Manchester Plastics Inc. continued its tradition of commitment to the Manchester community with a highly successful United Way campaign, completed this week. Together, the company and its employees raised more than $3,850, through a generous corporate donation, the employee pledge drive, and a variety of fundraising activities.

All of the employees got into the spirit of giving and of working together to make giving fun, according to Marie K. Hale, Personnel Director, who served as campaign chairwoman. To build enthusiasm, Marie began with a personalized version of this year's United Way slogan: Manchester Plastics Shares Because Manchester Plastics Cares.

Very popular among employees were several raffles and a Chinese auction. A variety of items were donated by local merchants and distributors, including a Sony Walkman, a Kodak disc camera, a

of P. C. Vreeland & Co.

The steady growth of our manufactories are the best proof of our increasing enterprise and prosperity. Our list of Manufacturing enterprises would be far from complete were we to omit the establishment name above, which, like all the other manufactories of our flourishing village, were a few years ago but mere trifles, and were not thought worthy of mention. As the wheel of time rolls slowly on, we see that vast changes are taking place, and all are working upward and onward. Work shops are springing up in every direction, and from early dawn till late at night we hear the clang of the anvil, and the sound of hammer and saw, and quick hands are preparing implements and tools for commercial and agricultural pursuits. A few years ago we were obliged to buy our wagons at Jackson or other places, in order to get a good one that would stand the wear and tear of our hilly country with heavy loads of grain or merchandise, and also carriages for comfortable and easy traveling. But time has worked a change in this line of trade, and we have to-day one of the best wagon and carriage manufactories in the west, and of which we may justly feel proud.

The location of these shops is on the east side of the river, the iron work and painting being done on Water street.

P. C. Vreeland the senior proprietor has had about 40 years experience in this business and he feels confident that he can, and is turning out as good work as any establishment in the State.

They are now employing seven workmen, and at some portions of the seasons are obliged to add three or four more, in order to meet the demands of the public.

They are turning out something over one vehicle per week on an average, and every piece of work is made of the best materials, and warranted. Mr. Vreeland oversees the making of every article and knows it is all right before it leaves the shop.

They have but a few vehicles in the shop at present, their sales are quick, and profits small. We have been told by men in the

Community Thanksgiving Eve Worship

PILGRIMS & PUMPKIN PIE, FAMILIES & FOOTBALL...are part of the tradition of Thanksgiving in America. Part of Manchester's tradition is the holding of a community-wide Thanksgiving Eve Service of Worship in gratitude for the good gifts our Lord has given - both to us as individuals and as a nation.

EMANUEL UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST will be the host this year, on Wednesday evening, November 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Sanctuary. The Rev. Roman Reinick, Pastor of Bethel United Church of Christ in Freedom Township, will bring the Message. The Choir from Emanuel Church will sing the very appropriate anthem, "And I Will Sing of America." A fellowship time will follow.

THIS THANKSGIVING

Letter to the Editor

Election evening I had the distinct privilege of visiting the Manchester Township Hall. As a representative of the League of Women Voters and ABC News, it was my assignment to report "top of the ticket" results, the totals for the presidential and senatorial races to ABC News. Manchester Township had been designated a "key" precinct.

My strongest recollection of that evening was not of the election results so much as the care and precision exercised by Wilma Lentz's able workers. Pinstaking procedures were followed, as at least two people witnessed the recording of every figure. The figures were checked and rechecked.

It was very heartening to see such dedication to accuracy among the workers responsible for tallying the election results. Manchester voters can take pleasure and pride in knowing that every single one of their votes counted.

Peggy Mouzon

How good it felt to watch as the Manchester Football Team made it into State Class C Playoffs by beating Union City, thus giving us the chance to play Lansing Catholic Central. It was good to see so many people at the games supporting both the football team with their excellent record of performance, and also the marching band with their excellent record of performance and improvement this year. Who ever said that music and sports cannot thrive in the same community must not have attended either game.

Over the years, Coach Fielder who take great pride in the fact that they are life-long residents, and can tell stories of how they saw the first Memorial Day parade, the first community fair, or the first Chicken Broil. There is, however, an old-timer in our midst who not only saw the first paved road and the first automobile, but also the first school, the first farm - even the first Thanksgiving Day. Of course I am referring to the giant Burr-Oak tree that has stood for over 300 years as a silent sentry at the western entrance to Manchester Township on Austin Road.

Times have changed, and now this rare and magnificent tree is in danger of being destroyed by the county road commission because it had the misfortune of being born - some one-third of a millennium ago - too close to where a county road would one day pass.

A local attorney has exhausted the legal avenues to protect this Michigan sequoia, and unless a miracle happens within a few weeks, this tree will be nothing but match sticks and wooden pallets.

I ask the residents of Manchester to contact the county road commission and the township board members in an effort to save this living legend. For hundreds of years this tree has resisted insects, disease, tornados, lightning storms, and the lumberman's axe, but now it is in the fight of its life against legal paranoia. They put up guard rails and caution markers for culverts and bumps in the road, why not for this tree?

Modern technology can build space shuttles, supersonic airplanes, and artificial hearts, but it cannot build a tree like this - "Only God can make a tree."

Agriculture In Action

Thanksgiving, 1984

With all the current media attention on tough times down on the farm, consumers could be worrying about whether their next meal might have to be imported. And, since much of our Thanksgiving Day focus is on celebrating the bounty made possible by an efficient, productive American agriculture, some are probably questioning: so what do we have to be thankful for this year?

Thankfully, our Thanksgiving holiday prompts us to seriously ponder that question. When we do, we can usually come up with a pretty lengthy list - and 1984 is no exception.

For example, we can be thankful that despite economic problems and a not always sympathetic Mother Nature, American farmers have produced abundant crops and ample supplies of meat and dairy products.

We can be thankful that, unlike some other countries, we don't have to worry about whether there will be enough food to go around.

We can be thankful that for the past few years, food prices have actually been below the rate of inflation.

We can be thankful for the millions of city jobs created by production agriculture, and for the contributions the agricultural industry makes to the economic strength of our state and nation.

In Michigan especially, we can be thankful that we can prepare a delicious, nutritious Thanksgiving meal from products grown within the borders of our own state. Few other states can make that claim.

So, while nobody will deny that there are tough times down on the farm, few have any real doubts that the industry will survive and keep on supplying us with the best food supply in the world. And for that, we can be truly thankful.

Saline Community Hospital Auxiliary Meeting

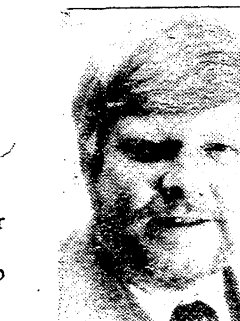

Tom Durkin, Director of the Alcoholism Recovery Program at Saline Community Hospital, will be the guest speaker for the hospital auxiliary meeting on November 27, in the Wellness Center Forum. His presentation will include a description of the hospital inhouse and outpatient programs. "Alcohol abuse brings costs to everyone - employees, families and society-at-large and creates more family problems than any other single cause. We need to learn more about this disease in order to fully understand its impact on our lives and our community," a spokesperson for the hospital said.

The meeting will be held at 12:30 p.m. beginning with refreshments and Mr. Durkin will speak at 1 p.m. A business meeting will follow. The meeting is open to auxiliary members, friends and anyone interested in the topic.

Hot Seat, a G.E. telephone and numerous other items. Four bake sales were held with baked goods donated by employees. There was a 50-50 drawing and perhaps most popular, two drawings for a day off of the employee's choice with full pay! These various activities added $580 to the corporate and employee donations. Much of the success of the campaign can be attributed to the enthusiastic support of MPI President, Emery C. Jonas and owner Ronald T. Larizza. Mr. Larizza's philosophy is that all businesses and their employees have a civic responsibility to their local community, and to assist the less fortunate members of that community. He sees United Way as one of the most effective means of accomplishing this. MPI and its employees can be proud of their level of support for the community, and Manchester citizens can be thankful to have such committed corporate neighbors. Bridgewater Township Planning Commission

Minutes of November 12, 1984
Meeting at Bridgewater Townhall
8:00 P.M.

The meeting was called to order at 8:05 p.m. by Gerald Marion, Chairman. Present: Gene Braun, Gabriel Dull, Roger Hardenbergh, Gerald Marion, Chairman; Louise Fraumann, Marvin Deanna Breitenswisher, Deanna Becklehamer. Absent: Alfred Cowhy and Leonard Dayss. Attending: Harlin Fraumann, Zoning Inspector.

The Minutes of the Meeting and Hearing of October 8th were read and accepted as corrected. The names of those attending the Hearing had asked to be placed on record as opposed to the granting of the conditional use permit asked for by Peltas Farms.

Four letters were handed to Gerald Marion, Chairman, which were read, and added to other letters received previously, for and against the plan. Bill and Tom Peltas explained their site plan and their plans. They would conform to the State, Federal, and DNR regulations.

One question asked was what sales would be anticipated. Wholesale delivery in trucks of 20 tons appeared to be possible. And the storage of anh. ammonia, a liquid, was described.

A motion to deny the Conditional Use application and Permit applied for by Peltas Farms was made by Gabe Dull, Seconded by Deanna Becklehamer. Motion was unanimous to deny.

According to Article 1, Section 1.03, Paragraph F, "providing for the needs of agriculture, recreation, residence, commerce, and industry, in future growth" is one of the purposes of our Ordinance, which means that serious consideration of the proposed conditional use permit requested by the Peltas Farms for a commercial and wholesale sale of fertilizer and feed at their property at 13024 Bartlett Road was given.

While the proposed suggested business may be profitable to the applicants, the denial of the application, does not restrict or handicap the farmers in the area, since there are now many sources for wholesale fertilizer and feed in the area. These businesses are located on hard surfaced roads, hard surfaced roads.

The proposed site is on a gravel road which would require road restrictions particularly in the spring when demand for fertilizer is greatest. The Planning Commission felt that the gravel roads of Bartlett and Allen are inadequate to handle the probable truck traffic and delivery in 20 ton trucks by suppliers which has been reported to be normal in the business. In addition, the bridges in the area have been built for light traffic and are old. The applicants are not prohibited from having this business in the area since they own property on U.S. 12, a hard surface.

The Zoning Inspector made his report. Applications may be made to use Mobile Homes while building two houses. Next meeting December 10, 1984, if notified. Meeting adjourned 9:30 p.m. moved Hardenbergh, seconded Braun.

Respectfully Submitted,
L.K. Fraumann

SMONEY MANAGEMENTS

Action Now Can Lower Your 1984 Tax Bill

Millions of Americans pay more taxes than they should because they fail to take year-end tax planning steps.

A basic year-end strategy involves juggling income and deductions. Because tax rates are expected to remain about the same in 1984 and 1985, CPAs recommend accelerating deductions where possible, and deferring income until next year.

As an example, take someone in the 33 percent tax bracket who discovers $1,000 in deductions that can be shifted from 1985 to 1984. That shift can cut $333 from the 1984 tax bill.

Accelerating deductions into 1984 generally works best, those whose income jumps sharply in 1985, may find it advantageous to reserve the pattern; for them, delaying deductions until their income rises saves tax dollars.

Controlling the timing of your income is more difficult than shifting deductions, but if you own a business, you might delay billings until after the year ends.

Sales representatives might delay commissions until after January 1. Similarly, it might be advantageous to hold onto an investment until after January 1, so any capital gain will become part of your 1985 income.

A potential benefit of juggling deductions is that it may push you over the line so you qualify to itemize. If you plan deductions to permit itemizing every two years, the tax savings can be significant.

Consider this: A married couple who file jointly has $3,200 in itemized deductions for 1984 and 1985 and $1,000 of those deductions could be taken in either year. If they accelerate their deductions in 1984, they will have a total of $4,200 in itemized deductions ($3,200 plus $1,000). Then, in 1985, they can take the standard deduction of $3,400.

normal load. This will make it easier for the existing coals to ignite the added wood quickly thus reducing the amount of unburned, creosote forming gases going up the chimney. Use a small number of large diameter logs when refilling your stove. Using large pieces means there will be less wood surface exposed to supply the fires combustible gases.

Cresote Problems In Wood Stoves

Much has been written and said about the creosote buildup problems which are associated with the use of wood stoves. Nearly everyone is aware that creosote forms on the walls of stovepipes and chimneys when condensation of certain components in wood smoke occurs. Creosote deposits will start to form when chimney temperatures fall below 250° F.

Hit Or Miss

by farley

An investigative reporter recently asked "What can you buy for a nickel nowadays?" and most retailers laughed immediately at that question.

And why not? They've all heard about inflation - and the high cost of living.

This is 1984. A nickel today, compared to 1967, is worth only 1.6 cents, the economics department at the University of Toledo says. And goods purchased for a dollar in 1967 cost $13.13 now.

Anyway, depending on where you shop and what you are in the market for, there are lots of things - or almost nothing - that can be bought for a 5-cent piece.

There still are five and dime stores. But why are they still called that? Calling them dollar stores would be more accurate.

But at one well-known five and dime store, a customer still can buy valuable items costing that much. First, though, you'll have to spend some dollars.

At K-Mart, customers can load up on nickel items from gumball machines. Does anyone remember when chewing gum was five cents a pack? I don't.

Now if the Goodwill Industries store is one of your favorite shopping spots (and for many it is), there are lots of things to be bought for 5 cents.

Indeed, the list of items that sell for nickels is surprising: chipped wine bottles, cans of spray paint that have a few sprays left and half bottles of lotion.

"I have a lot of saucers that sell for a nickel, and small juice glasses are sometimes a nickel.

If one is a frequenter of garage sales there are a lot of things to be had for a nickel.

On bright and sunny Saturday mornings at garage sales, shoppers can load up on such items as covered jars, wall posters, craft books, magazines and men's old ties.

If you're short on kitchen supplies - such as funnels and orange squeezers and pancake turners and pots - a roll of nickels will go a long way. Wait - there's more.

A nickel for plastic bags of marbles from a garage sale will keep children happy for hours. Buttons, rickrack and lace, and other sewing supplies can replenish your own supply and small tools also can be purchased from some garage sales for nickels.

Christmas is coming, and you might find decorative Christmas tree balls and bulbs for 5 cents at those sales. Even small toys, dolls, cars and small baskets sell for a nickel apiece.

One place however where a nickel is a nickel is at one of the Community auctions, of which there are several in nearby towns on week-ends. Some of the prices things sell for are weird and so are the various items, and so are the audiences. At one recently, a 19 inch color TV went for $35.00 and a box of miscellaneous clothing for $2.00 and in this box besides a lot of child's clothes, seemingly unworn and very clean, were six women's blouses, two pair of ladies slacks, like new, and three men's sport shirts, like new.

What more could you want for a handful of $2.00 in nickels?

Someone has accused a nearby college of listing a course in "Needlecraft For Junkies" but that is not quite true. There are oft reported and highly imaginatively interesting courses reported such as "Creative Tooth Decay", "How to Convert Your Family Room Into a Garage", "The Trampoline Technique of Birth Control", "Career Opportunities In El Salvador", "High Fiber Sex".

We ran across a list of "Whys" the other day compiled by various newspaper writers in various places. Some of these however, we feel are more in the nature of wisecracks than of mere observations but it seems to us, most of them are interesting.

When on vacation why can't we always have fair weather. It was sunny and warm the week before you got there, but not nearly as nice as the day you're leaving.

"Boys Town's Father Flanagan said "There is no such thing as a bad boy," but he never met the little monsters in the motel next to ours.

"When's the last time any lawyer filed a brief that really was?"

"Seen from an airplane, the American landscape has changed dramatically in the past decade. Instead of the checkerboard of plowed fields and square patches of pastureland, you now see enormous perfect circles, like those that beer glasses leave on a bar, from the pivot irrigation devices.

"At age 80, British author Malcolm Muggeridge looks back on his years as editor of Punch and as a top BBC broadcaster and concludes: "The profession of journalism permits one to be a sort of power-voyeur, peering through keyholes at the antics of the great, and deriving therefrom little spasms of obscene excitement."

"Speaking of voyeurs, just because you never see any of those wildly skimpy bikinis shown in Sports Illustrated and the fashion magazines on any ordinary beach is no reason to give up the search.

"Men who wear both suspenders and a belt to hold up their trousers are probably safety consultants.

"There is a new Japanese smoke alarm that lets you sleep an extra half hour.

"The late great Red Smith was right about skiing: "There is something wrong with a sport that only goes in one direction."

"After ABC-TV's ratings success with 18 hours of "The Winds of War," competing media moguls are looking into scripting possibilities of the Hundred Years War for a maxi-miniseries.

"The longest one-syllable words used in broadcasting are "and now this..."

"Why are Hollywood and Broadway forever picking on the police, politicians, priests, and nuns for their shock stories? When's the last time you saw a really good expose of the secret life of a stock analyst, computer programmer, travel agent or a dietitian?"

"Golfers with little foldup stools built into their club bags seldom let you play through.

"When afflicted with writer's block, the novelist Leo Tolstoy sought divine inspiration in a prayer written by St. Augustine: "Lord, let me offer you in sacrifice the service of my thoughts and tongue, but first give me what I may offer you."

"Computerized airline seating is designed to place the woman with the crying baby next to the business type with the pocket calculator and thick file folder already spread out on his food tray.

"There is something decidedly Jesuitical about designer denim slacks: The end seldom justifies the jeans.

"Or if there is a divinity that shapes our ends, why should I worry about my diet?"

"A random survey of airline departure notice boards shows that most planes are delayed "because of late arrival of the aircraft." In railroad parlance this translates to: "The train is late because it didn't get here yet."

"Show me a man running down the street with a grandfather clock on his back and I'll show you a burglar ahead of his time.

"Paris will remain the queen city of haute cuisine so long as London restaurants feature such British delicacies as bubble and squeak, Cornish pasties, bangers and mash, and Scotch eggs.

"The exhibit of VATICAN art treasures now touring the United States reminds us that modern civilization has a long way to go to catch up with the past.

A friend of ours took his small son to a department store in a nearby town recently and as they watched the escalator going down the lad asked, "What happens when the basement gets full of steps?"

It's too bad when the neighbors don't have the good luck you had in passing good traits on to their children.

Seventy nine percent of the divorced fathers in the United States don't support their children, according to the Congressional report.

Nowadays when you tell a teenager to shift for himself he thinks that you are going to buy him a sports car.

Women's dresses are taxed in England but girl's aren't. So how do they know whether the dress is for a big girl or a small woman? If the bustline measures more than 32 inches, it's for a woman, they've ruled.

Manchester Schools On Mainstreet

Young and old, Manchester citizens gathered at the Mill to review the "Manchester Schools on Mainstreet" display. The Saturday morning event was sponsored by the Manchester Schools in celebration of American Education Week.

Manchester High's Marching Band led the way down Mainstreet with a rousing march. The Middle School Band entertained inside the Mill. In one corner a "trivia" game was being played - entirely in German, the computers were in constant use and everyone collected Apple Cookbooks while biting into a juicy fresh apple.

This special event gives everyone a chance to take a look at what is happening in our schools. From kindergarten through graduation students work and special programs were on display. Teachers and school officials were on hand to answer questions.

Mrs. Pat Sahakian recently completed a very special project for Klager Students. She created and wrote an art curriculum based on the exploration and use of the crayon medium. Folders containing a sequential set of crayon projects along with the necessary art materials are housed in Klagers new "Art Cart."

Mrs. Sahakian, a Klager parent, and member of the Klager PTO Board drew on her expertise in art instruction to develop this project.

Klager students and staff are finding the structured lessons great fun and are learning to look on crayons with new respect and a fresh vision of what they can accomplish.
