The Annual Chicken Broil That Was!!!

Dan Boutell and Chicken Broil chairman Gene Bentschneider weigh-in two chickens at five pounds. Therefore, each person received 1 1/4 pounds of chicken in their dinner.

There was never a chicken broil like the one this year. One other time in the 30 year history of the Chicken Broil it rained, but only once during the day, not twice, as it did this year.

The other time it rained, the fires were able to be restarted, but this time the electricity went down, and even this didn't daunt the Chicken Broil workers. Gasoline powered generators were secured with the help of Mike Rossettie and the Village of Manchester. The fires were restarted with the blowers in the starting pit being powered by the generators. It would have been alright, Gene Bentschneider said, "but then we had the second rain, and that did us in. There was close to 2000 halves on the grid at the time, and the people in the line were all leaving."

Gene Bentschneider and Ron Mann, co-chairmen of the Manchester Chicken Broil, said "The workers did a terrific job, they stayed right there."

It just didn't make much sense to try starting fires again, if the people were gone, so the Washtenaw County Sheriff was called, with the thought he might make use of the chicken on the grids. The sheriff, in turn called the Red Cross, and they and the St. Louis School for Boys sent vehicles over to the Chicken Broil and they loaded up. They were

Principal Receives Certificate

Mr. Paul DuFresne, President of the Manchester Board of Education, has announced that he has been advised by the Michigan Elementary and Middle School Principals' Association that Dr. Janice M. Hammond, Klager Elementary Principal has received the Provisional certificate as Elementary Principal from her professional organization.

Mr. DuFresne congratulated Dr. Hammond at a recent board meeting noting that he was "pleased to see this kind of continued professional development on the part of staff administrators."

The certificate which has a life of three years requires a minimum of an MA degree with specialized work in school administration. In addition, the recipient must demonstrate successful activity as an elementary school principal.

Pace Committee Active Again

The Committee for Positive Action in Community Education (PACE) has reactivated due to the importance of the school election August 31st. The Committee will conduct a public information drive to inform the voters of the critical need to pass the millage issues on the special election ballot.

The Committee will emphasize that Manchester has been a self-supporting school district for some time; we are "out-of-formula" and no longer receive state aid for each student. Also, due to a drop in assessed valuation of the district and increased costs, it is estimated that income to the district this year will be about $185,000 less than the amount needed to continue present K-12 programs. If Proposition I passes (1.8 mills for 3 years) cuts would not be necessary. Proposition II (1.5 mills for 5 years) would be a "pay-as-you-go" program to provide badly needed maintenance for our buildings.

PACE is a registered Ballot Question Committee legally entitled to raise funds and conduct a campaign. If you would like to help please call President Mattie Agin at 429-4447. Contributions may be sent to Linda K. Hartmann, Treasurer, 6701 M-52, Manchester, MI.

Attention! Horseback Riders

Horses will be allowed to follow the full parade route this year. Any riders interested in riding in the Fair parade this year should contact the Men's Club.

Dogs Cause Damage At Brooks' Farm

This is not a very pretty story to relate to but it is one that we should be aware of, especially if we are concerned in the safety of animals.

At 3 a.m., one morning, dogs were heard barking in a pasture where sheep and lambs were grazing. The owner's son walked to the field to check on the sheep. When he got to the field he could hear dogs panting and with his flashlight he saw the eyes of two dogs as they ran past him but he could not see them well enough to identify them. When dawn came the owner discovered six ewes and lambs had been ripped to death by dogs and others were injured.

The Sheriff's Department was called and the Dog Warden responded. He was concerned but because the dogs were gone he was unable to prosecute. The Township Supervisor was also notified. The owner was concerned that the dogs would be back to attack his flock again and they were.

The next afternoon, a neighbor called stating he had seen a large black dog heading towards the pasture field. He wanted it clear that his dog was tied up and not involved. When she got to the field a black doberman pinscher was near a freshly mutilated lamb. The dog took off when he saw the woman approach. Upon checking the pasture field, ten dead sheep and lambs were discovered and five were severely injured by dog bites. This meant that dogs had been involved in chasing, biting and tearing to pieces helpless animals during the late afternoon.

It should be explained that the owner of the sheep has a large flock of lambs and ewes in different pasture fields. Even though he moved them as close to the barns as possible to keep an eye on them when the dogs started harassing the flock, it is still hard to know when and where the dogs will attack the sheep.

The Supervisor was notified and the Dog Warden stopped to find another incident involving dogs killing livestock had taken place. This time he canvassed the neighborhood trying to find a lead as to what dogs were involved in the livestock killing.

Even though the Dog Warden did not find the dogs, he did make people aware of what had transpired and that it is important to be sure that their dog is licensed and stays within the boundary of its owner's property.

It was three days later when the next incident occurred. At 4 a.m., the owner walked through the pasture fields checking the flock. He walked across a field that had feeder lambs in it. They were fine. As he approached the next field where the ewes and lambs were he knew they were in trouble. He brought his shot gun along in case dogs were attacking the defenseless sheep and lambs or might attack him.

The owner stood very still as the dogs ran by him. There were three. One was a large doberman, the other two were big dogs but not as large as the doberman. The owner of the sheep was able to shoot and kill the doberman and one of the other dogs as they were attacking the sheep. This time the toll the dogs took was seventeen sheep and lambs torn apart and killed - several others badly bitten but alive. The sheep that live through this experience are so frightened they never fully recover.

Some people do not realize that dogs do not necessarily chase and kill sheep because they are hungry. They do it because the sheep run, frightened beyond belief and the dogs think it is

"Caring For Aging Relatives"

Many people in the community are taking care of a chronically ill relative. Although the circumstances and motivations vary with each situation and over time, the impact on family members is intense and widespread.

Interested persons are invited to attend a four week discussion group, called "Caring for Aging Relatives". It will address the feelings that may be involved in the arrangement, as well as the sharing of practical solutions for coping with feelings and needs.

The group is sponsored by Child and Family Services of Washtenaw and Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center. It will take place on Wednesday mornings from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., August 10, 17, 24, and 31, at Child and Family Services, 2301 Platt Road, Ann Arbor.

For registration, additional information, or assistance with transportation or respite care, please call: Phyllis Herzog, at 483-1887, or Lisa Dengiz at 994-2225. Donations to the Older Adult Program will be accepted. Refreshments will be served.

School Evaluation Report Received

At its regular meeting in July, the Manchester Board of Education received a report of an evaluation study of its total school system conducted by The Accountability Group a firm organized to provide research and program evaluation information to school districts.

A study focused on five major components of the school district as follows: Academic Achievement, Curriculum, School Climate, Management and

General Mission.
 Led by Dr. William D. Coats and Dr. Terry Davidson the report was presented to the Board for study and subsequent action. The Board of Education indicated that the evaluation report would be a major area of focus at a planning session scheduled for late August. At that time the Board will work with the Manchester School Administration in order to develop a plan of action designed to meet the needs identified in the report.

According to data collected by Coats and Davidson the testing program of the Manchester Schools shows that the average scores are above grade level in virtually every grade. Concern was expressed however that the test results be used more extensively to develop curriculum.

Manchester's high technology curriculum drew acclaim from the report. The intense focus upon computer literacy education in Manchester during the past two years has placed the Manchester Schools in a leadership position in the state.

Noting that the Manchester Schools had undergone a great deal of change within the last five years, the report commented upon the general climate and morale of the staff. Nellie Ackerson Middle School under the direction of Principal Brian Schick was identified as a school with high teaching morale and high loyal among staff members and between staff and principal.

Coats commented upon what in his opinion was a serious Master Contract problem in that health insurance provided to employees is by contract purchased from a company which is allied with the state teachers union. He stated that several options would be available to the board at significant cost savings, if it would be possible to negotiate the union health insurance out of the Master Agreement. It was noted that the cost per pupil in the Manchester Schools was almost exactly at the state average for a district of its size.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson commenting after the meeting stated that, "An evaluation of this type is often threatening to the staff. One never knows what type of criticisms might be noted. Never the less we have a responsibility to the Board of Education and to the citizens to continually subject our product to the critical eye of independent evaluation. The criticisms and recommendations which were noted in the report prepared by The Accountability Group will be used as the basis for action plans to be developed by all staff. It is our intent to use this information to make the Manchester Community School District even better. We are currently in the process of having copies of the report printed. If anyone would like a copy they should feel free to contact my office at 428-7300."

Summer Reading Program

Forty-seven young people have joined the Summer Reading Program at the Manchester Township Public Library. About half of these are Ladybug Listeners and half independent readers. It isn't too late to sign up.

There are no meetings to attend. Just register the titles of the books you've read or heard on the card kept in the library. And there will be a celebration party on a morning the week of August 15. Watch for more information about the time and the entertainment.

Because participants are asked to read a variety of books in various areas (fiction, non-fiction and biography) some readers are discovering interests they didn't know they had. And it's all free at the library.

Dedication Prayer Of Blacksmith Shop

July 21, 1983

Governor Blanchard, Governor Swainson, the visionary people of the Manchester Historical Society, and the good citizens of Manchester who celebrate their thirtieth year of the Manchester Chicken Broil:

On behalf of the Clergy, Churches, and Religious Community of Manchester and surrounding Townships, I ask that with me you join in praising God for the good gifts we have received.

Let us worship God. Let us pray:

Creator God and Father of us all, we gather in Your Holy Name this special day, to honor the creativity and industry and vision of a people who came to this land to carve out for themselves and their families a new way of life, born of religious freedom and political independence.

And so we come to this place in the village of Manchester, THE JOHN F. SCHNEIDER BLACKSMITH SHOP, which symbolizes for each of us that pride of workmanship, and that respect of self-discipline, which are the hallmarks of individual growth and of community cohesiveness. For these gifts we receive from the heritage of our ancestors, we give You grateful thanks.

Now dear Lord, we pray Your blessing upon this sacred ground, upon this heirloom of Manchester's history - its Blacksmith Shop, and upon the memory of its smithy, John F. Schneider, who on this 100th Anniversary Year of his birth, is remembered with affection and appreciation.

Impart to his daughters the beauty of his memory; imbue the people of his village with the reverence for quality in their lives; and finally Eternal God, WE DEDICATE THIS JOHN F. SCHNEIDER BLACKSMITH SHOP with the hope that its presence may symbolize our own striving toward strength of character, and the vision of a free and just and tranquil society, under the Lordship of Almighty God. AMEN.

Leedom Left - Charley McMahon Accepts His Challenge And Wins The Prize

We clip the following from the Jacksonville, Florida, Times-Union of January 12, knowing that his many friends here will be pleased to read it:

"The votaries of the 'manly art' assembled at the Park Opera House last night to witness Leedom's athletic exhibition. The chief feature of the evening was the contest between Leedom and Mister Charles McMahon. The former had challenged any one in America to stand before him except Sullivan and McCaffrey. This challenge was accepted by Charlie McMahon, of Holland & McMahon's circus company. At 11 o'clock Messrs. Leedom and McMahon appeared at their respective places on the stage, the former a tall, muscular, broad-shouldered man, well trained in the business he is making his profession, the latter a comparatively small man, or boy 18 years of age.

Naturally sympathy ran out from all sides for young McMahon, and a great many feared to see the contest begin as they never expected to see him come up hardly the second time before his powerful antagonist. There was some delay caused over a discussion as to the gloves to be used. Leedom wanting to use hard gloves, but after a brief delay the "management" agreed to put up half of the money if Leedom would agree to use the soft gloves. Marshall Tyler was on hand ready to stop any attempt at a hard glove fight.

Captain James Henry, after some delay was appointed referee, when the fight commenced in dead earnest, in accordance with the Marquis of Queensbury rules. In the first round Leedom made a foul by striking McMahon a heavy blow below the belt on a porous plaster, that the latter wore on account of his troubles, which caused him much pain, but after a moment's delay he came to time and ever afterwards met his antagonist blow for blow, until time was called on the last round. During the contest the excitement was intense and the audience climbed upon chairs, up posts and even upon the stage, and it was with difficulty that quiet was restored long enough to permit the referee to announce the fact that the plucky youngster had won the purse of $50. The announcement was received with tumultuous applause, during which an additional purse of $26 was donated by his admirers, and presented through Mayor L'Engle of LaVilla.

After the contest Charley walked down to Hazen's place where he was tendered a reception. Young McMahon, who is only 18 years of age, is a native of Manchester, Mich., is about five feet four inches high, and weighs 138 pounds. He has never attempted a scientific contest before, only practicing with the gloves while in the circus dressing room, and it is said that prior to last night he had not had them on inside of eight months."

SUMMERTIME-ART FAIR TIME

If it seems the Manchester Art Guild has been lying dormant thus far this summer, looks are deceiving indeed! More local artists than ever have been exhibiting in art fairs throughout the state: from Traverse city to Muskegon, Monroe, Chelsea, and yes, Ann Arbor last week, just to mention a few.

The subject of art fairs brings us to the many hours of "behind-the-scenes" work in preparation for the Manchester Street Fair, Saturday, August 13, with much last minute work yet to be done. This year the Guild is working in cooperation with the Manchester Merchants to provide a quality juried art fair, as well as an open market for selling of all kinds, sidewalk sales, food, entertainment, and more, all in downtown Manchester. The last day of the Manchester Community Fair at the fairgrounds will provide further diversion for the availability of a full range of activity. It is hoped that with plenty of sunshine and comfortably warm weather, everyone will enjoy the day of festivities!

Manchester Community Schools. In an effort to offer parents and students the opportunity to meet Mr. Bushaw prior to the start of school he will be in attendance at the Manchester Community School booth in the exhibitors tent at the Manchester Community Fair. Bushaw is planning to be in attendance at the booth every night of the fair. In addition to Mr. Bushaw, members of the Board of Education, other administrators and teachers will be present to discuss school programs and finance.

Members of the community are encouraged to visit the fair and the booth to say hello to school personnel.

Entertainment At The Fair

The evening slate of entertainment at the Manchester Community Fair this year includes some old favorites and some promising newcomers.

Tuesday, August 9 - Barber-shop Quartet from Saline. Many of you will remember them from last year.

Wednesday and Thursday, August 10-11 - Kathy Kitchen and the Kickin' Country band. Sure to sing her way into the hearts of country music lovers, Kathy is a 15-year old who has released several records and has to her credit an appearance of "Hee Haw" and appearances in many Nashville clubs.

Friday, August 12 - Mark Northey, a folk and country singer from Ypsilanti will precede the L-3 Dukes Band. Many enjoyed learning the sounds of the dulcimer last year and we are glad to have them back.

Saturday, August 13 - The Clark Family Players will give two performances. Be sure to catch at least one. They will combine magic, music, dance and puppetry to keep everyone entertained.

Be sure to join us for evenings full of entertainment at the 1983 Manchester Community Fair, August 9-13.

The Pony Express, which has lived in legend for more than a century, lived in fact for less than two years.

HIT or MISS by farley

A friend of mine told me the following tale the other day. George is a minor executive in a company that headquarters in Detroit and a couple of years ago he was asked by his company to go to New York City on a mission for them which he, never having been there, was very glad to do.

He arrived there in due time and checked into a hotel and called the company that he was to contact. They told him to stay put, that they would send their representative to meet him right away. This they did and he introduced himself saying "Just call me Joe, that will simplify things and I'll call you George. I'll pick you up first thing in the morning and we'll get busy."

This they did and found each other very compatible and the work went very smoothly. Joe of course, asked George where he was from and he told him from Detroit, Michigan. This seemed to astonish Joe who told George that he was born and grew up in New York City on its lower East Side by parents who decided that he should have an education and make something of himself so he went through high school with flying colors and with a scholarship he obtained an engineering degree from Columbia and his present employer offered him a position where he could use his talents and he accepted, and believe it or not he had been so busy with his education that he had never been outside of the confines of New York City and that he was woefully ignorant about the rest of these United States but that he had read in the newspapers recently a great deal about Detroit the "crime capital of the midwest" and of Michigan's many financial problems and labor unrest, etc. and that he wouldn't think that Detroit would be an attractive place to live.

His listener hastened to tell him that Detroit had some undesirable places it was true but so did New York he had been told, but that there were many beautiful and desirable spots in both of them where one could live happily and enjoyably.

The problems that the two were to solve were satisfactorily settled shortly and Joe said "Can't you add a few more days to your trip and let me show you New York City and the worthwhile things about it?"

George said he was sure that that could be managed and so they set out to do the town for several days when George insisted that he must return home and at the airport bade his guide goodbye but before leaving made him promise that if and when he ever visited Michigan or Detroit he should-the first thing-contact George and let him show him the desirable features of that city and, if possible, Michigan.

Joe insisted that he would do just that and so they parted. One day a year or so later George's phone rang and a voice said "I'll bet you know not who this is. You made me an offer in New York City and here I am."

"Oh yes I do, now you sit tight and I'll pick you up in a few minutes", and so he did and after several days George acted as guide and host doing a thorough job of changing Joe's picture of the town.

But after a few days George said, "I have to go to Traverse City for my company and I hope you can go along."

"Let's go" said Joe and so they set off, going to Lansing, Grand Rapids and north to Traverse City. Arriving there they did an excellent job of combining business and pleasure enjoying Lake Michigan and the many small lakes and the woods and sandy beaches.

Deciding to return to Detroit, George insisted that they take the road along Lake Michigan shore and southeast through the many small towns on their route, all of which seemed to astonish Joe with their neatness and their modernity.

When they arrived in Detroit, Joe opined that he had better return home the next day. He turned to George and said, "I have never enjoyed anything any more in my life and the trip has been a real revelation to me. I've found out that New York City is not the center of the universe as I had assumed and that Detroit isn't as bad as I had been led to believe. I and many other New Yorkers have lived in a narrow world and some of the folks believe that the people west of the Hudson River still ride their horses bareback and chase Indians and I'll bet your ideas about New York are as biased. But all of us are brothers and sisters under the skin" but we are all citizens of these United States and if we had had a greater understanding and could get to know each other it would broaden our horizon and if we could get to know each other many of our problems could be more easily solved. We may differ in race, color and background but too many of us are confined in a small hidebound world. We have made considerable improvement with our student foreign exchange student programs but we can go a great deal further with programs for different parts of these United States along these lines. Our ignorance about each other is unbelievable."

As Joe is alleged to have said as he boarded the plane to return to New York, "Michigan's Lake Michigan is almost as beautiful as the ocean at Coney Island, Fire Island and Jones Beach and its people are-many of them at least-fully as nice as any New Yorker. Can't we get to know each other much better."

Display Your Talent At The Fair

Manchester's best cooks and seamstresses, quilters and handicrafters are busy readying their exhibits for the Exhibit tent in the 1983 Fair. The tastiest pies, breads, rolls and cookies will soon be on display for all fairgoers to see.

If you would like to be included, it's time to start now. Exhibits will be entered on Monday, August 8, from 6-8 p.m. and on Tuesday, August 9, from 9-12 noon. It is recommended that exhibitors of perishable foods (cream pies, filled pastries, etc.) wait until Tuesday to enter. All other, such as needlework, may be entered Monday evening. If you are entering in many categories, you may bring some items on Monday evening and enter other perishable items on Tuesday morning.

Complete rules for exhibitors are outlined in the Fair Book, which is now available at area merchants.

AIDS

Michigan Department of Public Health - Office of Communications

In recent months considerable attention has been focused on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome or AIDS. Victims of AIDS lose their natural immunity against disease and become vulnerable to infections. About 90% of AIDS patients develop one or both of two rare diseases: a type of cancer known as Kaposi's sarcoma, or Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia, a parasitic infection of the lungs.

Since June of 1981, more than 1,700 cases of AIDS have been reported from more than 30 states and 12 foreign countries. Nearly all cases have been among members of four specific population groups: homosexual and bisexual males, intravenous drug abusers, Haitian entrants to the United States, and hemophiliacs. In Michigan, 6 cases have been reported, 3 of which resulted in fatalities.

Fatality rates for AIDS range from 20 to 70% and, to date, no AIDS victim has regained lost immunity. AIDS patients remain vulnerable to diseases.

Although AIDS is not yet a risk to the general public, its causes are still unknown and experts don't discount the possibility of a worsening of the current outbreaks.

The Federal Centers for Disease Control formed a task force, in 1981, to investigate the AIDS problem and to seek methods of control and prevention. Here in Michigan, we in the State Department of Public Health, with the support of the major medical societies, hospital associations and local health officers, are seeking to designate AIDS as a reportable communicable disease. Plans for Michigan's AIDS surveillance program include providing for statewide reporting by local hospitals.

Public Health personnel in Michigan are also cooperating with the Federal task force while some Michigan hemophilia centers are voluntarily participating in specific AIDS studies.

Throughout the nation, many groups and individuals are working together in an effort to solve the AIDS problem. Federal, State and local public health agencies, private and public foundations, medical schools and research facilities, physicians and other health practitioners are pooling their energies and resources to help curb the spread of this mysterious public health threat.

Manchester Village Planning Commission

June 14, 1983

The Regular Meeting of the Manchester Village Planning Commission was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Chairman Alber in the Council Room of the Village Hall. Members present: Alber, Walton, Leeson, Stautz, Grossman, Smith, Lowery, Kalleward. Absent: Kwolek. A quorum was present.

The agenda was approved by acclamation. Minutes of the Regular Meeting of May 10, 1983 were unanimously approved as read.

There was discussion about amending the Zoning Ordinance to make specific allowance for placement of historical markers on buildings within the Village. A motion was made by Grossman, seconded by Leeson, to forward to Village Council a draft of such an amendment as prepared by the Planning Commission. The motion was passed unanimously on a voice vote.

There was discussion about the possibility of placing a dock on the east bank of the River Raisin, just above the Main Street bridge, for the convenience of people trying to get boats and canoes out of the water at the annual race. Rollie Grossman and Ted Stautz were appointed to a committee to discuss the matter further with the Manchester Optimist Club and prepare a report for Village Council.

There was discussion of the proposed Economic Development Corporation, and also development of Kirk Park.

In other action, the Secretary was requested to write to Pinnacle Engineering, expressing thanks for carrying out the full terms of their agreement with the Village; and to the new owners of the automotive supply store, explaining the Village's "Turn of the Century" motif.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:35 on a motion by Grossman, seconded by Smith, passed unanimously on a voice vote.

Emergency Bloodmobile

There will be an EMERGENCY BLOODMOBILE in Manchester TOMORROW, Friday, July 29 at St. Mary's Catholic Church from 12:00 to 6:00 p.m.

This emergency call is necessary because of a dangerously low blood supply at the Southeastern Michigan Blood Center which supplies the hospitals in Washtenaw County. Manchester donors will be able to help with this effort-to-save-a-life without the tedious trip to Ann Arbor to donate, and it will not interfere with the regular October 17th Bloodmobile giving. There must be 58 days between donations, so one who has given since June 1st will be unable to give now. The 58-day deadline for the October clinic here is August 20. With less than a week for publicity and recruiting donors, industries in the area were informed by Monday morning, church recruiters were contacted wherever possible so Sunday services could be covered, and posters were up by Saturday telling the public to contact their usual recruiter or call the Chairman-of-the-Day, Dianne Schwab, at 428-8976. If no appointment has been made, WALK-IN during the clinic time and hopefully it won't be a long wait.

Further information may be had by calling Claire Reck, 428-8852 or the Red Cross Office, Blood Services at 971-5300.

Over 230 students from throughout Michigan attended the 20th annual Michigan Farm Bureau Young People's Citizenship Seminar, held June 13-17 at Albion College. The students learned about American politics and the world economy, participated in mock elections and heard from many distinguished speakers. The purpose of the seminar is to give students a better understanding and appreciation of America's way of life and freedoms, its political party system and its capitalistic private enterprise economy. Attending the seminar from Washtenaw County were, left to right: (back row) Charles Koenn of Chelsea, Ron Milkey of Manchester, Lori Nixon of Dexter, and Kathy Klager of Saline; (front row) Janet Marlon of Saline, Lucinda McCalle of Chelsea, Jan Ehnis of Whitmore Lake, and Wendy Wolfgang of Chelsea.

A key piece of Governor James J. Blanchard's economic development and jobs package was put in place Friday with the sale of $120 million in bonds by the Michigan State Housing Authority (MSHDA).

The bonds, sold to private investors, will be used to provide home mortgages at 10.35 percent interest to approximately 3,000 low and moderate income homebuyers.

At least half the mortgages will be for new construction, resulting in 500 year-long construction jobs and 650 jobs in housing-related industries.

In March 1983, when the Authority sold $80 million in bonds for mortgages at 9.9 percent, the funds were exhausted in less than a month. A planned $198 million bond sale in June was postponed and then reduced to $120 million because of less favorable conditions in the bond market.

Mandell Berman, MSHDA board chairman, said "The Authority is very pleased with the sale of this large issue at an excellent interest rate. This new capital investment in Michigan will have a very significant effect on home builders, contractors, real estate firms, building suppliers, and the many sectors of the economy that benefit from activity in the housing industry."

The Authority bonds were again rated Triple A by Standard and Poor's. The interest cost on the bonds was 9.99 percent. Today's issue is the largest ever sold by the Authority.

Loan applications are made through approximately 100 participating banks, savings and loan associations and mortgage banking firms. The mortgages will be fixed-rate 30-year conventional insured loans with a minimum down payment of 5 percent. Two points will be charged to the seller at loan closing.

Mortgages for new houses will be made to borrowers whose annual household income does not exceed $28,000, although up to $4,000 in overtime earnings may be excluded. The maximum sales price of the house and land cannot exceed $70,000. The maximum mortgage from MSHDA is $60,000.

For previously occupied houses, the borrower's annual household income cannot be more than $28,000, excluding up to $4,000 in overtime; the maximum sales price of the house and land cannot exceed $86,000.

In some parts of Michigan, federal regulations allow MSHDA loans to be made only to first-time homebuyers.

The Authority also has $10 million remaining from a December 1982 bond sale, for growing equity mortgages on new construction only. The loans carry an interest rate of 12 7/8 percent, and the buyers may have an annual household income up to $31,748. MSHDA had considered calling these bonds but is deferring a decision because applications are again being received for the higher-rate mortgages. MSHDA officials said. The Authority estimated that 200 homes could be built with the money, creating an estimated 154 jobs.

Through June 30, the Authority had invested $362.6 million in 10,979 single family home mortgages in Michigan. Funds are entirely derived from the sale of bonds to private investors, not from state tax revenues.

HOORAY FOR THE CLUMSY CAVEMAN

Michigan Farm Bureau Editorial

They say that somewhere between 600,000 B.C. and 75,000
B.C., man discovered that fire could be used to cook food.
Speculation is that a caveman was probably enjoying the raw meat from some slain creature when he accidentally dropped a hunk of it into a nearby campfire. Upon retrieval, the caveman found the hot meat to his liking, and thus came the first of many barbecues.

No one knows for sure about this, just as we don't know for sure where the name "barbecue" comes from. The National Live-Stock and Meat Board says Caribbean Indians of the 16th century smoked meat on wooden lattices and called it "boucouc."
The Spanish then used the word
"barbacoa," which means "framework of sticks." And the French, not satisfied being known only for their pastry, coined the phrase "barbe a queue," meaning

"from whiskers to tail."

Regardless of the origin, or the spelling (Bar-B-Que, barbecue or barbecue), it's still one of the world's most popular forms of cooking. We can barbecue a simple hamburger, a good steak, or a whole hog. Even barbecued chicken is a delicacy, if done slowly.

Americans apparently have decided that using a grill to barbecue is a good thing. Back in 1969, there were over 40 million barbecue grills in service, says
the Barbecue Industry Association. There are over 110 million now in service and there are predictions that this number will rise to 150 million by 1990.

All this is good news to the nation's meat producers. They're pleased to know that these grills are owned by -millions of American families who will continue to buy beef, pork and poultry meat to cook on them.
Americans partake in one billion barbecue activities every year.
That's a lot of good eating, and a lot of good American-produced meat being consumed--thanks to that clumsy, ancient caveman who accidentally dropped his meal one day!

Barbequing Demonstration

There is nothing like the flavor and aroma of meat or poultry cooked to a turn on the outdoor grill.

It can be disappointing, and even wasteful, though, if the end product ends up charred instead of beautifully browned, or dry and tough not tender and juicy.

Thursday, August 4, at 1:00-3:00 and again at 7:30-9:30 at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw Avenue, the Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor the art of barbequing.
Gordon Dennis, Washtenaw County Director and Bill Ames, indirect heat, and how to barbeque a chicken over direct way) and on a rotisserie.

great fun to chase them and bite them, tearing into their flesh as the sheep try to flee. Once the dogs get away with this they will usually come back for more.
This report was written in the hope that people will realize it is essential to take proper care of their dogs. No one wants to believe that their dog would ever be the cause of an injury but if people would see the pain and suffering to animals they would understand the concern owners of the livestock victims feel.
