Rambles At Lansing

This is a reprint of the Manchester Enterprise, dated June 29, 1899

Since the legislature has adjourned it is quite safe for a newspaper man to visit Lansing, the capitol city. We don't know but that we would escape being eaten up even had the politicians been there, but their great love for the dear editor during the campaign decided us not to get within the range of their vision again very soon or they might seek to repay us for whatever aid we lent in placing them in the easy chairs in the legislative halls.

Among the familiar sights that attract one's attention when alighting from the cars is the old Michigan Central depot. It is a historical landmark and needs no further comment. Some day a new one may grace the site.

The next thing that particularly attracts one's attention is the street cars, and they, like the depot are of antiquated design and are about two points ahead of a mule cart. Lansing is a city of magnificent distances. If you walk you wish you had ridden and if you ride you wish you had walked. But the company is improving the track and when the cars are unable to run any longer, new ones may take their place.

When they located the capitol at Lansing there was nothing there but a howling wilderness, and the wise servants of the people seized the whole territory, or thought they had. The streets are wide and the principal ones are paved with brick. They are kept quite clean and as the cement sidewalk craze has struck the town the gentlemen keep their shoes nicely blackened and the ladies wear pick hosiery.

Looking up Michigan avenue towards the capitol, one sees the fine bronze statue of Michigan's war governor, Austin Blair, and we can not help wondering when war governor No. 2, the invincible if not immortal Hazen S. Pingree, will be thus honored.

Business men and citizens tell us that Lansing has begun to feel the effects of the return of prosperity. Surely one has not to ascend to the top of the capitol dome to see the clouds of smoke from the factories or hear the busy hum of machinery, but the streets are not so crowded with trucks that one is in danger of being run over, though it keeps him guessing when he is going to be hit by a bicycle rider. They are the cheapest and quickest means of "getting there."

There is considerable building going on in the city, mostly in the resident sections, but there did not appear to be as much activity in that line there as in Jackson.

Sunday morning two freight trains on the Grand Trunk tried to pass on the same track, with the usual result. One locomotive was demolished, two cars were telescoped and others were more or less injured. Everything was piled up on the tracks in a promiscuous heap, but the wrecking crew cleared the way during the day and traffic was not interfered with. Two men were injured, but not seriously. Great

Save Post Seals For Klager

The students of Klager Elementary School are being asked to participate in a program sponsored by Post Cereals. This program will enable our school to obtain free athletic equipment for use in our Physical Education classes. The program is quite simple, all we have to do is collect as many proof-of-purchase seals from Post Cereals as possible. The more seals we accumulate the more free athletic equipment we can receive for our school.

The proof-of-purchase seals are worth one, two, three or four points and are marked accordingly, the larger the box the higher the point value. These seals are found on the sides of Post Cereal packages, specifically: Raisin Bran, Alpha Bits, 40% Bran Flakes, Grape-Nuts, Raisin Grape Nuts, Honeycomb, Toasties, CW Post, Treat-Pak, Pebbles, Post-Tens, Super Sugar Crisp, Fortified Oak Flakes, Grape-Nuts Flakes, Fruit 'N' Fibre, Smurfberry Crunch, Strawberry Honeycomb, and Honey Nut Crunch Raisin Bran.

We will be holding a contest to aid in the collection of these seals. Beginning now until the end of school each class will collect as many seals as possible, the class that brings in the most points will have a party and receive certificates at the end of the collection drive.

Enlist the help of your friends, neighbors, relatives, clubs and organizations to save these seals. The more points we earn the more athletic equipment we can receive. Our goal is to collect at least 6,000 points toward purchasing a cargo climbing net. We can only achieve this goal with your help, so start collecting these seals today!!!

Shakespeare Reading Club

The Shakespeare Reading Club's annual club trip took its members to the Gerald Ford Library on October 11, 1983. There they had a conducted tour of the facility and saw a film of the life of Gerald Ford. Afterward, the women lunched at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. The afternoon was arranged by Mrs. Otto Timmerman and Mrs. Herman Romelhardt.

The Club's first regular meeting was held on October 25, 1983 at the Logan Road home of Mrs. Floyd Parr. Fifteen members listened as Mrs. Jesse Walker read excerpts from a book by Jack Shepherd called "An Exceptional Marriage", which was a look into the lives of Louisa Johnson Adams and John Quincy Adams. It was a study in ambivalence, Louisa, having been born in England of American parents, and educated in France, in a carefree, indulgent manner, while John Quincy was reared by a patriotic founding father and by his mother, Abigail, an indomitable woman. John Quincy was born in New England and had a precise and spartan upbringing, where "regularity" was the keyword. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Harvard University and went on to become a lawyer, and then spent his life in public service. He was James Monroe's Secretary of State and was elected fifth president of the U.S. and like his father, John Adams, the second president of the U.S. he was defeated for a second term.

The program concluded with a vignette drawn from the New York Times Travel Section, which told the history of Strasburg, France and present day places to visit there. It was the first stop on our series of articles of places to see on a stop around the world.

On November 8, 1983, the

Manchester School On Main Street Successful

Roger Burpo, Roger Burpo, Jr. Ronnie Kosinski and Susan Kosinski enjoy the displays

Even a gusty, rainy day couldn't keep the community from viewing the Manchester School displays on Main Street. Friday evening volunteer school staff worked to transform the former Clothesline into an exciting display. Saturday from 9-12 the store was filled with proud community residents.

Mrs. Susan Davis' German students demonstrated playing Monopoly and other games speaking only German. Mr. Bill Symons and Mrs. Sheryl Hall's students demonstrated computers and business class work.

Mrs. Melinda Trout's Art students' work covered the walls. Visitors also marveled at the quilt made by Mrs. Judy Miller's Home Economics class and the First-Second Grade Team Room dryed square quilt. High School English Literature teacher, Mr. Buzz Hastings displayed a large number of materials including running video tapes of Shakespeare for visitors to enjoy. The Home Economics department again baked yummy cookies. Coffee and apples were also enjoyed.

The Manchester School slide show gave a glimpse inside all three schools. Lucky folks who came around 10:00 a.m. bounced and clapped to the Manchester Band's rendition of "New York, New York" and other favorites.

The Manchester Schools would like to thank Janice and David Little for donating the use of their building, the Manchester Merchants for allowing the schools to use their windows, the school maintenance department for cheerfully transporting furniture, Yvonne Henry and Carol Savage for coordinating the event and all of the teachers who made it possible.

Letters To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

Twenty-two years have passed since landing at New York. Did I like what I saw? Did I find out what I wanted to know? Was it worth the fear, the move, the separation?
I am so glad to be able to say "yes". I saw a land with great opportunities, a people with much freedom and happiness, and finally a true God willing to bless His people with grace and lead them with love.
Many questions were answered. Few of us realize that we are living in a rare land that has never been touched by a bomb. We know nothing about running, hiding and sometimes starving. To be able to learn about the original people who first lived in this land by traveling and seeing many untouched sites is very rewarding to me.
However, the fear of the unknown was nothing comparing to the fear acquired in the last few years as I witness the freedom and the bounty so easily being taken for granted. I know and can still feel the consequences of a government leading without his people having the right or the opportunity to speak.
One of my five children has decided that I should know the pain of having a rebellious child and when I see him so foolishly abusing his privilege I ask myself: Was I too busy to impress upon him the importance of a good citizen; did I selfishly keep the appreciation that I felt to myself, or did I just trust the school to do the job that I should have done? If so, shame on me.

On this Thanksgiving season I have a very happy Thanksgiving.
Thank you,
Nicole McGarry

To the Editor
We love our children and grandchildren.
We have to respect our athletes.
Many have good principles, we can learn from them.
They believe when they die, that is the end.
They go to the undertaker, get all dressed up and no place to go. However they don't want their children burnt out and gone at 20. They love them.
They train them not to pull all the stops.
They warn them to use good principles, live a long healthy life and enjoy the years they have.

HIT or MISS by farley

The following are actual insurance forms made out by car insurance holders who were asked to summarize the details of an accident in the fewest words possible. Some of them may be highly incompetent but quite entertaining. Perhaps our readers may find among them one that they could use in a similar circumstance.

"Coming home I drove into the wrong house and collided with a tree I don't have."

"The other car collided with mine without giving warning of its intentions."

"I thought my window was down, but I found out it was up when I put my head through it."

"I collided with a stationary truck coming the other way."

"A truck backed through my windshield into my wife's face."

"A pedestrian hit me and went under my car."

"The guy was all over the road. I had to swerve a number of times before I hit him."

"I pulled away from the edge of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law and headed over the embankment."

"In my attempt to kill a fly, I drove into the telephone pole."

"I had been shopping for plants all day, and was on my way home as I reached an intersection, a hedge sprang up, obscuring my vision and I did not see the other car."

"I had been driving for 40 years when I fell asleep at the wheel and had an accident."

"I was on my way to the doctor with rear end trouble, when my universal joint gave way causing me to have an accident."

"As I approached the intersection a sign suddenly appeared in a place where no stop sign had ever appeared before. I was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident."

"To avoid hitting the bumper of the car in front, I struck the pedestrian."

"My car was legally parked as it backed into the other vehicle."

"An invisible car came out of nowhere, struck my car and vanished."

"I told the police that I was not injured, but on removing my hat, found I had a fractured skull."

"I was sure the old fellow would never make it to the other side of the road when I struck him."

"The pedestrian had no idea which direction to run, so I ran over him."

"I saw a slow moving, sad faced old gentleman, as he bounced off the roof of my car."

"I was thrown from the car, as it left the road. I was later found in the ditch by some stray cows."

"The telephone pole was approaching. I was attempting to swerve out of the way when it struck the front end."

Local Girls Compete In State Contest

The State Competition of the "Make It Yourself with Wool" was held in Lansing, Michigan, November 19, 1983. This event is sponsored by the American Sheep Producers Council and the Michigan Sheep Breeders.

Kelly Bristle, 16, a Junior at MHS, placed 1st in the Junior Division. To be eligible for state competition you must construct a garment of 60% or more of wool and have won at the District Level. Kelly's winning outfit was a black jacket and slacks, completely lined, with accessories of a red hat and cumberbund. As a result of her efforts, Kelly will receive an all expense paid trip to Phoenix, Arizona January 17 - 20, 1984 to compete at the National Level.

Kimberly Bristle, 20, a Junior at MSU, placed 4th in the Senior Division with a flecked beige crocheted sweater and skirt.

This yearly contest is open to young adults from ages 10 thru 24. About 200 young guys and gals took part in the contest in the State of Michigan.

Kimberly and Kelly are the daughters of Karen and Stephen Bristle.

"Don't Go With Strangers"

Officer Mike Cobb and Skip Davis talk to the students about safety

Officers Mike Cobb and Skip Davis from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department presented a program called "Don't Go with Strangers" to all 3rd and 4th graders last Friday. They will return to present a similar program Friday, December 2 with the 1st and 2nd grades.

The program consisted of a movie where children were given examples of the wrong way to respond to strangers and the scene replayed with a safer response.

"We are appreciative that the Sheriff's Department is willing to take this time to help prevent tragedies with children," Principal Janice Hammond remarked, "They will also train the PTO to fingerprint as a service to our parents."

at home, Hawaii was being annexed to the United States.

The topic for the afternoon's program was "Winter's Wildflowers" and Mrs. van der Schalie gave a brief introduction to the subject, telling us wildflowers are grown in the sun, are aggressive colonizers, and were brought to this country by settlers, ships, wind and birds. Mrs. van der Schalie showed us countless specimens, many picked locally, including mullein, thryallis, jimson, ground cherry, teasel, chicory, bittersweet, pokeberry, pennycress, peppergrass, star thistle, velvet leaf, pearly everlasting, tansy and many others. Our speaker has a deep and probing interest in wildflowers, besides being very well-informed and her enthusiasm and love of her subject were contagious therefore the Shakespeare Club benefitted educationally and aesthetically.

Mrs. van der Schalie generously shared her specimens with her listeners and many went home with bouquets of flowers, suitable for dried flower arrangements.

For our vignette-one stop around the world we went via the New York Times Travel Section to Medford, Massachusetts, Paul Revere's first stop on his famous ride on April 19, 1775. Medford is the home of Tufts University, the sometime home of the aviatrix, Amelia Earhart and the birthplace of Fannie Farmer, author of the 1896 "Boston Cooking School Cook Book". Here was born Lydia Maria Child (1802-1880) who wrote the famous poem that evokes the present holiday season "Over the River and Through the Woods to Grandfather's House we go". Last but surely not least, Medford was the birthplace and home of John Pairpoint, composer of "Jingle Bells" which was written early in the 1850's and was played on the only piano in Medford.

The next meeting of the Shakespeare Reading Club will be held on November 29, 1983.

manchester art guild news

On Sunday, November 27, two people will represent the Manchester Art Guild during the "Open House" by downtown merchants. Local potter Bonnie Greenwald, will display a broad selection of one-of-a-kind functional and decorative claywork. Travel mugs, oil pots, pitchers, casseroles, soup tureens, and even small stocking stuffers will be just a few of the items for sale. Dexter craftsman, Margaret Spurr, will bring her herb wreaths in assorted sizes made of a variety of homegrown herbs, arranged for a delightful mixture of sight and aroma.

practical and natural, also perfect for gift giving. These two will join representatives from the Manchester Historical Society, three churches in town, and the class of 1986 who, individually will be serving coffee, and selling calendars, baked goods, and some bazaar items.

While in downtown, Sunday, be sure to stop by 134 E. Main Street (formerly The Clothesline), sip on a cup of coffee, and see what Bonnie and Margaret have to offer.

Manchester Area Historical Society

Over forty members and guests attended the Historical Society meeting last Monday. They enjoyed a two part program, the first half of which was composed of a review by Hazel Walker, of happenings in the Manchester area during the period 1835 to 1860. It was in this span of years that among other events, a number of churches including the Methodist, Baptist Society and Catholic were organized and houses of worship built; School Districts 1 and 2 were combined and a three story structure erected; a devastating fire (1853) destroyed fourteen businesses and a dwelling in the downtown area; and the brick houses on the west side of Ann Arbor Street were constructed.

Participation of Manchester area men in the Civil War was then related by Don Limpert. He cited a number of statistics including the fact that some 78 members of a quasi social-military group known as the Grange were the first to volunteer when the call came for men in 1861. Before the war was over nearly 300 men from the area had served the North with four Congressional Medal of Honor citations awarded. In 1866 the veterans formed the Comstock Post of the GAR which met regularly until the late 1900s. The last area Civil War soldier died in 1940 at age 96.

These presentations were very well received and followed by delicious hot mulled cider and fried cakes prepared by Liz Beurle and Mary Blossom.

institutions—the industrial school for boys, school for the blind, and agricultural college—and the legislators of the past generations have been so generous in appropriating the hard-earned dollars of the tax-payers, that it is not necessary to purchase a ticket before entering any or all of these interesting institutions. Indeed, if one makes known his presence to the superintendent he will be piloted about and given all necessary information, and on departing is asked to call again.

The college where the young men and women are taught to de-bug the potato vines and bedsteads scientifically, and do other things most practically is situated about three miles straight east from the capitol. Take a car, and if no accident happens, you will be landed on the college grounds. The ride out is an inspiring one; sometimes you think you are on a roller coaster, or "riding the swells" on the Detroit river. Again you think you are the middle team of a funeral procession, and the dust is oh so thick, for they have had no rains in several weeks and the passing teams raise a cloud of dust as thick as smoke from a man-o-war. If you have never yet visited the college grounds you should do so at the first opportunity. They are beautiful and a fine place in which to hold picnics. Many people of Lansing got here and scatter papers, cold biscuits and tin cans around, but the boys pick them up and keep the grounds tidy and the grass well trimmed. Every tree, vine, shrub, plant, and we were going to say weeds, is classified and marked, so that anyone, be he Farmer Wayback or Smarty from the city, may read and learn.

The walks and drives about the grounds are well kept and the old forest trees make a delightful shade. The buildings are quite inadequate, however, to accommodate the increased attendance of male and female students, but new ones are to be erected to relieve the pressure. The only building we took occasion to visit was the museum, where many specimens of animals and things of the present as well as of past ages can be seen. The ruthless hand of ignorance and the devastation of the relic hunter are having their effect upon the place and may cause the authorities to begin asking a fee for admission, in order to put a stop to such lawlessness.

We had to take time to look over the farm to see how the 'taters, corn and beans are comin' on so thick, but presume they will be an average crop. The clang of the street car bell warned us that the moment for departure was at hand, so good-bye until we come again.

Mat.

A bright new note for parties is to present a hot dip, set in a chafing dish or on a hot-tray.
