Another Communication

Manchester Enterprise
March 14, 1901

Editor Enterprise: — We noticed in your last issue, prior to the village election a communication from our honorable and apparently patriotic member of the state tax commission, in relation to our village affairs. As a lawyer he seems to have forgotten what every layman is supposed to know, that it is the duty of judge and jury to hear both sides of a case before they render judgement, but our esteemed commissioner delivers a Philippic without any opportunity to reply and demands judgement. If he is in search of the free thought and honest criticism that he pretends, if it was not cowardly, it was certainly unkind to defer his assault, to such time, that his intended victims would not have an opportunity to make an effective reply and incidentally exercise their prerogative of free thought also. In his tirade, he jumps from his premises to his conclusions with such lightning rapidity, that reason stands aghast and refuses to credit the feat, for illustration, he says, those complained of rail out "you are a kicker," ergo, "manifestly something is wrong;" Do you see the point? No, and no one else. Many of his statements are so illogical and so far from stating the correct facts, that it is hardly necessary to call attention to the same, for instance the village did not get $2,000 from the liquor fund, neither do we believe, as inferred that his taxes have increased from $10 to $46 on practically the same valuation. We do not think that he has been reveling in the estates of deceased and the treasury of a state deceased, without adding to his taxable property. He might, with just as much reason, and more truth, say that a few years ago the business of his hotel was taxed at $0 and now it is taxed $500, half of which goes to the village. If we were not fearful of being charged with high treason or "lese majeste" we should like to question the patriotism of our tax commissioner.

His cry is economy in cement walk building, after he has all of his walks constructed. He would deny to others the same privileges and benefits that he has received, and we admit some of it should be denied, for he has demanded and received from the village pay for a walk on the west side of his hotel, which is practically a private walk and is in no sense a public necessity. He demanded pay and threatened suit for $3 for cement spread under his hotel porch. He, being in charge of the Clarkson estate, refused to obey the command of the council, that a cement walk be laid before Yocum, Marx & Co's store and the post-office but he did build the one before said store and demanded one-half the cost thereof from the village, whereupon the village caused the walk to be built before the post-office and charged one-half the cost thereof against the one-half cost so claimed and struck a balance of $2 thereabouts in favor of said estate, for which action the council has never been forgiven, as is evidenced by an 11 page manifesto from our patriotic friend to the council, in which he threatened all sorts of dire calamities, unless it would let him "raid" the treasury, as he terms it, but the council said, "No."

Who filched the windmill on promises that have never been fulfilled? Who drew $75 per annum from the treasury from year in to year out, for services that were barely worth half that in the markets of the world? It is easy for one who is drawing $2500 a year and from $3 to $8 a day expense, to criticize the actions of those, who are doing, gratis, services almost as onerous, but it does not come with very good grace.

And in conclusion we say the council invites honest criticism, but it resents dishonest criticism: The books are open, the treasurers itemized account is published in the last issue. Investigate the matter for yourselves and you will find that your village is the freest from disorder, has the least tax and best walks of any place with which you can compare it. And by the way a good sidewalk is better than a poor lawsuit. We are aware that politicians must occasionally address themselves to the public, and we are proud that Manchester has a member on the

The population of Michigan fell by more than 50,000 from 1980 to 1984, the largest decline in the nation according to the census bureau in figures recently released. The state lost some 187,000 residents they said.

However the population of California increased by 1,955,000, the biggest in the nation, while Florida had the most migrants - 1,092,000. Overall the nation's population increased by 9,600 million between 1980 and 1984.

Now saying that Michigan lost the greatest number of people in the years 1980-1984 is probably true but not every part of the state should be included in this figure. The northern part of the lower peninsula had its biggest increase while the Detroit metropolitan area showed the greatest decline.

Chicken Broil Successful

Our 32nd Annual Chicken Broil was a big success. Our Co-Chairman Ron Mann and Gene Bentschneider report that we served about 13,200 dinners.

The day was perfect, with the temperature in the 80's, and very comfortable because of low humidity.

The huge crowd was festive and happy, because by all reports, the chicken was done perfectly and there was very little waiting in line.

We had a group of Canadian Optimists come in and help in the pits so they might learn how such a magnificent project is done and take this event to their own community.

Ron and Gene did indicate that we had a higher percentage of workers who did not show up this year than ever before, and hope there isn't a trend for this in the future. We need everyone's commitment of time and effort to make this project come off in style.

Our Chairmen urge everyone to turn in their money or tickets as soon as possible so we will all know the net profits and how successful the Broil really was.

This year's proceeds are going toward a press box at the new Athletic Complex.

Saturday, and a parental signature is required. The pulls will be limited to children (both boys and girls) from ages 3-8. There are three separate age groups - 3&4, 5&6, and 7&8. All the equipment needed to participate will be provided.

The Pedal Pull is run much the same as the regular tractor pulls. The pedal tractor is judged on the amount of distance it pulls the dynamometer. The difference, of course, is that the Pedal Pullers must use their own leg power and not rely on the power provided by the mule, pony or gasoline engine!

The Fair Board hopes that the event will be well received and that it will provide yet another activity that will be of interest to the young people of the area - and that's what the Fair is all about!

Fun Run July 25 At Manchester Track

I am looking forward to doing business with them during the coming year. We are certain of an excellent relationship with this local firm."

American Red Cross Provides First Aid Station At Ann Arbor Art Fair

The Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross will provide a FIRST AID STATION at the Ann Arbor Art Fair. The station will be staffed by Red Cross volunteer first aid instructors available to administer emergency first aid services including the provision of water to weary art patrons.

Parents should plan to make the Red Cross first aid station their first stop at the Art Fair. Red Cross volunteers will prepare and distribute hospital I.D. bracelets, courtesy of the U of M Medical Center, to parents with young children as a precaution in case of separation at the Art Fair. Red Cross balloons which are attached to the I.D. bracelets of young children and around the wrists of older children are a good means of finding lost little ones in the crowds.

The First Aid Station will be located on the southwest corner of South University and East University next to the School of Education on the University of Michigan campus. It will be open during the entire Art Fair starting at 9 a.m. Wednesday through 6 p.m. Saturday, July 27.

The Washtenaw County Chapter would like to remind patrons of the Art Fair to have a safe and enjoyable time; for Senior Citizens not to over exert themselves and for parents not to turn their backs on their children.

Michigan House of Representatives News

Speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) today announced that economic development and education are again the top priorities in the budget adopted yesterday by the Legislature.

"This budget insures the continuation of Michigan's comeback as a state concerned with economic development and with an ever-improving business climate," Owen said.

"I am also pleased to see public education in Michigan getting priority treatment for the third year in a row," he added.

The speaker said, "The bill provides an 11.7 percent increase in direct state funding of the schools, after the record increases reported in fiscal 1983-84 and 1984-85."

"I am extremely pleased that our economic recovery permits us to make these gains for education and still contemplate further tax reduction of a meaningful and responsible nature, as evidenced by the tax-reform bills recently passed by the House," Owen stated.

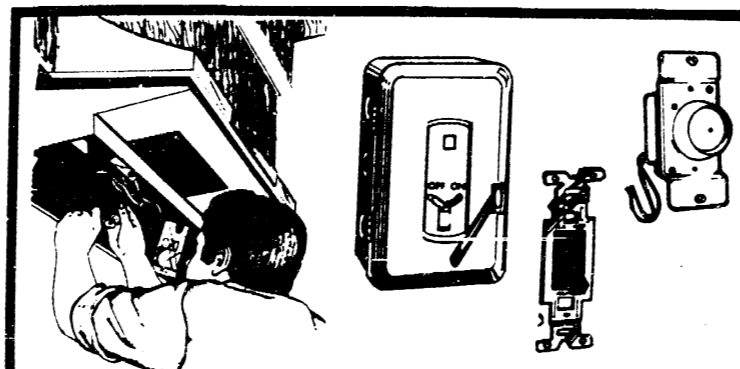

"Both the state, in general, and the residents of Michigan in particular, are well-served by this budget for 1985-86. It, once again, realistically matches available revenues with expenditures to continue Michigan's economic recovery," he added.

The speaker also expressed his pleasure with having the budget matters completed prior to the Legislature beginning its summer recess.

"I told the members of the House that we would stay here (in Lansing) all summer if necessary and that we would not take a summer recess until the budget was in place," Owen stated.

"By finishing up the budget and several other matters, the Legislature has demonstrated its ability to work together and accomplish matters of importance," said Owen.

Hit Or Miss

The human being is a rather strange animal. This fact was recently emphasized by the fact that when an athletic meet was held there a short time ago with a large crowd present to witness it, several of the spectators became ill and were taken by ambulance to nearby hospitals.

The cause of this illness could not be immediately traced and so over the public address system it was announced that the spectators should not patronize the soft drink dispensers until further investigations could be made as they might be the cause of these attacks as no food was being served on the premises.

Almost immediately following this announcement a great many people in the stands started to become rather violently ill, afflicted with nausea and cramps, etc., and soon most of the available ambulances in the area had to be summoned to cart the folks off to the hospitals for emergency diagnosis and treatment. However these folks soon responded to treatment and completely recovered. There was no cause found for the illnesses.

Maybe we should do this "Suggesting" in reverse. Couldn't we who think ourselves ill suggest to us that we are not and end up well and happy?

"Postmark: Benton Harbor"

This series of stories spotlights the manifold products of Michigan farms, forests and factories — the products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Watch for them when you shop and "Buy Michigan" — the products made by your friends and neighbors. This week's story: "Postmark: Benton Harbor."

Centers in major metropolitan areas across the United States and Canada.

The postmark on Heathkits — Benton Harbor — has itself become an institution. The Heath Company, a subsidiary of the Zenith Electronics Corporation, moved from Benton Harbor to neighboring St. Joseph in 1958. But it retained the old postmark because, as one company official explained, "Over the years, our mail-order customers had become accustomed to sending their orders to Benton Harbor."

The first Heathkit, marketed in 1926, came in 11 separate packages that contained all the parts needed to build a light-weight airplane, the "Super Parasol." The kit included a motorcycle engine. Apparently you had to supply your own goggles, white silk scarf and Waldo Pepper leather jacket!

In any case, lets keep making it — and buying it — in Michigan!

Mushrooms Make Summer Barbecues Sizzle

With the return of longer days and warm weather comes an increase in outdoor cooking. Ordinary foods such as hamburgers, hot dogs and many fresh vegetables experience a renewed flavor thanks to an outdoor grill.

One vegetable that tastes great when cooked on the barbecue is fresh mushrooms. Mushrooms skewered on a kabob or "baked" in foil packets can add flavor and texture to even the simplest of barbecues. Best of all, they're available year 'round so you can enhance your meals no matter what the season.

A favorite way to barbecue fresh mushrooms is to toss them in chili-seasoned butter or oil, wrap them in a foil pouch and cook on the grill until tender — usually just a few minutes. This simple combination is delicious over steak, chicken, and fish or alone as a side dish.

When purchasing fresh mushrooms, look for smooth, firm closed caps. Mushrooms are sold in convenient packages or loose in bulk trays. Store them in the refrigerator. If you've purchased them loose or the package is opened, transfer them to a paper bag in the refrigerator to keep them fresher longer.

To clean, simply wipe them with a damp cloth, soft vegetable brush, or rinse quickly. Since mushrooms are naturally porous, be careful not to soak them in water or they could lose their texture and taste.

While mushrooms add a delightful flavor and texture to everyday barbecues, they won't add a lot of calories. A two-thirds cup serving contains only 14 calories, is 99 percent fat free, low in sodium and cholesterol and is high in fiber. Fresh mushrooms will also provide your family with important vitamins and minerals such as thiamin, riboflavin, potassium and niacin.

So for a special summer meal, try adding fresh mushroom to your next barbecue.

MUSHROOMS BAKED OVER THE COALS

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 large clove garlic, pressed
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
Dash salt
8 ounces mushrooms, sliced

In saucpan, heat butter, garlic, chili powder and salt to melt butter. Add mushrooms, tossing to coat. Spoon mushrooms onto two 12-inch squares heavy duty aluminum foil, dividing equally. Wrap securely. Set packages on grill over hot coals; cook 8 to 10 minutes. Serve hot over barbecued meats, poultry or fish, or over split and fluffed hot baked potatoes.

NOTE: Mushroom packets may also be baked in 400 degree oven 10 minutes.

Credit Opportunities
An Equal Right

Are you a good credit risk? If you're married, widowed or divorced and have never established a credit history in your own name, lenders may not think so. To assuage their fears, and to assure yourself that you can have access to extra cash when you need it, take steps now to build your financial identity, recommends the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Creditors want to see evidence of your financial stability. Generally, they determine your creditworthiness by looking at your employment record, your assets - such as your home, bank accounts, stocks and bonds - and your past history of paying bills.

If you've never established credit in your own name, the first step is to open your own checking and savings accounts. After a period of maintaining your checking account successfully, apply for overdraft checking account privileges. This is like having a preapproved loan and gives you the flexibility of writing a check for more than you have in your account. Besides, even if you never use it, it will look good on your credit report.

It's also a good idea to establish credit with various retail establishments. Begin by applying for a charge card from one of the local stores; then try applying for credit from some of the larger department stores or oil companies. Be certain to use any credit cards you get to demonstrate your capabilities of making payments on a timely basis.

Although more difficult to obtain, you should also apply for a bank charge card, such as Visa or MasterCard. Such cards are important for building your credit history, since credit reporting agencies always list bank credit transactions. Banks usually require several credit references before extending you this type of credit. In most instances, banks also require that you've been employed for at least one year - preferably in the same company.

Under the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA), a creditor may not deny credit on the basis of sex or marital status. This act gives women important protection and provides the means for them to establish credit records even if they are married and have no opportunity to produce their own income.

The ECOA requires that any credit accumulated by a husband and wife automatically goes under both names. So if you're married and have been using your husband's credit cards to make purchases, you are already on your way to establishing your own credit rating. Be aware that for accounts opened before June 1, 1977, you must specifically request the stores to report the credit history in both names. Otherwise, the credit history will be chalked up entirely to your husband.

Keep in mind that if your joint credit history is bad, it will affect your personal credit rating. However, you do have recourse under the ECOA to explain that the bad credit history resulted from your spouse's actions and not your own.

Creditors may ask for information about your husband's income or require you to have a co-signer when you first attempt to get a loan or other credit in your own name. This is not discrimination. Even a man without any assets would have to cite a spouse's income or get a co-signer to demonstrate his financial worthiness to creditors.

The circumstances are different if you live in a community property state (Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas and Washington). Even if you are not employed outside the home, the law in these states provides that half your spouse's earnings are yours. In most cases, this means that both you and your husband are equally creditworthy, even if you don't bring home a paycheck.

The ECOA also protects the credit standing of newly divorced or widowed women. If, while you were married, you established credit based on your own resources, stores cannot automatically discontinue your accounts or change the terms because you are divorced or widowed. Stores can, however, ask you to reapply for credit if you are left with accounts that had been based on your husband's income. Even if you must reapply for credit, your creditworthiness may still be enhanced if you and your husband had a good joint credit history.

New Pamphlet Available At Secretary Of State Offices

A new pamphlet to help individuals who buy or sell vehicles is now off the press, Secretary of State Richard Austin announced today.

Entitled, "What You Must Do When You Buy or Sell a Vehicle in a Private Sale", the pamphlet tells both buyers and sellers how to fill out forms and what to do to transfer vehicle ownership. Austin said the pamphlet was developed both to help individuals who buy and sell vehicles privately and save time answering questions in branch offices.

The pamphlets will be available in all branch offices and will be mailed with individual vehicle titles.

Lakeshore Flora And Fauna

On a hot summer day nothing feels better than wading in cool water.

Sunday, August 4, 10 a.m. - 12 p.m., wade in Independence Lake while naturalist Matt Heumann of Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission leads an interpretive walk. He will discuss lakeshore flora and fauna.

Within a 50 to 60 foot area along the shoreline of Independence Lake the diversity of wildlife is high. The intersection of three habitat zones - dry field, marsh and lake - contributes to this.

"Standing in one spot we could talk about big blue-stem grass, yellow pond lily and bladderwort," Heumann says. (Bladderwort is a small aquatic insect-eating plant.)

You may also see crayfish, water snakes, turtles and a green heron colony.

Bring zip-lock bags to take home aquatic specimens. A hand lens or magnifying glass would be helpful for looking at the bladders of the bladderwort. Be sure to bring sunscreen as the glare off the water can cause bad burns. Heumann advises that you wear protective footwear as the clam shells are very sharp.

A $2 gate fee is required so you may like to bring a picnic lunch and swimming suit and stay in the park after the walk.

Independence Lake Park is 10 miles north of Ann Arbor near Whitmore Lake. Take U.S. 23 to the Six Mile Road exit. Go west on Six Mile Road and follow the signs to the park.

When Samuel de Champlain discovered Lake Huron in 1616, he found Indians along the shore gathering wild blueberries. Frontier wives were quick to adopt the blueberry. They baked the freshly picked wild blueberries into cobblers, crisps and pies. With leftover scraps of pastry they made blueberry turnovers, sometimes called moon pies from their half-moon shape. The recipe here makes 12 turnovers.

Fresh Blueberry Turnovers

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons Argo corn starch
- 1 1/2 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 recipe double crust pastry

In 2-quart saucepan, stir together sugar and corn starch. Add blueberries; toss to coat well. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Turn into bowl; cover surface with waxed paper or plastic wrap. Cool. Meanwhile, prepare double crust pastry. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough, 1/2 at a time, to 1/8-inch thickness. Cut into 5-inch circles. For each turnover, place 1 1/2 tablespoons blueberry mixture on one-half of circle leaving 1/4-inch edge. Moisten edge with water. Fold unfilled pastry half over blueberry mixture to form turnover. Press edges together with fork. Make an S-shaped cut in top to allow steam to escape. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 425°F oven 20 minutes or until golden. Makes 12.

Bill Could Help Farmers In Financial Trouble

In Washington, Farm Bureau has testified in favor of a bill that would benefit those unfortunate farmers who must file for bankruptcy by allowing them to file under Chapter 13.

Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau, said most farmers can't use Chapter 13 because their unsecured debt must be less than $100,000 and their secured debts less than $350,000.

"This bill would raise the ceiling to allow a family farmer to be a Chapter 13 debtor if the total of the farmer's secured and unsecured debts is less than $1 million," he said. "And the bill would also allow farmers to pay their debts over 10 years rather than the current five years."

Great Taste... An American Tradition

In the late 1800's, when key limes (a perishable variety of limes grown in the Florida Keys) were abundant and refrigeration was scarce, sweetened condensed milk was a "natural" ingredient for Key Lime Pie. Because sweetened condensed milk is a pre-cooked blend of milk and sugar, it thickens magically with the addition of lime juice. The result—a filling that's firm enough to cut—without cooking!

Key Lime Pie is still a Florida specialty that has become a favorite in other parts of the country, too.

- KEY LIME PIE
(Makes one 9- or 9 1/2-inch pie)
- 1 (8- or 9-inch) baked pastry shell
 - 3 eggs*, separated
 - 1 (14-ounce) can Eagle® Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (NOT evaporated milk)
 - 1/2 cup RealLime® Lime Juice from Concentrate
 - Few drops green food coloring, optional
 - 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
 - 1/2 cup sugar

Preheat oven to 350°. In medium mixing bowl, beat egg yolks; stir in sweetened condensed milk, RealLime and food coloring if desired. Pour into prepared pastry shell. In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form; gradually add sugar, beating until stiff but not dry. Spread on top of pie, sealing carefully to edge of shell. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Chill thoroughly. Refrigerate leftovers.

Tip: For a lighter filling, fold 1 stiffly beaten egg white into filling mixture; proceed as above.
*Use only Grade A clean, uncracked eggs.

Do You Have a "Cold"? Formaldehyde May Be The Culprit

If you think you have a cold and it's hanging on, it may not be a cold at all.

Your persistent cold or respiratory discomfort may be caused by formaldehyde, a pungent gas emitted by a number of products that may be present in your household, according to the American Lung Association of Michigan (ALAM). Formaldehyde is used as a preservative and as a bonding agent in the production of glues and certain plastics.

It is found in thousands of consumer products, including carpet cleaners, toothpaste, shampoo, disinfectants, kitchen cabinets, furniture, carpet padding, upholstery, and insulation. It is used in pressed wood products, such as particleboard, plywood, fiberboard, waferboard, and paneling. Nearly all types of combustion devices, such as portable heaters, release formaldehyde. Cigarette smoke also contains formaldehyde.

ALAM environmental health specialist, Alex Sagady, says that formaldehyde is an irritant. "Depending on the concentration, formaldehyde can cause eye, nose and throat irritation, difficulties in breathing, and various asthma-like reactions. Headaches, fatigue, and nausea also may be caused by formaldehyde. Formaldehyde has also been shown to cause nasal tumors in laboratory animals exposed to relatively low concentrations in long term studies," he said.

"A partial solution to many indoor pollution problems is increased ventilation." Sagady said. "It's sometimes as easy as opening a window. Air to air heat exchangers are also available to increase ventilation while conserving energy."

Some companies, such as 3M, sell devices an individual can use to measure concentrations of formaldehyde in their home or office. This information can be used to determine whether other measures, such as removal of insulation or encapsulation, should be used to reduce formaldehyde concentrations.

For further information on indoor air pollution, call your American Lung Association of Michigan toll free at 1-800-292-5978.

New Insurance Pamphlets Available From The BBB

Two new consumer information pamphlets have recently been made available by the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan. The topics covered are Homeowners Insurance and Medigap Insurance.

Tips on Homeowners Insurance
Since homeowners insurance policies can vary widely, homeowners and renters are cautioned to take the time to understand these differences and to get a policy that best serves their needs before a loss occurs.

This pamphlet describes various types of policies and defines important terms and special features such as mortgage value, replacement cost, and inflation guard protection. It explains how consumers can determine how much insurance protection they need and reminds them to periodically review and update their policies to reflect the current value of their homes and possessions. Renters also are reminded that if their building goes up in flames, there is usually no coverage for their personal property unless they have a special policy for renters.

Tips on Medigap Insurance
Medigap insurance is a Medicare supplement designed to help close the gap between the health costs Medicare will cover and senior citizens' actual expenses. Since medigap insurance is a relatively new, and often misunderstood type of health insurance, elderly Americans are urged to get the facts before they sign up for the coverage.

This pamphlet devotes considerable attention not only to the value of the policies, but also to their limitations. Consumers are reminded that medigap insurance is generally unwilling or unable to pay fees not approved by Medicare and also that medigap does not provide coverage for nursing homes, prescription drugs or health supplies.

These new pamphlets have been added to the Better Business Bureau Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest, send 25 cents and a self-addressed, business size, stamped envelope to the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan, 150 Michigan Ave., Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Agriculture In Action

Attitudes on Agriculture

Recently the America's Governors, Inc. commissioned an extensive study on public attitudes toward agriculture and farms. The Gallup organization conducted 1,507 telephone interviews in a nationally representative sample.

The majority of Americans say that the days of the family-owned farm are numbered and were accurate in listing the problems facing farmers, including shortage of capital, inflated costs of production and low crop prices.

The public agrees that farming is an important industry, but one they would not choose for themselves or their children. Only 6% say it's the kind of work they would like to do.

About half of the people believe the government is not giving enough help to the farmer. Only 13% believe it's too much. A large majority believe that government farm programs only help big farms, not family-size farms, but a surprising 68% think that farmers would be more efficient if price supports were dropped.

When asked who influences farm policy, most said Congress. Only 11% said it was farmers themselves. With Farm Bill '85 at stake this year, farmers would like to prove they've got more clout than that, but the way things have been going lately in Washington, they're beginning to wonder.

The Food Aid Funds
The Hungry Don't Get

We've all heard about the tragic famine in Africa during the past couple of years and about U.S. shipments of grain and other food to the drought-stricken countries; but what few people know is that a good share of the tax money that pays for this relief does not go to feed starving people. It goes for subsidies to the U.S. shipping industry.

Under existing law, the Department of Agriculture has no choice. Cargo preference laws require that half of the tonnage of commodities shipped under the Food for Peace Program must be shipped in U.S. flag vessels that charge about $55 more to ship a metric ton of grain than competing foreign ships. Your tax money is used to pick up the difference in the freight cost. The cargo preference cost for a shipment of 30,000 metric tons is about $1.65 million.

For 1985 the "ocean freight differential" will cost taxpayers $155 million - about a tenth of the Food for Peace budget that most people assume is spent to help needy and hungry people around the world.

If we must subsidize non-competitive, high-labor-cost U.S. shipping, why not do it through a direct appropriation, rather than subtracting it from funds that should be used to keep people from starving to death.

Farmers Could Gain, Lose Under House Legislation

Michigan agriculture won a round in the tax reform battle in Lansing this week but lost another according to Bob Smith, senior legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau.

Smith said the state House approved an amendment, co-sponsored by Rep. Colleen Engler and Rep. Glenn Oxender, that exempts agriculture from the capital gains tax increase in the Governor's tax plan proposal. "This exemption will really benefit farmers in these times of economic stress," Smith said. "Some farmers are being forced to sell their land, and to tax the capital gains at a rate 150% higher than the present level would obviously be a very difficult burden."

On the other hand, the House approved a tax on insurance premiums that Smith said would be very costly to farmers. "Farmers buy more types of insurance than probably anyone else, ranging from fire and hail insurance to liability and workers compensation," he said. "In some cases, even health insurance premiums could be taxable under this proposal."

Smith added that the measures still have to be considered by the state Senate, probably in the fall.
