Hit or Miss

by farley

Thanks to all of you who have expressed your appreciation for the poetry which we included in this column a few weeks ago. We were glad to learn that so many appreciated poetry of such high caliber and so may we include this week one more poem which we greatly appreciated which was submitted to us by an admirer I guess:

INSTEAD

Just a line to say I'm living That I'm not among the dead Though I'm getting more forgetful And am messed up in the head.

So if it's my turn to write you There's no need for getting sore.

I may think that I have written And I don't want to be a bore. So remember that I love you And I wish that you were here But now it's nearly mail time So I must say goodbye dear.

A friend of mine tells me that he has not been until lately, a great television fan but along some time in February he inadvertently ran across and watched several TV commercials placed therein by the various auto dealers.

Then I stand beside the mailbox With a face that's really red For instead of mailing you my letter I have opened it INSTEAD.

It's Campbell Soup Time!

Manchester Middle School is collecting labels to be exchanged for Audio-visual equipment. The collection period ends on February 15, 1987.

Please save labels for all Campbell soups, "V-8" juices, Swanson canned and frozen foods, all Franco-American products, Recipe dog food, Mrs. Pauls frozen foods, and Vlasick pickle products.

You may send the labels to any Manchester school to be sent to the Middle School or give them to any Middle School student or deposit them at the local I.G.A.

These commercials were used to sell Japanese automobiles, but I hope they were not Japan's idea of civilization in America. But with the success these products have had here, my friend says that they might well be right. But he says that they only induced him to strive to convince him that he wasn't an imbecile. Come to think of it, I have noted that week after week and month after month dealers must sell at rock bottom, slashed or reduced prices. Because by their stupidity they have overloaded their showrooms and their lots with far too many cars.

Historical Society Meeting January 19

Michigan became the 26th state admitted to the Union on January 26, 1837. Governor John B. Swainson, Honorary Chairperson of the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission, will describe Michigan's early history and the events leading to statehood at the next meeting of the Manchester Area Historical Society.

Please join us on Monday, January 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the Blacksmith Shop, 324 East Main Street, to hear this interesting talk.

"No-Use" Resolutions

One of the primary tasks of the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth (NFP) has been to persuade other national organizations to publicly denounce all use of drugs and alcohol by young people. The umbrella parent group took a major step in that direction, with two groups (National PTA and Lions International) are on record as opposing "responsible use" by young people.

Choose Cough Syrup Carefully

Columnist Joseph A. Pursch, M.D., warns parents to carefully examine cough syrup labels before taking the medication because most cough suppressants contain alcohol. "Turpin hydrate elixir," he says, for example, "contains 42 percent alcohol which makes it 80-proof." He recommends nonalcoholic cough syrups such as Triaminol, Sudafed and Actifed.

"Kiss Your Baby"

When Is A Kiss Not Just A Kiss?

When it's used to detect Cystic Fibrosis. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has launched a statewide educational campaign, called "KISS YOUR BABY" which begins January 25th and runs through the month of February. The purpose of the campaign is to alert parents to the symptoms of Cystic Fibrosis, in the hope that early diagnosis and prompt treatment will result. (An essential element in lengthening the life span of children and young adults with this deadly disease).

One of the identifying symptoms of cystic fibrosis is an extremely salty taste to the CF child's skin, which can be detected by kissing or tasting them on the forehead. Other symptoms include:

1. Recurrent wheezing.
2. Persistent coughing and excess mucus.
3. Pneumonia more than once during childhood.
4. Excessive appetite but poor weight gain.
5. Enlargement of the fingertips, and
6. Persistent foul-smelling stools.

Suspecting parents are directed to consult their local physician. Cystic fibrosis is an inherited disease for which there is no cure at the present time. An estimated 10 million Americans (1 in 20) are unknown, symptomless carriers of the gene. In CF, a thick sticky mucus clogs the lungs and airways creating breathing difficulties, high susceptibility to infection, and lung damage. The mucus may also interfere with digestion by preventing the flow of enzymes into the small intestine, causing malabsorption of food. The symptoms vary in severity from person to person, and are often similar to symptoms of other childhood disorders such as severe allergies, asthma, or digestive problems.

Because early diagnosis is so essential to longer life for those afflicted by Cystic Fibrosis, we have embarked on this campaign to bring this vital health message to the people of Michigan. Our celebrity chairperson this year is Jeff Chadwick, #89, wide-receiver for the Detroit Lions, and his wife Karen. With their help, we hope to better spread the word of when a KISS IS MORE THAN JUST A KISS.

Letter To The Editor

To Whom It May Concern:

A project is underway to make a historical museum out of the old Town Hall School located in Pittsfield Township on the corner of the Geddes farm. Plans are being made to move the one-room country school to the campus of Eastern Michigan University sometime during 1987, to be in place for the Bicentennial celebration in October.

As Schoolhouse historian, I would like to appeal to anyone who ever attended Town Hall School, or who might have pictures, memorabilia or any information that might be of interest to contact me as soon as possible. I can be reached at the following address:

Bike-A-Thon Coming Soon!

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced that Mrs. Rita Burkhardt has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Manchester.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to "Jaime". Jaime is from Ohio and was diagnosed with leukemia in May of 1983, and began treatment at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Today, her cancer is in remission and she is doing quite well. Jaime is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Mrs. Rita Burkhardt has for our work and we hope the citizens of Manchester will support the Bike-a-thon this spring to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset... "Our Children."

Proper Snow Shoveling Can Reduce Back Pain And Injury

Have you ever heaved a shovel full of wet snow only to suddenly feel a stabbing pain in the back?

A heaping shovel of snow improperly lifted can exert an estimated 100 to 200 pounds of additional pressure on the vital lumbosacral disc, leading to possible excruciating low-back pain and sciatica. The disc - the lowest one in the spinal column - carries most of the body's weight and is often the primary site of disc protrusion.

This winter incorrect shoveling practices will again cause pain and injury to the low back and limbs, warns Stanley Gilbert, D.C. of Manchester Chiropractic Clinic.

To help avoid or aggravate back and limb pain this winter, Gilbert recommends these 10 safety tips:

1. Don't shovel if you've had serious spinal, lung or cardiovascular conditions or are older and out of shape.
2. Do simple warm up exercises first to limber up.
3. Dress warmly; wear an extra-long garment to protect the low-back muscles from cold air.
4. Always stand erect and bend from the knees, not from the waist; handle small-to-moderate loads at a time.
5. Push rather than lift the snow where possible; deposit it close by instead of twisting and throwing it over a wide area.
6. Use your arms, legs, feet and thighs in a smooth, coordinated motion to deposit the snow near you.
7. Change grip and stance often to avoid overusing the stronger side of your body.
8. Pace yourself, don't overexert, and rest frequently.
9. Don't shovel in extremely frigid weather.
10. If your health is a risk factor, don't take a chance; ask your neighborhood youngsters to shovel for you.

Lifting a heaping shovel of snow without bending the knees can be a major factor in contributing to severe stress in the spine, cautions Dr. Gilbert. A shovel of wet snow weighing 10 to 15 pounds held in front of the body can increase the pressure on the lumbosacral disc by 15 times the weight lifted, he added.

Other causes of shoveling-related pain and injury are lifting and throwing too much snow at a time, twisting and bending from the waist and overexertion, according to Dr. Gilbert.

In addition to low- and upper-back pain, poor shoveling techniques can trigger sciatica (a shooting pain and sensation in the leg), and brachial neuralgia (a burning, tingling, numbness or pain down the neck, shoulder and arm).

The heart also handles a big load while shoveling. Exertion and frigid air can put a burden on the cardiovascular system.

Should You Prepare Your Tax Return Yourself?

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

Right around this time of year, taxpayers across the country glance at the calendar to see how long they can put off preparing their taxes. But don't procrastinate, advises the Michigan Association of CPAs. Now is the time to start gathering all the necessary information to make the job easier.

Preparing your taxes does not have to be a chore. But, if you find it is because your financial situation is growing more complicated, perhaps it is time to consider hiring an expert to do it for you. Many taxpayers have opted to leave this job up to someone else and there are many professionals who specialize in tax preparation who will gladly take on the task.

How do you know if you need a professional to prepare your taxes? Take a look at some of the information that is required on a tax form and gather the necessary receipts and vouchers required for filing. This will include information about your income such as salary, dividends, interest and gains from tax shelters. If you have had an increase in your income over the past year or two, if you got married or if you had a child, your tax situation may have changed making tax preparation more detailed.

Take a look at your deductions. Items like medical expenses, interest expenses, taxes, charitable contributions and business expenses all fall into this category. If any of these amounts increased over the past year or if you incurred expenses for the first time, this is going to warrant additional attention.

Did you buy or sell a home this year? There are a number of costs involved in buying or selling a home and some of them are tax deductible. This will more than likely change your tax status.

If, after reviewing this information, you still feel uneasy about completing your tax return, you should consider hiring a professional such as a certified public accountant, an enrolled agent, an attorney or a general tax preparer.

How do you go about finding one of these professionals?

The first choice you need to make is whether you need a general tax preparer or a certified public accountant. What is the difference?

The basic distinction between a certified public accountant (CPA) and a tax preparer is that a CPA is trained and licensed to give you advice on how to handle your financial affairs. He or she can also represent you before the IRS if your tax return is audited; a general tax preparer usually cannot.

The easiest way to locate a CPA is by asking other trusted professionals, such as your lawyer, business associates or friends who they use. If they are happy with their CPA, chances are you will be, too.

Besides being able to represent you when your taxes are audited, a CPA will be able to offer counsel on all your financial matters on a day-to-day basis. In doing this, he or she can help you to fully understand your financial position and help you to plan strategies for the future.

Most CPAs bill on an hourly basis so the more time they spend with you and your return, the more it will cost. Having all of your records organized before you meet with a CPA will help cut down on time.

Another option for having your taxes prepared is with a general tax preparer. As their title suggest, tax preparers use the financial information you provide to properly prepare your tax return. A tax preparer will help you choose the best IRS forms to file, make sure you take all your deductions and calculate your taxes. It is relatively easy to find a tax preparer. Every year during tax season you will begin to see advertisements for their relatively low fee for preparing your return.

Whomever you decide to hire, be wary of any preparer who starts to make guarantees of a refund, refuses to sign the return once it is prepared or who asks you to sign a blank form before the work has begun. All of these things have been known to happen and may cause problems later.

Whether you use a preparer, a CPA or complete your own tax return, organizing your information is the key. Have all of your records and receipts—such as those for investment income, bank statements, medical costs and child care—in some kind of filing system. This will cut down on preparation time and will help you in case your preparer or CPA has questions.

The decision to prepare your own tax return or to let a professional do it may depend on the complexity of your financial situation. If this is the year you got the big raise, got married, had a child, bought a house or made any other changes affecting your financial situation, you might want to seriously consider using a professional. Remember, it's never too early to get started on your taxes to make that April 15, deadline.

"Special Birth Certificate" Received

One of the New Year's first babies received the first Sesquicentennial birth certificate today in presentation ceremonies at Hutzel Hospital, 4707 St. Antoine, Detroit - a member of the Detroit Medical Center.

Marcus Antonio Napoleon Adams entered the world at 12:09 on January 1, 1987. He is the son of Marcus and Maria Adams, Jr., 4428 Christancy, Detroit.

The 8 pound 10 ounce baby boy was presented a special keepsake, replica of his birth certificate by Dr. Gloria R. Smith, Director, Michigan Department of Public Health.

"As part of the Sesquicentennial celebration, all 1987 birth certificates issued by the Michigan Department of Public Health will feature the Sesquicentennial logo," said Dr. Smith. A $10.00 statutory fee is charged for all birth certificates, but baby Marcus will receive a complimentary copy.

The Michigan Sesquicentennial mascot - a toy black bear - and a Sesquicentennial T-shirt were presented to the child by Merri Jo Bales, Executive Director of the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission. "We are pleased to have baby Marcus represent all the Michigan Sesquicentennial babies of 1987," said Bales.

Hutzel Hospital was selected for the presentation ceremony since it has one of the highest delivery rates in the state. Representing the hospital at the ceremony was Don Snell, Vice President and Chief Operating Officer for the Hospital.

An Average Farmer

There is no way to describe an average farmer any more than you can describe an average doctor, lawyer, school teacher, welder or minister. The Lord made us all equal, but most folks don't stay that way. There are good and bad, weak and strong, smart and not-so-smart folks in all professions.

However, someone has taken all the farms in this country and divided them into all the agricultural production and acreage farmed and come up with these figures for an "average" farmer.

Farms divided into acreage comes up with an average farm of 438 acres. Assuming this acreage had just the proper amounts of sunshine and rain in a year, it would produce about 60 tons of hay, 50 tons of feed corn, 41 tons of silage corn and 31 tons of wheat. Most of the hay and corn would be used to feed the livestock. The wheat would be used primarily for milling into flour to provide us with bread, pastries and other bakery goods.

The 438 acres would also raise 20 tons of soybeans, 12 tons of sugarcane, 9 tons of sugarbeets, 12 tons of fruit and 9 tons of vegetables. Besides tending to the field crops, fruits and vegetables, the average farmer would have livestock to manage. Because more Americans are eating poultry today, there would be 280 broilers raised every eight weeks for a total of 1,800 per year. Since the turkey is eaten year around now, there would be 73 of them to raise. The beef animals on this average farm would produce 10,000 pounds of red meat and the hogs would yield more than 6,000 pounds of bacon, ham, pork chops and other pork products.

The cows have to be milked twice a day for seven days a week and would yield over 7,000 pounds of milk a year.

If you farm, you are probably saying to yourself, "Thank goodness I'm not average; I'd never get all that done." There's probably no farmer who would be "average" based on this definition. However, collectively, U.S. farmers are producing these and other crops in abundance. So much abundance, in fact, that less than 3% of the citizens in this country are feeding the other 97%, plus having huge surpluses to export. No other nation can match the American Farmer regardless of whether he is "Average" or not.

You might say our American Farmers are "above average"

Science Summaries

A new Gallup Poll on the legalization of marijuana showed that public support for legalization is eroding. In contrast to feelings expressed during the mid 70's, 73 percent of the adults interviewed for the May poll opposed legalization.

The latest quarterly report on marijuana potency based on an ongoing survey of confiscated samples shows that the trend toward stronger potency continues. In 1984, the average concentration of THC was 4.13 percent, compared to 1 percent in 1976, 2 percent in 1980, and 3.5 percent in 1983.

Promoting Healthier Lifestyles for Older People

During the past year, I've written a number of columns aimed at improving the health of older Americans. All of the columns have carried a common, important theme: Older people can do many things to maintain or improve their health.

More than 49 million people in this country are 55 or older. In the next four decades, that number is expected to more than double. While most older Americans consider themselves to be in good health, nearly 80 percent have at least one chronic health condition, such as heart disease, diabetes or arthritis.

The good news for older adults, which I hope my columns have been spreading, is that older people can prevent or better manage chronic health conditions by adopting healthier lifestyles. To benefit, all you have to do is follow some simple, healthy habits, like eating right, exercising regularly, quitting smoking, using medicines safely and preventing injuries. Let's review some of the key points of these important behaviors.

Eating Right. Eating nutritious, well-balanced meals can lower your risk of cancer, heart disease and other chronic conditions. It can help you reach and maintain your proper weight and help you look and feel better. Eat a variety of healthy foods—fresh fruits, and vegetables, low-fat dairy products, whole-grain breads and cereals and lean meats. Remember, too, that calcium is important for strong bones and fiber is needed for healthy digestive tracts.

Exercise Regularly. No matter what age you are or what shape you're in, there's an exercise that's right for you. Regular exercise can improve your mental health and physical appearance. It may also help you sleep better and make it easier for you to lose weight. Vigorous, regular exercise appears to have a role in increasing and maintaining overall cardiovascular health. There is also some evidence that it helps reduce high blood pressure, stress and strokes. A recent study, however, found that many older people believe there is no need for them to exercise and that exercise can even prove harmful. The fact is that exercise, if done properly, benefits older people just as it does other age groups.

Quit Smoking. It's never too late to quit. New research shows that no matter what your age, or no matter how long you've been smoking, if you stop now, you'll reduce your risk of cancer, chronic bronchitis, emphysema and even heart attacks.

The evidence is overwhelming. A recent study showed that the effects of smoking are at least partly reversible within one to five years of quitting—even among people who have smoked for decades. Another revealed a decline in the death rate for men over the age of 50 who stopped smoking. Quitting smoking is not easy and many people may need a program to help them quit, but more than 35 million Americans have done it. And there are more good reasons to quit every day.

Use Medicines Safely. Medicines can ease pain and discomfort and improve the way you feel. They can help speed recovery when you're ill. But medicines work only when used as directed and when coordinated properly with what you eat and drink and the other drugs you take. Because older people generally take more medicines than other age groups, they may have greater problems complying with their medicine schedules. Make sure you, your doctor and your pharmacist know as much as possible about all the different medications—prescription and nonprescription—that you take.

Prevent Injuries. As people get older, they become more vulnerable to injuries. Many injuries can be prevented by practicing proper safety habits and maintaining good physical health. The Centers for Disease Control estimate that 90 percent of all injuries are preventable. The most common causes of injury among older adults are falls, auto-related accidents and burns. Safety-proof your home by providing adequate lighting and removing obstacles that might cause a fall. Install devices like handrails, grab bars and nonskid rugs. Be careful when cooking to avoid burns. Drive during the time of day when you feel most confident, with your safety belt fastened.

Healthy older people follow these simple words of advice. Why? For a better life.

Josh Billings On Bed-Bugs

Manchester Enterprise
January 30, 1868

I never seen ennybody yet but what despised bed-bugs. They are the meanest ov awl crawling, creeping, hopping, or biting things.

They dassent tackle a man bi dalite, but sneak in, after dark, and chaw him while he iz fast asleep.

A musketo will fight you in broad dalite, at short range, and give you a chance tew knock at his sider--the flea is a game bug, and will make a dash at you even in Broadway--but the bed-bug is a garroter, who waits til you strip and then picks out a mellow place to eat you.

If I waz ever in the habbit of swearing, I would not hesitate to damn a bed-bug rite to his face.

Bed-bugs are uncommon smart in a small way--one pair of them will stock a hair mattress in 2 weeks with bugs enuff to last a small family a whole year.

It don't do enny good to pray when bed-bugs are in season; the only way to get rid ov them is tew bile up the whole bed in aquafortis and then heave it away and buy a new one. Bed-bugs when they have grone aul they intend to, are about the size of a bluejay's eye, and have a brown complexion, and when they start to garrote are az a grease spot, but when they git through garroting they are swelled up like a blister.

It takes them three days to get the swelling out of them. If bed-bugs hav enny distiny tu fill, it must be their stummuks, but it seems to me they must hav bin made bi aksident, just as slivers are, tew stick into somebody.

If they waz got up for some wise porpose, they must hav took the wrong road, for there kant be enny wisdom in chawing an man aul night long, and raisin a family besides, tew foller the same trade.

If there iz some wisdom in aul this, I hope the buggs will chaw them folks who kan see it, and leave me be, because I am one ov the hereticks.

Double A Products: A Victim of Vickers' Restructuring

by Becky Doyle

Last Thursday morning, employees of Double A Products Co. in Manchester learned officially that the Manchester plant was slated to close permanently. The plant, which manufactures valves and pumps to be used in hydraulic systems, is a division of Vickers Incorporated, a TRINOVA Company.

Double A is only one of several plants across the country and in Europe that are affected by the restructuring plan Vickers has put into operation.

"They told us the closings would take place over the next 12 to 15 months," said Richard A. Kuntz, Manager of the Accounting Department. "By then everything is supposed to be relocated and running smoothly." The valve manufacturing at Double A will move to a Vickers plant in Searcy, Arkansas, and the pump division will be moved to an unspecified location.

Of the 242 employees, only about 55 will remain when Double A closes, said Kuntz. Those employees are the 25 bargained-for and 27 office employees of the Power Systems division, which will remain in operation indefinitely. Power Systems produces a complete system assembly, and is not involved in the manufacturing of individual parts. In addition, Vickers may offer to relocate some personnel to other plants across the country, he said, and a few more people may be needed to continue the operations at Power Systems, which has no billing or accounting division of its own.

Plant Manager Bill Johnson told the employees that he had only found out about the closing on Monday. It was very difficult, he said, to continue business as usual for the few days prior to the general announcement.

Many of the details have not yet been worked out, but operations will continue for the next 3 to 4 months before tapering off. Double A is also the exclusive North American distributor for Staffa Motors of Great Britain, and will continue that operation for 4 to 6 months.

Communications Manager Paul DuRocher (of Troy), who has been named official spokesman for Vickers on any matters concerning Double A's closing, says the company will make efforts to help employees with resumes and contacting other prospective employers.

"They will meet individually with our Personnel Department in the plant," he said. In closing another location, Vickers had hired an outside firm to help its employees with resume writing and job searches, but they did not plan to do that here, he said.

While the official word may have come as a surprise to some, rumors have been circulating since Vickers bought the company three years ago, according to Accounts Payable Manager Bill Schwab. Schwab has been employed by Double A since 1952, a total of 35 years this July. He expects to remain with the company for most of the year, but has no idea yet of where he will go when the plant closes.

"It (the plant) has been here a long time. A lot of people in Manchester will have to look for other jobs," he said. When asked if he would relocate if Vickers offered him a position, he said, "Sure, I'm willing to work anywhere." But he added that his loyalty to Manchester was probably stronger than his loyalty to Vickers, and he would rather accept a local offer to remain in the area. While the closing will effect plant employees most directly and immediately, it will result in changes in the entire Manchester community. Double A represents a sizable tax base which generated some $45,000 in local revenues last year, as well as supporting local agencies and school and community service projects.

"It will probably be a year or so before the village sees any direct effect," said Village Manager Dan Naimowicz. "I imagine there will be a little less of the lunch traffic than there used to be, though." He added that he didn't think there would be an immediate panic or that homes would be put on the market in a rush to leave town, but admitted that nobody seems to know just how many local residents are employed at the plant.

Double A was responsible for 5 percent of the total tax income in the Village, but Naimowicz remains guardedly optimistic.

"Who knows? We may have a new tenant in those buildings by the end of the year." Both the Duncan Street plant and the Main Street location of Double A would be vacated by early 1988 according to the vague timetable released by Vickers.

Mayor and Village Council President John Hinkley was less willing to speculate.

"We're all very depressed about it, of course," he said, referring to the announcement. "I really can't say any more than that."

The Double A Products plant in Manchester was built in 1940 and has remained a vital part of Manchester for almost 50 years.

Admission Day Celebration

On Monday, January 26, beginning at noon, at the Washtenaw County Courthouse, Main and Huron Streets in Ann Arbor, there will be an Admission Day Celebration in honor of Michigan's admission into the Union as a state 150 years ago. This Sesquicentennial Event will occur simultaneously in all of Michigan's 83 counties and is being sponsored by the local Sesquicentennial Committee. All Washtenaw County residents are invited to attend the ceremony and help celebrate with the cutting of a birthday cake.

Hit or Miss

Approximately a year ago it was summarily announced that, after sixty years of faithful service to the area, the Clinton State Police post would be abandoned and together with the former Blissfield post area would be moved to Adrian. The reason for this action was given as "to increase the operating area". A building on the grounds of the Girl's Training School there was named as the site of the headquarters and $200,000 was allocated for modernization and improvement. It was also proposed that the Blissfield and Clinton posts be given to the local police departments for their use.

The Blissfield and Clinton areas and the area in southwestern Washtenaw county was surveyed

So the inhabitants asked for a meeting to discuss the proposition and some 100 residents gathered Continued on Page 7
