Because Ski Whiz is built with the same ruggedness MF puts into its big machines. Come in and look over MF's Ski Whiz. Find out how easy it is to own. Make this winter more fun than ever.

Dimes March This Friday

by Carolyn Ahrens

The 1969 March of Dimes Mothers' March will begin at 7:00 p.m., Friday, January 31, village Chairman Mrs. Ronald Gonyer announced. This year thirty-four solicitors will canvas the Manchester village area and residents are asked to turn on their porch lights Friday evening for their benefit.

A voluntary health organization founded in January, 1938, The National Foundation-March of Dimes are in their 31st year in their battle against crippling disease. After an unprecedented victory over polio, this disease-fighting organization turned its attention to another crippling birth defect. Now, eleven years after the Foundation expanded their goal against this Great Destroyer, as birth defects are called, over 100 March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers have been established across the nation. This, in addition to the countless number of schools with facilities for birth defects children are making remarkable progress toward the care and treatment of these children.

Birth defects, described as "a structural or metabolic disorder present at birth" does not include birth injuries. However, as pointed out by March of Dimes captain and solicitor Mrs. William Bunney, a child born with a defect or an injury suffered at birth still benefits from the research, diagnosis, care and treatment made possible through the March of Dimes.

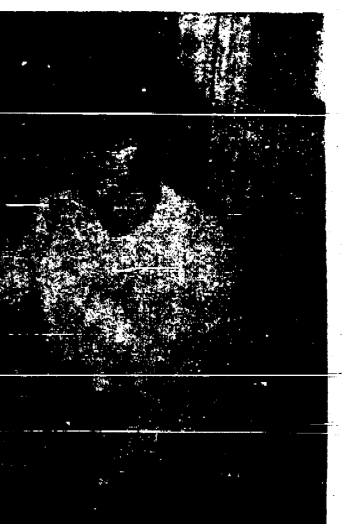

Although her daughter Karen is not considered a birth defects child but rather a cerebral palsy victim, she is enrolled at a school that gives special help to these children as are several others from the Manchester area. Mrs. Bunney went on to say that the purpose of these special schools is to educate. First teach these children to learn and live with their handicap so they are able to go into a regular school and eventually lead as normal a life as possible.

In Karen's room for instance, the teacher began teaching the children a few words of Spanish more as a fun thing but which the children picked up enthusiastically and are now rapidly learning the basic words of a foreign language.

As so often misunderstood Mrs. Bunney said, we tend to consider a physically handicapped child as also a mentally retarded child. This is far from the truth in many cases including her five-year-old daughter. Instead they should be treated as an individual no different than their brothers or sisters and encouraged to live a normal life. These children are fully aware of adult questions and their own question, "why am I different?" Mrs. Bunney continued.

"Most of the children in Karen's class are birth defects and I've gotten to know them and their parents. The progress through physical therapy is wonderful and although Karen is not a birth defects child she has greatly benefited through the care and treatment at this school. Not only do these schools help the child but the parents also," Mrs. Bunney added, "And by seeing children such as them selves, helps them to know they are not alone."

Great achievements have been made although the end is not near enough in the battle against birth defects. Without the generosity of the American public, polio would not have been conquered. Your support is still needed against another crippling birth defect?

WHAT'S YOUR PLEASURE?

I've been trying to decide whether or not to ask the candidates questions. Last year when I got 2 Jaycees to help me with this, we ran into all kinds of criticism, mostly from the candidates.

This year I have already had expressed to me the fact that everyone knows the problems of our community so why mull them over in the paper with everyone giving the same solution. It's a good point.

Also in my mind as an alternative was to let each candidate make a statement about whatever he chooses. All we would offer is free space in the paper for him to express it.

What to do? Did you like last year's question and answer series? Did it help you vote? Would you favor just a statement?

If questions are wanted I will accept questions from the community at large. From these I will pick the most interesting and give them to the candidates, for answers. If not, I will open the paper for any statement from any candidate for either the Feb. 6 or 13 issue or both.

I would appreciate a telephone call from you expressing your choice.

One thing is for sure, we need to know more than the names of their wife and children to make a good choice.

MARVIN ESCH REPORTS

The greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker. This honor now beckons America. President Nixon said in his inaugural address. The President dedicated his Administration to the pursuit of peace and made it clear that he considers it the most important challenge facing his administration.

Other than the President himself, no person will be more important to the pursuit of peace than the new Secretary of State, William Rogers. Rogers is widely acclaimed for his abilities and understanding of international problems.

His first, and most important, challenge is the war in Vietnam. The start of substantive negotiations in Paris this week is an encouraging sign. There are no indications that the negotiations will be easy or short. However, rumors do imply that the North Vietnamese are now interested in serious talks. The new Administration, not tied to the inflexibility and mistakes of the Johnson Administration, now has an unparalleled opportunity to reach a just and honorable settlement.

Tensions in the Middle East are high and a new outbreak in the war is an ever-present possibility. Recent increases in commando raids among the nations there are particularly explosive. However, both Israel and the Arab nations were extremely receptive to the discussions with Mr. Nixon's personal representative shortly after the election. Again, the flexibility afforded by a new Administration offers hope that peace be brought about between the people who emity has a history of over 2,000 years. The challenge is certainly not an easy one.

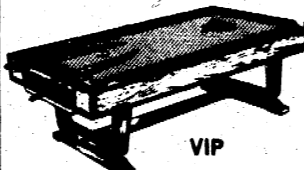

As a member of the Western Alliances Task Force here in the House of Representatives, I have long felt that the strengthening of our NATO alliance should receive priority attention. Until the invasion of Czechoslovakia, many of our European allies had tended to de-emphasize NATO structures. The new threat from Russia, however, underlines the importance of NATO strength and provides an opportunity for real cooperation. NATO must be reorganized and up-dated to meet the problems of the 70's.

It is widely recognized in Washington that the State Department under the Johnson Administration has been poorly administered and unresponsive to new ideas and programs. Lines of communication have all too frequently been closed. The mismanagement of foreign aid funds has been disgraceful. Under Johnson there was a failure to attract and keep top-flight new diplomatic talent. In short, one of the major challenges to Secretary Rogers will be a reorganization of the Department and its staff.

Sharpe was one of the five members named to the panel by regionally structured subcaucuses. The council is designed to provide the widest possible representative of viewpoints within the total Republican House caucus. The remainder of the ten member council will be made up of House Republican Leader Robert E. Waldron of Grosse Pointe and Floor Leader William P. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills, representing the House G.O.P. leadership, and three at-large members. Serving with Sharpe as regional members on the council will be Republican Representatives William V. Weber of Kalamazoo (Southwestern), Joseph P. Swallow of Alpena (Northern), Martin D. Ruth of Comstock Park (Central), and Clifford H. Smart of Walled Lake (Eastern).

PLATE SALES SLOW

Michigan's near 5-million owners of motor vehicles are staying away from license plate sales offices in droves creating the potential for the biggest late February bottleneck in plate sales since the state first began issuing them back in 1910. Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose office oversees local license plate sales offices, said that as of January 16, sales were more than 20,000 behind the same date in 1968.

"I'm sure it's all attributable to the increase of nearly 60 percent in license plate fees this year," said Hare. "Buyers are reluctant to add in and plunk down the additional money and many are waiting until they absolutely have to."
 Hare said this creates a real problem for the "rush" period during the last several days in February.
 "Deadline for this year's plates is still February 28 as in former years. The new deadline on passenger plates of March 30 doesn't go into effect until the expiration of 1969 plates in 1970."
 "Actually, we are running even further behind than totals show," said Hare. "We have an increase in plate sales each year... sometimes as high as 250,000. So projecting a natural gain with the fact that auto sales have been brisk, it would be said to predict that Michigan is running even further behind than the up-to-date figures show... possibly as high as 100,000."
 Hare described anytime in the next few days as "ideal for purchasing new plates, whose colors of red and white honor Saginaw Valley College."
 "What does a person need when he buys his plates?"
 "It's the same as in the past years."
 He needs a filled-out application. Prepared applications were sent out to most Michigan vehicle owners. Persons who did not receive a prepared application must obtain a blank application form and fill it out.
 The next item is a certificate of registration from last year or a vehicle title.
 Also necessary... that is, if a person wishes to qualify as an insured driver and pay the lower $1.00 insured fee... is proof of liability insurance. This can take varying forms, but the surest are either a certificate of insurance or the insurance policy.
 And that last necessary ingredient... a very important one... is cash. Prepared applications list the amount of weight tax on the vehicle. For persons who did not receive prepared applications, it must be borne in mind that weight tax was raised nearly 60 percent over the total paid last year.
 And if a person does not carry liability insurance, a $35 uninsured fee must be paid before he receives his license plates.
 "Persons who pay $35 must realize that they are not buying the sort of state insurance they are still uninsured. The $5 fee is one they must pay to be in Michigan."
 It's Hare's impression that number of uninsured vehicles go up in Michigan because the higher weight tax.
 "Many persons driving older who were able to purchase liability insurance previously have to use the money to buy their license plates," Hare. "The increase in the taxes... and remember revenue goes to build and maintain highways and roads in Michigan... hits especially many older persons on fixed incomes."

THE NON-PROLIFERATION TREATY: NOT GREAT BUT CERTAINLY GOOD

The Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty comes to the Senate next month and soon every citizen will find alternately hail the treaty as the final instrument of world peace or condemn it as a dangerous hoax that threatens the safety of all.

It is, of course, neither. The treaty is based on the simple concept that the world already is a dangerous place to live in but it could get a lot worse. The treaty, then, is designed not so much to change anything but rather to preserve the status quo.

And since the international status quo is certainly imperfect, the treaty could be said to be similarly flawed.

The pact, which must be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate before it can go into effect, is the product of years of negotiation between the United States and the Soviets. Basically, it would do this: The nuclear nations that signed would pledge not to pass out atomic weaponry to any non-nuclear nation.

Non-nuclear signers would pledge not to produce their own atomic weapons. In return, non-nuclear signers would get: 1. Technological help in developing peaceful uses of the atom, such as power plants. These facilities then would be open to international inspection by United Nations teams.

2. A joint pledge to the United Nations by the United States and Russia that they will come to the aid of any non-nuclear nation that is threatened by atomic attack.

The treaty is clearly in the interest of the nuclear "club" nations. When five men are holding shotguns on each other, a new influx of gunmen will do nothing to promote the general welfare.

And non-nuclear nations--if they can believe that their security is being sufficiently protected by big powers--can then save themselves the tremendous expense of building a private atomic arsenal. The trouble is that there are lots of nations that won't sign.

On the nuclear side, the Soviet Union, United States and Great Britain will probably agree to the pact but France is unlikely to and Red China, suspicious of everyone, almost certainly will not.

On the other side, India is publicly doubtful about trusting her defense against China to the hands of anyone else. Israel or Egypt might decide that only their own atomic warheads could offer the protection each thinks it needs.

If India goes atomic, Pakistan will get nervous. And in Japan, there is already debate about whether to crank up a nuclear weapons program.

Still, there are some 80 nations that have indicated a willingness to sign. And even if the treaty is not universally accepted, it seems to me that it could exercise a significant and benign influence.

One thing is perfectly clear: For the most selfish (and, therefore, the most trustworthy) of reasons, both the United States and Russia--the big "overkill" nations--are keenly anxious to see that no atomic shots are

MEASUREMENT SERVICE

Frank Light, Chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee encourages farmers to contact the local county ASCS office regarding premeasurement services.

All of the counties in Michigan offer measurement services to farmers at a very small cost. Many farmers take advantage of these measurement services because it usually means more income for them.

Farm operators that participate in the wheat or feed grain program are then able to plant their permitted acreage and not have extra acreage set aside for diversion purposes under the program.

Since participating farms now certify to compliance with all program requirements when they report their crop acreages, it is important they are accurate in reporting these acreages.

If they estimate their acreages incorrectly, their government payments can be reduced substantially or lost entirely, depending upon the amount of error.

Light recommends that farmers contact the local county ASCS office for further information on measurement services

MAPLE SYRUP SOON ON TAP

Maple syrup producers who want to get in on the year's first say run should have their trees tapped out by March 1, advises a Michigan State University forester.

Dr. Melvin R. Koelling says that maple tapping in southern Michigan should begin about Mid-February. Initial activity in northern portions of the state is expected to start approximately one month after sap gathering begins in the south. The season usually lasts four to six weeks.

Although many people in Michigan, as elsewhere, have come to think of the maple products business as a declining industry, this assumption is not entirely true, according to Koelling. While the number of maple producers has declined, total production has tended to stabilize in recent years.

"Michigan ranks among the top five states in the annual production of maple products, including 75,000 to 80,000 gallons of syrup," he says.

"Still, our potential is 10 to 15 times more than that. We could be putting out one million gallons of syrup annually."

RACING FAN CLUB SELECT M I S FOR AWARD

The board of directors of the Michigan Automobile Racing Fan Club have selected Michigan International Speedway to receive their highest annual award for 'Outstanding Contribution to Auto Racing in the State of Michigan.'

The award was presented at M. A. R. F. C.'s Annual Award Banquet on Saturday, January 18, 1969, in Detroit, Mich. Lawrence H. LoPatin, President of Michigan International Speedway accepted the award from Vito LoPiccolo, President of the Michigan Automobile Racing Fan Club.

In presenting the engraved plaque to M. I. S., LoPiccolo stated that, "we made the decision to give our highest award to the Michigan International Speedway in 1969 due to the following facts: - for the first time in the history of the State of Michigan, auto racing is now in the big time;

- people in Michigan now have an opportunity to realize their dreams of seeing a major race at a super speedway in their own back yard;

- M. I. S. has put Michigan in the national spotlight as far as auto racing is concerned."

LOOKING AROUND

Of the 181 million persons who passed through customs entering the United States last year, 35 million came on foot, 139 million by car, one million by ship and six million by air.

Reno, considered the divorce capital, issued 27,166 marriage licenses last year and only 4,318 divorces.

When the Lions Club in Schuylerville, N.Y., couldn't hire anybody to cut the grass in an old cemetery, they got a farmer to put his goats in there once a week and the cemetery is now beautifully kept.

Candidate for the "meanest" person in Meeos, Georgia, is the one who broke into the Salvation Army office and made a $166 toll call to Fairbanks, Alaska.

JACKSON OSTEOPATHIC HOSPITAL ANNOUNCES LARGE EXPANSION

Jackson Osteopathic Hospital will begin a one-million dollar expansion program within the next two weeks in Jackson which will more than double the size of the hospital. The addition will be constructed on the south end of the present structure.

Jackson Osteopathic Hospital is located on Seymour Avenue, one block off of Michigan Avenue, on the east side of the city. According to John Strawbridge, hospital administrator, the expansion program is scheduled for completion next year at about this same time.

Coming in the twenty-sixth year of operation, this newest addition will be the third since the hospital was opened in 1943. The new structure will enlarge the hospital facilities by more than 20,000 square feet, bringing the total to over 35,000 square feet.

New facilities in the addition will provide both new and expanded services by the hospital. The ground floor will have admitting and medical records departments, emergency suite, clinical laboratories, pharmacy, radiology suite, dietary receiving and stores, and a new elevator.

On the first floor will be an additional major surgery room, surgical scrub facilities, surgeons' lounge, and locker room. The floor will also have seven medical-surgical beds and five obstetrical beds.

A completely new obstetrical department will be located on the first floor with a delivery room, labor room, nursery, fathers' waiting room, doctors' lounge, and locker room, and nurses' locker room. A scrub facility, nurses' station and utility, medication and storage rooms will complete the first floor.

Forty-seven medical-surgical beds, nurses' station, treatment and examining room, conference room and utility, medical, linen and storage facilities are scheduled for inclusion on the second floor.

"Utilization and demands upon beds and service facilities have grown very rapidly," Strawbridge noted. "The present facilities are no longer able to meet the needs of the staff and their patients."

"Now starting its second quarter-century of service, Jackson Osteopathic Hospital has had only two previous major expansions: the first of these was completed in 1956 with addition of 3,000 square feet and 15 beds, and a second addition in 1965 with the addition of 19 beds and 10,000 square feet."

During the first year the 15-bed hospital was open it rendered 218 days of care. The following year, in 1944, 2,634 days of care were provided to Jackson Osteopathic Hospital patients. In 1955 the hospital was operating 24 beds and providing 4,999 patient days of service.

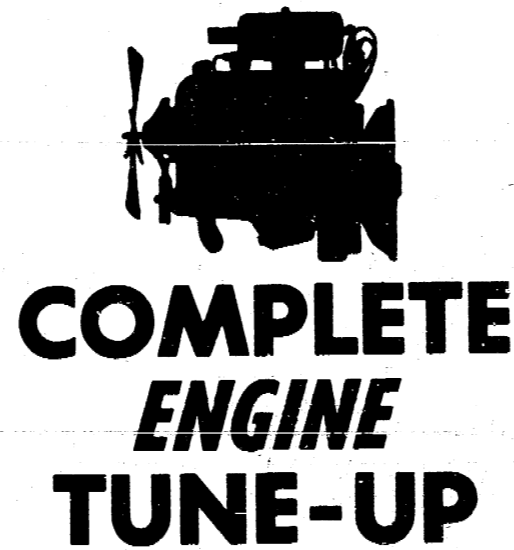

By 1968 patient care days totalled 14,345 and over 50,000 laboratory tests and 6,000 X-rays were taken. The hospital's payroll reached to over one-half million dollars $200,000 were spent for medical and operational supplies. The present medical staff numbers 13 and employee staff totals 95.

General contractor for the hospital expansion is O'Harrow Construction Company and architect is Clark R. Ackley of Lansing. Mechanical contractor is Monroe Plumbing and Heating of Monroe, Mich. and electrical contractor is Kent Electric of Ravenna, Mich.

Celebrate Ten Year History

At its Annual Dinner meeting on February 12, 1969, Catholic Social Services of Washtenaw County will celebrate its ten year history of service to the people of the county.

When the Agency opened its doors in 1959, it had one full-time and one part-time staff member working with families. It is now twelve times that size, having 18 professional staff working with families, plus a seven-man business office and eight students from the Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Michigan. This growth has made it possible for Catholic Social Services to help many more people than could be offered service ten years ago.

Catholic Social Services has always given service to all who ask whatever their race, religion or income. The breakdown of these families by religion illustrates the Agency's claim that they serve all religious faiths. Of the 2,512 families served during 1968, 986 families were Protestant, 957 families were Catholic and the remainder were of mixed or other religious affiliations.

When the Agency opened its doors on May 1, 1969, the Agency was helping approximately 50 families a month. It now helps more than 1,000 per month. The families helped during the first 12 months of operation totaled 336, as compared with 2,512 families helped in 1968.

The Annual Dinner is to be held at the Sheraton-Ann Arbor Motor Inn, 100 South Fourth Avenue, on Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1969 at 6:30 in the evening. The dinner is not restricted to Agency members, or any other group. This dinner is open to all interested persons and everyone is invited to attend and learn more about Catholic Social Services. The program at the dinner will be a pictorial story, "The Anatomy of a Social Agency." The picture was offered service ten years ago.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Mr. Kenneth McDonald, one of the original Board Members of the Agency who now resides in Saginaw and is the owner of WSAM Radio Station. Tickets for the dinner may be purchased from the ticket chairman in each area or at the Agency, 117 North Division Street in Ann Arbor.

CONFERENCE SET FOR FEBRUARY 10 ON WATER RESOURCES

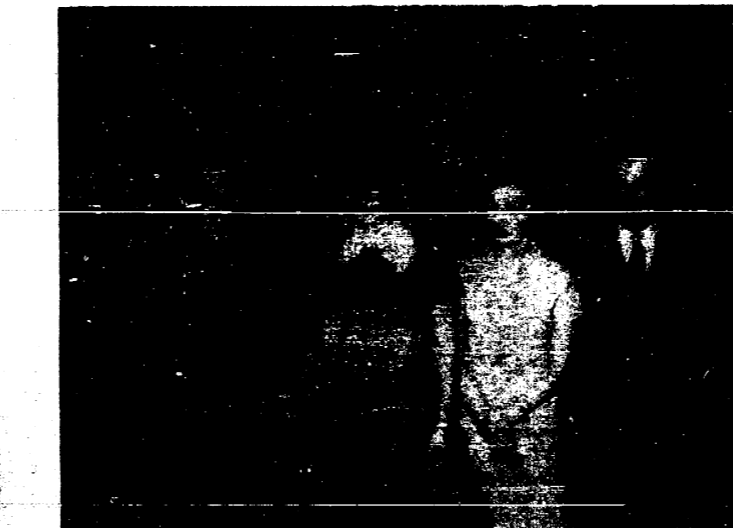

In an effort to alert communities in the River Raisin basin to the critical nature of water resource problems in the area, the State Water Resources Commission, in conjunction with the State Department of Public Health, will hold a conference next Monday, February 10, at 1:30 p. m. in the Community Center Building, Tecumseh. All basin citizens are invited to attend this meeting. It was announced today by Ralph W. Purdy, executive secretary of the Commission.

Representatives of the two state agencies will present information on the growing problems of water quality and quantity in this area and will attempt to provide an insight into the need for adequate planning for future needs of the basin.

Although several communities currently are utilizing the River Raisin as a source of domestic water supply, state officials are becoming increasingly concerned about water quality. In some quarters it is felt that wastewater discharges to the Raisin, even after the most sophisticated treatment known, may have an unfavorable impact on downstream domestic water supplies.

The River Raisin and its tributaries are rapidly approaching a critical state wherein problems are appearing that relate to both the amount and quality of water needed for future expansion of the region. The amount of additional water necessary to support the predicted population and economic growth within the basin is expected to be considerable.

State agency representatives hope to impress upon those attending the conference that diligent efforts must be made to plan and manage the water resources for minimum multipurpose beneficial use in order to assure that the quantity as well as quality of water in the basin will be adequate.
