CHRISTMAS SEALS DESIGNED BY CHILDREN

MICHIGAN 1979

Elementary school children have drawn at least ten different creative renditions of reindeer, five angels, four snowmen, and sixteen different drawings of ol' Saint Nick to bid you Christmas greetings on the 1979 sheet of Christmas Seals.

Each state and territory is represented by its own colorful Seal. Asked by their teachers to paint pictures about the holiday season, many of the 54 young artists chose to make scenes representative of their state. There are the rugged timbered mountains of Washington and the lush tropical colors of Puerto Rico. Thousands of children in grades kindergarten through

Family Service Scavenger Hunt

The Scavenger Hunt will be Monday afternoon, December 17 from 3:30 to 6:00 p.m. The drivers and helpers should meet at St. Mary's Church before or by 3:30 to get their maps and directions from Mrs. Wm. Schwab, vice-chairman of Manchester Family Service. In case of a storm which might make the Hunt impossible the alternate date is Tuesday, December 18 at the same time. The collections will be made in the village area.

Anyone wishing to have a neighborhood gathering for this project in the country, on a rural school bus or whatever, please contact Mrs. Schwab (428-8976) or Mrs. Reek (428-8852) for pick-up and delivery instructions. Cooperation is needed to save gasoline and to help everyone.

The Hunt is to give EVERYONE WHO WISHES an opportunity to give a tin can or a sealed package of food, soaps, paper goods, etc.—something that will help make up the Christmas boxes which Manchester Family Service prepares for the thirty or more needy families in the area. The Catholic Church basement is the center of all this activity this year for the local United Way Agency. Names of needy families come to the agency from the Department of Social Services, the Salvation Army and the County Health Department, or area churches.

Manchester Industry Adapts To Change

Driving through Manchester on M-52 or Main Street, you might miss it. Even living here you might not realize it. It's hard to imagine that this small village is host to industries employing altogether over 800 people, with millions of dollars in sales and paying several hundred thousand dollars in taxes to the village and township.

It is though: Double A Products Company, Hoover Universal Inc., Blow-molding Division, Manchester Plastics, Inc., Manchester Products, Inc., Manchester Stamping Corporation, Manchester Tool and Die, Inc., and Pinnacle Engineering Company all are in business here, manufacturing a variety of products. Part of the reason no one notices Manchester industries is that several of them are out of sight of the main roads. The other reason is that they are clean and quiet.

An interesting feature of Manchester industry is its inter-dependency. Manchester Stamping makes parts for Double A and Manchester Plastics. Manchester Plastics makes parts for Double A. Double A supplies valve controls for Manchester Plastics. Manchester Tool and Die repairs molds for Manchester Plastics, as does Pinnacle engineering. Hoover Universal is one of Double A's biggest customers.

Pinnacle Engineering, at 617 City Road, is the newest of Manchester's manufacturers. Pinnacle got its start part-time in Gene Smith's garage ten years ago in Ann Arbor. Six years ago Smith went full time with his business, locating first in Chelsea and then near Clinton. He moved his business to Manchester four years ago, he said, because "it seemed like a nice quiet spot in an area centrally located to several metropolitan areas, so I could draw skilled labor from several different directions". Pinnacle now employs eight people, and in six years its sales have grown ten times. The company builds machines for various uses. For General Electric, Pinnacle builds the tooling to put holes in jet engine foils; they are making the tooling for the horn button for a new Chrysler model, and an automatic size checking gauge for parts for the General Motors diesel engine. Pinnacle makes both computer parts and the tooling for several computer companies.

Innovation is common for Pinnacle. Pinnacle worked with another company in Ann Arbor to pioneer a process used for the decorative dashboard on the Cadillac-Seattle, which presses a decorative skin onto three-dimensional plastic molding. This combines a vacuum process with injection molding, and creates a stronger bond than could otherwise be made, and works on three-dimensional pieces, not just on flat parts, as previous processes did. Pinnacle also helped develop a process for forming and working with sirlan, a material that won't scratch or dent. Because sirlan also won't stretch, it had not been worked with before. Now a covering of sirlan over foil over mylar form a part of the bumper for the Cougar and Thunderbird, with the machines to build those parts supplied by Pinnacle.

In 1966, Clarence Fielder, Eugene Bentschneider, and Ted Stautz formed Manchester Stamping Corporation, branching out of Manchester Tool and Die. The corporation grew to employ 18 people with sales of $1.5 million a year. Ted Stautz retired last year, and new owners, Wayne Hamilton, President, and Richard Govan, Vice-president, took over the first of this year.

In Retrospect

This is not a quiz program. The following questions are asked merely to prove a point and to make that point obvious to the average reader. Here are three questions that we would like to have answered:

1. What was the name of Adam and Eve's third son?
2. Who replaced Judas as the twelfth Apostle?
3. What was the name of Lady Godiva's husband?

If you know all three you are one person in a thousand. Yet everyone has heard of Cain and Abel, of Judas and of Lady Godiva.

Why? Because they made news. They were the sensations of their time. People who read the Old Testament forget, if they ever knew, that Adam and Eve had a third son, Seth. But Seth was a nice fellow who didn't kill anybody as did Cain and Abel.

New Testament readers would be hard put to name Matthias as the disciple selected by Jesus to replace his betrayer. He did nothing to become a headline and lived and died in obscurity.

Why did Lady Godiva make her famous ride through Coventry? To get her husband to lift the tax burden on the people. This act of a normally modest woman so impressed him that he did so and made her famous for all time. She lives as a byword in the English language as does Peeping Tom who was not invented for centuries later but who shares her immortality. But who ever heard of Earl Leofric, her husband who never rode?

New this proves that people not the media make the news. Some of the reporters may write a vulgar story about an event but they are only trying to satisfy an innate curiosity of their readers.

Nobody cares about Seth but he was a much nicer character than his brothers. Only Judas and Peter who is credited with having founded the church, stand out among the disciples, and the Earl of Coventry doesn't even get his name in the history books.

What is dramatic, shameful, shocking or gratifying to our secretly baser instincts is what we look for, talk about or remember. Nice people don't make news.

And it all simmers down to this: when people demand better government, entertainment or news they will get it, so if you want these things reformed you will have to start at home.

Someone pointed out to me the other day the following item from the San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle:

"The manager of a nudist park complains that a hole was cut in the wall surrounding the camp. Police are looking into it."

And then there is the sign reported outside a church while on a vacation trip last summer:

"All new sermons—No reruns."

Observations

by J.A.W.

Always at this time of the year merchants all over the country make a supreme effort to sell as much of their in-hand inventory as possible in order to show a good profit for the year's business. Christmas is a time when many renew their faith in the Christian religion and with renewed faith in the welfare of their fellow men have a tendency to give gifts to their many friends.

In order to accomplish this task merchants call on the great advertising industry to help promote their products and thus we are deluged with magazines, catalogs, twice as thick newspapers than usual and innumerable commercials on TV. We can thank the government for establishing some ground rules in this latter category in that it limits advertising to a certain number of minutes per every half hour program, however, advertising agencies have found some way around such rules by shortening commercials from one minute messages to those lasting only thirty seconds or even twenty. But then what the hell, someone has to pay for the programs.

The point that amazes us that while the United States has the largest domestic market in the world and also has a G.N.P. (total goods and service sold) larger than the total G.N.P. of the rest of the world that so many of these commercials are the loudest advertising one can imagine. Of all the ads shown on TV not more than half can be called legitimate. That is the producer of the products shows its good points and allows the watcher to make up his own mind. These are what we believe called soft-sell in which the customer is more or less cajoled to purchase rather than strongly urged. A very small percentage are what might be termed as cute or at least draw a chuckle from the watcher and one buys the products just to keep on chucking. But a good many of them are absolutely ridiculous and products would never be bought under the circumstances shown.

The worst commercial, at least in our opinion, is the one relating to "Bounce" a product that softens clothes while being dried in the dryer. These ads usually show a group of idiots gathered around a counter telling each other how their clothes smell like dried fresh after having been washed four, five days or even a week before. Just what line dried fresh is I have not the faintest notion. Clothes smell either good or bad depending where they have been stored, not some damn piece of paper you threw into the drier. The climax of the whole ad is when the main speaker proudly proclaims: "But 'Bounce' doesn't stay in the store long." In short don't bother looking for it, all stores are sold out. Big deal.

A second class of stupid ads are those put out by the various divisions of the two or three large soap manufacturing companies. They not only compete with products of other companies but they heavily compete among their own divisions. Boy do the suds really fly here. "All purpose All cleans dirt", certainly, why do they think we wash clothes. Each product cleans better than any other, each produces brighter colors, each produces cleaner whites, etc., etc. Watching women in stores we notice that most go to one brand and pick it up. Apparently they have tried it, liked it, and continue using it because it gives results to their satisfaction, and no commercial is going to alter their opinion. So why don't soap companies go to a soft sell. Customers might buy the product because they liked the colors in the ads or the announcers face or if it was a female announcer, the way she dressed.

Another nauseating group are those ads which run a comparison test. Is it margarine or butter? Is it Blatz or Pabst? It should be obvious to the advertising agencies that there are people that can tell the difference. Yet such people never appear in the ads. So why run them? Everyone knows they are bunk.

There are some things in commercials, however, that are enlightening and educational. We noticed lately that advertising jewelers are showing rings, bracelets, necklaces, and such items which only a few years ago were shown in a price range of $150 to $200, and now are advertised at $1200 to $1900. I guess that tells us what inflation is all about. Furniture, rugs, and clothes also of course are higher than in the past, however, these items are advertised throughout the whole year and the increases are not as noticeable. Heavy concentration on jewelry ads only comes once a year and then increases in prices just go bang, bang.

In all fairness most commercials are rather calm and as pointed out to begin with the production of programs does have to be paid for. Then too the quality of programs has faded considerably and most of them are being watched in a kind of half asleep state, leaving little if any impression on the mind, be it program or commercial. It looks to us that manufacturers in order to sell their products will either have to up grade their TV programs or else look for a new media to proclaim the value of their products. Fortunately, Manchester has a good library so we'll entertain ourselves reading a book.

Manchester Industry

Manchester Stamping is now in the midst of building an addition for offices and a tool room. "We really expect to grow in the next year or so," said Marilyn Clark, bookkeeper for the company.

Manchester Stamping is diversified in its production of metal parts. General Motors, Chrysler, Ford, Tecumseh Products, Kelsey-Hayes, Double A and Hoover Universal are among its customers. Because it is diversified it has not been hurt badly by declining auto sales, even though the corporation does a lot of work for Ford. In addition to making various parts for engines and other automotive uses (brackets, metal clips for radio dials, etc.) Manchester Stamping produces decorative wall plates for Sears, the metal ends for toilet paper rollers, parts for the Briggs and Stratton Lawson lawn mower engine, among other items.

Max Kenyon, President and principal stockholder, started Manchester Plastics in 1968 with four machines and twelve people in a building not much larger than a garage at its present location on 500 W. Madison. The business grew and now has two locations, one the headquarters in Manchester and the other in Homer, Michigan, with over 165,000 square feet of plastic molding and warehouse space, and employs 50 people in Manchester and nine in Homer. (Because Manchester Plastics is automotive oriented, and auto sales have declined, Manchester Plastics sales have declined 20-25% in the last year, and employment is down from the usual 75 in Manchester, and from 50 in Homer.)

Manchester Plastics' work is mainly in interior trim for automobiles, especially with General Motors. The corporation helps in development as well as production of parts. An automobile, according to Charles Anteliff, purchasing agent for Manchester Plastics, now carries 195 pounds of plastic.

By 1965 that will be up to 360 pounds, to reduce weight and improve gasoline mileage. So new uses for plastics will develop.

Besides its work for automotive application, Manchester Plastics makes parts for the Meyers submersible pump (the housing-propeller assembly); filtering systems for Gelman Science Instruments (this out of polycarbonate, one of the strongest materials made—a bullet won't penetrate the substance); the digital Toledo scale; portable toilets and collectors for those toilets, for the recreational vehicle industry, among others. Parts range in size from as small as a thumb tack to as large as a door.

The largest of Manchester's industries is Double A Products Company with a work force of 400 in Manchester, and sales of nearly $30 million annually. Double A, a wholly owned subsidiary of Brown and Sharpe, manufactures fluid power equipment, hydraulic systems similar to the power steering in cars, for industrial machine operations, most typically for drilling and planing equipment.

Founded by Herbert H. Upton, Sr., Finley B. Riggs and C.W. Childs in Ann Arbor in 1934, Double A moved to Manchester in 1940. Local investors made it possible for the company to build a new factory at Division and Duncan Streets, where its headquarters is still located. Originally the company produced home power tools for Sears, Kresge, and other companies, and gun parts during World War II. But in 1947, Mr. Upton purchased a company that sold hydraulic valves, which paved the way for a new line of products. In the 1960's Double A phased out the home power equipment and concentrated solely on hydraulic equipment. In 1967 ownership of the company was transferred to Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing. Mr. Upton retired in 1962, and Clyde G. Nixon is now the President.

Double A's largest customer is the automotive industry, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The company produces hydraulic systems for the machinery that makes automobile engines and transmissions. The second largest customer is the plastic molding industry, including Hoover Universal.

Richard Lewis, Vice-president of Marketing for Double A, said that even though the auto industry has declined in sales, the government requires increased efficiency in cars. Improved efficiency means new designs and new designs require new equipment which Double A supplies. So Double A has not been harshly affected by declining auto sales.

Since its move to Manchester in 1940, Double A has grown from 35 employees to 1200 in all its locations. The company now has plants in Plymouth and London, England, Paris, France, Frankfort, Germany and Traverse City, Michigan, and has a field sales force in Europe. A new Double A plant is going up in Statesville, North Carolina. Locally, the Manchester plant has expanded its production, by adding more sophisticated equipment, and increasing the number of employees here by 10% in 1979.

Next week—a look at Hoover Universal, Manchester Products, Manchester Tool and Die, and companies currently thinking of moving to Manchester.

Student Council Dance

The '79-'80 Student Council of Manchester High School would like to extend a cordial invitation to the people of Manchester to enjoy with us a fun-filled night of dancing and refreshments on Friday, December 21, after the Middle School/High School Christmas Concert at the High School Auditorium.

The Boamers (formerly Wackenhut's Band of Manchester) will play music to set all dancing feet a-tapping from 9:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Admission is $2.00 per person, but people under 4 1/2 feet high will be admitted free! If you bring refreshments (such as cookies, brownies, nuts, etc.) you will also get in free! Profits will be donated to a Community Care Project to be decided upon later by the Student Council.

This school is an integral part of the community. It is time to more forcefully support each other so that we can all be the best we can be. Heaven knows we all need each other's support. The problems with, within, and without our schools are very real but NOT insurmountable if we can keep working hard and talking softly with each other.

And a party surely never hurts that I can tell.

Hope to see you on the 21st. If you have any questions concerning this get-together, please call one of the following student council members: Debbie Blossom, Theresa Ames, Mike Ball, Kathy Kenler, Bill Hagerman, Julie Moore, Laurie Fitzgerald, Susan Moessner, Vicki Lehr, Kathy Mahony, Beth Vleck, Colleen Zechunke, Melissa Bunney, Tammie Honer, Scott Hunt, Natalie Walkowke.

Thanks
Barbara Lund, Bill Scaletta

So You're Thinking Of Heating With Wood

In every great crisis there are those who are decisive, quick to respond, energetic in their actions-and, unfortunately, wrong.

This is a fictional account of a suburban homeowner who decided to take on the energy crisis single-handedly, and pretty much bumbled his way to a standstill.

The yarn has appeared in various forms and in various journals across the country in this moment of change-we present it here in the hope that it gives most of our readers a good chuckle, and that it keeps a few out of trouble.

One man's naive approach to firewood cutting may seem humorous, but wood heat is no joke for many Americans. And their number appears to be growing as more and more homeowners become aware of the wide variety of efficient wood heating systems. Some systems rely on the traditional designs that are inspired by the centuries-old Franklin stove. But a good many other systems use contemporary air-tight, controlled draft burners, some of which can be installed in existing fireplaces to heat half a house. Still other systems involve sophisticated hot water installations which use wood-fired boilers.

So wood may provide only 2% of the heating energy used in America today, as the experts say. But for many thousands of households, it provides 100% of the heat.

physical activity and good clean fun. The competition at these levels is not emphasized, rather we encourage participation, team play, and improvement through steady practice. There is no cost to play. The coaches are donating their time to help the kids.

The boys should wear tennis shoes, shorts or cut-offs, and a T-shirt. Again this year we will be ordering T-shirts for the boys to purchase.

As Varsity Basketball Coach, I will be involved with the kids, contact people from the community to help coach and oversee the entire program. Your help and suggestions are welcome.

The practice schedule is as follows:

manchester art guild news

Children of all ages are invited to join in the festivities of Children's Day at the Gallery. The Manchester Art Guild has set aside Saturday, December 15th as Children's Day, and only children will be allowed to visit the Gallery on this special day. Grandmother's helpers will greet children at the door between 10 and 4 and will help them explore Grandmother's country kitchen. Many Art Guild members have donated items especially for the "small" budget, and youngsters will receive help in making their selections. A gift wrapping center will provide paper, bags, crayons, gift tags, and all the necessary items for children to wrap and decorate their gift purchases.

Grandmother herself will be telling animated stories with the help of puppets and other friends. The story telling sessions have been scheduled at 10:30, 1:30, and 3:30. Youngsters who work up an appetite will be served cider, popcorn, apples, and pretzels. Traditional Christmas music will provide a backdrop for the festivities.

In addition to the activities planned for Children's Day, the Gallery will be open during extended hours through December 23rd. Many new items have been added throughout the exhibition "Over the River and Through the Woods: A Visit to Grandmother's". Recent additions include ceramic honey pots and lanterns, calico items of every description, and whimsical handcrafted Christmas tree ornaments. The Gallery will be open from 10-2 daily during the week before Christmas, along with the regular hours of Friday and Saturday, 7:30-9; Saturday, 10-4; and Sunday, 3-6. The Manchester Art Gallery is located at 138 E. Main Street.

Being a good soldier has never been easy. And today's Army asks only the best of you. After some very rugged training, you'll find out how tough you really are.

You may have to run miles in full battle dress.
You may find yourself helping to crew a 750-HP, 57-ton tank. It's hot and it's hard.

Or you may find yourself jumping out of airplanes. Scared at first. Then loving it.

Whatever the challenge, it won't be easy. You'll find out fast whether you can handle it.
You may even learn nothing's impossible.

and 3 junior varsity award winners along with some statistics.

First, we have the varsity with Susan Ahrens. Susan saw action in all 16 games in which she led the squad in offensive rebounds (41), steals (tied for lead with Alica Seegert with 49) and was the team's second highest scorer with 143 points. This is what helped her capture the Most Valuable Award. Next, we have Carol Rose who picked up the Coaches Award. Carol led the group in many categories of which some were attempted shots, shots made, free throws made, which is the reason she ran away with total points, 188. The 3rd girl who was voted Most Improved, played only 9 games and didn't lead but did something in each category from steals, rebounds to scoring-this is Julie Moore. Some of the other girls leading stat wise were Terri Stengel with her 100 rebounds while Deanna Clark followed closely grabbing 88. On the junior varsity level, things were

A MIRACLE IN OUR TIME

Whether we Americans realize it or not (and most of us don't), we have witnessed a miracle in our time, and it was performed by the men and women who grow our food.

Stop and think of the progress this country has made in the past 25 and 30 years-or even the last 10 years-Thirty years ago, we had very few dishwashers or clothes dryers in our homes. Jet planes, antibiotics, atomic energy, Salk vaccine, electronic computers, and electric can openers had hardly been heard of...two-car families and air conditioned homes were few and far between...and the list could go on and on.

Who's made this fantastic progress possible? Ask that question of the average person on the street, and you're sure to get a multitude of answers. Our scientists, inventors, and industrialists would surely be mentioned, as they rightly should be-but the farmer as an important force behind this country's progress would most likely be overlooked. There's probably a reason behind that, too. Farmers have become so efficient at producing great quantities of wholesome food that most of us take a full stomach for granted.

The rate of increase in output per farmworker since 1950-almost double that of nonfarm workers-is one of the basic reasons for the high standard of living enjoyed by Americans today.

There are several other reasons why we call the American farmer a miracle worker:

(1) Farmers have freed manpower. At the time of the American Revolution, this was a nation of farmers. Even 50 years ago, over one-fourth of all Americans were farmers. At present, less than 4 percent feed our nation while sharing more than 25 percent of their production with other countries. The remaining millions of people in America have been freed to produce other goods and services.

(2) Farmers have freed income. Fifty years ago, the average American had to spend 75-80 percent of his income on the basic requirements of life-food, clothing and shelter. Today, these essentials take about 60 percent; so the average family can spend 40 percent of its take-home pay for travel, recreation, education, health, and other things that add to life's quality.

(3) Farmers have freed time. The average work week in 1929 was 50-60 hours, compared to 35-40 hours now. And, paid vacations were few and far between 50 years ago. Many things have helped, but you can be sure that if food, fiber and shelter were still costing 80 percent of consumer spending, workers could not have reduced their work week.

(4) Farmers have freed space. When we were a nation of 107 million people, 350 million acres were required to grow our food and fiber. In recent years, we have harvested fewer than 300 million acres and our population has doubled.

These benefits-income, time, space, and better use of manpower-have all been vital to improving the quality of life for every member of society. Who benefits most?

Generally, we in America feel that he who makes progress possible should be rewarded for it. But the farmer, the person who has really made our improved level of living possible, often does not share proportionately in the profits. The real beneficiary of our great agricultural progress is the American consumer-the average American who feeds himself on only about 17 percent of his after-tax income. In this world in which we live, this is indeed a miracle. Surely the one who produced the miracle should share more equitably in it.

Thanks to Dr. Purfield and Dr. Dustin and all the nurses at Herrick Hospital, and a special thanks to Alms and Lee for getting me to the hospital, and thanks to everyone for all the beautiful cards and flowers.

Shirley Sehuman

THANK YOU MANCHESTER!

On behalf of the 1979 Manchester Varsity Football Team, we would like to thank the many loyal fans, friends and followers of Manchester and the surrounding area for their support, encouragement and enthusiasm during our successful football season.

We would personally like to thank our coaches for their many long hours of hard work they put in with us and the confidence they gave us. We would also like to thank our trainer, equipment manager and team managers.

We would also like to thank the following for their generosity and support: The Athletic Boosters Club, Manchester Merchants, Varsity Cheerleaders and our great and dedicated sportswriter and photographer, Jon Hardenbergh. Without him, Manchester football would be NIL.

Last, but certainly not least, we would like to thank all of our loving parents for all their support, confidence and patience during our football practice sessions (late summer months and evenings) and our successful season. We would particularly like to thank the parents that opened their homes to us on our Thursday night team meetings and the delicious food they served us.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to thank all my relatives and friends for cards and flowers while I was in the hospital and since my return home and a special thanks to Russel Wolf and Helen Braun.

Dutch Grossman

We would like to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their many acts of kindness shown to our mother and grandmother during her stay in Saline Hospital and after her death. A thank you to Rev. Sharai for his comforting words and the Jenter Funeral Home for their kindness shown to the family.

A special thank you to Dave Jose and Jim Kensler for the oxygen they supplied to get Mable to Saline Hospital on Sunday, November 11.

Lingering Symptoms Serious

A cough that lingers on after cold or flu symptoms have disappeared should not be ignored, says the American Lung Association. It may signal the beginnings of chronic bronchitis, a gradually developing respiratory disease. The Christmas Seal people urge cold or flu victims, especially those who smoke, to discuss lingering symptoms with their doctors.

Emphysema Kills 20,000 Each Year

More than 1.3 million people in this country suffer from the progressively fatal respiratory disease called emphysema, says the American Lung Association. Over 20,000 of them die each year. And nearly half must curtail their activities. The Christmas Seal people urge cigarette smokers to kick the habit so they can greatly reduce their chances of suffering from this serious respiratory disease.

School Board Minutes

These are the proposed minutes of the November 19, 1979 Board of Education meeting. They are not official until approved at the next regular meeting, along with any corrections made by the board.

November 19, 1979

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 P.M. in the Study Auditorium by President Carliss Mick.

ROLL CALL

Board members present: Bunney, Horning, DuFresne, Macomber, Mick, Curley and Walkowe. Absent -0-

President Mick informed the Board of 2 additional agenda items: 1a) Report on negotiations and 9a2) Resignation and consideration of the Ed Tubaug situation. Moved by DuFresne to include the above mentioned items on the agenda. Supported by Horning. All yeas. Motion carried.

COMMUNICATIONS

President Mick recognized Mr. Fred Schwarze at this time to report on negotiations.

Mr. Schwarze reported that 2 additional bargaining sessions have taken place since the last Board meeting. The last official offer from the Board increased the salary and added some fringe that had previously been offered in the 2nd year to the first year. This amounted to 1% or approximately $10,000 additional to the package on the table.

There was no official proposal or counter proposal back from the Association. Many unofficial ideas were carried back and forth between the 2 teams. The mediator suggested that both parties look at a possible compromise regarding the "grab bag" insurance. The meeting was adjourned by the mediator with the understanding that both sides would reflect on that possibility and discuss their views with the mediator the following Friday morning. The mediator said that he would set a meeting this coming Wednesday in Detroit.

Mr. Schwarze said he had been notified by the WLEA spokesman of the possibility of the Association applying for factfinding. At this time, there has been no formal notification of such action.

Moved by DuFresne to move to executive session for the sake of bringing the full Board to the point where they have a grasp on what alternatives the Board has. Supported by Walkowe. All yeas. Motion carried.

Mr. Gray, WLEA Spokesman, asked to make a statement before the Board moved to executive session. He stated that he had contacted the Michigan Employment Relations Commission that afternoon by phone and made a verbal request for binding factfinding on behalf of the Association.

He said the MEA is willing to return to work at 8:00 A.M. tomorrow morning if the Board is willing to submit all unresolved issues to binding factfinding.

The Board adjourned to executive session at 8:15 P.M.

The Board reconvened to open session at 8:37 P.M.

Mr. Schwarze said the Board had discussed several alternatives. However, it was his recommendation that the Board look into the possibility of an injunction.

Moved by DuFresne that the Superintendent of Schools employ legal counsel to immediately file a class action law suit against the WLEA, its officers, its negotiator, and its Manchester Unit members, seeking an injunction requiring the teachers in the Manchester School District to report for work and end their unlawful strike. Supported by Walkowe.

Mr. DuFresne added that contingent to this injunctive action by the courts that we continue with scheduled negotiations and every effort be made to settle. If all possibilities have been exhausted after meeting with the mediator, then perhaps seek the services of a factfinder.

Yeas: Curley, Horning, Walkowe, Bunney, Macomber, Mick and DuFresne. Nays -0-. Motion carried.

There were no questions regarding negotiations.

President Mick continued with the scheduled agenda items.

If any Board member is interested in being the Board representative to the Manchester Village Association, they should contact Dr. Thompson.

Moved by Bunney to accept the Superintendent's recommendation to set athletic event admission fees at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students for football and boys basketball and $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students for girls basketball, volleyball and wrestling. Supported by Horning.

Mr. Walkowe asked why the admission fees were more for boys than girls sports. Superintendent Thompson said we were bringing our admission fees in line with other LCAA schools.

Mr. Scaletta said one reason was the attendance factor of girls sports. Every school in our league is faced with this problem. We don't want to discourage the attendance we now have with a high admission charge.

more exciting-win-lose wise-having a 13-3 record. Unfortunately 2 of their 3 losses came to the same school, therefore we took 2nd in the L.C.A.A. Karri Agin was the squads leading scorer by popping for 119 points. Jenny Feidkamp received the Most Improved Award as she edged out Most Valuable Beth Vick in steals. Jenny snatched 60 while Beth grabbed 58. The girl to get the Coaches Award led in rebounds with 36-Jackie Droure.

Other sports goings on last week was the season opener against Blissfield for our wrestlers. It was a disaster as we won only 3 matches thru Todd Green, Jack Stein and Jeff Hawk. The final score including forfeits was 57 to 15. On Saturday, our grapplers competed in a tournament in which they took 10th place with Jack and Todd grabbing first for us.

Remember-the basketball squad treks to Clinton on Friday.

Manchester Industry Adapts To Change

By Sandra Volentine
Part II
The new meets the old at Manchester Products, Inc. Located in the old Ford Plant, 912 City Road, the company generates its own electricity from the Raisin River, using the original turbines installed in the building in 1941. Manchester Products is the fourth business to occupy the plant since Ford moved out in 1960.
Larry Bressler, President of Manchester Products (also plant manager for Chevas Products, Sterling Heights, and executive vice-president for Brooklyn Products) started the company in October 1977 with 4 people. The company now employs 17 people, and has at times employed nearly 30. Manchester Products manufactures door pulls for Fisher Body and Ford Motor Company, wax applicator pads for Dupont's Rain Dance wax, and a vinyl protector for door pulls for Chevas Products. Subcontract work for Chevas Products constitutes the largest part of Manchester Products

In Retrospect

This is the season when thoughts of Santa Claus are uppermost in our minds and in the hearts of our children, and there's no age limit for these "youngsters" either.

The other day we came across a copy of Psychology Today for December in which was a detailed discussion of "Santa Today and Yesterday", which dissects the attitudes of the children of 1896 and 1977, and compares attitudes and beliefs and asks if the Santa Claus legend is obsolete.

We are very glad to report that it is not, definitely so. There are a few minor differences in the present attitude of children towards the Santa legend but in their hearts Santa and his reindeer, his elves, his sleigh and all the trimmings remain the same as they did 80 years ago.

Research shows that the children in the 1-6 group are the prime believers in Santa but I don't think that is quite true. For example I too believe in Santa Claus, as firmly as the chap who answered Virginia's question asked so many years ago "is there a Santa?"

Of course when you get to be our age you appreciate what a job it is to collect and distribute all the things that be must during that night so that all the good little girls and boys can have their gifts on Christmas morning so we pitch in and help the ageless old fellow, but we do this all in the spirit of one of Santa's helpers.

In this article in Psychology Today the tale was told that a survey which had been made in Lincoln, Nebraska in 1896 was discovered and so the staff of the magazine went back there and did another survey to see if the Santa Claus legend had become obsolete as had been reported in some areas.

We are glad to report that it definitely has not. There are minor differences in the attitudes of children towards the legend but nothing basic. The results were surprisingly alike. We haven't strayed very far from our convictions as we grew up. We have indoctrinated our children with the same basic ideals.

Any minor infractions are probably due to their warped environment, our false sense of values and the stupidity of some of their elders. False images have been dangled in front of some of the children but a bit of research shows that those who have been "brung up" in the right environment with the proper assistance from their parents, are a bit better than those of 80 years ago. The youngsters of today have a wider horizon of awareness of their surroundings than had those of the previous generation.

We are a much more mobile people than we were 80 years ago and our children get out into the big wide world a lot more than the previous generation and Television, for instance, in spite of its shortcomings does have programs which widen their horizon. Sometimes we seem to have failed to teach our children the things that we should, but isn't this failure perhaps due to our material, our methods and our manner of presentation? Are our schools, our churches and our other influences and activities the things that need updating?

We're gonna have to take time to be parents and help to fit our children for life
