The Statue of Liberty isn't the only important thing in our lives that is celebrating its 100th anniversary, or anyway should be.

Another object born in 1886 which had a far reaching effect on all our lives was the Linotype Machine. This piece of machinery revolutionized the whole business of printing and made the printed word available to all at a price that they could afford.

For quite a number of years prior to this date many inventors had spent much time and money developing a mechanical typesetting method. Several machines for this purpose had been constructed and several fortunes spent in the unsuccessful development of such a machine. One of these was the Page typesetter which, after a fashion, did the job but which was so complicated that it took a trained mechanic to keep the machines operating and which cost so much to build that their use was prohibitive. Mark Twain was one of those who lost a fortune in trying to develop the Page machine.

At the time of the Civil War all type used in our newspapers was laboriously set by hand. Each letter was picked up from a "case" and placed in a "stick" and then line by line placed in a "chase" and secured there until it would be put on a printing press and then the sheets of paper passed over the type after they have been coated with ink and then the sheets are stacked at the delivery end of the press.

During the 1850's to the 1870's much progress had been made in improving the presses and they were developed to run at much greater speeds but the hand setting of the type slowed down the printing processes so that the daily newspapers in New York City and other large towns consisted of but eight or so pages and the news was sketchily presented each day and of course other methods of circulating the news were then nonexistent so research for the development of much nicer typesetters went on with many inventors participating.

Along in the mid 1880's a German immigrant named Ottmar Mergenthaler made a machine

Victorian-Era Lawn Party

A Victorian-era lawn party will highlight the 16th Annual Mann Day on Sunday, July 20, at the Historic Mann House in Concord. The festivities, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., are sponsored by the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History.

Featured at the lawn party will be a Croquet Tournament. Participants will use reproduction mallets, balls and wickets. Former Michigan Governor and State Historical Commission Chairman John B. Swainson will captain a team of Commission members. Their primary opposition will be members of the Concord School Board.

The lawn party will also feature crafts, games, home-made ice cream and the music of the Jackson Banjo Club. The Mann House, now a State Historic Site, will be open for guided tours throughout the afternoon. The residence, built in 1883-1884, has many of its original furnishings including decorative accessories and Mann family heirlooms.

As a part of Mann Day, State Historic Preservation Coordinator Janet Kreger will conduct a walking tour of Concord at 2 p.m.

Countdown To Broil Time!

by Amy Little

The planning is finished and the only thing left to do is broil the chicken...well almost.

Chicken Broil time has finally arrived - this Thursday - amidst a final last burst of preparations.

The pre-broil witnessed the demise of the chicken giblets and gizzards and a sigh of relief from many volunteers.

The publicity committee has released information about the Broil to newspapers and radio stations throughout Michigan and once again they are expecting a sizeable turnout of people to attend the Broil. And thanks to the area clergymen the weather should remain clear throughout the Broil.

Many pre-sale tickets have already been purchased by eager broilers wishing to get a discount on the generous portions of chicken, slaw, chips, rolls and radishes.

Soon the pits will be assembled by a crew of dedicated volunteers and the only thing left to do will be to broil the chickens on the 17th...well almost.

Aging at 505 Catherine, 665-3625.

Manchester United Way Seeks Campaign Slogan

It's the week of the Chicken Broil and the Fair is fast approaching. Annually, the Manchester United Way sponsors a booth at the fair and local residents stop by with their campaign slogan suggestions. Start thinking now of a slogan and maybe this year you'll have the winning entry. The winner will receive $25.00 donated by Manchester Tool & Die.

See You Thursday, July 17th!

Letter To The Editor

Policemen don't usually get any praise, and often taken for granted, so I'm writing this, ever due letter to thank your police force for their helpful, speediness, and concern they have shown for my patient; me; as well as this community.

I would like you to print this letter so the people of Manchester know just how lucky they are to have such a public serving department as the Manchester Police and Washtenaw Sheriff Department.

Most people say "there's never a policeman around when you need one", but I could guess by saying this town has never said that!

I don't know what I would have done without the help I have received from them for my patient and myself.

Thank-you so much sirs' and thank-you Mr. Editor for publishing my thanks and my praise to them for their helping hand. They are outstanding!! Thanks again.

Bridgewater Township Board Meeting

June 16, 1986

The Bridgewater Township Board met June 16, 1986, at the township hall at 8:00 p.m. All Board members present including five electors.

The Supervisor called the meeting to order and the Clerk read the past minutes of the Board meeting in May. Minutes were approved as read.

Harold Bersuder gave the Treasurer's report. Andy Poet made the motion to pay voucher 1627 thru 1658, Karen Weidmayer rec'd the motion and the Board passed.

OLD BUSINESS

Discussion was held on the remodeling of the township hall.

NEW BUSINESS

Board acknowledged that we received from the Detroit Edison a map outlining township roads and boundaries. This will be helpful and appreciated to assist the Officers.

The attorney advised us to proceed to Small Claims Court to resolve past and over due fire run accounts. These accounts have been sent two bills and a letter from the attorney.

After much discussion on the Board of Appeals members, Harold Bersuder made the motion to have the Chairman of the Planning Commission, the Supervisor and one resident serve on the Appeals Board. Andy Poet seconded the motion and the Board passed.

The Clerk announced that the Planning Commission will be proceeding a public hearing to discuss proposed General Development Plan and Map. This plan will not change the zoning ordinance, but rather have a future direction of plan for the township. The date will be August 11, 1986.

Harlin Fraumann gave his Zoning Report. A permit was granted to Mr. Estep for building.

There being no further business to come before the Board, Andy Poet made the motion to adjourn, seconded by Leonard Days. Board passed.

Karen Weidmayer, Clerk Subject to Board approval. Next Board meeting will be held July 21, 1986, at the township hall.

Thirty Host Families Urgently Needed

Once again, beginning the end of July, thousands of eager students will start arriving to participate in the Academic Year in USA (AYUSA) Program.

A non-profit educational institution, dedicated to world peace, through its youth, extends the program to qualified overseas students between the ages of 15 and 18, who have high academic and language skills, and a keen interest in American culture and family life.

The students are carefully selected and screened in Europe, Central America and the Orient. In America, they will attend local schools.

Students in the AYUSA Program will cover all their incidental expenses. Host families are allowed a $50.00 monthly tax deduction by the IRS. The students are covered by medical and accident insurance, and are supported throughout the school year by the AYUSA Staff and Community Counselors.

Families who are interested in hosting a student are encouraged to apply as early as possible; they should call (313) 971-5279 to ask for more information.

NOTICE

The water bills for the second quarter will be approximately 2 weeks late due to a change over in the accounting system.

Common Science

Poisons: The Biotoxins

Joe Jeffers, Ph.D.

Any substance can be considered poisonous or toxic if used in large enough amounts. Even water in large quantities can cause the kidneys to malfunction and lead to poisoning due to the inability of the body to remove toxic wastes. Usually when one thinks of poisons, substances like strychnine or curare come to mind. Strychnine has been used in rat poisons and curare is used by South American Indians on the poison darts they shoot at game animals.

Would you believe that poisons like these can also be used for beneficial medical purposes? Curare, for example, is a powerful muscle relaxant. If too much curare is injected, death results because the chest muscles are so relaxed that one dies from respiratory failure. Smaller doses, however, can be used during surgery to relax throat muscles during rather lengthy examinations of the throat.

There is a fine line between toxicology, the science of poisons, and pharmacology, the science of useful effects of drugs and chemicals on living systems. For all of these chemicals there are four levels of effects - no effect, a helpful effect, a harmful effect and a lethal effect. It is a question of dose.

Poisons are rated on a scale of 6 (supertoxic, a taste kills) to 1 (practically nontoxic, a quart might kill). Digitoxin, often prescribed for certain heart ailments, is a 6; amphetamines rate a 5 (extremely toxic); and aspirin rates a 4 (very toxic). Yet all of these poisons in proper dosage are taken every day by persons seeking therapeutic relief.

Where did these poisons come from and why have they developed? As a matter of survival many plants, animals and micro-organisms produce chemicals that help them get food, defend against predators or discourage competition. For example, snakes and jellyfish inject poisons into their prey to kill them, bees defend their hives against attackers by stinging, and some bacteria produce antibiotics to kill other micro-organisms that might compete with them. The alkaloids like curare and strychnine produced by plants may have developed originally to ward off insect predators. If so, at least some insects have developed a tolerance for the alkaloids and receive no ill effects from feeding on the plants.

Just to list the highly toxic substances produced by living creatures would require the space of most of this newspaper. A few examples will be given. Probably the most deadly biotoxin of all is botulinus toxin produced by a type of bacteria. It is a form of food poisoning, commonly called botulism, that results from canned foods that were not sterilized properly. Ten millionths of a gram would be enough to kill a 150 pound man. Death results due to paralysis of the respiratory muscles. The first symptoms, nausea and vomiting, occur approximately six hours after ingestion. With early detection antitoxins can be given to neutralize the poison.

Red tide is a name given to heavy blooms of one-clawed sea creatures called dinoflagellates. These creatures are eaten by shellfish. Unfortunately, the dinoflagellates produce a highly toxic poison (saxitoxin), which accumulates in the bodies of the shellfish. When the red tides are present, shellfish sales are banned. If man eats shellfish at this time, he risks severe poisoning. A few years ago cases of red tide poisoning were so severe that iron lungs were needed to help persons breathe since they had somewhat paralyzed chest muscles. Some mushrooms are also quite deadly. The death cap mushroom, when eaten, leads to convulsions and a fatality rate of ninety percent. Many Japanese enjoy a specialty fish called the deadly death puffer. If it is skillfully prepared, it makes a delicious meal. If, however, it is not properly prepared, it contains a toxin that leads to numbness of the entire body and paralysis of the muscles. Death follows in sixty percent of these cases.

The sea wasp, a jelly fish found off the coast of northeastern Australia, inflicts a sting that can kill a human adult in less than one minute. Death results due to failure of the circulatory system. The black mamba snake of southwest Africa is one of the world's most dangerous snakes. Its bite may lead to death as a result of respiratory distress. A large black mamba secretes enough venom to kill ten men.

Research scientists all over the world are studying these biotoxins. With luck and a lot of hard work, we may turn more of nature's poisons into medicines that benefit mankind.

Wedding Bells Ring

The marriage of Lisa Jean Drum of Crystal, Minnesota and Kenneth John Schwab of Bloomington, Minnesota took place at St. Raphael's Catholic Church in Crystal, Minnesota on May 17, 1986.

Father Richard M. Hogan officiated for the daughter of Mr. Ralph S. Drum of Hoffman, Minnesota and the late Josephine Drum and for the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwab of Manchester, Michigan.

Maid of Honor was Rebecca Drum of Minneapolis, sister of the bride. Best man was Philip Schwab of Colorado Springs, Colorado, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Sheila Keegan of Minneapolis, friend of the bride; Sheila Magnuson of Lexington, Minnesota, niece of the bride; and Kathy Walker of Eden Prairie, Minnesota, friend of the bride. Marcella Magnuson, sister of the bride, served as personal attendant.

Groomsmen were Mark Schwab of Manchester, brother of the groom; John Meyer of Royal Oak, friend of the groom; and Dave Brucks of Minnetonka, Minnesota, friend of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with "leg-of-mutton" long sleeves of lace netting. The schiffli lace and pearl bodice had a scalloped neckline and lace netting up to the high collar of pearls and lace. The skirt had inserts of imported schiffli lace. The back had buttons from the collar down to the V waistline where two panels of imported schiffli lace began and flowed outward to the end of the cathedral length train. The entire edge of the gown was scalloped with imported schiffli lace. Her satin hat had soft pleats on the brim, a small bow in the back and a blusher veil. Her cascade bouquet was of lavonne roses and stephanotis.

Ushers were Jerome Magnuson, brother-in-law of the bride, Brian, Loren and Kevin Magnuson, all nephews of the bride. They were attired in silver linen tuxedos.

The reception was held at the VFW Club in Crystal, Minnesota. A second reception in their honor was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Manchester, Michigan, June 22nd.

The bride and groom spent their honeymoon on Grand Cayman Island in the British West Indies and are residing in Crystal, Minnesota.

Ken is employed at BBC Brown Boveri as a Quality Assurance Engineer and Lisa works as a Bridal and Beauty Consultant.

which was quite successful and in July 1886 one of his machines was installed and used to set type for the New York Tribune. It proved very successful, setting more than three times as much type as could be produced by hand compositors and so in a comparatively short time this machine had gained a foot hold in the entire printing industry. However, old time hand typesetters took a very dim view of the new contraption and predicted that it would ruin the entire printing industry and fought bitterly to have this new fangled method barred from their shops but as time went on the machines opened a new world of more cheaply producing newspapers and books; in fact everything that could be produced by printing methods and the daily newspapers soon became multipaged affairs and quantities of books and magazines were being produced at a fraction of their former cost and this made available to everyone books and magazines at prices the average man could afford and immeasurably increased the knowledge of the common man and certainly hastened greatly the average man's knowledge of all facets of his life available to all who could read and too it greatly increased the desire of many to become proficient readers of the English language. This development accelerated our development in a thousand ways during the century 1886-1986.

However, during the latter part of this last century, there was developed a photographic method of typesetting which was faster and more simple than that produced by the Linotype and many refinements were made until at present the offset method of printing has superseded the process of the Linotype and the Linotype has been relegated to the museum and this process of offset printing is king. This one giant step of printing dates from the invention of the Linotype and it should be closely associated with the progress made in the distribution of information during the past century. It was a primary chapter in the progress of the last century.

DON'T IGNORE ALLERGY SYMPTOMS

If you're like many of the one in six Americans with hay fever, you'd almost rather ignore its symptoms than treat them. That's because the treatment sometimes was worse than the condition. Now, however, your doctor may have good news for hay fever sufferers.

Your doctor can now prescribe a new antihistamine specially formulated to relieve the bothersome side effects of allergic rhinitis, or hay fever—sneezing; runny, itchy nose; watery eyes; breathing trouble—without causing the usual side effects—drowsiness, dulling of the mind, and sleepiness.

The symptoms of hay fever occur when dust, pollen or another allergen provokes your body's immune system to produce a special antibody and a series of reactions that release a substance called histamine. Histamine and other substances cause the Hay fever sufferers take heart: your doctor may have good news for you.

Symptoms associated with hay fever. Antihistamines, which have been around since 1946, effectively block certain receptors to these substances in human cells. Like other antihistamines, the new drug Seldane is prescribed for relief of seasonal allergic rhinitis. Unlike earlier medications, it does not cause sedation because it does not readily cross the blood brain barrier.

Many people view this as a sneeze-fighting reason to visit their family physician.

If you save money at one bank and have your checking account at another, it's to your advantage to put both your accounts at this bank.

First of America makes it easy to take care of all your banking needs. And now we're making it even easier for you to save money. Because when you open a Money Market Savings account or a Certificate of Deposit, you'll also get a regular checking account with no service charges.

Our money market accounts and certificates pay competitive rates — so when you open one, you not only save money on checking account fees, you also earn interest on your savings deposits. What's more, you'll never be charged service fees on the checking account as long as your savings stays open.

We'll also give you a free solar calculator to help you keep track of your earnings.

And if you already have a certificate or Money Market Savings account with us, you can still take advantage of our offer — no service charge checking and a free solar calculator, too.

So don't bank all over town. Come to First of America, your full service bank — where saving money just got easier.

NEWS

From the office of
THE GOVERNOR

Gov. James J. Blanchard announced completion of the first financing under Michigan's new Shared Credit Rating Program. The program enables local communities and school districts to take advantage of the state's improved credit rating and save money when they borrow to provide public services and improvements. "By taking advantage of our new Shared Credit Rating Program, these 23 local communities will be able to get funds to their 88 school districts earlier than ever before," Gov. Blanchard said. "This timely financing will cut borrowing costs for the school districts and reduce the pressures on local property taxes."

Gov. Blanchard helped break ground for the first new light bulb manufacturing plant in the U.S. in 30 years - and the first ever in Michigan - calling it "a bright new addition to Michigan's advanced manufacturing future." Diolight Technology, Inc. is constructing a $2.5 million world headquarters which includes a research center and manufacturing plant. The new facility will create more than 100 new jobs in the Pontiac area when it begins operating next February.

Gov. Blanchard announced a dislocated workers job training program at New Grace Baptist Church in Highland Park. The training program is funded largely by a $300,000 grant from the Governor's Office for Job Training (GOJT) and is designed to help persons get back to work who have become unemployed due to layoff or a plant closing. For additional information contact: Lamar Richardson, (517) 373-6227.

A two-year $35 million state effort has resulted in safe drinking water becoming available to households at 118 areas of severe contamination, Gov. Blanchard announced. To date, $21 million has been spent at 118 ground- and surface-water contamination sites in the state. The remaining $14 million will have been allocated for additional cleanup projects by the end of the fiscal year (September 30).

Four groups were added to the list of ethnic groups participating in the Fourth of July "Roll Call of Freedom" independence and ethnic celebration hosted by Gov. Blanchard on Mackinac Island. The additional groups include the Albanian, Lithuanian, Romanian and Latvian communities. "The interest that our many ethnic communities have shown in this celebration of American heritage and independence has been overwhelming," the Governor said. "It demonstrates the pride that Americans, especially Michigan citizens, have for their country, their state, their freedom and their roots."

House Bill 5308, allowing parents or legal guardians unrestricted access to their children while in day care centers was signed into law by Gov. Blanchard. The measure is designed to help better protect children and ease parents' concerns over possible child abuse at day care centers.

Gov. Blanchard signed the following bills into law: Senate Bill 776 (P.A. 138 i.e.); Senate Bill 747 (P.A. 139, i.e.); and House Bill 4155 (P.A. 137, i.e.).

APPOINTMENTS

Midwest Technology Development Institute Board of Directors: Appointed were: Douglas E. VanHouweling, Ph.D., of Ann Arbor, for a term expiring July 1, 1989; William Hubbard, M.D., of Hickory Corners, for a term expiring July 1, 1989; Peter C. Eckstein, Ph.D., of Ann Arbor, for a term expiring July 1, 1987; and James Kenworthy, Ph.D., of Ann Arbor, for a term expiring July 1, 1987.

The appointments are not subject to Senate confirmation.

Adopters Needed For Wild Horses and Burros

Wild horses and burros rounded up on western rangelands will soon be looking for new homes with residents of Michigan when the U.S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) sets up a temporary wild horse and burro adoption center at Battle Creek, Michigan, August 15, through 17. Approximately 150 wild horses and 75 wild burros will be trucked to the Michigan Livestock Stockyards in Battle Creek, within easy driving distance of Lansing, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, and Jackson. People who promise to give good homes to the horses and burros may apply for as many as four. To qualify, applicants must have suitable transport, facilities and means for caring for the animals. An adoption fee of $125.00 for each horse and $75.00 for each burro is required. Applications and information about this one-time event are available from the BLM Milwaukee District Office, P.O. Box 631, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, 53201-0631, telephone 414/291-4400.

"Adopters are always needed to help us solve the problem of overpopulation among wild horses and burros on public rangelands," said BLM Milwaukee District Manager Bert Rodgers. "But right now we're looking especially for people in Michigan who would like to take this opportunity to get involved in the program." According to Rodgers, over 500 wild horses and burros have already been adopted by residents of Michigan through BLM's adoption program. Rodgers said that by staging this special adoption event in Battle Creek, his agency hopes to make adoptions easier for people in Michigan by bringing the animals much closer to them.

Money Management

Points To Remember When Reviewing Your Homeowner's Insurance

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

If you hastily bought homeowner's insurance just before closing on a new home or if you routinely renew your policy without a careful review, then you could be in for a shock when it comes time to collect. Increased liability risk, rising construction costs, home improvements and inflation should be considered and reflected in your insurance coverage.

When you review your insurance needs, the Michigan Association of CPAs recommends that you ask yourself some important questions.

How much coverage do I need? With basic coverage, if a fire or other catastrophe destroys your home, you should be insured for the replacement cost, which is enough to rebuild the home. However, homeowners are usually required to carry only 80 percent of the replacement cost.

It might be prudent to cover your home for its full replacement cost. On the other hand, for those few exceptions where it is highly unlikely a house will be completely destroyed if it does catch fire, a policy owner may not want to pay the premium for complete replacement coverage.

The actual market value of your home, the amount it would cost to buy a similar home in the same area, may be higher than its replacement cost. Let's say property values in your neighborhood have gone up sharply or you added an extra room to your home and didn't increase your coverage. If your coverage has slipped below the 80 percent level, say to 60 percent, that is the percentage you will be paid if something happens to your home. If you choose not to rebuild and buy a new home instead, that 80 percent payment is likely to be far below the current market value of your home.

Do I need extra liability protection? In the last few years there has been a sharp increase in personal liability lawsuits. People who have substantial assets to protect and who could be vulnerable to lawsuits, might consider an "umbrella" liability policy that extends beyond the standard homeowner's liability coverage and provides up to $1 million or more in protection. A typical policy could cost between $125 to $200. Find out how much your current policy will pay if, for example, your neighbor's child is injured in your house.

Are my valuable belongings adequately covered? Homeowner's policies cover the contents of a home up to 50 percent of the insured amount on the house, minus depreciation, but payments are limited on valuables. You may need a personal articles rider to insure expensive items such as furs, jewelry, rare collections and computers for their full value and for loss due to theft. You can also obtain replacement coverage for valuables at a relatively low cost.

Am I covered for theft away from home? Generally, yes. But check your policy for clauses covering suitcases and other personal property lost or stolen while traveling.

What if I plan to rent my home? Find out how much of your coverage for fire and theft extends to renters. Also look into liability coverage.

Am I covered for floods? Homeowners policies do not cover damage caused by floods or earthquakes. If you live in an area where such perils could happen, you may be eligible for separate property coverage, subject to deductibles, against those perils.

Additional coverage to your existing policy will cost you more, but you can save money if you choose to increase your deductible. Another way of saving money is to install burglar and fire alarms. Some insurance companies give credits for these devices.

CPAs suggest that once you have reviewed your needs and have made appropriate changes in your policy, you can be prepared to file a claim by keeping records safe - in a safe deposit box or at another location. Be ready to provide a description of the casualty or theft, the item's fair market value and proof of ownership.

For additional guidance, obtain a copy of "How to File an Insurance Claim" from the Insurance Information Institute at (800) 221-4954.

Vandenberg Running For Probate Judge

In announcing his candidacy for Probate Judge of Washtenaw County in the Estate and Mental Health Division, Edward L. Vandenberg said, "The Probate Court is the one court in our legal system where most people will have personal contact at some point in their lives. Contacts with the court occur when there is a death, disability, or mental illness in the family. These family problems come at a time of stress and require sensitivity, understanding and fairness for resolution. My years of experience in the practice of probate law and my broad background in community service qualify me for the position of Probate Judge."

Vandenberg added, "For good reason, the work of an attorney is called the 'practice of law' - meaning a continuing process of learning, struggling with uncertainties, trying to set happenings in the lives of people against the backdrop of the legal system where both are subtly and constantly changing. When an attorney becomes a judge, the 'practice of law' continues, but a judge must carry the process one step further. A judge, acting in fairness and with an open mind, must apply the rule of law and make a determination which will resolve the problems which come before the court. I believe my years of experience in the 'practice of law' have prepared me to make this step."

Vandenberg, 62, received a BA in Economics and a Masters of Business Administration from the U-M. He completed two years of graduate study in psychology and philosophy and three years working at the Bureau of Business Research before entering law school. After receiving his law degree from the U-M Law School in 1955, Vandenberg was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to study international law for a year in Germany.

Vandenberg has practiced law in Washtenaw County for 29 years and has specialized in probate law, real estate law and tax law.

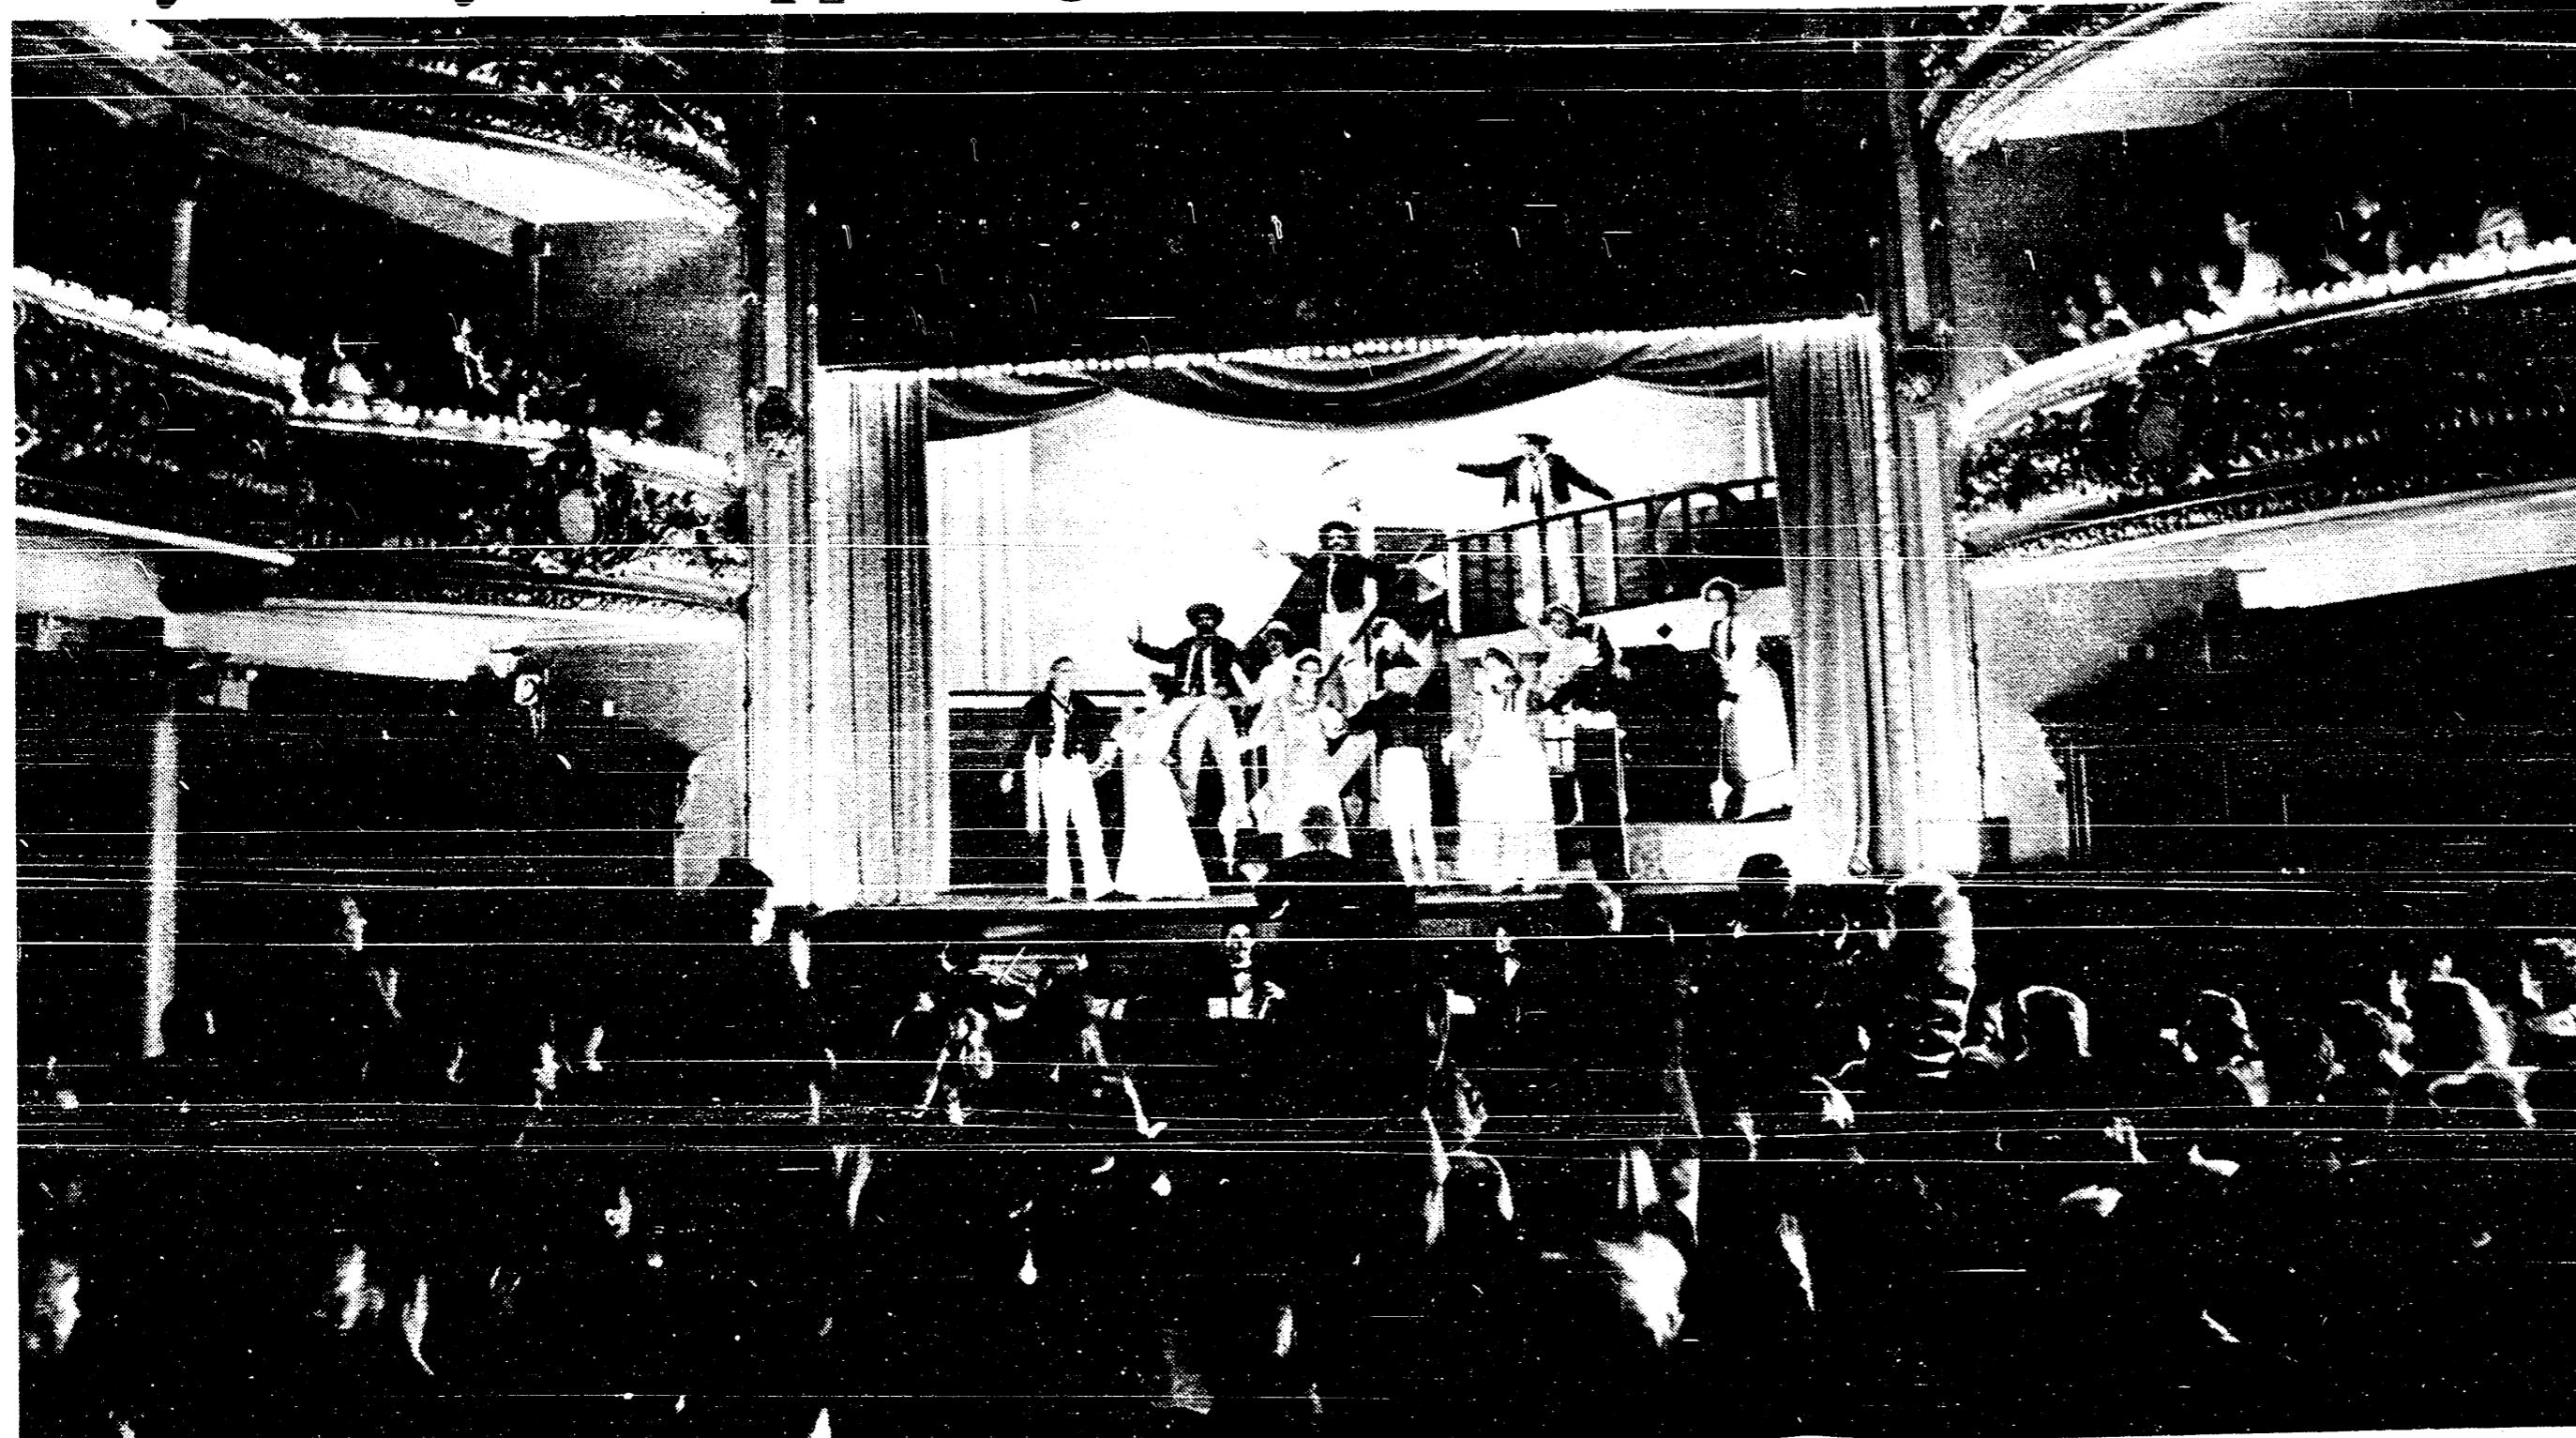

In 1970 Vandenberg was appointed as Grievance Officer (Ombudsman) for the City of Ann Arbor. He served in this sensitive position for four years.

Vandenberg has been active in a number of Washtenaw County service organizations. He is currently the Project Director of the Copernicus Endowment at the U-M.

Mammoths, prehistoric ancestors of the elephant, died out about 10,000 years ago. Pictures of them drawn by cave dwellers can still be seen on cave walls in southern France.

Why We Played A Supporting Role In The Restoration Of A Community Opera House.

Near the turn of the century, two-bits and a little bit of luck put you near the front of the standing room only crowds that were the hallmark of this opera house.

Mary Pickford, at the time just a blossoming star, graced its stage.

As did Annie Oakley's traveling show of six-guns and other assorted shootin' irons.

In fact, over the years, what with all the stars of vaudeville and theatre who performed here, you would have thought it was Broadway in New York.

Not a small midwest town's main street opera house.

Even talking movies couldn't do to the grand old place what a major fire, many years of neglect and then a condemnation notice would finally do.

Close its doors. But to the townspeople, the show just had to go on.

So when private citizens and business people got together to restore this priceless landmark, a lot of our people asked what part they could play.

You see, we're not just bankers. We're part of the community.

So we believe that sometimes it's just as important to lend a hand as it is to lend someone money.

At First of America Bank, we're proud we were part of the impressive community cast of characters that raised the money it took to bring the opera house back to life.

And we applaud the entire town's contribution to the performing arts.

A celebration of what was and will be.

The following projects, funded by the Michigan Council for the Humanities, feature stories about Michigan life, history and people and are being brought to you during the Sesquicentennial year.

Michigan's Classic Antique, Hand-Carved Carousels

During the 1920's, approximately 2,000 hand-carved carousels operated throughout the United States and at least 19 carving shops producing unique styles of wood carving. Today there are less than 200 hand-carved merry-go-rounds still intact and no carving shops. Most of the surviving carousels are located on the east or west coasts; however, Michigan is the site of seven operating hand-carved carousels. These seven carousels are the topic of a project of the Brass Ring Society and funded by MCH. The seven carousels are located in the Ingham County Park, Lansing; Autoworld, Flint; Genesee County Park, Cross Roads Village; Greenfield Village, Dearborn; Grand Rapids Dutch Village, Holland; and Bobo Island Amusement Park near Detroit. In addition, the National Carousel Association is having their 13th annual conference at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center, August 14-17, 1986.

For more information on this project, contact: Douglas Dunham, 1031 Marigold Ave., East Lansing, MI 48823, (517) 332-3944.

Fort St. Joseph Tricentennial

Fort St. Joseph, the first white settlement in St. Clair County, was established by the French in 1686. The fort represented an alliance between French explorers and the several hundred Indian allies. The fort was active for two years, then used as a trading post for French settlers until 1701. A six-part video presentation on the establishment and history of the fort is now being produced by the St. Clair County Intermediate School District and funded by MCH. The tapes feature actors representing major groups from the period, including a native American woman, a fur trader, a farmer's wife, a soldier and a cleric/missionary.

For more information on this project, contact: Phil Porter, Director of Interpretation,

A Window on Our Tribal Heritage
Traditionally, the history and culture of the Potawatomi Indians of southwestern Michigan has been preserved and passed down to new generations by the oral traditions of the elder tribal members. However, the passage of time has greatly limited the knowledge and means to transmit the traditions and culture of the Indians. The Potawatomi Indian Nation, Inc., with a grant from MCH, is currently producing two video films designed to record in images and word the traditions and history of the Potawatomi Nation.

Women at Mackinac

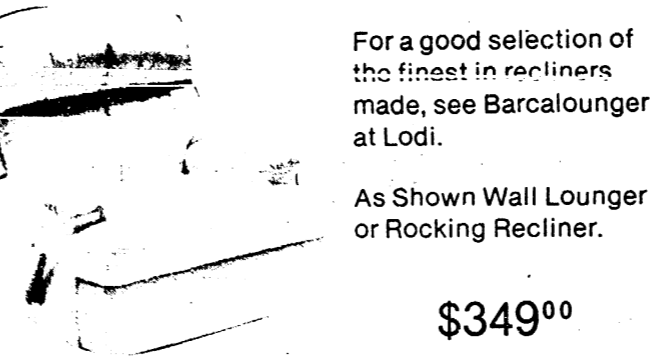

Although scholars have been aware of the importance of individual women in the commercial, social and religious history of Mackinac Island, a central place for information and material culture of these women has never before been compiled. The Mackinac Island State Park Commission, with a grant from MCH, has developed an exhibit focusing on the contributions of women to Mackinac Island. Women fur traders and missionaries, as well as the town ladies and "resorters" that shaped the development of the island are examined. A booklet describing the exhibit is now available from MCHS.

For more information on this project, contact: Phil Porter, Director of Interpretation,

In addition to projects, a catalog of resource materials, program aids and audiovisual programs related to Michigan history and life is being compiled by the Michigan Center for Humanities Services for public use. The catalog will be available in September. Also from MCHS will be a "Making of Michigan Life" Film Series list, both available in August. Please contact Lynda Ianni at 1407 S. Harrison, Suite 20, Nisbet Building, East Lansing, MI 48824, or phone (517) 355-0160 for more information about the catalog, the speakers bureau, the film series or MCH programs.

Rooting Rose Cuttings
Even without a green thumb, you can experience the excitement and personal satisfaction of rooting your own rose cuttings. Aside from being a rewarding hobby, rooting is also an economical way of increasing your supply of these blossoming beauties.

After proper timing one of the first steps toward successful rooting is choosing an effective rooting hormone, such as ROOTONE® brand Rooting Hormone with fungicide. This easy-to-use, carefully formulated powder stimulates the natural tendency of roots to form on rose cuttings.

A new leaflet on rooting rose cuttings, as well as a wide variety of other plants, is now available. To receive your free copy of "A Gardener's Guide To Rooting New Plants," write to me, Woody Leafgreen, Ph.D., in care of the SEVIN® Lawn & Garden Clinic, P.O. Box 578, Dept. G-Rooting, Smyrna, GA 30081-0578.

Peaches—The Great Taste Of Summer

The long, lazy days of summer bring with it the goodness of bountiful fresh fruits and vegetables. Nothing reaffirms the presence of summer more than overflowing bins and baskets of fresh, golden peaches at roadside stands and supermarkets.

The sunny summer color and luscious, aromatic flavor of peaches have earned it the affectionate nickname of the "Queen of Fruits." No other summer fruit is more versatile, nutritious and naturally sweet and delicious than the peach. A good source of natural fiber, the peach is also a delight for those concerned about the matter of healthy diet and nutrition.

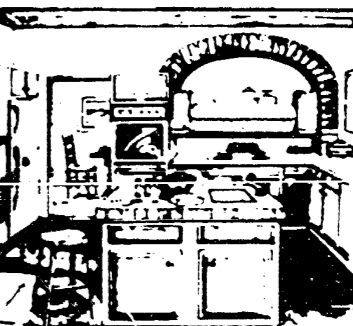

One medium-sized peach contains about 38 calories; it boasts a negligible fat content and it's sodium free. Peaches have fewer calories than either apples or pears and are an excellent source of Vitamin A and C, iron, calcium and potassium.

Fresh peaches are at their peak throughout the month of July—National Peach Month, and are in abundant supply at area markets. The National Peach Council offers these tips on buying and storing peaches, as well as a quick, tasty recipe:

- Look for peaches that are well-shaped with a creamy or golden background or undertone. The red blush of peaches is an indicator of its variety, not its ripeness.
- Do select peaches that are firm to the touch, not hard.
- Avoid peaches that have a green undertone; these won't ripen properly. Also avoid any hard, dull, bruised or wrinkled fruit.
- To ripen, store peaches at room temperature away from sunlight in a bowl or in a closed paper bag. A well-defined crease and "peachy" aroma indicate ripeness.
- To peel peaches, use the tomato method: Place peaches in boiling water, transfer to a bowl of cold water. The skin will peel right off.
- Keep these equivalents in mind when buying peaches: 3 or 4 medium peaches equal 1 lb. ...or 2 cups of sliced peaches... or 1 1/2 cups of puree.

For a free brochure with information, recipes and tips on nutrition, selection, storage and preparation, send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to: The National Peach Council, P.O. Box 1085, Martinsburg, West Virginia 25401.

Services are available to the public at no charge. No appointment is necessary. Please bring records of previous immunizations. For further information please call 973-1460.

A Brooklyn woman whose husband ran a candy store in 1902 saw a cartoon of Teddy Roosevelt, gun in hand, sparing the life of a cub bear that had been brought into the President's camp. At her sewing machine she turned cloth scraps, shoe buttons and excelsior into a toy bear that was labeled "Teddy's Bear" and displayed it in the store window. It sold immediately. She made two more and they sold. The husband immediately went into the toy bear business.

Sons of the Legion

The Son's of the American Legion will have their picnic on Sunday, July 27, at 1 p.m. at the home of Steve and Hattie Carson. Bring a dish to pass and table service.

Cards of Thanks

For all the beautiful flowers, cards, calls, visits and prayers. Thanks to all of you who thought of me while I way in the hospital and now recovering at home.

Also, many thanks to the Saline Hospital Staff, Father Noelke, Dr. Boudeman, friends and my family. God Bless you all, Donna Ross

I would like to thank all my friends and neighbors for the lovely flowers, fruit, and cards since my recent stay in the hospital. Also a big thanks to my children for all the help and the nurses, nurses aides and doctors at the Herrick Hospital for the wonderful care.

Edith Miller

I want to express my appreciation and love to my children, their families, grandchildren, great grandchildren, relatives and friends for the beautiful cards, gifts, phone calls which I received on my 90th Birthday July 10th.

Also a surprise party at Carr Park on Sunday with about 50 present. I will always remember your loving thoughts and kindness.

God Loves you all and so do I! Alma Uphaus

Thank you for the many acts of kindness, prayers and expressions of sympathy during our loss. We wish to thank you for the food, flowers, memorials and visits. A special thanks to our family, Pastor Booth, Ron and June Jenter, and the Manchester Rescue Squad.
