Selected For Boys State

Ron Milkey

Manchester High is pleased to announce that Ron Milkey, son of Lois and Steve Milkey of 4754 Fletcher Road, has been selected as Manchester's representative to attend the American Legion Boys State this year. His sponsor is the Optimist Club of Manchester. Boys State will be held June 14-19 at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Ron is a junior at Manchester High School, ranking third in his class. He has been on the honor roll during all three years in high school and has received academic awards for each of those years. He is a member of the National Honor Society and is the newly elected secretary-treasurer of the student council for next year. Outside of school Ron is a lay speaker in church, president of the senior youth fellowship, and is secretary-treasurer for the Sharon United Methodist Sunday School.

His selection was based on demonstrated qualities of being a well-rounded individual, having an interest in the governmental process, leadership, good character and citizenship, mental alertness, and willingness to work and serve. He will be joined by nearly 1000 young men from throughout Michigan for a week of "learning by doing" in electing state and local officials, and carrying out the duties of government. In addition, he will meet Governor James J. Blanchard, Lt. Governor Martha Griffiths, and will be sworn into office by G. Mennen Williams, Chief Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

HIT OR MISS

by Farley

Several of us "old timers" were discussing the other day, the various changes that had come into our lives with the development of the automobile age and we recalled the advent of many names of well known cars of that era, many of which have vanished from the scene today. For instance there was the Model T and later the Model A, of course, the Chevy, Dodge, Pontiac, Willys-Knight, Overland, Lincoln, Packard, Nash, Studebaker and many others and then someone remarked that another name that should be included among those that became famous at that time was "Burma-Shave." In 1920 a small company headed by a chap named Odell was manufacturing and marketing a liniment in Minneapolis but it wasn't by far a best seller. Along about this time the owners of this company came across the first brushless shaving cream which had been developed in England and, while not too efficient at that time, seemed to have promise, so they played around with it and improved upon it and developed what they thought was a very satisfactory product. They made up a batch or so and tried to

Broil Honors 'Fat Bob' Taylor

He may not be as mysterious as the famous black panther that's been stalking Manchester lately, but the guest of honor at this year's Chicken Broil is just as interesting. Fat Bob Taylor—singing plumber, radio host on WJR, and local personality—will be Manchester's Man of the Hour on July 19th.

For the past eight years, Taylor has helped spread the word about the Chicken Broil to radio listeners throughout southeast Michigan with announcements on WAAM in Ann Arbor and WJR in Detroit. This valuable advance publicity has increased attendance, creating more profit for community improvements here in Manchester.

Taylor will be only the second guest of honor in the thirty-one-year history of the Broil. WJR radio personality Bud Guest was the first in 1980.

Broil organizers hope to persuade Taylor to honor Chicken Broil diners with his famous fourth-verse interpretation of "The Star-Spangled Banner." Our national anthem has become the theme song of Taylor's career. He has sung it at every opening and closing Detroit Tigers game since 1969.

His beautiful baritone rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner" is no accident. Taylor studied music at the University of Michigan, and won the regional Metropolitan Opera contest in 1966. Fortunately for Michigan, the demands of making a living intervened, and Taylor never went to New York City. He continued singing as a hobby, while working full-time as a plumber.

In 1967, Taylor telephoned WJR talk-show host J.P. McCarthy, sang a few bars of one of his favorite arias, and blew the station off the air for fifteen seconds. So began the career of Fat Bob, the singing plumber.

Not only has Taylor been an enthusiastic spokesman for the Chicken Broil, he's also been a great supporter of Manchester over the years. "Manchester reminds me of my home town of Leamington, Ontario," said Taylor. "My wife, Carol, and I love the beautiful old houses, the river and the charming shops."

The love affair appears to be mutual, and Manchester residents will have a chance to prove it on July 19th when we honor Fat Bob Taylor and his wife Carol, at our 1984 Chicken Broil. Tickets can be purchased in advance for $4.00, or at the gate on Broil Day for $4.50.

[From the Tecumseh Record]
Manchester, Mich

A recent visit to our sister village of Manchester, has impressed us with the conviction that it is destined at no late day to become a place of considerable importance, in a business point of view. Mr. Goodyear is just completing a three story brick block, which in point of architectural beauty and finish would do credit to much larger towns. It contains on the first floor two beautiful and capacious stores, one hundred feet from front to rear, one of which is being fitted up for our former townsman, Arthur Miller, Esq., who has taken for his partner a Mr. Webb, of Saline, and engaged in a general hardware, tin, and sheet iron business. The other is to be occupied by the Wastell Bros., as a dry goods establishment. On the second floor, there are various offices, and among them that of the Manchester Enterprise, conducted by our old friend Geo. S. Spafford. The third story contains a magnificient public hall, freely proportioned, admirably arranged, well lighted, and comfortably seated with chairs. The Manchesterians may well be excused for manifesting a little pride in their new Hall, and pointing the visitor to it, as an indication of the business enterprise and energy of the town.

But the achievement of which they seem to be proudest, is their new Union School building, which was not commenced until April last, but is now completely finished and occupied from top to bottom. It is constructed of brick, the same size and style of arrangement of our own central building. Well may they be proud of it, for previous to its erection, the facilities offered to the young people of Manchester for a school education, were of the most meager character. It is no wonder that the children, old and young, all attend the Union School. But from what we learned during our brief visit, we are inclined to the opinion that they are carrying the joke a little too far. It is well enough to have all the children go to school. We have no criticism to offer on the propriety of this arrangement. Indeed, we are decidedly in favor of making our schools free to all children, regardless of age, size or color. But when in their zeal to make education to everybody and everything, they open the doors of their Union School to the very pigs in the street, we think they manifest an inclination to cut it a little too thick. At least, we are doubtful if such an idea would go down here in our more refined Tecumseh society. We believe in swine, but we don't believe in educating them in the same room,

Manchester Panther Eludes Trackers

Thursday morning, May 31st, the Manchester Police Department made an effort to track and capture the panther that has been stalking this area for over a week.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department S.W.A.T. team and helicopter assisted, along with personnel from the Humane Society. Neil Baggett of Manchester and Mel Arntz of Brooklyn brought tracking dogs into the area where evidence of foot prints were found.

After a three hour hunt, without a sighting, the search was called off.

On Monday, June 4th, at 5:20 a.m., the panther was again spotted, this time at Kirk Park.

Operation Sandbox

The Manchester Men's Club again this year is sponsoring their annual operation sandbox. The club will be delivering free washed sand to anyone living in the Manchester school district, for their kids' sandbox on June 16th. To order sand, just call Keith's Barber Shop, 428-8584 or Morley's Hughes, 428-8802, before June 15th. The Men's Club will make every effort to take care of all requests. Donations will be accepted.

Outstanding Vocational Students

Michelle (Missy) Walkowe

Manchester High School took both Outstanding Vocational Student Awards this year in the Health Occupations class at Saline High School.

Michelle (Missy) Walkowe, a senior, was selected by the morning class, consisting of students from Manchester, Milan, Dexter and Saline. Missy is enrolled for the fall term at Eastern Michigan University and plans to pursue a career in nursing. She showed outstanding personal and leadership qualities in both class and clinical settings and earned the respect and affection of her peers.

Heidi Mottice

Heidi Mottice, a junior, was the selection of the afternoon class, consisting of students from Manchester, Dexter and Saline. Heidi displayed good humor and perseverance with assignments or tasks in class and in clinical work no matter how difficult. Her plans, also, are to pursue a career in nursing upon graduation. Classmates displayed trust and confidence in Heidi with this selection.

Both young women are employed at the Evangelical Home as nursing assistants as a result of the skills they learned in Health Occupations and their demonstrated use in the clinical setting.

Schebil Announces Sheriff Candidacy

Ronald Schebil, acting sheriff of Washtenaw County, formally announced his candidacy for the position this week.

Over the past 15 years, the office of sheriff has become increasingly complex as the department has expanded, stated Schebil. "For example, in 1971, the department employed 106 personnel and had a budget of $1,632,369.

accept these responsibilities and satisfy the expectations of the community," Schebil stated. "I have served with the sheriff's department since 1973 and have progressed steadily through assignments of increasing responsibility. During the past 11 years, I have served as a deputy, shift sergeant, law enforcement lieutenant, Commander of the Law Enforcement Division, including the patrol, traffic, detective functions, and undersheriff. Presently, I hold the position of Sheriff, and, as such, I am responsible for the operation of the entire department."

Prior to joining the department in 1973, Schebil was employed by the University of Michigan as an accounting supervisor. A resident of Ypsilanti, Schebil has been active in community service organizations, and has assisted in the planning of a number of department related activities for the benefit of area youth. Schebil, a member of the department for 11 years, graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in business administration, and is pursuing his master's from Eastern Michigan University.

Michigan Constable Seminar

The summer seminar of the Michigan Constable and Court Officers Association was held last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Holiday Inn East in Saginaw, Michigan. Local Constables Earl Alber and Association President Lyle Moore attended.

The Friday evening meeting dealt with tornadoes, liquor inspection and elections. The Saturday morning session was at the Bridgeport rifle range. This section was under the direction of sergeants Brown and Wellman of the Michigan State Police. They had courses in safety and proper handling of long BB1 and short BB1 revolver and shotguns. After lunch the meeting was conducted by Undersheriff Paul Megge of Tuscola County, and liquor license enforcement by Shelo Webb of the Liquor Commission.

A wonderful supper was enjoyed and then Rep. Bullard of legislature from Oakland County gave a very good talk. He spoke about some of the legislature problems and also of how more communities are using their local Constables more now than in the past because farming out police duties is getting too expensive. Sunday morning there was a worship service and then a general membership meeting. Constables Moore and Alber have attended these seminars for many years in the past. Our next one will be at the Kellogg Center in East Lansing the first weekend in December.

Half Million In Cost-Share Funds Remains Available

Following three years of activity, $570,000 remains in Saline Valley Project coffers to fund additional soil and water conservation practices on Project Area farms. These funds represent 30% of the original $1.9 million made available through USDA's Rural Clean Water Program to Saline Valley Project Area farmers for the application of conservation practices. The objective of the Saline Valley Project is to improve water quality in the Saline River and Macon Creek through assisting farmers in reducing the amount of silt, fertilizer and manure which runs off farms into surface waters.

Currently, 67 farms are actively applying conservation measures through the Saline Valley Project, protecting 12,800 acres of cropland. Practices completed through the Project include 5,000 acres of conservation tillage, 7 erosion control structures, 19 animal waste management systems, and a total of 9,000 feet of grassed waterways. In addition, all the farms involved with the Project are conducting fertilizer management programs which assure maximum crop productivity while eliminating the possibility of excessive fertilizer use.

"The beauty of the Saline Valley Project is what is good for the river is good for the farm," explained Ron Struss, Extension Agricultural Agent with the Project. According to Struss, the reason for this is that the practices which reduce silt, fertilizer and manure runoff from farms are the same ones which will preserve healthy topsoil, and make the most efficient use of commercial fertilizer and manure.

The Saline Valley Project is a voluntary program whereby farmers can receive both technical and financial assistance for applying conservation practices which will benefit water quality. It operates as a team effort between the farmer and three USDA agencies. Technical assistance on soil conservation and manure management practices comes from the Soil Conservation Service, with the Cooperative Extension Service providing assistance on fertilizer management and pesticide use. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) handles the financial assistance portion of the Project.

In general, the Saline Valley Project covers 75% of the cost of eligible practices. Farmers are able to receive up to $50,000 in financial assistance through the Project.

The last date farmers can enter into agreements with the Saline Valley Project is October, 1985. However, Struss warns that a certain amount of advance planning is required before agreements can be finalized, making last-minute applications to the Project unadvisable.

"There is no obligation in investigating the Saline Valley Project, and all it costs is your time," Struss commented. "Even if a farmer discovers the Project is not for his or her situation, there is much that can be learned about soil and water conservation methods by looking into the Project."

Information on the Saline Valley Project can be obtained by contacting Ron Struss at the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Office, 973-9510, or by contacting the Soil Conservation Service or ASCS offices in Monroe and Washtenaw Counties.

Pictured are Jay Gillow, 17.5 miles; Steven Harvey, 17.5 miles; Jeff Gillow, 10 miles, Rodney Burkhardt, 15 miles; and Benji Winzenz, 17.5 miles.

The St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels For Life Bike-A-Thon is over for this year and, looking back, we want to sincerely thank the citizens of Manchester for their support.

We are extremely proud of our riders, the working volunteers, Don Limpert for the use of the Mill for our Headquarters, Keith Reed, Baker's Dozen for donuts and helping collect our pledges, the citizens who also donated donuts, and Dr. Okey for being on call. All of their efforts made the ride possible. Thanks to them, we raised a total of $336.00.

It's a wonderful feeling to know that people of our community are concerned and caring individuals and, on behalf of the children of St. Jude's, I want to thank each and everyone who helped.

Jackson County Rose Festival

The Jackson County Rose Festival, an annual event that draws thousands of people to Jackson County, has kicked off nine days of excitement-filled festivities which began June 2nd. The festival, one of the state's largest, runs through June 10th.

The festival offers something for everyone in the family, according to Rose Festival President Elaine M. Lewis. Events range from a children's clown contest to the moving, award-winning orchestra performance of "Echoes of Children," and from a variety music show to a Day in the Park carnival in Jackson's Ella Sharp Park.

The 1984 Festival will be presided over by Rosequeen Elizabeth Ann Wilson.

The highlight of the festival is the Rose Parade on Sunday, June 10th. The parade begins at 1:30 p.m. in downtown Jackson, and marches west on West Michigan Avenue to the Westwood Mall.

The parade generally lasts between 1 1/2-2 hours.

The parade is followed by a Day in the Park from 3-7 p.m. The carnival will let children paint on a clown face of their own, stroll through a petting zoo and enjoy pony rides and other carnival attractions. The Jackson Handweavers Guild will give the public a real look at the old art of weaving, going from sheep to shawl in one afternoon. The band Citations will provide musical entertainment, and the public can have their choice of concession food or a Boy Scout chicken barbecue.

Special Speaker At Worship Service

Mark Feldkamp, a Sharon Township native, will be speaker at Sharon United Methodist Church on June 10th during the special worship service in his honor. For the past three years Mark has been a missionary to college students in Erie, Pennsylvania through the Coalition for Christian Outreach. This fall Mark will begin new duties with this organization as regional director for northwest Pennsylvania. The Coalition for Christian Outreach is a non-denominational campus ministry organization operating in a 200 mile radius of Pittsburgh.

Mark will be speaking of his work in Erie during this service.

Continance Program For Older Women Offered

When Archie Bunker flushes the toilet on T.V., it's funny and everyone laughs. But when someone who is incontinent must find a bathroom every half hour because they're afraid of wetting themselves, it's no laughing matter.

"People without bladder control often lead isolated lives... Like the woman who was afraid to go to her son's wedding for fear of embarrassment," states Dr. James Peggs, Director of The University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea. "Many people assume that nothing can be done, but that is not true" continues Dr. Peggs. "Incontinence can be caused by a urinary tract infection, poor bladder support, and other conditions that can be treated."

One out of five older women has a urine control problem and University Hospital has developed a Continance Program for Older Women to assist with this problem. The program recognizes the physical and social discomfort caused by uncontrolled urine loss or other urination problems. Its services are available at little or no cost to women 55 years of age or older.

A special session describing the program and the services available will be held at The University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea on Thursday, June 7, at 7:30-8:30 p.m.

The program is free, but preregistration is requested at 764-8010.

and on an equal footing with our sons and daughters.

And yet, this is precisely what they are trying to do in Manchester. Only a few days since, a Manchester pig, seized with a thirst for knowledge, very commendable of course even in a pig, determined to go to school. So he obeyed the warning tones of the school bell, trotted off to the temple of learning, walked deliberately up the long flight of stairs leading to the second story, and finding the door open into one of the apartments, he went in. But he was not quite prepared for the tumultuous greeting he received from the boys. For the moment, books and studies were all forgotten; while the pig, who was in "pursuit of knowledge under difficulties," astounded by the tumultuous applause with which he was received, and looking considerably puzzled, paused for a moment irresolute, and then turned and ran toward the stairs. But he was in too much of a hurry, and tripping at the top stair, he went to the bottom in the manner which boys call "heels over head."

Thus ended the experiment of trying to educate pigs in common with our boys and girls. We improve the opportunity, to warn all school directors here and elsewhere, against the folly of trying the insane experiment, which has proved such a failure in Manchester.

Second Group of Teachers Complete Training Seminar

A second group of Manchester teachers recently completed a special five session seminar designed to improve teaching effectiveness. Klager teachers Marge Scully, Karen Ellsworth, Susan Ediger, and Mary Lowery along with high school teachers Char Henderson, Judy Miller and Melinda Trout and middle school teachers Dacia Daniels, Roger Boyce and Gay Perry recently completed the special training workshop.

The Manchester Community Schools have been committed to staff development of teachers as a Board of Education goal during the current year. As part of this program twenty teachers to date have volunteered for special teacher effectiveness training.

Teachers who have completed the training are awarded a special apple lapel pin. If a teacher wearing a lapel pin is noted it is certain that this person has worked hard to obtain special training.

The Manchester Community Schools continues to be proud of its hard working classroom teachers and the special effort they put forth for personal development.

Class Of 1984 And Recent Graduates

Information on several Summer 1984 youth employment programs has been compiled in a handy brochure now available at Manchester High School Office. Graduates 18 to 21 may be interested in the Michigan Youth Corps which is open to all youth in the age range regardless of income level. Although the State Legislature has not passed the bill yet, applications are being taken by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESOC) offices.

The nearest office for most Manchester youth is at the Maple Village Shopping Center, Ann Arbor. The brochure lists other employment opportunities and sources for assistance in seeking employment.

Hit or Miss

market it but it was a novelty and didn't have any great success but they were receiving a few repeat orders from druggists that they had urged to stock the product.

One day Odell and a companion were driving along the road between Minneapolis and Red Wing when they came upon a series of 3' 24" signs each with one word on them spaced along the road some two or three hundred feet apart. These signs read "Gas," "Oil," "Restrooms," etc., and ended up at a gas station with a big sign out in front saying "This is the place."

Odell thought about these signs and came up with the idea that this was indeed, a novel and foolproof way of getting the auto driver's attention and so he went out and rustled up some $200 with which to buy second hand lumber and posts and proceeded to compose, with the help of his sense of humor, the first Burma-Shave signs. The first ones weren't humorous but soon they became poetical and attracted the attention of most every driver on Minnesota highways and Burma-Shave sales began to soar. By 1926 the company set up a sign shop and hired crews to erect their signs which were successful because they were all light hearted and easily remembered. For instance one of the first ones read "He played a sax/had no B.O./but his whiskers scratched/so she let him go." and the one which read "His face was smooth-as cool as ice/and Oh Louise/he smelled so nice."

These signs were placed 100 paces apart on the roadways and boundary fences in groups of five with usually two words to a sign which made it possible for everyone to read them and after they read the first line they held one's attention through all five lines like this one: "The bearded lady/tried a jar/she's now a famous/movie star. The signature on all of these ads was, of course, Burma-Shave.

After several years and an expansion program which extended into more than 40 states the supply of jingles dwindled so an annual contest was developed with $100 paid for every one used. This rejuvenated the Burma-Shave jingle. Some of the contests drew more than fifty thousand entries.

Most of these entries were clean out but now and then one had to be tossed out like the one which read: Bachelor's quarters/dog on the rug/whiskers to blame/no one to hug; and then the classic among the boy-girl jingles: He had the ring/he had the flat/but she felt his chin/and that was that."

The jingles also contributed to safety campaigns and were awarded many commendations for public service like this one: "Remember this/if you'd be spared/trains don't whistle/because they're scared." "Hardly a driver/is now alive/who passed on a hill/at 75." "Drove too long/driver snoozing/what happened next/is not amusing." "He saw the train/and tried to duck it/kicked first the gas/and then the bucket." "The midnight ride/Paul for beer/led to a warmer/atmosphere."

By 1929 and an annual budget for them of $65,000 the first signs had reached the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. By 1930 they had shown up from Canada to the southern border.

Then several states passed taxes on each sign. In the 1930's many signs near college towns disappeared in the dark of the night and on the rapidly developing highways fewer good locations for signs were available.

Among other fads and fancies which Burma-Shave anticipated was the coupon craze which they anticipated with the verse, "Free offer, free offer/Rip a fender off your car/Mail it in for half pound jar."

In 1963 it was announced that Burma-Shave had been sold to Phillip Morris. The last of the original founders was gone.

The new owners decided to gradually phase out the roadside signs in favor of more modern advertising procedures and so the signs were gradually picked up, a group was given to and accepted by the Smithsonian Museum, and another way of life departed from the face of the earth. But they exist in thousands of memories and as one of the last ones said:

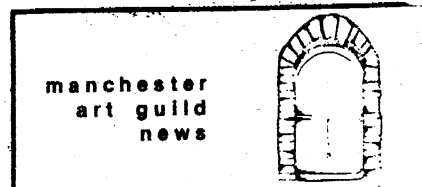

If you don't know
Whose signs these are
You can't have driven
Very far.
Farewell the verse along the road
How sad to know you're out of mode
Burma-Shave.

Newcomer's Group Formed

The Turner Geriatric Clinic is sponsoring a Newcomer's Group for senior citizens who have recently moved to the Ann Arbor area. Beginning Thursday, June 21, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m., the group will acquaint participants with local resources and provide an opportunity for meeting new people. Also welcome are other seniors of Ann Arbor who would like to become reacquainted with their community. The sessions will run until August 9 at the Turner Geriatric Clinic, 1010 Wall Street. There is no charge for the program. For more information call Cyndi Cook or Nancy Moldenhauer at 764-2556.

Currently, Guild activities are focusing in two directions:

1. Planning for Manchester Street Fair '84, scheduled for Saturday, August 11th, is coming along well. The pace is quickening, as might be expected. Many applications have been returned already and it looks like the fair will have both quality and variety. For information about exhibitor space, write the Manchester Art Guild, Box 4, Manchester, MI. 48158; or call Pat, 428-9302; Maureen, 428-9286; or Bonnie, (517) 456-7569.

2. Manchester Outlet, the Guild's little retail effort, has been warmly received by the community, for which members are grateful. Matt Donnellon's start and help have been invaluable. Presently, his efforts must be reduced, so Guild members, busy participating in art fairs, will reduce store hours to Saturday's from 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon, for the time being. Publicity will reflect this change.

Enthusiastic Women Needed

On Monday, June 4th, a group of ambitious gals got together and formed a steering committee for the purpose of getting a Manchester Women's Club organized. This club will be open to all the women in the Manchester area - any age who would like to get involved in community projects.

There will be an open meeting on June 12th at McGlynn's Pub & Grubb starting promptly at 7:30. Come join us and share your ideas with us. If you have another commitment for that day, please call and let us know of your interest. For further information, call 428-9107 or 428-8193 after 5:30.
