Mustard Culture

Reprint from the Manchester Enterprise, dated October 12, 1871.

While at the D., H. & I. R.R. freight house, a few days since, we saw one of our substantial farmers, Mr. Lyman Baldwin, unloading a number of barrels from his wagon.

We inquired, "What have you there?"

"White Mustard seed," said he.

"Did you raise it on your farm?"

"Yes, sir."

"How many acres did you have, and what was the yield?"

"I had 27 acres, and I shall have about 12,000 pounds, or 60 barrels."

"Where do you market it, and what do you realize per barrel?"

"I am shipping this to New York City, and shall get about $15 per barrel this season."

We remarked that that was better than wheat, and he told us that he got a better price last year than he did this, but that it paid him better than wheat. He thrashed it out with a flail, finding that a machine done the work poorly. This is a new branch or feature in agriculture, although

Mr. Baldwin informs us that he has raised it for several years.

"The flour of mustard, so extensively used a condiment, is prepared from a mixture of the two kinds, usually in the proportion of two parts black and three parts white. The seeds are pounded, and the husks then removed from the flour by sifting. Both the black and white mustard seeds contain a large quantity of bland fixed oil, resembling rape, which is readily obtained by submitting them to pressure. It is remarkable that the pungent principle for which mustard is valued does not exist in the seeds, but it is produced when the constituents of the seeds are brought together under the influence of water. The acrid and pungent volatile oil of mustard is obtained by distilling black mustard seeds with water. Internally, flour of mustard is used as a stimulant, diuretic and emetic; externally, as an irritant and rubefacient. White mustard seeds are often taken in an entire state, as stimulants in dyspepsia. The young herbs, with their seeds and leaves, are commonly used as salads."

We are fortunate to have found two such capable replacements.

HIT or MISS by farley

Thanks to all who told me they enjoyed the little item about Cabbage Patch Dolls. We were told the other day about the six year old in a neighboring town who was caught by her mother trying to trade her three year old sister for the second youngster's Cabbage Patch Doll, but mother wouldn't okay the deal.

And speaking about Montana, reminded us if another story about that state which occurred some years ago.

In Manchester at that time there was a Wuerthner family who operated a very successful clothing store and who were known throughout this area. There were three sons in the family, Carl and Gustav, who manned the store as they grew up. Carl developed a very successful wholesale glove, socks and findings business and the third son, Julius, went to law school and after graduation went with a friend he had made in school to Great Falls, Montana, where he developed a very successful law practice and became quite prominent in the political life of the town, finally becoming mayor.

Along about that time he returned home for a vacation and his many friends held a dinner in his honor to which his many friends of his early days were invited. Of course at the dinner he was asked for a speech about his life in Great Falls and he responded, telling of the many improvements that had been made in that town during the past several years. One of these, he said was the construction of a new hospital by the Catholic diocese which the town had sorely needed for a long time and which was greatly appreciated and about which he told the following tale:

It seems that one of the first patients in the new hospital was a gal who had given birth to a husky son and she, being a devout Baptist was visited by her pastor who called and asked her how she was doing to which she replied, "Reverend, I ain't never had it so good. They is sure good to me. I get clean sheets nearly every day and chicken most day for dinner. It's just great, and they even named by baby."

At this the Reverend bristled at having the Catholic institution naming her child and so he said, "Oh no, they didn't."

Graduation Requirements Reviewed

At its regular meeting on Monday January 23, the Manchester Board of Education received for discussion recommendations from the school administration to increase high school graduation requirements. The administration's proposal which calls for an increase from 20 to 25 credits required for graduation was reviewed and discussed by the Board. The proposal calls for a shift from a 6 to a 7 period day, the addition of two staff members, and the need for an additional classroom.

The Board of Education directed the Superintendent to advertise these proposed changes and to invite all interested persons to the regular meeting of the Board of Education on February 20, 1984 during which time additional discussion will take place.

Gasoline Tank Installed For School Bus Fleet

The Manchester Community Schools have recently installed a 10,000 gallon storage tank which will be used to fuel the district's bus fleet. The contract for this project was awarded to the R.W. Mercer Company of Jackson, Michigan. The cost was approximately $13,000.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson commented, "We have been able to trim 12c a gallon off of the price of the gasoline we must purchase through the use of this large storage facility. At that rate we will pay for the project in approximately 2 1/2 years. After that the price differential on gasoline will be pure savings to the school district. We have attempted to make these kinds of investments for the district for the past several years. The ultimate beneficiaries are the students as we make more dollars available for the instructional program."

Academic Recognition Earned

Five southeast Michigan students recently were inducted into the Adrian College chapter of the Alpha Chi National College Honor Scholarship Society. Selection into Alpha Chi is based on high academic achievement and extracurricular activities. Alpha Chi is dedicated to the recognition and promotion of outstanding scholarship and character and is the highest academic honor a student at Adrian College can receive.

One of the five new inductees is Lori Voegeding of Manchester. An accountancy major, Lori is a member of the Adrian College Singers and Chapel Choir and the inter Varsity Christian Fellowship. She is a 1981 graduate of Manchester High School and the daughter of Lynn and Marian Voegeding of Bethel Church Road in Manchester.

Safety Tips For Snowmobilers

Snowmobilers enjoying Michigan's snow-covered fields and roads are reminded by the State Police to use caution and be familiar with laws governing use of these vehicles.

According to Col. Gerald L. Hough, department director, 12 people were killed and 231 injured in 252 reported snowmobile accidents during the 1982-83 winter season. Driving too fast caused 104 of those accidents resulting in eight deaths.

The majority of the accidents occurred off the roadway. Causes listed most often were driving too fast or following too closely and unable to stop, Hough said.

Snowmobilers are offered some safety tips from the State Police. Don't: tailgate or cut across another snowmobiler's right of way...drive when under the influence of alcohol...or forget to signal your intentions to other snowmobilers. Watch your speed. When exploring remote areas, use the "buddy" system; don't go it alone. Stay on marked trails when on public lands and know ice conditions. Check ice thickness, know thin spots and old fishing holes. Heed warning signs.

More than 237,000 snowmobilers are registered in Michigan with many more operated on private property and requiring no registration. Although the number is down from past years, the need to exercise caution and follow safety practices remains as important as ever, State Police say.

Shakespeare Reading Club

The Shakespeare Reading Club met at the home of Hazel Walker on Tuesday, January 24, with twelve members and one guest present. Included in the order of business was an unanimous vote to donate $50 to the Manchester Township Library.

Minutes of April 4, 1898 - from the early days of the Club - were read. Lenora Parr discussed the book, Pioneer Women - "Voices from the Kansas Frontier", by Joanna L. Stratton. The material for the book - personal accounts of everyday living contributed by 800 Kansas women - had been gathered by her great-grandmother, Lilla Day Monroe. It is a fascinating glimpse into the unbelievable hardships, the joys, the sorrows and the courage shown by those pioneer women.

Bonita Daisher spoke on the theme, "Why Women are Special," spelling out the word with descriptive terms: Service, Peaceful, Experience, Comfort, Independence, Ability and Love. "A Woman I Admire" was the subject of roll call; names given ranged from Madame Curie, Eleanor Roosevelt and Grace Kelly to Grandma Moses and Betty Ford, as well as personal friends and relatives.

The next meeting will be held on February 7, 1984.

Top Washtenaw County No-Till Corn Producer Named

Jonathan Hochstetler examines an ear of no-till corn which won his father, John, top berth in the Washtenaw County no-till corn yield contest sponsored by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District and the Chevron Chemical Company. John's corn yielded 145 bushels/acre.

Producing 145 bushels/acre no-till corn, John Hochstetler of Manchester, was named Washtenaw County high yield winner in the 1983 Michigan No-Tillage Corn Yield Contest, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District and the Chevron Chemical Company. Elmer and Rick Ervin, Manchester, were awarded second place for their no-till corn yield of 113 bushels/acre, and third place went to Brian Block and Roy Muck, Dexter, for no-till corn which produced 97 bushels/acre.

"For our ground, it is the top way to go", reported John Hochstetler of his no-till, "with its fuel savings and time savings, you can't beat it." John also looks to no-till to increase infiltration of irrigation water through improving the surface tilth of his fields.

By not disturbing crop residues with a plow, no-till crop production allows fields to be covered with a protective mulch of decomposing stalks, stubble or sod all season long. This mulch protects topsoil from the erosive action of wind and rain and helps retain moisture in the soil. By controlling soil erosion, no-till also reduces the amount of silt, fertilizer and pesticides which run into streams and lakes from farm operations. Controlling cropland runoff with no-till benefits the farmer along with the environment. As Mr. Hochstetler points out, "It doesn't make sense to spend money on fertilizer just to have it wash off the land."

By not requiring plowing, no-till crop production also reduces the fuel, power and time requirements of producing a crop.

All three contest winners planted their crops using the no-till planter made available through the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District - Saline Valley Project's no-till planter lease program. The no-till planter lease program was developed to allow farmers to experiment with no-till without having to make expensive equipment purchases of their own. Twenty farmers took advantage of the program in 1983. Information on the 1984 no-till planter lease program can be obtained by contacting the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District Office at (313) 761-6721.

Electricity: Instant Energy

Electricity, we can all agree, is instant energy.

There was once a baseball player who, the story goes, could flick the switch on the wall in his hotel room and be in bed before the light went out. That's quick. The Tigers could use him.

But, save for that one fellow, there are few among us who can outrace electricity.

We might also agree that electricity is our lifeline to comfort and convenience. Don't believe it? Think about living without it—without a refrigerator, a TV, lights, a vacuum cleaner..... Enough?

What we may not agree on is that electricity is a bargain.

Consumers Power Company's electric rates for residential customers are among the lowest in the Midwest and are 15 to 26 percent less than the national average, according to a national study released last summer. For a typical family, using 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month without water heating service, 87.7 percent of the nation's other 225 investor-owned utilities have higher rates.

That's not all the evidence. Look at effective buying income. In 1963, it took 1.44 percent of your income to buy a year's supply of electricity. In 1982, it took 1.46 percent. In fact, the average middle-income Michigan family spends more each year on their insurance, their telephone bills, their vacations and even eating out than they spend on electricity.

According to computations developed from surveys conducted by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average family spends $880 a year for insurance, $523 on telephone bills, $818 on vacations and a whopping $1,428 eating out.

But, in Michigan the average middle-income family using 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month will, over a year, only pay Consumers Power approximately $350. For their money, they get clean, instant comfort and convenience.

Is electricity a bargain? Think twice before you say "No"—even if you're not quick enough to flick the switch and be in bed before the light goes out.

Eighth Grade Ecology Presentations

As a final project for the unit on Ecology Miss Dettling's 8th grade science classes developed presentations on land use. Each group of 3 or 4 students represented a different interest group (Business, Industry, Education, Recreation, etc.) and presented a plan describing the way in which they would develop an unused parcel of land near a fictitious city. The spokesperson for each group outlined their plan in front of a group known as the County Board of Control. The Board had the job of awarding the land, based on the presentations, to the interest group that they felt had developed a plan that would be best for the community.

In one class the Board of Control (Jonathan Walz, Joe Catanese, Terry Beck, and Tim Cox) awarded the land to the group representing Industry (Brad Uphouse, Colin Anderson, Nick Miller, and Jeremy Crumb). The Board felt that their plan of building a Ford plant that would provide jobs was more important than any of the other suggestions.

In the other class the Board (Bud Ball, Toney Privatte, Ron Kleinschmidt) awarded the land to the group representing Medicine (Kristin Vedder, Carrie Deis, and Mary Jo Denomie). This Board felt the groups presentation was well-planned and that they could justify their plan during a question and answer period. The activity was interesting and gave the students an idea of how decisions on land use are made.

Do You Know?

By Harold L. Willard: Ass't Director, Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation: The American Legion: Department of Michigan:

Q. I have heard or read someplace that the Veterans Administration had announced that as of January 1st, 1983 persons carrying the "K" prefix

United States Government Life Insurance policies which were issued primarily to veterans of the first world war will no longer be required to pay premiums. That enough money had now been collected from these policies to pay off all remaining beneficiaries. This makes me, a veteran of the Korean Conflict feel even more foolish for having dropped my G.I. insurance. Is it at all possible to pick this up now?

A. What you read is true about the WW#1 veterans who were canny enough to keep their U.S. Government Life Insurance in force throughout all of these intervening years.

To answer the 2nd part of your question. The answer is no! You cannot now purchase National Service Life Insurance.

Q. Who may now purchase National Service Life Insurance?

A. Those who are separated from the service with a service connected disability have one year to purchase this insurance. Sometimes a claim for service connected disability (Veterans Administration Compensation), may be filed years after separation and sometimes we are successful in obtaining service connection for a veteran many years after they have left the service. These veterans too, if they were separated after April 24th, 1951 have one year after the granting of service connection to apply for National Service Life Insurance. This date (April 24th, 1951) means that should we be fortunate enough to prove a service connection at this late date for a WW# 2 veteran, that veteran would not have this option.

Q. Do you have any suggestions for veterans now carrying N.S.L.I. in one form or another.

A. I would make two suggestions: The first: If you are still carrying term insurance convert to a permanent plan. This will give the policy holder a gradual build up of paid up insurance and some loan value and in addition will stabilize the rate. Term insurance is the insurance that was issued at time of separation. The amount of insurance coverage remains constant, however the premium increases every 5th year until it becomes simply impossible. In fact the younger veterans cannot renew term insurance beyond insuring age 50 and must at that point convert.

The second suggestion is very important. Be sure the beneficiary is kept current. The Veterans Administration has no choice but to pay the name beneficiary upon the death of the veteran.

Michigan Highway Deaths: A Five-Year Downhill Ride

Michigan's 1983 traffic death rate was the lowest in history and last year was the fifth straight that highway fatalities decreased in the state, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"A total of 1,300 persons died on state roads in 1983, the lowest annual number since 1,150 traffic deaths in 1945," said Robert V. Cullen, Auto Club's manager of Safety and Traffic Engineering. "That total may increase slightly because of delayed reporting."

Michigan's preliminary death rate of 2.05 per 100 million vehicle miles is lower than the projected national average of 2.65. The Michigan Department of Transportation estimates motorists drove 63.5 billion miles Continued on page 9

Super Chefs Visit High School

Principal Bill Bushaw

The Home Economics Department was honored by visiting gourmet chefs recently. Mrs. Sue Leach conducted a candy-making demonstration in December. The class then spent a calorie rich week making, filling, and dipping chocolates. Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Thompson came and demonstrated his "secret" pecan pie recipe in December. It may become Manchester High School's "official pie" Dr. Thompson also shared some other southern cooking specialties with the students. In January, High School Principal, Mr. Bushaw demonstrated oriental stir-fried chicken as well as sharing some personal experiences of his visit to the Orient while in the Navy. All of the guest chefs were well received and the samples were enjoyed by all.

COPING

'84 food prices: a mixed bag

The "Coping..." column is made available as a public service of Michigan Food Dealers Association, Lansing.

Will you pay more for a thick, juicy steak this year than you did in 1983?

Before you scoff at the butcher and resolve to buy your own prize steer, read on. Coping's been in touch with the best soothsayers in the industry and their predictions for food prices in the coming months aren't all bad.

Food price increases have been declining steadily for several years, according to Ralph Parlett at the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. In fact, 1983 had the lowest increase in food prices in 16 years.

If you heard less complaining in the check-out line last year, it's because prices only rose about one percent, compared to nearly 11 percent in 1979, for example. It was also the eighth year in a row that food prices rose less than the general inflation rate.

As you might expect, you saw a larger increase in your restaurant tab last year than you did in your supermarket bill. Prices for food consumed away from home rose 4.4 percent.

Analysts foresee a similar trend in 1984 - a 4 to 7 percent rise in restaurant prices compared to a 3 to 6 percent rise in supermarket prices.

Overall, food price increases in 1984 will likely be above 1983's exceptionally small advance, observers at Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service predict. Although the weather is partially to blame for price fluctuations, processing, distribution and consumer demand also have an influence.

About 1.5 percent of the projected increase can be attributed to last summer's drought, which USDA says may be the worst since the 1930s.

So far the drought has pushed livestock feed costs up. You might think that means higher meat prices, but initially you'll be paying less. That's because higher feed costs tend to make producers

Spikers Fall

By Jon Hardenbergh

Our Manchester Volleyball Squad are having a hard time getting back on track after starting 2-0, we are now 2-5. Vandercook Lake went to 3 games to win 5-15, 16-14 and 5-15. Jenny England had 17 spikes as Sarah Platt posted 25 sets. Julie Gebhardt had 6 service points in the second game to aid in that 16-14 win.

We had a very rough night against Grass Lake. They just took the first two games 3-15 and 10-15 to end it.

Senior Citizens Meals And News

Senior Citizens meals served in the Emanuel United Church of Christ dining room every Tuesday and Thursday (unless a "snow-day" is called by the schools), are open to all 55 or older. Meals can be delivered to homes for shut-ins and medical patients and the bus will pick up those who need transportation. Explanation of the service and reservations for meals and bus may be had by calling the church office weekdays at 428-8359 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.. Reservations should be made at least a day in advance.

The menu for Tuesday, February 7th is: Chop Suey, Fruit, Roll and Butter, Dessert, Coffee, Tea and Milk. The afternoon is spent playing cards.

On Thursday, February 9th, they are serving: Beef and Noodles, Vegetable, Fruit, Roll and Butter, Dessert, Coffee, Tea and Milk. A most informative presentation of Medicare will be given by Bill Walker at 12:45.

The Newsletter committee will meet on Tuesday morning at 10 in the Library at Emanuel Church Hall. The Exercise Class is at 11:00 a.m. Thursday and the bus pick-up will get one there for most of the class.

Wednesday, February 8th, the van will transport those who are interested in hearing about "Burn Care" to Saline Community Hospital. All trip reservations and questions should be called to Helen Braun, 428-8966.

Looking ahead, the next shopping trip to Westland Mall is Monday, the 13th, and it is not filled to date.

Fun Night II for all over 50 is scheduled for February 18 from 6 to 10 at the Old Mill. Everyone should bring his/her Supper-In-A-Sack. The rumor was going around that Supper Sacks would be auctioned or exchanged like at a box social, but don't believe it—you'll have to eat your own cooking!

Roger Marrison will be in charge of the musical part of the program and Mrs. Lou Vogel will give one of her special readings. Then there will be a Mock Wedding that you'll have to see to believe! The "mock reception" following will be the Supper Sacks plus cake, coffee and punch

If none of this appeals to you, it's worth the evening (50c admission) to watch the river from the Mill windows as it tumbles over its icy barriers. Call for pick-up bus service for this event, no later than the day before.

Highway Deaths

In Michigan in 1983, up 3.6 percent from the 1982 total of 61.3 billion miles.

Last year's highway death toll is 8 percent below 1982 and 37 percent less than the 1978 total of 2,076. This is the first time since State Police began keeping records in 1933 that the state's traffic fatalities have dropped for five consecutive years.

The Auto Club cited increased safety belt use, more drinking and driving and speeding arrests, conservative driving during the recessionary period and highway design improvements as the major reasons for the five-year decline.

"Seat belt use in 1983 reached 17 percent, the highest level recorded in Michigan, and is up from 15 percent in 1982 and 11 percent in 1981," said Cullen.

"The increased use is due primarily to the child restraint law and recent public attention on proposed mandatory safety belt legislation."

Increased police enforcement efforts, traffic safety programs and tougher laws aimed at the drinking driver have resulted in a 13 percent increase in arrests for operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor during the first eight months of 1983.

Cullen cited 20 special alcohol enforcement teams in Michigan which patrol high-risk accident areas during nighttime hours when heavy drinking traditionally occurs as a major factor for the

Farmers To Consider 1984 Acreage Reduction Benefits

Now that the acreage reduction sign-up period is under way, Earl Doletzky, Chairperson of Washtenaw County ASCS Committee advises farmers to seriously consider program benefits. The sign-up ends February 24, 1984.

Mr. Doletzky said, "The acreage reduction program enables all farmers to work together to help control stocks and improve crop prices by reducing production. At the same time, it protects them from economic disasters."

Farm program participants who reduce their wheat acres by 30 percent will be eligible for target price protection at $4.45 per bushel, price support loans at $3.30 per bushel and the option to reduce their acreage an additional 10 to 20 percent for payment-in-kind at 75 percent of their program yield.

Target prices act as insurance to keep farmers in business, if prices stay below acceptable levels. Doletzky said, "Farmers need money to operate. If they get a loan through our program it will give them time to hold for a better market."

The 10 percent feed grain acreage reduction program offers farmers target prices of $3.03 per bushel for corn and $1.60 a bushel for oats. Program participants also will be eligible for loan rates of $2.55 a bushel for corn and $1.31 per bushel for oats.

From The Office Of The Governor

Governor James J. Blanchard urged Michigan taxpayers to take full advantage of Michigan's personal income tax credits and to call a new toll-free state number for information about Michigan's income tax. "We are concerned that many Michigan citizens who are legally entitled to personal tax credits simply do not know how to claim them," said the Governor. The toll-free phone number is 1-800-292-1983. In the Lansing area, the number is 373-2910. Taxpayer assistance personnel are on call 12 hours (8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.) each working day (Monday through Friday) through March 30, 1984. They handle questions relating to specific state tax credits as well as provide general state tax information.

Governor Blanchard, together with Rep. Michael J. Griffin (D-Jackson), Chairman of the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules, and Sen. Jerome Hart (D-Saginaw), co-chairman of the committee announced that several hundred state rules and regulations may be eliminated or modified as part of a year long initiative to "get government out of the way of business" by reducing regulatory burdens. "More than 700 rules will be recommended for rescission or modification as the result of internal reviews by the four departments. The reviews identified rules that are obsolete, unnecessary, duplicative or unduly burdensome to business," the Governor said.

"The results we are able to announce signal the strong commitment of my administration and the legislature to work with business to eliminate or lessen regulatory burdens, to streamline administrative procedures and to get rid of unnecessary paperwork. To do all this while maintaining our high levels of consumer and public protections is a challenge. It is a challenge that the committee, and my administration, are willing and able to meet," the Governor said.

Dutch Sports In Action

#20 Pat Ridenour in action

Mark Ball scored 31 points in last weeks games

By Jon Hardenbergh

It was a very good week for the Manchester Varsity Basketball Squad as they nipped Michigan Center, Tuesday, 56-54 to become tops in the league. On Friday, the Dutch leveled Jackson Baptist, 71-60 to now have a 9-3 over-all record. Our Little Dutch split this week.

First of all was Tuesdays war — both teams were 4 and 1 so I knew the victor would lead in the Cascades. Michigan Center just exploded right from the opening tip to assume an 18-10 lead after 8 minutes. We got hot thru the second quarter, out-scoring Michigan Center 21-15 to be only a bucket back at the intermission. The Cardinals upped their edge to 4 points with one quarter to go. Center failed to connect on 9 free throws and we didn't, to win 56-54. Pat Ridenour was our big canner with 19 points. Mark Ball and Mike Agin hit in double figures with 12 and 11 respectively.

Friday, Jackson Baptist came to town and we acted asleep for the starting quarters. Jackson jumped to a 16-8 cushion. Maybe the scoreboard buzzer woke us up because for the remaining 3 periods it was all Dutch. We popped as the halftime horn sounded to go up 1, 32-31. Only 4 minutes into the third period and we stood in total control at a 15 point lead. We did lead by 21 and won 71-60. Mark Ball was our big gun as he had 19 as Mike Agin posted 12.

Our Junior Varsity seemed to lose their cool as Center rallied to win. We bounced back, edging the Jackson Royals 53-52.

We have our next two games at home — Friday we host Vandercook Lake then Tuesday we welcome Clinton.

Coping . . .

reduce animal inventories. They slaughter and sell more, causing supplies to increase.

You know the old law of supply and demand. If the product is plentiful, the price is lower.

If you're thinking that now might be a good time to stock your freezer with meat, you're absolutely right. Do it now, before the inevitable price increase arrives later this year, advises Ada Shinabarger at the Cooperative Extension Service.

"I personally think the increase will hit this spring," Shinabarger says, although national forecasts indicate that increases won't show up until the third quarter when decreased production eventually causes supplies to dwindle.

Everyone does agree that meat will cost you more sometime this year, with pork prices showing the most dramatic rise.

You won't see any price hikes in poultry until possibly the third quarter. As meat prices go up, consumer demand will shift to chicken and turkey, driving poultry prices up. Fish and seafood may experience a similar popularity and subsequent price increase.

Eggs will be a good buy until about June. Prices are expected to fall in the first half of the year and rise in the second half.

Dairy products should remain relatively stable this year. Retail prices for fats and oils will increase as a result of lower soybean oil stocks.

Fruit and vegetable prices will rise 4 to 7 percent this year due to the nation's smaller potato, orange and apple crops in 1983.

Look for small increases in sugar and sweets this year and about a 3 percent increase in cereals and bakery products. If you're a soft drink lover, it will cost you more to quench your thirst.

Prices will rise at least 2 percent due to higher marketing costs and the increase in sugar. But tough competition among soft drink bottlers will keep the increases from getting out of hand.

Tom Pierson, an agriculture professor at Michigan State University, emphasizes that the effect of consumer demand on food prices cannot be ignored. Rising consumer incomes in recent years are increasing demand for food overall.

Recent surveys show that grocery store volumes have increased from 4 to 7 percent. Unfortunately, demand for certain foods may tend to push prices up.

"When people have more money, they tend to spend more on food—especially meat," Shinabarger concurs. "It's the first thing they purchase."

Pierson says smart retailers will be thinking ahead and projecting what higher prices will do to demand.

"If meat prices rise," Pierson says, "retailers will have to decide what else consumers will be buying—chicken and fish, perhaps—and stock their shelves accordingly."

That thick, juicy steak will cost you more in '84. But you can take comfort in the fact that the increase will not be quite so noticeable as it was a few years ago.

Although you won't enjoy the extremely small price increases of 1983, 1984 isn't expected to cause too much rumbling at the check-out counter.

Highway Deaths

increased arrests. He also credited the state's new drunk driving laws enacted last spring as having an impact on the lowered death count.

In addition, speeding violations issued by the State Police were up nearly 11 percent during the first 11 months of 1983 over the same period of 1982.

While the economic climate has brightened in Michigan, the Auto Club cited the recession as a reason for the continuing drop in highway deaths.

During poor economic times, people tend to live—and drive—more conservatively to save gasoline and wear and tear on their vehicles. The Auto Club pointed out that conservative drivers are usually safer drivers.

Many of Michigan's highways have been made safer in the last decade under state and federal safety programs. Most roadsides adjacent to the interstate freeway system have been upgraded by eliminating, shielding or modifying fixed objects such as sign supports and guardrails.

Other highway improvements contributing to the deaths reduction have been safer median barriers which direct vehicles onto the road, energy-absorbing bridge abutment cushions, pavement grooving for better traction in wet weather and road resurfacing.

In addition, miles traveled in Michigan dropped 9 percent between 1978 and 1982.
