HIT or MISS by farley

Here's another group of vignettes about more or less famous people that we found interesting and which we hope you will too:

Fiorello LaGuardia, the son of a bandleader, always had a desire to try his own hand at conducting an orchestra.

Once, when he was mayor of New York, the opportunity arose for him to fulfill that wish. He was asked to lead the fire department band in a concert at Carnegie Hall.

The directors of that venerable institution decided to make the event something special. How often, after all, do you get a mayor to play the role of maestro? They made plans to launch a massive publicity campaign.

LaGuardia got wind of it and turned thumbs down on the hoopla. He was acting as a musician, he insisted, not as a politician.

"Please no fuss," he requested. "Just treat me as you would Toscanini."

During one period of the 1920s Bernard Berenson came to New York City for a month's stay. A prominent New Yorker, who was away on vacation, offered the art expert the use of his luxurious apartment, with its staff of servants.

Berenson enjoyed the visit immensely; so much so that when he was ready to leave, he wrote home to Italy to have a painting from his collection sent to his host, as a token of his appreciation.

The 1920s passed; the stock market collapsed, and the New Yorker who had befriended Berenson was forced to dispose of his works of art. Only then did he learn how handsomely he had been compensated for his hospitality. The painting Berenson had ordered sent as a token of his appreciation had a value of a quarter of a million dollars.

In March, 1909, the entire Taft clan, including distant relatives, descended on Washington to attend the inauguration of the family's brightest star -- William Howard Taft.

After Taft had taken the oath of office, they waited with anticipation and pride for him to deliver his inaugural address. All except one were confident it would be a memorable oration, delivered by a masterful speaker.

Charles Phelps Taft, the president's youngest son, age 11, wasn't so sure that what he was about to hear would appeal to him, so he had brought along a copy of "Treasure Island" in the event that it did not.

With each passing year, criminal attorney Clarence Darrow, always a cynic, took an even dimmer view of life. Listening to him sound off at his 80th birthday party, a pretty blond guest asked:

"Don't you believe in anything?"

"Young lady," Darrow gloomily responded. "I don't even believe in blondes anymore."

Once, when Pablo Picasso was a young painter in Paris, his studio was burglarized. He took a hasty inventory to determine what had been stolen. Then, highly agitated, he hurried off to tell a friend about the break-in.

"Was anything of value taken?" the latter asked.

"No, just a few trinkets and some linens," the painter said.

"That's all? Then why are you carrying on so?"

"Because the burglar meant this as an insult, that's why!" Picasso fumed. "How else can you explain the fact that he didn't take even one of my paintings?"

Arthur Brisbane, the newspaper editor and columnist, could not understand why horse players found it so difficult to pick a winner. To him, it was simplicity itself. All one had to do was to bet on the animal with the strongest heart.

The heart was the key, he wrote in his column. To show how deeply convinced he was of this, he announced that as soon as he received the pertinent data, he would predict the winner of the forthcoming Kentucky Derby.

He sent a reporter to Churchill Downs with instructions to have an X-ray taken of the heart of each of the eight entrants. This was an impossible assignment, as the horse owners would have no part of it. Rather than admit failure to Brisbane, the reporter had eight X-rays taken of a work horse at the track.

He affixed the name of a different Derby entry to each X-ray and sent the lot to Brisbane, in New York. Brisbane decided which one had the strongest heart and predicted that it would win. And, of course, Fire Destroys Home. Your Help Needed!

The loss of ones home is bad enough at any time, but on the day before Christmas it is even worse. Everything including all the Christmas gifts, went up in flames this Holiday Season when the Burgos home at the corner of Jacob and Walker Roads burned to the ground December 24th.

Manchester Family Service is assisting the American Red Cross in collecting things for this unfortunate family. People wishing to help are asked to call Mrs. Franklin Reck, 428-8852 or Mrs. William Schwab, 428-3976 to register their donations of clothing, furniture and other household items. Do not deliver things at this time, but give a complete list of items you wish to donate, your name and phone number so the agency or the family can contact you as soon as they are located and able to accept help.

Most any type of furniture will be needed. Clothing needs are all for large sizes -- 36 by 30 pants to 42 by 31 jeans for father and son; 34 to 42 sizes for mother and two daughters. Bedding and other household things will be welcome. Monetary gifts should be made out to Manchester Family Service for Burgos Family Fire Fund and mailed to Merrill Korth, treasurer, Manchester Family Service, 410 Adrian Street, Manchester, Michigan 48158.

Board Meeting Date Changed

The Manchester Board of Education has advised that the date for the regular Board meeting in January has been changed from Monday, January 16 to Monday, January 23, 1984.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson requested the change in order to enable him to attend a special invitational seminar with the State School Superintendent Phillip Runkel in Flint, Thompson, had previously been selected as a participant in Superintendent Runkel's project to study the process of downsizing school districts. The January meeting will be a follow up to that project.

Noting also that only 13 days existed between the end of the holiday vacation and the original date for the regular meeting the Board was concerned that the Administration have sufficient time to conduct school business in preparation for the meeting.

The regular January meeting now scheduled for Monday the 23rd will take place at the usual 8:00 p.m. time in the High School Library.

Two Parties Instead Of One

Reprint of the Manchester Enterprise, dated November 6, 1979

Last Friday, October 31st, was the 63rd birthday of our worthy postmaster, Chauncey Washburn. For about a week "Walt" thought he "smelt a mice," as his wife was calling on him for "ginger bread," etc., and he began to quiz and snoop around the culinary department of his cozy mansion. His labors were rewarded, for he found a large supply of goodies safely tucked away, and it did not take him long to come to the conclusion that there was going to be a birthday surprise party at his house. Putting his detective faculties into play, he ascertained that the invited guests would consist of his old friends and neighbors; all old people, and married.

Now, postmasters like to have a little fun as well as the rest of mankind, and he set himself to work getting up a little party of his own, for it so happened that the 36th anniversary of their wedding would occur just two days before the birthday.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in response to a letter published in your paper last week. I also am a very concerned parent of two Manchester band students. I have been concerned about this situation for weeks, but for different reasons than you, Mrs. Mannor. I started working with Mary McCloskey in mid-August, hoping for another good year. We all know last year could not have been better. The school year was still very young when it became very apparent that things were not going well at all for our Band program. Mary McCloskey was young, very inexperienced and could not handle the job she had taken on. I am also very aware that the 7th and 8th grade band gave her an impossible way to go. They came to class without their instruments, they brought them and never took them out of the case. That class was total chaos, and a good many of those students loved every minute of it. Mrs. Mannor - you talked about living, caring, and sharing in your letter. Let us make an addition to your list, let's add cooperation. In order for a band program to grow and succeed, there must be cooperation between students and director and there also needs to be support from the parents. Unfortunately for both of our band directors in Manchester this year there has been precious little cooperation from this group of students, and with all the problems going home with students I can't understand why more parents have not come to Booster meetings and talked things out with our band director. He is available one evening each month to parents who wish to take their time to meet with him.

When the new band director was hired, he was told just exactly what the situation was he was walking into. He had one heck of a job ahead of him picking up the pieces and restoring order to the classes, especially the 7th and 8th grade. Being at the high school every day, I saw and heard plenty that went on. I only wish other parents could have seen first hand what I did. I, too, have a child in that band and I respect Mr. Vechinski and support everything he has done since he has been with us in Manchester.

As far as the uniform requirement goes, Mr. "V" did not bring this with him. That band hrs had a uniform requirement for concert dress for at least the last five years. I'm not sure, but I think that even pre-dates the designer craze.

My daughter is a sophomore this year in the High School Band and she wore white pants when she was in the 7th and 8th grade band. At that time I didn't make a fuss about buying them anymore than I make a fuss about buying athletic shoes for my son for football and baseball. I feel that respecting that uniform requirement is supporting the band program.

The students in that band knew they needed white pants for concert dress as early as last October. I found a pair for my son as late as a week before the concert. I know it was not an impossible situation. Do you really think it would be fair to let one student participate in that concert in dark grey pants when all the other parents made the effort and put out the money for white pants in respect of the uniform requirement? I really think not.

There are also uniform requirements for band at the high school level, not only for concerts, but also for Marching Band. These students do not participate unless they are in proper dress either.

I am also well aware that at least (16) students have dropped out of the 7th and 8th grade band. What really upsets me is that the majority of those students were allowed to drop band without their parents even consulting with Mr. "V" first. This is a little hard for me to believe, there are usually two sides to every story. I think its only fair that the parents in this school district at least give this man a chance to defend himself, I am sure they would expect that much for themselves if they were in his shoes.

I also feel it is very unfair to crucify this man for some of the reasons I have heard for these students quitting.

Reasons such as:
1. I don't like getting off the bus at the high school mornings, I want to be with my friends before school.
2. He's not Mrs. Wanlass, if I can't have her I don't want to be in band.
3. My best friend quit, I want to quit, too.

These reasons all seem pretty petty to me. They surely are not reasons Mr. "V" should be blamed for.

I, too, am sorry Mrs. Wanlass left Manchester so soon. The fact remains she is gone, and may not return at all. If this happens I don't believe we in Manchester should dump our Band program. Believe it or not, there are band students who want band with or without Mrs. Wanlass.

I feel at this time we in Manchester have still another good, qualified and ambitious Band Director working in our school system.

I have worked very close with Mr. Vechinski in the short time he has been in Manchester and he has my full support. He is a decent caring human being, not a monster. He can even be a lot of fun if the students just give him a chance.

I too wish the band parents in this community would physically support our band program. There is a lot of talent out there, they deserve our support. There is a Band Booster meeting every month, if you have concerns, please come to these meetings, sit down and talk out your concerns with Mr. "V". He deserves the right to defend himself, to tell his side of the story. I feel the air does need to be cleared. Then we could all get on with building our band program in Manchester. This program needs and deserves everyones support.

Respectfully Submitted,
Jan Howell, President
Manchester Band Boosters

Superintendent's Contract Extended

The Manchester Board of Education has taken action to extend the contract of Superintendent Gene Thompson for an additional three year period through June, 1986. Thompson's previous contract had been due to expire in 1985. The Manchester Board annually considers the addition of a third year to his contract. Thompson expressed his appreciation for the vote of confidence stating, "I feel that we have established a smooth functioning administrative team made of up Board and Administrators. We all understand our respective roles and work together with a great deal of confidence in one another. This is by far the finest group of Board Members with whom I have had the pleasure to work. My level of job satisfaction in the Manchester Schools is extremely high. While other school districts have from time to time expressed interest in obtaining my services as a school superintendent it would take an extraordinary situation to draw my interest from the Manchester Community. I like the atmosphere we have established in our community, enjoy my work, and feel very appreciated by my Board. This Board and community should feel very confident that they will continue to receive the utmost of my professional interest and ability. I will continue to do the very best job of which I am capable."

Letters To The Editor

We are not aware of what the student was or was not wearing but we would just like to state a few known facts as we have been in band for 6-8 years.

First of all the attire of the Manchester Band, be it high school or middle school, is known well in advance. It is not something that is sprung upon parents and students at the last minute.

It is too bad that the student involved could not bring himself to wear what every other band member wore. What makes him any better than the rest of the band. If this is to be the feeling then why shouldn't varsity choir members, athletes, cheerleaders, etc. wear what they wish. I wonder if these same people who are complaining would like to see each of the above groups perform, each in a different attire. What's wrong with a dress code in any of these areas. It only helps give our school class and keep us from looking like slob.

In response to the second part of her letter, if the truth were really known, we feel that most of the students could not take the discipline along with the fun, and that is really what caused most of them to drop out of band. Parents or students who blame the dress code are only using this excuse as a cop-out.

The attire of the band is not something new. It has been the same for several years back. The only thing that has changed is that the girls in the high school concert band were changed to long, black skirts, which the band boosters furnished. As members of the high school concert band, we agree with this change.

In the short time that Mr. Vechinski has been here, the high school band has improved immensely. Mr. Vechinski is an excellent director and has taught the band many new, beneficial techniques and showed us that band can be fun.

In closing, we would just like to commend whoever it was that made the ultimate decision the night of our Christmas Concert.

THE DISCONTENT OF DOMESTIC CONTENT

Until Michigan Farm Bureau President Elton R. Smith, in his annual address to members last month, came out swinging against the domestic content bill, it's unlikely that many farmers knew what it was. They should know because it could change their lives.

Simply put, domestic content means that two-thirds of all parts and equipment in imported Japanese cars and trucks would have to be made in the U.S. by U.S. auto workers. Obviously, that would throw quite a pipe wrench in the Japanese car business, and its U.S. sales and distribution system. Instead of making more jobs in the U.S., as the unions see, the prestigious Wharton Econometrics think-tank figures that economic fall-out would actually cost about 423,000 jobs in this country and raise consumer costs around $1,000 a car.

But the cost to farmers—especially grain and soybean farmers—would go beyond price into widespread bankruptcy. The Japanese would retaliate—and where? In U.S. farm exports that are running about $6 billion a year. Japan is our number one farm customer.

So farmers had better begin to take an interest in domestic content. Under the prodding of the U.A.W., the House has passed domestic content legislation. Some say that the Senate will never go along with it, and that even if it did, the president would veto it. Those optimists better remember: the year of the great speckled bird of politics is on us. It's called election year.

That means all bets are off!

It was moved by Talcott to adjourn the meeting at 9:00 p.m. Supported by Mann. All yeas.

Respectfully Submitted,
Kent P. Talcott
Secretary.

Band Boosters Minutes

The meeting was called to order in the High School Band room on Wednesday, November 30, at 7:08. The minutes from October 24 were read and corrected. Treasurer, Penny Getty, gave the following report: Checking - $38.54, Savings - $6,765.03, Uniform - $648.63 and Scholarship - $374.15.

These amounts are all up to date with all bills paid including the fruit that the highschoolers were selling and the 7th and 8th grade sale items. The winners as top salespeople among the highschoolers were Brian Getty who was awarded $35, Andrea Vassoff who was awarded $10, and David Moore who was also awarded $10.

Old Business: The sweaters have arrived and we are satisfied with the coloring. There was some discussion on how and to whom the bill would arrive.

The material for the high school girls' black skirts has been purchased, and we received an excellent discount on the price. The bill should be paid by the school since this is considered "uniform". We have been unable to purchase a large amount of white blouses, so these will be temporarily provided by the students themselves at this time.

Band Director Lance Vechinsky has begun to work out a plan for high schoolers to earn points towards an awards jacket. Students would be able to achieve a possible 50 points by the end of their sophomore or beginning of the junior year which would qualify them for the jacket. A form will be printed by Mr. Vechinsky for this purpose.

A form is being sent to the parents of middle school band students for signing up for tutoring, either by an adult or by a qualified student.

New Business: We would like to check into the possibility of having dances after the upcoming basketball games which are held on Fridays.

We will consider a possible fruit sale for the high schoolers in the spring when there would not be so much competition from other seasonal sales.

After discussion, it was decided that we would again provide refreshments at the Christmas Concert. High School Band members will provide punch and coffee, and 7th and 8th grade Band members will be asked to bring a dozen cookies each. We will also ask the choir members to help with providing coffee. The Concert will be December 14.

There was a special request by Sharon Hunt that the Majorettes be given some kind of year-end award such as a pin, etc. The Band Boosters were in general agreement that this should be done.

It was announced by president Jan Howell that a special Advisory board is almost ready to give their recommendations to the Board of Education. Of interest to our group is the recommendation that Music and Fine Arts both be qualifying subjects for official academic credits at the High School level. This is something our group has been backing for a long time.

A very informative discussion ensued whereby middle school parents Nancy Houck and Sallie Anderson asked Mr. Vechinsky about his middle school policies and procedures.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:10.

Respectfully,
Nancy Houck, Secretary

HIT or MISS

A member of Alexander Woolcott's poker club brought a friend along one night and asked that the man be allowed to join the game.

"He's OK," he assured the others. "He's not much of a player and he's got plenty of money to lose."

After a few hands, it became evident that the newcomer was a whale of a player and was not about to lose anything. In fact, when the game broke up, he was ahead $500. Woolcott had the uneasy feeling that he and his pals had been taken by a ringer.

The next day, he asked a credit company to run a check on the stranger. The report revealed that he was indeed worth a lot of money -- $5 million, to be precise. Woolcott felt ashamed of himself for having suspected the man. As an act of atonement, he sent the credit company a note, which read:

"This is to advise you that Mr. --- is now worth $5,000,500."

Planet Watching In January

January offers sky-watchers what may be the most interesting meteor shower of 1984 and a display of all nine planets, says University of Michigan astronomy Prof. Richard G. Teske.

"The Quadrantid meteors may be seen in the dark northeast sky after midnight until early dawn January 4. They appear to come from an area between the handle of the Big Dipper and the keystone-shaped constellation of Hercules to the lower right of the handle," Teske says.

"Between one and three meteors per minute should be seen, especially if viewed from a dark location. Observation will be assisted by a nearly new moon that will not light up the sky to hamper visibility."

Although the Quadrantids usually provide a good show, Teske notes that Upper Midwesterners may not be able to see it because of the low temperatures and high incidence of cloudiness at this time of year.

He explains that a meteor shower "occurs when the Earth encounters a stream of dust and gravel debris shed from a comet. The tiny meteoritic pieces follow their own independent orbital track around the sun, like a swarm of miniature planets.

"Their orbit intersects our Earth's orbital path. When the Earth reaches the intersection point, some of the debris plunges into the upper atmosphere at speeds of many miles a second. The result is a shower of meteors."

During the last two weeks of January, all nine planets will be on view for early risers.

"Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto will be too faint to be seen without a telescope," Teske points out, "but the other five will sparkle brightly along a great arc from high in the southwest to the eastern horizon at dawn."

"Mars is highest, located in the south-southwest. Eastward from it is fainter Saturn. A greater distance eastward from Saturn is brilliant Venus, drawing closer to the sun on its way to pass behind it and emerge later this year as our evening star.

"Venus moves downwards from day to day towards Jupiter, still close to the southeast horizon at dawn. The two will pass quite close to one another on January 26.

"Mercury will become visible around the 13th of the month when it will be seen very near to Jupiter," Teske says. "The two planets will keep company for a week. Then Mercury will begin to sink back down towards the rising sun as it too swings behind the sun along its orbit."

Public Notice

MANCHESTER TOWNSHIP PLANNING COMMISSION NOTICE OF HEARING

Manchester Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 8:00 p.m. EST January 29, 1984 at the Manchester Township Hall, 275 South Macomb Street, Manchester, Michigan on a proposed amendment to Ordinance No. 9 Manchester Township Zoning Ordinance that would delete subsections a through f under definition of Home Occupation in Article II, Section 2.02 and add Section 13.14 to Article XIII as follows:

Section 13.14 Home Occupation. Home occupations shall be subject to the following conditions:

- a. The home occupation shall be carried on within the dwelling or within a building accessory thereto
- b. No article shall be sold or offered for sale on the premises except such as is produced within the dwelling or accessory building or is provided incidental to the service or profession conducted within the dwelling or accessory building
- c. There shall be no exterior storage of materials or equipment
- d. No nuisance shall be generated by any heat, glare, noise, smoke, vibration, noxious fumes, odors, vapors, gases or matter at any time
- e. No hazard of fire, explosion or radioactivity shall exist at any time
- f. The Planning Commission may permit not to exceed three (3) persons other than the family occupying the dwelling to be employed in the home occupation.

and also add subsections as follows: Article IV Section 4.03-J "Home Occupation" Article V Section 5.03-M "Home Occupation" Article VII Section 7.03-H "Home Occupation" and delete Article VI Section 7.02-C

The text of the proposed amendment may be examined at the Manchester Township Hall, 275 South Macomb Street, Manchester, Michigan during regular business hours.

Studies Show Widespread Misuse Of Child Seats

Despite the first-year success of Michigan's child restraint law, only about one of every five children is restrained properly, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

While State Police statistics show a 27 percent decline in casualties for children under 4 during the law's first year, two independent studies show only about 20 percent of the devices are being used correctly.

"The compliance rate increased from 16 to 42 percent during the first year of the Michigan law," said Robert Cullen, Auto Club's Safety and Traffic Engineering manager. "However, there is evidence that many parents are not following the manufacturer's recommendations on proper use of the restraints."

Misuse involves failure to secure the child properly within the restraint or failure to anchor the child restraint correctly to the seat. In addition, infant restraints (for children under 20 pounds) may be facing forward instead of rearward.

Michigan's child restraint law, which went into effect April 1, 1982, requires infants under 1 year to be in an approved child restraint regardless of seating position. Children ages 1 through 3 must ride in an approved restraint while in the front seat and either a safety seat or a seat belt in the back seat.

A study conducted by Physicians for Automotive Safety, which was based on more than 1,300 observations at 23 sites, including Ann Arbor, showed a misuse rate of 75 percent in the way devices were anchored to the vehicle with a lap belt or where a top tether was required.

"A seat with a top tether strap affords extra protection against head injury only if it's installed properly," said Cullen. "Otherwise the restraint is more likely to pitch forward during a sudden stop or collision, and tests have shown that it leads to more serious head injuries than if the child had been restrained with a lap belt."

An observational study conducted by Borgess Hospital in Kalamazoo showed a compliance rate of nearly 46 percent following the new law, but only 20 percent of the children were restrained properly.

"Tests have shown that child restraints will not perform satisfactorily and can even fail entirely if they aren't used according to the manufacturer's instructions," said Cullen.

"Parents must be reminded that these seats were not designed to provide confinement, elevation and prevent interference with the driver, but to give optimal crash protection."

The four steps to ensure safety for children riding in cars are: 1) Only use restraints that meet strict federal safety standards (identified by a seal on the box or a label on the restraint). 2) Fasten the harness and make sure all straps fit snugly. 3) Fasten the vehicle's seat belt around the restraint in the position recommended by the manufacturer (a locking clip is required when the seat is secured by a combined lap and shoulder belt). 4) Place the device in the back seat for the best protection, ideally in the middle.

In addition, a restraint with a top tether strap must be anchored properly and adjusted frequently.

State Mapping Plans For Road Upgrading

A two-cent-a-gallon increase in Michigan's motor fuel tax Jan. 1 will enable the state to continue making headway on long-deferred road, street and highway improvements, according to State Transportation Director James P. Pitz.

"Transportation survival package" enacted last year provided for the increase and earmarked all the revenue for transportation. Thirty-five percent goes for work on state highways and the rest for county roads, municipal streets and bus and rail systems throughout the state.

A typical motorist driving 10,000 miles a year will be paying about $5 more in gas taxes in 1984 than in 1979 when autos were less fuel efficient.

Without additional funds, Pitz said, the state's transportation network "would fall back into the same trend of decay and deterioration that existed prior to 1983."

"We did a lot of work this year, resurfacing and reconstructing 737 miles of state highways, compared to 144 miles in 1982," he said. "For the first time in at least 10 years we began to catch up on a long and growing backlog of needs, improving more miles of highways than deteriorated into poor condition."

The state transportation package enacted in December 1982 was keyed to a two-cent-a-gallon increase in the 11-cent tax on gasoline and diesel fuel. It also allowed for an additional two-cent increase, using a formula based on the increase in the cost of highway maintenance and the continuing decline in the consumption of gasoline as automobiles become more fuel efficient. The law caps the tax rate at 15 cents.

Gas consumption in Michigan fell by more than 1.1 billion gallons from 1978 to 1983, declining from 4.6 billion gallons to 3.44 billion.

The two-cent increase is expected to raise about $65 million, or $32.5 million per penny. In 1978, each penny of gas tax raised $46 million.

Pitz noted that the nation's auto fleet now is 30 percent more fuel efficient than at the start of the 1973 Arab oil embargo, which started gas prices on an upward spiral.

The average motorist driving 10,000 miles a year in a car getting 14 miles per gallon in 1979 paid $78.50 in state gas taxes at the 11-cent rate then in effect. In 1984, the motorist driving the same distance in a car getting 18 miles a gallon and paying a tax of 15 cents a gallon will be charged $83.40, an increase of $4.90.

Pitz said the added revenue from the 1982 transportation package enabled Michigan to match all federal aid available for highways, roads and streets. The state's share of federal aid rose from $194 million in fiscal year 1982 to $356 million this year.

In calendar year 1983, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) took bids on projects costing $382.5 million, more than two and a half times the total of $146 billion in low bids last year.

The department takes bids both for work on the 9,470-mile state highway system and on county roads and municipal streets eligible for federal aid.

Pitz said he expects work to be placed under contract in 1984 will again approach $400 million.

led by a social worker and a nurse who specialize in working with cancer patients.

The nine-week session begins January 11 and will meet 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesdays at the U-M Hospitals. Although there is no charge, pre-registration is requested by January 4.

The support group began during the fall of 1983. "The last session was very successful," said Diane Hatch, R.N., an oncology nurse who will lead the discussions. "We had women of all ages, from a variety of backgrounds, who were able to share their concerns and learn from others' experiences. We were also able to dispel many myths. It was really a positive experience for everyone."

Topics to be covered during the session include "Family relations," "Sexuality" and "Changes in Self-Image." Two movies, "Hobson's Choice" and "Three Husbands," will be viewed. Claudia Kraus, M.S.U., also will lead discussions.

To register or to obtain more information, contact Claudia Kraus or Diane Hatch at 763-5756.

DR. W. ATKINSON DIRECTOR

For Your Back's Sake, Lift It Right

Every year there are millions of back injuries. While the ones everyone hears about the most are associated with industry, the identical strains and sprains occur in a lot more situations that receive less publicity. It can happen when a housewife decides to lift one end of a sofa to straighten the rug. It happens when a middle aged office worker tackles heavy yard work. It happens also when a physically fit younger person lifts a big weight the wrong way.

A large proportion of the resulting strains and sprains could have been avoided if two basic procedures had been followed. First, use common sense. If the load to be lifted is too heavy for you, try to do it in smaller sizes. If this isn't possible, get help, even if it means waiting to do it.

Second, you should know how to lift. A long study of back injuries made by the National Safety Council showed that far too many people over-reach or twist or bend their backs when lifting. The right way, the Council and chiropractors, who are back specialists, found is to keep your back straight and let your legs furnish the power. Even if you're not of shape, most likely the worst that can happen is to have temporarily sore leg muscles.

Your chiropractor deals almost daily with back strains and sprains that would never have happened if the patient had known how to lift. Use your head and your legs -- and save your back.

anniversary. He therefore invited the young married people and a number of the single gentlemen and ladies of the village to partake of a pan of fried cakes and have a jolly time at this house on the evening of Wednesday, the 29th ult.

The evening came and at eight o'clock the house was illuminated and a gay party of young people had assembled. The cornet band gave them a serenade, and were invited in. The evening was pleasantly spent and the company departed, wishing the old couple many happy returns of the day.

THE BIRTHDAY PARTY proved to be a very enjoyable occasion. The guests, most of whom have lived in this vicinity since it was a howling wilderness, had a gay time talking over old times and noting the many changes which have taken place.

Mr. Walbridge came here in 1850, and for six years was landlord of the Manchester Hotel, where he formed an extended acquaintance. Indeed we do not know of a man who is better known, and who knows more people, than he does. The hotel was in its palmy days then, and young and old, from far and near, went there to parties, and they always had a good time.

Leaving the hotel, he engaged in various occupations. He was a first-class auctioneer, and in fact a very handy man in the community, for he could turn his hand to most anything.

He was appointed postmaster in 1861, and for 18 years he has served Uncle Sam and this community very faithfully. He has done his share towards improving and building up our village, having erected the brick block now occupied by C. Naumann, two brick residences on Ann Arbor street, and a number of less important edifices about the place. In 1874 he was elected President of the village, and all through the "crusade" he conducted the affairs of the village in an able and impartial manner. He has done many praiseworthy acts which might be mentioned and may be at his next birthday.

Cranberry-apple pie combines flavors of two favorite fruits

It's that cranberry time of year. And what better way to finish off a holiday feast than with an apple pie that has unmistakable overtones of cranberry?

Here's a recipe from the kitchens of Heublein Inc., producers of Bogg's Cranberry Liqueur.

CRANBERRY-APPLE PIE
 4 medium tart cooking apples
 1 can (16 ounces) jellied cranberry sauce
 1/4 cup brown sugar
 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup raisins
 1/2 cup Bogg's Cranberry Liqueur
 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 Pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie

Combine all ingredients except pastry. Pour in pastry-lined pie plate. Cover with top pastry crust.

Cranberry-Apple Pie combines the good taste of two favorite holiday fruits.

Bake in preheated 450 degree Fahrenheit oven 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Continue baking 40 to 45 minutes or until browned. Garnish with apple-pear rose, if desired. Serves 6-8.

Banana has appeal as nutritious, low-calorie food

The banana, America's favorite fresh fruit, weighs heavy in some people's minds with an image of a fattening food. Banana splits and banana cream pie are not dishes that generally appeal to the weight conscious.

But like the potato, which often winds up slathered with sour cream or fried in fat, the banana actually is a low-calorie food that can play a role in weight control.

"A medium banana only has 92 calories," notes Donna Higgins, head of Del Monte Kitchens for Del Monte Corporation, the world's third largest banana producer. "But most important, that banana may be the most filling and satisfying 92 calories you can eat."

Higgins says that bananas fit into an everyday diet in many ways. A banana for breakfast provides a filling, high-energy food that may help eliminate the urge for a donut or pastry in midmorning.

A banana in the lunch box is a low-calorie, nutritious substitute for a sugary noontime dessert. For those who eat lunch out, stick a banana in the desk or buy one from a cafeteria on the way back from lunch. Eating a banana prior to dinner may help you eat less, Higgins says. For dessert or as a snack, a banana satisfies the desire for something sweet without consuming the refined sugar and fats that go into most desserts. ▲

After Holiday Tree is Useful

Home gardeners have found use for their Christmas tree after the holiday.

First cut off the boughs. Smaller branches are placed around plantings or on garden beds where the ground is exposed. This serves as a mulch as well as protection from heavy frost.

Larger branches are used to build a teepee-like protection over hybrid azaleas, laurel, and other tender shrubs. Discarded trees may also be used as protection and shelter around large boxwood and rhododendron. These should be well anchored so they will not crush the planting or blow away.

Still another after-holiday use of a Christmas tree is to erect it as a backyard bird feeder. Suet can be hung from the branches to attract many of our birds. A feeding shelf can be erected on sturdier branches for using the seed mixtures that many types of birds look for.

AFTER CHRISTMAS

Practice safety during the New Year Holidays; Be careful with candles, electric lights, overloaded circuits and other decorations. Be sure to extinguish all candles and disconnect lights when you leave your house. When traveling, give yourself enough time to drive slowly and carefully. Schedule enough rest stops to keep you alert.

May all good things be yours all through the year.
