October Bloodmobile Successful

The October 17 Bloodmobile hosted by the Manchester United Methodist Church was most successful as reported in last week's Enterprise. 202 donors bolstered the sagging supply of blood in Washtenaw County for the American Red Cross making a total of 578 pints from this area so far this year, not counting the numerous local people who have gone to Ann Arbor and Detroit to donate for emergency operations.

If that's not enough of a record, let's count the names on the Gallon Donor Honor Roll for the area - 280! From that number one is a 6-gallon donor. Robert Panches (that's 48 pints!), three are 5-gallon donors and fifteen have given 4-gallons each. Manchester has been a regular participant in the Red Cross blood program since 1951.

Four new 1-gallon donors were added this time: Karen Kensler, Kenneth Kenyon, Robin Wellman and Shirley Whiteman. Those who earned their 2-gallon pins were: Robert Burkhardt, John Bihlmeyer, Bobby Roark, Joseph Voytas and James Sword. Ron Goodrich received his 3-gallon pin, and Ron Hawks, Ron Panches and Mike Scully are the newest 4-gallon donors. If there are any others who received pins and are not recorded here, please call 428-8852, Claire Reck, Volunteer Coordinator, and report the oversight, as we try to keep our records up to date.

Helping the professional staff from Southeastern Michigan Blood Center were eighteen local volunteers: Mrs. Robert Little was chairman-of-the-day and Mrs. Ica Schaffer, prescreeener; registrars, Mrs. Dan Boutell, Mrs. Ernest Ridge, Mrs. LeRoy Knickerbocker and Mrs. Jesse Walker; pack table, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. Ray Uphaus.

Escorts were Mrs. Alfred Strang, Mrs. Guy Little and Mrs. Charles Knorpp; observers, Mrs. Willard Mann, RN and Mrs. Aaron Nathan, RN. The Canteen who were members of Methodist Women United which furnished the food for the donors were Mrs. Lambert Esch, Chr., Mrs. Duane Roller, Mrs. Wendell Reinhart, Mrs. John Rigg and Mrs. Alfred Sannes.

Alber's Orchard donated the cider and apples and the American Legion Auxiliary, the orange juice.

The next Bloodmobile in Manchester is the Christmas Eve 50-pint clinic for children in Mott Hospital for over the Holidays. It will be from 9 to 12 a.m. on the morning of December 24 at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Mrs. William Schwab will be chairman-of-the-day. Anyone interested in donating for this special cause should contact Mrs. Schwab, 428-8976, by December 20. Sixty donors need to be registered to be sure the quota is made.

Halloween Party Monday, October 31

The Men's Club, again this year, will be sponsoring the Halloween Party, Monday, October 31st.

The Optimist Club and the Police Department will be fingerprinting children for those parents that are interested at the High School auditorium the same night and time as the party.

A fingerprinting program will also be held on Saturday, October 29 in the Lobby of the Sheriff's Department located in the Washtenaw County Service Center, 2201 Hogback Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 971-8400. The program is free of charge and will begin at 9:00 a.m. and continue on until 12:00 p.m. This program is sponsored by the Washtenaw County Sheriff Department's Youth Development Team.

Manchester Plastics Soars To New Height For United Way

Manchester Plastics, Inc., a custom injection molding operation which currently employs 95 people, proudly announces a most successful United Way Fund Drive!

Established in 1964 by Max Kenyon, the Company has always participated in Manchester's United Way Campaign.

However, this year, under the new ownership of Ronald T. Larizza of Larizza Industries, Inc., Manchester Plastics, Inc. has soared to a new height with their contribution of $3,210.80.

Mr. Larizza acquired MPI on June 15, 1983. He, in collaboration with Emery C. Jonas, MPI's new President, led off the Drive with a Company contribution of $1,500.00. Plant Employees and Office Staff picked up the impetus and contributed an additional $1,710.80.

Mr. Larizza's philosophy is: all businesses and their employees have a civic responsibility to the Community in which they live and/or work; it is the Company's and Employees' collective responsibility to assist less fortunate members of our Community; the United Way is one of the best means to accomplish them. The Employees demonstrated their support of and belief in Mr. Larizza's philosophy by their generous contributions.

Manchester Plastics, Inc. is a fine example of team effort - of people joining together in the spirit of giving - to help those less fortunate than themselves. Their contribution of $3,210.80 proclaims that they're proud to be

Agriculture In Action

WHAT DO FARMERS WANT?

Farm cash receipts are expected to increase $1.8 billion over last year. You'd think that prediction would be heralded as good news by farmers, but they're worried because most of the increase did not come from markets. Rather, $1.5 billion of the increase came from government payments, raising some very real questions about the direction in which farm programs are moving. U.S. agriculture.

So what is it that farmers do want?

The president of the nation's largest farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, answers that question simply: "We want improved net farm income in sound dollars." Robert Delano said there are

The two greatest stimulants in the world are youth and debt." Benjamin Disraeli

Pasta And Vegetables Combine For Hearty Dish

Pasta comes in all shapes and sizes and can be used in just as many ways! Fettuccine With Vegetables is one more way to use versatile pasta. As the weather cools and hearty appetites return, a dish combining chunks of vegetables and pasta in a rich cream sauce is a welcome menu addition.

Fettuccine With Vegetables uses familiar and favorite carrots and broccoli. A creamy white sauce made with sweet cream butter and seasoned with a hint of nutmeg, binds vegetables and pasta together into a family-pleasing side dish.

Try this recipe any time you're looking for a way out of the same-old-vegetable routine. You'll find it's ready within minutes after utilizing just one saucepan and cooking completely on top of the stove.

Treat your family to Fettuccine With Vegetables and watch for satisfied smiles.

New Health Center Entrance

A new entrance to Catherine McAuley Health Center is now open.

The entrance/exit was previously only an exit on the west end of the CMHC campus on Huron River Drive. It will provide better access to visitors approaching St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, a unit of the Health Center, according to Elliott Guttman, vice president for Facilities, Engineering and Construction.

The changes are part of a major realignment of roadways at the Health Center, brought about by several ongoing construction projects.

In addition to the west entrance changes, the Health Center will be opening up another entrance/exit on the east side of the campus on Huron River Drive in early November. Guttman said.

Middle School Girls Basketball

7TH GRADE Last week saw Manchester's 7th grade come away with one loss and one victory. In Ann Arbor on Monday, October 17, the Dutch handed the Mustangs of St. Francis a 14-10 loss. We got off to a quick 6-0 lead, and were never behind in the game. Manchester never went to the free throw line.

as a total of 10 fouls were called in the entire game. Scorers were Sarah Corwin with 8; Tracy Stengel with 4; and Cheryl Blumenauer with 2.

The Dutch had offensive trouble in Michigan Center on Thursday, as the tough Cascades League foe outscored Manchester 16-7. After 3 quarters, we were still in the game, with the score 10-7. However, a scoreless 4th quarter allowed the Cardinals to hand us our second loss in as many meetings with them. Missed free throw opportunities by the Dutch (1 for 14) were the difference in the game.

The Flying Dutchmen took their 5-3 record to Jackson Northwest on Monday, October 24, in hopes of repeating the 34-19 win performance of the first meeting of these two teams. Results of that game and Tuesday's home contest with Blissfield, in next week's paper.

8TH GRADE Last week the eighth grade girls basketball team traveled to Ann Arbor to play St. Francis and to Michigan Center.

On Monday, October 17, against the Mustangs of St. Francis the Manchester team played good defense and held their hosts to 14 points. On offense the Dutch were led by Dawn Brady with 11 points, Kim Bailey 9 points, and Rockie Weber 6 points. Down by 4 points at the end of the first quarter the Dutch outscored St. Francis 8 to 0 in the second quarter. After getting the lead Manchester didn't let up and outscored their opponent 18 to 6 in the second half for a 30 to 14 victory. On Thursday, October 10, the Manchester team failed to develop much of an offensive attack and lost 27 to 18. Kim Bailey was high scorer for the team with 4 points. Defensively, Ami Bragg played a very good game. She was assigned the job of keeping the ball away from a Cardinal player who had scored 18 points against us earlier in the season and held her to two points.

Police Group Helps Identify Solicitors

Citizens and business operators now have an instant way to verify the authenticity of solicitations they receive for advertising or contributions on behalf of police organizations.

The Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) has announced the establishment of a new free "HOTLINE" service that may be reached by dialing (313) 424-9666 during normal business hours for information.

Jack Brown, Executive Director of the Michigan FOP said his office is receiving an increasing number of calls "from people who are confused because they are not certain whether or not solicitations being received are on behalf of legitimate police organizations". In announcing the new service, Brown added, "It is quite natural that citizens would turn to the FOP for verification because we are well established with the largest membership statewide and our activities are easily recognized."

Brown said his organization invited all known police organizations to submit information about their groups for use by his staff when responding to the new "HOTLINE" inquiries. "Not only are we in a position to verify whether or not an organization in question exists and is legitimate", he said, "but beyond that we have compiled information about length of existence, membership and activities which should also assist potential supporters in deciding whether or not it is an organization they wish to contribute to."

Brown said that from time to time, schemes to mislead potential contributors and advertisers from individuals and/or groups which have no local membership and may, in fact, be nothing more than a personal enterprise representing few, if any police officers. In addition to the FOP, Brown says that there are a few recognized organizations which merit citizen support and that the new "HOTLINE" service can readily identify them.

The Michigan State Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police has been chartered since 1939 and has a membership of more than 12,000 professional police officers statewide. The official publication of the organization is The Peace Officer which is published quarterly.

The first ferris wheel was erected at the 1893 Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

BOWLING STIFFS

Reprint from the Manchester Enterprise, dated May 18, 1978.

Ann Arbor - May 8th, 1978

We have no reference to that process by which impecunious gentlemen of leisure keep their exchequer in good shape by lingering promises long drawn out, and which in vulgar parlance is called giving "stiffs," but we speak of the subjects of the dissecting room, which to ears polite are called "subjects" to the scientific and among the "Medics," (Medical students), are "stiffs." It may be of interest to some to know where all the stiffs come from, and where they go to, and it was to satisfy our curiosity that we looked into the subject, and learned that legally and properly all bodies from the Alms Houses, Hospitals and Prisons, should be sent to the State University for the use of the Medical school, which, if it were done, would leave less room for "body snatching," which, we are sorry to say, is sometimes indulged in, by parties who afterward sell them to the university authorities, who are (of course) ignorant of the means used to obtain them. Barrels having every appearance of containing the choicest pickins or rambos, or boxes whose contents are "Glass with care," turn out to be only a jacket for the dead, who, unceremoniously enter the college, via American Express. Express companies are not fond of handling corpses, and in case the bodies were shipped from the prisons, as such the expense would be much greater, besides calling too much attention to the business. On arriving here the bodies are deposited in the "stiff parlor," a room in the basement of the Medical building, where they are prepared for the dissecting room. The parlor is about twenty feet square with stone partition walls, and no windows or doors excepting the one leading in from the outside of the building. The furniture is very simple, consisting of two large vats, some four feet deep, six wide and eight long, with covers. At the time of our visit one vat was full, the cover down and pressed close to the brim by large stones placed on top. Twenty eight bodies were in this vat, and perhaps half that number were in the other, which was open, showing two or three bodies, scarcely discernible through the brine which partly filled the vat. On top of the heap lay a negro sprawling out as if enjoying the sunny side of a haystack. At the end of one of the vats lay some half dozen legs, which had been cut off at the knee, and were awaiting the need of some student. In the middle of the room, on the floor, lay the body of what had once been a woman, and judging from the symmetry of the bones, now painfully prominent, she had been well formed, perhaps beautiful, but, as to that, we had no means of judging for the skin of the face had been torn off to avoid possible identification, and the usual adjuncts of a woman's toilet being wanting, the body being arrayed in a light and festive costume, consisting of a pair of men's half hose, "only this and nothing more."

Bodies as they arrive are deposited on the floor, where they lay until "prepared," which is done by first injecting into the natural orifices of the body about two gallons of a solution of arsenite of soda to arrest decomposition. The carotid artery is then opened at the neck and about a gallon of red paint injected. This marks the position of every vein. After being prepared, the bodies are placed in the vats, there to await the midnight resurrection and journey up to the third floor, to the dissecting room. During the season in the dissecting room forty to fifty tables are used, four persons working at each table. Those tables are not the elaborate affairs many imagine them to be, but very plain wooden ones seven feet long, and two wide, with a groove near the edge, which drains the table toward the foot, there emptying into a small pail which hangs on a hook, and is made a receptacle for the refuse flesh, etc., which is taken from the body during the day's work. With four persons working on a stiff it takes from four to six weeks time to finish it, as they have to work very carefully, studying as they work, and listening to lectures from the demonstrator.

The room used by the lady students is separate and very small, having space for but four tables, and not having, like the main dissecting room, a large skylight, all of which causes some of the ladies to speak "not loud but deep" of the equal privileges of the sexes. Each student has to pay ten dollars for the quarter of the stiff, and is entitled to one-fourth of the bone after the dissection is complete. They do not make an exact division of the bones by the lines to which they worked, but agree among themselves as to who shall have this bone and who shall have that, each student being very particular to get their share, which they treasure up to study on, and as precious mementoes of their life in the medical department of the University of Michigan.

From The Office Of The Governor

Governor James J. Blanchard announced that travelers spent record amounts in Michigan this summer, pumping $3.17 billion into the state's economy between Memorial Day and Labor Day.

"Thanks to aggressive marketing, an imaginative promotion program and other Commerce Department and Travel Bureau innovations, travel continues to make significant contributions to Michigan's economic health," the Governor said.

"For the third consecutive year, combined direct and indirect spending by Michigan travelers is expected to pump more than $10 billion into the Michigan economy."

Governor Blanchard said that Michigan Travel Bureau figures indicated that travel activity in the state this summer was up more than four percent over 1982's strong showing, while consumer spending was up another three to four percent - increasing direct spending by as much as $128 million and indirect spending by an additional $99.8 million - for a total summer impact of $227.8 million over 1982's 12.94 billion.

One of the most encouraging aspects of summer travel in Michigan this year is that all geographic areas showed upward signs consistently all summer, according to Travel Bureau Director Jack S. Wilson.

Traffic counts, generally regarded as the single most significant travel indicator, were up 3.5 percent over summer, 1982, levels - showing increases for 14 of the 15 summer weeks.

Mackinac Bridge crossings were up for 13 consecutive weeks, peaking the week before Labor Day with 102,679 vehicles - an increase of 15.4 percent over the same week last year.

Weekend lodging was up 3.4 percent in Michigan hotels and motels, and nearly 70 percent of the establishments polled also indicated midweek increases.

"The Upper Peninsula showed some of the strongest travel gains in the state," the Governor said. "Lodging was up 6.7 percent - well above the statewide average - while the U.P. traffic count showed the strongest increase in the state - up 10 percent from last year."

Day use in state parks was up 25 percent over the summer of 1982, while camping surged in recent weeks by as much as 18 percent to overcome a slow start and break virtually even for the season. Wilson credited an aggressive advertising campaign, new marketing efforts, computerized information handling and new literature design, as exemplified by the new Michigan Book, with helping push Michigan tourism to new heights.

Total summer season inquiries to the Michigan Travel Bureau were up 8.5 percent from 1982 and jumped 122 percent from 1981 levels - soaring to record highs this summer, according to Wilson.

CHILDREN'S SAFETY

Michigan Department of Public Health - Office of Communications

The new shoes have been purchased, the immunization records checked and updated, and the lunches packed. But there is still something you need to do before sending your children off to school. It's always wise to constantly review to and from school travel safety rules, although children may insist that they already know them and don't need reminders.

Whether your children ride a bus or walk to and from school, you should insist that they go directly to their bus stop or school on a well-traveled, familiar route. Children should travel in a group or at least in pairs, rather than walking alone, and never travel in isolated areas, even if it is a short-cut. Whenever possible, they should walk on sidewalks or as far on the shoulder of the roadway as they can. And where placards are displayed in home windows where there is an adult available that children can go to if there is a problem. If your community doesn't have such a program, you might consider working with the schools to initiate one.

You should also make arrangements with a neighbor or friend to designate a place for your children to go to in the event you unexpectedly cannot be at home when the child arrives from school. This should be a routine that is clearly understood by your children so they will follow it immediately.

While speaking to you of child safety, I would also urge that as drivers we should be especially alert while driving around schools and along bus routes. Although the law varies and is subject to local jurisdiction, it is best to make it a personal policy to always stop when approaching a stopped school bus with lights flashing regardless of which direction you are driving. State law does require, however, that all traffic stop on state highways where there is no median or divider between lanes. State law also requires that the bus driver allow traffic behind the bus to pass and clear before resuming the pick-up route.

I offer these suggestions because we at the Michigan Department of Public Health are concerned about your children's safety as well as their health.
