Tax Rate Limitation Increase Proposition For Operating Purposes

You, the citizens of Manchester, can be proud of the support you have given to United Way in previous years, and the success of this campaign will again depend on your willingness to give, both of your dollars and of your time.

Solicitors and team captains in both the village and rural areas will be urgently needed to conduct another successful campaign. You may contact any of the Board members to volunteer your time to assist in the campaign. If someone calls to request your help, please try to say yes.

Please consider carefully your financial contribution as well. The campaign will strive for 100% participation by Manchester residents. Your contribution will go to support agencies and organizations providing direct services to you, the residents of Manchester. For those of you who contribute through a payroll deduction, if you are employed outside of Manchester, you must specifically request that your employer send your contribution or a part of it, to Manchester. Think generously this fall in terms of your time and money for United Way. Your community is depending on you!

Last Monday on August 26, the School Board held a special meeting to inform the voting public where Manchester Community Schools stand financially. This meeting was attended by approximately 50 people. Where was everybody? I know this community cares about children and education but that was not evident according to the attendance. The high school auditorium should have been packed. Some people sit back and complain and others are undecided which way to vote and yet did not take advantage of this meeting. The public was able to ask questions and express their opinion. Dr. Thompson and the Board explained why the 4.6 mill increase is being asked of voters on September 9. They answered many questions that are on the minds of a lot of people and it too bad only a few people attended. My compliments to the Board and Dr. Thompson for taking time, by having a special meeting, to inform the public of the problems our school faces. For those people who missed the meeting and have questions, I urge you to contact the Board members before September 9 and vote.

Sincerely,
Charlene Goodell
and Linda Hartmann

Once again the Manchester Community faces a crisis with its schools. As I see it the crisis involves the ramifications of a millage defeat on September 9. I don't believe a school can survive the kind of reductions in service and programs proposed by the Manchester School Board if the millage fails.

Frankly, the millage proposal should never have come to the point of creating the tension and anxiety it has. Manchester schools are good schools. Are you aware of the strength and quality of present faculty? Have you noticed the excellent academic gains? Have you seen the refurbished buildings in which students and community can take pride? Do you know about the new track and football field, provided in large part by community and alumni energy and contributions? Do you know that students from Chelsea, Saline and Milan will attend the outstanding vocational courses Manchester offers? Manchester community is rightfully proud of its schools. Let's display our pride by voting for the necessary millage on September 9.

Bob Miller

This letter is in regards to the coming school election on September 9th. It seems that for any other election i.e., National, State or local, the results of that election stand as is, but not school elections. If the millage is defeated the first time around, school officials keep coming back for another vote. They cannot take no for an answer. They say property values have dropped. This may be true, but our taxes remain the same, at least in Freedom Township. What about all the new housing going up? I am sure these people are paying taxes. If a piece of property is split up, it is reassessed and it is always raised higher than it was previously. This should increase school revenues. What about the State lottery? Don't schools get some revenues from this?

A large number of our elderly population get a small Social Security check and maybe a little interest on money they have managed to save when a dollar was a dollar, not the inflated dollar worth about 30 cents today.

Many farmers are finding it very difficult to make a decent living these days, and many are finding it necessary to give up farming altogether and it will get much worse next year. Their expenses such as farm tools and parts for repairing them are very high but when they go to sell their produce or livestock the prices are low. In order for a farmer to raise his standard of living he must increase his production.

Its time the schools started tightening their belts. Perhaps it should start by "trimming some fat" at the top and on down. The excuse being used for the extra millage is for school programs but how can we, the taxpayers, be sure it isn't going to be used for "fattening" salaries.

If any of you in this school district feel the same as I do, then get out and vote on September 9.

With lemons in good supply twelve months of the year, Lemon Meringue Pie is no longer a seasonal dessert. The recipe for Lemon Meringue Pie first appeared on the corn starch box in the early 1900's. This is an updated version, made without the need for a double boiler.

Lemon Meringue Pie

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons Argo corn starch
- 1 1/2 cups cold water
- 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon corn oil
- margarine
- 1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell
- 3 egg whites
- 1/3 cup sugar

In 2-quart saucepan, stir together 1 cup sugar and corn starch. Gradually stir in water until smooth. Stir in egg yolks. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon rind, lemon juice and margarine. Cool slightly (no longer than 1 hour). Turn into pastry shell. In small bowl with mixer at high speed, beat egg whites until foamy. Add 1/3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Spread some meringue around edge of filling first touching crust all around, then fill in center. Bake in 350° oven 15 to 20 minutes. Cool at room temperature away from drafts. Makes 8 servings.

Area Art Students Honored

they interpreted their work for the audience. The program is coordinated by Barbara Lavery and Doreen Steeb. Each spring they select and purchase artwork from school art students from throughout the hospital service area. The Auxiliary pays for framing and donates the pictures to the hospital. The art is displayed on a corridor wall for one year and then moved into patients' rooms or offices to make room for new acquisitions. Artists are identified with name plates on their work.

During the first five years the Art Awards Program has been in existence, a total of 74 pieces of original art, done by students in grades one to 12 were purchased.

For the hospital, the Program provides a unique and growing collection of original artwork, creates a pleasant atmosphere for patients, visitors and employees and enlarges the artistic appreciation of many who view it. For the community, it provides a means of involvement and contact for many students and families and adds to the sense of creative pride that the community has toward the hospital. For the schools and students, it is a positive reinforcement, brings recognition and encourages constant improvement and originality.

The leadership of the Auxiliary in purchasing student artwork has been credited with drawing interest to the art program at one of the area schools. A purchaser has approached the school this year about obtaining art to decorate an office complex.

The 1985 Art Awards students, with the grades they represent listed after their names from the Manchester School district include:

Toni Bejma and Konie Mulcare, eleventh grade; and Terri Walker, twelfth grade.

The Summer Teen Program is coordinated by Pat Parrish of Milan, Auxiliary chairperson; and Marilyn Short, Director of Volunteer Services. This year, 20 students were selected upon recommendation of their school counselors in five districts. They were required to make a commitment of eight weeks of volunteer service in assigned areas of patient care or supportive services.

The program provides an opportunity for health career exploration for students and provides volunteer service to the hospital during vacation times.

Students honored for participating in this year's Summer Teens Program from the Manchester district include: Alicia Haeussler, Dayna Hock, Jean Kuhl and Laura Meister.

Klager Kids Celebrate Birthdays

Birthdays are very wonderful occasions for young children. To make each birthday child feel special the Klager PTO makes a colorful birthday button for each child to wear on their birthdays.

Each spring the upcoming fourth grade class submits their designs for birthday buttons and the PTO selects ten winners to make into buttons. This year the winning designs done by: Adrienne Wallace, Adam Erskine, Angele Roehm, Kye Potter, Elizabeth Bragg, Laura Alber, Tracy LaRue, Kurtis McDonald, Kristie Sannes, and Kathleen Baran.

- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup small curd potatoes (dry)
- 1 cup creamed cottage cheese
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (4 ounces)

Mix potatoes and margarine; reserve 1/2 cup. Spread remaining potato mixture in ungreased square baking dish, 8x8x2 inches.

Heat oven to 350°. Cook and stir ground beef and onion until beef is brown; drain. Stir in Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Spoon onto potato mixture in dish. Mix eggs and cottage cheese; pour over beef mixture. Top with tomato slices. Sprinkle with Cheddar cheese; spread with reserved potato mixture. Bake uncovered until set, about 20 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

No flying glass when a baseball hits this window, protected by special shatter resistant film.

A baseball has just hit a school window in the photo above, but the broken glass is held firmly in place by a remarkable innovation: shatter-resistant window film that protects school building occupants from injury.
 Homeowners and business owners across the country are installing the new shatter-resistant window film for property and personal protection against violent weather, accidents and crime. Clear and no more than .007 inches thick, the film has been compared to a steel skin for windows—a strong and practically impenetrable bond to prevent glass from falling or flying into millions of dangerous, razor sharp pieces. Actually, the new film is a tough, transparent polyester engineered to bond tightly to glass, holding it together under extreme force.
 Uses for the Scotchint Shatter Resistant Window Film from 3M include:
 • Home use: The film reduces the chance of serious injury in case of accidents, such as a child falling or running through a storm door, flying debris from storms, even a burglar trying to get in.
 • Commercial use: Smash and grab thefts may be prevented with the film, as it's more difficult to break through a protected window or door.
 • Besides making glass shatter resistant, the film also reduces the amount of ultraviolet rays coming through windows. This reduces fading of furniture and other property normally caused by the sun. Windows remain perfectly transparent—a clear benefit for many property owners.

Add-A-Crunch Adds Fiber Deliciously

Go ahead, admit it... you're bored with bran.
 We have all heard about the health benefits of eating high fiber foods. With little or no calories, dietary fiber supplies roughage and bulk that help satisfy the appetite and keep the digestive system running smoothly. But what about variety? Is bran the only answer?
 You have many more fiber choices than you may think. And breakfast isn't the only meal for adding fiber to your daily diet.
 Fill up on fiber with a cool barley salad for lunch. Follow your dinner-time bean burritos with an apple-oat crisp for dessert. Snack on dried fruits and nuts in the evening.
 Leave the peels on fruits and vegetables. Keep a canned assortment of high fiber beans — kidney, red and pork and beans — to add to soups, stews, casseroles and marinated salads.
 Here's a fun way to add fiber to your diet. You won't become bored with Cinnamon Add-A-Crunch, a versatile topping you'll enjoy finding new ways to use. Sprinkle this tasty treat over any food where you might normally use nuts... on puddings, ice cream, oatmeal, fruits and fruit salads.
 It's easy to prepare and can be stored tightly covered in the refrigerator up to 3 months. Take a small plastic bag of Add-A-Crunch to work and stir into your lunchtime yogurt.

Cinnamon Add-A-Crunch
 1-1/4 cups Quaker Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted
 1/3 cup wheat germ, unprocessed bran or chopped nuts, if desired
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 Combine all ingredients; mix well. Cook in 10-inch skillet over medium heat, stirring constantly, 5 to 7 minutes or until golden brown. Spread onto ungreased cookie sheet to cool; store in tightly covered container in refrigerator up to 3 months.

The kind of fiber that research is showing can actually reduce your cholesterol level.
 All of the recipes in Quaker's Food, Fiber & Fitness pamphlet have been developed for persons on low-cholesterol, low-sodium, glucose metabolism, weight reduction and healthy eating diets. Full nutritional information and diabetic exchanges are provided for each recipe. Doctors and dietitians across the country are providing this pamphlet to their patients.

Understanding Your Body

WHAT YOUR BLOOD TELLS YOU...

We have all winced at the sight of the needle, the smell of the alcohol and the tingling sensation that accompanies the tightening of the tourniquet. But consider this—blood is our body's most reliable barometer, signaling changes that may herald the onset of unsuspected health problems. A simple blood test can reveal important warning signs such as increased cholesterol or blood sugar and can lead to the early detection, diagnosis and treatment of otherwise life-threatening illnesses.

Squeamish folks, take heart. The days of parting with vials of blood, and then anxiously waiting for lab results, may well be over. Technological advances like Reflotron®, a new desktop blood analyzer introduced by Boehringer Mannheim Diagnostics, Inc., allow your doctor to reach informed decisions in just minutes, using a tiny pin prick of blood. To help you understand all that your blood can tell you, here's a glimpse at some commonly ordered blood tests that can help you and your physician conquer an illness in its early stages.

Red and White Blood Cell Counts and Measure of Hemoglobin

As part of a thorough physical exam, blood cells are counted and hemoglobin is measured to test for anemia. A low red blood cell count with a low hemoglobin is indicative of anemia, usually suggesting inadequate iron intake. Occasionally, irregularities in red blood cells or hemoglobin suggest an underlying disorder which requires further testing.

tient drinks a sugar solution and the sugar level in the blood is measured at intervals over several hours. The test evaluates how well your body is using the sugar in your blood.

An increase in the white blood cell count often signals acute viral or bacterial infection, or, on rare occasion, leukemia. A sharp drop in the white blood count may occur following radiation or chemotherapy, or during certain drug reactions.

Blood Chemistry Tests
Measuring the level of specific chemicals in the blood can indicate how well vital body systems are working and whether abnormal levels may be health risks. For example:

CHOLESTEROL and TRIGLYCERIDES: Periodic measurements of lipids (fats) in the blood, specifically cholesterol and triglycerides, allow your doctor to assess your risk of developing cardiovascular disease, especially atherosclerosis. Atherosclerotic heart disease, often associated with elevated cholesterol and triglyceride levels, is the major cause of death in the United States today. Early detection indicates the need for a change in diet and/or appropriate medication to lower cholesterol and triglyceride levels.

GLUCOSE: Measuring your blood sugar (serum glucose) is the method used by doctors to test for diabetes. An abnormally high glucose value suggests the presence of diabetes. A simple blood sugar test, if abnormal, is often followed by a glucose tolerance test. During this test, the patient drinks a sugar solution and the sugar level in the blood is measured at intervals over several hours. The test evaluates how well your body is using the sugar in your blood.

A low serum glucose level suggests a diagnosis of hypoglycemia, a treatable disorder often accompanied by anxiety, trembling and fatigue that requires further testing to determine the cause and necessary treatment.

UREA NITROGEN (BUN) and CREATININE: Elevated levels of waste substances, such as urea nitrogen and creatinine, that have not been adequately cleared from the blood, alert your doctor to possible declining kidney function. This could be caused by poor blood flow to the kidneys or actual kidney disease. Through further testing, your doctor can assess the cause of these retained waste products and begin therapy.

BILIRUBIN: Elevated levels of bilirubin in the blood, causing jaundice suggest abnormalities in the production and excretion of bilirubin. These abnormalities include increased red blood cell destruction, gallstones and liver disease, such as hepatitis.

Ask your doctor about new office blood testing methods that can help alleviate the discomfort commonly associated with blood tests and the anxiety of waiting for test results.

Scoliosis Meeting

The Lenawee-Monroe Unit of the Scoliosis Association of Michigan will hold a support group meeting Thursday, September 5, at the Milton C. Porter Center, 2946 Sutton Road, Adrian. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to all.

Scoliosis is a lateral or side-wards curvature of the spine. Approximately 10% of the population have some degree of scoliosis. The first signs of this condition usually appear at the beginning of adolescence. If left untreated, scoliotic curves may progress in adulthood. Today there are a variety of techniques which can be used to stabilize both adolescent and adult spines. Thursday's program will feature the narrated slide presentation, "S Curve", produced by the Newington Children's Hospital.

Other support group meetings will be held Nov. 14, 1985, March 13, 1986, and May 8, 1986, at the Milton C. Porter Center. For additional information please call 313-529-3038 or 517-423-3164 after 3 p.m.

Wolf Lake Resorts

Manchester Enterprise July 3, 1982

Ever since the Indian campfires were kindled on the shores of Wolf lake that body of water has been known as one of best for fishermen. It is the favorite abode of pickerel, black bass, speckled bass, perch, blue gills, etc. and on its bosom wild geese, duck, etc. alight in great numbers when making their passage north and south.

The early pioneer loved to draw the seine, fish with spear at night by torch-light, or with hook and line at Wolf lake and "Tooker's landing" was the place best known to them. The old farm house which served as a hotel has long since passed away and to the rising generation Tooker's landing is known as "Wildwood".

Little Wolf lake, on the banks of which the jolly "Dutch Johnny" and his wife resided three decades ago, making a living at fishing and making baskets, is east of Wildwood and is a pretty sheet of water but not more than one fourth the size of its big sister.

Still beyond big Wolf is another small lake and further west is Manchester Center pond. All are connected and form a wonderful water supply which is the source of Grand river.

Tooker's landing was not alone the resort of hunters and fishermen. The gentler sex, hearing its praises sung, soon found it a pleasant place to enjoy a days outing and the little grove was converted into camp and picnic grounds.

Across the lake, nearly a mile away, on the north shore, there is a high bluff covered with giant oaks and occasionally a company seeking seclusion from the throng that now gathered at Tooker's landing, took boats and rowed across to have a picnic by themselves. Others coming from Grass Lake and vicinity also sought the shade of this beautiful grove and from that time its popularity increased. But there were no boats kept there and after a few years the old farmer who owned Tooker's landing became careless and let his boats get out of repair, the old house burned down and Wolf lake as a resort seemed doomed.

Several years ago Charles Akin had a little place at Wampler's lake where he kept boats to let and supplied the wants of picnickers in the grove. One day a friend told him about Wolf lake, its beautiful grove on the north shore and advised him to go there which he did and was so well pleased that he bought a tract of land and set about establishing a resort which he made popular because he knew how to wait upon the people who came there. He erected a dining hall, refreshment stands, stables, bath house, etc. and year by year he has been obliged to add to his possessions to accommodate the thousands of visitors. He has an excellent fleet of boats and pays particular attention to fishing and picnic parties, discouraging disorderly persons from frequenting the place.

Across the lake, on "Garland Island," our townsman C. H. Millen erected a fine hotel where he entertains hundreds of guests during the summer. His place is reached from the main road from Napoleon to Grass Lake, or by boat from "Wildwood" on the south shore or Akins on the north shore.

Some Grass Lake people have bought or leased land of Mr. Akin and erected neat cottages, where they bring their families and friends during the heated term. Jackson people who were shy of a lake resort, soon learned that at Millens or Akins they could find rest and pleasure for a day or a longer period.

But these places were not easy of access. It was a long drive out there and when Clark's lake was reached by rail, it was feared that Wolf lake resorts would suffer. The building of the electric roads however soon settled the questions. Mr. Boland was looking for feeders for his road and Wolf lake was handy, so he set at work laying his plans. He bought right-of-way, leased land next to Mr. Akin and has begun the erection of a casino. On Saturday last the first car was run to the grove and the smile that blossomed on Charlie Akin's face has been growing ever since. On Sunday there was a large crowd coming and going all day, and it was delightful to sit upon the cool veranda overlooking the lake and watch the animated crowd of pleasure seekers.

The lake was dotted with boats, row boats just large enough for two, the sail boats and the electric launches fitting here and there, presented a scene of indescribable beauty. The grove was well filled with people in companies of two or more, visiting, lunching and all apparently happy. Mr. Akin informed the Enterprise that he intended to plat the grove back of the present line of cottages and sell lots to those who desired to build upon them. He has erected a large windmill and tank to supply water to all who come.

The Casino is to be completed as soon as possible and without doubt Wolf lake will be visited by thousands of people this season who have never known what a beautiful place it is.

Issue and Debate:
Two Sides of Tax Reform

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

A heated debate has erupted over a provision in the President's tax reform proposal that eliminates the federal income tax deduction for state and local taxes. The repeal of state and local tax deductions is the main issue to be settled if the President's tax reform plan is to survive Congressional negotiations and become law, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs.

In 1984, state and local taxes were deducted by about 58 million people who itemized deductions. That's about one third of all the returns processed by the IRS.

Itemized deductions are tax breaks that target certain people and sectors in the economy. You can keep your tax bill to a minimum sometimes by claiming itemized deductions for medical expenses, charitable contributions, interest and certain job expenses, as well as state and local taxes. The deductions for state and local taxes is the second biggest deduction claimed, according to the IRS.

Here's an example of how the deduction currently reduces someone's tax bill: Let's take Bob, who files as a single and has a $28,000 gross income in 1985. Bob claims $9,350 in itemized deductions. That $9,350 includes a $2,000 deduction for state and local taxes. That gives him a taxable income of $20,000. (That's $28,000 in gross income minus $9,350 in itemized deductions minus a $1,040 exemption and plus Bob's $2,390 zero bracket amount.) With a $20,000 taxable income in 1985, Bob pays $3,125 in federal income tax.

Look at what the loss of the $2,000 deduction might do to Bob's federal tax bill if the state and local tax deduction is eliminated and the President's tax plan is adopted: The loss of the $2,000 deduction for state and local taxes would reduce Bob's itemized deductions to $7,350. Bob's taxable income rises to $21,550.

(That's $28,000 in gross income minus $7,350 in itemized deductions minus a $2,000 exemption plus a $2,900 zero bracket amount.) With a $21,550 taxable income, Bob would pay $3,152 in federal income tax under President Reagan's reform plan.

In Bob's case the lower tax rates and the larger personal exemption proposed by the President will almost offset the loss of the deduction for state and local taxes. Other taxpayers, however, will feel a bigger pinch if the deduction is eliminated. High income persons in high-tax states will probably be affected adversely.

Those who say the deduction is unfair claim that people who live in states with high state and local taxes are not paying their fair share to Uncle Sam, but those living in high tax states claim that circumstance - crime, mass transportation and education problems - have forced them to raise state taxes. They say it's a legitimate federal tax subsidy to the people in their state.

Critics of the president's repeal of the deduction say an exodus from states with high local taxes would follow repeal of the deduction. They predict property values will drop and basic public services would face budget cuts. They claim that corporations in their state will have a difficult time recruiting executives who will be hurt by the loss of the deduction.

The President and supporters of his reform proposal say the deduction "disproportionately benefits a small minority of U.S. Taxpayers." They say that upper income residents of high income tax states are the people who benefit most. They note that two-thirds of all taxpayers do not itemize deductions and, therefore, are subsidizing residents of high tax states. According to the President's proposal, "two-thirds of the total deductions for state and local tax payments were claimed by families with incomes of $50,000 or more." But statistics also tell the other side of the story: According to IRS statistics, more than half of the people who take state and local tax deductions have incomes below $30,000.

In the next few weeks, Congress will continue to debate the issue in attempting to reach a compromise and pass a tax reform bill. If it seems likely that the repeal of the deduction will become law, you may want to take some precautionary steps to ensure that you take advantage of the deduction before it is eliminated in 1986: You may be able to prepay your property taxes. Or you may want to speed up the planned purchase of a car in order to get a sales tax deduction before the end of 1985.

A Pack Of Power

This series of stories spotlights the manifold products of Michigan's farms, forests and factories - the products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Watch for them when you shop, and "Buy Michigan!" This week's story: "A Pack Of Power."

by Paula Blanchard

Don't get caught without your "Sunpak."

I did recently. I was catching some good Michigan sun on the beach when my portable radio suddenly faded and died - the batteries had given up their last amps, or volts, or whatever.

With a "SunPak" I could have plugged my radio into the sun and continued to enjoy some tunes with my tan.

The "SunPak", an electronic marvel, is a solar collector that converts the sun's rays into electricity. It's wafer-thin, compact (the smallest unit can be folded to purse-size) and lightweight (at least lighter than My purse!). What's more, it's virtually indestructible and won't wear out, ever.

A new product development of Electronic Conversion Devices, Inc., of Troy, the "SunPak" can supply enough electricity to power a radio, tape recorder or even a television set from sunup to sundown. In fact, it's even powerful enough to recharge the battery in your car.

"The SunPak is a mini-dynamo designed for use outdoors, where electrical outlets are few and far between," said a company official. "But you could have these collectors in your house or garage and thereby save on your electrical bill."

The "SunPak" is available in three sizes - small (2 watt), medium (5 watt) and large (10 watt). The suggested retail costs range from $70 to $210, depending on the size. The largest weighs 3 1/2 pounds; the smallest 1 pound.

Another new ECD product - a portable thermoelectric generator - also will supply your remote power needs, even if there is no sunshine.

The five-pound generator, which works on the same principle as the "SunPak" can be placed atop a wood-burning stove, for instance, and will convert the heat into electricity for lamps, well pumps and other appliances.

You could, of course, hook it up to both a sunlamp and a radio. That way you could get some tunes with your tan - even on an overcast day!

In any case, lets keep making it - and buying it - in Michigan!

Dr. Sonya Friedman To Speak At Dinner

Dr. Sonya Friedman, practicing psychologist, national television show host, and best-selling author, will be the speaker for a special dinner presentation Tuesday, September 17. The event, which is open to the public, will be sponsored by the Saline Community Hospital Women's Health Council, part of the newly-formed Women's Health Services of the Hospital.

Dr. Friedman will speak on the topic, "The Best Is Yet To Be," at a dinner presentation to be held in the Hoyt Conference Center on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

"Because Dr. Friedman is vitally interested in women's health issues, we felt she would be a most appropriate speaker for our kick off dinner, initiating the Women's Health Service," Jeanne DeLiefde, Director of Special Health Services, said.

"The Women's Health Service was formed in response to a growing public concern regarding the lack of health care services available to women. The new Service is geared toward meeting the special health needs of women through various educational, networking and medical screening activities," she explained.

"Information on how to attend the dinner presentation may be obtained by telephoning the Hospital's Special Health Services office at 429-1508. The deadline for making reservations is Friday, September 13.

In addition to hosting the USA Cable Network Show, "Telling Secrets With Sonya Friedman," she is in private practice, currently at the South Woodward Clinic in Birmingham; is a columnist for the LADIES HOME JOURNAL and DETROIT FREE PRESS and is author of two bestsellers, "Men Are Just Deserts" and "Smart Cookies Don't Crumble."

She is currently involved in two pilot projects in psychology: one a project in lifestyle medicine which she is doing in conjunction with a cardiologist and the other a project involving divorce counseling in affiliation with a community church and synagogue.

Despite her accomplishments, Dr. Friedman maintains her career did not begin to take off until, at the age of 38, she changed her perception of herself and her opportunities.

Hoyt Conference Center offers ample parking facilities. Area women interested in receiving information on further programs to be held by the Women's Health Council should telephone the Special Health Services office at 429-1508.

Know your Michigan law

Attorney General Kelley voiced his strong disappointment with this afternoon's Ingham County Circuit Court decision which allows the Consumers Power Company to begin passing on part of the cost of its abandoned Midland nuclear facility to its customers:

"In 1982 the Michigan Supreme Court said that a utility 'may indeed be betting the company on the wisdom of their decisions to build nuclear generating plants costing several billion dollars.'

"The Supreme Court went on in its 1982 decision to say: 'If they have made erroneous decisions and the cost of the additional generating capacity is not included, in whole or in part, in the rate base, stockholders or bondholders or both would lose, but the ratepayers would be largely unaffected.'

"I believe that both the Michigan Public Service Commission and the Court have ignored the Michigan Supreme Court's conclusion that unless the facility involved was included in the rate base, ratepayers were to be left 'largely unaffected.'

Clearly this facility which was never completed cannot now be considered part of Consumers Power's rate base."

"While we have not yet had the opportunity to completely study the Court's ruling, we believe that an issue of this importance should ultimately be decided by the Michigan Supreme Court. A final decision on the question whether to appeal this decision will be made next week after we have had an opportunity to review the Court's decision in detail."

Ask MESC

QUESTION: Although I'm still in school, I am starting to think about careers and trying to decide the best career for me. Where do I start?

ANSWER: Choosing a career is not an easy job. It can be hard work but careful planning and thought can help you select the career that is right for you.

Your first task is to try to assess your interests, abilities and skills. Ask yourself what you enjoy doing, what interests you and what you excelled at in school or in other activities.

Look at what you want out of a job, too. Do you want just a pay check or a future career? Are you willing to work hard or pursue more schooling?

Next, consult the Michigan Occupational Information System (MOIS). MOIS is available in schools, libraries and MESC Job Service offices and contains a wealth of information about occupations commonly found in Michigan. For example, MOIS can give you job descriptions and requirements, wage information, job outlooks and where to get additional information.

After narrowing down the occupational possibilities, talk with people who do the type of work that interests you. Talk with your school counselor, family and friends. They may know of people in that occupation with whom you can talk and learn about the positive and negative aspects of the job and the skills, abilities and interests the job requires.

Hospice of Washtenaw Trains Volunteers

The Hospice of Washtenaw, a division of Amicare Home Health Services, a non-profit health care agency, trains and utilizes volunteers in the care of the terminally ill and their families. Volunteers serve families in a variety of ways - through supportive counseling, friendly visiting, health care education, light household chores and errand assistance. Other volunteers assist in office operations, publicity and public speaking. It is not necessary to have a background in health care to be a hospice volunteer.

Volunteer training will begin September 9th. For more information call 995-1995.

Manchester Ford Plant Picnic

Former employees of Manchester Ford plant will hold their annual picnic Sunday, September 8, 1985, at 1 p.m. at Carr Park, Manchester.

Eastbound and westbound traffic on one-half mile of Interstate 94 Business Loop (Jackson Avenue) in the city of Ann Arbor, from the I-94 overpass east to Weber's Inn, is slowed by intermittent lane closures for the addition of a left turn lane, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said today.

One lane of traffic will be open in each direction at all times. The work is estimated to be completed by November 15.

by farley
Morenci is at last a quiet little town, especially during the hours from 11:00 p.m. until 7:00 a.m. The fire siren which some natives said was as loud as the air raid sirens were in London during World War II have been silenced during those hours. The Morenci Volunteer Fire Department has silenced their siren during the night hours out of consideration for the elderly and the young. Must be that the natives of Morenci are not as concerned with tradition as are the folks in Clinton. As you will remember here when the Council moved to eliminate the "noon whistle" there was a great deal of objection on the part of all but a very few fellows who were working the night shift and so the Council restored the whistle to its rightful place in our daily life. This whistle was a tradition in Clinton. However, in Morenci, the Fire Chief reported that they had received complaints that some folks who are light sleepers were wakened during the dark hours of night and that patients in the Morenci Hospital were also awakened by the wailing siren. One of the Fire Department members also reported that also disturbed were young children who woke up frightened and screaming. So the Fire Chief decided that it was possible to dispense with the siren through the department's intercommunications program. Everyone of the department's members has a phone pager - a beeper, through which he gets the message through the Sheriff's office in Adrian. The dispatcher sets off the alarm at the same time that he sets off the fire alarm. The fire fighters now do not use the sirens on their cars or trucks as they go to the station. Besides reducing the noise, this also cuts down greatly the number of "fire chasers" and cuts down on traffic hazards. Speaking of sirens and whistles reminds us of an incident that occurred in Manchester quite a number of years ago. As is still customary each morning there was a gathering at the local bakery of various business men at a coffee and crumpets session where the weighty affairs of the town were discussed. At one of these the statement was made that although there seemed not to be any noticeable increase in the population of the district there was each year, a considerable increase in the kindergarten enrollment. Why this was true no one seemed to know but lo and behold the station agent, Jim Hoyland by name, said that he could explain it. At that time there were two passenger trains a day between Toledo and Jackson - one each way. And so said Jim "the north-bound train goes by Manchester at 6:10 a.m. and whistles for every crossing in town and wakes everyone up and its too early to get up and too late to go to sleep -that's the reason." And so it was agreed that this was a logical solution to the problem.

What's rich?, we were asked the other day and then we saw a news item stating that when a sultan recently took a suite at the Savoy Hotel in London, he bought two identical Rolls Royce Corniches, one to await him at the Strand entrance and the other to await him at the Thames River entrance. That's rich!

NEWS Of Books

Overnight Success Now 18 Years Old!

Known for its whimsical, easy-to-remember rhymes and fanciful full color pictures, it was one of the first books to help parents teach children to be careful around people they don't know. "Never Talk to Strangers" published 18 years ago is the first in a series that helps parents communicate with their children and it is still going strong. The rhymes and the pictures get the important message "Don't talk to strangers!" across in terms children can understand and in a non-threatening way. Another book in the Learn About Living Series from Golden Books is called, "You Can Say, NO". As children become more independent and start going places without adults, they need to know how to deal with potentially dangerous situations. This new book presents short, frank stories about children who did the right thing when approached by an adult who became "too friendly." Parents have been using the book not only to teach their children how to protect themselves, but to open discussions in a calm way about situations harmful to children. Each of the bestselling books contains a special note inside which suggests helpful guidelines for parents.

In whimsical rhymes and fanciful color pictures, the message to youngsters is clear: "Don't talk to strangers."
