Mediator To Enter Contract Talks

Following better than eight hours of negotiations between representative of the Manchester Board of Education and the Washtenaw Livingston Education Association (WLEA) on Sunday, August 24 the Board's representatives elected to exercise contractual and legal rights to request the assistance of a State labor mediator. The WLEA represents approximately sixty teachers employed by the Manchester Board.

The current collective bargaining agreement expires on August 31, 1986. Teachers are scheduled to report for work on August 25. On August 24, the Board's representatives offered a contract extension until such time as a new contract is reached. The contract extension offer was rejected by the WLEA and local teacher representatives. The parties have however, agreed to several dates for further negotiations in September which will be reviewed with the State mediator.

While agreement has been reached on eleven articles and a 1986-87 school year calendar, many issues remain unresolved. Among the remaining W.L.E.A. contract demands are:

...A reduction in the teacher work day to seven hours inclusive of lunch breaks, conference time, etc.
...Guaranteed release time during the student instructional day for all teachers.

...A series of language changes in the vacancy and transfer provisions of the contract.
...Modifications in retirement provisions.
...Increases in insurance coverage which would cost an

HIT or MISS

by Farley

July 1966 seems to be the date for the one hundredth anniversary of at least three events which had a lasting and important effect on the world and our country. Lady Liberty had her anniversary observance and rejuvenation the first week of the month which will not be easily forgotten and which we are sure will instill into our consciousness that this is still the predominant "land of the free." Perhaps some of us had forgotten how privileged we are to be living here but the observances of that week reminded all of us of our privileges.

Then too, as we noted in a column a short time ago, July marked the date of the hundredth anniversary of the invention of the Linotype which revolutionized the process of printing and which made possible the production of our newspapers and magazines and books and all

Letter To The Editor

August 25, 1988

To the Citizens of Manchester:
 The Manchester teachers returned to work today despite the fact that a contract settlement has not been reached. The teachers returned to work on the advice of the Michigan Education Association attorneys, because the 1985-1986 contract between the Manchester unit of WLEA and the Manchester Board of Education doesn't expire until August 31, 1988.

Some bargaining took place on Sunday, August 25. However, after approximately eight hours of bargaining on Sunday, the Board broke off negotiations and cancelled the session scheduled for Monday. The Board stated that they would not continue to negotiate until a state mediator was present. The Manchester teachers, however, are willing to continue to meet with the Board's team in an attempt to reach an agreement prior to the August 31 expiration date of the current contract.

The Manchester teachers met at 7:30 a.m. Monday, August 25, to receive an update on the status of negotiations. Another meeting has been scheduled by the teachers for Friday, August 29, to re-evaluate the situation and to discuss future actions in regards to negotiations.

The Flying Equestrians and parents met on August 10, at the home of co-leader, Vera Kluwe. After a potluck dinner, video tapes of their performances at the Washtenaw County Youth Show in Saline were shown. This gave the 4-H'ers an opportunity to see themselves in action and discuss with the leaders, Vera Kluwe and Marcia Keith, and their group members, both strong and/or weak points of their rides.

Safe walking guide for school

Forty youngsters aged 5 to 14 were killed in pedestrian traffic accidents in 1987—a 30 percent increase over 1984. AAA Michigan recommends that parents and students become aware of the following to help reduce these fatalities: (1) Whenever possible, students walking to and from school should cross at corners protected by safety patrol officers. (2) Parents should demonstrate proper crossing procedures with students and escort kindergarten-aged youngsters to school the first few mornings. (3) Students should wait for a safe traffic gap—the length of a football field—before crossing. (4) Children should never cross between parked cars.

To help reduce school-age pedestrian traffic fatalities—which rose 30 percent in 1985—AAA Michigan will hold a series of statewide safety patrol training programs as part of its "School's Open-Drive Carefully" campaign.

From 1983 through 1986, 101 youngsters aged 5 to 14 were killed in pedestrian traffic accidents. During 1986, forty students were killed compared to 28 during 1984.

"Between September and the end of the year, we will conduct 450 safety patrol training programs across Michigan," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic manager. "The training will involve 20,000 patrol officers and affect 225,000 students."

The program will instruct these new to the safety patrol program and reinforce information received previously by safety patrol officers. Patrol officers are usually stationed at intersections along the established student walking routes, especially at the more heavily traveled intersections.

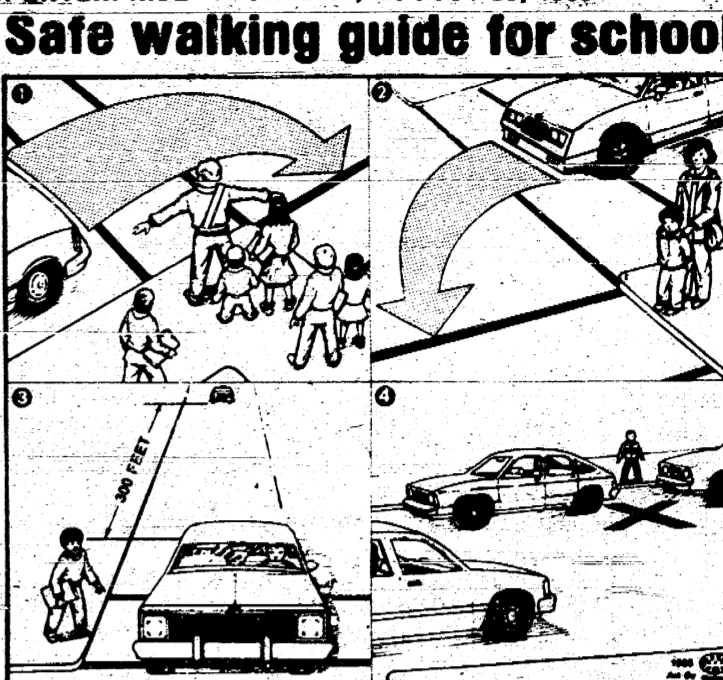

Parents also can ensure their children are not involved in pedestrian traffic accidents by teaching them proper procedures. "For the first few mornings, parents should walk with the 181,422 youngsters who will be attending elementary school for the first time," Cullen said.

"While students are cautioned to cross at the corner, motorists should be watchful for dart-outs and mid-block crossings when driving through school zones and playground areas," he pointed out.

In addition to the workshops, safety belts, badges and training booklets will be distributed by AAA Michigan to 1,800 Michigan schools. Free "School's Open-Drive Carefully" bumper stickers are available at AAA's 56 full-service offices statewide.

Other safety tips for students include:

- Cross only at intersections.
- Look in all directions before crossing streets and watch for cars turning on green lights or making legal turns on red lights.
- Obey safety patrol officers and crossing guards.
- Walk on the sidewalk. If there isn't one, walk facing traffic.
- Follow the safest route to school, which should be planned on streets with low traffic volume and controlled intersections.
- While waiting for the bus, stand in a safe place, well back from the roadway.
- Never retrieve anything near the bus wheels until first alerting the bus driver.

Brrr, more cool weather. They always say it will get hot again the minute the kids go back to school (wonder who 'they' are?).
 On October 21st in the cafeteria at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m., a Senior Birthday Party will be held. This year, 1986, marks the 75th anniversary of the Sisters of Mercy arrival in Ann Arbor to establish St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. They wish to celebrate this occasion with the senior community, and invite you to help them do so. As part of this happy occasion, they want to honor those seniors who also turn 75 in 1986. They need your help in identifying these individuals. Call Millard Uphaus: 428-7461 or Claire Reck: 428-8962 by Friday, August 29th. This will help them know how many seniors they can accommodate, and also assist them to specially honor the 75 year old person. Further information to follow.

On Thursdays through September, men will continue their golf.

Saturday, September 6: Seniors will visit Greenfield Village and/or the museum for the Old Car Festival. Get your name in to Helen Braun 428-8966 immediately, as this is limited to 15 persons.

Looking ahead: The first senior meal for the Fall season will be held on Tuesday, September 9 at Emanuel dining room for all those 55 years of age and older. Newsletters are in the mail for the review of all the Tuesday and Thursday meals and activities coming up in the next two months.

This is also the time to call Helen about our two excursions coming up: (1) the 'up north' trip to Agawa Canyon, Canada, Soo Locks and Tahquamenon Falls, October 3-6, and (2) Christmas at Whiting in Flint trip scheduled for Saturday, December 20 for an afternoon performance. These are open to all age groups, so come along and bring the kids. Call Helen and make your reservation.

Cards of Thanks

Thanks to the American Legion I would like to thank the opportunity to thank the American Legion for the stone based flagpole they designed and constructed at the new athletic field. It is certainly a beautiful addition to an already outstanding complex. I am sure the complex is something the people of Manchester can take pride in as they entertain neighboring communities.

Sincerely,

In Memoriam

In memory of Dirk S. Rodriguez
 Birthdate: Sunday, August 24, 1986

Most of us can all remember the warmth, and charm of Dirk S. Rodriguez; but I viewed a side of him that only a few people have ever seen before. Yes, Dirk was one "tuff guy", but he was just as gentle and caring.

I guess the thing that I was attracted to most was his spirit. He was nothing but a constant encouragement to me and helped me through some hard times. He always told me to "Fight for my Rights," NO MATTER WHAT. In the short time we had together, I feel that we really had a close personal relationship. We could really understand each other which to me makes it "Special."

To my Love,
 Happy 19th Birthday
 Remembering you always
 Jennifer S. Wilson

"If you but knew"
 If you but knew
 How all my days seemed filled with dreams of you,
 How sometimes in the silent night
 Your eyes thrill through me with their tender light,
 How oft I hear your voice when others speak,
 How you 'mid other forms I seek-
 Oh, love more real than though such dreams were true
 If you but knew.

Could you but guess
 How you alone make all my happiness,
 My lover and likewise truest friend,
 Would you love me, dearest, as fondly in return,
 Could you but learn.

With Love and deepest respect,
 Jennifer S. Wilson

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all questions on the form. An application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: (1) the total household income AND the amount and source of income received by each household member (such as wages, child support, etc.) OR the household's food stamp case number if the household is on food stamps; (2) names of all household members; (3) social security numbers of all household members 21 years of age or older, or the word "none" for any adult household member who does not have a social security number; and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced price meal benefits, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 per month ($600 per year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for these benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced-price meals for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the Food Service Director will review applications and determine eligibility.

Parent or guardian dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determine official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling the following official: Polly Brokaw, 710 East Main Street, Manchester, Michigan 48158, 313-428-7300. Each school and the Superintendents Office have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of the child feeding programs no child will be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

HIT or MISS

announcement that sometime in July a baby was born who brought the total number of human beings on earth to a new record total of five billion. This total does not stay still for long for every weekend this baby has been joined by another million. By the end of the year there will be 5.6 billion more people sharing this planet which has not grown a single bit. We can't add to the earth's surface to accommodate new residents.

It took all of recorded time to reach a total of one billion in 1840. It took only eleven years to reproduce the latest billion, there may be three billion more by 2021 and we have no idea how many more this planet can accommodate and maintain. The experts tell about the "carrying capacity of earth" as if it were a plane instead of a planet hurtling through space. How many people, they ask, do we have room for. They debate the limits of earth's resources and ask how we can use them to maintain our species. We have learned how to turn a desert into fields acre by acre, and an ocean ousce by ousce, into drinking water. We can wrest the coal from the mountains and pump the oil from inside the earth for our own uses. What are the limits to all this? We talk about the carrying capacity of the earth as if it were here only to support us. We talk about "resources" as if the mountains and the oceans and the animals were here only for us to use for our own purposes. There are now so many of us that we now think of the earth as the private property of our own species.

Even in these United States there is no longer a "population explosion" for it is hard nowadays to find a place that doesn't have a human on it. Nature is not now an everyday habitat. We just visit it during our vacations. We explore our lakes and rivers and our National Parks. Sooner or later we pave these spots or put a parking lot next door and pay admission to visit nature. In Michigan for example we are modernizing the Sleeping Bear Dune by paving the roads to and through it. We are protecting Hartwick Pines, the last existing stand of virgin pine in this state but it is "cleaned up" and civilized for our use.

We are not now a part of our environment—a part of nature—and it is becoming more and more difficult to imagine what it was

Chemical Morse Code

Everyone is somewhat familiar with Morse Code from experience with Scouts or from watching old westerns on television. A series of dots and dashes (in groups of three) code for each letter in our alphabet. One can transmit a message of any length or complexity using only these two symbols, the dot and the dash.

A similar coding system is used in our bodies. Molecules called DNA are responsible for controlling our development and function. DNA is the hereditary material passed from one generation to another. It is like a blue print. From its coded information the magnificent structures of our bodies develop over a period of a few months from single cells into creatures containing billions of cells—liver cells, nerve cells, muscle cells, etc. Each of these cells needs to work perfectly and in harmony with the other cells so that we function normally. Millions of "chemical reactions need to be controlled for this to happen. How does DNA do it? DNA codes for the assembly of amino acids into proteins. There are many types of protein molecules coded by DNA, among them a particularly important type, the enzymes. Enzymes control almost every chemical reaction that occurs in our bodies. How we develop and function depends on these chemical reactions. If DNA can control the making of enzymes, it can control all of the reaction that make us work.

DNA is composed of two long chains containing four types of links which, for simplicity's sake, will be called A, G, C, and T. Each chain may contain hundreds of thousands of links. The two chains are complementary. Where A appears in one chain, T appears in the other; where G appears in one chain, C appears in the other. As an example think of two long lines of students. One line faces the other. A black male student in one line faces a black female in the other; a white female student in one line faces a white male student in the other. When it is time to make a new copy of the "DNA," the two lines are separated. Each one can be used as a template or pattern from which to make a new complementary chain. Across from each black female, a black male must be placed; across from each white female, a white male must be placed.

Since the two chains are complementary, DNA can be reproduced very accurately generation after generation. If the copying process were sloppy, the DNA would contain mistakes that would result in bad enzymes and genetic defects could result.

Each section of DNA that codes for a protein is called a gene. A single DNA molecule may contain thousands of genes. DNA is not used directly for the assembly of proteins, rather it serves as a master copy from which large numbers of smaller approximately gene-sized "messages"—RNA molecules are made. RNA contains the same coding information that DNA does since it too is a chain made of four types of links.

These four types of links in RNA must be used to code for twenty different amino acids. Like the dots and dashes of Morse Code, the four links in RNA must be arranged in groups of three to get enough codes for all twenty amino acids. For example, CAG codes for one amino acid; AGC codes for another.

In organisms like man DNA actually contains extra links that do not code for amino acids. After RNA has been made from DNA, it must be "processed" to remove this extra material. Consider the following analogy: "Now is the tryal arly mcrry xaine for all good men to come to the aid of their country." The extra material ruins the message and must be edited out. If the tryal arly mcrry xn is cut out and the sentence spliced back together, it reads "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country." The processed RNA can then be used to assemble amino acids into proteins. The reason DNA contains this extra material is not known, but much research is being conducted in an attempt to find out.

Lodge Reconstruction Moves Ahead

Work on the John C. Lodge (US-10) Freeway reconstruction is going well. All the concrete for shoulders and outside safety walls has been poured on the northbound side of the 7.8-mile-long project and the grinding down of the roll curb between the edge of pavement and the shoulder is well under way. We anticipate that the northbound freeway will be fully open to traffic the week of August 23. Some cleaning of storm water sewers and television scanning of the sewer system in preparation Motorists are doing a great job of coping with the Lodge reconstruction. Obviously, they've learned their Lodge-ability well, and this helps the contractor—Midwest Bridge Co.—to maintain the work schedule. People seeking information about the project are calling the Lodge hot-line (888-LODGE) an average of 450 times a week, and we are changing our recorded messages as often as twice a day to keep the information current.

The free tow truck service also is getting heavy use. Two trains are patrolling both sides of the freeway 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and are rendering service an average of about 100 times a week. Quickly removing disabled vehicles from the freeway helps to keep traffic moving smoothly through the work area.

Traffic volumes have declined significantly since the project began, and our indication of good traffic the week of August 23. However, the decline has contributed to one continuing problem—speeding.

Transportation Update

Many motorists do not observe the reduced speed limit of 45 miles per hour, and this of course creates a hazard for the work crews. We must continually urge drivers to "Give 'em a brake," and hope you'll do the same when you're driving the Lodge.

Howard Street Exit Being Improved

Work is started on a city of Detroit project to improve another option for Lodge Freeway drivers using the Howard Street exit in downtown Detroit. Motorists using the exit now must turn either right or left onto Howard Street. The project will upgrade the exit ramp and extend the roadway, including the service drive, south to Fort Street. It is scheduled for completion in mid-November.

Cobo Hall Utility Work Well Under Way

The city of Detroit is aiming for a February completion of the utility alterations required for the Cobo Hall expansion. The State Transportation Department is helping to oversee the project, which involves extensive work on telephone, water and sewer and lighting facilities. Both the city and our department are doing all we can to provide motorists and other people working downtown with up-to-date information about the traffic changes made necessary by the work that's taking place. Work on the street and Lodge freeway network in the Cobo Hall area will begin next year.

Improvements Coming for I-96

One of the fastest developing areas in the state is in western Wayne and Oakland counties, along the I-275 and I-96 freeway corridors. I-275, opened several years ago, is well able to handle growing traffic volumes, but I-96 is another story. The western end between I-49 at Novi and I-244 (Telegraph Road) in Southfield was completed in 1983. Traffic jams occur daily along that stretch of the four-lane freeway.

The Department of Transportation, working with local governments and agencies as well as businesses and other interested groups, is nearing completion of a lengthy study to help remedy the situation. We will be ready to announce our plans by early September.

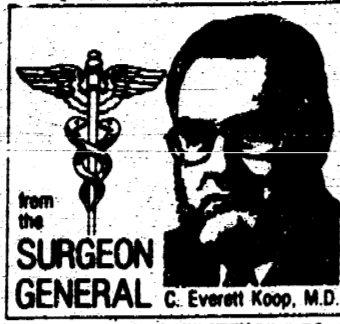

At the request of Governor Blanchard, we have included Haggerty Road freeway access in our planning for improving the traffic flow through the area. That north-south Oakland County Road is heavily used by motorists moving off and onto I-275, I-96 and I-496, but there is no direct connection to the freeway system.

Former Governor John Swainson Guest Speaker

Former Governor John B. Swainson will speak Tuesday, September 9, on "Michigan's Sesquicentennial" at a meeting of the Clinton Historical Society.

The 6 p.m. talk will be given in the Lyster Hall annex to St. James Episcopal Church and follows a brief 7:30 p.m. business meeting which opens the Clinton groups series of 1986-87 meetings.

Swainson's talk is open to the public and special invitations have gone out to other area societies. Since serving as Michigan's Governor, he has taken special interest in the State's history and currently serves on the Governor's Sesquicentennial Commission. Michigan became a state in 1806 but the observance continues into 1987 with numerous special programs.

Using Medicines Safely: A Message For Older Americans

The same medicines that we take to cure our illnesses, speed up our recoveries and make us feel better can cause serious health problems if not taken carefully. Medicines work only when people use them as directed and coordinate them properly with what they eat and drink and with other medications they are taking.

Due to the quantity of medicines they take, the difficulty of taking them as prescribed, or the effects of the drugs, older Americans have a greater problem complying with their medicine schedules than the overall population. Because older Americans generally take more medication than other age groups, they also run a particularly high risk of problems resulting from interactions among drugs. Forty percent of the people who encounter adverse reactions from taking multiple drugs are over 60. There are many easy steps older people can take to learn more about their medicines and how their medication schedules should be followed. The most important thing we can do is talk to our doctors and pharmacists and listen to their answers. When your doctor prescribes a new drug, be sure to tell him or her what medicines you already are taking, including over-the-counter remedies such as aspirin, laxatives, antacids and so forth. This will help ensure that your new prescription does not react adversely with other drugs you are taking.

Find out the name of the new medicine (both the brand name and the generic name) and ask what it is supposed to do. Ask what foods or beverages you should take it with and what foods, drinks or activities you should avoid while you are on it. Find out if there are likely to be any side effects and, if so, what they may be and what you should do if you get them. Tell your doctor about any adverse reactions or allergies you have had to medicines in the past.

To have their intended effect, medicines must be taken at certain intervals in certain strengths. Follow your doctor's recommendations and schedule for taking your medicine. If you have trouble taking your medicines as directed, whether because of an inconvenient schedule, hard-to-follow instructions or just your doctor know. He may be able to make your treatment easier to follow or prescribe less expensive drugs. Don't hesitate to ask if generic drugs are available for your particular needs.

Never stop taking your medicine without talking with your doctor first. Besides not giving you the medical treatment you need, it could also cause problems down the line. For example, if your doctor believes that you're taking your medication properly, when he examines you he may see problems he thought the drug would alleviate. As a result, he may prescribe a stronger medicine than you need. Be honest about your compliance.

The other person who can help you with your medication is your pharmacist. Talk to your pharmacist about prescriptions you are getting, and ask if there are any special instructions for taking it or any special requirements for storage, such as keeping it in the refrigerator. If you are taking more than one medicine, ask your pharmacist about aids to help you organize additional 10.3% increase over current premium costs. Absent a change in insurance benefits, premium rate increases have already resulted in new costs to the district in excess of 4% to maintain the current insurance plan.

A series of proposed language changes in the layoff and recall provisions, in part resulting from a recent arbitration award. In the award, an impartial arbitrator appointed through the American Arbitration Association upheld the Board of Education with respect to the procedures implemented in making certain staff reductions in the Fall of 1985. On August 18, 1986, the WLEA issued a 9.75% increase in the salary schedule. According to a WLEA spokesperson, the 9.75% increase would cost the district $205,587 over last year's salary costs. On August 24, the WLEA modified its position to reflect an 8% increase in the salary schedule. The latest WLEA proposal considering salary schedule step advancement, would yield salary increases ranging from 8% to figures in excess of 10%.

Increases in "extra duty" compensations. Among the remaining issues proposed by the Board are: Establishing limitations on the amount of insurance premiums the Board will pay for full-time teachers. Reserving the right to determine what quantities are required to be assigned to positions during periods of layoff in addition to those minimum requirements established by the State Board of Education.

A two-year salary proposal in which every teacher in the district, in the first year would receive at least a 5% pay increase. Other districts in Jackson, Washtenaw and Livingston counties with settled agreements for 1986-87 have granted increases averaging near 5%.

The progress to date has been slow. Negotiations ended on Sunday when after eight hours of negotiations, a dispute developed following the WLEA withdrawal of an agreement on school closings. This and other conduct by teacher negotiators is prompting consideration, by the Board's representatives, to file Unfair Practice charges with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

Michigan's labor laws provide clear avenues for the peaceful resolutions of labor disputes including mediation. The Board negotiators are confident that the mediation effort will provide assistance in achieving an expeditious settlement with the teachers. The Board remains willing to accept a contract extension and pursue available legal remedies to achieve an agreement.

$ MONEY MANAGEMENTS

Helping An Aging Parent Prepared by The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

Caring for elderly parents need not be difficult. By assessing your parent's finances, sharing responsibility with other family members and taking advantage of tax breaks, the Michigan Association of CPAs says you can do much to provide a comfortable environment for aging parents without straining your own finances.

Start by reviewing your parent's budget. Be certain the budget is realistic and lists all items that require regular payments as well as all anticipated expenses.

Costs for support can be high. Injuries or illnesses, after all, could reduce an aging parent's assets. A nursing home can cost $100 a day or more. To prepare for those and other expenses, you should evaluate your parent's finances and match his or her assets against the costs of medical or nursing home care.

Consider looking into nursing home insurance. If your parent must remain in a home for an extended time, the insurance covers a portion of the expenses.

such care. The maximum credit is $720 for one parent and $1,440 if you are caring for two or more.

You can also claim a medical expense deduction to the extent that all medical expenses exceed five percent of your adjusted gross income.

Once you have a grasp of your parent's needs and have a financial plan in place to meet those needs, CPAs say both you and your parent can begin to enjoy a more financially secure future.

Someone else can claim the deduction the following year. Be sure your parent applies for all the tax benefits he or she is entitled to, including the tax credit for the elderly.

Should your parent be disabled and unable to care for him or herself, you may qualify for a tax credit if you hire someone to provide care while you work.

Another route is for you to provide income to your aging parent through trusts or loans of your own.

Michigan To Receive Windfall Under New Tax

The new federal tax overhaul plan that was approved by a House-Senate conference committee last week will create a revenue gain of up to $200 million for Michigan in 1988, according to state budget experts.

Michigan's income tax code is based on federal adjusted gross income (AGI), which is the amount of taxable income after deductions. Because many deductions are repealed in the new tax plan, individuals will find that more of their income is subject to tax. The state will be able to tax more of the taxpayers' income, thus creating more revenues for the state. The two largest sources for the revenue increase would stem from the new treatment of Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA's) and the taxation of capital gains as ordinary taxable income.

Following preliminary analysis of the Senate-passed reform bill, Governor James Blanchard, along with state Republican leaders, proposed that it could be possible to roll back the state income tax rate from 4.6% to 4.4% in 1988. The Governor and others feel that this is the simplest way to return the revenue gained to Michigan taxpayers. Senator Norman Shinkle (R-Lambertville), chair of the Senate Finance Committee, has introduced legislation that would lower the state tax rate to 4.2%. In all likelihood, neither of these proposals will be considered until Treasury, the House and Senate Fiscal Agencies and the Department of Management and Budget can confirm that the state will receive adequate revenues to fund such a rate cut. Since the tax bill still has to gain approval from both houses of Congress, many changes are possible that can affect the amount of revenue gain Michigan will receive.

Other states will also receive revenue gains under the new tax code. New York is expecting to collect $1 billion in additional revenues, and Governor Mario Cuomo has proposed reducing one of their state taxes, such as the state sales or income tax, to eliminate any revenue gain. Because many states are experiencing economic slumps due to plunging oil prices and declining farm economies, states like Louisiana and Montana plan to keep the new revenues in the state coffers. Illinois and Iowa plan to use their new revenues to make up for recent cuts in federally funded programs, while Virginia plans to use the revenue gain for much-needed road repair.

Estimates of the revenue gain average about $150 million, according to estimates from the Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis and the Senate Fiscal Agency. The tax reform measure could decrease the average Michigan taxpayer's federal tax burden by 5%, which could amount to approximately $150 for a taxpayer earning about $25,000 annually. Estimates of how much a state tax cut will return to individuals has yet to be calculated.
