the lunch period.

Effective immediately all children will be expected to eat lunch at home unless they live past the village limits on the east end of town, or south of Wager Road on Macomb Street, or west of the Ford Garage on Main Street, or north of Mound Street on Ann Arbor Road.

In every instance the walking distance from school by customary walking routes is less than a mile. If it is felt by the parent that special conditions exist in their family that would prevent their child from eating at home, contact must be made with the school administration for a ruling on their particular case.

CALL TO PRAYER FOR CZECHOSLAVKIA

In response to a request from a Czechoslovak Protestant Church, that Christian churches in all parts of the world pray for the Czech people and their churches, Dr. G. Merrill Lenox, Executive Director, Ann Arbor Washtenaw Council of Churches has urged that the people and their church throughout Washtenaw County offer such prayers during these days of great trial and anxiety. Dr. Lenox declared: "The least we can do is to remember these devoted Christians in our prayers. The weeks ahead will be exceedingly difficult for them," he asserted. "Having just been in contact with church people behind the Iron Curtain," he explained, "I feel especially sensitive to their problems and needs in this discouraging crisis."

Dr. Lenox pointed out that the request for prayers was brought out by Czechoslovakia by Bishop Kurt Scharf, Bishop of the Evangelical Church in Berlin-Brandenburg, who was in Prague when Soviet troops arrived. Upon reaching Germany, Bishop Scharf conveyed the message to the World Council of Churches office in Geneva. The request is from the Synodal Council of the Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren, one of the larger Protestant communities with approximately 250, a million young people will sacrifice their future opportunities for temporary freedoms and satisfactions.

Some high school dropouts make it up the ladder to a good job, but most of them do not. The jobs that are usually available to the dropout are those of short duration, with low income and little future for advancement.

Although the dropout problem is widely recognized, all too often nothing is done about it. Everyone looks to someone else to take the responsibility. In truth, however, it can only be solved through a concerted effort of all parts of our society.

All of us can help fight the dropout problem. Here's how: Studies show that most dropouts leave school because of a lack of interest. School leaders and individual community leaders can assist in meeting this problem by assisting in personal counseling of young persons who are considering dropping out.

Many students drop out because they come from poor families where funds are desperately short. Local businesses can assist greatly by affording young persons an opportunity for part-time jobs and for part-time job training and vocational education to help the youth when they graduate from school. They might assist by job counseling with a young person to help him see the opportunities which will be open to him with a high school diploma that might be closed off if he drops out.

Other students drop out of school because it is hard for them and there is no one who cares enough to help them through the hard subjects. Clearly this is an excellent opportunity for individuals to offer assistance in tutoring youngsters who need their help.

One major reason many young people reject school is that they themselves feel rejected by society. A kind word, a pat on the back, a helping hand can mean a lot to these youngsters. Sometimes the mere expression of interest and concern on the part of others will help them tide.

The dropout problem is a concern we all must share and work to solve. Government cannot do it alone. It requires a total community effort. If you would like more information about how you might participate in a Stay in School Campaign, please write me in care of the House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Visitor From Germany

Mrs. Gertraud Dening, a social worker from Frankfurt, Germany will spend three weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. Walli Lannom. Before coming to visit Manchester, Mrs. Dening spent three weeks in Toronto, Canada visiting another sister.

This trip is Mrs. Dening's first time in America. Mrs. Dening says that Germany has many of the same problems as America. Hippies and student demonstrations are two similar problems.

Mrs. Dening has also noted some differences between America and Germany. In Germany, television programs are shown only a few hours a day. They have no sponsors of their programs as we do. Each station is owned and operated by a governmental division similar to our counties. In Germany if a movie is listed as recommended for adults 21 and over, you must show your passport proving you are 21 before you are allowed to enter. Germany does not have as much L.S.D. or pot smoking as in America. There are no strikes of laborers. The management and unions settle their differences and increases in wages through negotiation rather than striking.

Many things are priced higher in Germany. For sugar in Germany, one would pay about 30¢ per pound in U.S. currency. Coffee, tea and meat are also very expensive.

As mentioned earlier, Mrs. Dening is a social worker. To become a social worker she attended a special school for the training of social workers for three years. During those three years she worked in homes, hospitals and with handicapped children, both mentally and physically handicapped.

Mrs. Dening remarked about Manchester, "There are so many trees and such a wide Main Street. In Frankfurt, Germany there are no trees so close to the main street as there are here."

Mrs. Dening has eaten many different foods since she has been in Manchester and likes all that she has eaten thus far. Roscoe and Walli Lannom will spend the next few weeks showing Mrs. Dening some of the sights of Manchester and other parts of Michigan.

Vesco's: Customer Service

By Carolyn Ahrens

Manchester's Vesco grocery store, located on W. Austin Road on the edge of town, is one of thirty-nine such stores in the tri-state area. The store, once the Manchester Country Market and still often called that, was purchased several years ago from Charles Carlton by the Vesco grocery chain.

The original building was used for sorting the fruits and vegetables grown on the surrounding property by the late owners Frank Higgins and Jake Wylander. It soon became a popular Sunday fruit stand. Gradually light groceries were added. Although Mr. Wylander soon retired from the business due to ill-health, the Higgins family continued. Eventually the business was purchased by Mr. Carlton and became the Country Market.

In 1965, under the Vesco management, the store was completely remodeled including the re-location of the door, meat and produce counters and the installation of automatic check-out counters. But behind the check-out counters remained two long-time employees. Vi Widmayer has been employed by the Country Market management and now Vesco's for thirteen years and Bea Burkhardt over twelve years. Another familiar face for over seventeen years is Marion Schwab who works at the meat counter.

There are eleven employees at Vesco's and are members of the Retail Clerk's Union and/or the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' Union. The management, co-operating with the public school co-op plan, also hires high school students on a part-time basis.

New Look

By Karen Kirk

The appearance of the Sportsman's Tavern, next to the Union Savings Bank on Main Street, will revert back to what it looked like at the turn of the century.

The building which has always been a tavern was recently purchased by Donald E. Limpert. He said the change would begin near the end of the year.

Manchester has a colorful history in taverns. Around the early 1870's about six existed on Main Street alone. One tavern which brewed its own beer even sold it by the barrel.

The front exterior of the Sportsman's Tavern hasn't changed much since it was built. The hitching posts are gone and so are the awnings of the early 1900's.

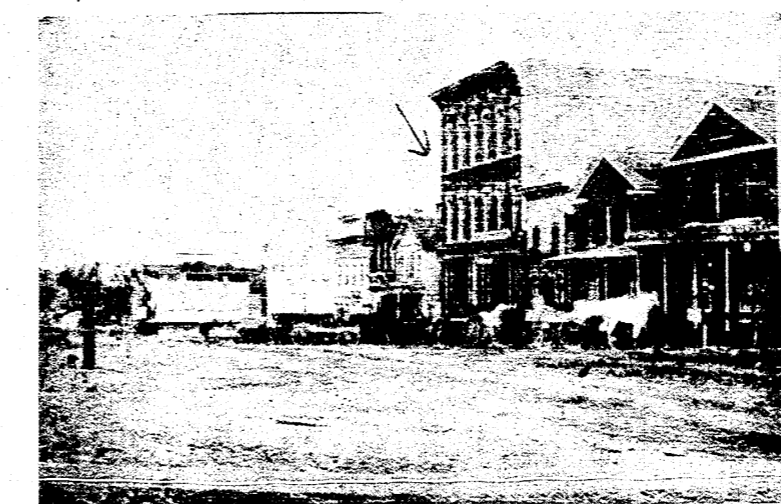

Limpert hopes to use gas lights at the front entrance and in the parking lot in the rear. The prime entrance will be off the parking lot from the present rear of the tavern. The main reason is convenience and the parking lot will be paved.

The new owner who specializes in remodeling stores plans to create a tavern where anyone over 21 will feel comfortable. When remodeling, Limpert will concentrate on eye appeal and service to the community.

The whole interior will be redone. There will be tables of local origin of different shapes and sizes. The tavern will also feature an upright player piano which patrons may play if they want.

Food will be served primarily at noon. Limpert said he does not intend to compete with the local restaurants.

"Manchester is unique because its basic architecture has not radically changed since the turn of the century. The largest amount of business exchange has essentially remained within the same perimeter," according to Limpert. "There are many small towns in the East who have effectively capitalized on these and similar assets," he added. An example cited was Williamsburg, Virginia where they completely restored the community. Limpert pointed out that endeavors such as these are highly successful in appearance and have proven economically good for business.

Rollie Grossman is shown standing among his 6 ft. high tomato plants. The variety is Burpee Big Boy. Rollie gets the plants from the Burpee Seed Company in Iowa. The average yield of tomatoes is about a peck a plant. Thus with his four dozen plants, he harvests about 20 bushels of tomatoes. Mrs. Grossman uses them for canning, juice and chili sauce. We find the high plants fascinating and can attest that the tomatoes are delicious. Being in the air as they are, the tomatoes are practically blemish free.
