Claire Reck Receives Award

Mrs. Claire Reck was one of ten recipients in the greater Detroit area given a "Take Time to Care" award by Kiwanis Club No. 1 of Detroit. The award and an engraved silver tray were presented to Mrs. Reck at a luncheon held at the Detroit Golf Club on June 21. She was nominated for the award by Reverend Thomas E. Hart of the Manchester United Methodist church. The winners of the thirtieth annual award were selected by a panel of TV, radio and local Detroit celebrities. The "Take Time to Care" award is given to people who perform many community services without receiving recognition.

Annual Fourth Of July Activities

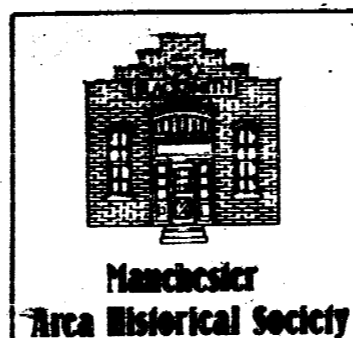

As you know the Fourth of July is here, and the Manchester Men's Club is sponsoring their annual Fourth of July activities on Sunday, July 3rd at Carr Park. Starting at 1 o'clock beer will be sold at the beer stand till 1 a.m. At 2 o'clock there will be a tug of war, ten dollars per team, with cash prizes for the winning teams. Men's teams, women's teams and coed teams are invited to join the fun. At 3 o'clock there will be a parade starting at the athletic field proceeding through town to Carr Park. At 3:30 p.m. a penny hunt for kids up to eight years old, followed by a sack race and egg toss for kids up to 12 years old. Two bands will be performing at the park starting at 4:30 p.m. with the Factor Five, a local band. At 8 o'clock brings on Brad Frey and his Hindsight Band performing until 1 a.m.

We also sponsor a fireworks display which will be held at dusk and is performed by the Manchester Fire Department. Thru donations from last year we are able to put on a fine display of fireworks this year. To continue this display we need help from you, the people in the form of donations. The fireworks next year would be as good or better than this years if everybody could give at least one dollar in donation to the canvassers in the crowd or in the pails at the beer stand. The American Legion and Fire Department will be helping the Men's Club to collect donations at the park. Donations can also be mailed in care of the Manchester Men's Club, P.O. Box 171, Manchester, Michigan 48158, or by buying a square on the fireworks boards at the three local Manchester area banks.

In order to cover these expenses—beer stand, bands, fireworks, we need your support for this afternoon of entertainment to make it continue for years to come. We are looking for many picnics and a fun day for all on Sunday, July 3rd at Carr Park. Come early, stay late, this will be a day to remember.

EARLY DEADLINE!
THERE WILL BE AN EARLY DEADLINE FOR NEXT WEEK'S EDITION OF THE MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE. ALL DISPLAY ADVERTISING ARE DUE FRIDAY, JULY 1, AT 5:00 P.M. NEWS ARTICLES AND CLASSIFIED ARE DUE TUESDAY, JULY 5 AT 10:00 A.M.

The 4th of July, the most traditional of American Holidays, is fast approaching and the Manchester Area Historical Society is ready to help make it a memorable one in 1963. The Blacksmith Shop has undergone some significant renovation and the members of the society are anxious that everyone visit and see the changes. The forge will be fired up, and the Blacksmith Committee will be demonstrating the trade of the blacksmith as it was practiced in the earliest days in Manchester. The demonstrations will be conducted Sunday, July 3rd from 12:00 noon until 3:00 p.m., and everyone is welcome. There will be lemonade and cookies.

The annual raffle will be conducted at Carr Park just before the fireworks begin on the 3rd of July, and tickets will be available at the Blacksmith Shop and at Carr Park. Ask any member of the Manchester Area Historical Society for tickets which are only $1.00, and you may win one of the many cash prizes. There will be two $100.00 winners, two $50.00 winners, and ten $25.00 winners. The winners need not be present to win, so make sure you have a chance by buying your ticket before the drawing.

HIT or MISS by farley

The Department of Agriculture down in Washington reports that it takes $80,260 to raise an offspring born now until he reaches the age of 18 and columnist Art Buchwald says it is a gyp because you get no guarantee as to what you get for your money, not even a third class warranty. The Agriculture Department also says that you are getting a bargain because 18 months ago the same program would have totaled $134,411. Deflation has evidently come to the deflation market.

Let's see how we are supposed to spend our $80,000.00. It was broken down as follows: food $17,000, housing, $27,000, $13,000 for transportation and all the other minor items such as medical bills, shoes, toys, clothing.

personality J.P. McCarthy singing and bragging about how good he was. Taylor immediately called McCarthy from a telephone at the construction site.

"This is Fat Bob the Plumber from Ann Arbor," Taylor told McCarthy. "I was just listening to your aria, and while the main body of it is okay, I can see where it can be improved."

Taylor said McCarthy replied, "you're fat who the what? What does a plumber know about music?" Taylor said to him, "Just because I'm a plumber it does not mean my mind is a vacuum". Then, Taylor said, "I blew him off the air - literally." That is how he got his start at WJR.

At age 62, Taylor has been in the music business for 36 years. He will be at the Manchester Chicken Broil on July 21, 1963, at about 5:00 o'clock, together with the Detroit Symphony Band. It is hoped that "Fat Bob" will also be at the dedication of the John F. Schneider Blacksmith Shop at 326 E. Main Street, at 6:00 o'clock on the same date, as a community activities building and historic museum. The Blacksmith Shop building has been extensively renovated and everyone is invited to be present at the dedication ceremonies. Governor James J. Blanchard will be in attendance, and may be arriving in the community by helicopter. This is the 30th anniversary year of the Manchester Chicken Broil, and It's cause for celebration, the day that marks a fight for freedom won and the birth of our American nation. Let's remember with pride the struggle that brought us to this great time, and know that the ideals and dreams set forth by our forefathers have enabled us to become a nation of strength and justice, one that still endures by the very principles established so long ago. This July Fourth, let us each express our patriotism as proudly and grandly as we display America's stars and stripes.

Holiday Facts 'Say Yes' to Michigan July 4 Travel

Motorists planning Fourth of July activities can be assured that safety odds favor long-distance vacation travel. The Automobile Club of Michigan's study of fatal traffic accidents over summer holidays the last five years shows 77 percent of fatal traffic accidents occurred within 25 miles of home.

"Nine persons died on Michigan highways during the 78-hour Memorial weekend in 1982, 23 died the weekend before and 24 the weekend after," Avignone said. Both non-holiday weekends were 54-hour periods.

The Auto Club's analysis of 15 summer holidays shows that in addition to driving near home, alcohol and two-lane roads are major factors in traffic deaths.

The Automobile Club of Michigan has urged the National Safety Council (NSC) to halt its pre-July 4 holiday traffic death and injury predictions because they are inaccurate and damage the travel industry by making motorists needlessly fear holiday trips.

An Auto Club analysis of holiday traffic accidents over the past five summers shows that 77 percent of the fatalities occurred within 25 miles of home to persons not on vacation.

The Auto Club also urged Michigan's media not to broadcast pre-holiday death predictions.

Another false implication of NSC predictions, according to the Auto Club, is that it is more dangerous to drive during holiday weekends than non-holiday weekends.

The Council's predictions incorrectly imply that it is more dangerous on a holiday weekend to take an overnight trip than it is to stay home and use the car in familiar areas, stated Auto Club president Jack Avignone in a letter to NSC acting president Charles Gilchrist.

"Eleven persons died on Michigan highways during the most recent 78-hour Memorial weekend," Avignone said. "During the following 54-hour weekend the traffic death toll was

Attends Constable Seminar

Manchester Township Constable Earl Alber recently attended the June session of the Michigan Constable and District Court Officers seminar which was held at the Ramada Inn and at the Holland, Michigan Rifle range.

Saturday morning at range they shot in groups of eleven. Constable Alber got first place in class D and received an award. Last year Constable Alber also received a marksmanship award and badge and the year before a sharpshooter badge in the same event.

In the afternoon and evening session they were taught the proper and safe way to make a routine traffic stop and the proper frisking methods under different conditions. They were also shown the most risky stops and the way to handle these types of situations. It was a very rewarding trip.

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES IN JULY SPOTLIGHT

Summer is a little late this year if you gauge the season by the arrival of fresh fruits and vegetables. The slowed-down season extends across the eastern and southern United States, so the July '83 outlook is different from that of a typical July.

Retail prices for fresh produce are running somewhat higher than those of a year ago. Higher shipping charges are a contributing factor.

Michigan's tart cherry crop was reduced by cold weather this spring. Red tart cherries are harvested in July, but are not generally available.

Michigan strawberries have been delayed so long that a smaller crop is now predicted. Look for homegrown strawberries to be in heavy supply during the first extended heat wave.

The sweet cherry crops in Michigan and California were shortened by adverse spring weather. Washington has a good crop of sweet cherries and is shipping. Soft fruits from California are also coming on strong.

homegrown vegetable to reach the market in July. Homegrown zucchini, crookneck squash and snap beans will become available by mid-July. Look for Michigan celery the following week.

The oldest living things are bristlecone pine trees, which scientists believe may have started growing from 4,000 to 5,000 years ago.

There's no harm—and a lot of good—in promising yourself a small reward for a task well done, psychologists say. If household chores have got you down, try to picture yourself relaxing with a tasty snack and a frosty glass of iced tea.

MICROWAVE BASICS

Kids Can Microwave

If your kids can read, chances are they are ready for their first microwave cooking lesson. And with summer vacation time here, microwave cooking lessons will also provide a new summer activity for your family. Start with the basic operation of the oven with something a child would prepare, such as a sweet roll or hot dog in a bun.

Summer-Fest

The SOS Community Crisis Center will be sponsoring SUMMER-FEST—a day-long benefit festival of food, entertainment, and family fun—on Sunday, July 17, 1963, in Riverside Park in downtown Ypsilanti. SUMMER-FEST is intended to raise funds for SOS services for unemployed workers and other families in need in Washtenaw County. A wide variety of music—including country, rock, gospel, folk, and barbershop—will entertain those who attend. Admission is free, but donations will be requested in accordance with people's ability to pay. Hot dogs, beer, popcorn, and ice cream will be available—as will balloons, clowns, and numerous games.

SOS is a not-for-profit agency which provides cost-free assistance, twenty-four hours a day, to all who require it. In 1962, SOS responded to nearly 11,000 requests for aid. As the crisis of unemployment and economic dislocation continues to afflict thousands of local citizens, SOS has redoubled its efforts to reduce related stress and conflict. SOS' dozens of volunteers help by providing supportive person-to-person counseling, emergency food and shelter, and information and referral to all who ask. As funding for social services and human services programs are reduced, SOS has increased its efforts to assure that all citizens have access to the assistance they require. For fourteen years, volunteers from throughout the community have donated hundreds of thousands of hours of effort to maintain this unique grass-roots helping resource. Money raised at SUMMER-FEST will be utilized to support expanding programs of aid specifically geared toward the unemployed and other persons in need throughout Washtenaw County.

SUMMER-FEST - 1963 is intended as the first of what will become an annual series of events. It is being held this year in conjunction with the Depot Town Merchants' Bazaar Days Celebration. SOS is a Washtenaw United Way Agency.

Have A Safe Fourth Of July

Secretary of State Richard Austin today urged Michigan motorists to watch out for motorcyclists this Fourth of July weekend. Austin noted that the record Michigan motorists set for safety over the Memorial Day weekend, when only five motorists' deaths were recorded, was marred by six motorcyclists' deaths.

With the July Fourth weekend coming up, Austin urged motorists to set another safety record by obeying the speed limit, refraining from drinking and driving, fastening seat belts—and keeping an eye out for motorcyclists.

7 Class Prophecy

This is a reprint of the Manchester Enterprise, dated August 2, 1877

By George S. Field
On a certain day six months ago Ten students met in a room below, And talked, and argued, and pondered, and thought, And declared "To have Class-Day they ought."
And so, it being a business class, They proceeded at once the ballots to pass, Chose six of their number the offices to hold, And left the remainder out in the cold.
Now each must contribute with music, or story, To cover his class with immortal glory.
Therefore at first a president they chose,
To regulate matters, as everyone knows. They selected a man of intellect great, Well fitted to preside, or govern a State; His name I am sure you will quickly guess
When I tell you the nation he's destined to bless;

But to be more clear, the chief of the ten Has Conklin for surname, and his first one is Ben.
For orator they chose a most eloquent man, Whose last name is Freeman, generally called "Am." The office of poet came next in line, And wishing to find one who could write very fine, A rival to Shakespeare, or Milton sublime; They thought the best one to fill such a place Could be found in the person of Miss Fannie Case. They chose Alice Richmond their hist'ry to reveal, Believing 'twould better mankind a good deal, And Miss Lydia Bailey to write them a song Chuck full of music, but not very long.
But at last they made a most terrible blunder, Which, after doing so well, may cause much wonder; For they chose a person by the name of Field To unfold the future, and a prophet's pen wield. But, alas! I never a prophet was born, And can do better service at hoeing the corn, And as to the muses trying to court, I acknowledge that courting was never my forte.

But I know that to fate I humbly must bow. As the ground must bow to the farmer's plow; Therefore I'll strive my best to do, And leave the rest, kind friends, with you.
Twenty-three years have passed away Since we were together on our first Class-Day, And the twentieth century has been ushered in Which brings me to the time where I'm to begin. A certain rich uncle, having doffed mortal coil And ended a life of labor and toil, Left enough of his cash to a certain "old bach," To keep him from hunger, and his clothes from the patch. And so this person determined to rest, By traveling over the east and the west, And to visit all places, both great and small, And hunt up his class-mates and give them a call.
Accordingly we see him with satchel in hand Take the first train for Souleville and there safely land; But the place looked queer and the people queerer. As the train he came on grew nearer and nearer. For instead of the buildings of the Centennial year Were now large stores, and saloons for lager beer; And as he walked up the broad paved street, A large stone edifice his eyes did meet.

And high o'er the door was a large gilt sign, With "Chadwick's Hotel" painted on very fine.
He stepped into the room to register his name, But was half scared to death by a fierce looking dame; For when he entered the room, and before he had taken a seat, A flat-iron came flying past and struck clear out in the street. And the way the broom descended, and the mop came down was a sight. As she yelled "I'll teach you William, to call me a cross-eyed fright."
But ere her mistake she discovered, while her voice was yet very strong, Her victim was far up the sidewalk taking steps very quick and long. And here, as luck would have it, Mr. Chadwick himself he met, Who came puffing up the sidewalk with his face all covered with sweat.
In his hand he held a paper, which he shook in triumph on high, As he cried, "Eureka! Eureka! what a happy man am I! No longer will my poor head with mops and brooms be bettered, Or all the dishes and chairs upon my form be shattered; No longer will all the hair be jerked from my sore head, Or rolling pins be hurled till I am almost dead. O Whew! my goodness gracious I solemnly declare to you, I shudder all over to think of the deeds of that terrible shrew. But at last I am free from all feminine force, For I hold in my hand a most precious divorce." And thus I left him a happy man at last, While I myself to other regions passed.

Away out in Utah not far from the great Salt Lake, I found Frank Bailey in a very happy state. For his were many acres, and a farmer rich was he; For he came across the prairies a Mormonite to be. Of wives he had but twenty-one, I told him 'twas a plenty, The oldest one was seventy-six and the youngest only twenty. And now he sits in the parlor, while his wives the farm do run, Works problems in Geometry, and visits Brigham Young. To his wives he introduced me when from the field they came, And I bowed to each Mrs. Bailey till my neck was very lame. He urged me hard to stay there and a Mormonite become, And he told me confidentially his pleasures were half unsung. But I declined with sadness and said I could not stay, And then took my departure and proceeded on my way.
High up in the Rocky Mountains where the winds blow bleak and cold, Where man does seldom venture, where beasts are fierce and bold, Where rocks, and sand, and snow, and stunted trees are found, Where the hush and quiet are broken, but by the tempest's sound, Where even the wildest savage doth never hunt, or roam, I found Miss Lillie Sanborn the owner of a home. And below me in a valley I saw a beautiful town, But every one who dwelt there was the wearer of a gown. I begged an explanation why no men therein I saw. She said, "All men under sixty are banished by our law."

Class Prophecy

Then she told me how it happened up here she came to dwell,
How she had founded a republic,
How she had done so well,
How she became disgusted with our government so great,
Had collected many matrons, had formed a mighty state,
How all the women now are clothed with all their rights,
Could vote as well as men, and enjoy election sights,
And when their votes they counted, no Returning Boards had they,
No Chief Justice was required, in order to carry the day,
But when their votes were cast the result was at once proclaimed,
And thus as President, Susan B. Anthony was named,
While Miss Sanborn herself the office of Vice-President obtained.
And to this new Utopia the name "Man-hater" they gave,
And over their heads the banner of Women's Rights does wave.

Hark! do you hear the music as 'tis wafted o'er the breeze?
'Tis A.F. Freeman with his hand-organ playing with greatest ease.
The piece seems very familiar, I've heard it before, methinks,
Yea! now I'm almost certain 'tis the lovely "Captain Jinks."
I found him at the corner, one arm was in a sling,
His face looked like a funeral, 'twas such a mournful thing,
Beside him was a monkey, but it didn't look like him,
For the face of one was sober, on the other was a grin.
And thus he's getting rich, at least, that's what they say,
For he finds 'most thirty coppers in his box at close of day.
But he's not been in this business for very many years,
And his life has been a sad one that would move you to tears.
He determined at the outset the lawyer's life to try,
But he didn't like the business, and he didn't like To Lie.
So, after a little practice and the granting of one divorce,
To his classmate Mr. Chadwick, he took a different course.
And next we find him missionary

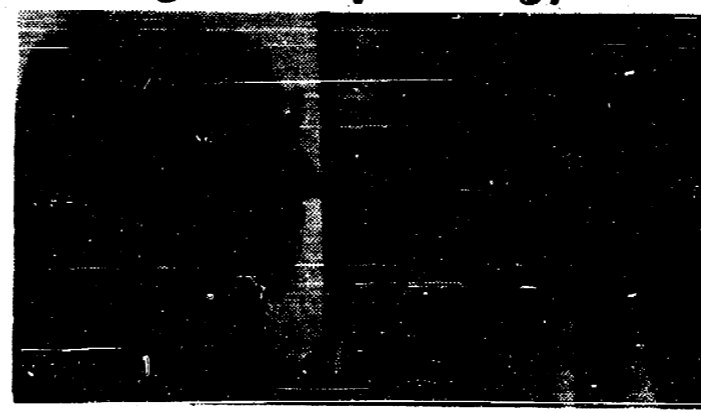

'tis wafted o'er the breeze?

To a heathen land,
Displaying his eloquence to a sable looking band.
To them he offers trinkets, and teaches righteous laws;
But, 'tis said his success in converting was wholly with the squaws.
So the jealous braves resolved to take his scalp some night;
When Mr. Freeman found it out, he vanished from their sight.
He traveled o'er the continent and engaged in many wars,
And fought with greatest bravery; for his back is covered with scars.
Thus I left him at the corner as I went upon my way,
And the tune of "Yankee Doodle" was the last I heard him play.

"Go, ring the bells and fire the guns."
Let joy be yours and every one's; Go spread the news, let all the earth rejoice,
Proclaim a feast and raise in cheers your voice,
Until the resounding echoes shall return;
Let the lamp of happiness within you burn,
Fling out the banners to the breeze, and dance to music gaily:
For a West Plain youth on this bright day is married to Lydia Bailey.

Now I'll tell you how it happened, if with patience you will hear,
How this youth obtained the privilege of calling her his dear.
'Twas the same, the same, old story, that's been told so oft before,
He wooed and won his lady love as others have of yore.
For a while the two were happy, but, did true love e're run smooth?
At least it did not in this case, as I will shortly prove;
For she was fond of pleasure, and flirted with Horace Case,
Until he grew so jealous he was almost black in the face.
Then at length arrived the crisis, then at length the quarrel came,
Then he gave her back her letters, she his presents did the same.

New power plants will help Michigan escape energy crisis

Dr. Chauncey Starr and Mr. Harry Reinsch

Within 10 years, Michigan and other Midwestern states may become an energy oasis in a nation desperately short of electricity, according to two experts.
America's generating plants can fulfill America's thirst for electricity without difficulty for the next five or six years, they say.
But beyond that, increased use of electricity could outgrow production capabilities in many parts of the country. The result would be regional power shortages, accompanied by large-scale unemployment.

economic output increases, consumption of electricity goes up. If there is not enough electricity to handle growth, a stagnant economy and high unemployment result.

"We'll see a big shift of industry," predicts Reinsch. "Many plants will pack up and move away from energy-short areas to other parts of the country. Even to foreign countries. That would mean unemployment. Lots of it."

In the midst of that bleak forecast, Michigan and the rest of the Midwest hold out hope for the future.

"The Midwest has more abundant power, and less expensive power, than most other regions," says Starr. "It is certainly better off than the Sun Belt. The Sun Belt relies chiefly on oil and natural gas for fuel. The Midwest gets its power principally from coal and nuclear energy, which costs much less than oil or natural gas."

Reinsch agrees. "Michigan fits right in the heart of it," he says. Several new power plants, including the Midland Nuclear Cogeneration Plant, will be completed within the next few years.

According to Starr and Reinsch, existing demand already uses more than 90 percent of the nation's total electric generating capability. They say enough new plants are not being built to handle growth and replace aging facilities. It will be too late to fix the problem once the shortage occurs, because it takes many years to plan, finance and build a generating plant, Starr says.

"The power supply situation is a serious threat to America's economy, according to Starr. He notes that historically, the demand for electricity tracks economic activity. If the nation's

Degree Awarded

Bachelor's degrees were awarded to 3,815 students, and 379 received associate (two-year) degrees at Purdue University in May. In the two groups 146 graduated "with highest distinction," a status conferred on approximately the top 3 percent of the graduates, regardless of school. A total of 517 students graduated "with distinction." Ten percent of the candidates in each school who have the highest indexes, none of them with a grade-point average of less than 5.3 of a possible 6, receive their degrees "with distinction."

Class Prophecy

For you chose me for the office I urged to be excused, And you said "I must accept it," and to hear me you refused.

Classmates, now my task is finished, parted likely we may be, But shall we our class forget, tho' each other we seldom see. No, our school life was to pleasant for us ever to forget, And we'll all think of its pleasures with a yearning and regret. And perhaps, when we are older, finding life more hard to bear, We'll recall these by-gone school-days, and wish ourselves still there.

When we think of early school-days, let us all together strive, To help the glorious cause of Education to prosper and to thrive. And may success and joy attend you, may you receive the blessings of heaven, Is my desire and my best wish for the "Class of Seventy-seven."

Bloodmobile News

Ten Manchester Red Cross volunteers worked one of the disappointing Bloodmobiles at Hydra-Matic this month. Unfounded fear that donating blood could expose donors to an untreatable disease known as AIDS cut the donations that day from 250 to 68. Less than 1000 pints of blood were received during the summer drive for blood at corporations where traditionally 7000 pints have been donated. Needless to say this has caused a crisis in the supply necessary to support Southern Michigan Hospital needs.

Summertime Pet Care

Most pets survive and enjoy hot summer months. Each year, however, some die and many more suffer needless injuries and discomfort. The Humane Society of Huron Valley offers the following guidelines for pet owners:

Everyday Measures
Be sure your pet has adequate shade and ample cool, clean water. Reduce animals' diets in warm weather, they do not need as much food in hot weather.

Exercise your pet in the early morning or late evening when it is cooler. Never over-exercise pets in the heat.

While it may be a good idea to clip some breeds during the summer, it may be harmful for others. Don't shave off the animal's natural insulation and sunburn protection. Sunburn is a hazard to the nose and eyelids of most pets away from shade when the coat is clipped too short.

Heat Exhaustion

Summer's greatest danger for pets is heat, which can kill animals left in parked cars and other hot, confined places. Or, at best, makes them sick. The simple prevention: don't leave an animal in a car. On a hot summer day the inside of a car heats very quickly. On an 85 degree day, for example, the temperature inside your car with the windows slightly opened will reach 102 degrees in 10 minutes. In 30 minutes it will go up to 120 degrees. On warmer days it will go even higher. Don't leave your pet in a death trap!

Heat exhaustion is a medical emergency that leads to death without immediate treatment. Signs of heat stroke are rapid shallow breathing, excessive salivation and vomiting and, in the last stages forced breathing and collapse. Immediate treatment by immersion in cold water is necessary. If you cannot immerse the dog, spray them with cold water or apply cold wet towels or ice packs especially to the groin and head. Massage the skin and flex and extend the legs to restore circulation. See a veterinarian as soon as possible.

Other Hazards
Disease: keep all inoculations current. Wildlife and roaming pets increase the risk of rabies, distemper and other diseases in the summer.

Swimming pools: if a pet has access to a pool, make sure it knows how to get out.

Hot spots: those are bald, open sores aggravated by licking and biting. See a veterinarian.

Hot pavement: it may cause injury to an animal's pads.
