Monster Cat Stalks The Midwest

By Bill Stokes
Reprint from Chicago Tribune

The ultimate black cat, big enough to scare a witch, apparently roams parts of Michigan, and it may not be alone. Recently one of Michigan's phantomlike cats may have crossed over to "Wander Indiana", as the state's license plate suggests.

We are talking black panther here, a cat macho enough to order milk in a saloon and brawny enough to walk out without paying for it. Except that a panther is not your "milk" kind of cat. In their native habitat, they especially like to eat dogs and baboons.

In August, sightings of a "catlike" animal were reported by several people in this area of northern Indiana (Michigan City). A utility company employee said he saw a "very big" animal with a long tail leap nimbly over a tall wire fence while carrying a dead domestic cat in its mouth.

Remains of the cat were found later, but no trace of the mystery animal was found.

Michigan City police subsequently got more calls. Most of the people said the large catlike animal usually disappeared quickly into the woods. Detective Kenneth Waltz said that there are plenty of hiding places in the city's wooded areas and surrounding countryside.

From the number of reports—at least 40—and from the reliability of some of the people who made them, Waltz said he is convinced that an unusual animal was or is in the Michigan City area.

It is possible, though some say it is unlikely, that the Michigan City animal might be the same one that frequented the Manchester, Michigan, area last year.

Manchester is 160 miles east of Michigan City, as the crow flies or the cat walks, and that is considered an unusual distance for a large cat to travel. There is also some evidence that the Manchester panther is still in that area, killing and eating sheep.

Perhaps a review of the history of the advent and growth of Social Security is now in order. Most of us have forgotten how a little card bearing nine numbers came to be such an important part of our lives. This card is the Social Security card, the most prevalent of all Federal Government documents and its documents. It is the one needed to apply for a job to pay your taxes or to open a bank account or to get a title for your car and so on.

It's not only a passport to the working place but the assurance of an income in retirement or disability, and for older people entitled to medical care. Some three million of these cards have been issued since 1936 by the Social Security Administration and the predecessor administration and its predecessor agencies.

At the current rate of insurance the number will reach a billion in about 100 years. Then a new set of numbers will be necessary. If past history is a guide the time could come sooner. The old bureau of federal old age assistance thought that about 25 million workers would be enrolled in 1936-37. Seventeen million were signed up by then and by 1947 a few more hundred thousand were paid an average of $36.00 for married couples.

These cards and the system that they represent owe their existence to a bill the President signed into effect a bit more than 50 years ago. It was the Social

Act of 1935, which set the pattern for what has remained the structural foundation for welfare in the United States.

The act provided the insurance for the unemployed, the retired and those who need public assistance and jobless assistance was removed from the rolls together with those who were unable to earn a living and raise children without breadwinners. The disabled were added to the list later and all were removed from the Social Security Administration control.

Social Security legislation did not arise in a vacuum of politics however, and some historians claim that FDR acted when he did to head off the influence of Mr. Francis Townsend and Rev. Gerald L.K. Smith — who were winning a national radical following during the depression with their old age pension — and share the wealth ideas.

The election proved the popularity though it was just going into popularity. Republican challenger Alfred Landon called it, "just an unworkable scheme and a cruel hoax on wage earners who would pay into a fund which might be used for other purposes."

The voters did not agree and Roosevelt won a landslide victory: In 1965, when Congress voted Medicare through the Social Security system, it was argued that it was a diversion of tax increases to "divert, retain and enlarge the fund." In recent years advocates have echoed one

World Day Of Prayer-March 7th

On Friday, March 7th the World Day of Prayer Celebration will be held at St. Mary's Church. The Worship service will begin at 1:30 p.m. Following, there will be a time for fellowship and refreshments.
 "Choose Life" is the theme of this year's service, which talks of the hard choices women are called to make if peace is to be achieved in today's world. This service is a challenge to women of the world from Christian women of Australia who wrote this year's worship materials. It calls women to make decisions and take actions that will begin to change the injustices and inequities that cause suffering to countless numbers of the world's people.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER, celebrated this year for the 99th consecutive year began in the United States in 1887 as a day of prayer for mission by lay women of the Presbyterian Church. It now has spread worldwide and acts as a catalyst for women to come together in continuing relationships of prayer and action for peace. It will be celebrated not only here in the United States but also in more than 170 countries and regions of the world.
 Church Women United (CWU), sponsor of WORLD DAY OF PRAYER in the United States, is the ecumenical movement that brings Roman Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox women together into one Christian community of prayer, advocacy and service. They represent a wide

Michigan Tourism Hits 12.6 Billion

Michigan's tourism revenues increased 7 percent to a record $12.6 billion in 1985, due to the state economy's continued upswing, stronger travel promotion and more out-of-state visitors, according to AAA Michigan.
 "This is the third straight year tourism revenues rose in the state," stated AAA Travel Services Director Peter R. Erickson. "There was an 11 percent rise in tourism revenues over the 1984 total of $11.4 billion, but when inflation is factored in, the actual growth was 7 percent."
 Total state tax revenues resulting from tourism last year also hit a record $582 million, surpassing the $525 million collected in 1984 and $488 million in 1983.
 "Last year's revenue increase occurred despite greatly reduced air fares, especially to other U.S. cities, bargains in charter trips and the strength of the U.S. dollar overseas," Erickson said. "While many Michigianians took advantage of long-distance vacation bargains, they also traveled more within the state."

 The Michigan Department of Transportation reports a record 68.4 billion miles were traveled in the state in 1985 compared to the previous high of 67.4 billion in 1978.
 Erickson said a major reason for the increased tourism was the Michigan Travel Bureau's strengthened advertising budget, which increased from $2.6 million in 1982 to $3.6 million last year. The additional promotion helped encourage more travelers to vacation in Michigan, especially those from other states, he pointed out.
 Requests by AAA Michigan members for routings to Michigan destinations rose 4 percent. AAA offices statewide services 9 percent more out-of-state residents than in 1984.
 Three of the state's four regional tourist offices reported business was up over 1984 and the other indicated business was about even.
 A spring-summer survey by the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association showed nearly 83 percent of those polled had improved business activity compared to 1984. Officials from the West Michigan Tourist Association said business was about 6 percent ahead of 1984.
 The Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association noted tourism revenues were up about 2 percent overall. The bureau cited increased tour promotions with motor coach operators which brought in more visitors for fall color tours.
 The East Michigan Tourist Association reported revenues were about even with 1984. Despite some rainy weekend weather, improved fishing due to larger walleye plantings in Tawas Bay and Saginaw Bay brought more fishermen into the area.

 The average trip in Michigan lasted 4 1/2 days, according to the National Travel Data Center. The average expenditure was $151 per person, per trip, up 4.5 percent over 1984.

 of Landon's quotes when he said that Republicans "will have nothing to do with any plan which involves prying into personal records of 26 million people." This he pledged in 1986.
 Nevertheless Social Security apparently retains much of that early popularity despite a succession of tax increases to retain and enlarge benefits, and a clamor of voices that say that today wage earners are unlikely to realize the full amount of their contributions. The popularity is reflected in President Reagan's decision to over-ride Senate Republicans who wanted to cut benefits to reduce the government's deficit.

Inventory of County Soil, Water and Related Resource

A large part of the true wealth of Washtenaw County is its soil and water. If the value of these resources is not fully appreciated, it is because there has always been enough soil and water to produce adequate supplies of food and fiber. Washtenaw County's soil and water resources, however, are finite and vulnerable. Some of the information revealed by the 1982 National Resources Inventory is not reassuring.

Wind and water erosion are occurring on all cropland in Washtenaw County. 102,700 acres of this land are eroding faster than the land can tolerate and remain productive. Over a million tons of soil are being eroded from Washtenaw County farms each year.

Highly erodible soils complicate erosion problems in the southern part of the county where continuous rowcrop rotations are commonly used. Sheet and rill erosion in the area often exceed 7 tons per acre per year.

Large fields, the absence of windbreaks and clean tillage make most of the area around Manchester vulnerable to severe wind erosion. Wind erosion on coarse textured soils is often three times as severe as sheet and rill erosion.

Soil washed or blown from the land adversely affects all people, who must absorb the cost of removing sediment from road ditches, drainage channels, lakes and streams.

According to the National Resources Inventory (NRI) conservation practices are needed on 129,000 acres of the county's cropland to reduce soil erosion or improve crop production. Conservation tillage, crop residue management and cover crops may be all that is needed to control erosion on relatively level cropland in the county.

Grassed waterways, contour farming, diversions and erosion control structures may be needed on land with a severe erosion problem to support conservation tillage, crop rotations and other management practices.

Conservation practices are also needed on 33,500 acres of forest land and 23,600 acres of pasture and idle grassland.

Farmers and other landowners should inspect their land for evidence of sheet, rill and wind erosion. If an erosion problem is found, they should apply the conservation practices and farming methods that will prevent further erosion damage.

Other people concerned about the quality and condition of their food producing resource should support programs and policies that will help farmers apply conservation and management practices needed to control erosion.

The USDA Soil Conservation Service and the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District will help select and apply needed conservation measures. For more information, contact the Soil Conservation Service staff at 761-6722 or stop in the Ann Arbor Field Office at 6101 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor.

High Calcium Diets May Reduce Risk of Colon Cancer

Lois D. McBean, M.S., R.D. Nutrition Information Specialist Dairy Council of Michigan

Increasing calcium intake may reduce risk of colon cancer, say Martin Lipkin, M.D., and Harold Newmark, M.S., of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and Cornell University Medical College in New York City.

These medical researchers studied the growth of pre-cancerous cells in 10 persons who, because of family histories, were defined as high risk for colon cancer. When these individuals (seven males and three females) increased their intake of calcium by 1250 mg/day for 2 to 3 months, the growth of pre-cancerous cells declined.

Abnormal cell growth is a hallmark of cancer. Before the increased intake of calcium, the growth of pre-cancerous cells in these persons was characteristic of a group at high risk of colon cancer, observed Lipkin and Newmark.

In contrast, when dietary calcium was increased, the pattern of pre-cancerous cell growth resembled that found in low risk groups.

Cancer of the colon and rectum or colorectal cancer is a leading form of cancer. It affects about 6% of the U.S. population with an estimated 138,000 new cases and 60,000 related deaths in 1985.

While our understanding of what causes colon cancer remains unclear, the findings reported by Lipkin and Newmark are considered to bring us an important step closer to linking the pieces of the complex puzzle that is colon cancer.

Further support for a beneficial role of calcium in colorectal cancer was provided several months earlier by Cedric Garland of the University of California, San Diego at LaJolla and his co-workers. In their 20 year study of almost 2,000 middle-aged men, these researchers found that the 49 men who developed colorectal cancer ate substantially less calcium and vitamin D than those who were spared this disease.

While it's not established for certain whether increasing pur calcium intake will protect us against colon cancer, nutritionists recommend that we consume at least 800 mg calcium daily, the Recommended Dietary Allowance for this nutrient. Milk and other dairy foods are the major source of calcium in our diet. In 1983, dairy foods (excluding butter) contributed nearly 75% of the calcium available in the nation's food supply, according to recent government statistics.

How To Appeal Your Property Tax Assessments

by The Michigan Tax Information Council

Assessment is the process of determining the true cash value or "selling price," of property for the purpose of calculating property taxes. It is up to each of Michigan's 1,531 different units of local government to fairly assess the value of taxable properties within their jurisdiction. The process involves some judgment and uncertainty, so mistakes do happen. If you think your assessment is too high, or if you've never inspected them, you should begin by inspecting your records at your assessor's office. Check the recorded dimensions of your house and lot and make sure that unfinished attics or basements have not been misrepresented in the description. When errors are pointed out, most assessors are willing to adjust your appraisal without requiring any formal appeal process. However, if you remain unsatisfied, you may appeal your property taxes to the local Board.

ROUNDBALLERS SMOTHERED

by jon

On Friday we had a tough task before us, as we not only had to play league-leading, undefeated Napoleon, but met them on their home court. We played a solid first period, but the second period decided the final outcome, as they out-scored us 21-5. The final tally was 53-35. Kevin Creech had 9 points, as Jon Arney had 6. The Little Dutch lost a real nail-biter, 49-48.

On Tuesday, we visited Grass Lake. In the first game of the evening, our Little Dutch played a rough, tough game, but lost in the end: 12-15, 15-1, 9-15. Jennifer Barnard led our scoring with 12, as Vanessa Salyer posted 11.

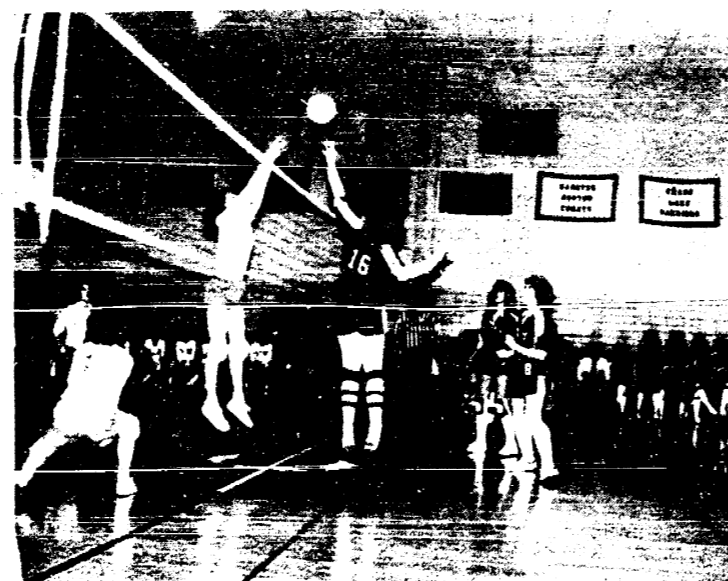

In the Varsity match, we just couldn't get it together, so fell 10-15, 8-15. Treasa Rose and Renee Yeutter each had 4 points, while Renee Drouare had 3.

We hosted East Jackson on Thursday to close our regular season. It was Parents' Night, and both squads did themselves proud, winning handily. In the JV match, we came out smoking, to take the first set, 15-1. In the second stanza, our bench emptied and all saw action throughout, unfortunately, we were narrowly defeated, 14-16, forcing the third and deciding set. We simply overpowered them 15-0 to provide the victory. Jennifer Barnard had a super night with 15 points, as Heidi Beasley followed right behind with 14.

In the Varsity contest, we mowed them down in two straight sets - 15-5, 15-8. Beth Evans led our scorers with 9 points, as Nicki Bragg and Renee Yeutter added 5 and 4 respectively.

Support Urged For Ethanol Production Plan

Discussions on proposals to provide ethanol production incentives continue to make sporadic progress in the Michigan Legislature and Farm Bureau is urging its members to let their state legislators know they support such legislation.

According to Michigan Farm Bureau senior legislative counsel Robert E. Smith, ethanol production would provide additional markets for corn grown in the state.

"There is a great deal of opposition from some oil companies, the Department of Transportation, the Department of Treasury and several organizations representing various oil and gas interests. This opposition is deterring potential support in the legislature," Smith said.

"If farmers want this potential new market here, they must make it clear to their state legislators that they support this legislative proposal for ethanol production incentives," he said.

"A Warm Feeling"

This series of stories spotlights the manifest products of Michigan's farms, forests and factories — the products proudly stamped "Made in Michigan." Watch for them when you shop, and buy Michigan-made. This week's story: "A Warm Feeling."

By Paula Blanchard

Let's face it; when the north wind blows in Michigan, it isn't always easy to keep comfortably warm. I've found just the ticket for those Michigan winters: Sarita hand-loomed knit hats and sweaters.

If you're a skier, chances are you are already familiar with Sara Crites and her young company. If not, take my word for it — Sarita Sportswear is not only the best, but also the most fashionable defense you can cuddle into against the frigid north. If you don't believe me, just ask any of the villagers in Yakutat, Alaska!

By Sara Crites' own assessment, the saga of Sarita Sportswear could be classified as a Cinderella story. Everything just seemed to fall into place and evolve naturally for this young entrepreneur.

Initially frustrated by the slow pace of knitting by hand, Sara's interest returned when her aunt gave her an old commercial knitting machine. Aided by her brother, she soon mastered the machine. Within two years, she received her first order for hats from a local ski team (she was fifteen at the time). The dream of having her own company began to blossom, but it wasn't until 1980 that it became reality. She named the company "Sarita," Spanish for "little Sara" and a pet name her favorite teacher has used for her. In any language, it spells success!

Through Sarita Sportswear, Sara Crites has had the good luck, the good fortune, and the ingenuity, to combine her talents as an artist and designer with her love for skiing (she started on the slopes at the ripe old age of three!).

Sarita designs are influenced by Sara's interest in European folk art, particularly Swedish (her mother is Swedish, Polish and Soren Kierkegaard Latvian). Currently, the standard line of Sarita retail fashions has 21 different hat and 8 different sweater styles, and 60 different designs in 60 color combinations for men, women and children. As if that weren't enough, however, custom designs are an integral aspect of the business. In addition to specially designed hats for numerous ski teams, including the University of Colorado and Michigan State, Sarita designed hats for the 1965 American Mount Everest West Ridge Expedition and the official hat for the Women's Slalom World Cup Race to be held later this winter. Last November, she designed a special "YES MICHIGAN" hat for Governor Blanchard to present to the state's manager of Mazda's Flat Rock plant — a Japanese gentleman who was totally delighted with the gift.

Sara uses four-ply worsted weight wool yarn, some specially dyed for the company to achieve the right shade for specific styles and designs. Hats feature a matching no-itch acrylic liner for maximum wear and comfort. While technically Sarita sweaters and hats are machine knit, so much of the machine work is actually done by hand that Sara has dubbed them hand-loomed. All of the assembly and finish work is done by hand. Although Sarita employs 14 knitters and finishers, she still does much of the knitting herself. She also employs 12 sales representatives and her fashions are available through 120 dealers in approximately 40 states throughout the country. They are also available by mail order from the company's headquarters in Haslett.

Sarita Sportswear is special and reflects its originator's personality, interests and uncompromising commitment to quality and fashion. The company motto is "We stand out in a crowd," and believe me...they do.

Most Boards of Review will begin meeting on March 10, 1986, but check with your local assessor's office for the specific date. Your appeal must be limited to the validity of the tax assessment, such as similar housing in your neighborhood sold at lower prices than your appraisal. Your appeal should not include any arguments regarding the tax rate or the purpose for which tax dollars are used.

Liquor Commission's Decision Pleases Farm Bureau

The state Liquor Control Commission this week recommended that wine cooler bottles should carry a 10 cent deposit, a decision applauded by the State's largest farm organization. Ron Nelson, Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel, said the organization supports adding the bottles to the list of beverage containers that must have a

New Farm Law Is Different

The Congress passed, and President Reagan signed into law, a new farm bill in late December, and now details are coming out of Washington on just how the new law will be administered.

The new law is no panacea and it will not solve the farm problems overnight. But as the economics editor of the FARM JOURNAL said in a recent issue, "You'll love the new farm law in 1990." The new law will gradually get American farm product prices more in line with world prices and allow U.S. farmers to compete once again in the world export market.

There are a lot of different sections to the new farm law, and every producer will have to decide on which ones are most practical for him or her. For example, there is the wheat and feed grain section that has some paid diversion programs and target prices. The loan rates will begin moving to a three-year market average plan beginning in 1987.

There is an acreage reduction program for wheat and feed grains designed to get land out of production, and will cut wheat production by 25% and feed grains by 30% if taken to the maximum.

There is a dairy herd buyout program. Financed by dairy farmers themselves who will be assessed 40 cents per hundredweight, it will require those who participate in the buyout to get out of the dairy business completely for five years. Dairy farmers who want to participate will make bids to the government. If their bids are successful, they must sell for slaughter every cow and heifer they have, and their dairy facilities cannot be leased to another dairy producer.

There is also a program called the "sod-buster" provision that bars federal payments to anyone who plows highly erodible land. This could take 40-45 million acres out of production for 10 to 15 years through contracts with the government.

The new law will be administered by the ASCS. Farmers should visit their local ASCS offices to find out what would be best for their operations.

Whole Herd Buyout Program Point Clarified

Dairy producers have from now until March 7, to register their bids in the whole herd buyout program under the 1985 farm bill. Participating producers must either sell for slaughter or export all female dairy cattle in which they have a financial interest. According to Michigan Farm Bureau dairy specialist Kevin Kirk, it's important for producers who participate in the program to understand they cannot have any female dairy animals on their farms during the next five years. "They will be required to certify each year upon applying for payment that they have no financial interest in any dairy cattle or milk production and that their facility is not being used for milk production," Kirk said.

"In terms of future uses of their facilities, they can raise dairy bulls or other livestock, but they cannot raise heifers for their neighbors. Basically, they cannot have any female dairy animals on their farms during the next five years."

Kirk said participants will have four payment schedule options: no payment the first year and four equal payments thereafter; up to 80% payment the first year and equal payments the remaining four years; up to an 85% payment the second year and then three equal payments; or equal annual payments.

High School Library Needs Volunteers

As a result of the millage being defeated last October, the High School Library is forced to close during one lunch break. On the agenda of the defeated millage was the part-time library aide position. In the past, when there were adequate funds to support the position, the library aide worked two hours, covering the time allotted for the two lunch periods.

It is self-defeating to close the library during the school day — teachers and students cannot depend on the library being open during the lunch period in which they are able to use it. The library should be open to all the students during the entire school day, not just when staff requirements allow it. Looking ahead to the future when the High School will be evaluated by North Central, one of their requirements is the library to be open every hour of the school day.

The administration and the High School Librarian would like to keep the library open during both lunch periods. In order to achieve this, we are asking for parents to volunteer a little of their time. We hope to set up a schedule of parents who would volunteer 1 1/2 hours every two weeks to help in the library. If you are an interested parent who is willing to invest a little time in the High School, please contact, High School Librarian, Joan Thompson, at 428-7333.

Bridgewater Township Board Meeting

February 17, 1986

Bridgewater Township Board met February 17, 1986, at the township hall at 8:00 p.m. All Board members present except Marvin Breitenwischer, absent due to illness, and five electors present.

Supervisor Parr called the meeting to order; Clerk read the last month's minutes. The Board approved as read.

The Board discussed statement from Touche Ross Company. Board members agreed to have the Clerk write a letter requesting more information on the audit for their service.

Supervisor Parr announced again that the Road Commission meeting will be March 7, 1986, at their office. Parr noted that the meeting held in Clinton for the State Police Post was well attended but the decision to move the Post is clear that it will leave Clinton.

NEW BUSINESS

A letter was read from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department for their monthly report in December. The report was accepted. A letter was received from the City of Saline. The letter was in concern of the adopted "Open House Party" ordinance. The City was asking the townships to take a firm position on this and make an ordinance like their's to serve the township. The Board agreed to forward the ordinance to M.T.A. and ask their opinion on the situation.

March 29, 1986, date is set for the Annual Meeting for the township. This will start at 1:00 p.m.

Andy Poet made the motion, seconded by Karen Weidmayer, to set the Board of Review days as follows: March 10 and 11, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The Board of Review shall also accept letters written to them. The letters should be sent to: Bridgewater Township Clerk, 13360 East Austin Road, Manchester, MI 48158.

The Clerk announced new billings for fire runs.

The Planning Commission will meet again March 10, 1986, at 8:00 p.m. to discuss Satellite dishes, private roads and new zoning map. All residents are welcome to attend.

The Board welcomed John Orr, Municipal Consulting Managers, Inc. He gave a brief report on insurance that his company can provide for the township. Supervisor Parr requested a special meeting February 24, 1986, at 8:00 p.m. at the township hall. The purpose of the meeting will be to decide on an insurance company for the township.

A representative from Burnham and Flower Insurance Company presented a quote to the township. A quote from MCM also was presented.

Gabe Dull gave a report on the update of the zoning map. Reporting that a date was set-up to look at a new proposed map before a meeting with county building.

Being no further business to come before the Board, Andy Poet made the motion, seconded by Harold Bersuder that we adjourn. Board passed.

Next meeting will be February 24, 1986, Special Meeting. Next regular meeting will be March 17, 1986, at the townhall.

Respectfully,
Karen Weidmayer, Clerk

Washtenaw County Historical Society

A slide show, "Rural Architecture in Washtenaw County," will be presented by Professor Marshall S. McLennan and Robin Haynes of Eastern Michigan University at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 9, at the Ann Arbor American Legion. McLennan of the EMU geography department has directed the master's program in historic preservation since 1979. Ms. Haynes, an EMU lecturer, is a 1984 graduate of that program. The show will focus on houses and some barns around the county as representatives of architectural styles and folk construction.

Professor McLennan recently completed six years on the Washtenaw County Historic District Commission, the last two as president. He is preparing a thematic nomination of the county's Greek Revival architecture for the National Register, the first such nomination in the United States. The meeting is open to the public free of charge. Refreshments will be served. The American Legion is at 1035 South Main. Parking in the rear.

Public Hearing To Be Held In Scio Township

The Senate Select Committee on Safe Streets will hold a public hearing in Scio Township, State Rep. Margaret O'Connor (R-Lodi Township) announced today.

The hearing will be held on Friday, March 7 from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. at Scio Township Hall located at 827 North Zeeb Road. O'Connor said the committee will take testimony from subpoenaed persons, including correction officers, guards and concerned citizens regarding guard safety, corrections policies, conditions at different facilities. If time permits, other interested persons who wish to testify may do so.

The hearing is open to the public, and Mrs. O'Connor suggests that all interested citizens attend, particularly those with concerns about walk-aways or other corrections problems.

A Square Dance is the perfect day to celebrate on a blustery day, Klager families find. On Friday night about seventy-five parents and children gathered at the High School to dance to the strains of lively music from Jim Burmeister and his band. Old favorites like the Hokey-Pokey and the Bunny Hop alternated with traditional tunes at fast beat pace that kept everyone moving. Students from Mrs. Grantham's, Mrs. Lowery's, and Miss Koebbe's classrooms contributed art projects to

Board Seeks Land Nominations

The Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund Board has begun its annual search for recreational lands to purchase with funds earmarked from the sale of oil, gas and mineral leases and royalties on gas and oil wells located on State-owned property.

"We are looking for land suitable for management by the State or local units of government that would provide additional recreation for Michigan citizens," says Rodney Stokes, Department of Natural Resources Executive Secretary to Natural Resources Trust Fund Board. "We're also interested in acquiring land to protect because of its environmental importance or scenic beauty."

Also, 1986 marks the first time the Board will be considering proposals for the development of public outdoor recreation facilities. Up to 25 percent of the available Trust Fund dollars can be used for development of outdoor recreation facilities.

Anyone can nominate lands for acquisition consideration. However, development proposals may only be nominated by units of government. Individuals or communities interested in nominating lands for acquisition and/or development purposes may obtain guidelines and necessary forms from the Recreation Services Division in the Department of Natural Resources. April 1, is the deadline for submitting nominations.

Acquisition and development of lands nominated this spring should begin during the fall of 1987. The Board will evaluate all public proposals and submit a recommended priority list to the Legislature next January.

Contact the Recreation Services Division, (517-373-1660) Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan, 48909, for further information.

deposits. "The bottles are all too often showing up in farmers' fields, a hazard to farm equipment and livestock," Nelson said. "The bottle deposit law has been very successful in reducing the number of throw-away beverage containers on private property and we believe wine coolers should be added."

Nelson said the commission recommendation will now be reviewed by the Legislature's Joint Rules Committee.

Band Boosters

January 22, 1986

The meeting was called to order by President Sallie Anderson on Wednesday, January 22, 1986, at 6:00 in the High School Library. The minutes from November 20 were read and approved. There are no meetings held in December. Treasurer Jan Waldron submitted the following account report:

Scholarship	$1718.48
Uniform	1184.30
Savings	12990.80
Checking	52.51

We earned $612 interest in 1985. We discussed when would be the best time to turn over the Uniform money to Dr. Thompson and scholarship money to the girls attending the Blue Lake Symphony. We would like to hold it as long as possible to earn interest for our own accounts. The purchase order is in for the uniforms, so we will turn over the money now. The girls will be given their money at the February 28th Band Booster meeting.

Old Business: We decided, after discussion, not to do calendars as a fund raiser next year. We should let other groups know in case they would like that project.

We were unhappy with the quality of some of the fruit sold this year, so we will be changing companies next year and need to remember to advertise the change. The secretary was requested to write a letter of complaint to Langdon Barber Groves.

The Varsity jackets came in without the "M" and year letters. We will buy the letters and the students will have to attach them. We discussed whether to have the jackets offered with leather sleeves, but decided against this because of cost.

The plastic uniform bag sample we requested from DeMoulin arrived with a hole already in it. We decided they are not satisfactory and will check local stores to purchase them ourselves instead.

It has been decided that Amy Fielder will be the Drum Major next year, so she will need to be measured soon for her uniform. Majorettes should be decided by Monday.

New Business: The Band sweaters that came in for the 7th and 8th graders were the wrong color again, so they will have to be reordered. However, they were purchased by the Middle School Boosters to be used by the 6th graders. Band Boosters sincerely appreciate this action.

Band Boosters decided after discussion that we would require any student accepting Blue Lake scholarship money from us to understand that they must complete at least the following year in band, or pay the money back. The only exception would be students who move out of Manchester.

We decided what field trips we would be taking each grade on as follows:

5th and 6th - Hill Auditorium, March 19, to see the University Band and Band Campus Concert. We will be taking them to McDonalds first so we need to find out if we can pre-arrange a place and time, and how much money each student will need just for the meal. We also need a chaperone for every 5 students.

7th and 8th - Rackham Auditorium, April 10th, 8:00 p.m. We will be checking with Chi-Chi's to see if arrangements can be made to provide a meal, and the cost to the students for this.

High School - Trip to Chicago, April 28th. A visit to the Science Museum will be included. We will be arranging other details such as Symphony tickets, etc. The hotel room, dinner on Saturday, and Sunday breakfast will be provided. Each student will need to provide their own paper bag lunch for the bus trip and money for one meal on Sunday. The cost to each student will be $50 plus one meal. The $50 will be collected in advance. Band Boosters will pay the remaining $100 per student, with the exception of the seniors who will be entirely paid for.

Mr. Marrison provided us with the following dates:

Junior High Festival - March 1, Tecumseh High School; Senior High Band and Orchestra Festival - March 15, Napoleon; Junior High Solo/Ensemble - April 19, not sure where; Senior High Solo/Ensemble - February 15.

The following is a list of High Schoolers who will perform at Solo/Ensemble this year:

Julie Howell - Sax solo; Kris Hunt - Flute solo; Debbie Wenk - Flute solo, also a duet; Jackie Davis - Clarinet solo; Jackie Miller - French Horn solo, Piano solo; Tammie Pieske - Trumpet solo; Lisa Knickerbocker - Trumpet solo; Mike Swanberg - Trombone solo; Rob White - Drum solo; Alicia Haeussler & Vicki Warner - Clarinet duet; Amy Major and Vicki Warner - Clarinet, Flute duet; Mike Swanberg, Sarah Corwin, Amy Fielder, Rob Gillow - Quartet; Amy Fielder and Sarah Corwin - Trombone, Baritone duet.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:00.

Respectfully submitted,
Nancy Houck, Secretary

Malpractice Problem Factors

released results of a questionnaire to help define the problems of medical malpractice. Of 94 questionnaires sent to physicians and their associations, including the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS), 33 responded.

Over three-fourths of those who responded indicated that procedural complexity has increased over the past 10 years. Fifty-eight percent reported this has escalated the professional liability insurance problem. Respondents said this complexity has prompted practitioners to continuously educate themselves and has escalated the possibility of something going wrong.

Over 80 percent of the respondents indicated the need for more advanced equipment to keep up with increased sophistication in procedural techniques. Many respondents indicated tests that previously were done only in rare instances now are routine. Many physicians indicated that more tests are used not only because of sophisticated procedural techniques but also, in part, for their own protection against malpractice suits.

Seventy percent also indicated the number and various uses of drugs available have increased during the last 10 years. Over 60 percent felt this has affected the professional liability problem.

Many cited problems with new drugs which result in side effects.

Sixty-four percent indicated that they had curtailed their practice due to the professional liability situation to some extent. Most respondents indicated that they had limited high-risk procedures, stopped doing surgery, or eliminated OB/GYN portions of their practice.

Respondents were asked if they would report colleagues for appropriate help who were obviously having problems which made them ineffective in the practice of their profession.

Eighty-five percent said they would indeed report a colleague if needed. Almost 80 percent of the doctors felt stronger or more effective licensing regulation is necessary to eliminate from practice those physicians who are responsible for substantial injuries due to malpractice.

Physicians were asked what they could do to help deal with the problem: not only did they feel stronger licensure regulation is needed, almost half believed that increased education, more emphasis on risk management and increased peer-review activities also would help.
