VOLUME NO. 1 118TH YEAR

Impatient now we long have stood,

That echoes from the distant wood,

It comes; the whirling smoke we see

So bold and wild, so shrill and free,

For naught can here detain;

The whistle of the train.

A moment only, now, to stay,

A word is all that we can say;

The whistle of the train.

The air is clear, the day is bright,

No signs of gloomy rain;

And like the arrow is our flight,

The whistle of the train.

Your eagerness restrain;

The whistle of the train.

The gentle kine are on the way;

The whistle of the train.

Unless they instantly obey

put on the "brakes" amain;

"Cow-catcher" will quick work essay

To instant death, perhaps, despite

We pray you sir, to slack your pace,

If "switch" or "drum" is out of place,

It sounds a knell, in frightful race,

A parting kiss, it calls away-

To catch the cheerful strain

And fills the air as with a flood-

The whistle of the train.

As in a hurricane;

And velling in extatic glee

The Whistle Of The Train

MANCHESTER ENTERPRISE

The nimble deer is on the track, Now all is ready; friends are near His forest to regain; To wipe the tear in vain, He springs as from pursuing pack, As now we soon again shall hear, So welcome to the waithing ear, The whistle of the train. The whistle of the train.

> On every side the whirling land And hamlets of the plain; Just now a village is at hand; The whistle of the train.

And while we wonder thus afar, For pleasure or for gain, The whistle of the train.

And when in shadows dark and deep We long have restless lain, And heavy hours upon us creep, How mournful, in a fitful sleep, The whistle of the train.

Then when among the mountains high We hear that wild refrain, From ledge to ledge the echoes fly-It starts the eagles in the sky-

It sounds as from the burning throne Of Pluto's gloomy reign; Or like a giant's deepest groan, From depths of mortal anguish blown, The whistle of the train.

High School Continues

And yet, how pleasant is its yell, And free from every pain, When "home sweet home," it deigns to tell, And rings it out through gorge and dell-

October 17, 1867

And distant leaves behind his back

The wait-the crowd upon the stand,

We take at night the "sleeping car;" Then howis, our slumbers to debar,

The whistle of the train.

The whistle of the train.

We love it when the trip is o'er, The whistle "on the brain; Like sailor reeling on the shore, We hear that oft recurring roar,-The whistle of the train.

To Receive Facelift In the past few weeks the replaced. Superintendent Gene Thompson commented, carpeting which was in the offices had gotten pretty shabby. There were numerous rips and places where the carpeting completely worn through. The new carpeting certainly improves the work environment and I believe that is important in order to maintain productivity.'

As the library collection has expanded it has been necessary to move into adjoining rooms. These areas are being carpeted to match the main library area. Most recently the ceiling in the high school gym is being installed. The result is an entirely new appearance for the gym. The effect is a brighter and more sound controlled area. In addition to being more energy efficient.

Board Of Education

Education has continued its practice of forming two standing sub-committees of the Board. These committees are labeled the Executive and Finance Committee respectively. Members of the Committee Executive President, Earl Horning; Vice President, Bill Broucek; and James Samonek. Trustee, the Finance Members of Committee are: Treasurer, Ron Mann: Secretary, Kent Talcott; and Trustee, Tom Golding.

Each committee meets once a month with the Superintendent to review the status of current district programs, budget, and to review concerns. The Executive Committee is primarily concerned with agenda development and goal setting. The Finance Committee focuses its attention on the fiscal matters of the school district.

Working in this manner the Board is able to streamline its operation so that meetings of the full Board of Education can be devoted to productive efforts. These lines of communication the established between Superintendent and the Board enable the administration to develop programs which are generally supported by the Board.

Superintendent of Schools Gene Thompson commented, "It is extremely helpful to have an understanding of the thinking of individual Board members on various topics before we begin to develop programs. In this manner we can develop proposals which we are fairly certain will meet with Board approval. Without these lines of communication we would develop proposals, submit them for Board reaction, take

Halloween Party For Little Spooks Saturday, Oct. 27th

At the suggestion of school officials and the Manchester Police Department, Halloween in Manchester will be celebrated this Saturday evening, October 27th. Trick or Treating will be from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. Church bells will ring at 7:00 p.m. to tell children to go to Klager Elementary cafeteria for the Halloween party and costume judging, which is sponsored by the Manchester Women's League. Judging will start promptly at 7:30 p.m.

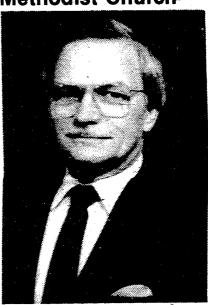

All Manchester area children, aged preschool through the 5th grade, are invited to attend the party where cider and doughnuts will be served.

The Manchester Department will be at the school with metal detectors to check children's Halloween candy.

Have a safe and happy Halloween!

The Manchester Board of them back to the drawing board, resubmit them, etc. This way we are able to produce a great deal more work. I know that sometimes it appears that the Board is simply saying yes to everything we propose when in reality many hours of discussion Continued on page 6

Your patio door is one of the biggest energy wasters in your home, plus a patio door without sufficient insulation means:

- •Uncomfortable, icv drafts
- Unsightly stained draperies
- •Wet, drippy sills

Unattractive frost build-up

Put an end to patio door miseries with a TWIN-STORMITM that mounts directly over your present patic door. Appearance and operation is not hindered, but energy loss, destructive "sweating", and chilly drafts are virtually eliminated.

Be Aware Of Children's Safety On Halloween

Candy is part of Halloween, but 5-year-old Kelly Mathison of Detroit knows that before eating treats, little witches and warlocks should have them checked by an adult. The automobile Club of Michigan urges motorists to "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" this Halloween by being extra alert for children darting into streets. Trick-or-treaters should follow Kelly's example and wear face makeup rather than masks, wear bright or illuminated costumes and cross only at corners. To make this a safe Halloween, the Auto Club is offering free reflective treat bags and safety tip cards at its 54

Some of the gremlins that come out at Halloween are very real, warns Washtenaw County Sheriff

MONEY MANAGEMENT

A Must For Protecting Assets

Federal estate tax laws say that tax must be levied against all 1984 estates valued at more than $325,000. Next year you can leave a tax-free estate of $400,000: that amount continues to grow until 1987, when you can leave up to $600,000 to your heirs tax-free.

But within three months of Mr. Wilson's death, Mrs. Wilson passed away. Under prevailing law, the $600,000 left to their son was taxable: it exceeded the $325,000 threshold in force during 1984. That tax could have been avoided if Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had each made optimal use of their threshhold. As one option, Mr. Wilson could have left $325,000 to his son and $275,000 to his wife. Upon Mrs. Wilson's death, the $275,000 would be passed to their son tax-free because of Mrs. Wilson's $325,000 threshhold. In addition, if Mr. Wilson had wished to leave more cupcake to enjoy for dessert than the $275,000 to his wife, he before going out for recess. than the $275,000 to his wife, he would have put part of the estate in trust that would have given his wife income from the interest earned on the trust. If $100,000 had been placed into the trust, for example, their son's inheritance would have $225,000. That's below the $325,000 threshold in effect for 1984, and their son would have inherited the estate tax-free. Although the levels at which estates are taxed may seem high and you may think that your estate will fall below the $600 000 tax threshhold that will be effective in 1987, it's wise to make some careful estimates of how large your estate will actually be. The major items that comprise your estate are the current value of your home, car, investments, savings, distrubutions from life insurance and pension and profit sharing plans. If you are near or shove the $600,000 level when you add up these items, you may want to consult your tax advisor to determine the best way of pas your property to your family without paying more than you must in taxes.

Even if your estate falls below the tax threshholds, you may want to consult a CPA or attorney about how state tax rules wil affect your estate. A lawyer can help you draw up a will. If you do not draw up a will, state laws, which vary across the nation, will determine how your assets will be disposed of.

Those with estates smaller than $600,000 may not have to worry at all about estate taxes erodin their estates. But those with assets above the tax threshhold levels should find ways to shift appreciating assets out of their estates before death. Your CPA can help you choose from an array estate below the taxable level.

"The key is building up your body so it can handle the strain of hunting. You don't stop and think about it but you're doing a lot of work during that time of so-called relaxation with friends. Think of all the walking you do, carrying heavy supplies, and often in colder weather. That all puts a strain on your heart. In fact, your little outing can quadruple the heart's workload.'

Dr. Gordon offered some precautions that hunters can take:

* Never hunt alone. * Know where to get help in case of emergency-any kind of emergency. You should know how to reach the sheriff's department or other emergency medical aid in the area in which you're hunting.

* Be sure you're in condition. A program of moderate exercise will help put you in better condition to withstand some of the situations hunting. But, be sure your doctor has evaluated you for your ability to exercise and participate in such a program if there is any question of a heart problem.

* Wear warm clothing that protects head, ears, hands and throat. Cold weather puts an added strain on the heart.

* Know the symptoms of heart attack: a feeling of fullness, heaviness or squeezing pain in the center of the chest, which may spread to arms, shoulders, neck or iaw and may be accompanied by nausea, vomiting, sweating or shortness of breath. If someone in your party experiences these symptoms, get help fast!

* If you're on medication for your heart, make sure that all members of your hunting party know where you keep your medication, and how it should be

HEARING October 8, 1984 8:00 p.m. Bridgewater Township Hall

The Public Hearing on the Conditional Use Application by Tom and William Peltcs was held on Monday, October 8th, at 8 p.m.

22 people were in the audience at the Bridgewater Township Hall. A representative of the Washtenaw County Road Commission was present, and Mr. applicants. He and his brother Tom, corp. owners of the property on Allen and Bartlett Roads in Bridgewater Township, would like to sell bulk feed and fertilizer on their property. To have continuation of agriculture, sales would help farmers in area, according to Peltcs. Exactly where this sales facility would be placed, and what would be sold

Questions raised included: Traffic load due to the sale of fertilizer and feed to trucks coming to get it. Heavy loads on bridges on Allen Road. Costs of extra grading and dust control. Size of trucks which might be involved. Would there be any effect on the ground water in the area from spilled or stored materials? Are there any possible odors associated with this type of

After questions had been raised and discussed for some time, the hearing was closed, and the regular meeting of Bridgewater Township Planning Commission was called to order at

Spending Your Tax Dollars

The federal government is big business-and you pay for it. As a taxpayer, you probably don't want to pay the bills for everybody who receives support from Uncle Sam. We hear about the Pentagon spending thousands of dollars for an item you and I could buy for 59 cents at the hardware store. That's a problem. But the real disgrace in the system is how and why Congress authorizes the spending of your

First of all, you have no say in how your tax dollars are spent. Your elected representatives decide that. But are you acquainted with them? Have you told them how you want your money spent? And if you have, did they take your advice? In a nutshell, here's how most of them do it: they decide their biggest constituencies, then they try to throw money at them, especially around election time.

Your representatives' main business is the re-election game. Unless they plan to get out of politics, their first priority is survival. Their decisions are based on that main item, especially the decisions that involve federal money and its distribution to their constituents.

So, if you don't like the way they spend your money, your only hope is to tell them so. They know that if enough people like you aren't happy with the way they're doing their job, their job security by Farley When Thomas Edison opened his first plant, it soon came to his attention that the employees were spending too much time watching the lone clock on the wall. He knew he could not break the watching, but he came up with an idea to discourage it. He installed same time.

Before long, clock watching lost its fascination, and productivity showed a marked increase.

Americans have resumed establishing new households, but young people continue to delay marriage, newly released Census Bureau figures show.

After slackening for a year, new households reached 85.4 million as of March, up 1.5 million from a year earlier, the bureau said in releasing the figures vesterday.

That nearly corresponds with the growth pattern during the 1970s. A year earlier, only 391,000 new households had been formed, as the economic recession dampened growth.

But delaying marriage while getting an education and beginning a career was another trend common in the 1970s and it continues, the report suggests.

For example, 75 percent of men aged 20 to 24 remain unmarried. That's up from 69 percent in 1980. Among women of the same ages, 57 percent have yet to wed, an increase from 50 percent in 1980.

People living alone households headed by women have become the major feature of household growth, the report shows. This has helped reduce the average household size to 2.71 people from 2.73 last year.

Phrase books and foreignlanguage dictionaries are as common as dandelions at this time of year as people prepare for trips abroad.

But what no bookstore seems to have is a dictionary of gestures, which can get a traveler into trouble as easily mispronounced word.

Take our gesture for OK, index time-honored habit of clock finger and thumb joined to form a circle. If you made that gesture in Naples in answer to your waiter's a number of clocks about the inquiry about how you liked your factory, no two of which kept the food, he might take a poke at you because you would have likened him to a part of the human body. In Greece or Turkey, you would have indicated that you desired deviate sex. In France or Belgium, the message of that gesture is "You're nothing.

The V-for-victory sign, which has also served as the peace expresses strong symbol. contempt in Britain if made with the palms facing outward.

Psychology Today reports that a team of researchers at the University of California Medical School in San Francisco who are compiling a dictionary of gestures have found that America has no unique gestures, as does France. where you indicate that someone is drunk by putting your fist around the tip of your nose and giving it a twist.
