Next Week Is The Fair!

The summer has rolled around to fair time already. Next week Manchester's annual event takes place for the umpteenth time. The fair is an opportunity for people to show their stuff, whatever that may be - a steer, a lamb, a tractor that can pull, a good loaf of bread, a quilt, a bouquet of home-grown flowers, a giant zucchini, almost anything.

It's a chance for everybody to have some fun.

The fair will accept exhibits on Monday evening, August 18, from 6:00 - 8:00 p.m. and on Tuesday morning from 9:00 a.m. - noon. Judging takes place in the afternoon and the fair officially opens at 5:30 p.m. with the parade. The Queen Contest takes place later in the evening.

The fair will feature live professional entertainment every night. Tuesday night after the Queen Contest, Bacus Boy performs. Wednesday will see Gemini, Thursday the L Three Dulcimer Band, Friday - Tracy Lynne and the Mountain Express, and finishing things up on Saturday will be Linke and

by Farley

I suppose it had to happen sooner or later and it has. For some time there has been on the market books or booklets containing an alphabetical list of possible names for the new baby in your home in case you don't have a rich relative to name it after. Believe it or not, there is offered for sale a booklet containing a list of names for your new canine quadruped (dog).

Listed therein are the names of many famous canines of the past and many of these you know and remember. For instance, there is Daisy, Marmaduke and Sandy or Duke or Rin Tin Tin, Old Yeller, Bengie, Kazan Dog of the North, Grayfriar's Bobby, Paj, Penrod's little dog Duke, FDR's dog Fala, and Checkers Nixon.

But you will notice that no where are there dogs named Rover, Spot nor Fido on this list. But why should there be?

People's first names have changed radically during the last generation so why not dog's names too? We used to have lots of Hiram, Elijahs, Jethroes, Adams and other Biblical names but they are gone - replaced by modern first names like Robert, Michael, William, Waldo and many others.

Many well known people have dogs with clever names. One chap who named his dog Ralph said he did so because it sounded nice. Another chap I know calls his dog Beauragard Nuggleboy and still another one's name is Murgatroyd. And that's no worse than the doctor who named his Suture. There is also the lawyer who calls his two dogs Habeus and Corpus. We also know a tiny Pekinese who answers to the name Fang. Then there is the chap we used to know who had a beautiful English Bulldog who answers to the name Dammit and he used to stand on the back porch and call him long and loudly.

Beginning when we were some ten years old, we have had a parade of Cocker Spaniels who all were easy going, friendly characters. I don't remember where they got their names but the procession consisted of Donald, Skippy, Rufus, Buddy and Laddie. Now we have a golden Cocker who answers to the name Sunny, especially when called at

Picnic Was A Big Success

121 additional Michigan high school students are recipients of the University's Regents Scholarship Awards. EMU's Regents Scholarship is a $1,500 award, renewable for four years and is one of the most prestigious awards offered by the University. Recipients are required to have at least a 3.75 high school grade point average and test scores of at least 24 on the American College Test or 1050 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. Recipients of the scholarship must maintain a 3.5 grade point average at EMU to renew the award annually. Robert W. Smith, of 424 Lafayette, received the scholarship for Manchester High School. Parents relaxed by the lake, enjoying the good company and playing cards. The younger group all had a grand time with fishing, swimming, canoeing, row boating and playing with other fun things, generously provided by the Carsons. The picnic lunch of delicious sloppy joes, chips, ice cold pop and many good pot-luck dishes all received many compliments. It was agreed all around that the picnic was a big success. We are all looking forward to being together again in September.

Prenatal Care

It is important that you see a doctor or visit a clinic as soon as you think you may be pregnant. The sooner you have a pregnancy test and find out for sure that you are going to have a baby, the sooner you can begin proper prenatal care. Prenatal care is the health care you receive before your baby is born. Prenatal care is especially important at the start of your pregnancy because your baby will be developing rapidly — more rapidly, I suspect, than most mothers realize. Were you aware that all of the baby's major organs will be formed during the first 12 weeks of pregnancy and that your health behaviors during this period may have a significant effect on the baby? Don't hesitate to ask questions about anything you don't understand, and be sure to tell your doctor if you have any physical problems, if you are under stress or if you have any other special concerns. Your doctor needs to know how your pregnancy is affecting you and your family. After your first prenatal visit, you'll be scheduled for regular obstetrical checkups — about once a month for the first six months, every two weeks during the seventh and eighth months and, most likely, once a week after that until the baby is born. During these visits, your weight, blood pressure and urine will be checked and your abdomen will be measured to see how the baby is growing. It's important that you keep all your checkup appointments. These examinations help insure that your pregnancy is progressing normally; and if a problem does occur your doctor can deal with it promptly. Between visits, if anything unusual should happen — something that you think or your doctor has told you might be a cause for alarm, such as spotting — be sure to let your doctor know right away. Remember, your good health is vital to your baby's growth and development. So, take care of yourself, right from the start. See your doctor early and keep all followup appointments. Always ask any questions you may have and follow your care plan to give your baby a healthy start in life.

most important time; financial arrangements can be worked out at the clinic or doctor's office. During your first visit, which will probably take longer than later appointments, your doctor will give you a thorough physical examination and have a number of laboratory tests done to check for any possible health problems. The doctor also will question you about your medical history — especially about previous pregnancies and their outcome, such as high blood pressure or diabetes, that might need special attention. Your pregnancy is bound to bring you some mixed emotions. And your feelings will change, perhaps many times, during the course of your pregnancy. Ask the doctor to explain the changes that are taking place in your body and how you can expect to feel. He or she will give you a care plan covering what you should do to assure a safe delivery and a healthy baby. You should eat the right foods and get the recommended amounts of rest and exercise. Stay away from substances that can harm you and your baby — alcohol, cigarettes and drugs or medicines your doctor didn't prescribe.

Money Management

Financial Planning For The Baby

What seems to surprise many new parents is the sheer number and variety of costs associated with having a baby, ranging from medical expenses to food, clothing and furniture, to name just a few. As you budget for these new expenses, the Michigan Association of CPAs urges that you also review your savings plan, your insurance and your will — three sometimes overlooked but important financial considerations.

College may seem to be a long way off with the baby not yet out of diapers. But starting early to save for college is prudent and less painful because you can start with small amounts and take more time to reach your goal. College costs vary widely and are difficult to predict, say, 18 years down the road. But let's say you decided to shoot for saving $100,000. Over an eighteen-year period you need only invest $2,870 a year at an interest rate of eight percent to earn that amount (before taxes). Wait only five years longer to begin saving and you would have to invest about $4,850 a year to reach the same figure. Think about setting up a tax-advantaged fund that allows you to defer income tax. For example, a $100 US Savings bond, representing one of the simplest ways of saving money, could yield 7.5 percent interest over a ten-year maturity period. In the early years, while your child is in a low tax bracket, you may elect to pay taxes at the child's rate rather than defer taxes. Also think about shifting income to your child through an arrangement such as a trust or custodial account. Remember that control of the assets is often forfeited. Tax reform may reduce some of the benefits, so consult a CPA to help you determine what is best for you.

Before the baby's arrival, take a look at your health insurance. Comprehensive family health insurance policies could cost as much as $3,000 a year, but will go a long way in covering hospital fees, physicians' fees and some other expenses. Your company may offer much of the coverage you need under a group insurance program at a lower amount than you would otherwise pay for coverage under an individual policy.

Check with your employer to see if a health maintenance organization (HMO) is offered as an alternative to traditional health insurance. A yearly fee typically buys unlimited medical care for an entire family. Review your life insurance. Determine how much is needed to maintain a similar lifestyle and provide for your family in the event one of you dies. What kind of insurance do you need? The answer depends largely on personal preference. Three basic types are renewable term, whole life and universal life. Term insurance, generally the least expensive, insures a person for a period of time for a set amount. Whole life, the most expensive, offers lifetime coverage and a savings component that you can borrow against. Universal life is a combination of term insurance and interest paying, tax-deferred savings. If you have a will, you may want to change it now. Which assets should you leave to your spouse? How would you provide for the future support of your child? Be sure to name a legal guardian for the child in the event both parents die. Without a will, the potential for court costs and lawyer's fees will be higher in order to cover the cost of administering the estate. It's always smart to have control of your finances, but the arrival of a new family member is a particularly good time to talk to a CPA about reviewing your financial needs.

A comprehensive plan includes both basic protection, which covers hospitalization and physician expenses and major medical, which offers additional hospital and doctor coverage when basic protection benefits are exhausted. Some health insurance policies don't cover obstetrical fees and most other policies traditionally do not pay for normal pediatrician visits and immunizations. Still other policies may not yet cover the costs of prenatal vitamins, genetic counseling and other services. Once you pay a deductible, usually $200 to $600, a good policy can help control your maternity medical costs.

Flying Equestrians 4-H Club

The Flying Equestrians 4-H Club of Manchester achieved a remarkably successful week at the annual Washtenaw County 4-H Fair in Saline. Eight members showed this year accumulating an all-time personal high of 45 ribbons, eight of which were for first place and nine for second.

First and second place winners of each class become qualified for the evening championship classes, which then become the basis for determining our county representatives to the State 4-H finals in Lansing.

Because of their placings in the preliminary classes, seven of the members qualified for the championship classes with an amazing seventeen entries. Special congratulations go to Mary Cleland who received a Reserve Championship in Western Equitation; Karla Raab for Reserve Champion in Pony English Pleasure and Pony Western Pleasure. Both Mary and Karla will be attending the State 4-H competition in Lansing on August 19, 1986.

The Flying Equestrians this year welcomed the capable new leadership of Dr. Vera Kluwe and Marcia Adams due to the retirement of long-time leader Gary Shear. Through their devotion and time-consuming efforts, the Club was able to compete very successfully, managing a 4-H Club is a year long task, and this year included working with three new members. For all the hard work and time that Dr. Kluwe and

Marcia Adams put into the Club the Flying Equestrians and their parents say, "Thank You!"

Each year the Club votes on which member they feel has exhibited a spirit of sportsmanship and cooperation. This year, Mandy Winkler received the Club's Sportsmanship award.

Although the Club is primarily a horse project, a few of our members also participate in other 4-H projects. Contributing members were Mary Cleland photography; Jessica Burby rug-hooking; Karla Raab creative writing and rug-hooking; Sue Anne Rafalski photography; and Mandy Winkler painting, wreaths, cross-stitch and rug-hooking.

Individual accomplishments in the Horse Project were:

Jessica Burby on Chickie: 2nd Showmanship; 1st Western Equitation; 5th Western Pleasure. Mary Cleland on Shady: 2nd Showmanship; 1st Western Equitation; 4th Western Pleasure; Western Equitation Reserve Champion; 5th Flag Race; 4th Speed-n-Action.

Kristen Houck on Mau: 3rd Showmanship; 2nd Western Equitation; 2nd Western Pleasure; Western Pleasure Reserve Champion.

Karla Raab on Honey: 4th Showmanship; 2nd Pony English Pleasure; Reserve Champion Pony English Pleasure; 2nd Pony Western Equitation; 2nd Pony Western Pleasure; Reserve Champion Pony Western Pleasure; 4th Dressage; 4th Pole Bending; 4th Cloverleaf; 4th Flag Race; 3rd Speed-n-Action.

Sue Anne Rafalski on Tony: 5th Showmanship; 6th Western Equitation; 3rd Western Pleasure. Sara Samonek on Zetta: 6th

Showmanship; 6th Western Equitation; 2nd Western Pleasure; 5th Speed-n-Action; 5th Cloverleaf.

Rebecca Scherdt on Bee-Bee: 1st Showmanship; 1st Western Equitation; 1st Western Pleasure; 4th Flag Race; 6th Pole Bending; 6th Speed-n-Action.

Mandy Winkler on Handy: 1st Showmanship; 2nd Western Equitation; 1st Western Pleasure; 6th Flag Race.

Experimental Technology Brought To Michigan

Experimentation with a "Cookie Cutter," technology never before used in Michigan, has resulted in progress at the Bengal Wetland Restoration Project. The Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation is attempting to restore water levels in the marsh located in the Waterloo Recreation Area (Jackson County).

Developed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Florida, the Cookie Cutter was designed to open aging marshes and solve aquatic weed growth problems and management. Propelled by two frontal rotating blades, the 6,000-pound aluminum barge cuts through choked channels exposing water and reducing vegetation to a depth of three feet. The machine is being used to counteract succession by creating an interspersed open water and vegetation.

"The problems presented at the Bengal site are difficult because of low water levels and unstable soils," said Foundation Executive Director Dennis Fjalkowski. "What we're trying to do with the Cookie Cutter really represents an experimental application of this equipment in Michigan. The Department of Natural Resources has wanted to restore productivity to this marsh for 39 years. We feel we're finally making progress."

Fall Tree Sale Announced

Six species will be available: Austrian Pine, White Pine, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Colorado Blue Spruce, and Douglas Fir. Orders with payment in full will be accepted until Friday, October 3, 1986.

Trees can be picked-up on Wednesday, October 8, and Thursday, October 9, at the Soil Conservation District Office, between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.
