Fire Chief Resigns New Chief Elected

Mike Scully new Manchester Township Fire Chief and Jim Kensler

James (Jim) Kensler, resigned as Manchester Township Fire Chief, Thursday, April 26, 1984. Kensler joined the volunteer department in August of 1949. Since that time, he has missed only the two years he served in the Army. Just as soon as he returned home, he was back on the department. He chalks up 33 years with the local fire department—quite a record. He says he is not leaving the department, but he thinks it might be a good time to step down.

Of the men who were on the department when Jim joined, there are only four others in any capacity. They are Harry Johnson, John Wallace, Herbert Widmayer and Lyle Widmayer. These days Herbert is doing more in the bookkeeping department. When Jim joined the department, the fire hall was at 120 Clinton Street, just a few buildings from Main Street. That was a long time ago. That fire hall now houses the police station and village hall.

Mayor Exchange Day May 21st

The Village of Manchester will be host to the City of Auburn, Michigan on May 21, 1984.

Auburn's Mayor, Lee Kilbourn and wife Kathy; City Administrator, Steve Ledoux and wife Pam; and Commissioner John Bacon will arrive in Manchester at 10:00 a.m. on Monday, the 21st for a full day of Manchester hospitality.

Make your plans now to attend the evening festivities which will begin with a cocktail hour at 6:00 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:00 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the Gambles Store or by calling the Village office at 428-7877. The cost is $7.50 per person and reservation deadline is Thursday, May 17th.

Kensler was elected chief in 1963. All of the 28 men on the volunteer department are state certified. Only one truck is in use today that was utilized by the department in 1950 and that is considered a reserve truck. There are eight trucks and a bright new utility truck has been added in April. That means that nine new pieces of equipment have been added since 1966.

Mrs. Florence Johns Kirk took the calls for the fire department and police from 1946 to 1977. She gave it up after 21 years at the job, and she was a young 94 years at the time. Now the calls are dispatched by Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Manchester's new fire station was completed in 1980 and on September 14, the building was dedicated. A Red Letter Day for the community. Everyone in the area made a real effort to go to the Station at 275 South Macomb Street to see where the fire engines and equipment is housed.

In June, 1975, Manchester's Township Board appointed a site committee to review suitable property to erect a new fire

HIT or Miss by farley

There has been mentioned lately by several radio and TV commentators a suggestion concerning the sessions of our Senate and House of Representatives. They suggest that the sessions of these bodies be limited to not more than half of a year, either in one six month session or in several shorter sessions totaling not more than six months. These critics maintain that all of the work that they do or need to do can be accomplished easily in the half time sessions and that the members of these august bodies be sent back to their home districts during the other six months of the year so that they could familiarize themselves with the problems and needs of the districts which elect them to represent in Washington, their district or state.

When these fellows first campaigned for their election they stressed mightily their qualifications for the job and told in no uncertain terms how hard they would work for the benefit of their individual areas. After they were elected most of them tried, to keep their promises but as they fitted into the procedure methods of these legislative bodies they became "Washingtonians" and lost touch with the folks and their

The Sin Of Salt

Manchester Enterprise
May 20, 1869

We heard a very inconsiderate youth saying that he wished a certain class of ladies would die, and be confined to a thousand years in a Purgatory of salt! A friend rebuked him, and proposed a milder punishment, namely: That the ladies of the kind he condemned, (those who make butter out of salt) were forced to take salt in their tea, in their coffee, in their preserved fruits, in their pudding, in their seidlitz powder and castor oil, in their food, drink and medicine, morning, noon and night! Aye, more, that salt should be put in their lily-white, in their hair oil and in their perfumery.

Of course we do not wish to witness such dire visitation. We belong to the forbearing and merciful class. We pray the Legislature at Lansing not pass such severe laws against salt-butter makers as the above.

But really we do wish that salt were quite as dear, or a little dearer than butter. We could sign a thousand petitions to have a duty of three hundred per cent imposed on salt. We are tired, angry and out of patience with salt.

Indeed we would subscribe largely for the purpose of raising a pillar of rock salt, with a stature of vengeance surmounting it, in front of that kitchen or milk pantry where an overabundance of salt was first put in butter.

Let us be serious. How can any woman with any pretention to honesty and womanliness swell a little lump of butter to an enormous size, and then have the courage, if not actual hardihood, to take it, or send it, to the store under the name of "fresh butter"? How can a christian woman do such a thing? Suppose she should take a bushel of sliced potatoes mixed with a few dried apples to a store and call the whole bushel excellent and actual dried apples! What would she think of her action? How would her conscience work? The taking of three-quarters of a pound of salt mixed with about a quarter of a pound of butter to the market, and call it fresh butter, is of precisely the same nature, and open to quite as much condemnation as the potatoes and dried apples affair.

But for fear we are spending our surprise and censure on the wrong sex, let us ask, does not this "sin of salt" lie at the door of the husbands? Men are very, and inordinately, every-reaching. We are afraid they have more to do with this guilt of the pantry and kitchen than the women.

We would have no objection to buy a brick of salt in company with a pound of butter; in fact we would gladly do it in order to get real butter on our bread. To go to the store and ask for a brick of salt and a pound of butter would be a new thing; but with a few exceptions, we like new things. Our cry and prayer is, down with the "Sin of Salt."

Class Of 1974 Meeting May 14th

Beta Sigma Phi Founder's Day celebrated April 29th

A convivial group of Manchester Beta Sigma Phi sisters met at Weber's Inn to celebrate the 52nd anniversary of the founding of this cultural organization for women.

Delores Bunney welcomed members from both Xi Epsilon and Lambda Nu chapters. The traditions of our sorority were enumerated and a brief history of our Manchester Chapters was presented. The remainder of the evening was given over to laughter, good cheer, and a few tears. Girl of the Year awards were presented to Elaine Creech of Xi Epsilon Iota and to Debbie Alber of Lambda Nu. This honor is bestowed yearly upon the woman of each chapter who best exhibits the ideals of perfect sisterhood: kindness, generosity, unselfishness, and dedication to chapter service. Hats off to Debbie and Elaine! Our honored guest for the evening was Deneine Schable of The Flower Garden.

Outgoing board members were honored and praised by past presidents, Delores Bunney and Diana Parr and incoming board members were introduced and encouraged by new presidents Sharon Stetler and Dawna Stockwell.

The roster of officers for next year includes, for Xi Epsilon Iota: President, Sharon Stetler; Vice President, Cheryl Hamilton; Recording Secretary, Gail Whiting; Correspond. Secretary, Martha Haessler; and Treasurer, Dee Mullin. For Lambda Nu: President, Dawna Stockwell; Vice President, Donna Bragg; Recording Secretary, Cheryl Helber; Correspond. Secretary, Diane Kuebler; and Treasurer, Danell Steele.

1983-84 was a year of challenge and growth for sorority. 1984-85 should be even better.

WISD Board Of Education

May 8, 1984
The Washtenaw Intermediate School District has voted authority to levy 2.0 mills on the State Equalized Valuation of the Intermediate District.

Current estimates for the 1984 State Equalization total $3,299,291,935. Two mills times the above valuation total $6,598,594 which includes $129,384 more than was received by a two mill levy in 1983.

The law requires that the Board hold a hearing and explain that this is an increase in revenue to the district even though the tax rate to the individual taxpayer will remain the same. The alternative would be to lower the tax rate .03922 which would result in not having the $129,384 for necessary expenses of the district.

The rationale for the additional revenue is as follows. First, this millage supports all the centralized Special Education Programs being offered to students from the 10 local districts. The budgets of these programs have increased significantly for the 1984-85 school year.

In addition, the implementation of the TMI Study Recommendations for the High Point Center to begin during the 1984-85 school year will require additional revenue. The cost of these two items alone are greater than the $129,384 additional revenue.

In conclusion it is necessary to state the taxpayers of the W.I.S.D. will have their net rate from the W.I.S.D. reduced from 2.32 mills to 2.25 mills or otherwise a net reduction in the rate of .07 mill due to a reduction in debt. When compared against the rate generated by the additional SEV (.03922). The reduction will be .080780 mill. Therefore, it can be shown that the additional income will not impose a burden on the W.I.S.D. taxpayers.

Midwest Talent Search Results

Preliminary results of the 1984 Midwest Talent Search (MTS) have been received by Nondus Buss, coordinator of the TEEM program at Nellie Ackerson Middle School.

The Midwest Talent Search Project was founded in 1981 to identify gifted junior high age students in an eight state region and to challenge them with special learning opportunities. Any student between ages eleven and fourteen who has scored in the ninety-fifth percentile or higher in the verbal or mathematics section of an in-grade standardized achievement test can participate. In Manchester qualifying scores come from the California Achievement Test (CAT).

Students participate by taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) which is chiefly designed for above-average eleventh and twelfth graders. This is the second year Manchester has had students taking part in the MTS.

This year there were nine participants from the sixth through eighth grades. They took the test on February 28, 1984, as did thousands of students from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Ohio, and Wisconsin. Others were tested in April. It is estimated that over 13,000 have been tested this year.

The preliminary results show five of our eight students scoring above the mean (or average) score on the math section of the test while six of them scored above the mean on the verbal section.

The Test of Standard Written English (TSWE) found six above the mean. Total math scores ranged from one at a perfect 800 to seventeen at 200. Our students ranged from 700 to 280.

The verbal scores ranged from one at 730 (possible 800) to 159 at 200. Our students ranged from 330 to 560. TSWE scores ranged from seventy eight perfect 60s to 394 20s. The Manchester scores ranged from sixty to twenty-one.

Several of the students were at or above the mean score of all 1983 college bound seniors who took the test. Results of these tests will be used in considering future scheduling for these students.

problems. Because they had to be on the job the year round they moved their families to Washington and didn't visit their home towns to any great extent until time to begin a campaign for re-election.

If Congressional sessions could be confined to half time sessions it would make possible their maintaining a much more intimate contact with the folks who elected them and who they were supposed to represent.

I can remember clearly way back when Earl Michener was the Congressman from the Second District which comprised Jackson, Lenawee and Washtenaw counties. Earl lived in Adrian, in a home that stood on the corner where the Telephone office now stands and he maintained an office in Adrian a few doors west of Winter Street on West Maumee Street and there, whenever he was home, which was a considerable portion of the time, any and all of his constituents were welcome to meet with him personally and ask his help with their problems, which if they came in any way within his jurisdiction, he tried valiantly to solve. By maintaining this personal relationship he came to know most of his constituents and they him and he, in this manner built a loyal following which was sure that he was doing his utmost to serve them and he was re-elected term after term regardless of what or whom his opposition might be.

Nowadays too many of us are not acquainted with thier political representatives in either Washington or Lansing and unbelievably we find that a great many folks who don't even know who their County Commissioner is. Many of us unfortunately, don't seem to have any particular interest in politics nor politicians and have no faith in either.

Isn't it about time that we individually took time to know who we are choosing to represent in our legislative world, and isn't it time that our representatives took time to make contact more personally, with their "home folks" and find out just how they are supposed to represent them and in this way to establish communications between us. We are sure that Congress could accomplish as much in six months as they now do in twelve, and have time to be "folks from their districts" or states rather than Washingtonians who tend to forget us folks back home except when it is time to campaign for re-election?

Bike-To-Work Day May 15th

For the third consecutive year, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is sponsoring Bike-To-Work Day. This year it will be held on Tuesday, May 15 (rain date May 17).

All employed persons throughout the state are encouraged to ride a bike to work that day.

Purpose of the event is to encourage broad participation in bicycling as a convenient, economical and healthy mode of transportation.

"We are presenting people with the opportunity to try something new and hoping some may stay with it," said State Transportation Director James P. Pitz.

"We need to actively seek modes of transportation which use less of our precious fossil fuels and cause less pollution. Commuter bicycling does both," Pitz said.

Statistics from the Michigan Energy Administration show that if just 10 percent of the 3,815,000 employed persons in Michigan biked to work just one day each year, it would result in 104,212 gallons of fuel saved.

Approximately 700,000 Americans commute daily by bike.

Bike-To-Work Day is part of Michigan Transportation Week, May 13-19.

Women of the 80's

Vision of Hope was the convention theme for the biennial meeting of the Lansing Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. The two day gathering was held at the Sheraton Inn in Flint on April 10th and 11th.

Many interesting and challenging speakers were heard at the workshops during the convention. Ms. Joan Tirak presented a short film, Everyone Everywhere during her workshop titled Women As Peacemakers - Element Of Risk. The film showed Mother Theresa working among the poor.

Fr. Raymond Schlinkert was the Organization Services Commission speaker. His topic was "Television - Is It A Mirror Of Life Or A Shaper?"

Father Schlinkert stated that TV is a means of communication which needs direction and that the public needs to be selective of programs viewed and should exercise the right to control undesirable programming through non-support of sponsor products. Other workshops included a presentation from Parents Anonymous, discussion on diocesan Catholics and the use of parliamentary procedure.

The convention closed with a Mass concelebrated by Bishop Kenneth Povish and other diocesan priests.

Officers for the Lansing Diocesan Council of Catholic Women were then installed. They are as follows: President, Mrs. Marvin (Jeannette) Kirk, St. Mary's, Manchester; Vice-President, Mrs. Kenneth (Norma) Lake, St. Roberts, Flushing; Secretary, Mrs. George (Helen) Goergen, St. Roberts, Flushing; and Treasurer, Mrs. Frank (Carolyn) Levandowski, St. James, Mason.

To help focus attention on the rising tide of arson fires and the cost to Michigan in terms of human life, personal injury, and property damage, Gov. James J. Blanchard has officially declared May 13-19 as Arson Awareness Week in Michigan. Looking at a promotional poster are from left Blanchard, Capt. William R. Rucinski, commanding officer of the fire marshal division of the Michigan State Police and chairman of the Michigan Arson Committee; David Brobst, State Farm Insurance, a member of the Michigan Basic Property Insurance Association; and Col. Gerald L. Hough, director of the Michigan State Police. Observation of the week is being promoted by the Michigan Arson Committee in all Michigan communities through local fire and police officials. Arson is a major crime which costs Michigan citizens more than $60-million in direct losses annually.

Arson Awareness Week Spotlights Michigan's Problems

Michigan officials are seeking to enlist citizen participation in an on-going battle against arson, which in addition to causing many deaths and countless injuries, costs Michigan residents millions of dollars in increased insurance premiums every year. Michigan taxpayers paid out a staggering $60-million last year in direct arson losses. And this does not include the intangible expenses of funerals, medical and legal expenses, lost wages, outside living expenses, business interruption losses, and fire-fighting and law enforcement costs.

To focus attention on the growing arson problem, Governor

Blanchard has issued an official declaration designating May 13-19 as Arson Awareness Week in Michigan.

Promoting this observance is the Michigan Arson Committee (MAC), a group of anti-arson officials which include fire and police officers, insurance industry representatives, businessmen and others.

Captain William R. Rucinski, commanding officer of the fire marshal division of the Michigan State Police and chairman of the Michigan Arson Committee, urges every community to observe Arson Awareness Week "by making sure that every citizen is aware of the cost in lives, personal injuries and property losses."

The MAC attacks arson on several fronts, Rucinski said.

"It has a reward program which pays up to $2,000 for tips which lead to the arrest and/or conviction of arsonists. Since the reward program went into effect, nearly $80,000 has been paid out to tipsters.

"The MAC sponsors seminars and schools for local fire personnel, insurance representatives and adjusters, and investigators to train an effective arson fighting cadre.

"It initiates and promotes anti-arson legislation on national and state levels. It was instrumental in having arson crimes upgraded recently to Type 1 crimes.

Additionally, the State Police maintain an arson strike force which opened 109 investigations of suspected arsonists last year. These fires resulted in more than $10-million in property damage and 17 fire deaths.

Also, the State Police crime lab sifted materials in suspected arsons and provides invaluable scientific evidence in proving arson fires.

Of Michigan's 70,000 fires last year, some 15,000... more than 20 percent... were either arsons or fires of suspicious origin. These fires involved 107,000 hours of valuable fire-fighting time and 38,000 fire department vehicles.

On the national level, arson is a billion dollar drain on the American economy.

After signing an official declaration designating May 13-19 as Michigan Arson Awareness Week, Gov. James J. Blanchard models an anti-arson T-shirt. The week is being promoted by the Michigan Arson Committee in all communities through local fire and police officials. Arson fires, on the increase in recent years, cost state citizens more than $60-million in direct losses annually.

judge to be considered for a purple honor ribbon. All honor award candidates are judged in their garments and then change, returning the garment to the honor judging room for final decisions. Out of the girls chosen for purple honors, three girls out of each category are selected for an honor certificate.

Next the girls model their garments at a style show for the public and are judged by modeling judges on their garment, plus their poise and grace. These judges pick ten top models in each category. The Jolly Farmerettes did extremely well this year: Blue Ribbon Winner, Heidi Haselschwerdt; Purple Honor Awards, Young category: Jennifer Bailey; Junior category, Marie Ball; 1st place, Kim Bailey, Linda Pierce, and Sara Samonek. Junior models: Kim Bailey; 1st runner up, Marie Ball and Linda Pierce in top ten.

Jolly Farmerettes

The monthly meeting of the Jolly Farmerettes 4-H Club was held Tuesday, April 24, 1984 at Heidi Haselschwerdt's home. There were six members and three leaders present. Also we talked about the 4-H trip to Mackinaw Island in June.

Refreshments were served by Heidi Haselschwerdt. The next meeting will be held at Kim Baileys' home starting at 6:45.

Professor Visits 4th Grade

On Monday, Dr. Ginther, a professor at Eastern Michigan University, visited Miss Kuyda's 4th Grade class. He taught us how to read the binary (bi-nary) code. He also taught us a few tricks. He brought this computer like thing that changed our numbers to binary numbers. And another device that changed binary numbers to our numbers. Everyone seemed to enjoy it!!

Electrical Safety Tips

Most of us think of home as a place where we are, among other things, safe from danger. But statistics show differently. Every year, approximately 24 million Americans are disabled for a day or more because of home accidents. Some 90,000 of these injuries cause permanent impairment, and 22,000 result in death.

The Michigan State Medical Society would like every home to be safe. The following electrical safety tips can help.

Our electrical systems are more abused than any other components in the home. The greatest dangers arise from circuit overload, damaged cords, and faulty appliances. Circuit overloads occur when electrical outlets are extended with multiple plug adaptors. The so-called "octopus" connection can be especially dangerous in the kitchen, where small appliances consume large amounts of electrical power. Major appliances should always have their own current sources. Overloading a circuit causes wiring to overheat and burn out the surrounding insulation, setting fire to whatever it contacts.

Inspecting cords periodically and replacing all frayed or broken cords immediately makes a home much safer. Cords should never be run under rugs or carpeting, where friction from having people walk over them may fray insulation and eventually lead to fire.

Make sure all extension or replacement cords are appropriate to the task—never use an ordinary lamp cord for an appliance or power tool. And remember, any appliance with a three-pronged plug requires a three-wire grounding cord. Be especially careful too to keep cords out of the reach of children and pets, and place snap-in plastic caps over unused wall outlets and taps on extension cords.

Appliances and tools sometimes "leak" electricity, causing severe shock to anyone touching them. Avoid the possibility of serious injury from current "leaks" with a "ground fault circuit interrupter" (GFCI). Several types of GFCIs exist, the portable variety to protect a single appliance that you plug into it, or permanently installed ones that can protect an entire circuit or an individual outlet. The GFCI is required by the National Electrical Code for outdoor plugs, bathrooms, garages and the like, and is strongly recommended where damp conditions may exist—workshops, laundries, and kitchens.

With a minimum of effort and expense, most home safety hazards can be greatly reduced, if not entirely eliminated. The Michigan State Medical Society suggests performing periodic checks of all electrical components. Make your home electrically safe.

E.M.U. Spring Commencement

Eastern Michigan University conferred degrees upon approximately 1,243 students on April 28 at spring commencement ceremonies held in Bowen Field House on the EMU campus.

Some 943 seniors were candidates for bachelor's degrees and approximately 300 graduate students were eligible to receive advanced degrees. The commencement address was delivered by actress Celeste Holm. Holm was awarded an honorary Doctor of Arts degree by the University. Dr. Rose Lee Hayden, executive director of the National Council on Foreign Language and International Studies, received an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree from the University also.

The Theme of EMU's spring commencement ceremonies was "A Salute to the Arts and Humanities." Candidates for bachelor's degrees graduating with honors included three Summa Cum Laude (3.90 to 4.0), 37 Magna Cum Laude (3.70 to 3.89) and 43 Cum Laude (3.50 to 3.69).

Students from the Manchester area receiving Bachelor of Science degrees were Michael David Lehr, 19220 Sandborn Road; Daphne Faye Nickels, 704 City Road; and Craig W. Rhoades, 10200 Grossman Road.

Michigan Special Olympics

"Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

More than 3,000 mentally impaired athletes along with their coaches, chaperones, parents and scores of volunteers will be upon the campus of Central Michigan University May 31 - June 2 for the 1984 Michigan Special Olympics State Summer Games. The Special Olympics oath, as stated above, will be exemplified through the efforts demonstrated by these children and adults who have trained long and hard for this annual sports event. For three action packed days, athletes aged 8 years and up will be competing in sports such as swimming and diving, gymnastics, frisbee, horseshoes, bowling, wheelchair and track and field events. In each event, Special Olympians will be challenged by others competing on their ability level.

Opening Ceremonies are scheduled to get underway at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 31, in Kelly Shorts Stadium. Special Olympians from throughout the state will vie for gold, silver and bronze medals on Friday, June 1 and Saturday, June 2. The Rose Arena will be the site for Closing Ceremonies, to take place at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, followed by the ever-popular Victory Dance.

"You never know what is enough unless you know what is more than enough."
-William Blake

Guild member Nancy Feldkamp has been given a merit award by the Ann Arbor Women Painters for a watercolor currently on display in the main branch of the Ann Arbor Public Library. The painting is one of two of hers chosen for the exhibition sponsored by the group. Nancy is likely to use any number of subjects for her watercolors, but specializes in farm scenes familiar to the Manchester area. Her award winning painting is no exception. It illuminates a grey fall day with rain-puddles in the furrows of a freshly plowed field. Hers and other Guild member paintings may be seen during library hours now through June 1.

Spring Arts Festival

Manchester High School is announcing the third annual Spring Arts Festival on Wednesday, May 16, in the high school gym from 6 - 9 p.m. Art, music, drama, home economics and shop projects are only a few of the events at this year's festival. Also included will be the physics demonstration which won first place at the High School Physics Olympics, computers and a variety of exhibits of student work. The Media Center will sponsor a book sale and an exhibit of famous works of the Renaissance period from the Detroit Institute of Art. The German students will be providing refreshments for sale.

Nature from your backdoor

Before they get settled down to feed in the morning and as they're getting ready to depart as darkness falls, you may hear bits and snatches of familiar songs or characteristic songs of certain species sung at a whisper level rather than in full voice. Often a flock will produce just a jumble of peeps and chirps and rustling noises as the birds move around in trees, lawns or fields.

Other sounds that almost everyone in Michigan can hear at this time of year are the sounds of night migrating birds. You might not hear them every night you go out to listen, but you may hear them on many nights in April and May.

Most distinctive of these is the honking of migrating geese and whistling swans. Though you may confuse the puppylike noises made by swans with the hoarse honking of Canada geese, you won't have trouble distinguishing the racket made by a high-flying V of geese or swans with any other night sounds.

Other birds pass through our state in the spring, and you're likely to hear them in the evening. Often large mixed flocks of various songbirds will spend a day or two resting and feeding in an area, then take off after sundown.

The birds that are commonly active at night tend to be very noisy in the spring. Though the adult great horned owls are not hooting as much now as they were in the winter, when they were courting, the young owls screech all night for food.

The barred owl and the screech owl, on the other hand, fill the woods with their hoots. The barred owl is more often heard near swamps, while the screech owl prefers areas such as the MSU campus and large city parks that have lots of big trees and expanses of lawn.

Some of the unusual springtime sounds come from animals that we don't usually think of as making much noise. The animals make these strange and sometimes alarming noises during courtship in winter or now during territorial disputes in the process of raising young. People who live in the country or on the edge of the suburbs may hear the doglike higher-pitched yapping of foxes in the spring. More alarming to new residents of northern Michigan is the caterwauling of the bobcat. Generally a quiet animal, the bobcat can give voice to a screechy wailing that leads some people to call the local police and report a noisy murder in progress.

Girls Varsity Track

Manchester's girls track has seen a great deal of improvement over the last few weeks of competition. Thursday the girls ran well but were edged by Napoleon 75-54. Jodi Brokaw won the low hurdles, Lisa Beck in progress.

In southern Michigan, the new creature of the night is a coyote. The population is still sparse, but the coyote is becoming more common here. Coyotes sometimes howl at night in the spring, though not always in the classic Hollywood style.

Many native species are involved in courtship rituals at this time of year, and much of this activity occurs around sunset or before dawn. The woodcock, for instance, goes through an elaborate mating dance. You may not recognize its mating song as something originating with a bird, however. It's a not very musical buzzing noise that can be heard in vacant lots in suburbia as well as in more rural areas.

Check Your Dog For Heartworm

Spring is finally here, with its warm weather, delicate flowers, and UGH, mosquitos! Spring marks the beginning of heartworm season because mosquitos spread the dreaded canine heartworm disease amongst dogs. HEART WORM. The disease is as awful as it sounds. In its advanced stages, large worms pack the heart, eventually killing the infected dog. All it takes is a single mosquito to infect your pet, so even if your dog rarely goes outside, he is in danger of contracting the disease. Thankfully, veterinarians are now able to treat diseased dogs with fairly good results, but the treatment can be costly and risky for your pet.

The best path to follow is one of PREVENTION. Your veterinarian can prescribe heartworm preventative to be given on a daily basis (there is no vaccine for heartworm) to protect your dog against heartworm disease. It is safe and effective. Please note that your pet MUST have a blood test before you give him preventative to check for immature heartworms in the blood. If preventative is given to a dog that has heartworm, it could kill him. So be safe, make an appointment with your veterinarian today for your dog's heartworm test and preventative prescription, his life depends on it!

Agriculture In Action

AN APPLE FOR THE JUDGE Michigan fruit growers have had an excellent spring, basically cool with few wild swings in temperatures. Although that was bad for those anxious to get out and play golf, it was good for the farmers who wanted to avoid disastrous freezes that could have ruined their crops. But Michigan farmers are anxiously awaiting the arrival of summer because that's when the U.S. Supreme Court, which can be almost as fickle as the weather, reveals its decision on the constitutionality of Michigan's Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining Act.

This landmark legislation allowed fruit and vegetable growers to band together and negotiate with processors for a fair price on their products. In the past, farmers were at the mercy of whatever the processors offered. Fruits and vegetables spoil quickly so if they didn't sell at harvest time for what the processors wanted to pay—tough luck! The processors challenged the Marketing and Bargaining Act on the grounds that it conflicted with federal statutes, but basically they didn't like it, they said, because it made them pay more for apples, cabbage and other crops, which, they claimed, forced them to boost prices to consumers. Well, of course processors paid more. That was the free market at work... farmers being allowed to bargain for a fair return on the fruits of their labors. As to boosting consumer prices, the cost of apples that go into apple juice or apple pies is pretty minor compared to the cost of packaging and shipping. Besides, giving a little better price to a fruit farmer NOW makes it more likely he'll stay in business to provide an ample supply of apples in the future. So, the fate of Michigan's fruit and vegetable industry is in the hands of the Supreme Court justices. Hopefully, they'll snack on some tasty Michigan apples while they ponder their decision. featuring the culture and handicrafts of international participants as well as the host nation.

AFTER THE STORM...

a note of thanks to our customers.

This week's sudden windstorm whipped through Michigan with the force of a hurricane. Devastating 80 mph winds.

Consumers Power Company crews scrambled to repair millions of dollars worth of equipment and downed electric lines which left more than a third of a million customers without power. It has been a trying time for both our customers and our crews. And we appreciate your patience and understanding.

Company crewmen are especially grateful for your cooperation. Workers have been repairing lines around the clock and frankly, the widespread damages were more than our workers could handle. Additional crews had to be imported from Ohio to aid in the restoration.

Without your kind understanding, our work would have been much more difficult. We regret the inconvenience that any outage causes and will continue to work — as we have for nearly a century — to build a better, more reliable electric system. Building that system requires that the company have in place well-trained workers and well-planned procedures to deal with emergency situations. But it also requires the company to plan today for the needs of our customers into the '90s and the next century.

Maybe that's something you take for granted — but we don't really mind. In fact, we take pride in it. Because a good, reliable electric system should be taken for granted.

Michigan, you've got a powerful future.

Fire Chief Resigns

Raymond Schlinkert offered the Invocation and Benediction. Supervisor Clarence Fielder, Fire Chief James Kensler, Architect William Hobbs, John Hinkley and General Contractors John Wacker and Charles Tuthill all spoke, and the cornerstone was lifted into place above the main entrance to the building. The box behind the cornerstone is to be opened one hundred years from that date—November 4, 1979.

All of Manchester's firemen were on hand at the dedication of the building September 14, 1980, to take visitors through the facility to see the fire engines and equipment. No one was happier than Jim Kensler, the fire chief. No one had worked harder than he in making the dream a reality. There were the new Jaws—a piece of equipment the local firemen had wanted for a long time. Money for the purchase of Jaws first came from the 20th Century Club who made the initial contribution. It was a community project with the final donation coming from the family of Ray Flint.

There is one thing for certain, no one has worked harder through the years than Kensler—and he'll keep working for the best for everyone in the area.

Manchester Township Attorney, Stanton Roesch, told the Township Board that any building project by a municipal government which would exceed $5,000 would require hiring an architect. In February, 1978, Hobbs & Black Associates of Ann Arbor, with John Hinkley, a local resident and project manager for Hobbs & Black Associates became the liaison between the Board and the architects. In September, 1978, a petition was filed with the Clerk to put the Fire Hall and truck on the ballot. In November 1978, voters approved by three to one both proposals, for the new truck and the new Hall.

On Sunday, November 4, 1979, more than 200 people gathered at the site of the new building for the laying of the cornerstone. Clayton Parr, retired supervisor, was to have been Honorary Chairman for the event but because of ill health, his son Howard Parr, President of the local Historical Society, assumed the duties for his father. Varsity Hardball Update

By Jon

Our Dutchmen saw action six times this past week and split having three wins with three losses. We did suffer our first conference loss but proceeded to trounce the following three Cascade foes. Saturday we squared off against Novi and Willow Run in the Ann Arbor-Washtenaw baseball tournament and got wiped out.

In the standings for the Cascade conference we are at the top. We have a 7-1 record. We now support an 8-5 overall record.

Napoleon downed us 9-1 with Bruce Rhees losing his first pitching performance. In this game, Bruce had two hits, Todd Ricklemann had two hits and Mike Agin smashed a double.

Michigan Center came to town and we buried them 7-1 as we banged out eleven hits. Pat Ridenour, now 3-1, gave up only one run on one hit. Bart Nickerson banged out three hits, Pat had two hits and Mike posted two hits (one a home run).

Friday we hosted Hanover-Horton in a doubleheader and won the first 12-2 behind the four hit pitching of Tom Lockridge. In the second game, Bruce shut them out 9-0 and had a no hitter going until the last inning. Bart had a big day with the bat collecting four hits but Bruce Rhees not only won pitching, but bashed five hits. Mark Lenhart had two hits, as Todd, Mike and Tom smashed doubles.

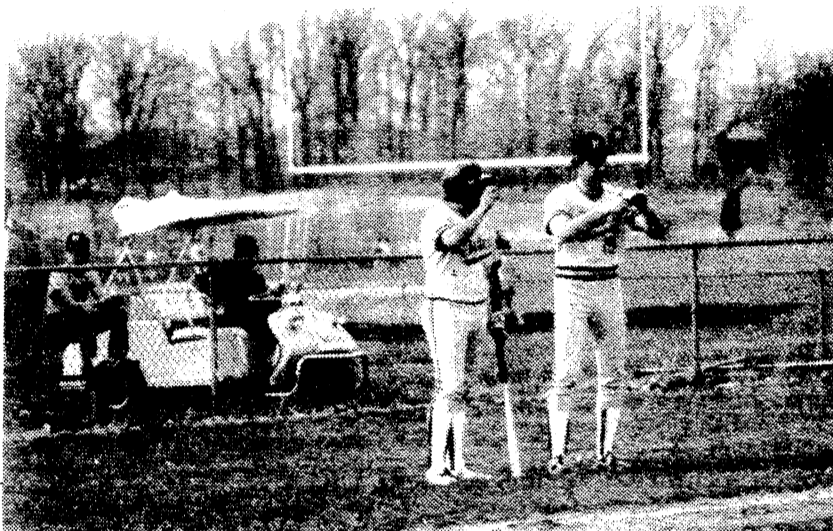

Unfortunately, Saturday showed two losses—Novi 8 to 2 and Willow Run 11 to 0.

The credit for thinking up bifocal eyeglasses goes to Benjamin Franklin, who devised the idea around 1785.
