

INSOMNIA

"Early to bed and early to rise" supposedly is a prescription for health, wealth and wisdom, but if it works at all it depends on falling asleep quickly and waking rested. Unfortunately, many of us have trouble falling asleep, or staying asleep. Some have trouble every night; they suffer from chronic insomnia. Insomnia can be a very vexing problem because it is rarely caused by a physical illness. Often it is the result of anxiety or depression.

People who have insomnia usually get more sleep than they think but their sleep may not be as satisfying or restful. In any case, regular loss of sleep calls for a doctor's attention. But don't expect your doctor to prescribe sleeping pills right away. Most doctors prefer to treat insomnia by trying to alleviate the basic anxiety and tensions that keep you awake. Sleeping pills can be habit forming and most become less effective if taken regularly. That's true of over-the-counter drugs too. Most aren't very effective to begin with but they can become habit forming and can trigger reactions with another drug you might be taking.

There are some ways to promote sleep which might help. For example, have a regular sleep schedule; try going to bed and getting up at set times; avoid heavy or spicy foods or coffee or tea late in the evening; exercise regularly but avoid vigorous exercise in the evening; reserve an hour or so before bedtime for quiet activity like reading or listening to soft music; and consciously try to relax your muscles one by one starting with your toes and slowly progressing up through legs and torso. All of these can help create a mental and physical condition conducive to sleep.

If nothing else works, and your doctor does prescribe sleeping pills, follow his instructions carefully. His permission will be necessary to refill any such prescription so make sure you don't over-use the medication and take it only when absolutely necessary.

Degrees Received

A total of 1,713 students completed degree requirements at Purdue University in December.

Bachelor's degrees were awarded to 1,131 students while 129 received associate (two-year) degrees. In the two groups, approximately 86 graduated "with distinction." Ten percent of the candidates in each school who have the highest indexes, none of them with a grade-point average of less than 5.3 of a possible 6, receive their degrees "with distinction."

Some 45 students graduated "with highest distinction," a status conferred on approximately the top 3 percent of all distinguished students, regardless of school.

Advanced degrees were awarded to 453 students.

The December graduates, along with students who finished work for their degrees last August, will be eligible to participate in Purdue's 130th commencement in May.

Nancy L. Alexander, 10731 Bethel Church Rd., Manchester, received her Master of Science degree.

News Of Good Things Growing

Ethnic foods have always been popular in this country, because of the varied heritage we Americans enjoy. Most recent addition seems to be the foods of Mexico. Favorites in our southwestern states for many years, their popularity has spread in recent years to the Midwest.

You notice the proliferation of Mexican-style restaurants, and also the many chile varieties now appearing in our markets. Check your local farmers' market next summer and you'll find some of the different varieties of chiles. Although not in sizeable commercial production, they've joined the many other "good things growing in Michigan."

This week, a friend in New Mexico sent me some delicious recipes using chiles, dry edible beans, and other agricultural crops which are grown in Michigan. The spicy flavor of Mexican-type foods may take some getting-used-to, but you'll soon find the extra zip appealing.

Here's a recipe for Corn and Cheese casserole that will perk up a dull winter day.

Combine one 12-oz. can of whole kernel corn, drained, with one-quarter to one-half cup chopped green chile (canned, fresh or frozen). Place in a shallow greased baking dish. Add 1½ cups grated cheddar cheese, top with 1 cup cracker crumbs. Combine ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted butter, a dash of salt and pepper, and pour over the corn mixture. Bake at 375 degrees about 25 minutes. You may add a layer of sliced cooked ham or crisp bacon, if you wish.

The Ann Arbor Handweavers Guild is an educational organization dedicated to the enjoyment of weaving through the sharing of weaving experiences and information. Formed in 1956, the Guild is composed of over 70 weavers having a wide range of experience, including artists with state wide recognition.

MATS Meeting Set For March 10

The Manchester Association For Talented Students will be meeting Wednesday, March 10, 7:00 p.m. at the High School, Room 110.

It is a crime when really talented, bright children are ashamed of the gifts God gave them! They should be able to be just as proud of their talents as our star athletes are of their specialty. Come and share your ideas about how we might encourage this attitude.

Nondus Buss will be with us to present the program she is originating at the Middle School. She will also be available to answer questions.

We would like to see all of you there: the curious, the workers, the anxious, the idea people, but mostly the concerned.

Bloodmobile-March 29

On March 29 there is a very important Bloodmobile at Manchester United Methodist Church from 12 to 6 p.m. The quota for this annual spring clinic is 200/250 pints.

For example there are 200 cases of open heart surgery in the 5 county Southeastern Michigan Blood Center area per month and 25% of those are done at the Ann Arbor Hospitals. Our Blood Club is a major factor in furnishing blood for this area.

For this reason a number of Manchester Blood donors have answered the call recently when they were called by Ann Arbor Hospitals to help with open heart surgery. Those of you who gave will be pleased to know that your generous donation was credited to Manchester and that we are very proud of you.

The churches in the area are organized for this drive and their recruiters are already working, as follows: Bethel United Church of Christ, Mrs. Victor Mann; Emanuel United Church of Christ, Mrs. James Kensler; Manchester United Methodist Church, Mrs. Dennis Helfrich; St. Mary's Catholic Church, Mrs. William Schwab; Sharon United Methodist Church, Mrs. Willis Uphause; North Sharon Bible Church, Mrs. Joe Lantis; Iron Creek Community Church, Mrs. Ruth Donko; Faith Community Church, Miss Lynn Gonyer; St. Thomas Lutheran Church, Mrs. Judy Hazen; Zion Lutheran Church, Reverend John Morris; Victory Baptist Church, Reverend Clare Gleason; and St. John's Lutheran Church, Bridgewater, Mrs. Armbruster (office phone 428-7644).

Call your church recruiter if not already contacted, before March 22nd as these registrations should be in the hands of the Chairman-of-the-Day, Mrs. Robert Little, by that date. If convenient to reach her put your cards in an envelope and drop them off at "The Clothes Line".

For two weeks before the Bloodmobile there will be 4 drop boxes for donors to use. Each of the banks: Ann Arbor Bank and Trust, National Bank of Jackson on Main Street and Great Lakes Federal and A & B Market - Manchester IGA store, will have displays of cards and drop boxes for registration of donors. Donors will receive their cards back by the 26th of March giving them their exact time of appointment.

Local industries will begin their scheduling a week to a week and a half before the 29th. Each has its own system of supporting the Red Cross Blood Program for which they supply about half the quota for the area.

Blood cannot be replaced by money. It must come from the hundreds of volunteer donors who come to Red Cross Bloodmobiles every week to serve their fellowman. If you are 17 through 65 and in good health you probably can be a donor. The Red Cross and Manchester are counting on you now - March 29th. (Seventeen year olds do not have to bring a parental release in order to give blood anymore.)

Mens Club Meeting

The Manchester Mens Club will hold their regular meeting on Thursday, March 18 at the Bauernstube Restaurant. Cocktail hour will be from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. with dinner following.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Jim Fielder.

Everyone is invited to bring a friend.

Outstanding Citizen of the Month

The Optimist Club Outstanding Citizen of the Month for March is Eric Duncan, a senior at Manchester High. The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, 400 East Main Street, Eric has participated in track three years, cross country for three years, basketball for four years, the band and pep band one year and has been a cast member in school plays. He has also been a member of the High School Varsity Choir four years. In addition to his school activities, Eric is active in the youth group of Faith Community Church. This past summer he participated in a 2,000 mile bike trip with the church group.

Eric, whose hobbies include running, swimming, skiing and cooking, plans to attend Central Michigan University in the fall of 1982 to major in speech pathology.

Black Sheep Theatre To Open 1982 Season

The Black Sheep Theatre of Manchester will open its 1982 theatre season with a production of George Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion on Friday, March 19. The play will run three consecutive weekends with performances Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15 p.m. and a Sunday matinee at 4:00 p.m.

Pygmalion, one of Shaw's best known works, takes its title from the Greek legend of a sculptor who falls so much in love with a beautiful statue he has created, that the gods take pity and bring the marble image to life. In this adaptation, the artist is Professor Henry Higgins, a phonetics expert, and his work of art is the transformation of a Cockney flower girl, Eliza Doolittle, into a flawlessly spoken Victorian lady. Complications ensue, since Eliza was flesh and blood to begin with and eventually resents her status as an experiment. The play follows very closely the action of its most recent adaptation, the musical My Fair Lady.

Ticket prices for all performances are $7 - regular admission, $5 - seniors over sixty and college students, and $2 - youth admission, under eighteen years. Group rates are available. Reservations can be made at the box office, noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, by phone (313) 428-9280.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Residents and Voters of Township:

In the 46 years that I have been a voting resident of Bridgewater Township, I feel the voters have used good judgement in the selection of their Township officers. I was privileged to serve as a Trustee for about 20 years. With John Narcross and Russell Hughes as Supervisors, Harold Bessinger as Treasurer, Charles Spence and Lewis Blaisdell as Clerk, Edgar Randall, Burton Stadler, Norman Randall, Lewis Blaisdell and Andrew Poet as fellow Trustees, I made it a practice to attend nearly all of the regular and special Board meetings. Not once did I witness any underhanded business. I felt we used the Township monies to the best of our ability. Bridgewater Township has not had a history of high salaries for the officers as some will lead you to believe. If it is time to change the Township Board, as the members of the Bridgewater Action Committee seem to feel, and I am sure they like to get as much benefit from their tax dollars as the rest of us do, how does it make sense to saddle us with the cost of 1 or 2 special elections to do this when they can do it at the regular election at no extra cost, in an honorable way. I cannot tell you how to vote March 23, but please go to the polls to vote the way your common sense tells you to.

Sincerely,
a fellow resident voter and taxpayer,
Theodore (Ted) Parker

At the June Planning Commission meeting it was noted that the terms of three of the Planning Commission members were expired and that the Township Board should be informed to reappoint or fill the vacancies with new people, but when the Planning Commission met in September this still was not done. At that meeting Mr. Harvemberg said that we must have the annual election for Chairman, Vice Chairman and Secretary, but as the reappointments were not made we will assume the members will be reappointed and, after declaring his candidacy for chairman, the election was held. This was clearly illegal, the manner in which the election proceeded was undemocratic and his statement unethical. A written formal complaint was lodged with Doug Parr the following day and he suggested that a petition be drawn up to rotate Planning Commission members when their terms expired, provided he had new people willing to serve.

This was done and new people volunteered for the positions. But in November, the Township Board reappointed Mr. Harvemberg and two other members of the Planning Commission. When the decision was questioned Doug Parr said he had no proof of what happened at that Planning Commission meeting. I protested the election at the December Planning Commission meeting, but Mr. Harvemberg said he was instructed by Doug Parr to hold another election anyway.

Only after mailing out over 100 letters to residents of the township asking for their inputs and opinions and if needed their backing (95% in favor of recall) was the decision for the recall drive made.

Gabe Dull
12650 Clinton Rd.

To the Editor:

At this time, a lot of rumors are spreading around Bridgewater. I would like to take the opportunity to clarify these rumors.

At this time, Mr. Gabe Dull or myself have any political ambitions. We are only concerned with possible high density development of Bridgewater and how this growth will change the rural way of life we have come to love.

The 10 acres has become a big issue. Bigger even, than the fact our government officials have broken many rules and denied citizens their constitutional rights. The main reason we need 10 acres is to keep Bridgewater sparsely populated and open. Also to keep out sewers and to hold public services to a minimum. There is a rumor that we must annex to Clinton before sewers can be run into Bridgewater. This is not true. As a matter of fact, it was said by the Township Board, that they had to rezone land adjacent to Clinton to make access to the new sewage plant. Farmland will be saved by keeping sewers out of the township and with a drastic renovation by the state legislature of our property tax system. Farmland can not be saved with row-housing, sub-divisions and major rezoning which our Township Board insist we need. A Ten acre minimum is just one step in keeping low density housing and in keeping the sewers out. This decision along with other major decisions should be put to a public vote. The majority should decide with a public vote. Something that the Board has denied us. Apparently, the only way we are going to get a public vote is to recall the Board on March 23 and replace them with township representation instead of the Democratic program. Or we can wait until 1984 when their terms expire. The question is, will it be late in 1984?

Michigan State Wrestling Finals

On March 5th and 6th, the Michigan State Wrestling Finals was held in Middleville, near Grand Rapids. Dan Flick, our only qualifier, wrestled his first match against Ron Schrink (Mason County Central) and lost by the score 13-3. In his second match, Dan pinned Harold Gump (Bronson) and then lost his third match of the day to Jody McDowell (Byron Center).

When Dan lost his second match, he was eliminated from the tournament. Dan finished in the top 12 wrestlers in his weight class out of 104 Class C schools. Some of the other league schools that were represented at State, made a strong showing. Dundee placed 5th, Hudson placed 9th, and Addison placed 13th. At this time the Manchester Wrestling team would like to thank the many people that have supported us during this past season.

History Of The Dorr School District

Written by Florence Reno Lyon (deceased 1979) Sharon Hollow Rd.

When I was asked to write something about the history of the Dorr School District I felt rather inadequate for the task, and demurred. I tried to get some other member of my family to write it, but since they, too, said they did not know how, and since I felt the family honor was at stake I attempted to think of something I might write. I went to bed that night with the thing resting rather heavily on my mind, and cudgled my brain aiver I retired, but all to no avail. At length I fell asleep, and after wandering for a time in the land of dreams I seemed to be standing in a low frame building. There were large cracks in the floor and chinks in the wall through which a cold March wind was blowing despite the fact that the large rectangular stove was glowing with red heat. I glanced about the room in which a number of men sat in earnest conversation. At first glance I did not seem to know them, and then they began to assume familiarity of countenance. At first I recognized Couch C. Dorr, and sitting beside him Alexander Brooks. On the other side of the room I saw a small man whom, at first I did not recognize, and then as he arose and began to talk I realized it was Amariah Hitchcock. The man sitting beside him I then recognized as Henry O'Neil. By this time I began to get oriented and had no difficulty in naming to myself Lewis Hayes, Jacob Haselschwerdt, a number of his sons, Conrad, David, John, and Sam, Henry Reno, and Ben Lawrence. I think there were a few others, but you know how unreliable a dream is. After I had realized who they were I began to give my attention to what they were talking about. They were discussing the fact that they needed a new schoolhouse very badly. After discussing as to how many years they would have to spread the taxes not to make it too burdensome and had agreed they must build it as soon as possible, they began to discuss the site. (One of the men had a newspaper sticking out of his pocket and in trying to orient myself I looked at the date and saw that it was 1890.) Mr. Dorr arose and said of course he didn't want to be selfish but the schoolhouse site had been given by his grandfather for a school site and to be used for that as long as it was needed for that purpose. When no longer used for that purpose it was to revert to the estate. Alexander Brooks rose and said that he thought his children had always had to go too far to school and that it should be in some place more central. At that, Jacob Haselschwerdt rose and said that he would be willing to give a site for a schoolhouse north of the big maple tree which stands about a quarter of a mile east of where his own buildings were located. Amariah Hitchcock rose and said that he thought that was too far from his farm and since he was probably the largest tax payer in the district he thought some consideration should be given to him. At this, Ben Lawrence leaned forward to say something to John Haselschwerdt. I listened to hear him say "Well, Amariah hasn't so very many children to send". They discussed it a little heated, and then again as they remembered they were all neighbors they calmed down and anyway it was a common interest. The hour began to grow late when finally one man whose face I do not well remember rose and said "Well, we don't seem to be getting anywhere so far as the site is concerned, I move we adjourn. I have to take a load of wood to Grass Lake tomorrow and you know that's an all day's job". At that moment a raucous automobile horn outside my window awoke me rudely. As I lay there in a half daze the thought came to me that it was a far cry from its taking all day to go to Grass Lake and back and the speed made by the automobile that had awakened me. As I came back to consciousness I thought "Well, where was the schoolhouse finally built?" and immediately knew it was built on the old site. I tried to imagine why it was. I thought at first it might have been Couch Dorr's Yankee shrewdness, Henry O'Neil's flair for the law and legal end of it, or possibly Henry Reno thought so long to some of them that, in despair they gave in, but when I thought it over I realized that there was probably just as much talent on the other side, and that probably habit, the fact that the other schoolhouse had always stood there, was the thing that finally decided it.

After I had again dropped back to sleep I again seemed to find myself in a schoolhouse, but this time it was the one that had replaced the old one I had dreamed about before. School was in session. The teacher's face was hazy in my memory when I woke, but I could recall very clearly most of the pupils. Sitting in the back seat on the west side of the schoolhouse were two girls whom I recognized as Norma O'Neil and Effie Haselschwerdt. Sitting in front of them were George Wolfe and Bernice, better known as "Park" O'Neil. Down in the front seat on the same row, while not one of the smaller pupils, sat Earl Dorr. If you do not know why, and Earl is here today I imagine he will tell you. In the back seat on the other side Jennie Dresselhouse and Florence Reno were sitting. In front of

Camp Fire Celebrates 72nd Birthday With Projects, Parties

Camp Fire girls and boys are celebrating the youth agency's 72nd birthday with projects and parties based on the theme "I Love Camp Fire." Camp Fire Founder's Day is March 17, and birthday week is March 14-20.

To kick off the week - long celebration, members of the Washtenaw Camp Fire Council will be participating in a new national birthday project called "Celebrate Camp Fire." One of the activities will include setting up displays in local schools to inform others about Camp Fire.

To encourage family togetherness, the Washtenaw Council has scheduled a "Family Fun Night", which will include dinner and square dancing, to be held March 19th, 6:30 till 9:30 at the St. Joseph Catholic Church. Tickets will be sold in advance by Camp Fire adults for $1.50 donation. The evening entertainment will be provided by the Teddy Bears, a professional square dance group and caller. Anyone interested may call the Camp Fire office at 484-0900.

The Washtenaw Council of Camp Fire was founded in 1977 and has serviced over 1,000 boys and girls and their families. The national organization, formerly called Camp Fire Girls, was founded in 1910 in Maine by Dr. Luther Gulick and his wife Charlotte Gulick. Today members include girls and boys, with over 800 councils throughout the United States.

We Camp Fire

Who loves Camp Fire? The girls and boys who belong... the women and men who volunteer to help... the communities Camp Fire serves. If they could talk, lots of trees would tell you they love Camp Fire, too. Because they were planted by Camp Fire girls and boys. You might also hear a few loving chirps from the bluebirds Camp Fire is working to save.

Why do they all love Camp Fire? Because with caring and sharing and just plain fun, Camp Fire's been loving them back for 72 years. Camp Fire. You'll love it, too.

Hit or Miss by Farley

I received my first seed catalog for 1982 some time ago and just now got around to reading it carefully. The snow is disappearing and so it is time for growing things.

In the back of this catalog was several pages devoted to "Lawns and Their Care". It seemed to us that it was time to consider lawns and so we read these pages carefully, and these pages really stressed the word "care".

However I read an article the other day that promotes disbelief in the above mentioned facts about lawns. The author of this tale, Ellen Goodman and I concur about lawns. She says:

"I sneer at lawns. Those thick, plush emerald stretches of natural Astro-turf that look as if they were taken up and in and redone every week or so. It makes me want to go around planting crabgrass helter skelter on their unblemished surface.

The fact is that I hate lawns. It strikes me as being absurd that all of these little green things are sticking out all across the landscape. Things that people devote hours of labor, gallons of water and hours of attention to the care and maintenance of something as parasitic as a lawn.

There are two kinds of people in the backyard world: people who grow grass and people who grow vegetables. I believe that grass growers do it all for show—the lawn does not give them food, nor shade nor anything else.

It is the perfect example of a leech, something that takes but does not give. The more you care for it the more it demands. Give it water and it wants mowing, fertilize it and it all needs edging. You can't win.

Once upon a time I was a grass grower when I first was married and we lived in a house with nearly an acre of grass and I assumed all of its care. I felt obligated for the care of all of it plus a large garden out in back.

But the lawn did nothing for me except give me many sore muscles most every time I mowed it—a hand mower was what one used in those days, while the garden out back rewarded my efforts with a host of fresh tender goodies from the vegetable kingdom.

But by the time the first summer was over, I was very anti-lawn. I was really mad at the water guzzling, time consuming show off that didn't do a thing for me. Lawns are merely proof that we are so well off that we condone indolence and uselessness. A lawn merely supports a host of turf builders, weed killers, fertilizer salesmen and one class of professional so called gardeners who rake in all of the above tonics at a cost of about two cents a square foot or about $900.00 an acre.

The next year half of my lawn was a vegetable garden for vegetables have a conscience. Just offer them water and they perk right up and ask to be eaten. Tomatoes seem to feel a moral obligation to return your efforts with a salad and never ask for more. And one never has to mow zucchini. One merely has to find enough friends to eat it.

But come spring shortly, I hope, spring will be here and the lawn will grow and I will mow it and when I look at it and its condition, I suppose that I shall, in order to maintain my social status, I will buy hoses and fertilizers and get the mower sharpened and continue to be at the mercy of the blasted lawn.

Down in Cold Springs, Pa., there was a law on the books for many years prohibiting a man from buying liquor without his wife's permission.

The simplest of humidifiers is a bowl of water in front of a hot air outlet.

The Manchester Enterprise Presents 2nd Annual Organ Concert

The Sharon United Methodist Church will present its Second Annual Organ Concert March 21, 1982, at 8:00 in the afternoon, featuring Douglas Spike playing the Church's Austin Classical Pipe Organ. The Austin Organ was installed in the Sharon Church in 1942 and today is a finely kept example of this romantic period organ with electro-pneumatic stops.

Douglas Spike, son of Lowell and Carol Spike of Grass Lake, is a 1964 graduate of Manchester High School. Doug is currently working as an agriculture teacher at the Bloomfield Hills School Farm. Doug has been church organist at the Jonesville Presbyterian Church and currently substitutes in the Bloomfield Hills area.

The Sharon Church invites you to attend the concert and the hymn singing just before it, March 21, 1982, at 8:00 p.m. at the corner of M-52 and Pleasant Lake Road. Mrs. Marion Voegeding our head organist will lead the hymns. Admission is free, parking is available north of the Church, and a free will offering will be taken to defray costs.

Covenant Players To Perform At Methodist Church

The Covenant Players of Reseda, California will be making a return engagement to the Manchester area on Wednesday evening, March 17, at 7:30 at the Manchester United Methodist Church. This is the fourth event in the Community Lenten Worship and Programs sponsored by the Manchester Churches.

A Christian drama group, the Covenant Players try to bring to its audience an understanding of the gospel and the message of Jesus Christ from a dramatic point of view. It is also an evening when the whole family may benefit together from this special and unusual worship and learning experience.

A short worship service will precede the Covenant Players presentation. Taking part in this service will be Reverend Ronald Iris bringing a Lenten message. Mr. Tom Schulte singing a solo, and the host Pastor Thomas Hart the Liturgist. The whole community is welcome to attend on Wednesday, March 17th at 7:30 p.m. and the Fellowship time after the service.

Historical Society Meeting

"The Good Old Days, Were They or Weren't They?" will be the question addressed by the Manchester Historical Society at their March meeting to be held at the society's newly acquired headquarters, the old Blacksmith Shop (on East Main St.) on Monday, March 15 at 8:00 p.m.

Sandy Knapp will open the program with a song that begs the question and then Marsha Chartrand, as a curious young mother and housewife, will interview a panel of her elders consisting of Ethel Brown, Jeanette Kirk and Margaret Kulenkamp, drawing out the stories of how they, their mothers and grandmothers coped in more strenuous, though simpler times. It is expected that their observations will serve as "an invitation to memory" so there will be time for members of the audience to add their comments on "how it really was".

Everyone is welcome to come, listen, reflect, and then cast their ballot in a straw vote. "The good old days, were they or weren't they?"

Senior Meals

The Senior Meal menu for Tuesday, March 16 is Ham & Egg Casserole, Salad, Bread and Butter, Dessert, Coffee, Tea, and Milk.

Exercise Classes, which are especially planned for Seniors, are held on Tuesdays at 11:00 a.m. before the meal.

An Arts and Craft Program is available for interested Seniors following the Thursday meal.

them the inseparables, Olga Wolfe and Susie Dorr. Scattered about the room in different places I saw Elmer Dresselhouse, Lewis and Ray Hasselschwerdt, Mabel Dresselhouse, Minnie Belle O'Neil. There was one little boy whom at first I did not recognize with long brown curls, and then I realized it was Willie Dresselhouse. I'm not sure whether he came to school, or whether he was just visiting. There may have been others, but these are all I remember just now.

As my dream began the teacher seemed to be rather angry, the older pupils looked rather sullen, and the smaller ones frightened. I saw one of the older boys look at the smaller ones, and in a whisper say "You tell what you know and see what happens to you". I saw Norma lean over toward "Park" and say "You behave or I'll tell Pa". The teacher turned her, or her, back for a second and faced her pupils just a fraction of a second too soon - alas a paper had hit him squarely in the eye. If he had been righteously indignant before, he was livid with wrath now. "Who threw that paper wad?" the teacher roared. Silence reigned, not even broken by a breath. Then the teacher addressed himself to one of the pupils personally - "Who threw that paper wad?" "I don't know," replied the pupil "I was studying". "But" countered the teacher "you were not studying when I saw you". "No, but I had just gotten through" imperturbably replied the pupil. The teacher heaved a weary sigh. What could one do with such a lot of pupils? Before this was solved, or before I discovered what was the matter in the first place, I again woke. Again, after I had made myself believe it was the year 1984 instead of some few years earlier I began to wonder what the mischief was that the children were about to be punished, aside from the paper wad throwing. My guess was that it probably was that the children had gone to the pond down at the Four Corners for the noon hour, and had found it so enticed that they had neglected to come back when the hour was up, or that possibly it was Winter and they had been sliding down the long hill to the east of the schoolhouse, and either did not hear the bell ring, or else in defiance of it had slid down the hill a few more times.

Again I slumbered, and evidently it grew to be toward morning so that my subconscious mind began to remind me that it was nearly time to get up, for I seemed to be thinking that I should be wending my way toward the schoolhouse this time in the capacity of teacher. As I walked along I was planning my work for the day. In the 8th grade were Carrie Washburne and Robert Lawrence, in the 7th Hazel Dresselhouse and George Lawrence, yes, they kept me plenty busy answering all of the questions they could think of. I hope when they taught they had some keenninded youngsters who kept them on their toes, and as I looked as I got on top of the hill where the schoolhouse stands I could see coming from the south toward the four corners Hazel walking along holding onto Merle's hand and saying to the twins, Ruth and Ruby, as they walked along holding as usual onto each other's hands and laughing and whispering to each other as they walked along "Now remember, Mama said you were to walk along and not make Merle and I wait for you". A little ahead of them were four other children, what? another pair of twins? yes, Edith and Ethel Brustle. Their faxen curls were blowing in the wind and they seemed to fly along rather than walk. Emil was carrying most of the dinner pails and trying to keep Harold and Edith and Ethel together and not succeeding any too well. From the west of the four corners the Washburne children were coming - Carrie, James and Laura. Who were those two little girls coming from the East? O yes, Eva and Verena Hasselschwerdt, and the two big boys coming along behind them, O yes, that was the Lawrence boys. Just then I awoke and thought "Well, a fine day's work I'll do today if I don't stop dreaming about North Sharon", and I turned on my side and went back to sleep.

HOUSE CALL

OVER THE COUNTER DRUGS

Self medication has an ancient, if not entirely honorable, history in this country. It goes back to the peddlers of magic elixirs and potions who used to thrive in the not-too-long ago. Today we don't see these patent-medicine salesmen hawking their wares on our street corners. But we do see all kinds of over-the-counter medicines advertised on radio and television, including pain relievers, appetite suppressants, cough medicines, antacids, vitamins, laxatives, and all sorts of salves and ointments.

Just what is the difference between a prescription medicine and an over-the-counter medicine? The Food and Drug Administration classifies drugs either as prescription only or as available without a doctor's prescription as long as directions can be provided for safe use. Before approving a drug for over-the-counter sales, the FDA requires evidence that the ingredients are safe and effective. However there is no such thing as a guaranteed safe drug. Even aspirin, the most widely used drug in the world, can have severe adverse effects for some people and, taken in large doses can even be fatal. So just because a drug can be sold over the counter doesn't mean it can't be harmful!

An over-the-counter drug is usually not meant to cure a condition but to treat the minor symptoms of relief. Improper use can aggravate symptoms or even hide a condition that needs a doctor's attention. When buying an over-the-counter drug, make sure you read the label carefully to understand what it's meant to do, how much should be taken for how long, and also to know the warnings about who should not take the drug.

Above all, familiarize yourself with ingredients you should not take - such as

New Law Adopted

If you drive and carry young children in your car, there's a new Michigan law you should know about.

The law, to go into effect April 1 of this year, requires all infants under four years of age to be protected when riding in vehicles.

How do you protect an infant riding in a vehicle?
Two ways—with child restraints or with seat belts.

The new law requires all infants under four to be placed in infant restraints when carried in front seats. Children between one and four in the back seat may be put in seat belts, but children under one must always be held in a restraint device whether carried in the front or back seat.

In 1980, 26 children under four were killed and 3,331 injured in Michigan highway accidents. The new law is expected to substantially reduce these deaths and injuries.

More information on Michigan's new child restraint law is available at all Secretary of State branch offices.

Associate Director To Speak At Lenten Services

Janet Palrud, Associate Director of Michigan Church World Service/CROP, will speak at the March 24, 1982 Community Lenten Services, at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Manchester. The service begins at 7:30 p.m.

CROP is the branch of Church World Service that tries to educate the public on world hunger and poverty. The Manchester Churches have been making donations to CROP's work for a number of years, and welcome this opportunity to hear of the work of Church World Service. You may have heard of CROP through its many Walks For Hunger in Michigan.

Ms. Palrud is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in Agricultural Economics. She has been working for CROP of the past four years. In 1979 she spent two weeks in Jamaica studying hunger in the Third World countries. Just this January she spent three weeks in India studying how that country responds to hunger and poverty.

A highlight of the trip to India was a visit with Mother Theresa of Calcutta. "She is simply beautiful," says Janet. "She greeted each of us with her warm hand and soft eyes. Not wasting a minute she told about her work with the dying of Calcutta and her life in Christ. 'We must feed the hungry and help the poor,' she says, 'but it is even harder to give them our love...and there are more people who are hungry for love than anything else. Begin with a smile and begin with your own families and then reach out in love, love, love until it hurts!'"

The public is invited to the March 24, 1982 Community Lenten Service at St. Mary's Church at 7:30 p.m.

Hit or Miss by Farley

Back in the 1880's there was a poet who became quite popular with the "masses" and who, it always seemed to me, a rather bitter outlook on life but whose poems, in any instances, are as appropriate today as they were then. For instance in one of his poems he wrote:

"God give us men at a time like this
Men with a conscience who will not lie;
Men with a conscience whom the lust of money will not buy."

All of which is surely as much needed now as then.

And then in another of his poems he wrote:
"There is a destiny that shapes our ends,
Rough hew them as we may.
We hope, we struggle, we aspire, we pray,
But our feet still cling to the common clay.
And we mount to its summit round by round."

My father, who loved to quote this verse insisted that the verse was mis-punctuated and that the first line should have read "there is a destiny which shapes our ends rough," which is quite true.

In several parts of the country we notice of late, that various factions are advocating the resurrection of the Civilian Conservation Corps which was introduced by President Roosevelt in 1933 to get the unemployed young men who were out of work and out of school off the streets and doing something useful.

These fellows signed up for CCC and were sent to barracks built near their areas and were put to work repairing roads and bridges, cleaning up our fields and streams and our forest areas, etc. For this they were paid $30 a month and their food and clothing furnished. Of this they were required to send $25.00 a month home and were given $5.00 for spending money.

This $25.00 gave the folks back home a lift in their standard of living for these were the days when bread was a dime, hamburger a dime and pork steak 14 cents a pound and even a can of sardines as little as a dime.

Nina Babcock, editor emerita of the Cedar Springs newspaper is one advocating such procedure and she interviewed several of the chaps who went to these CCC camps. Now of retirement age these fellows had many pleasant memories of the camps in 1933 and 1934 and said that it saved the morale of many of the inhabitants. It also greatly aided families impoverished by the depression.

The 50th anniversary of the CCC is near at hand and we are celebrating the 100th anniversary of Roosevelt's birth.

The Corps was deactivated in 1942. The country was at war then and needed every able bodied man to be employed in the war effort.

The law enacted by Congress in 1932 and active until 1942 was put on the shelf as there was work for every man in the country, but couldn't that law be reactivated now and get thousands of young men off the streets and into some form of useful employment?

The winner of a million dollar lottery is looking for a job, making prospective employers wonder how much he is willing to offer.

One morning when he was on an assignment for an Indianapolis newspaper, James Whitcomb Riley stopped to pat a dog on the street. The dog took to him at once and followed him back to the newspaper office.

Riley made no attempt to discourage the animal. They walked inside together and up to his desk and the dog stretched out at his feet.

Later in the day the dog's owner came into the office and placed an ad offering a reward for the animal's return. As he was leaving he passed Riley's desk and spotted his pet.

"There's my dog. 'What's he doing here?'" Riley quickly responded, "Our advertising brings quick results."

Aging is a condition accompanied by the realization that you have prematurely gray hair.

Red Cross Bloodmobile

Monday, March 29, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Manchester United Methodist Church, 501 Ann Arbor Street from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Anyone from 17 years of age through 65 who is in good health is urged to make an appointment and come to give blood to meet the urgent need in Southeastern Michigan. You may make an appointment by signing a card and dropping it in a box at four different sites—Ann Arbor Bank and Trust, Great Lakes Federal, National Bank of Jackson (Main Street) and the A & R ICA Market, all in Manchester. Every industry in the area will be scheduling donors in the next two weeks and all churches in the area have recruiters whom you may contact.

If you have specific questions, contact the Chairman-of-the-Day, Mrs. Robert Little, 428-6888; Mrs. Franklin Reck, 428-8662 or Blood Services at the American Red Cross in Ann Arbor, 971-5300.

Giving blood to help a neighbor, or oftentimes unexpectedly to a member of your own family is not a new experience in Manchester. This area has been affiliated with the Red Cross Blood Program since its inception in Washtenaw County in March 1951.

There are still many people in the area however who don't really understand a Bloodmobile's function. It means free blood at all hospitals in the Southeastern Michigan five county area and also most parts of the United States for accident and surgery victims. When one is due to have surgery, indicating that blood is needed, the Red Cross is notified and the blood is there and ready at the right time. Regular Bloodmobiles throughout the area usually keep this supply in proper control. If however there is a short supply for a certain type, extra requests are sent out by TV, newspapers and phone calls to known donors to be sure the right kind of blood is on hand for the surgery. When you give blood you help keep this process flowing smoothly.

For this reason the March 29th Bloodmobile is urged to collect 200 to 250 pints of blood or more to meet the regular schedule. If you have never donated blood before you may just want to come by and see what goes on. You are welcome.

Substance Abuse Awareness Committee

A growing concern over substance abuse among Manchester youth prompted the formation of this committee. Substance abuse related to drugs, alcohol, and tobacco. S.A.A.C. is co-chaired by Brian Schiek, Middle School Principal and William Zsenyuk, Village Administrator. Other committee members include Carol Wiethoff, Sandy King, Janice Hammond, Kathy Aiuto, Don Steele, James Kappler and Dr. Monte Okey.

The first goal of S.A.A.C. is to develop a presentation which will be relevant to Manchester and informative to its populace. The program will be designed for adult participation.

The informational meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, April 22. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Middle School gymnasium. Part of the program will call for audience input to identify community concerns, direction for this committee, and future topics/suggestions. Babysitting services will be available for parents who find it necessary to bring their children with them in order to attend.

We appreciate your support and sharing our concern and are anxious to work with you. Those wishing more information may contact Brian Schiek at 428-7442 or Bill Zsenyuk at 428-7877 during the day.
