IN RETROSPECT

Several of the older residents were talking the other day about Manchester in the time period from 1925 to 1945, and they became involved in a discussion about the many changes that had occurred on Main Street since then, so I said I would enumerate those during that time period and pinpoint where they were located and it will be very evident that forty years have brought many, many changes.

Let us start at the southwest corner of Exchange Place (as it was then) - on this corner of Clinton Street at that time was the large garage owned and operated by Jack Cathey and later by H.J. Meyer, who sold Dodge and Plymouth cars and Allis-Chalmers farm implements. "Buff" Brown moved in with him and ran a radio shop in part of the office area, and later Earl Alber moved there from his job as a mechanic at the Chevy garage.

Eastward across the street on the southeast corner was the filling station operated by Carl Toburen who, if you can remember, had a large dog who use to be provided with a small basket and a note and sent to the grocery or meat market, and who would go there, present his note and after the order had been filled, return to his master with the contents of the basket untouched.

Back of this station on Clinton Street at this time was located a garage operated by

"Stub" Blythe who sold Willys-Overland cats, and for whom Arch Kirk worked for some time.

Next to the east on Main Street was a frame building where Russ Widmayer ran a tavern until the building was torn down and the present hardware building erected. Russell then moved down the street to the building where the Black Sheep Tavern is now located. At this time Widmayer's hardware which was located on the north side of the street moved across into the new building.

Next door to the east was the Red and White store owned by Walter Luckhardt for many years, and next to this was the meat market which was owned by Clarence Haarer, then Kieblers and for many years by Herman Hanewald. He was a butcher of the old school who made all of his wieners, sausages, etc. which were a far cry from today's synthetic productions.

Then on down the street was a grocery operated at various times by Charlie Seckinger (who later moved down the street and around the corner on Adrian Street), the A & P Co., and Charlie Eisenhower.

Next was the tavern owned by Fritz Schill and later by Russ Widmayer.

Then, for years, was the hardware and implement store of Dresselhouse & David.

On Thursday, August 30, 1979, at 8 P.M. in the High School Library, the Manchester Association for Talented Students holds its third meeting.

The Association is a group of concerned people dedicated to (1) help the school system provide appropriate education for talented and creative students, and (2) assist parents with the special challenges in raising these children. We invite anyone interested in these goals to attend.

The August 30th meeting will include a brief business meeting and the showing of a 30-minute movie entitled "Children of Promise," designed to increase our awareness of the needs and characteristics of talented students. A short Steering Committee meeting will follow the general meeting.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Second Annual Manchester Street Fair is now past history, and thanks to the many individuals and groups who participated in making it happen. Manchester is able to look back at a very exciting and worthwhile day. I will never be able to thank each of you personally, simply because so many people helped out, but I want you to know that it would have never happened without you!

I want to thank the Village Council for their help and support, the Police Department for doing a tremendous job of helping keep the street blocked off, and the Public Works Department for doing a fine job of cleaning up. Thanks to the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre we had an afternoon of exciting entertainment, and thanks to the men with their horse drawn wagons and to Chrysler for the use of their vans, visitors were able to reach the Fair without having to walk from parking areas. I want to thank the Village Association for guidance and support, not to mention all of the members of that group who helped out in innumerable ways. And, I want to thank the Art Guild for all of the help that they have given me.

Thank you, Karen Hinkley, for taking on this task with me and helping to shoulder the headaches. Thank you, Jim Fleming, for getting us started and keeping us on the right track. And, thank you, Kathy Auito, for helping me make it through. And, without Simon and Lenore Steele they would not have been a Street Fair!

There are many more people who expended their invaluable time and energy in making this Fair possible. I extend a heartfelt THANK YOU!! to each and every one of you for helping make this Fair successful.

TERESA Freed

The Manchester Insurance Agency would like to announce the winners of the fire extinguishers at the Manchester Community Fair drawing. They are: Kathryn Bradbury, 10065 Easton Rd., Dexter, Mich. 48130 and Sue Jorgensen, 410 W. Forest, Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197.

Thank you to everyone who supported the fair.

Japanese Teachers Visit Area

During the weekend of August 18-19, fourteen Japanese teachers visited the Manchester area as part of an experimental program sponsored by the Japanese Government Ministry of Education and coordinated by the International Student Center of the University of Michigan and two local churches. The teachers are in the U.S. to study American culture and to refine their English speaking and listening ability. All are English teachers in Japanese schools (where English is a required subject). A number of Manchester families opened their homes to the teachers and showed them the highlights of our town. They visited the Fair, the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre, went fishing, hiked and attended worship services on Sunday morning.

Host families were recruited by Emanuel United Church of Christ and Manchester United Methodist Church. They were: Grossman, DuFresne, Briggs, MacFarlane, Hugel, Van der Schalie, Bob Little, Hanks, Timmerman, Strang and McConnel.

The teachers are to be in the U.S. for a total of five weeks. During that time they are taking classes at the University of Michigan, visiting the immediate area and meeting people. In two weeks, the group will travel to Montreal, and then to Hartford Connecticut to stay with families for 10 days. If this program is a successful one, chances are that it will be repeated. If the response of Manchester people is any measure of success, Japanese teachers will certainly return to the U.S. on a regular basis.

Well, the government once again raised the maximum amount financial institutions can pay on regular savings.

In light of everything else going up, I suppose it is understandable this base rate would go up, too.

Actually while justification can be seen on one hand, the added cost of money coming into financial institutions must be reflected in part, at least, in higher loan costs.

There is no question that government borrowing and government controls (let alone government spending) is fueling our inflationary spiral more than any other factor.

Regardless, as of July First, our savings customers began enjoying the higher rate.

Now, when you deposit funds in your savings account, a new account or an existing account, you will enjoy the higher interest rate paid by us.

Girl Scout Recruitment Drive

Adults can find the gift in every child by working as a Girl Scout volunteer. Being a Girl Scout volunteer is one way to serve your community as well as a chance to learn to love fun, and to help girls, ages 6 to 17, grow into happy, resourceful citizens. Mothers, fathers, working women and college students are being actively recruited as volunteers in this special drive, which begins September 3 and runs through September 14. Over 10,000 girls in Washington, Livingston, western Wayne and Monroe counties are being served by volunteers just like yourself. In addition to troop and assistant leaders, the Council is enlisting volunteer troop service directors, who recruit and assist troop leaders. Resource people who share expertise of any kind from bike-making to tutoring with Girl Scout troops at just one or two meetings are also being sought. In announcing the drive, Council president Pat Levin said, "There is a job for every kind of person who is interested in finding the gift in every child through the World of Girl Scouting. Although mothers are the foundation of our organization, we are actively seeking adults who are interested in volunteering some time to our girl members." "Volunteers in Huron Valley Girl Scout Council enjoy certain benefits," she added. "They are included in seminars and training sessions relating to group behavior, child development, and human relations through Council programs. They can also attend national conferences." Interviews are held with all prospective volunteers to determine their interests and abilities. For further information, call Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at 483-2370 or write at 19 N. Hamilton, P.O. Box 538, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197. We are a Torch Drive agency.

Commissioner Kennedy should know that all peanuts are checked for aflatoxin mold at the buying station when farmers bring them in. Any peanuts suspected of aflatoxin are crushed immediately for their oil—which is not affected by aflatoxin. There is no way for contaminated peanuts to enter commercial food channels.
As peanuts are processed, the industry maintains very high quality control standards, checking all the time for aflatoxin or anything else that doesn't belong.
Intemperate remarks by members of the administration against food are so often made that one almost has to believe they are calculated—but for what reason? The food we eat in this country is the best in the world—bar none—and it is also the safest.
By the way, Kennedy is leaving the Food and Drug Administration. Peanut butter lovers will not miss him....

OH, NO! NOT OUR PEANUT BUTTER!

There's nothing that grabs public attention more than a good scare story so maybe it was just what the Washington Press Club wanted to hear recently when Food and Drug Commissioner Donald Kennedy mentioned peanut butter in the same breath with cancer.
Kennedy said there is a "very modest risk" of cancer from peanuts containing aflatoxin mold. Aflatoxin is a toxic chemical produced by certain molds found in the soil.
Commissioner Kennedy would advise parents against letting their children have too much peanut butter. While peanut butter is highly nutritious, Kennedy ad-ter, and then eastward was the general store of G.H. Breitenwischer which was an "L" shaped building which ran around back of the Union Bank and onto Adrian Street.

The corner of Main Street and Adrian Street was, of course the site of the Union Bank. Southwards on Adrian Street was Lawrence Hill's feed store—later Seckinger's grocery—and then Kiebler's plumbing shop. Later these buildings became part of L.V. Kirk's Store.

On the north side of the alley on Adrian Street was a cement block building occupied for some years by Koebbe's welding shop after he moved there from a location on City Road where he shared the building with Stanley Jenkins garage. This building became too small for his operation and so he built the building where the shop is now located.

On the corner of Adrian Street and the alley was for many years, Huber's Ford Garage, later operated by Leroy Heimerdinger before the building where it is now located was built on West Main St.

And then, across the street, was of course, the Chevrolet Sales operated by Clarence Lindbert and then by Frank Tirb.

By the bridge was Hoffer's Mill now operated by the Mann's. This was, and is one of the busiest places on Main Street.

Eastward across the bridge was a small building, now Fahey's Real Estate office. This was "Matie" Swift's millinery and dressmaking shop.

Fred Houck ran a hardware store in the next building that is now a restaurant, and after his death Mr. Robinson operated it for several years and then, after the repeal of prohibition, it became a tavern operated by the Sloats.

On eastward there was Herman Kuebler's plumbing shop and then Troiz and Eschelbach's meat market, the source of more home processed meats and sausages. Then next door for many years was the Enterprise where Mat D. Bissler held forth for some 70 years and next door was Mary's Tavern, operated for many years by Mery Kern, following the death of her husband. And then on the corner was the small building containing the gas station of Had Dietle.

Up on Ann Arbor Hill was Bill Kulenkamp's gas station and between the river and the west side of Ann Arbor Street was the offices of the coal yard of Burtless and Henzie (later owned by Oscar Buss) with its storage sheds along the railroad track where the water tank now stands.

On the northwest corner of Ann Arbor Street and East Main Street was the C.F. Smith grocery and westward next to the river was the home and office for years of Dr. Kapp.

As we journey west across the bridge we come to the building recently remodeled by Bill Cannon where was a candy and cigar store which was run by Bill Holt. Then on westward came the former shoe repair shop of Lamson's and later operated by Mike Wolfe. Oops, we pretty near forgot. Just east of this—next to where the Enterprise is now located was Mike Gauss' barber shop.

Next door was the Manchester Theater operated by Herb Widmayer and then Snowman's drug store.

The People's Bank was next run by Fred Lehman and "Dutch" Wurster.

Next, for many years, was the post office, the town's busiest place, of course.

Westwards came Johnson's Candy Kitchen, the original Youth Center, and then Haussler's drug store which he was the proprietor of for a many years.

A "dime" store next was operated by C.F. Curtis and later by Roscoe Lannom who built the building where it is now located and moved it there. Next door was the barber shop of Homer Fish, later owned by Geo. Swank.

Next came the Manchester Bakery owned so many years by Orville Way whose products became widely known followed by the dry goods and clothing store of Yocum and Marx and later by Waldo Marx.

Next was Widmayer's Hardware located there until it was moved across the street after which the Widmayers operated a furniture store there.

Wuerthner Bros. men's store was owned by the Wuerthners for many years and was situated in its location next on Main Street for many, many years. The proprietors were for years Carl and Gus Wuerthner.

assisted by Walt Schaible who later purchased and for many years ran the store.

Next westwards was a restaurant for some years owned by a Johnson family. This building was later used by Carl Wuerthner as a location for his wholesale glove and sundry business and later was torn down and Mr. Lannom built his store building.

And, of course, on the corner to the west was located the Hotel, but after it deteriorated and was finally torn down, the Silkworth Oil Company built a station there and it was operated by Carl Toburen and of course later by Rollie Grossman and "Red" Huber, and later years by Mr. Grossman.

This, I guess, takes care of "Main Street" in Manchester. As I have said before, I'm doing these vignettes from memory without research and I'm not at all sure that an error or two has not snuck in. If so will you please notify the editor so that we may correct our omissions?

There were a couple of other activities that were not located right on Main Street that should probably be mentioned. There was Merrick and later Harold Burch's service station west on Jackson Road—there was "Hank" Schurtz Handle Factory on the "flats" on the west side of Adrian Street that made implement handles and ball bats of hickory and ash for the major league clubs and which burned one night with a rather spectacular blaze and there was "Abe Cohen's Nut Factory" as the kids referred to the plant, located in the old municipal light plant where the Ford Plant was later built and which turned out for some years, automatic screw machine products, but these are all that I can recall. Perhaps also to be remembered was Schneider's Block Smith Shop on East Main Street which, however, has stood locked and deserted for many years now.

If you can smile when all about you is madness—maybe you should be President.

Horseback riding is a hobby that can have widespread results.

Brains are never a handicap for a girl who is smart enough to hide them under a tight sweater.

I'm rather tired of having everyone telling me "Have a nice day". Who said I wanted anyone telling me how to live my life.

My idea of a clever poster seen the other day in a nearby small town advertising their annual dance. "You come to our dance, and we'll come to your fire".

THE TOWNSHIP OF MANCHESTER ORDAINS:

Section 1. Inasmuch as old discarded and non-operating cars, car parts, tractors, machinery, household appliances, old iron debris and other unsightly junk, if allowed to remain in the open, is dangerous to the health of the Township in that it allows weeds, high grass and brush to grow up around it in which rats and other rodents frequent, and is dangerous to the safety of the citizens in that it is an attractive nuisance to children from which children can receive serious injury or possible suffocation and in that it creates a fire hazard because of the dead grass and weeds around and is detrimental to the general welfare of the Township of Manchester in that it adversely affects the value of the adjoining properties and detracts from the general appearance of the Township, therefore, the storing thereof in an open field, lot or part of lot in the Township of Manchester is hereby declared to be a public nuisance.

Section 2. An open field, lot or part of lot is hereby defined for the purpose of this ordinance as any field, lot or part of lot which is not enclosed with a building or a non-combustible fence at least eight (8) feet high so constructed and maintained that rats, mice and other rodents cannot enter or leave and so constructed as to prevent children from entering, and so constructed as to prevent lighted cigarettes, cigar butts or other burning objects from being tossed into said field, lot or part of lot.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any owner, occupant, possessor or any person having control of any open lot, field or open part thereof to allow any old auto bodies, old cars, auto parts, farm machinery, equipment, household appliances or other old metal, debris or other personal property that because of the age, wear and tear, lack of repair or other causes is no longer usable as such in its then condition to be stored or remain in any such open lot, field or open part of either for a period of more than thirty (30) days.

Section 4. Upon complaint from any person of any violation of section 3 of this ordinance, a Township Constable shall make an investigation thereof and if it is found that any of the items mentioned in section 1 hereof have been stored, placed or allowed to remain in any open lot, field or open part of either in the Township of Manchester for a period of more than thirty (30) days, said constable shall serve upon said owner, occupant, possessor or person having control thereof a written notice to remove the same therefrom within ten (10) days after receipt of said notice; said notice may be served personally or by certified mail with return receipt requested.

Section 5. Any person believing that the notice is not proper or that the removal of said items within ten (10) days would be an undue hardship or who is aggrieved otherwise may appeal to the Township Board of the Township of Manchester by leaving a written claim of appeal stating his reasons for appeal with the Township Clerk within said ten (10) days.

Section 6. Said appeal shall be heard by the Township Board at the next regular meeting thereof and said appellant shall appear before the Township Board and show cause, if any, he has, supporting his appeal. Any official of the Township or any resident may also appear and present any facts they have regarding the matter.

Section 7. After hearing the facts so presented the Township Board may uphold the notice as given or may extend the time for removal of the items or may set aside the notice entirely in accordance with the proofs so presented.

Section 8. If a notice be upheld by the Township Board, the appellant shall have ten (10) days thereafter, or such additional time as granted by said Board in which to remove said items.

Section 9. Any person who shall fail, refuse or neglect to so remove said items within ten (10) days after said notice is so served upon him, or within ten (10) days after the decision on the appeal if any appeal is taken and the notice is upheld, or within such additional time as may be granted by the Township Board on said appeal, then said person shall be subject to a fine of not more than $50.00 or imprisonment of more than thirty (30) days, or both, for a first offense. For a second or subsequent offense charged as such, said person shall be subject to a fine of not less than $50.00 or more than $100.00 or by imprisonment of not less than ninety (90) days or both, at the discretion of the Court.

Section 10. This ordinance shall not apply to a junk yard duly licensed.

Section 11. This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after the date of its publication.

Section 12. Made and passed by the Manchester Township Board at a regular meeting thereof on August 13, 1979.

Attends Convention Of Meat Processors
A local firm was represented at the 40th American Convention of Meat Processors held this week at Caesars Palace, Las Vegas, Nevada.

Representing Manchester Locker Plant, of Manchester, Michigan, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hamilton.

The Convention drew meat processors and industry representatives from throughout the United States and Canada for the four-day program, which featured displays of the latest in equipment, materials and services used by the local firm.

Conferees also participated in seminar programs and panel discussions which highlighted new trends in the industry and future marketing ideas.

The event was sponsored by the American Association of Meat Processors, a 1,500 member trade association representing meat processors, food service operators, locker and freezer provisioners, hotel-restaurants-institution suppliers, packers, butchers, slaughterers, retailers, curers, wholesalers and their equipment and service suppliers.

When planning a late summer picnic or party, an attractive addition to the menu can be fresh Michigan melons. This year try carving a melon into a serving "basket."

Pick a firm-ripe Michigan watermelon. Cut away two sections at the top leaving a two-inch strip across the top for a basket handle. Scoop out the melon flesh from all sections and reserve for melon balls. Scalloped the basket edge with a small sharp knife and add a diamond cutout pattern two to three inches up from the base of the basket.

Fill with muskmelon, honeydew and watermelon balls, halves of fresh Michigan plums, peach slices, or blueberries for added color and flavor. Top with scoops of orange, lime or raspberry sherbet.

Good things ARE growing in Michigan and all these delicious fruits are now available at markets and stores.

PUBLIC NOTICE FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is conducting a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in the Village of Manchester.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in sections of the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed. The flood elevations for those areas will also be determined. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

All interested persons are encouraged to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the Federal Insurance Administration for consideration in the course of this study. Such information should be furnished to Bruce T. Daniels, Superintendent of Public Works, for forwarding to FIA.

This study is being conducted by Williams & Works, Corp of Engineers under contract to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Funds for this program are authorized under the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (P.L. 93-234).

IN RETROSPECT

We see by the papers, as Will Rogers use to say, that the basic reason for the predominance of our workers over others in other countries is due to the lack of productivity of our workers.

I didn't think this was any secret-it has been increasingly true, year after year, for some time, but now it seems to have suddenly dawned on some of the so-called experts that in order to maintain or increase our high wage scales we must produce more quality goods per hour than we do now. To do this we do not mean that we have to work harder than we do now-can't we exercise our ingenuity to improve the machinery with which we produce these goods. In this we have been amazingly successful in years past. We have been the world's most prolific inventors.

We have lost our dominance in several major product fields to foreign countries unnecessarily. We no longer make our own television sets or stereo outfits. The last major United States maker recently closed their plant here, and in the field of printing equipment for example, no company in the United States makes any presses or paper cutters any more. They come from West Germany, Sweden and Italy.

So it should be rather simple to figure out that the money sent out of the country to purchase these things for import here, is no longer of any use to us, it is just gone.

Many stories are told of the great work done by the Japanese in the field of electronics for example, how proud they are of their work, and how steadily they work. In so doing they have steadily improved their economic conditions to a point where their living standards are far above anything they dreamed of a few years ago.

But in the meantime it seems that we here in these United States have become obsessed with the urge to have everything and anything that we happen to want or that someone else has, and to have it now. And we must obtain these things with as little effort as possible. We refuse to live within our income most of the time unless we are compelled by our accumulated debts, to do so.

This attitude must change, and change soon or we will drive ourselves into a depression the magnitude of which we cannot imagine, without any assistance from the energy crunch or any other outside assistance.

For years we led the world in the production of manufactured goods of all kinds, but for quite a number of years now the tide has changed. Where has our pride and our well known "Yankee ingenuity" gone?

Think about it a bit and you will decide that there is just one way to be "top dog" in a world wide competitive market, and that is to produce quality products at a competitive price. We, with our inventiveness and ingenuity can do this without sacrificing our standard of living if we want to work at it. We did it before and we can do it again if we want to-but we can't do it by trying to see just how much we can get with the least amount of effort.

A lot of politicians think they have been anointed - not appointed.

When you see what's going on nowadays it's hard to see that the American Revolution started over just one tax.
