Mrs. Grantham and contest winner Amber Burkhardt

What would you invent if you could? Students in Mrs. Grantham's third grade class gave a great deal of thought to that question. All the students designed their own inventions to enter in the Weekly Reader Invention Contest. Responses ranged from simple to fantastically futuristic. Everyone had a different idea!

Amber Burkhardt designed the winning entry—a television lunch box to while away time on a long bus ride home.

Her design featured a television screen mounted onto the side of a lunch box.

Congratulations Amber and to all the students who created their own designs.

Athletic Boosters Meeting

There will be an Athletic Booster meeting on Wednesday, December 8, 1986 at the high school in the library. All interested Boosters are urged to attend.

Authorizes Expenditures For Band Uniforms

Following a presentation to the Board of Education by Band Booster leaders Nancy Houck and Sally Anderson, the Board of Education took action to direct the superintendent to negotiate with uniform suppliers for the purchase of sixty (60) new band uniforms.

The Boosters will donate $9,000 to the school district for this purchase. It is estimated that cost will be approximately $13,000.

Using rather conservative projection estimates, it is believed that by the 1987-88 school year the number of students enrolled in band at the high school will be approximately 80. Currently forty students are in the band. These estimates are based upon the large numbers of students enrolled at the middle school level.

In addition to the sixty (60) uniforms which will be purchased immediately the Board agreed to budget for an additional twenty uniforms in the next fiscal year. Several Board members commented agreeing with the Boosters that the purchase of uniforms is a school district responsibility just as for athletics.

The new uniforms will be seen on Manchester Band members in the Fall of 1986.

Farmer Tells Merchants How To Advertise

Manchester Enterprise
January 9, 1986

The following letter was received by the editor of the Alexandria Citizen, published at Alexandria, Minn., the writer being a farmer reader of that paper.

If the mail order houses get $1,000 out of this county each month that belongs to the home merchants, as you say they do, the fault is with the merchants themselves. The mail order house advertises, and gives us prices on everything they offer for sale. They tell us what they have and what they want for it. Of course we get soaked once in a while, and if we do we can try some other house.

"Most of the home merchants who advertise at all don't quote prices. They neglect to tell us what we want to know, the price and the goods they have. Of course we can go to the store and ask the price of this article and that, but you know how it is, one doesn't know so well exactly what he wants to buy when he gets in a store. And here is where the mail order house makes the hit. They send us their advertising matter into our homes, and we read it when we haven't anything else to do, and every member of the family sees something that he or some other member of the family wants, and many orders are made up and sent out at just such times.

"Right here is where the home merchant falls down. If he talked up his business to us in our homes the same as the mail order houses do, the people would be in to see him the next time they went to town, and in many cases extra trips would be made to get the things at once that we didn't know we wanted, until they were brought to our attention.

"The home merchant can save the expense of getting out a catalogue. We people read the home papers more carefully than we do the catalogues, and read them every day and if the merchant wants to talk in the papers he must put his ad in so we know what he means. The home merchant likely, nine times out of ten, sells his goods as cheap as the mail order house, and I believe on many things they are cheaper, but how are we to know it if he doesn't tell us about it. A merchant must not think even his best customers know his goods so well that they can tell what he has without being told.

"It is none of my business how the home merchant runs his business, but I don't like to see these roasts in the papers at all times about us fellows who get a little stuff shipped in once in a while and never anything said on the other side. There are always two sides to a question and I have given you mine. If it is worth anything to you, you can take it.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Board of Education Move To Reduce Telephone Cost

In action taken at the regular Board of Education meeting on Monday, December 16, the Manchester Schools will begin modifying its telephone as part of a cost cutting effort. The Board of Education took action to adopt the AT&T Merlin System at a purchase price of $280 per month for five years. Currently the school district rents telephone from AT&T at a cost of $458 a month. Superintendent of schools Gene Thompson stated, "I was pleased to make this recommendation to the board. This purchase will save the school district a minimum of $6,350 over the next five years. That assumes no additional rate increases which seems very unlikely. The purchase was made with no down payment. In addition to reducing our monthly costs we will gain better control over unauthorized long distance calls.

This is the kind of investment I have attempted to recommend to the Board over the years. It improves our service and reduces our cost at the same time. In the end it means more dollars available for education."

Local Man Sentenced

Donald Smith, who was convicted November 7, 1985, of third degree criminal sexual conduct, has been sentenced to three to fifteen years with credit for the forty-four (44) days spent in the county jail.

Law Prohibits Snow Dumping

Property owners piling snow high along roadways and shoulders or pushing it to the opposite side of the street without clearing debris can cause hazardous conditions for motorists, and the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) warns that it's also against the law. MDOT said state law (P.A. 82 of 1978) prohibits businesses and citizens from dumping snow on roadways and shoulders or piling it so high at driveway entrances that it obstructs the vision of motorists.

The department recommends residents keep the shoulder in front of their driveways clear and also clear snow for a short distance from the driveway in the direction of approaching traffic. "That way the view of a motorist entering the roadway from a driveway is not obstructed," explained Maurice E. Witteveen, MDOT's chief of maintenance.

"When clearing your driveway," he said, "push the snow away from the roadway and to the sides of the driveway for its full length and the problem of the high snow banks blocking a driver's view will be eliminated." Witteveen said large businesses should make special arrangements ahead of time to remove snow from their driveway entrances and driveways. In some cases it may be necessary to truck snow away from parking facilities.

Violators leave themselves open to fines and lawsuits for public liability and property damage. For a charge to be filed, a police officer must witness the violation or a citizen must file a complaint. All property owners and persons hired to remove snow are responsible for maintaining safe traffic conditions and preventing careless snow-removal techniques.

By the time you get the experience that he demands he's looking for someone younger.

Gardening Program To Be Offered

If you are an avid gardener, and if you enjoy sharing your knowledge with other people, the Master Gardener Program of the Michigan State University Extension Service is the perfect educational program for you.

The Washtenaw Cooperative Extension Service is looking for a few enthusiastic people to participate in a ten-week training program. During this program, Cooperative Extension staff members from several counties provide intensive training on a wide variety of horticultural subjects. Included are lawns, vegetables, houseplants, flowers, fruit, trees and shrubs, and biologically safe pest controls. At the conclusion of the class, students must pass a comprehensive test.

Master Gardener candidates are required to donate thirty hours of their time during the gardening season to community projects in order to become accredited. These projects include working with youth or seniors on gardening projects, maintaining the Extension Exhibit Flower Garden, answering garden questions on the Extension phones and giving garden talks to local clubs and organizations. Students may select the areas in which they wish to participate.

Meetings will be held for ten consecutive Thursdays, starting February 6th in the Cooperative Extension Building in the Washtenaw County Service Center at Washtenaw and Hogback Roads. Class times are from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. with an hour break for a sack lunch. The fee is $40.00, including reference materials. The Master Gardener Program, as with all other Cooperative Extension Service programs, is open to all regardless of race, color, creed, handicap, sex or national origin. To register for the class, call 973-9510 and ask for an application form. Enrollment is limited, so call as soon as possible.

May you find success, good health and many friends through the days yet to come.

To The "Victor Go The Spoils"

To the "victor go the spoils" or in the case of State Senator Lana Pollack, a basket of buckeyes!
 The Ann Arbor lawmaker was on the receiving end following a friendly wager with Ohio State Senator Eugene Watts of Columbus on the November 23rd football game between the University of Michigan Wolverines and the Ohio State Buckeyes.
 Along with the basket of buckeyes came a photograph of Watts, keeping his other half of the wager, singing a chorus of "Hail to the Victors" on the 50-yard line of Ohio Stadium.
 "The actual wager was a bushel of buckeyes for a bushel of Washtenaw County apples," Pollack said after receiving her nearly empty basket of buckeyes. "I suppose the Ohio Senator has learned what we have known for a long time.
 "A few buckeyes go a long way," Senator Pollack joked.

TEST YOUR WINTER DRIVING I.Q.

- 1) T. F. A new battery has as much power at 0 degrees as it does at 80 degrees.
- 2) T. F. Pump repeatedly on the accelerator if your car will not start in cold weather.
- 3) T. F. The first thing to do when a car starts sputtering is apply the brakes.
- 4) T. F. The best way to free a frozen lock is to pour hot water on it.
- 5) T. F. Bundle up and walk to find help if your car becomes stuck in a heavy snow storm.
- 6) T. F. You do not have to worry about carbon monoxide poisoning when traveling in a car.
- 7) T. F. Keep your gasoline tank at least half-full during cold weather.
- 8) T. F. Spinning a car's tires in the deep snow will free a stuck car.

ANSWERS
 1) F—At 0, a battery's starting power is 65 percent of what it is at 80. 2) F—Depress the gas pedal to the floor, release and start the engine. Check the owner's manual for specific starting instructions. 3) F—Applying the brakes can lock the wheels and eliminate steering capability. Instead, to straighten a skidding car, steer in the direction you want the front end to go. 4) F—The lock may re-freeze. Repeatedly heat and insert the car key or use a commercial de-icing spray. 5) F—Stay with the car as you could become disoriented, lost and suffer exposure by walking for help. 6) F—Fumes from a leaky exhaust system could seep in the passenger compartment of a car even with the windows closed. Always keep a window partially open. 7) T—The more gasoline in your tank, the less chance of fuel-line freeze. 8) F—Gently rock the car back and forth.

$ MONEY MANAGEMENT $

Preparing A Personal Financial Statement Now Gives Direction For 1988

Year-end is a good time to take stock of your financial situation and draw up a personal financial statement. This will give you a good idea of where you stand and get the new year off to a good start, says the Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA).

A personal financial statement can help you with tax and retirement planning, budgeting, investing and obtaining bank loans. It's a tool that can help you plan for growth and achieve your goals. After you've done it once, it'll be a cinch to update.

A personal financial statement tells you what you are worth. Your net worth is the excess of what you own over what you owe. If you owe more than you own, as many people do these days, you have a negative net worth. In that case, a personal financial statement is especially important because it will help you design a plan to change that situation.

To start writing a personal financial statement, list all that you own—your assets—in a single column. Items include cash on hand or in deposit accounts, IOUs, investments and any other money that is owed you. In addition, include the current value of your home, furnishings, cars and other belongings that could be converted to cash. Similarly, you will also put on that list the cash surrender value of your life insurance and the vested interest you may hold in an employer pension plan. Alongside each item, list the date and purchase price. This will help you compute any capital gain or loss if you sell the asset.

In addition, if you have money tied up in closely-held businesses, show it in single amounts. Don't try to break down a company's financial situation within your statement. That will only blur the picture. If you have an Individual Retirement Account or a Keogh retirement account, list the cash value minus the penalty you would have to pay if you withdrew the money today.

In another column, list all your liabilities—what you owe. It might be unpleasant, but include all your debts and outstanding bills, such as charge accounts. Don't forget your tax obligations, the unpaid balance on your mortgage and any outstanding personal loans.

Add up the two columns and subtract the liabilities from the assets. The result is your net worth. To get a clearer picture, however, it is necessary to go one step further and determine what changes there have been in your net worth over the past year.

Once again, make two columns. In one column list figures for increases in the market value of your assets or any securities over the last year. List increases in salary, savings, gains on sales of assets, increases in the market value of securities and additions to your equity in profit-sharing plans. Now compare it with decreases in assets during the past year to determine any progress. Decreases may include all of your expenditures for the year plus losses in the value of assets, taxes and interest expenses.

In simplified terms, you now have a document similar to what a CPA uses—a two-fold statement consisting of a balance sheet and a funds statement. However, there are some fine points that are worth taking time to review.

For instance, if your financial statement covers not just you but your spouse and other members of your family, be sure to make a clear distinction between those assets and liabilities that are solely yours and those that are shared. Likewise, if property is held in joint tenancy, or as community property, specify that in the statement.

By tracking your net worth from year to year, you can gain greater control of your financial future. With any luck, it should provide a realistic starting point from which you can begin an examination of your investments, insurance, savings and retirement programs.

Available now through the MACPA is a brochure entitled "Find Out What Your Worth With Your Own Personal Financial Statement." This brochure will enable you to list your assets and liabilities and find your net worth. To receive a complimentary copy, contact the Association at PO Box 9054, Farmington Hills, MI 48018 or telephone (313) 855-2288.

High Blood Pressure?

Only your doctor can tell. Like more than 10 million other Americans, you could have high blood pressure and not know it until it leads to stroke, heart or kidney failure. It has no special symptoms and often gives no warning. But your doctor can detect high blood pressure (he may call it hypertension) and usually control it. So see your doctor... and follow his orders.

Doctors Warn Against Snow Shoveling

If the thought of a snow-covered driveway propels you out of bed looking for the snow shovel, you may want to reconsider. Cold air and hard work can be a double-whammy for your heart. Statisticians show that there are more hospital admissions for heart conditions in any year when blizzard conditions prevail. Snow-shoveling is thought to be a major contributor to these unexpected fatalities.

More than 42 million Americans have some form of heart disease. Usually, the condition develops silently over many years. The first signal may be sudden chest pain, brought on by emotional stress or physical activity. Snow-shoveling happens to be very intense exercise. It is doubly dangerous, because the heart needs more oxygen to handle the added workload, but the cold acts against the delivery of oxygen by constricting the arteries and limiting the amount of blood available to the heart. This state of imbalance—when the heart's need for oxygen is greater than its supply—always sets the stage for angina, or sometimes an even more serious cardiac event.

Any kind of chest pain should be diagnosed by a physician. It may simply be heartburn or another temporary condition, but the possibility of heart disease must be considered. Most patients with chest pain have coronary arteries that are permanently obstructed by deposits of fatty plaque, the most common form of heart disease. While it is impossible to cure this problem, it can be effectively treated with a number of medications. A very interesting new class of prescription drugs for this purpose are the calcium antagonists, such as Cardizem or diltiazem. They are very effective in reducing the number of chest pain episodes without causing fatigue.

Doctors like to keep their heart patients active and following regular exercise programs. But they are quick to point out that snowshoveling is out of the question for people with heart problems and should probably be avoided by anyone who is middle-aged and out of physical condition.

Holiday Beef Roast Helps You Entertain With Ease

The holiday season is a wonderful time to welcome friends and family into your home to enjoy good food and good cheer. But do time limitations keep you from entertaining as much as you would like?

Company-special meals don't necessarily have to be complicated and time-consuming. A beef rib roast, a holiday tradition for centuries, is a delicious example of an entree that's elegant yet easy to prepare. The roast is so impressive standing by itself that no extra frills such as stuffings or sauces are needed.

For roast beef at its tender, juicy best, be sure to use a slow constant roasting temperature and avoid overcooking. The length of cooking time can be estimated by using the minute per pound recommendations given in the recipe. However, these times should be used only as guidelines. A meat thermometer is essential for determining exact degree of doneness.

A beef rib roast is an excellent choice for a special holiday meal for it comes from the prestigious and naturally tender rib section of the beef carcass. Rib roasts usually contain two to four ribs. Those cut from the large end of the rib section, which is adjacent to the chuck section, contain more of the cap muscle than those cut from the small end, which is adjacent to the loin section. The small end roast is composed primarily of the eye muscle which is more tender than the cap.

To serve the beef roast with warm sunny accents, surround it with Glazed Oranges. Peeled orange halves are heated with a sweet and spicy syrup that hints of almond-flavored liqueur. Garnished with watercress or mint leaves, the orange halves make a most colorful platter partner for the beef.

For an easy yet impressive Yuletide meal, serve a beef rib roast with spicy orange garnishes.

- Beef Rib Roast
6 to 8-pound beef rib roast (2 to 3 ribs)
Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part of roast. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in 325°F (slow) oven to desired degree of doneness. Allow 23 to 25 minutes per pound for rare, 27 to 30 for medium and 32 to 35 for well done. Allow roast to "stand" 15 to 20 minutes in a warm place before carving. Roasts continue to rise about 5°F in temperature to reach 140°F for rare; 160°F for medium; 170°F for well done.
Note: A beef rib roast will yield two 3-ounce cooked servings per pound
- Glazed Oranges
4 medium oranges
1/3 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 tablespoon almond-flavored liqueur
8 sprigs mint leaves or watercress, if desired
Pare oranges; cut each crosswise in half. Combine corn syrup, sugar, cinnamon and almond-flavored liqueur in large frying pan and heat until hot, stirring occasionally. Add orange halves and cook slowly 15 minutes, spooning syrup over oranges occasionally. Garnish with watercress or mint leaves, if desired. 8 servings.

Hit or Miss

by Farley

A considerable number of reporters and columnists have recently been intrigued with the fact that our lives nowadays are tied up with what one of them calls alphabet soup. They point out the fact that our electrical house current is AC, not DC and that nowadays we can get both AC and DC on most any radio. Some radios also work without AC if you put in them D batteries, but the TV is far different.

One plugs your TV into AC and you get either UHF or VHF. VHF gets you either CBS, ABC, or NBC and in most locations PBS without UHF.

VHF then brings you ABC, CBS, and NBC and on these stations you hear a lot about GE, GM, IBM, and TRW. You're also informed about what's doing with the USSR, the AFL-CIO, the UN, the UAW, the OAS, NATO, NASA and on the sports scene about the Oakland A's says one expert.

But that's only a beginning. For greater variety you need CATV which you can supplement with a VCR. With one of them you can get in the best from LA most nights. You can also have your choice of G, PG, PG-13, R, or X.

The VCR comes in two alphabets, which is English or Beta which is Greek which I guess is something like the Beta in Phi Beta Kappa.

One chap I know who has it says that his VCR is VCS and that he put it in himself by detaching the CATV wire from his TV and running a VCR wire from the other VHF receptacle over to the TV. He must have done it right because it turned out OK. The first program he got on it was about a bunch of space folks who said "A-OK," but the movie was not interrupted by commercials. He said however it was just B-OK and in it they had some newsreel film about JFK but that they had an actor playing LBJ who did so with a whine. Another fellow played Ike who never became known as DDE although he was said to sign his memos DDE. Neither HST or FDR never appeared in any of the lifted newsreel film.

One chap reports that the movie industry has gone alphabet conscious with such abbreviations as MTL (much too long), EOP (egregiously over-priced), ODODE (outrageous display of directional ego). It was good to see though the X-1, X-15 and X-16 even though mixing the letters and the numbers left him queasy or PDQ as it is called by the alphabetical experts.

It seems to me that it is getting hard for anyone who is not an alphabetical expert without first mastering alphabetical English.

I just can't keep up with things anymore I guess. I was thinking that I don't know what we did without it however. I can't imagine reading in the history books about Thomas Jefferson getting around in his BVD's minding his P's and Q's, reading a memo from the VPW about scandalous doings in the VA, or being told that George Washington, by adding CATV to his TV set would be able to escape those BED&O commercials and to pick up a lot more of the NFL, NBA or NHL than he was getting on his standard VHF hookup. The trend that is reducing English to an alphabetical affair is quite modern. Who would have thought that the day would come when half the western world would be intrigued by the question "Who shot JR?"

The experts say this alphabetical English can be due to a desperate attempt to keep communications open when the incomprehensible nature of formal English threatens to shut it down. Others say it is just a mischievous impulse to "resist the calcification of the language" by keeping it as breezy as a tabloid headline. Whatever the explanation the mother tongue is anything but A-OK and it's getting murkier every day. But with the right maps and a little luck you can still use it to get a VCR going without electrocuting yourself.

Warmest greetings of the season. Special thanks to our customers and friends.
