

Snow is white, right? And light? An ephemeral sight? Well, each of these ideas is less correct than it sounds. Scientists say that snow is usually colorless, or off white. And some snow had been known to be red, green, even black depending on the dust particle around which the snowflake is formed. Surprised? You may well be. Snow is full of surprises. The wind and sun that bounce off the snow, for example, may cause painful sunburn, report the makers of Q.T., a product which safely tans the skin in three to five hours with or without the sun.

Leaving A Delicate Problem Behind!

To many young mothers, diaper rash is a frustrating, difficult-to-solve problem. To their babies, of course, the problem is even more painful.

A simple explanation of the cause of diaper rash, plus some valuable suggestions to help eliminate it completely, were made this week by William O. Elson, director of research for the Curity division of the Kendall Company, one of the nation's largest makers of regular and disposable diapers.

Cause is Ammonia - The true cause of diaper rash is ammonia - NOT the kind of ammonia you may use in your wash, but the ammonia which is formed by bacteria in wet diapers," said Elson.

"When diapers are not properly laundered, this bacteria builds up in them, further aggravating baby's rash, and the pain and discomfort. Soap or detergent left in diapers, through improper rinsing, will also cause a rash - or worsen an existing problem.

There are several ways to prevent diaper rash," said Elson. "Most important of all is to change the baby as soon as he needs changing. If this is not done, all the other precautions against diaper rash will be wasted.

Disposables Solve Problems - "Next, mothers can eliminate all risk of soap or detergent build-up in diapers by using the disposable kind. Disposables solve many problems - and they don't need washing, rinsing, folding, or storing. Disposable liners for regular diapers are also good. Like the disposable diaper, these liners are made from a new, non-woven, soft cloth, such as in Curity liners - and baby's skin never touches anything but a clean, cloth, diaper surface," Elson said.

"Cloth diapers," explained Elson, "are still perfectly fine for the baby whose mother will remember to use very warm water, and to rinse the diapers at least four times if her wash water is hard."

The family doctor or pediatrician should be consulted immediately. Elson recommends, if a painful rash can't be quickly cleared up.

Another suggestion for treatment of diaper rash is suggested by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in a booklet published by its Children's Bureau. Exposing a child's rash to light and air, by leaving off the diaper for a while, will usually cure mild cases, the booklet states.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE COMMUNITY

For those who may not be aware of it - January 17 through 23rd is National Jaycee Week. In view of this, we would like to take this opportunity to make known to the people of Manchester just what your Jaycees have accomplished. Because the Jaycees have existed in Manchester for many years, the complete list of their achievements is far too long to list here. But ... did you know:

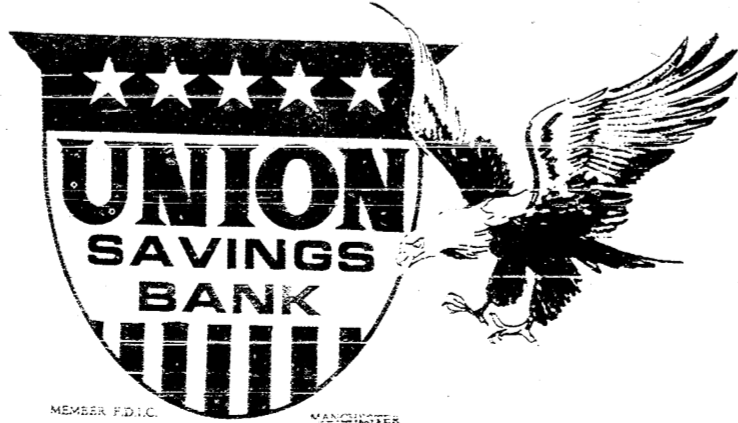

- That the Jaycees are responsible for putting up and taking down the flower baskets and Christmas decorations every year? And this year they helped buy new ones.
-That the Jaycees bought and installed the new toys at Carr Park?
-That the Jaycees give scholarships to two graduating seniors every year? This is the purpose of the 50-50 tickets.
-That twice a year the Jaycees clean the river bank of trash and debris?
-That the Jaycees give a Halloween party every year for the children of Manchester? Also an Easter Egg Hunt?
-That the Jaycees helped build the shelter on the Athletic Field?
-That the Jaycees donated half the money needed to buy new street signs for the village?
-That 80% of all money earned on Jaycee projects you support goes right back to the community in one form or another? The balance is used to defray expenses and in some cases to give awards to deserving Jaycees and/or towns-people. For this reason all Jaycee parties are self-supporting and no project money is used for them in any way.
-And, of course, the Jaycees are a big part of the crew that puts on the Chicken Broil.
-That the Jaycees sponsor Boy Scouts, Brownies and Girl Scouts.
The Manchester Jaycees are a hard-working but fun-loving group of young men who put the needs of the community ahead of everything else. For this reason we are proud to say we are Jaycee wives!

ROSES AND RACE CARS

by Carolyn Ahrens

"...his hobby and her headache," is how Mrs. Roena Wurster describes Wurster's Greenhouse, a business that started as a hobby over 28 years ago when Ed Wurster, who had always been interested in gardening and flowers, nurtured endless beauty in his garden. He specialized in growing gladiolus and "soon neighbors asked him to "just put something together," supplying him with whatever flowers they had and hopefully asking him to use some of his gladiolus. "Finally the business just came natural," he said. "We were building a garage but it seems it never got that far. Instead our garage turned into a greenhouse."

In 1943 Wurster's Greenhouse was officially opened, the first order for the Grossman sisters for a funeral floral arrangement for a member of their family. In those years often a funeral was held at the home and many times the roads either choked with snowbanks or so deeply rutted or muddy it was almost impossible to get through, the Wurster's added, "But we always managed to get the flowers delivered."

Back then, they continued, floral trucks didn't deliver to small community florists either. Mrs. Wurster spent hours driving to Ann Arbor, Jackson or wherever they could get the flowers they wanted. Eventually the large dealers would send the orders by bus to Chelsea or Napoleon and she would pick them up. Now however, delivery is made to small shops and at Wurster's, delivery is made daily. Flowers arrive from throughout the United States including one particular order from Hawaii several years ago. "A flower picked this morning in California can be here by this evening," Mr. Wurster added. He also pointed out that they buy from several distributors including those in Ann Arbor, Detroit and Toledo "to get the best quality at the best price. Usually we pick the flowers we want from the delivery truck unless we have a special order."

A talent Mr. Wurster always had, Mrs. Wurster had to learn by relying on an expression her Grandmother often said, "... steal all you want with your eyes but never with your hands." and Mrs. Wurster added, "I did just that. I learned by looking." But until this past year she let her husband set up the floral arrangements, preferring the business end including ordering, the bookwork, etc. She does set up a beautiful arrangement however although she still insists, "I only do it when I can't get out of it," but found that a foundation for an arrangement is all-important. "We're like a poor farmer everything is wired together in a floral arrangement too".

Employees at one time included the late Mrs. Charles Eisenhower and Miss Katherine Pfeiffle. Occasionally Mrs. Florence Parr works on a part-time basis but at present the Wursters mainly rely on Mrs. Ginny Neuffer and at times Mrs. Jane Kern. "And we never know when we'll be called the Wursters added. "An 8-hour-day is unheard of in the florists business. When your services are needed you just do it."

Available at Wurster's Greenhouse are potted plants, cut flowers, floral arrangements of every size, price and flower, unusual flower vases, over 3,000 of their own geranium plants, holiday decorations, artificial arrangements, outdoor plants and during the spring and summer months a wide variety of vegetables, most of which Mrs. Wurster retails however. Their reputation is widely known in southeastern Michigan as proven by their orders. As in most florist shops, a courtesy service is an order-by-phone to a reputable florist with the assurance to the area customer that the order will be promptly and beautifully filled. Wurster's are open daily from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

Mr. Wurster, employed at Tecumseh Products for 29 years, his wife and daughter Mary and son Ray also find time to combine the floral business with an exciting hobby, stock car racing. Although Michigan doesn't have an official state stock car champion, the car owned by the Wursters appears to be the undisputed champion of the 1970 season as proven by the trophies won by their driver, Marv Carmen of Union City. Many of the Wurster trophies were won before they actually owned a car during their sponsorship years. Carmen says, "You can't drive a winning race without a good car." He and his crew consist of head mechanic Larry Bible of Union City and Nick Brown and Chuck Rhodes both of Coldwater, who completely rebuilt the Wurster-owned car and then proceeded to drive it for top honors at both the Manchester and Butler Speedways this past summer.

"Most people think racing is a little less than the perfect hobby but we've found it to be very interesting, the people involved no different than the average Manchester family and our mechanic in fact, has a son studying for the ministry. Racing is fast becoming an interesting and more acceptable sport across the country." Mr. Wurster added.

How to combine a delicate rose and a rugged race-car--the Wursters have and enjoy both. The family members of Emanuel Church of Christ.

TO THE EDITOR:

The public is being misled! Who is responsible for initiating the slogan "The County should get out of the Hospital Business"? Washtenaw County is not now, nor has it ever been engaged in the business of operating a "Hospital". The use of this word is illegal and misleading. The County Medical Facility is, in reality a skilled nursing home. It offers services such as physical therapy and rehabilitation not available in the same way in any general hospital nor private nursing home. It's sheltered workshop is unique. Types of patients are: post operative, convalescent, long-term care such as needed after a stroke, or severe physical disability, or senility. General hospitals have no room nor liking for such cases. Private profit nursing homes are selective and accept only patients of their choice. Our County Facility has the staff, equipment and services to provide for these patients. Administration and care are excellent. The problem is the antiquated building. The county Government, through its Department of Social Service is legally obligated under Act 280 P.A. 1939 as amended, to care for its medically indigent citizens without regard to race, color or creed. Let's insist that our elected and appointed officials face up to their responsibilities and plan at once for an acceptable building. It may be bought or built, but in a central location, operated and administered by the County alone. Ask your commissioner whether or not he has ever toured the Medical Facility - from top to bottom - to see for himself what services are offered and how it actually is operated. If not, he can have no valid opinion of it. Remember, you or yours may some day need the kind of care the Medical Facility offers. It must not be allowed to sink into oblivion. Please do your share to promote this cause.

JCC TO HOST DICK GREGORY

Nationally famous personality Dick Gregory will be the guest speaker at a special evening edition of Jackson Community College's Forum Series February 11. Gregory is a noted comedian, author, lecturer, and actor. But more than a commentator, more than an author, more than a comedian, he is a soldier in a war against hate and bigotry. His weapons include a complete personal dedication of his talent and a razor sharp sense of humor. He has spent more time in Southern jails, marched in more demonstrations, prevented more racial violence, and worked harder for the rights of the Negro than any other entertainer in America. His autobiography, "Nigger", has become a best seller and his new book "Sermons" for Doubleday, looks to be an even bigger success. Gregory's home is in five suitcases, a garment bag, and a tape recorder. He lives enroute, stopping to play countless benefits, deliver church sermons, lobby in Washington, and speak at colleges and universities all over the country. Named as the man most hated by the Ku Klux Klan he quips, "They're so out of style, I think they are the only people in the country who aren't using colored sheets." In addition to being a great leader in the Negro's fight for equality, Gregory is a top star of television, stage and motion pictures. He has toured the continent, become an international leader, starred in Broadway and on major television shows, and made a spectacular picture debut in "Sweet Love, Bitter". This special Forum Series program is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. in the Auditorium of Jackson High School, and it is open to the public. The Forum Series is free to Jackson Community College students and staff with identification cards. Other tickets available at 75¢ for students and $1.25 for adults. Tickets are available at the Main office in McDivitt Hall on the JCC Campus or reservations may be made by calling 787-0800, extension 21.

COACHES CORNER

John Roberts, the outstanding freshman wrestler who has been a consistent winner this year may be lost for a few matches. He injured his left knee playing basketball and is really going to be missed by his coaches and team mates.
When Manchester beat Clinton in wrestling last Thursday it marked the first time that the wrestlers had ever defeated the Redskins. It was also the largest wrestling crown for a home meet as the gym was filled to capacity.

WRESTLERS GET REVENGE

The Manchester wrestling team won its fifth and sixth match in a row and in the process beat the two teams that had beaten them earlier this year.
Thursday night's win over previously undefeated Clinton was especially exciting as the Dutch battled back from a 22 to 8 deficit to win 26 to 22. It took three pins by Chuck Benedict, Ken Tindall and Hugh Haessler to clinch the victory. Dave Roberts pinned at 119 lbs. for the other Dutch fall. Two wrestlers, Mark Chapin and Delruss Wolfe, won on decisions for the final six points. Hugh Haessler was selected as wrestler of the week for his outstanding effort.
Monday night the wrestlers didn't want it so close. They burned Addison 40 to 6 losing only at 98 and 155 lbs. Winners were Greg Bertke, Bob Preston, Dave Roberts, Mike Johnson, Delruss Wolfe, Gene Kemeter, Bernie Roulo, Chuck Benedict, Ken Tindall and Hugh Haessler. Roberts now has 13 wins, Haessler and Tindall have 16.

This Thursday night the wrestlers travel to Onsted to take on the Wildcats. Then Tuesday they move on to Hudson for a make up match. Next Thursday, the 11th, the wrestlers will honor their parents with a parent's night at the Milan match which will be in Manchester.

To the avid bird hunter or rabbit hunter a dog can become a very close companion. Care of a good dog means a whole lot if you want him to perform for you on the hunt. We would like to give you a few hints on first aid for you dog as well as some common diseases.
When a dog acts droopy it probably isn't distemper, but it's something to think about. Distemper symptoms include fever (rectal temperature over 102) diarrhea, discharge from nose or eyes, cough and loss of appetite. If any of these persist, better call a vet. Never treat a sick dog with medicine intended for humans except on your vet's say-so. Two that may be used safely in small doses, however, are Milk of Magnesia for constipation and Kaopectate for diarrhea. But check the vet if either condition persists. Many dogs suffer miserably from skin troubles in hot weather. It is natural to suspect mange, but often the real problem is fleas, diet deficiency, worms or simply lack of grooming. If flea powder and frequent brushings don't help better have the vet look him over.
Before turning a long haired dog loose in areas infested with burrs and other stick-tights, warm some vaseline and rub it on his chest, ears and tail. He won't gather so many stickers, and those that do fasten on him can be combed out easily.
Although expert medical care is needed for a sick dog, some knowledge of first aid can be vital in emergencies. Any hurt dog worth his horse meat is bound to get into trouble occasionally, when he does, prompt action by his owner may well save his life or at least prevent permanent, crippling injury. Knowing some basic first aid procedures is fine, when many mishaps happen deep in the woods and you have to cope with the situation yourself, but get the dog to the vet as soon as possible. First, lift the dog onto a high slippery surface such as an automobile hood so he cannot struggle while you work on him. If he is suffering, muzzle him with a handkerchief or a belt so he cannot bite.

Cuts are the simplest of injuries to treat. Stop heavy bleeding with a compress but loosen it every 10 or 15 minutes. Clean the wound with water, trim hair from the edges, let the dig lap the wound if he can reach it. Don't let the dog run till the wound heals.
Broken bones must be handled gently, as simple breaks can turn easily into compound fractures. Never try to set a broken leg. Immobilize it with a loose splint and keep the dog quiet till the vet can set it properly.

Shock can be far more serious than injuries resulting from a run-in with an automobile. Obvious symptoms are shallow rapid breathing, dazed appearance and pale gums. Keep the dog warm, give him all the hot coffee he can swallow. Then get him to the vet fast for plasma injections.
Poison - also requires immediate treatment. Symptoms include vomiting, diarrhea, excessive thirst, convulsions. Empty his stomach by giving him emetic-household peroxide mixed half-and-half with water; Epsom salts, a teaspoon to a glass of water; mustard powder in water or simply poke a finger down his throat. After he discharges, pour as much milk into him as he can hold and take the shortest route to the vet.
Dogs are valuable as hunters or pets, take good care of them.
Tell them you read it in Woods & Water.
