This column, I suppose, should be labeled 'this and that' - little items from here and there that we found interesting, informative or humorous, that you may find worth reading.

A friend of ours with a youngster in the first grade told a few weeks ago her class, singing bunny songs honoring the occasion, when the teacher asked if the group knew any more bunny songs, the youngsters proudly began to sing "My bunny lies over the ocean, my bunny lies over the sea."

A 90 year old chap went into a liquor store to buy a bottle of wine when the clerk said, "This is a very good price on this wine. Why don't you buy a case and keep it awhile?" The old fellow replied, "Are you kidding? At my age I don't even buy green bananas and take them home."

The members of the San Diego professional football team are called Chargers but not "charge as in the Light Brigade." Their owner, Baron Hilton, owned Carte Blanche Charge Cards.

Mr. LaSorda, the manager of the Los Angeles baseball team said in an interview not long ago, "If you at first don't succeed, try second."

The world's only republic born of a slave revolt in the Western Hemisphere is Haiti and it is also the poorest nation in the western world.

In the Orient which country is mostly Christian? The Philippines - mostly Catholic.

We were asked the other day if the fictional lawyer Perry Mason would ever marry his secretary Della Street. Well the other day the author Earle Stanley Gardner, at the age of 79, finally married his executive secretary, Jean Bethell, after she had worked for him for 40 years. She was the model for Della Street.

In Sault Saint Marie it is very unwise and also against the law to spit against the wind.

Killer bees are northbound and are expected to reach the United States along about 1988. Brownsville, Texas is said to be their first stop and thence north to New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Bicycle tires made of silk are insisted upon by racers in France - they are said to give better traction.

The cost of burning a 100 watt light bulb is about a cent and a half an hour.

Deep in the tin mines at Cambourne, England, we see that the water that oozes from the rock walls is so hot that the miners can make instant tea with it and do.

Birds are often seen catching fish but not fish catching birds, but they do. Muskies, pike and European catfish lie along the surface and catch the skimming birds.

Athletic Complex Drive Successful

After a very prosperous and busy summer and fall, the Athletic Boosters can now stand back and boast that Manchester has one of the best High School Athletic Complexes in the state of Michigan. It was not an easy thing to accomplish and could only come about due to the enormous amount of work and time that the people of Manchester contributed to this project. Thanks to You, the Caring People of this town, everyone here can appreciate the Complex whether it be for football games, half time band concerts or track meets.

The Boosters would like to extend a special thanks to Jay Lantis for all of his financial donations. Jay allowed the Boosters to run a "grocery receipt" promotion from May 1985 to January 1986. Thanks to this promotion the Boosters received $3,127.62 from Jay. Also we would like to thank all of you who helped count the receipts, it was no small task.

Manchester Alumni to Hold 109th Reunion

The Manchester Alumni Association will hold its 109th Annual Reunion at the Manchester Emanuel United Church of Christ on June 14, 1986. Dinner will be served at 6:30. The cost is $8.50 per person. Toastmaster is Richard Rigg, Class of 1961.

Entertainment will be Boyer and Fitzsimmons Magic Act from Chelsea. Jeff Boyer and Jim Fitzsimmons met in the 7th grade and have been building their magic show for 15 years. They traveled for two years with a circus around the world. Their show is very comedy oriented - Smothers Brothers type - and they have won many awards for their performances, including Best Comedy and Best Magician awards in Ohio. They are working on building their show to be marketable to theaters around the country.

Manchester is one of the few schools that still has the all-school annual alumni meeting. Come and join your former classmates and reminisce with those you have not seen in a long time. It should be lots of fun and a very enjoyable evening.

Reservations must be placed by May 31st. Call Karen Smith, 428-8808.

Seegert Makes Her Mark In '86

Junior Alicia Seegert continued her assault on the Michigan record books as she broke six Volverine records in '86.

The Manchester, MI, native set new marks for doubles (10), and home runs (5) in a single season. She notched career records in hits (172), doubles (24) and home runs (10). More impressive than the records themselves is the fact that Seegert achieved the career marks in only three years.

Seegert was also voted to the first team All-Big Ten team for the second time in her career. Last year, she was a second team

Mrs. Jean Wisner Celebrates Special Birthday

On June 3rd, Mrs. Jean Wisner will be 80 years young. She has been almost a life-long resident of the Manchester area.

She is the daughter of Marian and Albert English of Iron Creek. Mrs. Wisner attended Manchester High School and graduated Valedictorian of her class in 1924. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from what was then Ypsilanti State Normal College - now Eastern Michigan University, in 1928. Her first teaching position was in Bayport, Michigan, where she worked with junior high children as an English teacher. Following that, she taught in several rural schools. In 1930, she traveled to Europe, typically, on her own. Little did she imagine that World War II would destroy so many of the beautiful landmarks she was seeing.

In 1938, she married Edward Wisner of Tipton. The couple had four children: Julia Foreman and Douglas Wisner of Tecumseh, Robert of Ames, Iowa, and Nancy DeWaard of Mundelein, Illinois.

Mrs. Wisner was a long-time teacher in Manchester Middle School. She would very much enjoy hearing from any of her former students on this special birthday. Her present address is: 11707 Wisner Hwy., Tecumseh, MI 49286.

Merit Awards Given

The University of Michigan has selected 440 top high school seniors from 376 schools throughout the state to receive Regents-Alumni Scholar Merit Awards for "outstanding academic achievement, scholarly promise and potential contribution to the University community." A total of 1,432 students were nominated for the merit award (financial need is not a consideration), based on their grades, class ranking and test scores. Nominees were interviewed by U-M alumni representatives in their hometown area and final decisions were made by the University Regents-Alumni Award Committee.

Students selected as Regents-Alumni Scholars will receive a $1,000 (non-renewable) scholarship when they enroll in the U-M at Ann Arbor in the fall of 1986. In addition, recognition certificates have been provided to the recipients' high schools for presentation at spring awards convocations.

Approximately 550 U-M alumni participated in the Regents-Alumni Scholars Program this year. The program is administered by the Alumni Association of the U-M in cooperation with the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. Monica Marie Simpson of Clinton-Manchester Road, Manchester was a recipient.

Letter To The Editor

Memorial Day Parade was well planned for everyone in the parade except the Manchester Band. You don't even acknowledge them in your news articles.

Where was the school bus to drive the band back to the school? The band is needed to play "Anchor's Away" for the Navy and "Taps".

Also needed at Wurster Park for playing "Star Spangled Banner" for the Flag raising. Needed again at Oak Grove Cemetery to play "Echo Taps" for the fellow Veterans who have died. They were not needed anymore so who cared how they got back to school? Well some parents did when

SPORT SHORTS

In 1986, more than 1.2 million Americans will participate in some 2,500 triathlons which have become the fastest growing participatory sport in America. The majority of triathlons feature a 1500 meter swim, a 40 kilometer bike race and a 10 kilometer run. Rapid growth of this sport is attributed to the American fitness boom and to growing cash purses such as "The Coca-Cola Grand Prix," $165,000 available for top-scoring in the Bud Light U.S. Triathlon Series. By 1992, the triathlon is expected to join the Olympic agenda.

Seegert Makes Mark

As usual, Seegert's name topped the offensive list for Michigan in '86. She led the team with a .353 average, and headed the list in doubles (10), hits (53), stolen bases (12), and RBI's (27). She finished fifth in the Big Ten at .296. In her three seasons at Michigan, Seegert has never batted under .300 for the overall

Deadline For Zero Interest Loans

The Department of Natural Resources and Department of Commerce are cooperating in the implementation of a revolving zero-interest loan program for qualified Michigan businesses seeking to implement resource recovery projects linked to economic development and energy conservation.

The deadline for submitting applications is July 1, 1986. The objectives of the Michigan Resource Recovery Loan Program is to assist businesses with significant waste disposal needs or with opportunities for the utilization of industrial and municipal solid waste, to reduce the flow of waste into Michigan's landfills, to develop economic activity and to conserve energy.

Loans will be available for recycling/composting projects and waste-to-energy systems. Loans are for fixed assets only, and projects must comply with all State and Federal statutes and applicable regulations.

Loan applications will be evaluated on the basis of waste flow reduction, technical feasibility, urgency of the local solid waste problem, waste recovery cost per ton, ability to repay the loan, economic development, savings to local government, environmental impact and energy savings.

For additional information and application materials, contact Mr. John Czarniecki of the Department of Commerce at 517-373-8495 or Ms. Robbe DiPietro at the DNR at 517-373-0540.

Calcium - Important To Your Nutrition

Make no bones about it, currently calcium is the buzz word of nutrition! The daily recommended amount of calcium for adults is 800 mg. but the National Institutes of Health recommend 1000 mg. for menopausal women and 1500 mg. for those who are postmenopausal. Illustrated, are the quantities of each food needed to give you 300 mg. 72% of the calcium in our food chain comes from the dairy group. 10% from the vegetable group and 9% from the meat or protein group.

Scientists are pointing to exciting new research which correlates lower calcium intake to increased incidence of osteoporosis and to higher blood pressure. The most current findings are showing that getting enough calcium in our diet may help lower the risk of colon cancer.

Choosing high calcium food in the right quantities helps assure that your body will not be deficient in calcium.

This is to identify the containers of food and the quantity. Starting at 12 o'clock and going clockwise:

FARM BUREAU INSURANCE GROUP

DID YOU KNOW?

The Proprietary Association represents manufacturers and distributors of non-prescription, over-the-counter (OTC) medicines such as pain relievers, cold medicines, antacids and many more. To help consumers protect themselves against criminal tampering of self-medication products, it has published a brochure: "Tips Against Tampering."

Look at a medicine package before you buy it for these safety signs:

- No bits of paper or glue on the rim of containers indicating it once had a seal that's no longer there.
- No breaks, cracks or holes in the outer wrapping or protective cover or seal.
- No disturbance of the outer covering.
- The plastic or other shrink band does not appear distorted or stretched. It's not been slit or retaped.
- The inner container cap is tight.

The information and the lot number on the container is the same as that on its outer wrapping or box. For a free copy of the brochure you can write to PA, Office of Public Affairs, 1150 Connecticut Avenue, NW, Washington DC 20036.

Your Penny: More Than All The Taxes Paid By The 50 Largest Corporations?

One penny. That may not seem like much to you, but it's more than all the taxes paid last year by 50 of the largest, most profitable US companies, and hundreds of millionaires. It's a fact that has many taxpayers up in arms these days, and they're doing something about it.

While even people below the poverty line shouldered a high tax burden, companies such as General Electric, ITT, Xerox, General Dynamics, Union Carbide, DuPont, Dow Chemical and Lockheed, among many others, didn't contribute a red cent. If they had paid what many consider their fair share, the federal budget wouldn't be so far in the red now, many experts agree—and Congress wouldn't be considering further reductions of vital domestic programs that keep this country strong.

- reduce military spending since the Pentagon should not be exempt from spending reductions in light of the sharp cutbacks experienced by domestic programs.
- raise new revenues to reduce the deficit by ensuring that rich people and giant corporations pay their fair share in taxes, such as by establishing a meaningful minimum corporate tax and closing tax loopholes.
- What's your opinion? Many Americans are letting their legislators know how they feel on this issue and others by writing the US Senate, Washington, DC 20510 and the House of Representatives, Washington, DC 20515.

Tracksters Shine at League Meet

Our boys track team came home with their best efforts of the year, and also with 10 medals in their pockets on Tuesday. "They displayed the greatest effort I've ever seen," said Joe Keister. You had to be there to really appreciate what these young guys did. Coaches from Napoleon (League Champs) told me how impressed they were with our team. That's how good these guys looked. Starting off the day of medal winning was John Curley in the High Jump (5'8") and 3rd place. Then our 800 Meter Relay Team of Mike Brokaw, Jon Arney, Dwayne Andrews, & John Curley came in 3rd place, 1:40.6. Good enough for medals! Our 400 Meter Relay team finished in 4th place (48.4) missing medals by one place and finishing only 2 tenths of a second out of 1st. That team was composed of Jon Arney, Allan Carson, John Curley, and Dwayne Andrews. Jon Arney won a medal in the 300 Yards by placing 3rd in (42.7). Then our 1600 Relay of Jon Arney, Brad Wilson, John Curley, and Brian Pilon brought home our final 4 medals of the day by placing 3rd in the race at 3:48.6. This race was especially sweet for senior Brian Pilon, he won his 1st medal of his career on the last leg of the last race of the meet, and of his high school career. Congratulations Brian and the rest of the Boy's Team. We would all like to congratulate Jodi Brokaw on her 2nd place and medal winning performance in the 100 Meter High Hurdles - Nice Job Jodi!

Senior Citizens

News

We know it's spring when weeds and mosquitoes start bugging us. But isn't it fun just to be outdoors again? On Thursday, May 29, maybe it will quit raining long enough to enjoy the Walking Club at 10:30, otherwise you can exercise in the dining room at Emanuel. Beef and Noodles will be served at noon, bingo and men's golf also that day.

Saturday, May 31, seniors will leave the Center at 10:00 a.m. for Ann Arbor. An exhibit at the Arborland Mall will feature what other Senior Center groups are busy with. 'Live and Learn' is the topic (we already think we have, but there is always something we can learn new.) Call Helen Braun.

Another month - June 3, Tuesday - Noon meal features roast pork and dressing. Cards and crafts will be enjoyed in the afternoon.

Thursday, June 5 - Walking Club at 10:30, exercise at 11:00. Stew and Ethel's good homemade biscuits at noon and men's golf.

Looking ahead: On Wednesday, June 11, seniors will leave the Center at 10:00 a.m. on a visit with Manchester area folks at the Saline Convalescent Home and participate in the Hospital program. This is a chance to add some joy to their day (and to yours.)

On Friday, June 13, make plans to accompany the group on an old fashioned picnic at Ellis Sharp Park in Jackson. There will be bus pickup if you are unable to meet at the Center. Leaving time will be at 11:00 a.m.

Drop in at the Center on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday this summer from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. to just chat, play a game of cards and have a cup of coffee. You may want to report that you have the biggest radishes in town. Bring them along and enjoy your Center.

The BACKYARD NATURALIST

By Craig Tufts, National Wildlife Federation

Mockingbirds Make Friends And Enemies

Mockingbirds are amazing. Virtually no other familiar bird sings such an incredibly varied song so noisily at such frequent intervals. Surely no other bird defends its territory more aggressively.

Mockingbirds can inspire love, awe, anger—and sometimes downright belligerence. Their antics have long been known in the South. However, over the past 30 or 40 years, northerners too have become well acquainted with "mockers" as the birds have pushed north (as far as New Hampshire, Maine and southern Canada). Apparently they've been attracted by an increasing abundance of suburban berry-bearing shrubbery. They've become a delight and/or an aggravation to a whole new audience.

Mockingbirds definitely do things their own way. Most birds confine their territory-marking to breeding seasons, usually when the male delineates the periphery of "his" chunk of earth by moving from song perch to song perch and vocalizing. Not so among mockingbirds. A female as well as a male will defend a separate winter territory against raids on staked-out food supplies such as berries and other fruits. If your bird feeder happens to lie within a mockingbird's territory, even though a mockingbird generally will not use a seed feeder, you can expect to see other birds chased off, even physically attacked.

Such assertive behavior can be especially distressing to you if you're trying to attract, feed and house bluebirds in an effort to increase the bluebird population. In late fall, both bluebirds and mockingbirds shift their diets from insects to fruit. Encourage bluebirds to remain in your yard through the winter by stocking an empty nest box with raisins and currants. The bluebirds will investigate the box and discover the food. The mockingbirds will likely never catch on that a favorite food is inside.

On the plus side of mockingbird behavior is the highly entertaining performance they can put on—in search of food, in defense of their territory, or during courtship. You can't dispute the charm of their versatile song—no matter how loud and long. And you can't help being amused when you see a mockingbird "wing-flashing." It goes into its act on the ground, stretching its wings forward in a stuttering manner. It's thought—though not proven—that on a sunny day the shadow of the fluttering wings may spook insects out of the grass. At any rate, when the bird spots a bug, it races roadrunner-fashion and/or flutters into the air to grab a flushed insect.

For mockingbirds all winter long, plant some of the fruit-bearing trees and shrubs that they prefer: wild grape, dogwoods, viburnums, hollies, mistletoe, or junipers. Multiflora rose is, in many areas, the mainstay of the mockingbird's winter diet. But it matches the mockingbird in aggressiveness and, in most areas, has been labeled a pest. Like the mockingbird, it has its downside, but both the mocker and the multiflora may deserve a place in your backyard wildlife habitat.

For a Backyard Wildlife Habitat information packet, contact the National Wildlife Federation, Dept. BN, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036-2266.

- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Arrange in a 3-quart shallow casserole dish. Combine remaining ingredients, except cornstarch. Pour over chicken, being sure all chicken is covered with sauce. Cover, marinate overnight. Remove chicken to roasting pan. Cover chicken with one-fourth marinade. Bake in 400° F oven 30 minutes. Pour remaining marinade into saucepan. Stir in cornstarch. Remove sauce from chicken with bulb baster; add to saucepan. Cook until sauce boils and thickens. Place chicken under broiler, 4 inches from heat, until it begins to brown. Serves 8.

Super Sandwich Scores Big Win

A hot and hearty sandwich is the ticket to good food, served easily and casually, on those important football Sundays. This year, serve a winner as you cheer your favorite team to victory!

Mexican Muffin Divan — grand prize winner in the Velveeta extra thick slices pasteurized process cheese national sandwich contest — is a hot, open face chicken salad sandwich made with chopped broccoli and sliced fresh mushrooms and served on an English muffin. Baked, topped with a slice of extra thick pasteurized process cheese spread, the sandwich is zesty with picante sauce and chopped green chiles. For this luscious and colorful sandwich creation, Mrs. Janice Elder, Spartanburg, SC, also won first prize in the contest. Hot and Hearty category and a total of $1,500.

Passing Lanes Ease Traffic Congestion

Summertime...and the traffic will be heavy on Michigan highways.

Particularly in the popular tourist areas "up north" where all but Interstate 75 Freeway and US-27 are two-lane roads carrying thousands of slow-moving trucks and recreational vehicles.

To handle such traffic, numerous additional lanes — commonly known as "truck climbing" or "passing relief" lanes — have been built or are being planned on the existing two-lane state highways.

A traffic relief lane begins when congestion problems become evident. MDOT engineers from the district headquarters and from the Traffic and Safety Division in Lansing check the traffic volume numbers, drive the road and choose an area where it is least difficult to build an extra lane without disrupting the environment or existing buildings.

Traffic relief lanes average at least a mile in length and cost about $400,000 to $500,000 per mile to build. Almost all are in rural areas of the state.

Running 90 miles northwest from near Clare is M-115, a hilly two-lane state highway that carries 2,000 to 6,000 vehicles a day...many are sportsmen and families from Michigan's central and southeastern counties.

"They're heading for a weekend of fishing or camping," says Stanley Blackledge, traffic engineer for the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), "and they're anxious to get there."

Trucks add to the congestion. To relieve the traffic backups, MDOT has constructed 18 truck-climbing and passing lanes on M-115 between Clare and Frankfort.

You will find traffic relief lanes on busy M-72 east and west of Traverse City, on M-37 south of Traverse City and on M-55 west from Cadillac to Lake Michigan salmon fishing at Manistee. Altogether there are approximately 30 passing lanes in the northwest Lower Peninsula.

There are about 20 of them in the western Upper Peninsula. When US-141 was rebuilt north and south of Crystal Falls during the early 1970's and 80's, the transportation department built five truck-climbing lanes into the long grades of the new highway. Steep hills on US-45 between Bruck Crossing and Rockland prompted construction of truck-climbing lanes in the early 1960's. Motorists also enjoy the passing lanes up the high slopes of M-28 in the Munising area.

Presently, two traffic relief lanes are under construction three miles west of St. Ignace on US-2, another busy tourist highway that yearly is being widened and upgraded to handle the U.P.'s continuing tourism growth.

Heavy truck traffic west of Grand Rapids prompted the department to construct passing lanes on M-45. And there is one on US-127 north of US-12 south of Jackson.

Three sites on US-23 between Alpena on the Lake Huron shore and Standish have been selected for passing lanes which are being designed to relieve the heavy recreational travel. They will be built in 1987. Throughout the state, other locations in need of relief lanes have been selected and are waiting for funds to build them.

"The cost of constructing traffic relief lanes is considerably less than building a multi-lane road," said Blackledge, "although in some cases we must purchase right-of-way."

The department hasn't had enough funds for widening all the highways leading to Michigan's many recreation areas, Blackledge says. "Traffic relief lanes should fit the bill," he says. "They move traffic more quickly and they reduce the speeds and wild passings by drivers too eager to get to their destinations."

Every year, foreign visitors spend about $14 billion in the U.S.

"A Cook's Tour" Now Available

"A Cook's Tour," an easy-to-use tour guide that provides Michigan travelers with a unique view of the state's agricultural landscape, is now available from the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

This colorful guide consists of 12 individual one-day motor tours complete with easy-to-follow directions. Each tour highlights a different region of the state and the products grown in that area. On the back of each tour are two recipes using the products featured in that tour as the main ingredients. The special design also makes them fit easily in your personal recipe box.

The convenient size of "A Cook's Tour" makes it ideal for storage in the glove compartment of your car. MDA suggests motorists keep it handy so it's readily available for a one day or weekend adventure through

What Kind of Image Should Farmers Project?

Accentuate the positive. If you focus on the negative, you'll create a situation for negative feedback.

Be honest. There's no use denying that your industry has problems. If you're asked why, explain what led to those problems as best you can, but be cautious about placing blame.

Project optimism. If you're "UP" about the future of agriculture, your publics will be, too. Let your pride in your industry and in your organization shine through in your conversations.

Be helpful. Answer questions to the best of your knowledge; offer to find answers to those you're unsure about.

Be a good listener. Communication is a two-way street. You have a story to tell; maybe your publics do, too.

Be confident. No one knows more about your industry than you do. You're the expert so relax and enjoy the interaction with your publics.

"No one can deny that we are going through a period of adjustment in American agriculture. It is an extremely painful adjustment during which we will see some of our members leave the farm for other vocations. It will be our challenge to deal with this painful adjustment, each individually and as an organization, with compassion and support. It is difficult, in a situation like this, to keep "up" about agriculture. But I think it is imperative that we do. We must project to all of our many publics that agriculture will survive this period of adjustment and once again become a dynamic industry."

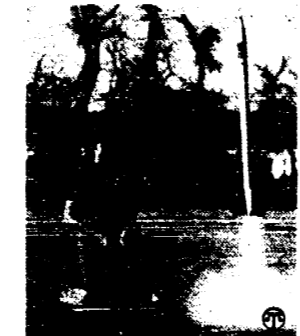

Elton R. Smith, President
Michigan Farm Bureau

MODEL ROCKETRY: THE EDUCATIONAL HOBBY

Model rocketry is blasting off in popularity, making it every year along with thousands of Scout, 4-H and Young Astronaut Programs. It promotes interest in science, math and other subjects. Model rockets also make terrific science fair projects.

More than 100 miniature space vehicles are available in kit form. Models include multi-stage rockets, space-ship designs, and scale models. Ranging from 6 inches to 6 feet tall, each lift-off just like the real thing and then returns gently to Earth by parachute. Some model rockets can fly to 2,000 feet and all can be launched again and again. Model rocketry is a tremendous teaching aid. More than 15,000 teachers use it every year along with thousands of Scout, 4-H and Young Astronaut Programs. It promotes interest in science, math and other subjects. Model rockets also make terrific science fair projects. Estes Industries, a leading manufacturer, receives many complimentary letters from parents concerning the general educational improvement of their children since they discovered model rocketry. Estes also provides a wealth of educational materials for teachers making it easy to use model rocketry in the classroom. Many of our country's Astronauts were also model rocketeers. Discover this exciting hobby by contacting your local hobby and toy retailer.

$MONEY MANAGEMENTS

Teaching Your Children Money Management

[Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants]

Early training in money management may be one of the best gifts you can give your children, and one that will benefit you as well. Guidance in earnings, budgeting, savings and paying bills will help your children handle money wisely as they grow older, and will give them a better understanding and appreciation for the financial problems you are facing right now. The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests some ways to begin teaching children to be good money managers.

These days, many parents are letting their children in on family discussions about money. Letting them know where your money comes from, how you manage your expenses and save for the future could provide lasting lessons on personal finance.

There is no one way, however, to teach your children the value of money. Families vary widely as to income and circumstances, but there are some basic guidelines that can help you decide what is best for your child.

The Allowance

The allowance, often the first money children receive regularly, also represents the first opportunity to provide guidance. How much of an allowance and how often you give it depends on family circumstances, and the child's age and ability to understand some fundamentals of money management. Do not give your child more money than is actually needed.

Once you settle on an amount, remember that it is your child's to do with as he/she pleases. Let the youth decide what he/she wants to do with the money, and if saving or budgeting are called for, show him/her how. Emphasize during family discussions the value of saving and provide good examples.

The Budget

As the children begin to earn money, their needs will start to resemble your own requirements for food, entertainment, clothing and special purchases. Let them understand how you budget, then help them start a system of their own. Ask the youth to list total income and all current or anticipated outlays, including savings. Finally, have the child compare the income against outlay and decide how much to set aside for each item. After a set period, look at the budget together and make needed adjustments.

Keeping track of the actual money can be tricky. The child might like to keep a separate envelope for each budget item, or keep all money in one place and record money deposited or withdrawn. Consider the amount of money involved and choose a method best for your child.

Savings

Suggest that savings be a budget item, and use this opportunity to teach the importance and benefits of saving. Remember, college is a long way off, so help the youth save for something that is meaningful now. The time to urge the child to start saving for college could start during the first year of high school. Parents might start saving for their children's education as soon possible.

Take the child with you to the bank and open an account in his or her name. Most families save less than 5 percent of their incomes, but because the child will pay little or no taxes, suggest that approximately 15 percent be put into the bank. Discuss with your child the reasons for borrowing, the practice of charging interest and the obligation to repay the loan. If a loan is made, the payments on the loan become an item for the budget.

Schools, youth organizations, as well as the Boy Scouts of America and Girl Scouts of the USA offer practical money management training. The Girl Scouts, for example, emphasizes shared decision makings and shared responsibility, as scouts plan, budget for, and pay for their various programs. The Boy Scouts, as part of its training, offers merit badges in banking and personal money management.

Encourage your children to participate in Junior Achievement at their school, which lets them take part in setting up and running a small business.

Good advice for parents when teaching money management is to show how the family deals with its financial obligations, using everyday situations as examples. When the neighbor hires your child to do chores, it could be an opportunity to discuss savings.

An education in personal financial management takes place piece-by-piece over a period of several years. But the rewards, for both the parents and the children, start immediately and last a lifetime.

open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 22 and 23 (Tuesday and Wednesday) and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 24. Field demonstrations will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday. A variety of tours and educational exhibits will round out the program.

The more than 50,000 people expected to attend the event will see more than 35 acres covered with just about every kind of equipment and supply needed for a good farm operation.

"I'd be very surprised if a farmer went away from Ag. Expo without at least one new idea that could benefit the farm operation", says Bill Bickert, Ag. Expo chairperson. "I don't know of another place in the state where farmers can see as varied and as broad a collection of the latest farm equipment and production guidelines as they can see at Ag. Expo."

The main exhibition area, located at Farm Lane and Mt. Hope, will hold displays worth millions of dollars. Visitors can see irrigation systems; field machinery; dairy equipment and supplies; livestock handling equipment; grain harvesting, handling and storage systems; crop sprayers; farm buildings; and seed and fertilizer supplies and services.

A wide variety of university educational exhibits are being planned for Ag. Expo. Most of these will answer questions on crop insect, weed and disease control, soil testing and erosion prevention, computerized farm record keeping, livestock health management and other farm-related topics.

Daily field demonstrations will focus on how to establish a good forage stand and harvest a quality product, guidelines for selling forage as a cash crop and the importance of testing forage samples. There will also be a trouble-shooting clinic for forage equipment.

Ag. Expo is sponsored by the MSU Department of Agricultural Engineering, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with exhibitors from 16 states and Canada.
