MOONLIGHT MADNESS

FRIDAY NIGHT

"SHE'LL TAKE ANYTHING AND MAKE SOMETHING OUT OF IT."

by Carolyn Ahrens

"She'll take anything and make something out of it," is how a friend describes Mrs. Peg Trolz and her talent for making unusual and beautiful home decorations such as artificial flower and fruit centerpieces, sprayed wreaths, pinecone wreaths and cemetery blankets or her particular hobby, ceramics. Ceramics, a little-known art in this area until 1951 when Mrs. Trolz became "accidentally involved" in this beautiful and fascinating hobby.

While visiting her sister in Toledo, Mrs. Trolz was invited to attend a ceramics club meeting. "Immediately I was interested," she said, "so I came home and started. There was little information or materials available so I found what I could and learned by trial and error. Then one day Florence Kirk called and wanted to know if I'd teach ceramics at an adult education class. After much thought I decided to give it a try." It was about that time also that Mrs. Trolz gathered several interested friends together and the present Ceramics Club began.

Interest and enthusiasm soon demanded more than Mrs. Trolz was able to supply. Finally locating a ceramics instructor she was able to learn as well as teach. She was soon called upon to demonstrate the art to various groups outside Manchester, all of which brought out a special talent Mrs. Trolz never realized she had prior to that 1951 visit to Toledo.

As pointed out by another talented ceramics enthusiast Mrs. Alfred (Fern) Strang, "When we first started ceramics we had to send to Texas, California and Tennessee for many of our materials such as glazes. They were in powder form then and had to be mixed with water. With no stabilizer to keep them suspended the colors separated quickly, frequent stirring was necessary and very often the mixture would harden beyond use within a few days. We couldn't get greenware so we used clay and made our own. At that time we really worked for it."

The original Manchester Ceramics Club included Mrs. Louise Way, Mrs. James (Mae) Fahey, Mrs. Robert (Augusta) Kuhl now of Ohio, Mrs. Basil (Leota) Schwab as well as Mrs. Strang and Mrs. Trolz. Today the club membership includes Mrs. Carl (Cecelia) Garrison who recently moved to Florida, Mrs. Edgar (Laura) Randall of Clinton, Mrs. Burton (Yvonne) Murray, Mrs. Russell (Delores) Wolff, Mrs. Jack (Olga) Smith and Mrs. George (Clara) Wright both of Tecumseh, and original club members Mrs. Way, Mrs. Fahey, Mrs.

Schwab, Mrs. Strang and Mrs. Trolz. The ladies meet one afternoon each week from fall to Christmas then resume again in January "til spring housecleaning time," Mrs. Trolz added.

"Today we are still a group even though each one of us does our own thing," Mrs. Strang pointed out. She added that they have all "dabbled" in all of the ceramic techniques such as overglaze, underglaze, china painting and stain work. Her particular interest is graduate statues, a talent which has brought repeated requests each year in supplying as many as 37 statues, complete with school color, name, date and class motto. Her graduate statues, purchased by many exchange students, are found in 15 countries as well as all over the United States. Another special interest is making personalized gifts, for Eastern Star, Masons, weddings, etc.

Mrs. Way and Mrs. Garrison specialize in stain work, a process which results in ceramic pieces with a wood grain effect. Mrs. Fahey, Mrs. Wolff, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Wright enjoy china painting, a delicate blend of soft pastel patterns on china pieces while Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Schwab and Mrs. Trolz enjoy all phases of ceramics.

To make a ceramic piece requires hours of work. To bring out a color requires a

TELEPHONE DIRECTORIES BEING DISTRIBUTED

New Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area telephone directories will be distributed by Michigan Bell beginning Monday, November 24.

Nicholas J. Pratkan, Manager said some 187,000 directories will be distributed in Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Whitmore Lake, Ypsilanti, Milan and Willis.

The covers of the new telephone books feature a color reproduction of an oil painting entitled "The Americans Take Over Ft. Mackinac." This is one in the series of historical paintings done by Robert Thom under a commission from Michigan Bell Telephone. Although the Treaty of Paris in 1763 formally ended the Revolutionary War, British garrisons remained in western forts to protect their fur trade. General Anthony Wayne's victory at Fallen Timbers in 1794 convinced the British that eventually the Americans could capture the forts.

Who, What, When, Where & WHY

BURCH'S BACK ON MAIN STREET

If you've missed my smiling (?) face at 138 E. Main lately, and you miss the beautiful gift wrapping I used to do - also the good coffee, PROVE IT! I'm back again (like the bad penny, or history repeating itself) after a brief retirement to catch up with my breath - and housekeeping, at the same old place - same time - 9:00 a.m., December 1st. To welcome our old customers, and perhaps make some new friends, I've cut a lot of prices on special items that are timely, in order to make room for a whole new display of jewelry, gifts, Hallmark cards and breathtaking unusual things that I think are different and exciting. We will open on Monday morning, Dec. 1st, with the usual "Coffee and Donuts" but the surprising feature is - they will all be FREE. A sort of welcome party. I'd like you all to come!

From time to time I'll write a short column on the new gift items, the latest jewelry, and co-ordinating accessories in today's flamboyant colors, which are so important in the casual living which is definitely NOW!

The entire store will be operated as a self-serve type, so that we will be able to compete with city stores in price. However, I'll always be on hand, and glad to point out special bargains, or help you select gifts and of course, I'll be happy to gift-wrap any of your purchases.

You will find the soda-fountain a relaxing interlude while you're at the Laundromat, or even during a coffee break, or shopping.

We will carry our usual fine selection of Hallmark cards and gift wrappings, supplementing it with the newest in stationery, note paper and paper napkins, etc.

As time goes on we will add whatever merchandise you call for, and try to keep our shelves well-stocked with nationally known brands. Meanwhile, we'll cut prices to the bone on items which get a little soiled or dated. You will always be able to find bargains in all departments.

Because we are not exactly new at the game, we feel that we will be able to meet your gift and party needs in a manner which will be certain to please.

First we must get organized, so in order to adjust to the sort of business which is our ultimate goal, we will be spending a few days conducting a really good SALE! Come in and browse around and see the multitude of bargains, all real every-day merchandise at a most pleasing sale price.

For instance, most of our present cosmetic stock must go at a ridiculous 40% off, which makes all $1.00 cosmetic items just 60 cents.

Jewelry will carry an exciting 50% discount. $1.00 items - now 50 cents; $1.50 items - now 75 cents; $2.00 items - now $1.00.

These are just samples of the discounts which are carried throughout the entire store.

Come in, say "Hello", and have a FREE cup of coffee during these Sale Days, Dec. 1 through Dec. 6.

"We'll be seeing you!!!"

WASHINGTON REPORT Marvin L. Esch, Congressman

Is the controversy over television news reporting fundamentally a pro-Agnew question or one of pro free speech against anti free speech? I think it is neither. The basic question is whether TV, and all media, is doing the job it should for the American people.

In examining this question let me make one point clear without overtones, undertones or subtleties of any sort: I am adamantly in favor of a responsible news media free of government dictation. I am fully aware of the inherent danger of any attempts by the executive or legislative branches to police the media. But I do believe that self-examination is the first step to lasting improvement for any institution.

Television, for example, is a medium of immense power. We do not yet fully comprehend. When it emphasizes the violent and disruptive rather than the non-violent and constructive aspects of such events as anti-war demonstrations its appeal is to the darker side of human behavior. Anger and exasperation, an understandable ingredient of our bewildering age, can be so intensified among our people that all reason is lost.

There is clearly no malicious intent involved. Rather it is the very nature of the medium that somehow pushes us toward emphasis on the extreme action. What we need, particularly in these perilous times, is a force for moderation.

We must remember that there are only three national television networks, an unusual concentration of power. Thus, I believe the networks must take extraordinary steps to insure that they are aware of and reflect the range of views across the country.

Television, and all media, should consider whether it is giving sufficient attention to all aspects of American life. There was a vacuum in big city coverage prior to the riots when Negro areas were ignored. There are gaps now in the coverage of rural areas, the poor, the conservative viewpoints, the lower and medium levels of national government, among others.

It is understandable that the television industry, striving to do a good job, may well resent extensive commentary on its performance. No institution, the news media or Congress, really enjoys outside advice offered in a charged up atmosphere. Still, the wise institution is the one which controls its anger and limits its rebuttal while taking a closer look at itself.

In coming months Congress will have an opportunity to review this matter when it considers the procedures and regulations governing the granting of TV licenses.

INTERVIEW WITH CLIFTON R. WHARTON, JR., PRESIDENT-ELECT OF MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

by Candace E. Carr

Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., president-elect of Michigan State University, thinks college presidents should neither decree nor direct but rather encourage others to "do their thing."

"I firmly believe that what is frequently required is not a pronouncement of leadership but rather the encouragement of the individuals within the institution," Wharton said in an interview.

"I like to see people get not only responsibility and authority but also recognition for what they are doing," he added.

Wharton, who is presently serving as vice president of the Agricultural Development Council, Inc., has had his share of responsibility and authority.

It began some 20 years ago when Wharton joined the American International Association for Economic and Social Development upon graduation from the School of Advanced International Studies of Johns Hopkins University. Since then, he has served on the Agricultural Development Council which stationed him in Malaysia where he was responsible for their program in Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam and Malaysia.

He is presently a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, the Development Committee of the U. S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce and the United Nations Association panel on World Population and the Quality of Human Life.

When Wharton officially takes office on January 2, 1970, he will bring to MSU his belief that people should be allowed to "do their thing." That is the type of situation which makes a university exciting and gives it its forward thrust, Wharton said.

"When one does move in this way, you get the best out of people," he explained. "They are doing what they want and you are trying to help them and this is a marvelous way to push ahead."

Wharton stressed the fact that he did not come to Michigan State with any preconceived ideas as to what the university should be doing. His conception of a university, he said, was that of an organic entity made up of trustees, faculty, students and the non-academic staff.

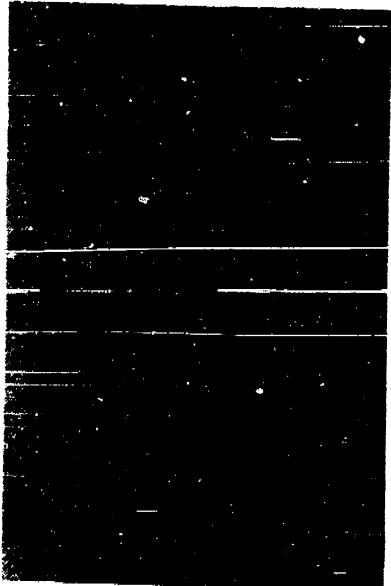

"It is they who make the major decisions together as to what are to be the future directions of the institution," he said.

When asked about the primary function of a University, Wharton echoed President-Emeritus John Hannah's view of the landgrant university as a "continuation of the notion of service." People are more important than things, he stated, and education should be the handmaiden of the people.

Wharton, who has previously stated that he is "a man first, an American second, and black, third," discussed the affect that his view may have on campus groups such as the Black Liberation Front, who say it is more important to be black first.

"I'm very proud of being black and of the accomplishments which my people have made in the United States," he said.

"And if I can continue in my own small way to make a contribution, I will also be very pleased."

He acknowledged a different order of priority and termed it understandable in the individuals who are seeking a sense of identity which has been denied to them. But, Wharton continued, "if one looks at my background and experiences, one can perhaps get the impression that this has not been a critical problem for me."

American blacks, according to Wharton, have had similar experiences because of their blackness. This has led to a very strong common bond and a far greater sense of unity, he said, even among blacks of different income, educational, and intellectual levels.

"I think what is happening within the black community today," Wharton added, "is that the individuals who perhaps have been more fortunate than their brothers are joining hands with them and saying, "We will now work together as a united force."

Wharton expressed hope that he would be accepted by the black community as he has been accepted in the past. But he stressed the fact that he would endeavor "to be not just the president of black students at Michigan State or the president of the black faculty, but the president for the entire University."

Wharton looks upon his presidency as an opportunity to give necessary support to individuals in the university who have ideas, programs, projects or activities in which they are interested.

"I think this is the only way," Wharton concluded, "A major institute of the size of Michigan State, and with the divisions of Michigan State, will be able to move ahead and continue to be an exciting institution."

MANCHESTER GROUP TOURS NEW MEDICAL FACILITY

Father Raymond Schlinkert, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Future Nurses, Nancy Hanewald, Debbie Kulenkamp, senior science students, John Hoehstetter and Gaylord Knuss, Jr. were among the 500 Michigan residents who toured the new C. S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor on Wednesday, November 12. They were guests of the Northwestern County Chapter of the National Foundation - March of Dimes. The hospital tour and open house also included visits to the Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation departments of the University of Michigan Medical Center.

The visitors attended a symposium in the Mott Auditorium conducted by Dr. Donita Sullivan, Director of the Birth Defect Clinic. Dr. Sullivan gave a presentation of the work she and her colleagues are presently engaged in at the Medical Center. Other medical personnel participating in the symposium were Dr. David Dickinson, Professor of Pediatrics, Dr. Baublis, Viral research and preventive medicine, Dr. Mason Barr, topologist and Dr. Rose Parry, staff Pediatrician, Birth Defects Clinic.

Arrangements for the Manchester group participating in the tour and open house were made by Mrs. Hugh R. Sutton, local board member of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the National Foundation.

Following the tour Miss Hanewald and Miss Kulenkamp were guests of Mrs. Sutton at a luncheon and workshop for young people interested in the March of Dimes, held at the Commons Building on the University's North Campus.

Mrs. Ronald Gonyer, Mrs. William Bunney and Mrs. Leonard Ahrens, all of Manchester, joined the group at the Commons in the afternoon to attend a workshop for adult March of Dimes Volunteers.

SHAKESPEARE CLUB MEETS

The Shakespeare Club met Tuesday, November 18 at the home of Mrs. Charles Carlton. After the business meeting, conducted by the Vice President, Mrs. Philip Kern, the afternoon topics were given, Mrs. Leslie Chavey talked on "The Mysterious Sea World" and Mrs. Roscoe Lannom on "Living Under Water".

Some of the interesting points were: Seventy one per cent of the earth's surface is covered by the seas, with 90,000 species of fish, and much plant life, making an abundant supply of protein, which research shows can help to prevent hunger in the decades. Third, there is a tremendous amount of salt in the seas too, which averages two plus miles in depth, and the deepest depth over six miles.

The next meeting of the club will be the Christmas luncheon, Tuesday, Dec. 9 at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Leroy Marx. Mrs. Don Limpert and Mrs. Ruth Sotl assisting hostesses.

The World Council

The World Council of Churches, meeting recently in England, criticized "racially exploitative economic systems" and has again condemned the western democracies.

Since the Communists constantly preach that the U.S. free enterprise system is a racially exploitative system, the World Council of Churches plays into Communism's hands when it criticizes the West and avoids mention of the tyranny and near-slavery which exists in so many Communist countries. In these countries the state itself exploits its people, whereas the truth is that there is comparatively little racial exploitation remaining in this country, or in most western democracies.

All such exploitation, or course, should be condemned--and ended as soon as it can be ended. Yet the World Council does the West a disservice in condemning its vices without mentioning Communism's more serious, and tragic, vices.

That has too often been the record at WCC international gatherings.

Big Riots Over?

Washington officials say they think large-scale riots in the nation's cities and on college campuses are largely over. Some see a flareup in October but, in general, many believe an era of violence has ebbed.

Officials note that no major outbreak of destruction in the nation's cities has occurred since April, 1968. They report civil disturbances in slums and urban areas down fifty per cent this year. They note an improved attitude on university campuses across the country.

The firm attitude of President Richard Nixon and the Department

U.S. Travel Expenses

A flap was recently kicked up in the press by the revelation that private industry has been paying the travel expenses of Interstate Commerce Commission officials for years. An adverse public reaction resulted because transportation interests which are regulated by the ICC are supplying expense money for officials of the regulating agency--obviously an unhealthy situation.

The ICC, however, is not the only government agency mired in a tradition of accepting expense money from a private industry. The Post Office

BELIEVE IN THE WORLD

Edgar A. Guest

I believe in the world and its bigness and splendor;
That most of the hearts beating round us are tender;
That days are but footsteps and years are but miles
That lead us to beauty and singing and smiles;
That roses that blossom and toilers that plod
Are filled with the glorious spirit of God.

I believe in the purpose of everything living;
That taking is but the forerunner of giving;
That strangers are friends that we some day may meet;
And not all the bitter can equal the sweet;
That creeds are but colors, and no man has said
That God loves the yellow rose more than the red.

I believe in the path that today I am treading;
That I shall come safe through the dangers I'm dreading;
That the scoffer shall turn from his ways
And some day be won back to trust and to praise;
That the leaf on the tree and the thing we call man
Are sharing alike in His infinite plan.

I believe that all things that are living and breathing
Some richness of beauty to earth are bequeathing;
That all that goes out of this world leaves behind
Some duty accomplished for mortals to find;
That the humblest of creatures our praise is deserving;
For it, with the wisest, the Master is serving.

SUCH WAS OUR DAY

Mary A. Selden

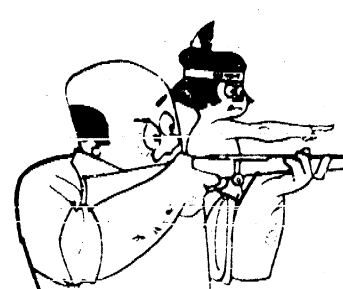

Pale and reluctant, the sun rose early,
Parted the clouds banked around;
Peered at the earth and stretched out a finger
To touch the frost on the ground,
Then he remembered that Thanksgiving Day
Was a red-letter day to unfold.
He brightened with pleasure, beamed at the world,
And painted the sky pink and gold.

The racks in the oven could hold a half dozen
Large mince and pumpkin pies;
When the pies came out, in went the turkey
Before our admiring eyes.
We used our best dishes, and the table was set
For ourselves and our company.
Soon they arrived and our joy was complete
As we welcomed them heartily.

Here on the farm our breakfast was over
Before we greeted the sun.
Mother and Grandmother rallied their helpers
They had tasks for everyone,
While Grandfather went to gather the eggs,
Father and I carried wood
Enough to keep stoking the black kitchen range
That many such feasts had withstood.

Dinner was ready at last and we sat
For a moment of silence and grace.
The turkey was carved, every plate was filled,
And happiness shone on each face.
Sunset came early, but our minds and our hearts
Were serene as the evening closed in.
Such was our day . . . a Thanksgiving Day
To recall and live over again.

THE WINNINGEST PITCHERS IN BASEBALL

The great are few and far between . . . and few have matched the fabulous pitching feats of Cy Young. A physical marvel, Young pitched in the majors longer than anyone else in history—twenty-two full seasons and won more games than anyone else who took the mound, 511.

The coveted Cy Young award bears his name.

The most recent winner of the Cy Young award, the first man in 37 years to win 31 games in a single season is superstar Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers. Denny had the amazing winning percentage of .838, winning 31 and losing 6.

CHIEF WARNS DRIVERS ABOUT WINTER VISIBILITY

Expressing grave concern over the many traffic crashes caused by poor visibility, Chief of Police Lawrence Becktel issued a pointed warning to Manchester drivers:

"A police officer has the legal responsibility to stop drivers whose car windows -- front, side or rear -- are obscured, or who are driving too fast for visibility conditions," the chief warned, "and we intend to discharge that obligation."

Chief Becktel pointed out that there are two major causes for winter visibility problems: (1) longer hours of darkness this time of year, and (2) snow, sleet, misty fog or frost clinging to windshield and windows. "It's obvious that a driver knows when he can't see properly," he continued. "Therefore, it's only common sense for motorists to try and correct the situation."

The Chief added: "Keep the windshield completely clear -- inside and out. Start the car and the heater-defroster warm up before you take off. That means having defrosters that really work."

Not only windshields, but side and rear windows and all mirrors -- inside and out -- must be unobscured, the chief warned drivers. And when you clean off the windows, also clean the headlights, tail lights and directional signal lenses as well. Good scrapers, clean rags and spray de-icers in the car can make these jobs a lot easier.

Chief Becktel also referred to windshield wipers as the "forgotten-until-needed" safety items on a driver's visibility checklist.

Wiper arm tension should exert sufficient pressure to wipe away slush and snow. If wiper arm pressure equals an ounce to the inch of blade length, and streaking still occurs, it is recommended that wiper blades be replaced with live new rubber. It is also noted that your checklist should include the windshield washers for fluid, so that road grime and slush can be washed away when needed and not wait for your next gas stop.

"Wipers that smear a coating of grime before your eyes are worse than none at all," the chief warned.

He joined other members of the local area police departments in pledging the continued and all-out cooperation of his department to reduce crashes in which poor visibility is a factor, now drivers let's do our part in helping.

The end of the world will catch most of the big executives behind with their work.

RECREATION COMMITTEE MEETING NOTES

The Manchester Recreation Committee met Monday, Nov. 24 to discuss the scheduling of their winter recreational program. The objective of this program is to provide activities for the areas young people on weekends when events are not going on at the school.

Jim Fielder presented the results of a survey he conducted at the high school as to what kinds of events the students would be interested in. The survey showed that the activities best suited to meet the students' needs were dances, regular and square, open movies, and recreational activities in the gym. It is the concern of the committee to provide events that would be of interest to a majority of the young people, so it was decided to start a program that consisted of these types of events as soon as possible.

The committee set Dec. 6 as the kick-off date for this new program with a dance at the high school. It was also announced at the meeting that three local facilities had been made available to put on these events; the high school, the Emanuel Church Hall, and the K of C Hall.

The committee also discussed the idea of creating a youth advisory council that would be a representative of the students to the committee. The function of this council would be to coordinate activities between the adult committee and the local youth. Such a council would give the young people a chance to express their opinion as to what they would like to see done.

CHRISTMAS FUN WITH IBM CARDS

by Carolyn Ahrens

About two years ago Randy Uhr, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Uhr of Parr Road, started an idea that has since become a regular Christmas project for many Manchester school children. Randy's mother had seen the instructions in a magazine and had shown him how to make egg carton candle holders. Taking the finished project to school, Randy's teacher Mrs. Maynard Blossom liked the idea and suggested he show his third grade classmates how to make them also.

That was two years ago and the ideas have continued. "Randy is always thinking of new ideas," his mother pointed out. Last summer he had another idea. His parents are employed at Double A Products so Randy asked them to bring him some discarded IBM cards. His efforts, an IBM cross, brought a second prize at the Manchester Fair. This year an IBM Christmas tree brought first prize. Lights added to a gold sprayed cross and wreath created an unusual and beautiful effect and his biggest project, a large gold star took a lot of "figuring and measuring," he said.

To make IBM decorations Randy used corrugated cardboard, wire, paint, IBM cards, glue and artificial flowers. His egg carton candle holders are versatile his mother pointed out as the flowers can be changed according to the season. Another versatile item, the cross, which painted silver or gold with spring flowers is an ideal Easter decoration.

Randy's parents encourage his imagination and creative ability and "the ideas are his." For the last two years Randy has donated several of his IBM card items to St. Mary's Christmas Bazaar which undoubtedly means more to him than the articles he readily shares with family and friends.

MORATORIUM DECLARED ON CHECK GARNISHMENT

The judges of the 14th District Court, Edward D. Deake, Patrick J. Conlin, Henry D. Arkison, have declared a moratorium on garnishment of wages beginning December 1 thru December 31, 1969.

This is to enable the working man to have a holiday free of garnishment.

COMMUNITY CHEST GOAL OF $16,240 SURPASSED

The Manchester Community Chest and Red Cross Drive for 1969-70 has been successfully completed and the budget goal of $16,240 has been surpassed. This announcement was made by Jerry Creech, Campaign Chairman, at a final report meeting of the Chest Board this past week. Collections for this year's drive have totaled $16,673-37 or 102.6% of goal.

Mr. Creech attributed much of the drive success to his Division Chairmen and their able solicitors.

Manchester citizens can again be proud to know that they have met their obligations for the community to help serve those who are less fortunate.

Other business of the Chest Board was as follows: An additional $400 was granted to Manchester Recreation for assistance with their Fall and Winter Recreational program for the youth of Manchester.

The annual meeting of the Community Chest was established for February, 1970. Date to be announced. This is an open meeting and it is hoped that more Manchester citizens will find it possible to attend and hear the reports of the Budget agencies - thus to know of their activities in our community.

The next meeting of the Board will be held on January 8, 1970.

LEGION AUXILIARY NEWS

COMMUNITY CHEST EXTENDS THANKS

I wish to extend my thanks to all Division Chairmen, volunteer solicitors, to all industries and citizens of the Manchester area for helping to achieve the goal of the Manchester Community Chest and Red Cross Drive. A special thanks to Manchester Tool & Die and Manchester Stamping and the anonymous donor for financing the Kick-Off Dinner. Without the help of each and everyone the drive could not have been a success. Thanks again.
