Recording History

The 32nd Manchester Annual Chicken Broil is a little more than two weeks away, and the pulse of Manchester is beginning to quicken. The preparations for hosting 14,000 persons on one day is a challenge to all concerned. Each committee has a time-tested function and accomplishes its task with thoroughness and efficiency, and the Chicken Broil, to all outward appearances, proceeds very smoothly.

There was one notable exception, and that was the 30th Annual Chicken Broil held in 1983. That was only the second time in the history of the Chicken Broil that the festivities were negatively affected by weather conditions, and that was the year that the Manchester Area Historical Society dedicated the John F. Schneider Blacksmith Shop with Bud Guest and "Fat Bob" Taylor present for the occasion. The rains came—twice—that day during the most active hours of the chicken broil, but the challenge was met and recorded on video tape.

That video tape is in the video library of the Manchester Historical Society, and is available for viewing or purchase at the Blacksmith Shop. In fact, that was the first attempt by the Historical Society to apply this new technique to the purpose of preserving history for the benefit of future generations.

Since the 1983 Chicken Broil, the Manchester Area Historical Society has continued its efforts to utilize video taping techniques to record the current events of the Manchester area so that there will be a visual record of these happenings available for the future generations of Manchester.

Earlier this year, the Manchester Area Historical Society acquired a large screen television set (37 inches) and a sophisticated video cassette recorder (VCR) which is available for community use at the Blacksmith Shop. This equipment has been used by many persons who have video tapes of family events, but did not have a VCR. It is estimated that there will be some 45 million VCR's produced in the next five years, and that the next generation of TV sets will have built in VCR's. This simply means that the video tapes now being made will be available to an even increasing audience, and twenty years from now, a citizen of Manchester can watch the 1983, 1984 or 1985 Chicken Broil in his own living room.

The Manchester Area Historical Society also envisions other uses for its video equipment. We know that there is no movie house in Manchester and that there probably won't be one in the future. How can we provide a twelve-year old with the experience of watching Walt Disney's "Fantasia" with other persons of a similar age? The answer is that on Saturday mornings the twelve-

There are three words which it seems are very hard for the retiree to comprehend when he becomes a recipient of Social Security. They are Medicare, Medicaide and Supplementary.

This shouldn't be the case, for there are several pamphlets available to anyone who requests them. A call at or phone call to the Social Security office at 203 N. Broad Street, Adrian, will receive courteous attention by their staff, and one of them will be more than pleased to answer any questions regarding the Social Security program. There also are speakers available who are glad to attend 'Golden Age' or other retiree meetings and answer any and all questions regarding the program. I have been very much honored several times lately when I have been asked to explain a question about one's Social Security, but I find myself often confused as to the correct answer. Perhaps I can point out the basic intentions, although several pamphlets which can better answer your questions are available if you request them.

A definition of Medicare can best be stated as follows: Medicare is basic protection against the high cost of illness, but it does not pay for all your health care expenses. It does not pay for care, dentures, eye care, hearing aids, etc. It pays both hospital and medical bills and for

Old-Fashioned Big Band Sound For 1985 Chicken Broil

Years ago, some of the original planners of the Manchester Chicken Broil discovered that nothing calms a long line of hungry people like a little music. Since then, music has become almost as important to the Broil's success as the chicken itself.

This year, Manchester residents and guests can enjoy a little musical nostalgia from the Max Morden Big Band. According to Morden, director of jazz studies at Washtenaw Community College, the band plays easy-listening, Glenn Miller-type music. The band's members are all music instructors at the college.

The big band sound will start on Thursday, July 18, at 5:00 p.m. and will continue until 8:00 p.m. If you'd like some excellent entertainment to liven up your chicken munching this year, don't miss it!

The Country

Manchester Enterprise
August 13, 1868

Come out to the country! which God made while man was trying to boggle up a city. On the farm, where they raise their own eggs! Where, you can find plenty of enjoyment, physical and mental, plenty of leisure to recuperate the exhausting energies, plenty of buttermilk to cool you off and fill you up (good substitute for Catawba and Soda,) plenty of employment in picking berries with the girls, making rural wines with the matrons, going fishing with the boys, smoking a pipe and telling stories with grandpa or perchance, taking a bout behind the reaper or swinging a scythe with the men.

There is fun in the country, if you know how to find it, and you don't have to be very smart for that. It is worth going there for a week or two, even though you can't find anything better to do than lie around loose under the trees and do nothing—placing yourself in something like such a condition as a coon does when he hibernates.

Of all seasons of the year the labor of summer is most pleasant. I know a man who has had much experience and is a good judge, and he declares that the prettiest work he did was to stand and see a man mow! I tried it and I liked it. And the more the mower mowed, the more I was pleased with his performance. This species of agricultural labor is so entirely satisfactory, that I recommend everybody to try it. For more violent exercise, a game of croquet is best; or if you have a very active disposition, you may get up behind the horses and guide the terrible enginery of the reaper for a short time. But don't try anything more active than this. Binding is loosening to the energies, shocking is shocking bad work, and raking off, if not purgatory outright, is at best vanity and vexation of spirit.

If any caged citizen of a city will look in his almanac, opposite one of those dog days, he will find recorded there, if the almanac is good for anything, "about these days go into the country." Pack up your kit and git! Don't take along any extras, but carry all the necessaries. Take all the old clothes, and don't mind the stomach bitters or paper collars—you won't need either. Fishing tackle will come in play, and nick-nacks wherewith to please the young folks. Otherwise, go extremely light. Go along, and

Athletic Boosters Set Goal For 1985 Season

As a result of the generous community support, the Athletic Boosters have raised the money to order the light fixtures and poles and have a pledge from the Chicken Broil Committee for a press box, for the new complex. The goal of the group is to have the new additions in place for the 1985 Football season. The complex has already received site development work and bulldozing thanks to Mr. Walt Kempfer. The club continues to raise funds for further complex development, which would include a perimeter fence and bleachers. The goal of playing on the field this fall can only be reached with continued individual support. Any individual wishing to help this cause should send their contribution to the Manchester Athletic Boosters, P.O. Box 140.

★ Freedom-Cherished by All! ★

You can't see it. You can't buy it. Some people have it and don't think much about it. Others don't even know what it is. It's not something you're likely to get without a struggle, and if you lose it, it's almost impossible to get back again. If you haven't thought much about freedom lately, now's a good time to start, because July 4, 1776 is what freedom is all about. And freedom is what America is all about. We've fought for it. We've nurtured it for over 209 years. Now let's celebrate it with pride.

1985 Travel Directory Available

Visitors and vacationers in northern Michigan this year can find some helpful information in Michigan Bell's 1985 Travel Directory.

The Michigan Travel Directory is similar to the Yellow Pages but contains information specifically of interest to visitors, according to Marcia Buhl, Michigan Bell's local corporate affairs manager.

"Included in the book are phone numbers and addresses for businesses and services in 200 vacation areas in Michigan," Buhl said.

"Travelers can consult the book to help plan their trips and use the guide later when they arrive. They will find information on motels and campgrounds, boat rentals and ski areas."

The directory also includes information on hunting and fishing regulations, local history, festivals and events, and fall color tours. The book includes information and listings for 15 counties in the northeastern Lower Peninsula, 10 counties in the northwestern Lower Peninsula and nine counties in the Straits area — which includes the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula and the eastern third of the Upper Peninsula.

The Travel Directory is available free of charge at Michigan State Highway Information Centers, Michigan Bell payment and service centers and various chamber of commerce locations throughout the state.

Local Student Wins Award In Cricket Magazine Competition

Linda Hansen, age 13, of Manchester, received honorable mention in the "Cricket League" international poetry competition sponsored by CRICKET Magazine. For this month's competition, we asked entrants to write a poem with the word "egg" or "bird" in it. Linda's name appears in the July 1985 issue of the magazine.

The monthly writing and drawing competition is open to all CRICKET readers in two age brackets: 5-9 and 10-14 years of age. Each monthly contest is unique with specific guidelines given in the "Cricket League" pages. Award winners are reported three issues later.

"The Blue Egg"

by Linda Hansen

The blue of the sky in the evening gently swept around
The perfect marble of the shell
Smooth and semi-round—
Inside a tiny heart-beat
Soft and shy and weak
Surrounded by damp feathers forming
And blind eyes and a beak—
Beats its tender rhythm
Inside the marble sphere
Thin and delicate and lovely
And if you listen, you can hear
The tiny tap of tender beak
Trying to break free
Of that tiny egg perched high above
In the grand old maple tree—
The egg which holds this tiny bird
Is settled in a nest
Made with love by two bluebirds
For their egg to rest
And now as the mother settles down
To warm her precious one—
The thin blue marble cracks and breaks
... And out comes her tiny son!

Bloodmobile Monday, July 15

The Emergency Red Cross Bloodmobile for Manchester area is less than two weeks away. The American Legion, Emil Jacob Post 117, is hosting this clinic at their Hall, Monday, July 15 from 12 to 6 p.m. If it's a typical July day, hot and muggy, donors will welcome the air conditioning. The Legion Auxiliary is furnishing the Canteen at the hall and a nursery for donors children at the Legion Home - the white house on the corner of Adrian and Duncan Streets.

Blood donors, ages 17 through 65, are urged to make their appointments to give at one of the five downtown locations, (all three banks, Baker's Dozen and IGA Market have boxes and cards at Red Cross displays for this purpose), or at the local industry where they work or through local and surrounding churches.

The quota needed by the area hospitals is 160 pints. Donors are able to give blood every 56 days or 5 times a year. If one has not given since May 19, it is possible to donate again this month.

Please help meet the need and save a life.

More than 400 commercial farm exhibits and 16 acres of field demonstrations highlight Ag. Expo '85, the largest farm equipment show of its type in Michigan.

The event, July 23-25 at Michigan State University, is expected to attract more than 50,000 people. A variety of tours and educational exhibits will round out the program.

Visitors will be able to see just about every type of equipment needed for efficient farm production.

"I'd be very surprised if a farmer went away from Expo without at least one new idea that would benefit the farm," says Bill Bickert, MSU Extension agricultural engineer and Ag. Expo chairperson. "I don't know of another place in the state where farmers can see as varied exhibits and as broad a collection of the latest in farm equipment and technology as they can at Ag. Expo."

The 35 acres of machinery displays will represent almost every mechanized area in a typical farm operation. Examples include irrigation systems; field machinery; dairy equipment and supplies; livestock handling equipment; grain harvesting, handling and storage systems; crop sprayers; farm buildings; and seed and fertilizer supplies and services.

A wide variety of university educational exhibits are being planned for Ag. Expo. Most of these will answer questions on crop insect, weed and disease control, soil testing and erosion prevention, computerized farm record keeping, livestock management and other farm-related topics.

Daily field demonstrations, from 12:30 to 4 p.m., will focus on land improvement techniques, including computerized land surveying systems, tile and sub-irrigation installation, and pond building.

Other activities include selected tours of MSU teaching and research units related to farming. Free buses will carry visitors from the Ag. Expo site to the field demonstrations and tours.

Ag. Expo is free and open to the public. Visitors will find plenty of free parking at the main Expo site, on the corner of Mt. Hope and Farm Lane.

Details of Ag. Expo may be obtained from the county MSU Cooperative Extension office.

Air Cleaners:

Relief For Allergy Sufferers Is Here

If you suffer from allergies, house dust does more than flunk the "white glove" test. It plays havoc with your health.

House dust is often a major cause of allergy symptoms like facial swelling, a running nose and scratchy eyes. Even if you're only mildly affected by allergies, it's wise to keep your home as dust-free as possible.

The most meticulous person in the world can't get rid of all the dust in a home. It enters your home every time you open a door or window. And inside, your furniture, carpets, drapes and clothes naturally form dust particles as they age.

So what can you do to defend yourself from this unseen enemy?

• Avoid shag, twisted pile and looped pile rugs and carpets because they tend to hide dust and resist easy cleaning.

Installing an air cleaning system is probably the best way to get rid of dust in your home. A high efficiency non-electronic air cleaner attached to your furnace continually cleans the air throughout your entire home. It removes virtually all the bothersome dust, pollen, spores and pollutants as they pass through your furnace.

- Just take a look at all of the dust traps around your home. Bookcases, knickknack shelves, windowsills, picture frames, upholstered furniture. They're all excellent hiding places for house dust.
- To get rid of the dust in your home, follow these simple tricks:
1. Enclose bookcases and shelving units with glass doors.
 2. Tumble drapes in your clothes dryer with glass doors.
 3. Install your clothes dryer in an enclosed room and vent it outside.
 4. Enclose your fireplace behind glass doors. Close the damper. And store wood outside.
 5. Avoid dust-catching knickknacks, bookshelves, and wide windowsills.
 6. Vacuum your home at least once a week.
 7. Invest in an efficient kitchen exhaust fan and wash the filter regularly.
 8. Don't carpet bathrooms. Use washable throw rugs instead.
 9. Buy rugs, carpets and padding made of 100 percent synthetic fibers.
 10. Damp mop floors regularly.
 11. Keep your bathroom sinks and fixtures as clean as possible.

IT'S A FACT!

A look at your eyes may show you a surprise: as you get older, the lens of your eye changes. The lens in a healthy eye of a young person is clear and soft. As a person ages, the lens becomes hard and loses some of its transparency. Certain medical conditions can also cause changes in the lens. These changes often effect the way the person sees light. What's comfortable light to most people is glaringly uncomfortable to some 15 million Americans, many of whom are elderly.

For them, a lens has been developed to filter out the short wavelengths of light which causes glare. These lenses are called CPF* for Corning Photochromic Filter. For many people they improve contrast. They make reading easier and simplify getting around. Many light-sensitive people ask their eye-care professionals if they may borrow trial CPF* lenses that clip over regular eyeglasses to try them out.

your doctor's services. Hospital insurance is paid for by your Social Security tax. Voluntary medical insurance is paid for by those who have enrolled and by Federal revenues.

You are, of course, entitled to this protection if and when you are enrolled in Social Security. For detailed information contact your Social Security office. If you are thinking of buying supplemental health insurance be sure it does not duplicate your Medicare coverage. A pamphlet, 'Guide to Health Insurance for People with Medicare Coverage,' is available from the Social Security office. There is no charge.

It should be remembered that you are to pay monthly premiums. The Federal Government pays 75 percent of the costs, but your monthly premium is now $14.60. Medicare may pay this too if you are eligible. Medicare now pays some 11 percent of the people in the United States for their protection under Medicare.

Medicare is for various groups of needy and low income folks. It is an assistance program. What it pays varies in different states. In some it pays for hospital care, nursing, x-rays, outpatient services, doctor's charges, dental care, drugs, eye glasses and other services. In others it pays for only part of these services. It pays for what Medicare does not pay for folks who are eligible for both programs. For instance, it can pay the first $75 a year of medical care expenses and the Federal Government contributes 50 percent, at least to the states for their Medicare program. The states pay the balance. Medicare has improved the effectiveness of hospital and medical services.

It must be understood that Medicare is not automatic. If you do not apply, you don't receive it. If you tell the Social Security Administration office that you have Medicare, you may enroll in Medicare II any time or on your 65th birthday. You may have both Medicare and Medicare. Medicare will help with the expenses not covered by Medicare.

Part B covers services for doctors, outpatient hospital, medical supplies, some home health supplies and some other health care services. Medicare will continue to care for the medical care listed in its booklet. Changes have recently been made in its inpatient and outpatient hospital services in its surgery procedures and its prescription drug payments. If you have any questions regarding any of these categories, check with your local worker. One should not seek medical services except when necessary. The money to pay your medical bills is limited to the amount of money approved by the State Legislature each year.

To obtain assistance just call your Social Service office or visit your county office in Ann Arbor. Comprehensive insurance is available which will cover the items that Medicare and Medicare do not cover and may be obtained from one of several insurance companies offering such coverage. The cost of this insurance averages $36 per month.

Summer Youth Corps Clean Up Highways

Nearly 1,000 young Michigan men and women are taking to the highways this month to help out with roadside maintenance.

They will retrieve litter by the ton and pick up after the millions of travelers who use roadside parks and freeway rest-areas. They will help out with landscaping and erosion control, do paint-up, fix-up chores and perform a variety of other tasks that constantly need doing along the 9,500 miles of state highways.

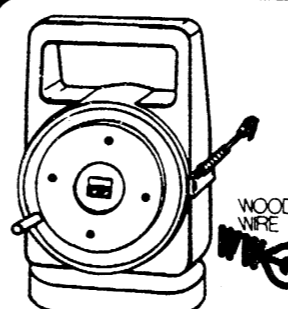

The young workers are the highway contingent of the Michigan Youth Corps created by Gov. Blanchard and the Legislature to provide summer jobs for unemployed people aged 18 to 21. This is its third year in business.

The highway maintenance program is the outgrowth of a summertime youth employment effort started by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) in 1970. Its $1.6 million budget this year includes $1 million from regular highway maintenance funds and $600,000 from the legislative appropriation for the Michigan Youth Corps.

Like others in the Youth Corps, highway workers are paid the $3.35-an-hour minimum wage. Supervisors are paid at a higher rate.

Most of the highway workers are employed for eight weeks during the summer, although a crew of 40 was put to work this spring in populous Wayne County where the litter problem is worse. Some also are employed well into September.

They work 40 hours a week, Monday through Friday.

$MONEY MANAGERMENTS

Tips For Women Who Want To Take Charge Of Their Finances

Whether you're a single or married woman, employed or unemployed, young or old, you need to take charge of your financial life. Effective money management will enable you to meet short-term goals - such as saving for your next vacation - as well as long-term goals, like providing for retirement income, points out the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Recordkeeping: The first step for every financially responsible person is to set up records showing where your money is coming from and how it is being spent. Even if your husband has been handling the family finances for years, familiarize yourself with his system and participate in the financial planning process.

Your records should distinguish between your liquid assets, which included cash on hand, certificates of deposit, treasury bills, checking and savings accounts, and your fixed assets, such as your home, jewelry, artwork, automobiles and other possessions that are not readily converted to cash. You'll also want to list all your liabilities, including loans payable and mortgage balances.

Keep track of all your expenses, such as mortgage or rent payments, costs for utilities, food, clothing and transportation to and from jobs. It's also important to record money spent on home improvements and repairs, medical bills, donations to charity, child care and interest payments.

In many instances, these costs are tax deductible.

Investments: Once you determine what your regular expenses are and the income needed to cover them, figure out how much excess money can be put aside for investment purposes. Set some realistic goals and think about where to put your money so it will get the greatest return. Before you make any investments, be sure to establish a fund - perhaps three month's expenses - to cover any family emergencies or unexpected expenditures.

It's advisable to balance your investments between those that can be quickly converted to cash and those that cannot. Aim for diversity in your investment portfolio. Include investments that have low risks and high liquidity, such as money management accounts, as well as those with long-term growth potential.

If you're young and single you might be interested in more speculative investments, such as commodities, stock options and collectibles which may provide both short- and long-term profits.

If you have a family, it may be best to strive for long-term growth to build up funds for college financing or retirement. If you are in a high tax bracket, it may also be to your advantage to look into investments that offer tax savings and deferrals, such as tax-exempt municipal bonds, deferred compensation arrangements and tax-deferred annuities. You should alter your investment strategy as your circumstances and financial situation change. For example, if you find yourself widowed or divorced, consider investing in assets which produce current income, such as high-yielding corporate bonds.

Whatever your age, you should begin to build a retirement nest egg as soon as possible. Consider opening an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) which will enable you to save for your future while cutting your taxable income.

If you are employed, you can put 100 percent of your compensation up to $2,000 in an IRA and deduct the contribution from current income on your tax return. If you are divorced, alimony payments also qualify as earned income for IRA contribution purposes. A working couple can put up to $4,000 a year into an IRA. If, however, you are a non-working spouse, your contribution is limited to $250. The earnings in the account aren't taxed until they are withdrawn. You may begin to withdraw without penalty at age 59½.

Tax Planning: You can maximize your income by taking the tax breaks due you. For example, if you're unmarried and qualify as a head of household, hundreds of dollars can be cut from your tax bill. You can get this tax break if your home was the principal place of residence of a qualifying relative for more than six months, and you paid more than half the cost of maintaining the household.

If you pay someone to take care of your child so you can work, you may be able to get a tax credit for part of the child care costs. Generally, both you and your spouse must work to claim the credit.

Widows with dependent children are also entitled to tax breaks. For two years after a spouse's death, you may be able to continue filing jointly, thereby putting yourself in a lower tax bracket than a single person.

These are only a few of the tax breaks that may be available to you. Keep in mind that a secure financial future is contingent upon a balanced financial strategy and careful tax planning.

Home Generators Present Potential Danger

Because of the increasing use of home generators, Consumers Power Company has printed a brochure called "Backfeed the Hidden Killer." The title refers to the potential danger that home generators present to utility employees when generators are not properly disconnected from the utility's power system.

The company has begun distributing the brochure to fire departments throughout lower Michigan.

Home generators, according to the brochure, can be safely operated by observing the following six steps:

1. If your system is equipped with a transfer switch, turn it to the OFF position. If not, OPEN main disconnects in the breaker panel.
2. Turn off all appliances.
3. Plug generator into a designated generator outlet or an electrical outlet of adequate capacity.
4. Start Generator.
5. Turn transfer switch to GENERATOR or down position on the manual transfer switch.
6. Now turn on selected lights or appliances.

Utility employees making repairs on the same electric circuit could be in danger of electrocution if a home generator is not properly disconnected from the utility system.

Home generators, which emit carbon monoxide, should be always operated in an area that has proper ventilation, or outdoors.

Manchester Township Library

Annual Report
June 29, 1985

The Manchester Township Library continued to maintain a steady level of service to its patrons in 1984-85. There has been a slight increase in circulation over 1983-84. Librarian Helen Kienz resigned in September and Margaret Goodrich was appointed director.

A successful contest to design bookmarks was carried on in November during Children's Book Week. The four winning designs with the new library hours included were printed and are available at the library.

The Nation of Readers photography contest attempted in April for National Library Week and sponsored by the three local banks failed to attract any participation. Librarian Margaret Goodrich visited 10 classrooms at Klager School and 6 classrooms at the Middle School to inform the students about the Summer Reading Club. Rosemary from Hamilton offered two series of pajama story hours which drew a steady attendance.

With funds from Manchester Township and the Manchester Chicken Broil a fire alarm system with an outside bell was installed and a key to the building given to the fire department. A new Gestetner 2006 copy machine was purchased in July. Modern Disposal Company was hired to pick up refuse weekly. The faulty furnace timer was replaced. The Library Board has requested additional insulation, eaves, and storm windows from the Township in order to maintain the building.

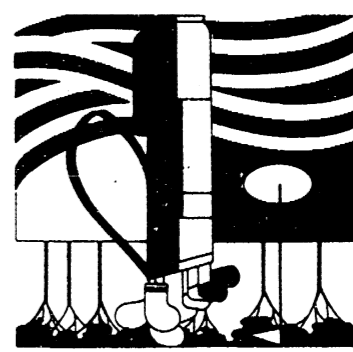

The staff is updating and strengthening the basic reference collection and replacing and increasing the children's picture books. The Manchester Township Library collection is greatly supplemented by interloans received through the Huron Valley Library System. Many of the non-book items from the Historical Room have been given or loaned to the Manchester Area Historical Society. Books from the main floor marked 'classic' have been taken to the newly designated Classics Room. Other classic titles currently located in the basement will be added to that collection.

The professional librarian is assisted by four adults who are cooperative and willing to help out and to give something extra when needed. Four high school pages, trained by the librarian, assist the adult staff.

The Manchester Township Library benefits from contributions of local residents, civic clubs, and social organizations. In addition, in 1985-86, the Library will have assigned to it a percentage of the penal fines from Bridgewater, Freedom, and Sharon Townships. (Since 1984 the penal fines have been used by the Washtenaw County Library, but its Librarian, after reviewing our budget and following meetings with the Saline, Clinton and Chelsea librarians, agreed that our library should apply for our share, based on population.) The Library Board hopes that citizens are aware of and will take advantage of the Michigan Law which permits a deduction from the State Income Tax itself of up to one-half the amount of money contributed to libraries in Michigan.

The Manchester Township Library is an excellent library for its size. With the support of the Huron Valley Library System we are able to offer our patrons outstanding service. The staff and Board look forward to another year of improvement and activity in 1985-86.

Fireworks Scheduled For Thursday, July 4th

The Manchester Men's Club is sponsoring their annual fireworks display Thursday, July 4th at Carr Park. Some of the activities planned for the day are beer stand, games for kids, band from 8 to 1 and fireworks display at dusk.

Due to the great support from people of the Manchester area last year, the Men's Club was able to buy fireworks for this year's display. Anyone wishing to help support the fireworks can mail their contribution to the Manchester Men's Club, P.O. Box 171, Manchester, MI 48153 or contact any Men's Club member. No personal fireworks including sparklers will be allowed in the park. People are welcome to bring picnics and stay all day or just come and enjoy the activities.

year old could go to the Blacksmith Shop, and there he would be able to see a supervised showing of a film suited to that age group.

How about some of those movies you missed seeing when they were shown at Briarwood? Arrangements could be made to obtain them on video tapes and show them to interested persons at the Blacksmith Shop during the early evening. This would save the cost of driving to Ann Arbor, and certainly avoid standing in line to see the movie.

During this epoch when our parents are living longer than in previous times, they possess a wealth of information that might not be available to their grandchildren, and through the technique of a video taped interview, this information could be preserved for those future generations. How much better this would be than a still photograph or a snapshot of that person. You could see and hear the elderly person describing their school days in the 1920's or 1930's, and it could be a rich heritage to pass on for future viewing.

These are just some of the things that could be done with the new technology available to us today, and there is bound to be new applications in the years ahead.

Let's get on with preserving the events of today for the benefit of the future generations of Manchester area citizens. After all, this is the primary purpose of a historical society!

Chronic Lung Disease Causes More Lifestyle Problems For Women Than Men

A speaker at the American Lung Association's recent Annual Meeting said that chronic lung diseases, such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis, cause more lifestyle problems for women than men.

Dorothy L. Sexton, Ed.D., of the Yale University School of Nursing in New Haven, Connecticut, sent questionnaires to 72 women with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) and 40 women without these severe lung diseases and asked for biographic, personal and illness-related information. Both groups of women were of a similar age, averaging 60 years.

"The major problems reported by the women with COPD were restricted activity, loneliness and depression and shortness of breath and fatigue," Dr. Sexton said. "These women also had a greater degree of stress in daily living and lower life satisfaction than the healthy women."

Dr. Sexton found the daily living problems faced by women with chronic lung disease are often more severe than those of their male counterparts. Many of these women have been forced to retire early or hold part-time jobs. Yet, they still must run a household, and this creates a greater burden because they have no one to take over those chores. "More than one-half of these women were hospitalized during the year," Dr. Sexton said. "This is an additional source of worry and stress, further disrupting family life."

Emphysema and chronic bronchitis are the most common forms of adult lung disease. These diseases are progressive, and smokers develop symptoms decades after they start smoking. The diseases damage the lungs irreversibly, decreasing their ability to deliver oxygen to the rest of the body.

Recent statistics have shown that the annual death rate due to chronic lung disease increased five-fold between 1962 and 1977 among white women and two-fold among non-white women.

Dr. Sexton explained that cigarette smoking habits of women have closely paralleled those of men in the past few decades. Therefore, the risk for smoking-related illnesses has also increased.

For further information on chronic lung diseases, call the American Lung Association of Michigan toll free at 1-800-252-5979.

At a White House dinner in the winter of 1802, President Thomas Jefferson served his guests an unusual dish he had discovered during his travels in Europe. It was "a pie called macaroni." Although made with what is now known as spaghetti, the dish was the forerunner for that all-American favorite, Baked Macaroni and Cheese, most typically made with elbow macaroni. When you serve this macaroni and cheese give thanks to Jefferson.

BAKED MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 2 tablespoons Argo corn starch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 cup corn oil margarine
- 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
- 4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
- 2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs

In 2-quart saucepan, stir together corn starch, salt, mustard and pepper. Gradually stir in milk until smooth. Add margarine. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Stir in cheese until melted and smooth. Toss with macaroni. Turn into greased 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs. Bake in 350°F oven 30 minutes or until bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of George Pittman, who passed away 10 years ago, July 7, 1975.

Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tries to break but all in vain.

To have, to love and then to part is the greatest sorrow of our hearts.

The years may wipe out many things. But this they wipe out never. The memory of those happy days when we were all together.

Forever loved and greatly missed by wife Bessie, Daughter Evelyn, Son Dale and family. Also his grandchildren and great, great grandchildren.

In loving memory of George Vansickle, who passed away one year ago July 5, 1984.

A year has passed; And the seasons have changed; Since you have gone away; But the memories of love; That you left behind; In our hearts will always stay.

Sadly missed by: Wife, Ruby, Daughters & sons-in-laws, and grandchildren

Your best friend is choking, and all you can hear is your own heart pounding.

Every second counts. Would you know what to do? Red Cross will teach you what you need to know about life-saving. Call us.

Michigan's Rare Kirtland's Warbler

A recent census of Michigan's rare Kirtland's Warbler (an endangered species), counting 216 singing males, shows that the bird is maintaining its current population levels.

Conducted by the Department of Natural Resources, the U.S. Forest Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the census found that the number of singing males in Michigan by county were: Crawford, 80; Oscoda, 80; Ogemaw, 22; Kalkaska, 21; Iosco, 7; Roscommon, 5; and Alcona, 1. Last year's study revealed 215 males.

According to the Wildlife Division's census of singing male birds and assuming the presence of corresponding females, the world's total breeding population of Kirtland's Warblers is about 432. The birds nest only in northern Lower Michigan in young jack pine stands, which are created naturally as an aftermath of forest fires.

The Kirtland's Warbler Recovery Team, a federally appointed team of private citizens, Federal and State officials, is vying to increase the population to 1,000 pairs of birds - the number biologists say is necessary before the birds can be considered out of immediate danger of extinction.

Census figures for the past 10 years average 211 singing males a year. Current numbers are well below the 432 males found in 1961 and the 502 reported in 1961. Population declines and a loss of habitat in the 1960s resulted in the development of a recovery program, the Kirtland's Warbler Habitat Management Plan.

The plan calls for the preservation of the endangered birds by directing the management of jack pine areas in northeastern Lower Michigan. This is the first year the Kirtland's Warblers are nesting in habitat created under the management plan.

Main Dish Meals - Food Processor Style

Quick and easy meals are in order now that nice weather has arrived.

Whether you're trying to save time for outdoor activities or create a culinary sensation for entertaining guests, the home economists at KitchenAid say a food processor can make life in the kitchen simpler and much more enjoyable.

Helpful Hints

Here are some suggestions from these experts on how to get the most from your food processor.

- When adapting a favorite recipe, decide which ingredients can be prepared in your food processor.
- If suitable, chop or slice foods instead of dicing.
- To save time washing blades and bowls, process dry ingredients before foods with a high water content.
- To avoid overprocessing, add dry ingredients last when preparing a quick bread, cake or cookie batter.
- When chopping a large amount of food, avoid overloading the bowl. Uneven chopping can result. Check frequently and scrape down sides of bowl to redistribute food. If necessary, process in several batches.
- When slicing a single piece of food such as a carrot or stalk of celery, position it to the right side of the feed tube to avoid uneven slices. The feed tube pusher and rotation of the disc will hold the food in place and prevent it from falling over during processing.
