MANCHESTER SERVE 12,000? JUST WATCH US!

by Carolyn Ahrens

Word has already been spread, or most likely after fifteen years of sponsoring the most popular event of its kind in Michigan, no one needs reminding that the 16th Annual Charcoal Chicken Broil is upon us. On Thursday, July 17th at the Athletic Field, 3,500 golden brown chicken halves will be ready for the first serving at 4 p.m. Over 11,500 guests are expected again this year and already the 28 committees are preparing for the statewide event. Although the ladies are only to relax and enjoy the evening, they might give a helping hand by sending out by the 13th of July, the postcards received in the mail. Remind your out-of-town friends and relatives of our goal—the youth benefit from the proceeds—the delicious charcoal broiled chicken and the side attractions of exhibits and a soft-ball game.

Co-chairman Ludy Klager reports there will be designated parking at high school and Double A Products with shuttle service to and from the Athletic Field. This will relieve some of the traffic congestion and parking facilities at the field.

Tickets are now available from the workers or may be purchased at gate for $1.75. The past two years profits and this year's will be used toward a $6,000, pledge to the high school track facilities.

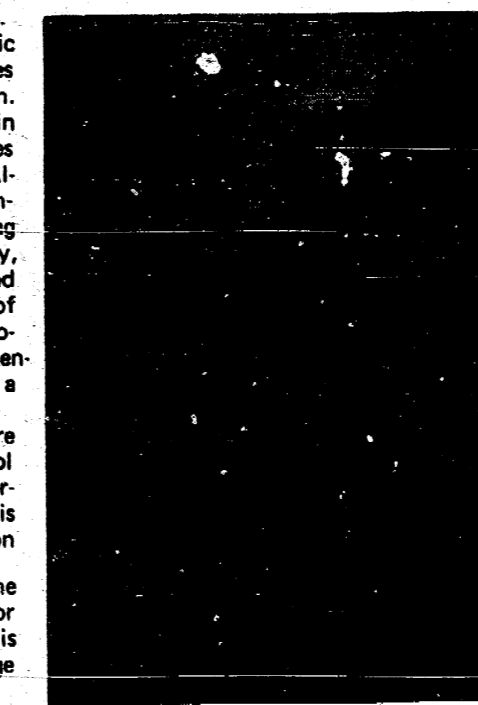

The Prebroil Party for the men workers will be held at Carr Park on Thursday, July 10 at 8:00 p.m.

Any man who has not been contacted by letter and wishes to help may contact Dan Boutell or Rollis Grossman. Ted Tapping is in charge of student help and any boy may contact Mr. Tapping. These boys must register with him, the committee stresses. You will be most welcome.

Again this year there will be a shuttle-bus service from the high school, free of charge. This will allow people to park at the school where there is more space.

The semi-automatic take-out service has also been lengthened this year. Ludy Klager added that a total of 381 people will be working at the broil this year.

Railroad Property At Discount Rate

Ypsilanti Township's recently resigned Attorney, Gordon E. Gable likes to buy railroads.

On August 1, 1968, Gable of 25 S. Huron St. Ypsilanti bought all the railroad property running through the townships of Bridgewater, Manchester, the village of Manchester to and through the township and village of Norvell from the Penn Central Co. for the sum of $23,500 or a total of approximately 31 miles at 14 cents a foot. About a year earlier the village of Manchester purchased another strip of railroad land running from village limits to village limits a total of 7,200 feet for $7,500 or $1.04 a foot.

Two questions arise, how did Gable find out the property was for sale before local businessmen did and why did he get it for a lower price.

Gable said a client of his bought a farm in the Manchester area and he was attempting to get a release of right-of-way from the railroad.

On September 9, 1968, Gable quick claimed all that certain parcel of land in the townships of Bridgewater, Manchester and Norvell and the villages of Manchester and Norvell to the Penn-Cen Investment Company of 25 S. Huron St., Ypsilanti. Gable's deed to Penn-Cen did state that so much of the said land which had been previously conveyed by him or its predecessors in his original title was excepted.

On October 23, 1968, Gable formed a limited partnership with eight other men called the Pen-Cen Investment Co. with Gable the general major partner. Gable said he was the trustee of the partnership and that this meant that he was not taking title for his own benefit but that the deed did not disclose whose benefit the deed was for. He added that he handed the property over to Edwards Real Estate in Ypsilanti for re-sale. Gable would not comment when asked if he intended to make a profit on this venture.

A representative from Edwards said that a half mile of the property in the country would probably sell for $2,500 and in some places where there was no river, it would sell for $1 a foot. Edwards also said they were now selling the land by the half mile, quarter mile and by the foot in some areas.

Lyle Wildmayer at Tom Marshall, Inc. said they had not been notified of the impending sale but were notified after the railroad was sold. They would have been cont. page 9

Opal and her husband Judd, who is also retired, reside at Vineyard Lake and their future plans include fishing and some traveling this fall and winter.

Who, What, When, Where & WHY

IN MY OPINION

by Karen Kirk

EDITORIAL

It's been said that many people are talking about the summer recreation program but not so many are actively working on it. The young people of Manchester want something to do, some seem to know and others are rather vague about the activities they want. There are many kids congregating around Main Street on every night. Why don't they do something for themselves. In the little hamlet of Maybee, near Ticonderoga, the teenagers formed a party club. Maybee is far too small to have any funding organization which could support a program for their youth. In Maybee the young people took turns having a party but everyone had to give one and they were required to keep their budgets at a minimum.

Isn't there any local groups in Manchester who play musical instruments? We believe that if these teenagers really want something to do they can help themselves or be a little more cooperative with the summer night recreation committee.

There is going to have to be equal cooperation between the parents and the young people of this community if the program is going to continue to work. Perhaps from the teenagers more should be expected, their enthusiasm and participation are absolutely required.

KEEP THE APOLLO CAPSULE CLOSED URGE SCIENTISTS

Two Michigan State University biophysicists have urged American space officials to change their plans for handling the Apollo 11 capsule once it has returned from the moon later this month.

Dr. Leroy Augenstein and Dr. Barnett Rosenborg say they do not want NASA to open the capsule before it is placed into an isolated decontamination chamber. In a letter to President Nixon, they expressed concern that opening the capsule before isolating it introduces a needless risk to mankind.

Both acknowledge that the chances of primitive life on the moon are extremely small, but that recent evidence suggests that the probability is not zero.

"Thus," said Dr. Augenstein, "we really cannot afford to take the chance that we might be wrong. This is a decision that involves the entire world."

FIRES MAR 4th

Lightening destroyed $20,500 worth of property in fires this July fourth weekend. The Manchester Fire Department was called to the farm of Lloyd Schneider, 12701 Pleasant Lake Rd. at 5:10 p.m. July 4. A 75 by 30 foot barn partially filled with hay and straw was struck by lightning. A tractor, truck and grain drill were also in the barn. Fire chief Jim Kensler said the damage was estimated at $20,000.

Later at 12:45 p.m. the fire department was called to Nellie Ackerson residence. Lightning had struck the late Mrs. Ackerson's home. The attic was gutted out and damage was estimated at $500.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT - SHARPE

The lawlessness and violence that reigned for several evenings last week on South University Street in Ann Arbor seems, in a surprising manner, to have brought out both the best and the worst in reporting and editorial writing.

I have often disagreed, in the past, with the Ann Arbor News. But after discussions with various officials and reliable individuals who were on the scene, I am only too pleased to acknowledge that the Ann Arbor News reported this episode accurately and editorialized upon it in a responsible manner.

I have often praised the Detroit Free Press in the past for such worthwhile efforts as their assistance in publicizing the glaring abuses of the legal profession's self-policing prerogative. But I must state emphatically that the Free Press editorial of June 20, attacking Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey, for his firm stand against massive mob violence and lawlessness, was one of the most inaccurate and irresponsible pieces of journalism I have ever seen.

To begin with, the Free Press insisted the events of Monday night were merely a "lark". The fact is that, for three full hours, the "hippies" and "yippies" and other young and not-so-young hoodlums barricaded and held a public street, damaging property and endangering any decent citizen who might have been trapped there.

This "lark" began when a hippie mob prevented police from making an arrest that clearly should have been made. Its high point, by several reliable accounts, came when two young characters had sexual intercourse in the middle of a public street, ringed by a cheering, equally-verted crowd.

If the law-enforcement officers' made any mistake last week, it was not in moving in on Monday and clearing the street of some 500 rioters, rather than waiting and being forced to cope with twice that number the two following nights. But, this is an observation made possible only with the advantage of hindsight.

The Free Press claim that, by 9:00 p.m. Tuesday, the trouble would have been "to all intents and purposes over" if the police had continued to stand back is sheer speculative nonsense. Such groups as the "White Panthers" and such mob leaders as a certain individual currently under indictment for peddling smut in the Milan Public Schools had openly threatened in advance to do everything that was done, including the sex act in the street.

They were doing everything in their power to make the police act—bothbarbarding the officers with bottles, stones, bricks, and even slabs of concrete thrown down from the tops of buildings. Probably the most irresponsible aspect of the Free Press editorial was its talk of "battered victims" of the police, with no mention of the fact that far more officers were seriously injured than rioters. One officer would certainly have been killed if he hadn't been wearing a helmet.

It is true that Sheriff Harvey protested when University of Michigan President Robben Fleming wanted 15 minutes to talk with the mob while the police were being showered with rocks. But Harvey gave Fleming his chance—until one of the officers was felled by a brick.

On Thursday night, when the police kept back and let Ann Arbor Mayor Robert Harris and some 100 other U-M professors attempt to reason with the rioters, there was neither law nor order on South University. Few cars were permitted through, and several assaults took place with no arrests being made.

I will not concern myself with the charges and counter-charges of "playing politics" between Mayor Harris and Sheriff Harvey—both of whom, incidentally, are Democrat officials. But by his hesitant, soft-handed and apologetic reaction to blatant, violent anarchy on an Ann Arbor street, the mayor has practically guaranteed the citizens he is supposed to be serving that more explosive outbreaks will occur in the future.

I want to commend Sheriff Harvey and all of the men of the various law-enforcement agencies that assisted in this crisis for doing the best possible job under exceedingly difficult and dangerous circumstances. I am extremely concerned to hear that some of the Sheriff's departments from bordering counties may have serious reservations about responding in the future to a call for help from Ann Arbor. In spite of irresponsible editorial criticism, and in spite of the interference of both elected and academic officials who know absolutely nothing of police work, I hope all law-enforcement personnel involved will continue to perform as well.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Marvin L. Each

The need for improved law enforcement throughout the nation is clear. Crime rates have risen 88% since the start of the 1960's. Fear haunts our city streets. Lawlessness and violence have spread to every part of the nation.

To provide effective law enforcement will take a concerted, coordinated effort by governments on all levels. Yet each level of government must take special responsibility within its own area of expertise.

The day to day work of law enforcement must be the responsibility of local and state law enforcement officials. On the scene crime detection and arrest cannot and should not be controlled from any central bureaucracy. Only the local cop on the beat or in the detective force can deal with the multitude of petty and serious crimes which are committed in communities across the nation each day.

The Federal government, in my view, has 3 distinct responsibilities in the field of law enforcement.

First, it must enforce Federal laws. Such crimes as smuggling, counterfeiting, interstate transportation of stolen goods, robbery of a federally chartered or insured bank, threats or attempts of violence against the President—these and numerous other offenses are against Federal law. Federal law enforcement agencies—the F. B. I., Secret Service, Treasury Agents, and Justice Department all have this as a major function.

Second, the Federal government must aid local and state agencies. The cooperation of the FBI in crime detection and use of their extensive laboratory facilities, fingerprinting records, etc. are excellent examples of this type of assistance.

The Law Enforcement Act of 1968, which I strongly supported, authorized Federal financial and training assistance to local police forces. An amendment, which I sponsored includes special assistance to local forces in dealing with rioting in civil disorders. I am very hopeful that the updated methods and equipment which this program will make possible will upgrade the quality and efficiency of local police forces.

Third, and perhaps most important, the Federal government must deal with the extremely serious nation-wide problem of organized crime. We must recognize the seriousness of the threat this organized, purposeful, malicious group poses to society. Conservative estimates put the yearly profit of Organized Crime at $9 billion. Experts believe that nearly 1/2 the street crime in New York City each year is a direct result of organized crime activities. Organized crime smuggled more than 20 tons of illegal narcotics and drugs into the U.S. last year.

I have been a member of a small group of Congressmen who have led the fight against this malignancy on society. I have introduced major legislation to provide additional authority of the Federal government to fight organized crime and make prosecution easier and more effective. Partially as a result of our extensive study and the dismaying evidence we uncovered, the President has asked Congress for greatly increased funding to fight organized crime and has reorganized and given great emphasis to Justice Department efforts in this field. I strongly support these recommendations.

As a major part of the fight against organized crime, we must greatly improve our security against the importation of illegal narcotics and drugs. Arrests of addicts, or even small time pushers, cannot solve the problem when millions of dollars of drugs are smuggled in each year.

CHURCH EDITORIAL

God has given adults a tremendous responsibility in the rearing of little children entrusted to our care and keeping. He invites us to be co-laborers with Him in His creativity. Often we forget that the way in which we live speaks louder to our children than the words we speak - therefore it becomes necessary for us to live lives that are worthy examples for our children to follow.

I would like to share with you something that has been called a Parent's Creed, or sometimes, titled: "Children Learn What They Live."

- I am sorry I cannot give proper credit to the unknown author.
- "If a child lives with criticism - He learns to condemn.
- "If a child lives with hostility - He learns to fight.
- "If a child lives with ridicule - He learns to be shy.
- "If a child lives with shame - He learns to feel guilty.
- "If a child lives with tolerance - He learns to be patient.
- "If a child lives with encouragement - He learns confidence.
- "If a child lives with praise - He learns to appreciate.
- "If a child lives with fairness - He learns justice.
- "If a child lives with security - He learns to have faith.
- "If a child lives with approval - He learns to like himself.
- "If a child lives with acceptance and friendship - He learns to find love in the world."

Living the kind of life we should live will be a finer teacher for our children than all the fancy phrases we can speak.

Frost-free Refrigerator
 WITH Automatic Ice Maker

Willie Imudluk, who recently visited Michigan, really lives on the edge of the Arctic. Even though his family enjoys the convenience of a modern refrigerator, Willie nearly flipped his harpoon when he discovered the new frost-free model with the automatic ice maker. We know you will, too. The convenience of no more ice tray filling and spilling — the luxury of a never-ending supply of ice cubes, every man will appreciate. And what woman wouldn't like to forget that dreaded defrosting chore — the chopping, stopping and mopping — with a refrigerator that defrosts itself automatically? See the new frost-free refrigerator with the automatic ice maker today. You'll agree with Willie — it's fantastic!

The majority of this drug traffic is conducted by organized crime which reaps profits on drugs alone of more than $400 million each year. Our narcotics force must be tremendously increased here at home and we must emphasize the importance of stopping illegal shipments at their sources abroad with the cooperation of other nations.

The fight for law and order in our society is not an easy one, but it is essential. I believe we must put the full force of the Federal government behind all responsible efforts to improve law enforcement. Ours is a society of laws — they must be upheld.

COUNCIL MINUTES

Council met in regular session June 15. Council to order by President Pro-tem Mahony. Trustees present were Scully, Fitzgerald, Macomber, Walton -- absent Reinhart and President Althouse. Minutes were read and approved with the condition that the bills paid be included.

Moved by Walton, seconded by Scully that Doug Hughes be approved to fill the unexpired term of Conrad Gonyer as Village Clerk. All yeas.

Cecil Arnold was present to ask for more time to dispose of old cars on his property. Council is willing to grant an extension as long as progress is shown. Safety Committee was instructed to send a letter to Mr. Arnold confirming the visit.

Chuck King and Bob Auchtenberg were present to talk to Modern Disposal Garbage Service.

Don Sutton was present to express concern with people's reaction to storing and burning material on his property and to see what alternatives exist.

Norm Walz questioned whose responsibility it is to clean the roots out of the sanitary sewer on his Washington Street property. This is the same problem turned over to the Public Works Commission at the last meeting. Bruce Daniels was instructed to gather facts concerning this situation. Norm indicated he wants a variance permit for 120 S. Macomb; and also asked for clarification of procedure for connecting to Village Sewage System when the sewer leads now run to property line. Fitzgerald read sections of Ordinance 73 applying to application for Variance. Moved by Fitzgerald, seconded by Walton that the Council meet as a zoning appeal board, June 23 at 8 o'clock to consider the Variance application on S & W Builders for 120 S. Macomb, providing Ordinance requirements are met. All yeas.

Brian Goldsmith indicated he is having problems with Modern Disposal Garbage Service.

Police Chief Becktel gave police report.
 Harry Macomber read a recommendation from the Planning Commission supporting the Duncan St. bridge proposal.

Fitzgerald gave a report describing the 12 properties owned by the Village.

The minutes included the following: The motion was made by L. Leason and supported by L. V. Kirk, that the Village Planning Commission support the need of a two-lane bridge on Duncan St. This has been in our plans since a study was made on the traffic problem in Manchester. Therefore, the Planning Commission asks the people of Manchester to support the Village Council with a "yes" vote on June 23. Motion carried.

Mahony questioned the status of the curb on Riverside Drive. Bruce Daniels was instructed to check with the Highway Department. Mahony also gave a report on the proposed activities of the Summer Recreational Group. Motion by Tom Walton seconded by Jim Scully to contribute to the cost of the Summer Recreation Program over and above the budgeted amount. All yeas.

Mahony read the bids on the sewer and water main contract 69-SW-1. Moved by Walton, seconded by Scully to table the bids. All yeas.

HOW CHICKEN BROIL GREW

Manchester's first Charcoal Chicken Broil was held on Thursday, July 28, 1954, sponsored by the Exchange Club under the general direction—then, as now—of Luther Klager.

Nobody knew, then, how well the event would draw, but the club was inspired by success achieved in Indiana of large chicken broils supervised by Howard Zindell of the Michigan State Poultry Department. Zindell and his associates had developed the method of slow-broiling chicken halves over a low charcoal heat, brushing the meat now and then with butter, and lightly salting. The objective was to cook the chicken to a turn but never burn or blister the skin. Special turning equipment was designed by the men.

The first Manchester broil, put on with Zindell's help, was a great success. Two thousand people were served almost twice the population of the town and a profit was made to help pay for the athletic field fence.

By 1955 Manchester's service club had changed its name to Civic Club, and the Jaycees had become co-sponsors. This time, publicity was stepped up and 2,800 were served.

Each year the fame of the event spread and the crowds increased; 1956, 3,000; 1957, 3,500; 1958 over 4,000 and now the figure has risen over 10,000.

Money earned by the chicken broil is used to serve the recreational needs of the community. Profits from the broil have improved the athletic field, provided equipment for the township library, helped build a shelter for Carr Park and bleachers for the Little League diamond at Carr Park and at the Athletic Field.

WEIGHT WATCHERS IS COMING TO MANCHESTER

A 40-pound loser under the Weight Watchers program, Mrs. Sends invites interested parties to attend this first meeting and learn how to lose that extra weight forever.

Mrs. Isabel Sends, formerly of Boston and now Ann Arbor, mother of three, and former elementary school teacher, will open a Weight Watchers program Monday, July 14 at 7:00 p.m. at Emanuel Church.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

An overweight housewife who was "cute" as a child; "chubby" as a teenager; and "big-boned" as an adult had tried one diet program after another but until desperation and a size 44 dress drove her to try once again did Mrs. Jean Nidetch of New York City find the answer to her life-long weight problem. To say "I am fat" took courage but it was enough. Mrs. Nidetch went to the Obesity Clinic of the New York City Health Department, obtained their diet, followed it exactly and found the answer to her 214-pound problem. She spent the next 3 years traveling throughout the New York City area lecturing and helping others with the same problem she once conquered. A 72-pound loser, Mrs. Nidetch knew the problems of an overweight person. Just as some are addicted to alcoholic beverages an overweight individual is addicted to food—addicted to the point that one slice of cake leads to consuming the entire dessert.

Updating the Obesity Clinic program, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Nidetch and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lippert founded Weight Watchers in 1963. Today there are over 1,500,000 members with franchises across the country and in 8 foreign countries. A free lifetime organization membership for those who lose at least 10 pounds and stay within 2 pounds of that initial goal as well as attending at least one monthly meeting, free of charge, Weight Watchers International, Inc. has been recognized repeatedly for its safe method of improving physical health as well as emotional and spiritual values.

The mutual support, encouragement at group meetings and re-education of eating habits are part of the program with rewards thousands of overweight people thought once beyond their grasp. "I tried everything from crash diets to exercise. True, I'd take off pounds but before I knew it I was tipping the scales again," one lady said. "But then I tried Weight Watchers... well, you can see what it's done for me!" Another member said, "I can lose weight but it's keeping it off—that's the hard part." And yet another, "With Weight Watchers you don't have to starve yourself. I eat more than ever with their program but it's eating the proper foods that finally enabled me to reach my goal and then stay there."

The rules are not beyond reason nor are the foods but they must be observed to ensure results. As pointed out repeatedly by the counselors, the main idea of the program is to learn to choose the right amount of the right kinds of food from any menu whether in the privacy of your home, a party or restaurant. "Weight problems vary with each individual," Mrs. Isabel Sends, a 40-pound loser and lifetime member said, "But in Weight Watchers we teach you to avoid the wrong foods. Also we don't allow you to get hungry because of the well-balanced meals in the program." She went on to say that although exercise is not part of the program the desire to walk, ride a bike or any number of ways an overweight person begins to enjoy with weight loss, will naturally help build the body into the condition it was meant to be. Once the weight goal is reached members may go on maintenance adding forbidden foods with moderation of varying the menu amounts.

She added that foods vary across the country and the world but because the food program is flexible it can be and is an international program. Food menu ideas are constantly changing thus making it enjoyable and workable for its members. With controlled high protein foods and the gradual process of weight loss, sagging skin is at a minimum because of the protein set-up of the skin.

Only Weight Watchers who have won the battle against "fat" are eligible to help others. Meetings are numerous in the area with a new program starting in Manchester July 14. Mrs. Isabel Sends, a 40-pound loser and lifetime member, will begin classes at Emanuel Church next Monday at 7 p.m. with the lecture to begin at 7:30. Weight Watchers is open to anyone of any age with separate classes for teenagers, men and women if requested. The food program varies for each group according to body needs, Mrs. Sends pointed out.

A weekly meeting with a $3.00 registration and $2.00 per week fee, weigh-in and individual problems are a private matter between Mrs. Sends and each member. Helping Mrs. Sends will be another Weight Watcher member, Mrs. Jeanette Kirk. Members now enrolled in the Ann Arbor program may transfer to Manchester by contacting Mrs. Sends or for further information by calling her at 769-2358.

Gale Koebbe at Koebbe Welding also had not been notified of the then impending railroad property sale. He had, however, been formally notified that the land had been sold to someone in Ypsilanti. He would have also been interested in the property if he had been notified that it was for sale.

Willard Mann at E.G. Mann and Sons had purchased land near the tracks before the railroad closed. He didn't know the railroad was going to be for sale but he said he knew the railroad didn't want to sell it in small chunks.

HOW KIDS CAN HELP ON SUMMER RECREATION

The summer night recreation program needs the support of everyone including the young people. Mayor John Althouse said, "We are just scratching the surface for activities now but there are night baseball games, dances and the two movies." He added there are many organizations working for the youth especially during the day. Soon the chicken broil will also donate its proceeds to the improvement of student recreation facilities. Althouse said there may be other roads we could take to improve our program for the youth but the summer recreation is doing a fine job. Time and finances, he added, don't allow us to have an outstanding program right now. Clarence Fielder representing the community chest on the summer recreation program, said the night program is going fine. He added that everyone should be concerned, youth, adults and the Village Council in this community effort. He believes the program will prove itself as it goes along. Fielder said he didn't appreciate the pictures of the Athletic Field two weeks ago. He said the grass is mowed every week and the baseball diamond is used. He doesn't like the way the paper is always tearing down and not trying to help us build this town up. Fielder said the youth are doing nothing to help and that there is not enough to do around here. He asks that they cooperate by coming up with suggestions because the older generation would like to know exactly what the young people want. They could also help in getting chaperones for the dances, he added.

Mayor Althouse agrees that the young people ought to make their desires known to the summer recreation program. He said the young people ought to attempt to come to the summer recreation meetings. However, Fielder said it may be more convenient if they would come in a representative group. After the committee has its program in full swing, Althouse added, there may be some responsibilities the youth can handle. He added that it is tough to entertain people without an active program. He would like to see a commercial establishment for the kids which would be open until 10 or 11 p.m.

The problem in a small town, the mayor said, is that there is a limited number of people who are able and want to work on a program like this. He believes there are more people available who could help.

DELICIOUS CHICKEN THURSDAY

by Carolyn Ahrens

"It's here to stay; the biggest event of its kind in the mid-west; come once and you won't miss it again"—all claims heard about an annual event in this small community in southeastern Michigan.

This year the Manchester 16th Annual Chicken Broil is prepared to serve 11,500 guests within an estimated 4 hours. Averaged out this means serving 55 dinners per minute, a project termed "impossible" by many towns and villages who have tried and failed. "Impossible for some but not here in Manchester," Luther Klager and Rollie Grossman, co-chairmen said. "Out of town guests continually comment on how a community of 1600 can put on a dinner for 10 to 12,000 people in such a short time. They just don't have the togetherness that we've got in Manchester when it comes to something like this," they added.

From the first 1500 dinners served in 1954 to the near-12,000 expected this year, guests will travel from all over Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois with many vacations planned to coincide with the event. "And we get a lot of Detroit area people largely due to the Bud Guest and Marshall Wells radio program announcements," Mr. Klager added.

A project planned a year in advance, the first meeting of many for next summer's broil will take place within a few weeks of today's broil. "Each year there's some changes made as we find more efficient methods and of course the expected yearly increase necessitates changes also," Mr. Klager said. This year several major changes will speed up the process; he continued, with 171 metal-frame grids: built by Koebbe Welding and put together by volunteer help. These new grids will enable 1 worker to turn the grids that once took 8 men per pit to handle. With 50 grids per each 100-foot pit and 30 chickens on each, one man will be able to turn 1500 chickens within a few minutes. This year a special sprayer will be used to butter the chickens. Also the Manchester Tool & Die have built and donated a semi-automated belt for take-outs. "It's this kind of effort that makes a broil success," the co-chairmen pointed out. "And with the distance people travel and the number of dinners served it has to go like clockwork," they added.

Again this year Dr. Howard Zindeil and his associates from Michigan State University will supervise the broiling process as they have done since the first broil some 16 years ago. Also WPAG will be broadcasting from the Athletic Field and on hand to greet the guests will be Bud Guest, another long-time supporter of the broil.

Although the broil is sponsored by the Optimists and Jaycees, the entire community is involved in the event with 381 area men working together. "This is the one time we really have to work side by side," Mr. Klager said. Regrettably, the dinner price has been raised from $1.50 to $1.75 it was pointed out but this is the first price change since the original broil. Mr. Klager also added that this year's proceeds will help to defray the costs of the new Athletic Shelter now under construction in the southwest corner of the Athletic Field. As reported earlier by Ted Stutz, chairman of the shelter project, hopefully it will be completed in time for the broil.

Planning a picnic? Try planning for 11,500 guests—better yet bring your guests to the 16th Annual Chicken Broil, Thursday, July 17th starting at 4 p.m.

Come back next Wednesday for ...

SIDEWALK SALE

SIDEWALK SALE

The Manchester Sidewalk Sale is a gala and colorful event enjoyed by everyone. Goods are piled out on the street to remind you of the good old days when the day in town to shop was an important event enjoyed once every week by all the family.

This has been the character of the sale and Manchester Merchants would like to keep it that way, even though it grows each year as more merchants participate and more goods are offered for display.

This sale is not a routine effort by merchants to merely meet another's price or sell a few cents cheaper. The beginning of the end of the Summer selling season is approaching and seasons' goods will be slashed in price much below cost in lots of lines. Every effort will be made to move goods now and avoid carry-over to next year.

You will also find an abundance of new attractive merchandise stocked in for this event, all at low Sidewalk Sale prices. Also when Merchants clean out the stock room, you may find some very interesting object you have wanted for a long time. This is the nature of such a sale in Manchester.

Meanwhile business goes on inside the store, with some merchants offering good discounts with no sales tax on any sales.

The Sidewalk Sale represents considerable effort of the people of Manchester to maintain and preserve village tradition. You are cordially invited to help celebrate the event, and your suggestions and criticisms are most welcome.

STOP LIGHT INSTALLED ON M-52

A flashing caution and stop light will be installed soon on M-52 at Austin Road, east of Manchester in Washtenaw County, the Department of State Highways said July 8.

The light will show yellow for traffic from the west, and red for traffic from the south and east.

The decision to install the light was made after several motorists from the south ran an existing stop sign and went off the road on the north side of the "T" intersection.

The Highway Department will pay two-thirds of the cost of the light and the county will pay the balance.

Two recent graduates of Manchester High, Janet Reinhart of 207 Riverside Dr. and Sue Blanchard of 5160 Happy Hollow Road were instrumental in obtaining the blinker light through the work of a high school government class project.

NEW DEADLINE

Beginning next week, July 21, we shall have a new deadline, Fridays, for weddings, engagements, anniversaries and all other church announcements, only.

Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be installed into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all the civil, political and religious rights.
